WILLIAM AND MARY COLLEGE,

IN THE STATE OF VIRGINIA.

1855.

WILLIAMSBURG:
J. HERVEY EWING, PRINTER.

THE names of the Visitors, Bursars, Faculty and Students at College after 1738, in the following catalogue, are taken from papers and records in possession of the faculty. The names of those supposed to have been students at an earlier date were obtained from different sources.

The College records containing the names of students before 1827, being exceedingly imperfect and in a mutilated condition, it is certain a great number are omitted. The Faculty will feel under obligations to those who will correct such errors or supply such omissions as may be observed.

THE College of WILLIAM & MARY—the oldest, except Harvard University, in the United States—was chartered in 1692 by King William III and Queen Mary, who gave out of their private means nearly 2000 pounds sterling towards erecting the necessary buildings. This, with 20,000 Acres of land, the office of Surveyor General—in virtue of which one-sixth of the fees received by Public Surveyors in the Colony, and the sole power of appointing them were given*—and one penny a pound on all tobacco exported from Virginia and Maryland, granted in the charter; 2500 pounds raised by subscription in the Colony, and a gift of 200 pounds from the House of Burgesses, constituted the endowment of the College.

The House of Burgesses, in 1693, laid a duty on all skins and furs exported, to be applied to the current expenses of the College, and in 1726 on liquors, partly for the same purpose, and partly for “founding scholarships.” In the year 1759 a grant was made of the proceeds of a tax on Pedlars.†

The sum of 1,000 pounds was appropriated in 1718 by the House of Burgesses for the purpose of maintaining and educating at the College “irgenious young men, natives of this Colony.” ‘Scholarships’ or ‘Foundations’ were also endowed in the first half of the eighteenth century, by the following individuals:

Col. Hill, of Shirley and Robert Carter, of Corotoman, who together gave 200 pounds: Mrs. Bray, widow of Capt. Thomas Bray, of New Kent, 200 pounds: Mrs. Elizabeth Harrison, of Surrey, 300 pounds: the Rev. Dr. James Blair, 500 pounds; and Philip Lightfoot, Esq., of Sandy Point, 500 pounds. Mrs. Philarity Giles, of the Isle of Wight, left in her will, dated 1717, her reversionary interest in from three to four hundred acres of land, on the Black water in the same county, to the “Royall College of William and Mary.”

* Among the Surveyors appointed by the College, were Zachary Taylor, of Orange, Grand-father of the late General Taylor, and George Washington.

† The annual value of these duties before the Revolution was about £2,500.—In 1776 they did not exceed £700.

These are the only donations known to have been made to the College before the Revolution, a gilt cup and Bible presented by Lady Gooch of England, a Portrait of the Hon. Robert Boyle, the gift of his brother the Earl of Burlington, and some additions to the Library* made principally by Dr. Blair, being excepted. After the Revolution the General Assembly gave to William & Mary College the Palace lands and the houses on it—a tract of land near Williamsburg, known as the “vineyard,” and a few acres, not far from Jamestown.

But little is known of the history of the Institution previous to the Revolution. The Records of the proceedings of the Faculty are still extant, extending from 1729 to 1783, and from 1790 to the present time. The early Records are very meagre, relating mostly to pecuniary transactions.

The site was purchased in 1693 and the foundation of the building laid shortly afterwards. The building designed to be an entire square when completed, was unfinished in 1700—two sides having been built. From this time the House of Burgesses, in which the College was allowed a representative, held its sessions in it till 1705, when, together with the Library and philosophical apparatus, it was destroyed by fire.† Measures were immediately taken to rebuild it; but owing to the want of available means, and the scarcity of workmen, the present building was not finished till 1723.

The first President was Dr. James Blair, a native of Scotland, and an Episcopal clergyman, who, at the instance of the Bishop of London, came to Virginia as a missionary in 1685. In 1689 he was appointed Commissary or Representative of the Bishop of the Colony. He revived the project of establishing a College entertained as early as 1620 but defeated by the Indian Massacre of 1622.‡ This gentleman may, with justice, be termed the founder of William & Mary College, his active exertions both in this country and in England contributing most largely to its success. He died in 1743, having filled the office of President for half a century.

* A few books were presented by Governors Spotswood & Dinwiddie.

† The first building stood about 200 feet in rear of the present.

‡ As early as 1619, £1,500 were raised in England by virtue of Letters issued by the King to the Bishops, for founding a College in Virginia, to educate and train Indians.

During this year it was “moved and obtained” by Sir Edwin Sandys, President or Governor of the Company in England, “that 10,000 acres of land be laid off for the University at Henrico,” intended not only for the Indian College, but also to “lay the Foundation of a Seminary of Learning for the English,” and that 100 men be sent from England as tenants for the land. Out of the rents, which it was sup-

Previous to the Revolution; the College consisted of a Divinity school; a school of Philosophy in which Natural Philosophy and Mathematics were taught; a Grammar school for instruction in the Ancient Languages; and an Indian school supported by the proceeds of a fund left by the Hon. Robert Boyle,* for the "diffusion of Christianity among the infidel," in which were, yearly, maintained and educated, from the early part of the 18th century until 1776, from 8 to 10 Indians. The Trustees of this fund purchased with it a landed estate in England known as Brafferton Manor, the rents of which were, with the exception of 90 pounds paid annually to the "Society for propagating the Gospel in New England & parts adjacent" expended in support of the school.†

After the war, the organization of the College was changed.—The Divinity school was superseded by the Law school; the Indian school was abandoned, the funds by which it was sustained having been diverted by the English courts of law into a different channel; and the Grammar school at a later period gave place to the Professorship of Ancient Languages in the College.

The number of students in 1703 was about 30. From that time to the Revolution, the average number was not much below 60—of this number from 10 to 15 were received on the Scholarships or Foundations.

There were more than 70 students at the beginning of the war of the Revolution.‡ Near the close of the war, three of the Professors and more than 30 students joined the army. Among the latter was James Monroe, afterwards President of the United States.

In 1781, the exercises of the College were suspended, and the buildings were alternately occupied by the British and American troops, the summer before the memorable siege of Yorktown. While posed would be worth 500 pounds a year, the buildings were to be erected, and the masters supported. Mr. George Thorpe, a gentleman of His Majesty's Privy Chamber, came over to be Superintendent of the College.

In 1621, a subscription of 125 pounds was obtained, and 1,000 acres of land with 5 servants and an overseer, were allotted by the Company to endow, at Charles City, a Collegiate school, termed the "East India School," where scholars were to be prepared for admittance into the College at Henrico.

On the 22d March, 1622, Mr. Thorpe and 340 of the colonists, including a number of the College tenants, were killed by the Indians. This caused the lands to be abandoned, and the establishment of a College to be delayed until William & Mary College was chartered.—Stith's History of Virginia.

* Mr. Boyle died in 1691.

† These rents were worth about 370 pounds sterling a year.

‡ The Parent Society of the "Phi Beta Kappa" was organized at William & Mary College, as early as 1776.

occupied by the French troops, the College was injured and the President's house destroyed by fire. The latter was subsequently re-built at the expense of the French Government. How long the College was closed, does not appear from the Records; probably not more than one year. In 1790 there was a respectable number of students.

It is much to be regretted that a full list of Alumni cannot be made out. Imperfect as it is, it contains such names as Theodorick Bland, Peyton Randolph, Carter Braxton, George Wythe, Thomas Jefferson, John Page, Edmund Randolph, James Monroe, John Marshall, James Barbour, Philip P. Barbour, William B. Giles, Benjamin Watkins Leigh, Chapman Johnson, John Randolph of Roanoke, Spencer Roane, Littleton W. Tazewell, William C. Rives, John J. Crittenden, William S. Archer, John Nelson, John Tyler and Winfield Scott—among the most distinguished in American history.
