

H. J. to Citizen Tucker.

Come & take your naps with us to-night. I have not the pleasure of being acquainted with Mr Carrington but if he will accompany you, I shall therefore be the more obliged to him. it will relieve you from the heats & drunken noise of Charlottesville and you will return in better tone to the functions of justice in the morning and more philanthropically ^{disposed} to gloss over the follies which are to be brought before you. — to put in my claim in time I set up a prescriptive right to dine the judges on the Sunday of their session.
