Washington July 15. 08.

I received safely, through the good offices of Mr Warden, the copy of your Synopsis, which you were so kind as to send me. For this elegant Manual of all our Botanical knowledge accept my thanks. I have lived and read long enough to set a just value on that precious style of composition which wastes none of our time with useless matter. The compactness too of the typography maintains with superior beauty the character of the work, and does honor even to the nineteenth century. I pray you to accept my salutations with the assurances of my high esteem & respect.

I received safely through the post office from London the copy of your specimen which you were so kind as to send me. For this elegant Manual of all our historical knaves except my thanks. I have been and was long enough to get a just value on that peculiar style of composition which makes use of our time with useful matter. The composition too of the typography maintains with superior beauty the character of the work, and does honor even to the nineteenth century. I propose to accept my salutation with the assurances of my best esteem & respect.
