Sir

Feeling that you bore the kindness to be concerned in my favour, I take the liberty to answer to your honoured and obliging letter which Mr Spreafin has communicated me. You desire of him some informations on the commercial relations of Nile with the Unite-States of America, and on the quantity of ships, belonging to that country, that touch at our port; to this, I'll tell you, Sir, that its commercial business, till now, have been of little consequence and the arrivals not frequent; but the liberty of Seat will certainly render its reports more important; besides we have every winter a great deal of foreigners, and among them, there are always some American families (Unite-States) Be expect for many of them this year; they are often troubled for their pass-ports, and obliged to make steps, that a consul will do them avoid. In short, we have a consul of every nation; excepting Sweden and Denmark, (who will be soon named.) This does prove that Nice is to be considered as well for its port as for its position on the frontier.

Excuse, Sir, the trouble, I cause you, and be certain, that I shall ever retain, the remembrance of your complaisance with the most lively and real sentiments of gratitude, therefore I dare say you

Sir.

Nice the 14th August 1817.

Your most obedient and most humble servant.

Victor Adolphus Cassinoff.
