TEAM NOTES

2004 A10 Champions
NCAA Semifinalist

Give Me Five: With five wins this season, the Tribe can reach the 500-win mark in total victories for the program. William and Mary enters the year with an all-time record of 495-484-11 (in 110 previous seasons of football).

Road Warriors: The Tribe will open the season at Division I-A Marshall, which will be the fourth consecutive year the team has opened vs. a I-A. Also, in a scheduling quirk, the College's conference opener at Rhode Island is the 10th consecutive year W&M has opened its conference play on the road.

And while one is counting, 2005 will mark the 11th-straight season (since 1993) that the Tribe has more road games (six) than home games (five) on its schedule.

Play It Again, Sam: William and Mary will play host to 2004 playoff opponents James Madison and Delaware on consecutive weekends (Nov. 5 and 12th) this season. The Dukes have never played back-to-back games in Williamsburg since the two starting meeting as conference opponents in 1993. In fact, one has to go back to the 1978-1979 seasons to find the last time JMU made consecutive appearances in Zable. The Blue Hens last played consecutive games in Zable over the 1986-87 seasons, when it faced the same scenario, as it made a playoff appearance in Williamsburg, then returned the next season for a regular season contest.

After running the table at Zable during the 2004 regular season, and winning its first two playoff games at the friendly confines of Cary Field, the Dukes, with their memorable semi-final win, remain the last team to defeat the College in Zable. JMU's 24-17 win on 10/18/2003 was the last home loss since the Tribe has suffered. W&M has pieced together a seven-game regular season home win streak since the set back.

Encore Performance: Rising sophomore Joe Nicholas used his long, athletic frame to turn in one of the most productive and impacting freshman seasons for a Tribe receiver in school history. His 66 receptions shattered the former school freshman mark by 22 catches and stands as seventh most amongst all players in school history.

WR Joe Nicholas returns with all-conference potential after setting Tribe frosh records for receptions (66) in 2004.

Nicholas made the most of the post season, as made a total of 24 receptions for 266 yards and three TDs over the three games. First, he established the College's rookie record for catches in a season by bringing in five receptions in the Tribe's first round playoff win over Hampton (for 53 yards). Nicholas significantly added to that total with an eye-popping 11 catches (94 yards, 2 TD) the following Saturday against Delaware in the NCAA quarterfinals, then turned in another gem of a game vs. James Madison in the national semi-finals by grabbing eight more receptions for a personal best 119 yards and another score. The 11 catches vs. Delaware is tied with six other players for sixth-most in a single game in W&M history, just two away from the school record of 13, most recently set by Rich Musinski last season at Rhode Island (10/25).

Nicholas notched two of the Tribe's biggest catches of the season in the postseason contest against the Blue Hens, first making a spectacular over-the-shoulder catch with just 1:06 remaining in regulation to tie the game and send the contest to overtime. After UD scored a TD to start the first extra period, Nicholas came through with another game-tying TD catch, to send the game to the decisive second overtime frame.

The 6-3, 205-pound native of Sugarloaf, PA used his big frame and sticky hands to steadily emerge as one of the conference's most reliable possession receivers and should be even more dangerous in 2005.

Prior to this season, three players were tied for the school's freshman record of 44 receptions. Not coincidentally, all three went on to place in the top four in both the College's all-time receptions and receiving yardage listings. The following is a listing of the top four seasons by freshman receivers in school history, followed by how they ended on the career listing in receptions and yardage.

Player (Year)	Rec.	Yds	TDs	CR
Joe Nicholas ('04)	66	799	6	??
Rich Musinski ('00)	44	747	3	1/1
Dave Conklin ('96)	44	843	9	2/2
Chris Rosier ('97)	44	727	5	4/3

CR = Career Rank (Receptions/Yards)

What a Kick: Senior returning all-American placekicker Greg Kuehn enters the 2005 season as the reigning Atlantic 10 Special Team's Player of the Year and can lay a legitimate claim to being one of the most experienced and game-tested kickers in the nation. Kuehn has started 46-straight games for the Tribe, and connected on 46 of his 67 career attempts (.687) and 123 of his 127 extra point attempts. Kuehn tied Robert Green's school record for points in a season, with 114 in 2004, and seems a virtual lock to break current NFL kicker Steve Christie's school career scoring mark (279), as he enters 2005 with 261 career points.

Back for More: This fall head coach Jimmie Laycock will welcome back five players who earned all-conference honors in 2004, which matches New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Hofstra for the most returning all-league performers from 2004. Leading the way for the Tribe is first team place kicker Greg Kuehn, who is one of eight offensive first teamers around the league back in 2005. Joining Kuehn for the Tribe are junior offensive guard Cody Morris (Second Team), senior defensive end Adam O'Connor (Second Team), senior defensive back Stephen Cason (Second Team) and senior linebacker Chris Ndubueze (Third Team). The College had nine total all-league citations in 2004, which trailed only James Madison and New Hampshire, both with 10.

TB Elijah Brooks is the team's leading returning rusher (661 yards) and looks to build upon his outstanding post-season performance of 2004

Award winning quarterback Lang Campbell and the Tribe's proficient passing attack.

In the opening round victory over Hampton, Brooks churned out a career and W&M season-high 120 yards on the ground over 17 carries. In fact, it was just one of two 100-yard rushing games for the Tribe all season. In the quarterfinal win over Delaware, Brooks piled up 82 yards on nine carries, including a career-long 56-yard run he ripped off in the first quarter to set up W&M's first score. And in the semifinals against JMU, Brooks grounded out 35 yards on just seven carries.

In total, Brooks amassed 237 rushing yards in the Tribe's three playoff games, nearly 36% of his entire rushing production on the year.

What a Difference a Year Makes: Playing a critical role in the Tribe's success and run to the NCAA semifinals last year was the vast improvement of the defensive unit under former defensive coordinator Jim Pletcher. As mentioned W&M had multiple all-conference performers on the defensive side of the ball, but you don't need to look any further than the final statistics to see the progress the unit made. Making the squad's exploits even more impressive is the fact W&M played 14 games in 2004, four more contests than the 2003 edition.

Last season, the Tribe surrendered 26.6 points per game, a full three-point improvement from 2003 (29.9). But perhaps the biggest upgrade came in stopping the run, as W&M yielded an average of 162.1 rushing yards per game last season, down from 211.4 in 2003. Coincidentally, the Tribe's total offense allowed per game dipped to an average of 367.3 yards per game, as compared to 429.4 yards of total offense per game in 2003. The College allowed 23 rushing touchdowns in 2004, one less than 2003, but again figuring in four more games make it's a significant improvement. W&M's forced turnovers increased last year as well, as the Tribe caused 19 turnovers in 14 games, up from 16 in 2003.

In fact, since 1993 when W&M joined the Yankee Conference, which later became the Atlantic 10, no school has had more all-conference selections than the Tribe's 117. For comparison's sake, only Delaware is in the same ballpark with 106 all-league award winners in that same span, while James Madison has had 89 and Massachusetts has had 79.

Finishing Strong: Rising junior tailback Elijah Brooks had an outstanding season in 2004 as the team's second-leading rusher, but even more impressive was the way the transfer from I-A Kent State came on during the playoffs when defenses were keying on Payton

Although Pletcher left the program during the offseason for a scholastic head coaching job in Florida, the defensive unit will be in the good hands during spring drills, as linebackers coach Matt McLeod is handling the defensive coordinator duties until a full-time replacement is named. (See Coaching Changes Note).

Cashing In: On the topic of caused turnovers, certainly one thing the Tribe would like to carry over from 2004 was its ability to take advantage of forced miscues. Of the 19 turnovers it forced last season, W&M converted 14 of the take aways into points, but more importantly 12 of the "cash-ins" went for touchdowns. In fact, the Tribe scored after a caused turnover in five consecutive games last season at one point, before the streak ended in the semifinal loss to James Madison.

Familiar Faces, Same Places: With nine defensive starters returning in the fall, it's a bit of an understatement to say there will be a few familiar names patrolling the defensive side of the field. In fact, looking inside the numbers once again, of the Tribe's 1,089 tackles in 2004, which includes offensive and special teams' tackles, only 102 tackles came from players who are not back in 2005, or roughly 9% of the squad's total stops in 2004. The most significant losses came on the defensive line, as Justin Kelly, Mike McCarthy and 2004 co-captain Wade Harrell were all lost to graduation. Of the 102 tackles by graduated seniors in 2004, McCarthy (38), Kelly (34) and Harrell (11) accounted for 83 of them.

Taking it a step further, W&M welcomes back 88% of its TFL production in 2005, as graduated players contributed 10 of the team's 83 TFL in 2004. Along the same lines, just 3.5 of the team's 30 total sacks were lost in the offseason, or just 11.7%. Harrell is the only non-returning player who recorded an interception in 2004, as the Smithfield, VA native extended his school record for INTs by a defensive lineman to four, with two of the Tribe's 12 picks last season.

Familiar Faces, New Places: As previously mentioned, former defensive coordinator Jim Pletcher resigned his post in the offseason to take a head coaching job at Pine Crest High School in Florida. During spring workouts, linebackers coach Matt McLeod has assumed the defensive coordinator's role until a permanent replacement is named. Also, Scott Boone, an offensive assistant in 2004, has been overseeing the secondary during spring drills, a position which was also under Pletcher's watch last season. Together, the pair brings more than 29 years of coaching experience to the Tribe's defense.

Double Down: The return of rising senior tight end Adam Bratton and rising junior tight end Matt Trinkle, coupled with four returning starters on the interior offensive line, provides a significant amount of experience and talent to Tribe's offensive front in 2005. Even more promising is the collective receiving threat the pair serves in the passing game, as the duo combined for 32 catches for 386 yards and six touchdowns in 2004. Bratton hauled in 16 grabs for 215 yards and four touchdowns, while Trinkle added 16 receptions for 171 yards and a pair of scores. In fact, the pair gave W&M its best one-two punch at tight end since 1991, when Michael Locke and Joe Person combined for 53 receptions that went for 726 yards and eight touchdowns.

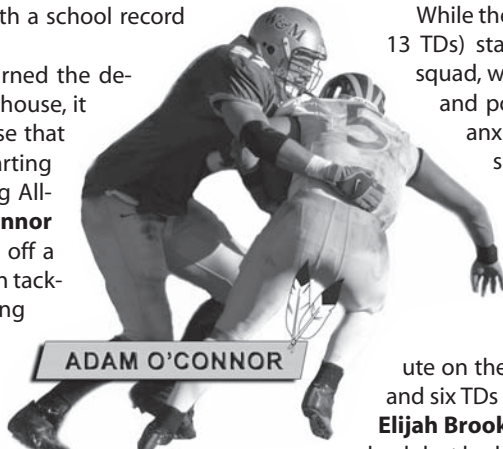

SPRING PREVIEW

2004 A10 Champions
NCAA Semifinalist

Tribe Head Coach Jimmye Layock returns for his 26th season leading a promising lineup that will feature 17 returning starters from last season's squad that fashioned an 11-3 record, captured a piece of the Atlantic 10 Football Crown and finished with a school record No. 3 final national ranking.

While Layock and his staff have earned the deserved reputation as an offensive powerhouse, it may well be the Green and Gold's defense that takes the lead in 2005, as nine of the starting 11 return from last year. Senior returning All-American defensive end Adam O'Connor headlines the returnees, as he is coming off a season that saw him record career highs in tackles (53), TFLs (15.5) and sacks (8). Standing at 6-7, 285, O'Connor has the size, strength and experience to find a place amongst the premier defensive players in the nation for his senior season.

ADAM O'CONNOR

Fellow seniors, cornerback Stephen Cason and linebacker Chris Ndubueze, join O'Connor as returning all-conference performers and will also challenge for national honors. Cason returned from a devastating neck injury that cost him the 2003 season to reclaim his place amongst the elite playmaking corners in the A10 last season (74 TT, 7.5 TFLs, 2.5 sacks, 7 PBUs, INT, FF). Ndubueze, who has seen significant playing time since his true freshman season, has steadily improved each year on campus and fashioned his most complete effort last year (117 TT) and has the potential to raise his game to yet another level.

Junior linebacker Ryan Nickell compliments Ndubueze's athleticism on the opposite side of the defense. Nickell is coming off a breakout season which saw him record 87 TT, 10.5 TFLs and two interceptions and brings all-conference potential to the unit in 2005.

Also figuring to play a key role is the pair of senior, game-tested safeties in James Miller (114 TT) and Jon Shaw (87 TT). Each has seen three years of extensive playing time and brings the athleticism and experience to be all-conference caliber performers. The challenge for the defense will be finding depth along the defensive line (as the team graduated two senior tackles) and defensive backfield.

Offensively, the loss of 2004 Payton Award winning and consensus All-American QB Lang Campbell is the most glaring issue. While nobody will expect the three most likely replacements, sophomore Mike Potts, redshirt freshman Jake Phillips or junior Christian Taylor, to step right in and completely fill the void left by Campbell (3,988 pass yds., 317 rush yds, 38 total TDs), the Tribe's cupboard is far from bare, as far as talent at QB. Potts enters the spring at the top of the depth chart and has the NFL proto-type size (6-4, 215) and arm strength to make an immediate impact in the College's high-octane attack. He has spent the last two seasons as Campbell's understudy and brings an impressive scholastic playing resume that includes being named as the state of Delaware's Player of the Year his senior season (2002).

Phillips (6-3, 200) has all the ability and intangibles to be an impact player as well. His athleticism compares favorably to Campbell's, and his high school resume speaks for itself as he graduated from Bath County (Va.) after leading the team to a state title, a pair of runner-up finishes and a state semi-final appearance (48-4 overall record).

JOSH LUSTIG

Taylor has the most experience within the offense of any returner at the position and has proven to be a reliable triggerman in the team's attack.

While the graduation of WR Dominique Thompson (79 rec., 1585 yards, 13 TDs) stands as another glaring omission from the explosive 2004 squad, which set the school record for total yards in a season (6,044) and points (486), there seems to be a stable of talented returnees anxious to fill his shoes, led by sophomore Joe Nicholas, who shattered the school's freshman record for receptions (66) and receiving yards (799) and senior Josh Lustig, who entered 2004 as one starting wideout until his season was ended abruptly with an ankle injury (at UNH). Also returning to the fold are a pair of very talented and physical tight ends in junior Matt Trinkle (6-5, 260) and senior Adam Bratton (6-4, 250). While each has the size and toughness to contribute on the ground, the pair also combined for 32 catches for 386 yards and six TDs in 2004 and figure to play an even larger role this year. Junior Elijah Brooks (159 carries for 661 yards and five TDs) will be the featured back, but look for the return of junior Delmus Coley (who missed 2004 with a knee injury) to have a large impact. Brooks is a steady and solid performer who has reliable hands out of the backfield, while Coley proved to be one of the more dangerous big-play threats as a redshirt freshman when he rushed for 488 yards on just 101 carries.

Making the future even brighter for the Tribe offense is the fact that the team returns four linemen with extensive starting experience, led by center Pat Mulloy (6-4, 300) and junior all-conference guard Cody Morris (6-4, 285). Mulloy has been starting since his redshirt freshman season (2002) and will be a strong candidate for postseason accolades, while Morris earned his first all-conference recognition after just one season as a full-time starter. Look for the Tribe's front to pave the way for a punishing ground attack while the young quarterbacks get acclimated in the Tribe's intricate system.

Special teams has been one consistent strength for the Tribe program and 2005 should be no different, as all-American placekicker Greg Kuehn returns for his senior season. The reigning Atlantic 10 Special Team's Player of the Year can lay a legitimate claim to being one of the most experienced and game-tested kickers in the nation, as he has started 46-straight games for the Tribe and connected on 46 of his 67 career attempts (.687) and 123 of his 127 extra point attempts.

The College will open the season against a I-A team for the fourth-straight year, as it travels to Marshall for a Thursday night contest on Sept. 1. For the 10th consecutive season, W&M will open its conference schedule on the road, as it travels to Atlantic 10-foe Rhode Island on Sept. 17. The first of five home games is scheduled for Sept. 24, as in-state rival Liberty makes its first trip to Williamsburg for Family Weekend. Highlighting the five-game home schedule are contests against playoff participants New Hampshire (Oct. 8), James Madison (Nov. 5) and Delaware (Nov. 12), while Towson visits Zable Stadium for Homecoming on Oct. 22. Conference roads games at Northeastern (Oct. 15), Villanova (Oct. 29) and Richmond (Nov. 19) round out the slate.

Active Coaches in Bold

Silver Linings: Jimmye Laycock completed his 25th season as the Tribe's head coach in 2004. The school's all-time winningest coach, Laycock has compiled a 170-113-2 career record at W&M. He ranks fourth on the A-10 career victories lists (65). W&M made its ninth postseason appearance under Laycock, and the Tribe has now posted winning ledgers in 18 of the past 22 seasons.

Good Company: Tribe head coach Jimmye Laycock, in his 26th season on the W&M sidelines, ranks third among all current Division I-A and Division I-AA head coaches in terms of most years at their current school. The two coaches ahead of Laycock are Penn State's Joe Paterno (38 years) and Florida State's Bobby Bowden (27 years).

Second to None: The NCAA released its official graduation-rates reports for all student-athletes receiving athletics aid in the fall. The report shows that the College of William and Mary has graduated an impeccable 100% of its football players that entered the program as freshman during 1997-98 school year. By ending the season as the nation's third-ranked program, the Tribe carries not only the highest graduation rate in the conference (beating Richmond's 94% by a full six points), but was far and away the top figure of any team ranked in the final national top 25. Only fourth-ranked Furman (81%) was within 20 percentage points of the College. In fact, William and Mary is one of only four teams in the entire I-AA top 25 to have a graduation rate of 70%, or better.

By comparison, the overall graduation rate amongst all schools providing athletics aid for I-AA football is 54%.

Sensational Silver Season: After advancing to the NCAA Semifinals for the first time in school history, Laycock engineered one of the greatest, if not THE, finest campaign in the school's 111 years of football history. Coincidentally, all of this success came as he celebrated his milestone 25th season at the helm of the program.

The Tribe secured its 15th winning season in the last 17 years (only non-winning seasons have been in 1991 - 5-6; and 2000 - 5-6). With a 7-1 record in regular season conference play, the Tribe also posted its 12th-straight .500, or better, record in conference play (every season the College has been a member of the league). Every other conference team has suffered through at least one losing season in league play during this span.

The following are some of the other significant accomplishments that the program has achieved last season:

William and Mary has ...

- Won the Atlantic 10 Co-Championship, earned the conference's automatic bid and was named as the No. 3 seed in the NCAA Playoffs, the highest seed school history.

- Established the school's single season win record with 11.

- Finished with a No. 3 national ranking, the highest in school history.

- Set school records for points, yards and TDs.
- Defeated six ranked opponents (No. 10 New Hampshire, 9-7; No. 16 Northeastern, 38-35; No. 19 Villanova, 37-29; No. 4 James Madison, 27-24; No. 11 Hampton, 42-35; and No. 10 Delaware, 44-38(2 OT) on the season. One has to go back to the 1996 season to find the last time the Tribe defeated as many top 20 teams.

- Recorded a pair of road wins over two teams that advanced to the final eight of the NCAA's Championship field of 16 (New Hampshire and James Madison).

- Improved Laycock's career record in conference play to 65-33 and his conference winning percentage to .663. Currently, his winning percentage is good for 15th on the league's all-time listing. His .663 winning percentage in conference play trails only Tubby Raymond (.701, 89-36) and Mark Whipple (.686, 35-16) amongst all-time league coaches who have 50, or more, league games under their belts.

- Recorded its first undefeated home regular season since 1996. This year's squad joins the 1990 and 1996 teams as the only squads in school history to win six, or more, home games in a single year (as each won a first round home playoff game after sweeping the regular season home slate). The Tribe now has won its last nine-straight regular season home games, dating back to last season.

- Finished the season with a 7-1 conference record, which ties it for the most single-season conference wins in school history.

- Finished the regular season with a top 10 ranking for the first time since the 1996 season.

- Seen this year's senior class become the first in school history to collect two conference championship rings.

In his career, coach Laycock has:

- Produced a school-record 170 wins
- Nine post-season appearances
- Coached 123 All-Conference performers
- Mentored 26 All-Americans
- Won 79% of his home games

Q&A WITH LAYCOCK

Prior to the start of spring practice, head coach Jimmye Laycock sat down and answered questions about the upcoming spring season and what to look for from the 2005 Tribe.

Q: What sort of momentum, if any, can this year's team take from the 2004 season?

JL: One of the main things I think the team has brought forward confidence in their ability to play with anyone. When they do things right, they have seen that they can compete at the highest level. They understand what it takes to compete at the highest level and they realize the work they need to do to improve from areas last year. I think there is a lot of enthusiasm to work hard and get better.

Q: With more than 17 players returning with significant starting experience, is it a good assumption that you and your staff can be that much further ahead in terms of schemes and technique during the spring camp?

JL: Yes, we're ahead. We're where we need to be in terms of schemes and things like that with the guys we have returning. But, we have a whole group of young players that didn't play at all last year that we need to prepare. We want to move the experienced guys along, but we need to be very conscience to evaluate and not lose track of the younger guys as we try to get them prepared for playing time or to push the returning starters.

Q: From a fans perspective, the most obvious question that is going to be addressed this spring is developing a replacement for Lang Campbell at quarterback. Can you comment on what should be an interesting battle between three talented candidates?

JL: All three of them, (rising sophomore) Michael Potts, (rising redshirt freshman) Jacob Phillips, and (rising junior) Christian Taylor, will get reps as we go through spring, and we'll work with them all and we'll see how things emerge after spring practice. It's not necessary that we have a definite starter at the end of spring. I would like to see that, but again, we may not be able to put them in enough situations in only fifteen days of practice. It may go into the preseason and hopefully, we'll have three quarterbacks that can play.

Q: At tailback, the team graduated one of the most consistent players the program has seen in Jon Smith. Along with returning rising junior Elijah Brooks, who will be counted on to fill his shoes?

JL: After Elijah, who played and split time with Jon last year, there are two players who are returning from injury, (rising junior) Trevor McLaurin and (rising junior) Delmus Coley, and we anticipate that both will be ready for the fall and they may even take part in spring practice. Along with (rising sophomore) Tony Viola, we'll look at these guys and see how they come along. Also (rising redshirt freshman) DeBrian Holmes has shown some promise, did a good job on scout team last year, and he'll get plenty of opportunities this spring.

Q: When you look at the wideout position, the team lost two valuable contributors in Dominique Thompson and Jon Pitts, but returns freshman record holder Joe Nicholas. Who do you see stepping up and giving depth at that position?

JL: Josh Lustig is back for his senior year after coming into last fall as the starter at one wideout position, until he had his season cut short by a leg injury. (Rising redshirt freshmen) Joe Marianacci and Elliot Mack will be two newcomers that will push as we go through spring and we also have experienced guys like (rising juniors) John Taylor and Corey Davis who have already proven they can contribute.

Q: Few positions benefit from experience as much as the offensive front, and the Tribe brings back four of the five starters from the 2004 squad. What are your expectations for that unit this season and whom is emerging as the candidate to replace three-year starting left tackle Matt Witham?

JL: Right now, the left tackle position is pretty open. We're going with a number of combinations as we go through spring. I expect to have great leadership from this group, like we had great leadership with our quarterback, Lang Campbell, last year. This season, I think the leadership should come from the offensive lineman who have played, and played well, together. We're looking for them to improve their run blocking. We're pretty solid in our pass protection and our pick ups and things like that, but we need to create more movement in the running game.

Q: The team returns two talented tight ends in Matt Trinkle and Adam Bratton, who combined for 32 catches for 386 yards and six TDs in 2004, can fans expect to see the pair play an even larger role in 2005?

JL: It is possible that they will be more involved. We don't want to push them too hard to increase what they've been doing up to this point, but they've both proven to be good players. We'll look for opportunities to get both of them on the field as much as possible.

Matt Trinkle (above) and Adam Bratton team to give the Tribe one of the league's premier tight end combinations in the Atlantic 10 Football Conference.

Q: Defensively, despite the loss of defensive coordinator Jim Pletcher, the team returns all but two starters from 2004. Will the focus of this camp be the continuation and development of the base defense that was implemented by Pletcher?

JL: Yes. But, we also have to improve on a lot of basics on defense. I thought we were okay last year, but I think we've got a long way to go so far as with fundamentals: getting off blocks, tackling, and also getting turnovers. I think at the end of the year we could have done a much better job at creating turnovers and being more proficient in third down situations. So there are a lot of areas for improvement. We've got a good nucleus there, and I feel good about the improvement they're going to make.

Q: The defensive line returns two outstanding ends, in all-American candidate Adam O'Connor and an all-conference caliber player in Josh Wright, but will need to replace both starting tackles. Who would be the most likely players looking to step into those positions?

JL: Right now, the defensive tackle positions are pretty wide open. (Rising junior) Brian Williamson will compete for playing time. (Rising senior) Larry Pendleton underwent knee surgery and won't be ready until the fall. (Rising junior) Brian Neely moved over from offensive tackle, and he could be one to compete in there along with some younger guys.

Q: At linebacker, both Thad Wheeler and Travis McLaurin will miss the spring with injury, who will be counted on to step up in their place at the middle linebacker position?

JL: That's also a pretty wide open position right now, but (rising sophomore) T.J. O'Neill is probably the leading candidate to take significant snaps. (Rising sophomore) William Turner has also seen some game action in the middle.

Q: Speaking of linebacker, does the athleticism and experience of returning starters Chris Ndebueze and Ryan Nickell give the team the ability to be more multiple and attacking as a unit?

JL: They need to continue to get better, to create more plays, and be more consistent about the way they play. I think if we do that we'll be able to get a little more multiple, but we need to take care of our base defenses first.

Q: No position on the field will boast more playing experience than the safeties, with a pair of three-year contributors in seniors Jon Shaw and James Miller holding down the middle. What, if any, advantage does their experience give to the unit?

JL: I think John and James are real solid players. Both can improve and both can be outstanding leaders for us defensively. Both of them need to step up and be play makers, be consistent about the way they play, be consistent about the way they tackle, be consistent about the way they create turnovers and be consistent about the way they demonstrate leadership.

Q: The two starting corners, rising senior Stephen Cason and rising junior Richard Riley, return to the defense. What sort of depth is there behind these players?

JL: I think we have some players that have the potential to be solid corners. Stephen Cason was a little bit rusty last year, but showed improvement as the season progressed. We've got Richard Riley and rising junior Alan Wheeling, who split the playing time opposite of Cason. Then we've got young guys like David Page, Derek Cox, and Cedric Slye who have worked hard to earn some playing time and I think there's going to be some good competition.

Q: Special teams have traditionally been a strength in the program, and with all-American placekicker Greg Kuehn returning, it should be again this season. What is your outlook on the units?

JL: We've got Greg (Kuehn) who is an established placekicker who's been in the game and gotten the job done. I think he will continue to improve and set a good example. On the other side we've got to break in and find a new punter. We've got a few guys (rising juniors Blair Pritchard and Corey Davis) competing for that position, and I'm hoping that we can come out with something by the end of spring.

Linebacker Ryan Nickell returns as one of many Tribe defenders who have the talent to compete for all-conference recognition in 2005.

2004 IN REVIEW

2004 In Review: A Magical Season

The 2004 football season was one for the ages at William and Mary, as the program reached unparalleled heights by advancing to the national semifinals for the first time in school history. After winning a share of the Atlantic 10 Conference Championship with a 9-2 regular season record, 7-1 in league play, the Tribe received a national seeding heading into the I-AA playoffs, a designation that would lead to perhaps one of the most significant moments in William and Mary Athletics' history.

That moment was a nationally-televised Friday night NCAA semifinal contest against state and conference-rival James Madison at Zable Stadium. It was the first night game played within the confines of the 70-year old campus landmark and the school-record eighth home game of the season. The epic matchup produced a sellout, as a more-than-capacity crowd, which included Governor Mark Warner and Senator George Allen, alongside gold-clad W&M students, braved a rain-soaked evening to witness a truly historic night in Virginia college football history.

After spotting the eighth-ranked Dukes a 21-0 first-quarter lead, the Tribe rallied behind national player of the year, Walter Payton Award-winning quarterback Lang Campbell. The All-American senior quarterback rushed for a score and threw a nine-yard TD pass to redshirt freshman Joe Nicholas, and All-American Greg Kuehn kicked a pair of field goals, including a 42-yarder as time expired in the first half, to cut the deficit to 21-20 at the break.

W&M kept the momentum going to start the third, as Campbell hit senior All-American wide receiver Dominique Thompson on a seven-yard strike to give the Tribe its first lead, 26-21. The advantage was short-lived however, as JMU engineered a two-play scoring drive on its next series and took advantage of two costly Tribe turnovers to reel off 27-straight points en route to the victory and eventually the national championship.

The College reached the semifinals with a memorable double-overtime victory over reigning I-AA national champion Delaware in Williamsburg the previous week, in what was the first-ever quarterfinal playoff game hosted by W&M. Trailing 31-10 heading into the fourth quarter, junior cornerback Stephen Cason ignited an unforgettable Tribe comeback, as he intercepted a pass on the first play of the quarter and raced 62 yards for a touchdown. Senior Jon Smith rushed for a score and Campbell completed a 15-yard scoring toss to Nicholas with 1:51 remaining to force overtime, tied at 31-31.

In the second extra session, Smith scored on a seven-yard run and the Tribe defense held on a fourth-and-goal play from the nine, as the 2004 squad became the first in school history to win 11 games in a season. The victory was also W&M's seventh at Zable Stadium, which matched the school record for home wins in a season.

Tribe football's post season run started with the Green and Gold hosting state rival Hampton in the quarterfinals of the NCAA I-AA playoffs. Those on hand for that afternoon won't soon forget the Tribe's wild 42-35 victory over the Pirates. Sophomore tailback Elijah Brooks ran for a career-high 120 yards and Campbell threw for 294 yards and three touchdowns to lead William and Mary. The Tribe shook off a sluggish start and erased a 13-7 halftime deficit with 35 second-half points and a season-high 592 yards of total offense, including a season-high 298 on the ground, to overcome a determined effort by the Pirates. The second-half fireworks were ignited by Thompson's electrifying 92-yard kick return in the third quarter.

Prior to the unforgettable playoff run, the Tribe had won a share of the Atlantic 10 crown (and its automatic NCAA bid) with its 15th winning season in the last 17 years, and with a 7-1 record in conference contests, the Tribe also posted its 12th-straight .500 or better record in A10 play (every season the College has been a member of the league). Every other conference team has suffered through at least one losing season in league play during this span. The finish was the College's best regular season record since 1996.

W&M downed five ranked opponents (No. 4 James Madison, 27-24; No. 10 New Hampshire, 9-7; No. 11 Hampton, 42-35; No. 16 Northeastern, 38-35; and No. 19 Villanova, 37-29) for the first time since 1996 with the wins over UNH and JMU coming on the road. Additionally, the Tribe went undefeated at Zable for the first time since 1996, with a stellar 5-0 regular season mark.

Quarterback Lang Campbell started his post-season parade of accolades by being honored as the A10 Offensive Player of the Year, while junior placekicker Greg Kuehn was tabbed the league's Special Teams Player of the Year. Campbell was further lauded as he went on to be named a consensus first-team all-American and the winner of the prestigious Walter Payton Award. He earned these lofty praises by fashioning a regular season that included leading the A10 in passing efficiency (and third nationally) with a rating of 164.85. He also topped the A10 in passing yards per game (284.9) and total offense (307.5) while compiling a stellar 21-1 touchdown to interception ratio.

Seven other Tribe players joined Campbell and Kuehn on the all-conference teams with senior wide receiver Dominique Thompson, sophomore offensive lineman Cody Morris, junior defensive lineman Adam O'Connor and junior defensive back Stephen Cason garnering second team honors and senior running back Jon Smith, senior punter Mike Mesi and junior linebacker Chris Ndubueze netting third team honors.

In addition to the athletic success of Laycock's squad, 2004 saw the team recognized for breaking even its own lofty academic standards. The latest NCAA official graduation-rates report showed W&M graduated an impeccable 100% of its football players that entered the program as freshman in during 1997-98 school year. The Tribe carried the highest graduation rate in the conference, leading Richmond (94%) by a full six points. Of the teams ranked in the national top 25, only Furman (81%) was within 20 percentage points of the College. In fact, W&M is one of only four teams in the entire I-AA top 25 to have a graduation rate of 70%, or better. By comparison, the overall graduation rate amongst all schools sponsoring athletics aid for I-AA football is 54%.

W&M 9, #10 UNH 7

DURHAM, NH (9/18/04) - All-conference kicker Greg Kuehn connected on field goals of 27, 35 and 21 yards and the Tribe defense held the Wildcats' high-powered offense in check, as W&M won its conference-opener, 9-7, over 10th-ranked New Hampshire at rained-soaked Cowell Stadium.

Playing in heavy rains from the remnants of Hurricane Ivan, W&M held UNH to 226 offensive yards, nearly 150 below its average, after yielding 575 yard to North Carolina two weeks prior. It was the fewest yards allowed by a W&M defense since yielding 141 to Massachusetts in the 2001 season-opener.

All-American candidate Lang Campbell and the Tribe offense were efficient in the treacherous conditions, as Campbell threw for 148 yards on 11 for 23 passing and ran for 42 yards on 14 attempts. With 148 passing yards, he moved into 10th place on the W&M career passing list. Senior Jon Smith churned out 63 yards on 23 carries.

Kuehn kicked three field goals for the fourth time in his career, with the last coming in a win over Rhode Island on Oct. 25, 2003.

Chris Ndubueze paced the defense with a career-high 16 tackles, including 10 solo stops. Junior Larry Pendleton tallied seven tackles and a sack, while sophomore Josh Wright, who made his first career start, also recorded a sack.

The win gave W&M its first victory over a ranked opponent since knocking off 15th-ranked Northeastern in Williamsburg on Oct. 26, 2002.

W&M 42, VMI 6

WILLIAMSBURG (9/25/04) - All-American candidate Lang Campbell threw for 137 yards and a pair of touchdowns in the first half to surpass the 3,000-yard mark for his career, as W&M used four second-quarter touchdowns and another outstanding defensive effort to knock off state-rival VMI, 42-6, in front of 8,101 fans at Zable Stadium.

Playing on his 23rd birthday, Campbell went over the 3,000-yard plateau in the first quarter and went on to complete 11-of-15 passes for 160 yards to move into ninth place (3,136) on the College's career passing yards lists. With two TD passes, Campbell also moved into eighth place (28) on the career list at W&M.

The Tribe defense forced four turnovers for the second time this season (UNC) and held the Keydets to 197 total yards, the first time a W&M defense surrendered fewer than 200 total yards since a season-opening win at UMass in 2001 (146). Dating back to a 9-7 win at UNH on Sept. 18, W&M has not allowed a touchdown for over seven consecutive quarters, a feat that has not been accomplished since 1995.

Sophomore linebacker Ryan Nickell recorded interceptions on consecutive VMI offensive plays from scrimmage, while all-conference linebacker Travis McLaurin and Chris Ndubueze each had six tackles and defensive end Adam O'Connor recorded five stops, a sack and three quarterback hurries.

Senior tailback Jon Smith led the Tribe ground game with 52 yards and two TDs, as he inched closer to 2,000 rushing yards for his career (1,899).

2004 GAME-BY-GAME

W&M 38, #16 NU 35 (OT)

WILLIAMSBURG (10/2/04) - Powered by a career-best 378-yard passing performance by All-American candidate Lang Campbell, the College pulled off a thrilling 38-35 overtime victory over 16th-ranked Northeastern at Zable Stadium.

The decisive points came off the foot of all-conference kicker Greg Kuehn, who nailed a 28-yard FG in the first overtime period. He ended the afternoon converting three of his four FG opportunities.

After the Tribe scored on a 77-yard TD pass from Campbell to Dominique Thompson with 2:34 remaining in the fourth quarter, and also got the two-point conversion on a pass to redshirt freshman receiver Joe Nicholas, W&M had a 35-28 lead. But, NU quarterback Shawn Brady's third TD pass tied the game with 42 seconds remaining and forced OT.

W&M won the toss and elected to play defense first. On the Huskies' first snap, junior Adam O'Connor sacked Brady, and NU eventually missed a 53-yard FG attempt. On the Tribe's OT possession, Nicholas caught a key first-down pass from Campbell on third-and-long, and two plays later Kuehn drilled the game-winner.

Campbell ended the day 22 of 36 for 378 yards, including the score to Thompson. He also ran for a pair of TDs. The 378 passing yards ranks as the eighth-best single-game performance in W&M history, and it was his second game over 300 yards in four contests.

Thompson led the Tribe with a career-high 157 yards on five grabs, while Nicholas hauled in a career-best 111 yards on six catches.

#10 W&M 27, #4 JMU 24

HARRISONBURG, VA (11/13/04) - Junior all-conference kicker Greg Kuehn nailed a 46-yard field goal as time expired to lead 10th-ranked William and Mary to a thrilling 27-24 victory over fourth-ranked James Madison in front of 13,904 fans at Bridgeforth Stadium.

The College gained possession at its 28-yard line with 38 seconds remaining, after JMU tied the game at 24-24 with 45 seconds left. With three timeouts in hand, senior All-American and Payton Award candidate, quarterback Lang Campbell calmly led the Tribe on a five play, 43-yard drive to set up Kuehn's game-winning kick. Kuehn's heroics gave the Tribe its first win in Harrisonburg since 1998 and its second victory over a top-10 team on the road this season.

The kick was Kuehn's second game-winning effort of the season, as he also drilled a 28-yard field goal in overtime to beat 16th-ranked Northeastern, 38-35, on Oct. 2.

Campbell was brilliant all day, as he methodically picked apart the Dukes' vaunted defense for 323 yards and two touchdowns on 26 of 33 passing. It was Campbell's fifth 300-yard passing game of the season, as he moved over the 5,000-yard barrier for his career (5,302), becoming just the sixth quarterback in W&M history to accomplish the feat.

Junior Chris Ndubueze led the Tribe with 12 total tackles and forced a critical JMU fumble late in the game, which was recovered by classmate Stephen Cason, who had 10 total stops in the game. All-conference candidate, junior Adam O'Connor registered nine total tackles, including a team-high 1.5 for loss.

The defense forced a turnover on the Pirates' next possession, and one play later, Campbell hit Thompson on a 45-yard scoring strike to put the Tribe ahead for good. It was Thompson's second TD catch of the game, as he piled up 118 receiving yards on seven grabs for his fifth 100-yard game of the season.

#8 JMU 48, #6 W&M 34

WILLIAMSBURG, VA (12/10/04) - Senior All-American quarterback Lang Campbell threw for 315 yards and three touchdowns on 30-for-39 passing, but eighth-ranked James Madison defeated sixth-ranked William and Mary, 48-34, in the semifinals of the 2004 NCAA I-AA Football Championship in front of a Friday night sellout crowd at Zable Stadium.

After spotting the Dukes a 21-0 first-quarter lead, Campbell rushed for a score and threw a nine-yard TD pass to redshirt freshman Joe Nicholas and All-American Greg Kuehn kicked a pair of field goals, including a 42-yarder as time expired in the first half, to cut the deficit to 21-20 at the break.

W&M kept the momentum going to start the third, as Campbell hit senior All-American wide receiver Dominique Thompson on a seven-yard strike to give the Tribe its first lead, 26-21. The advantage was short-lived however, as JMU engineered a two-play scoring drive on its next series and took advantage of two costly Tribe turnovers to reel off 27-straight points en route to the victory.

Campbell completed the most prolific season by a W&M quarterback with his school-record 30th TD pass late in the fourth, a four-yard connection with senior John Pitts. Campbell set season marks for passing yards (3,988), total offense (4,305), completions (298) and touchdown passes.

Thompson extended his school-record for receiving yards in a season to 1,585 and established a new standard for receptions in a season (79) with eight catches for 96 yards against the Dukes.

Despite the loss, the 2004 campaign proved to be one of the most successful in W&M history, as the Tribe won 11 games and advanced to the national semifinals for the first time.
