Six.GAA.Ghampionships • 12 NGAA.Tournament/Appearances; • 436 All-Time Victories • 12 All-Americans • 75 All-GAA.Selections • Four GAA.Players of the Year • 46 NSGAA All-Region/Selections

A three-year starter on the men's soccer team, 1984 William and Mary graduate Jon Stewart is the program's most famous and well-known alum. Currently the host, executive producer and writer of the Emmy Award-winning "The Daily Show with Jon Stewart" on Comedy Central, he received the National Soccer Coaches Association of American (NSCAA) Honorary All-American Award for 2005. The organization presented Stewart with the honor at the Jan. 21 NSCAA All-America Luncheon in Philadelphia, held in conjunction with the annual NSCAA Convention.

The NSCAA Honorary All-America award is presented to those who have brought particular distinction to the sport of soccer through their efforts within and beyond the boundaries of the sport. Past recipients include astronaut Sonny Carter, actor Andrew Shue and Lamar Hunt, owner of the NFL's Kansas City Chiefs and the Major League Soccer franchises in Columbus, Dallas and Kansas City.

Stewart ended his playing career at W&M with 10 goals and 12 assists, helping the Tribe to a 40-15-9 (.695) record in his three seasons. In an interview with Soccer News, he said that soccer was the thing he enjoyed most about his time at W&M. Stewart recalled that his most exciting memory from his playing days was scoring the only goal in a 1-0 win over Connecticut in the 1983 ECAC Championship, giving the Tribe just its second league title and the first since 1976. In May of 2004, Stewart returned to the College to deliver W&M's Commencement address, the first Tribe soccer player ever to be selected for that honor.

Stewart began his professional career at some of the top comedy clubs in New York City, eventually earning appearances on "Late Show with David Letterman" and HBO's "Young Comedians Special." That led to hosting "The Jon Stewart Show" on MTV in 1994 and 1995. From there, he starred on "The Larry Sanders Show" before taking over "The Daily Show" in January 1999. Stewart wrote the best-selling Naked Pictures of Famous People and starred in a number of feature films, including Death to Smoochy and Big Daddy.

"The Daily Show" has won five Emmy Awards, including beating out "Late Show with David Letterman" for the 2003 and 2004 awards for outstanding variety, music or comedy series. The program was recently nominated for that honor and three others in the 2004-05 Emmy competition. In March, Stewart signed a deal to extend his contract to host "The Daily Show" through 2008.

Recently ranked second on Entertainment Weekly's list of funniest Americans, Stewart was awarded an honorary doctorate of arts at W&M's 2004 graduation ceremonies after delivering the Commencement address.

"I am honored to be here and receive this honorary doctorate," said Stewart. "When I think back to the people that have been in this position before me, from Benjamin Franklin to Queen Noor of Jordan, I can't help but wonder what has happened to this place. As a person, I am honored to get it; as an alumnus, I have to say I believe we can do better."

NCAA BYLAW

30.7 FOREIGN TOURS AND COMPETITION

A member institution may participate in a foreign tour in any sport (see Bylaw 17.32), provided the conditions specified below are met. (Revised: 1/11/89) 30.7.1 Certification of Tour. The institution must certify in writing that the conditions set forth in this section are met and must maintain the certification on file in the athletics department. (Revised: 1/11/89)

30.7.4 Time Lapse between Tours. An institution shall not engage in a foreign tour in each sport more than once every four years. (Revised: 1/11/89)

The William and Mary men's soccer program has taken full advantage of the NCAA Bylaw (30.7) allowing for international trips and competition for an athletic team once every four years. The W&M Once-Every-Four Tour has traveled to Bermuda, Jamaica, England and most recently Greece. The Tribe will make the venture back to Athens, Greece for a second time during the spring of 2007.

"We have tried to take full advantage over the years of the NCAA rule that allows an overseas trip every four years," head coach Chris Norris said. "Our trip, this time falls over Spring Break of 2007. We are going to go to Athens, Greece where we took our last trip four years ago. Through contacts we have always been able to get good games with the pro clubs in whatever country we go to, and Greece the last time around was no exception. We played Panathinaikos and Olympiakos, who are the top teams in Greece and both play in Athens."

Taking the trip over spring break instead of during the preseason allows for time to be spent taking in the culture of the various countries and cities visited. The trip allows for the team to not only gain a different perspective on the soccer field, but also from a cultural standpoint.

"We have traditionally taken our trips during spring break as opposed to preseason," Norris said. "We want our focus to be a little different during preseason. We want our international trip to be a good team-bonding experience as well as a good social and cultural experience for the guys. Doing the trip during the spring provides a great opportunity for the guys to see a different culture in terms of soccer, but also a different culture in general."

The Tribe has enjoyed some great success on the field during the international trips. In 2003, W&M went undefeated in its four matches, including wins over Markopoulo, Panathinaikos and Olympiakos. In 1995, the College went undefeated against six first division teams in Bermuda. Charly Franks, a 1981 alumn of the College, hosted the team during its trip to Bermuda.

During the program's second international experience in 1987, the Tribe went 3-0-1 against four of the teams in Jamaica. In fact, the draw came against Seba, Jamaica's top team at the time, in front an estimated 3,500 fans. During that trip, W&M notched wins over Volvo (1-0), Star Cosmos (4-1) and Windsor (3-1).

During W&M's 1999 foreign tour trip, Crystal Palace FC hosted the Tribe. Former Tribe player Mark Goldberg was the Chair of the Football Club during the time. W&M played five matches against professional youth and reserve players from Crystal Palace, Fulham, Millwall and Bristol City.
