W&M: Tradition...

W&M: Into The Fourth Century

For more than 300 years, the College of William and Mary has been a symbol of academic distinction in America. Now in its fourth century, the College is prepared to educate the 21st century's leaders.

The College of William and Mary was chartered February 8, 1693, by King William III and Queen Mary II of England to bring education to a growing number of British colonists and Christianity to the Native Americans. Today, William and Mary is a public, four-year, co-educational residential university, with a nationally recognized liberal arts program. Although it has retained the college name in its title, William and Mary is now a modern university.

Many of America's early leaders were educated at William and Mary, including U.S. Presidents Thomas Jefferson, James Monroe and John Tyler, and renowned U.S. Chief Justice John Marshall. George Washington served as the college's first American chancellor from 1788 until his death in 1799.

William and Mary students founded Phi Beta Kappa, the premier academic honor society in America, in 1776. The College was the first to offer elective courses and to use the honor code system of conduct. The first chair of law in America was established at William and Mary in 1779. In addition, the College awarded the first degree in law in 1793.

The College's historic campus includes the Sir Christopher Wren Building (1695), the oldest college building in the nation where classes are still conducted. This and other 18th-century structures of W&M were restored to their original appearance through grants from philanthropist John D. Rockefeller during the restoration of Colonial Williamsburg in the late 1920s.

Although polls, rankings and guidebooks cannot fully capture the character of any educational institution, they do provide useful indications of the quality that students can expect. For years, the academic excellence of the College of William and Mary has been widely recognized by the growing raft of magazines and guidebooks that annually rank American colleges and universities. From U.S. News and World Report to The Princeton Review, William and Mary and its programs are listed among the nation's strongest.

U. S. News and World Report (2002)

- W&M ranked sixth among all public universities
- W&M ranked 33rd among national universities that offer the best value
- W&M ranked 30th overall among the nation's best universities
- W&M ranked 17th in graduation rates for national universities

Fiske Guide to Colleges (2002)

- W&M given the highest rating of academics - five stars
- W&M designated a "Best Buy" because of its combination of quality and cost
- A junior reported to Fiske of the professors: "We are being led and constantly motivated by passionate people."
- "The W&M formula of blending the old and the new has been working for more than 300 years, and it's only getting better with age."

Princeton Review: Best 331 Colleges (2002)

- W&M is "a small public university with a big reputation ... one of the best and most competitive public schools in the nation."
- W&M "admission is ultra-competitive", comparable to such institutions of higher education as Yale, Stanford, Duke, Georgetown and Harvard.
- W&M offers an "excellent location and a down-to-earth attitude ... Its students are certainly aware of this traditional liberal arts college's strengths and express them with intelligence and ease: 'William and Mary is an undiscovered gem', writes one student."

Did You Know That:

- William and Mary ranks first among American public universities in terms of commitment to undergraduate teaching, according to U.S. News and World Report. It is also the highest ranked small public university in the country.
- William and Mary is one of only eight U.S. institutions of higher education designated a "Public Ivy." A Public Ivy is a state-assisted institution, which offers a superior education at a cost far below that of Ivy League schools.
- A recent study shows that only William and Mary and Stanford University reported student-athlete SAT scores of at least 1,000 in eight categories based on gender and sport.
- More than 90 percent of all undergraduate courses are taught by full-time faculty.
- W&M's 12-1 student-faculty ratio is among the lowest of national public universities.
- The Campus is located approximately 150 miles south of Washington, D.C., midway between Norfolk and Richmond, Virginia.
- There are 7,560 students enrolled in the College (5,560 are undergraduates) who populate a 1,200 acres scenic campus setting that includes picturesque Lake Matoaka and the College Woods.

Over the last 300 years, William and Mary has developed a sterling national reputation for its academic standard of success. And for the last century, the Tribe athletics program has been working just as diligently to maintain its position as one of the top athletics departments in the nation ...

When the College's stringent academic standards are taken into consideration, the accomplishments of W&M's athletic programs are even more amazing. Over 500 student-athletes participate in 23 intercollegiate sports, and last year, those teams won over 57 percent of their competitions en route to a combined record of 205-154-2.

The 2001-02 athletic year was a typically strong one for the Tribe. Five Colonial Athletic Association titles, one East Coast Athletic Conference championship, a share of the Atlantic 10 football crown and a first place showing at the USA Collegiate Gymnastics meet are examples of William and Mary's strong season.

The women's tennis team captured its 16th CAA Championship, while the women's soccer squad qualified for the NCAA Tournament for the 10th-straight season. Perennial powerhouses like the cross country and track and field squads didn't disappoint either, challenging for conference titles yet again in 2001.

The success isn't limited to just those programs. The volleyball and men's gymnastics teams earned their first berths in NCAA postseason action, while the men's golf team earned a bid to the NCAA East Regional, showing that improvement is occurring across the board.

Since the merger of the men's and women's athletics departments in 1986, William and Mary has seen more than its fair share of success on and off the field. With graduates of the program running major corporations or running down the opposition in a National Football League game, a degree from W&M has proven to be a stepping-stone to a successful future.

Senior Ruth Anne Miller achieved an NCAA qualifying time and competed at the 2002 USA Spring Nationals

WILLIAM AND MARY ATHLETICS

MISSION STATEMENT:

"To provide academically qualified student-athletes with the best qualitative and quantitative athletic experience within the available resources."

William and Mary fields Division I teams for both men and women in basketball, cross country, golf, gymnastics, soccer, swimming and diving, tennis, and indoor and outdoor track and field. There are also field hockey, lacrosse and volleyball squads for women of the College, while there are two additional sports (baseball and football) for men.

Continuity is emphasized in the W&M athletics department. As the shaded box below shows, William and Mary has a history of stability with its head coaches. The current head coaches at W&M have been with the program for an average of 12.5 years. This retention rate leads to better performances on the field and a better overall experience for the student-athlete.

From the administration to the training staff to the coaches, the Tribe sports family is committed to providing each student-athlete at the College with the best possible experience, both academically and athletically, for his or her collegiate career.

field hockey (15 years), John Sauer - strength and conditioning (15 years).

Nine W&M head coaches have been in their current positions for 15 or more years: Al Albert - men's soccer (31 years), Cliff Gauthier - men's gymnastics (29 years),

Williamsburg

The College of William and Mary is located in one of the most historic towns in America, Williamsburg. Situated in the heart of Virginia's Historic Triangle, Williamsburg traces its history back over 350 years.

Begun as Middle Plantation in 1633, Williamsburg was originally an outpost of the Jamestown settlement. Because of its strategic location and the strength of its defenses, Middle Plantation soon became important to the colony.

Historical Demonstration, Colonial Williamsburg

When the capital of the colony was moved from Jamestown in 1699, a new planned city was laid out at Middle Plantation named Williamsburg in honor of King William III of England. For 81 years it was the seat of government and the social and cultural center of Virginia. In 1780 Governor Thomas Jefferson relocated the capital to Richmond, 50 miles west at the fall line of the James River.

Today, with a population of 11,530 Williamsburg still plays an important role in the state of Virginia. With the College, it is a center of higher education, and with Colonial Williamsburg, it has become one of the most popular tourist attractions in the state.

"That the future may learn from the past" is the theme for the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation, which operates the restored historic area of town. Adjacent to the William and Mary campus, the historic area is a mile long and nearly a half-mile wide and has been restored as nearly as possible to its 18th-century appearance.

Duke of Gloucester Street, Colonial Williamsburg

Within the historic area are 88 buildings that have survived from the 18th and early 19th centuries. Many other buildings have been rebuilt on the sites of original structures. Interpreters dressed in 18th century attire complement the historic district, which is centered around Duke of Gloucester Street. At the west end of the street is the historic Wren Building of the College, the oldest academic building in use today. A mile down the street at the east end stands the colonial Capitol Building.

Williamsburg is much more than just its historic district. A popular shopping area, Williamsburg is home to both Merchants Square (located next to campus) and several large outlet shopping centers located just west of town.

Just east of Williamsburg is Busch Gardens, a European-themed amusement park that features over 35 thrill rides and attractions, including some of the top roller coasters in the nation. Water Country USA, a water park featuring a wave pool, flumes, inner tube rides and numerous other pools, is also located just east of town.

With courses designed by such noted architects as Robert Trent Jones, Arnold Palmer, Rees Jones and Dan Maples, Williamsburg has also become noted for its impressive array of golf courses. Many of the courses in the area are ranked among the best in both Virginia and the nation. The Kingsmill resort's River Course hosted the PGA Michelob Championship, and is the future home of an LPGA tournament.

Governor's Mansion, Colonial Williamsburg

Nearby to Williamsburg are other noted historic and recreational areas. Jamestown, the first permanent English colony in America is located just outside of town on the James River. The site of George Washington's decisive victory over the British, Yorktown is a short drive down the Colonial Parkway from Williamsburg.

An hour's drive away are both Richmond, the capital of Virginia, and Norfolk, home of the U.S. Navy's Atlantic Fleet and one of the largest naval bases in the world. Just beyond Norfolk is Virginia Beach, one of the largest beach resort areas on the East Coast. It offers an excellent beach on the Atlantic Ocean and a three-mile long boardwalk.

The Golden Horseshoe Golf Course

Virginia Beach

The central piedmont region, with its rolling hills, flattens out into the sandy coastal plain toward the Atlantic Ocean.

Arguably the most historic of all 50 United States, Virginia is a veritable microcosm of American heritage. Many residents here preserve and interpret everything historic, from colonial towns and trails to 20th-century diners. If you want living history, you'll find it representing nearly every era at special events and destinations all year long. In Virginia one can visit areas from Colonial times, Civil War battlefields and still make a visit to the nation's capitol in just one day.

Busch Gardens

Virginia, home to Williamsburg and The College of William and Mary, is a state that is entrenched in history and entwined with tradition. Located midway between New York and Florida, Virginia is the gateway to the South. It is also sometimes classified in the Mid-Atlantic region. The Commonwealth is bordered by Washington, D.C., the nation's capital, and Maryland to the north; the Atlantic Ocean to the east; North Carolina and Tennessee to the south; and West Virginia and Kentucky to the west.

Geographically speaking, Virginia has it all, from its shores on the Atlantic Ocean to the mountains in the western part of the state, The Commonwealth offers a wide variety of scenery in just a short drive. Western Virginia is mountainous, with the Allegheny and Blue Ridge mountains framing the great Shenandoah Valley in between the two ranges.

The Commonwealth of Virginia:

Climate: Mild with four distinct seasons

Area: 40,817 square miles

Population: 7.187 million

Capital: Richmond (since 1780)

Outdoor opportunities abound in The Commonwealth. Virginia outfitters can package everything from caving, boating, offshore and freshwater fishing, beachfront sports, llama trekking, inn-to-inn hiking, cycling and camping adventures, white-water rafting and sea kayaking. There are many golf resorts in the state, with some of the best found right in Williamsburg. Each year, in fact, Virginia golf resorts are ranked among the top in the country in a host of national magazines. During the winter months, skiing is available along the Blue Ridge. More than one-fourth of the Appalachian Trail runs through the mountains of Virginia and you'll find more caverns here than in nearly any other East Coast state.

Facilities

The College of William and Mary and its student-athletes take a great deal of pride in the quality of its athletic facilities. Over the last several years, the College has bolstered its lineup of venues to match the success that the Tribe has shown in the athletic arena, which has been unmatched in the Colonial Athletic Association.

William and Mary boasts some of the finest athletic arenas in the nation, from its newest venue, Busch Tennis Courts, to the oldest, Walter J. Zable Stadium at Cary Field, a campus landmark since 1935. The College is committed to providing the student-athlete the most enjoyable and rewarding atmosphere possible.

Athletics Director Terry Driscoll

With a strong personal commitment to the concept of the scholar-athlete and to competitive success, Edward C. "Terry" Driscoll, Jr. enters his seventh year as athletics director at the College.

"In the athletic world, William and Mary is well recognized for a rare combination of two attributes: its academic strength in the classroom and its competitive strength on the field," said

Driscoll. "I look forward to the challenge of continuing the tradition of academic and athletic achievement."

A basketball All-America selection and an Academic All-America honoree at Boston College, Driscoll is an exemplary leader. Since his collegiate days, Driscoll has filled a variety of executive posts in the sporting goods industry, as well as completing an 11-year stint as a player in the National Basketball Association and as a player and coach in the Italian professional basketball league.

Driscoll has supervised the marketing of athletic products in national and international markets, enhanced the television exposure of a variety of NCAA events (including the Final Four basketball tournament) and organized and directed such internationally recognized events as the World Cup soccer games in Boston and the women's World Volleyball Grand Prix in Hawaii. The athletic program Driscoll directs fields a total of 23 men's and women's teams which boast strong records in NCAA, Colonial Athletic Association and Atlantic 10 competition. Last year, W&M posted a .571 overall winning percentage with five teams finishing in the nation's top-25 polls. Tribe athletes also earned seven All-America certificates and 16 national academic citations during the year.

Driscoll, who graduated with a Bachelor of Science degree in biology from Boston College in 1969, began his post-graduate career as a first-round draft pick of the Detroit Pistons. Before joining the Pistons, however, Driscoll opted for a year of professional basketball in Italy where he fulfilled his dream of living abroad and learning a second language. He rejoined the Pistons in 1970 and played with the Bullets and Bucks before returning to Italy in the fall of 1975, where he was named Outstanding Foreign Player of the Year. He played three years before an injury forced his retirement in 1978. He then coached his former team to two Italian League Championships before returning to the United States.

Driscoll began his post-playing career as an athletic sales promotion agent in 1980 and quickly moved up the corporate ladder. With the purchase of Bike Athletic by Kazmaier Associates in 1986, KSG Inc. was formed with the objective of becoming the first, and only, national sales agency in the Sporting Goods Industry. Driscoll was named president of KSG Inc. in 1987 and expanded the agency from 24 to 50 states by 1989. With the domestic sales agency in place, Driscoll expanded to international marketing and sales from 1989-93. In early 1990, Driscoll's contribution to a marketing research project for the NCAA was the initial step moving him from product marketing and sales to sports marketing and management. The result of the project was a joint venture between Kazmaier Associates and Host Communication - with Driscoll being named managing director and chief operating officer of NCAA International. Also in 1993-94, Driscoll assisted with the 1994 World Cup Organizing Committee as Venue Executive Director, and his Boston venue was cited for its operational success. In September of 1994, Driscoll was again enlisted to launch a new business, Eagle International Group, an event management and services company. As vice president, Driscoll worked with Hawaii Pacific Sports as well as organizing in Honolulu the opening round of the Women's World Volleyball Grand Prix, a five week Pan-Pacific competition.

Driscoll resides in Williamsburg with his wife Susan. The couple has two children, Keith, 27, a 1997 graduate of Holy Cross, and Leslie, 23, a 2001 graduate of William and Mary.

Associate Athletics Director Barbara Blosser

Barbara Blosser comes into her 11th year as the College's Associate Athletics Director. Blosser started her career at William and Mary as the head women's basketball coach, and saw immediate success, as her first team finished the 1978 season by winning the VAAIAW crown with a then-school-record win total (16-13). Her 1980 Tribe team (11-14) placed third, while the 1981 squad (16-16) was VAAIAW runner-up. She was also at the helm during the 1984-85 season when William and Mary made the jump to NCAA Division I. Overall, she finished her coaching career with 115 wins, 84 of which came at William and Mary.

When the College's men's and women's athletic programs merged in May of 1986, she moved to administration, first serving as the Assistant to the Associate Athletics Director. Over the past 16 years, her administrative responsibilities at W&M have included the monitoring of financial aid matters, coordinating the scheduling of athletic facilities, supervision of coaches and staff and, currently, serving as the person primarily responsible for administering the day-to-day operations of the department.

From October 1992 to June 1993 and August 1995 to July 1996, Blosser also served as acting athletics director in an interim capacity. For her efforts, she was named the first recipient of the John Randolph Inspiration Award. Blosser has served on various committees such as the NCAA Strategic Planning Committee and the Colonial Athletic Association Competition Committee.

Blosser began her coaching career at the helm of the women's basketball program at Ashland College in Ohio. During her two seasons at the school, she led the Eagles to successive 15-7 and 16-8 ledgers. Her 1977 squad won the AIAW Region V Championship, while her 1978 team took the OAIWS Small College title.

A former three-sport standout at Ohio State, Blosser graduated Cum Laude in 1975 with a bachelor of science degree in physical education. At OSU, she was selected to both Phi Beta Kappa and Mortar Board. She competed in basketball, field hockey and tennis and captained both the basketball and field hockey squads her senior year. She went on to earn her master's degree from the University of North Carolina Greensboro in 1978. In 1993, she was selected as a member of the first class of women inducted to the Ohio State University Athletic Hall of Fame.

Support Staff

Goals

We take pride in the many achievements of William and Mary athletes, both in the classroom and on the playing field. These support services and many others are in place to help each student-athlete achieve their goals. It is our hope that at the completion of their undergraduate career they can reflect upon:

1. An academic experience that prepared them for a successful career.
2. An athletic challenge that brought many rewards.
3. A feeling of loyalty and pride in identifying themselves as a varsity athlete with a degree from The College of William and Mary.

Compliance and Academic Support

As members of the Colonial Athletic Association and NCAA Division I, the College is committed to full compliance with all NCAA and conference regulations. The department has a fulltime Director of Compliance committed to assisting students, staff and coaches through education and monitoring of compliance issues.

All entering students are assigned a faculty academic advisor through the Academic Advising Office, directed by Dr. Randolph Coleman. Students remain with this advisor until they declare a major at which time they select a faculty advisor in their major field of concentration. The Academic Advising Office provides support and guidance to students as they plan their academic progress to graduation.

Within the athletic department, the Academic Support Coordinator is a valuable resource for student-athletes serving in a liaison role with the various student service offices throughout the campus community. The College has offices for Volunteer Services, Career Services, a Writing Resource Center and Oral Communication Studio, to name a few.

The department offers a variety of study, life and career building skills programs, but holds firm to the concept of self-determination—each student must take responsibility for his or her collegiate experience. Our goal is to assure that there is a support system in place to assist students to make positive and informed decisions.

Joseph W. Montgomery Strength Training Center

Strength, Speed and Conditioning

Tribe athletics is very proud of the Joseph W. Montgomery Strength Training Center, a 5,000 square foot weight training facility. Under the guidance of the Head and Assistant Strength Coach, each sport is provided with a program designed to enhance individual strength and flexibility development specific to the skills and movements required for their sport. Individuals are educated on proper lifting techniques and workouts are monitored to assure safety at all times.

Sports Psychology

The athletic department has on staff a sports psychologist, who holds a Ph.D. in sports psychology. All consultations are confidential and all student-athletes, teams or coaches are welcome regardless of the issues they wish to discuss. Consultation is available for sport psychology education, performance enhancement skills training, strategies for dealing with stress or injury, or for personal issues that may affect performance. The sports psychology consultant is considered a member of the Counseling Center and refers individuals to the Center when appropriate.

Training room

Sports Medicine

The Division of Sports Medicine provides a comprehensive health care program for the department of intercollegiate athletics. The staff consists of a team physician, six fulltime certified athletic trainers, graduate and undergraduate student trainers and medical specialists from the local community. The College is also in the process of evaluating and pursuing CAAHEP accreditation of its entry-level athletic training education program. The team physician has overall responsibility for supervision of the sports medicine program.

The priority for the athletic training staff is to enhance and assure lines of communication and cooperation among its staff, student-athletes, parents, coaches, the Student Health Center and involved medical specialists. Through a team approach to health care the sports medicine program can offer comprehensive health care services to the student-athletes in a caring and cooperative manner.

Gregg Sarbak

Director of
Swimming and Diving
Edinboro, 1996
First Year

Career Highlights

- Helped to guide the women's team to a third-place finish and the men's team to a fourth-place finish at the 2002 CAA Championships
- Coached one relay and six individual CAA Champions in his last two seasons as assistant coach
- Saw 16 team records and 92 all-time top-10 marks improve under his guidance
- At the high school level, he coached an Olympic Trial Qualifier, eight All-Americans, eight all-state swimmers, two state champions, one state record holder and two top-five team finishes at PIAAs

As Tribe swimming and diving kicks off the 2002-03 season, Gregg Sarbak steps into the role of Director of Swimming and Diving with hopes of taking the program to even greater levels.

In the past two years, Sarbak has been instrumental to the William and Mary swimmers and divers as the assistant swim coach. In the 2001-02 season, the Tribe finished in the top of the Colonial Athletic Association under Sarbak's tutelage, despite the addition of three swimming and diving teams to the already competitive conference. In his first year with the Tribe, Sarbak coached the women to their highest-ever placing at the CAA Championships in their second-place effort, while the men swam to a third-place finish.

In the 2001-02 season, Sarbak helped coach his athletes to break seven women's team records and improve upon 18 all-time top-10 records, adding five new names to the list. The Tribe's women cheered on Liz Koch and the 800 freestyle relay squad to first-place finishes at the CAA Championships, in addition to Ruth Anne Miller's NCAA B qualifying time and United States National Qualifying time (finishing 10th in the 100 meter breaststroke and 13th in the 200 meter breaststroke at Nationals). On the men's side, the Tribe celebrated two individual conference champions in Bruce Thomas and Jon Lin and saw three school records fall. The men bettered 25 times on the all-time top-10 list, adding nine new names.

When last year's season is combined with his initial season, the success of the program since Sarbak's arrival is astounding. The men and women have broken 16 team records and reset 92 all-time top-10 marks. Additionally, Tribe swimmers have stood at the top of the podium at the CAA Championships seven times. After taking into account the success that the William and Mary men's and women's swim teams have had under the direction of Sarbak, the prognosis for the future of the program is promising.

Before coming to William and Mary, Sarbak spent nine years coaching at various programs in the Pennsylvania area. As the assistant men's and women's coach at Allegheny College in Meadville, Pennsylvania, Sarbak coached the Division III team to a seventh-place national ranking. There, he coached five NCAA Division III All-Americans and seven NCAA Qualifiers. Sarbak also spent several years coaching the Millcreek Swim Team and the McDowell High School swimming and water polo teams in Erie, Pennsylvania, where his swimmers were a true testament to his coaching abilities. At the Millcreek Swim Team, he helped produce an Olympic Trial Qualifier and 16 United States Swimming Eastern Zone qualifiers. Meanwhile, the McDowell High School swim team saw eight All-America and eight all-state swimmers, two state champions, one state record holder, 11 district champions, and two top-five team finishes at the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association championships. His water polo squads finished in the top-three at the state championships twice, with three All-Americans and 12 all-state players.

Sarbak graduated from Edinboro University in 1996 with a B.A. in natural sciences and mathematics, earning Academic All-American status. Sarbak was an 11-time All-American and swam to a fifth-place individual finish at NCAAs in 1994. He held five school records in his three years at Edinboro and was a team captain both his junior and senior years, leading his team to a fourth-place finish at the Division II National championships.

Sarbak is a native of Erie, Pennsylvania and enjoys playing sports, the outdoors and surfing. Among his many accomplishments, Sarbak was the fifth person ever to swim the 26 miles across Lake Erie.

Samantha Smith

Assistant Coach

Samantha Smith comes to William and Mary with four years of coaching experience and four years of competing at the highest levels of the Colonial Athletic Association. A former standout swimmer for James Madison University, Smith brings the ability to work with the swimmers to motivate and train them to reach higher levels both in the pool and in the classroom. Her dependable and hard-working nature should be a true asset to the William and Mary swimming and diving squads.

In her four years of coaching experience, Smith worked as a head coach for the Summerset Olde Creek Recreation center in Fairfax, Virginia. Additionally, Smith spent time in her hometown of Hershey, Pennsylvania to coach her former club swim team, the Hershey Aquatic Club.

Just before her arrival in Williamsburg, Smith worked at the Daily Times in Ocean City, Maryland, editing press releases and creating the layout and graphics for the weekly newspaper publication.

Smith competed for four years at James Madison University, where she was the most valuable member of the team for the 2000-01 season. That year, she finished first in two breaststroke events at the CAA Championships, leading her team to a first-place finish at the meet. She was also involved in Special Olympics and was a member of the James Madison campus television station, JMTV.

Dr. Robert McNamee

Diving Coach

After making an immediate impact on the Tribe diving program, Dr. Robert McNamee hopes to continue his successful coaching campaign of the 2001-02 season. By building upon the solid dual meet diving season and a strong finish at the conference championships, Tribe divers look promising for the 2002-03 season.

A diving coach since 1975, Dr. McNamee has held various other positions in the world of competitive swimming and diving, including volunteer positions with United States Diving Incorporated, the United States Synchronized Swimming Team, United States Synchronized Swimming, Incorporated, and the Amateur Athletic Union.

With a professional career that spans from his early years as a Dental Officer in the United States Navy to years of private practice, Dr. McNamee has amassed an impressive resumé. He earned his undergraduate and dental degrees from the State University of Iowa. In 1996 Dr. McNamee was a Medical Logistics Officer for the Olympic Games in Atlanta, Georgia. Also a member of several professional organizations, Dr. McNamee belongs to the American Dental Association, USA Diving Incorporated, and the Professional Diving Coaches Association.

In addition to coaching the Tribe diving squad, Dr. McNamee works at the Olde Towne Dental Clinic in Williamsburg.

The Colonial Athletic Association

The Colonial Athletic Association, which stretches from the beaches of North Carolina to the shadows of the Statue of Liberty, was originally formed as a six-team basketball alliance and has enjoyed considerable growth and success since its founding in 1985. The CAA is comprised of 10 institutions: Delaware, Drexel, George Mason, Hofstra, James Madison, Old Dominion, Towson, The University of North Carolina-Wilmington, Virginia Commonwealth, and William and Mary. Both men and women compete in basketball, cross country, golf, lacrosse, soccer, swimming & diving, tennis and track & field. Additionally, the men battle for the top spot in baseball, football and wrestling, while the women vie for top honors in field hockey, softball, and volleyball.

From David Robinson, the #1 pick in the 1987 NBA draft to ODU's Samantha Salvia becoming the league's first Rhodes Scholar in 1996, the conference has continued a tradition of producing exceptional student-athletes. Recent athletic accomplishments include ODU capturing the national title in field hockey, Loyola representing the conference in the NCAA women's lacrosse semifinals, and advancements in postseason tournaments for both men's and women's basketball squads. But perhaps the greatest measure of the broad-based success of the conference is the fact that the league regularly produces over 600 CAA Scholar-Athletes each year who boast a 3.2 grade point average and a varsity letter in a conference sport. Building on a proud past, the Colonial Athletic Association has vaulted into the new millennium with a proven track record of outstanding success not only on the playing field but also in the classroom.

In swimming and diving, eight member schools compete during the regular season and meet for the conference championships, hosted this season by George Mason from February 19-22.

The Colonial Athletic Association office is located at 8625 Patterson Avenue in Richmond, VA. The phone number is (804) 754-1616.

*Active athletes in bold-italics

Determination, perseverance and excitement characterize the atmosphere surrounding the William and Mary women's swimming and diving program for the upcoming 2002-03 season. The women's squad aims to not only improve its final ranking at the Colonial Athletic Association Championships, but to take top honors and improve its dual meet record. Building upon the accomplishments of last season, which included a third-place finish at the CAA Championship meet, one individual and one relay finishing first at CAAs, an NCAA B qualifying time, and two top-15 finishes at U.S. Nationals, the women's goal is definitely within reach.

Gregg Sarbak, who returns for his third year with the Tribe, but his first as the Director of Swimming and Diving, hopes to lead the team to new levels. Sarbak will be aided by assistant swim coach Samantha Smith and diving coach Dr. Robert McNamee. With their knowledge of swimming and diving, complementary coaching styles and experience as competitors, the trio looks to be a promising combination for success. Counting on some of the team's top swimmers and divers as well as its solid depth, the Tribe has the potential to rise to a new level. The team will look to senior co-captains Liz Koch, Maxey McNeese, Ruth Anne Miller and Aly Woodward for leadership both in and out of the pool. The most valuable swimmer of the 2001-02 season, Miller holds three individual records, appears in the all-time top-10 records in seven events, took second in three events at the conference championships, achieved an NCAA B qualifying time, and hopes to continue to improve in her final season with the Tribe. Conference champion Koch, who holds the team record in the 100 butterfly and took top honors in that same event at CAAs, has drastically improved each year with the squad and will continue to be a major contributor in the butterfly events and medley relays. McNeese, with her strong leadership skills and inspiring work ethic, will contribute throughout the year, adding depth in the breaststroke events. Woodward will lead the Tribe divers, hoping to build upon their crucial contributions during dual meets and solid scoring during conferences. Most valuable diver Carrie Gerloff will come into her sophomore campaign with more experience under her belt and will look for even greater accomplishments.

With a similar schedule for the 2002-03 season, Tribe swimmers and divers should be able to continue to build upon their previous successful season. The addition of several freshmen, who are expected to make an immediate impact on the team, to the already solid senior, junior and sophomore classes makes the goal to win more dual meets and to take the conference championship understandably attainable. The following is a stroke-by-stroke breakdown of the 2002-03 women's swimming and diving program:

Freestyle

With a relatively young group of freestylers, the Tribe hopes for strong seasons from junior Cicely Wolters and sophomore Alyssa Roberts, who gained valuable experience last season in the sprint events. Additionally, several newcomers to the program are expected to make an impact. Sophomore Kirsten Kramer, who was forced to sit out last season due to injury, should put in a good showing and challenge her teammates for the top spots on the team in the sprint events if healthy. Freshmen Kristi Borkowski and Katie Doggett bring in much talent and speed to the freestyle events, as both are expected to make an immediate impact in the conference.

Distance freestyle, which has been one of the Tribe's weaknesses in the past few seasons, looks to make major improvements this year with the addition of three distance freestylers in the freshman class. Paige Capro, Erin Clark, Alexis Skelos, and Lindsay Young, all newcomers to the squad, are expected to improve in their first year of training with a collegiate program and score points in the distance events. Additionally, the Tribe may call upon Miller, who can be counted on to put in a good showing in nearly every event.

Junior Katie Hiles

Backstroke

Junior Katie Hiles will lead the Tribe backstrokers. After successful freshman and sophomore campaigns, Hiles, the school's second-fastest all-time in both backstroke events, will look to continue to improve. She is expected to be a great threat for opponents of the Tribe, especially with her work ethic, dedication and determination.

Senior Liz Koch

Sophomore Katie Descenza exploded onto the scene last year and will be a major point scorer in both backstroke events. Doggett should make an immediate impact for the Tribe as well as Kramer and freshman Alexa Whittaker. Also look to freshman Elizabeth Harman to show improvements and add depth to the backstroke events.

Butterfly

Koch looks to continue to be the team's most powerful butterflyer. After breaking the school record and winning the 100 butterfly at CAAs last season, Koch is nearly unstoppable, as she has improved with each season. Her 200 butterfly has also shown great progress in her previous three years, most recently accumulating six first-place finishes in the butterfly events throughout last year's dual meet season.

Sophomores Lindsay Riddell and Robyn Kondrad will add depth to the butterfly events, and freshmen Michelle Calanog is expected to contribute immediately.

Breaststroke

Miller, who holds the school record in the 200 breaststroke and is only a half-second off of the school record in the 100 breaststroke, added an incredible 2001-02 season to her already impressive resumé. She finished second at CAAs in the 200 breaststroke, achieving an NCAA B qualifying time and earning a swim in the 100 and 200 breaststroke at U.S. Nationals, finishing 10th and 13th, respectively. As one of the most versatile swimmers in the conference, her talent as a breaststroker will lead the deep breaststroke contingent.

McNeese hopes to continue her strong collegiate showing. Her work ethic will no doubt lead to her most successful collegiate year yet, as the co-captain looks to score points at CAAs and achieve new personal bests. Freshman Bryanne Matthews is expected to make an immediate impact and challenge the top breaststrokers in the conference. Sophomores Elizabeth Barrett, Kondrad and Jessica Smotrel and freshman Capro will also add depth to the events.

Individual Medley

In addition to her breaststroke record, Miller also holds school records in the 200 and 400 IM. The well-rounded Miller can be a top-scorer in nearly every event. She was the conference champion her freshman year in the 200 IM and has placed no worse than third in any IM event at the conference championship meet in her entire career. Miller will look to continue improving while she maintains her strong presence in the individual medley events.

Also look to sophomore Barrett and freshmen Capro, Clark, Matthews, and Whittaker to contribute in the IM events.

Diving

Returning divers Woodward, junior Meg Patterson and Gerloff, the Tribe's Most Valuable Diver of the 2001-02 season, are expected to exhibit their talent and experience throughout the year. With solid diving throughout last season, the Tribe's trio will look to further improve. The addition of newcomers Laura Hodulik and Yukari Nakamura should make certain that Tribe divers will be strong and solid.

• Active athletes in bold-italics

Thriving off of the accomplishments of the 2001-02 season, the Tribe men have high hopes for continuing improvement in their 2002-03 campaign. With the return of talented athletes and the addition of several promising newcomers, the Tribe will look to finish among the top of the Colonial Athletic Association and improve its dual meet record. With one returning CAA Champion and several swimmers poised to achieve such a title, the team is set to obtain such goals. Of the squad's numerous accomplishments from last season, one of the most impressive was that nearly every Tribe swimmer saw improvement in at least one event, testifying that the Tribe men have success and progress ahead of them.

First year director of swimming and diving Gregg Sarbak will work with assistant coaches Samantha Smith and Dr. Robert McNamee this season. Although graduation took the Most Valuable Swimmer and Diver from William and Mary, returning swimmers and incoming freshmen should be able to make up for the losses. The squad will look to senior co-captains David Hildebrand, Matt Salerno, and Mark Sinder to provide leadership for the 2002-03 season. A versatile swimmer, Sinder excels at the 200 IM, both butterfly events and sprint backstroke and freestyle events, and will look to turn in a solid senior campaign. Hildebrand looks to conclude his collegiate career with his strength in the freestyle events and his leadership capabilities. Salerno will bring his motivating work ethic to the pool and add depth to the breaststroke events. Senior Tyler Fenwick is also expected to strengthen the breaststroke events, while senior Aaron Roussell will continue to improve, solidifying the butterfly events. Returning CAA Champion Bruce Thomas looks to defend his 100 breaststroke title and make a run for the 200 breaststroke title at the 2003 CAA Championships. The Tribe's Most Outstanding Freshman honoree, Eric Druker, is expected to challenge other butterflyers in the CAA for the title in both the 100 and 200 butterfly after training last summer.

The vast improvements the Tribe men showed last season should indicate the great amount of potential they have for the 2002-03 season. With a similar schedule to last year, Tribe swimmers and divers should be able to prove to the CAA that they are a continuing threat for top honors in the league. The following is a stroke-by-stroke breakdown of the 2002-03 men's swimming and diving program:

Freestyle

Distance freestyle will likely continue to be a strength for the Tribe men. Clark Noble and Scott Rhodes each put in a solid effort in dual meets and at the conference championship last season. Noble finished with the top times on the team in the 1000 and 1650 freestyle and with the second-fastest time on the team in the 500 freestyle. Finishing fourth in the mile and ninth in the 500 freestyle at CAAs, the junior looks to continue moving up in the conference.

At the CAA Championships, sophomore Rhodes finished third in the 500 freestyle, fifth in the 1650 and 10th in the 200 freestyle, shaving a combined total of 25 seconds off of his previous best times in the three events. Rhodes looks to continue to show improvement and battle for the top spot in the conference.

Junior Alex Seamon will contribute in the distance events, as he can be counted on to add depth to the already strong distance contingent. Hildebrand has been a solid freestyler in the conference since his arrival at William and Mary. He will look to have a successful final year with the Tribe, as he can score in middle and mid-distance events.

Sinder and Druker teamed up last season to contribute some serious speed to the line-up. The two will look to continue finishing at the top of the pack in dual meets but will rely heavily upon several incoming freshmen. It will be important for newcomers Jacob Albright, Bob Jacobson, and Massey Whorley to step up this season and compete against other top swimmers.

Backstroke

Sinder and junior David Shoulders were major contributors in the backstroke events last season. Shoulders looks to improve as he returns with the top 200 backstroke time from the 2001-02 season after shaving four seconds off of his previous best. Freshmen Albright,

Evan Elsaesser, Peter King, Neal Rollins, and Matt Wolff look to challenge for the top spot on the team, and are expected to have an immediate impact. With the addition of these freshmen, Sinder, who earned top honors on the team in the 100 backstroke last season, will most likely utilize his versatility in other events.

Butterfly

After evolving from one of the weakest strokes a few years ago to one of the strongest strokes last season, the Tribe looks to its butterflyers for continuing success. Sinder, turning in a school-record effort in the 100 butterfly while placing third at CAAs, is also a threat in the 200 butterfly after finishing sixth at the conference meet.

Druker, who finished fourth in both butterfly events at CAAs, is expected to improve this season, challenging school records and the top butterflyers in the conference. Junior Noah Laurence turned in the fourth-fastest times on the squad in both butterfly events and should be a major force this year. On course to a successful conference meet, Laurence fell ill during CAAs. Expectations are high for him in the 2002-03 season.

Roussell dropped almost four seconds from his previous season's best time at CAAs. He will aim to finish in the top-16 at conferences, as he improves each year. Shoulders, along with freshmen Elsaesser, Jacobson, King, Rollins, Whorley and Wolff should add speed and depth to the events.

Breaststroke

It appears as if William and Mary's breaststrokes will be even stronger in the 2002-03 season. With four returning swimmers on the all-time top-10 list, Tribe breaststroke touts several stars. Junior Bruce Thomas will look to defend his CAA title and school record in the 100 breaststroke while challenging for top honors in the conference in the 200 breaststroke.

Gaetan Sgro returns with the second-fastest times in both breaststroke events on the squad. After finishing seventh in the 200 breaststroke at CAAs, the junior looks to move up in the conference. Bob Brofft is expected to challenge for the top slots on the team in his second year with the Tribe. Fenwick broke into the all-time top-10 last season in the 200 breaststroke and is expected to make further improvements this year. Salerno, who is well-respected for his inspiring work ethic, will add depth to both breaststroke events. Freshmen Jeff Clark and Jeff Gastón, who have the potential to make an immediate impact with the Tribe, complete the team's arsenal of breaststrokes.

Individual Medley

With several versatile swimmers, the Tribe enjoys remarkable IM talent. Sinder returns as the top swimmer in the 200 IM, finishing ninth in the conference last season. Thomas finished seventh at CAAs in the event, showing great improvement and promise for the 2002-03 season. Moreover, Laurence and Brofft have the potential to finish among the top in the conference. The addition of Wolff makes this an even stronger event for the Tribe.

Noble, turning in the top time in the 400 IM last season with a fifth-place finish at CAAs, will lead the Tribe in the event and can also score in the 200 IM. Additionally, Hildebrand handed in the top time on the team his freshman year in the 400 IM and Seamon saw a best time in that event at the conference championships.

Diving

The Tribe graduated its only diver last season but will look to Tom De Mattia for diving support. The junior was a member of the Tribe gymnastics squad, but was forced to retire due to looseness in his shoulder. The skills that he will bring to the diving squad from his gymnastics experience are expected to enhance his diving. Freshman Drew Webb will dive competitively for the first time this year and is expected to quickly pick up the sport.

Academics and Athletics

A blend of high-caliber academics and strong Division I athletics at William and Mary has long been a factor for high school student-athletes as they consider where to continue their education. For many swimmers, the fact that William and Mary is academically on par with schools such as Harvard, Yale and Princeton, but much more laid back in atmosphere is one of the biggest draws. The swimming and diving teams not only exemplify that healthy balance between academics and athletics, but take it to the next level.

The squad has traditionally boasted one of the highest average GPAs among the College's 23 varsity sports teams. Recently, a Tribe butterflyer was honored as a Rhodes scholar, one of the most prestigious academic awards in the country.

Rhodes Scholar and swimming standout Paul Larsen in action

Paul Larsen was named a Rhodes Scholar in December of 1999 following his graduation in June. Larsen graduated with highest honors in physics and held a minor in mathematics. He was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the national honor society, and Omicron Delta Kappa, the national collegiate society for student leaders.

In addition, Larsen was one of an elite group of James Monroe Scholars at W&M, a program which grants such honorees $2,000 for independent study. Larsen is currently enrolled at Oxford University, where he is studying to receive his bachelor's degree in mathematics.

As a member of the Tribe swimming and diving program, Larsen was a key contributor in the butterfly events and was the top butterflyer on the squad as a freshman. His fastest time in the 100 butterfly, 52.75, stands among the top-15 times in school history.

Reflecting on his undergraduate experience, Larsen said, "Throughout my time at William and Mary, I got a strong sense that education was to be holistic, incorporating community service, activism, and, for many, athletics. One of the great things about William and Mary is that I could pursue an intense academic course while competing in a Division I sport."

Larsen's achievements were not an isolated case of academic success by a Tribe swimmer. Recent graduate Josh Osterberg, the holder of the school record in the 400 IM and the 100 backstroke, graduated from the College Magna Cum Laude in 2001. He is currently enrolled in the doctoral program in ecology at Duke University, studying chemical ecology at deep-sea hydrothermal vents. He has been on three Alvin dives to the bottom of the ocean and has been published twice since graduation. Osterberg has participated in several research projects funded by various grants and fellowships, including his current project to develop an alternative bait for the blue crab fishery.

Additionally, twin brothers Cihan and Sarp Akcay graduated with the Class of 2002, earning highest honors in physics with GPAs near the perfect 4.0 mark. Each received the prestigious award of induction into the Phi Beta Kappa honor fraternity. Both Akcay brothers will attend graduate school in physics, Cihan at the University of Seattle, and Sarp at the University of Texas at Austin.

The squad continues to carry on the tradition of strong academics into the 2002-03 school year. Several Tribe swimmers have been rewarded for their intellectual talents by earning Dean's List Honors. Seniors David Hildebrand and junior Katie Hiles have earned a spot on the list twice, while senior Liz Koch, juniors Alex Seamon and David Shoulders and sophomore Robyn Kondrad have also made the prestigious cut.

With several individuals receiving credit for high academic achievements, a testament to the team's academic success lies in the team's GPA. The men finished the season with a combined GPA near the 3.0 mark, while the women boasted a GPA over 3.1. Additionally, of the last 12 years, the squad has earned the honor of being selected eight times as an Academic All-America team, meaning that each member of the squad maintained a cumulative grade point average above 2.8.

As the swimming and diving teams continue to reach greater heights in their athletic achievements, they seek new levels of academic accomplishments. The success of the team's student-athletes demonstrates the effective balance of top-notch academics with Division I athletics. The swimming and diving team is a model of the William and Mary athletics department's commitment to excellence not only in athletics, but in academics as well.

Senior captain David Hildebrand, member of the Dean's List
