Important Points to Consider When Choosing a Collegiate Tennis Program

1. How much does each player develop as an individual and as an athlete while participating in the program?
2. How successful in career and life are the graduates of the program?
What kind of people are they?
3. What is the quality of the athletic training and competitive facilities?
4. What is the future of men's tennis at the university?
5. What is the academic record of the athletes in the program?
6. What is the academic quality of the university for undergraduates?
7. What is the environmental quality of the school and surrounding area?

When all of these points are considered and the program is put into its total perspective, you will find that William and Mary is second to none.

The College of William and Mary - The Best Small Public University in the United States

For more than 300 years, William and Mary has been a symbol of academic distinction in America. Now, in its fourth century, the College is prepared to educate the leaders of the 21st century.

The College of William and Mary was founded in 1693 by King William III and Queen Mary II of England. Four Presidents of the United States received their education at the College - George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, James Monroe and John Tyler. The current chancellor of the College is former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, and he took over the post from former British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

William and Mary was the first college to institute an honor code of conduct. The premier academic society, Phi Beta Kappa, was founded by William and Mary students in 1776. The Society of the Alumni, founded in 1842, is the sixth oldest alumni group in the nation. Now the College is designated as a "Public Ivy", and ranks 15th among the best regional business schools.

The Wren Building is the oldest one in the United States in which classes are still taught.

*"Exercise and recreation ... are as necessary as reading;
I will say rather more necessary, because health is worth more than learning.
A strong body makes the mind strong."
—Thomas Jefferson, W&M Class of 1764*

Few colleges in America can boast of the combination of athletic and academic excellence that is found at the College of William and Mary. Each year, more than 500 Tribe student-athletes, competing on 23 Division I teams, prove that it is possible to simultaneously excel at the highest levels of athletics and academics.

Athletic Excellence

The 2002-03 season was one of the best in W&M history, as the Tribe had a school-record 10 teams compete in the NCAA Tournament. Four teams won conference championships, while six teams ended the season nationally ranked in the top-25. Each year the goal of the athletics department is to finish in the top-100 nationally in the NACDA Directors' Cup standings and this season W&M far exceeded that standard, ending the 2002-03 campaign ranked 58th. It marked the eighth time in the last 10 years that the Tribe finished in the top-four in Virginia and first or second in the Colonial Athletic Association.

William and Mary fields Division I teams for both men and women in basketball, cross country, golf, gymnastics, soccer, swimming and diving, tennis, and indoor and outdoor track and field.

There are also field hockey, lacrosse and volleyball squads for women of the College, while there are two additional sports (baseball and football) for men.

Overall, the College has proven dominant in the CAA, leading the league with 70 conference titles, 21 more than the next closest school. In recent years, it has become typical for W&M to win at least five conference championships and send seven or more teams to the NCAA Tournament each season.

Academic Success

The Tribe's athletic accomplishments do not come at the expense of its students' academic responsibilities. In the 2002-03 season, W&M student-athletes, who make up close to 10% of the entire student body, compiled a 3.03 grade point average.

In 2002-03 the CAA began a Scholar-Athlete of the Year award for each of the league's 21 sports. Not surprisingly, W&M set the pace with five athletes winning the honor—Tara Flint (women's soccer), Ali Henderson (women's cross country), Adam Hess (men's basketball), Chris Parsons (men's track and field) and Ann Schnell (women's golf)—more than any other school.

Trevor Spracklin finished his career in 2001 as the College's all-time winningest men's tennis player with 110 singles and 113 doubles victories. A first-time All-CAA award winner all four seasons, he was named the 1999 CAA Player of the Year.

Athletics Administration

Terry Driscoll

Athletics Director

With a strong personal commitment to the concept of the scholar-athlete and to competitive success, Edward C. "Terry" Driscoll, Jr. enters his eighth year as director of athletics at the College.

"In the athletic world, William and Mary is well recognized for a rare combination of two attributes: its academic strength in the classroom and its competitive strength on the field," said Driscoll. "I look forward to the challenge of continuing the tradition of academic and athletic achievement."

A basketball All-America selection and an Academic All-America honoree at Boston College, Driscoll is an exemplary leader. Since his collegiate days, Driscoll has filled a variety of executive posts in the sporting goods industry, as well as completing an 11-year stint as a player in the National Basketball Association and as a player and coach in the Italian professional basketball league.

Driscoll has supervised the marketing of athletic products in national and international markets, enhanced the television exposure of a variety of NCAA events (including the Final Four basketball tournament) and organized and directed such internationally recognized events as the World Cup soccer games in Boston and the women's World Volleyball Grand Prix in Hawaii.

The athletic program Driscoll directs fields a total of 23 men's and women's teams which boast strong records in NCAA, Colonial Athletic Association and Atlantic 10 competition. Last year was one of the most successful in W&M history, as a school-record 10 teams competed in NCAA Tournaments. Four teams won conference championships and six squads ended the season nationally ranked in the top 25.

Driscoll, who graduated with a Bachelor of Science degree in biology from Boston College in 1969, began his postgraduate career as a first-round draft pick of the Detroit Pistons. Before joining the Pistons, however, Driscoll opted for a year of professional basketball in Italy where he fulfilled his dream of living abroad and learning a second language. He rejoined the Pistons in 1970 and played with the Bullets and Bucks before returning to Italy in the fall of 1975, where he was named Outstanding Foreign Player of the Year. He played three years before an injury forced his retirement in 1978. He then coached his former team to two Italian League Championships before returning to the United States.

Driscoll began his post-playing career as an athletic sales promotion agent in 1980 and quickly moved up the corporate ladder. With the purchase of Bike Athletic by Kazmaier Associates in 1986, KSG Inc. was formed with the objective of becoming the first, and only, national sales agency in the Sporting Goods Industry. Driscoll was named president of KSG Inc. in 1987 and expanded the agency from 24 to 50 states by 1989. With the domestic sales agency in place, Driscoll expanded to international marketing and sales from 1989-93. In early 1990, Driscoll's contribution to a marketing research project for the NCAA was the initial step moving him from product marketing and sales to sports marketing and management. The result of the project was a joint venture between Kazmaier Associates and Host Communication - with Driscoll being named managing director and chief operating officer of NCAA International. Also in 1993-94, Driscoll assisted with the 1994 World Cup Organizing Committee as Venue Executive Director, and his Boston venue was cited for its operational success. In September of 1994, Driscoll was again enlisted to launch a new business, Eagle International Group, an event management and services company. As vice president, Driscoll worked with Hawaii Pacific Sports as well as organizing the Women's World Volleyball Grand Prix, a five-week competition in Honolulu.

Driscoll resides in Williamsburg with his wife Susan. The couple has two children, Keith, 28, a 1997 graduate of Holy Cross, and Leslie, 24, a 2001 graduate of William and Mary.

Barbara Blosser

Associate AD

Barbara Blosser comes into her 12th year as the College's associate athletics director. Blosser started her career at William and Mary as the head women's basketball coach in 1978 and guided the Tribe to a VAIW crown in her first season with a school-record 16 wins (16-13). Her 1980 Tribe team (11-14) placed third, while the 1981 squad (16-16) was VAIW runner-up. She was also at the helm during the 1984-

85 season when William and Mary made the jump to NCAA Division I. Overall, she finished her coaching career with 115 wins, 84 of which came at William and Mary.

When the College's men's and women's athletic programs merged in May of 1986, she moved to administration, first serving as the Assistant to the Associate Athletics Director. Over the past 16 years, her administrative responsibilities at W&M have included the monitoring of financial aid matters, coordinating the scheduling of athletic facilities, supervision of coaches and staff and, currently, serving as the person primarily responsible for administering the day-to-day operations of the department.

From October 1992 to June 1993 and August 1995 to July 1996, Blosser also served as acting athletics director in an interim capacity. For her efforts, she was named the first recipient of the John Randolph Inspiration Award. Blosser has served on various committees such as the NCAA Strategic Planning Committee and the Colonial Athletic Association Competition Committee.

Blosser began her coaching career at the helm of the women's basketball program at Ashland College in Ohio. During two seasons there, she led the Eagles to successive 15-7 and 16-8 ledgers. Her 1977 squad won the AIAW Region V Championship, while her 1978 team took the OAISW Small College title.

A former three-sport standout at Ohio State, Blosser graduated Cum Laude in 1975 with a Bachelor of Science degree in physical education. At OSU, she was selected to both Phi Beta Kappa and Mortar Board. She competed in basketball, field hockey and tennis and captained both the basketball and field hockey squads her senior year. She went on to earn her master's degree from the University of North Carolina Greensboro in 1978. In 1993, she was selected as a member of the first class of women inducted to the Ohio State University Athletic Hall of Fame.

As he enters his 11th season with the College, his knowledge, work ethic and enthusiasm will continue to lead the program towards a bright future.

Under his tutelage, the Tribe continues to improve, with the team reaching the finals of the CAA Championship in four of the past five seasons. In 2003, three singles players and two doubles teams received all-league honors, led by first team picks Jeff Kader in singles and Sean Kelleher and Stephen Ward in doubles. In 2001, the Tribe doubles team of Patrick Brown and Trevor Spracklin advanced to the second round of the NCAA Individual Tournament, the first for a W&M duo under the current NCAA structure. In 1999, when Daub won his first CAA Coach of the Year award, he also led the team to its eighth NCAA Tournament appearance.

Each season, Daub organizes a very competitive schedule to give his team the opportunity to compete against some of the finest players in the country.

Prior to his arrival at W&M, Daub spent two years as the assistant coach at the University of Georgia, where he helped the Bulldogs achieve No.

Daub's Expertise — "Wild and Crazy Doubles"

As successful as the entire William and Mary program has been under Coach Daub, the quality of doubles has been highly productive on the pro and college level. If Coach Daub has a specialty within his coaching skills, it is in the area of doubles, where he has coached players to the round of 16 at Wimbledon twice. He has also coached the United States doubles team to a gold medal at the World Games in Japan.

In the 2001 spring season he led the team in capturing an incredible 20 of 25 doubles points in team competition. Also that year the 26th-ranked team of Patrick Brown and Trevor Spracklin combined for an impressive 17-3 record at No. 1 doubles and defeated Texas in the first round of the NCAAs. Daub's slogan of "Wild and Crazy Doubles" revolves around constant movement and motion in a very aggressive, structured atmosphere.

Daub has also coached professionally at the Australian Open, Wimbledon and the U.S. Open.

A graduate of Findlay College, Daub received his master's degree in education (sports administration) at Temple University. From 1985 to 1989, Daub coached both the men's and women's teams at Temple. His players on the combined teams won the "Highest Student-Athlete GPA Award" for averaging over a 3.0 GPA for eight semesters.

Daub has been the featured speaker at various national clinics, seminars and college showcases, including the USTA and USPTA national conventions and the ITA Coaches Convention. At the 1997 and 2000 U.S. Opens, Daub gave two clinics at the USTA Tennis Teachers Conference. He also has served as the coach of the Mid-Atlantic section at the Junior Davis Cup. A former coach and captain of varsity tennis at Findlay, Daub competed internationally on various professional circuits, winning titles in Australia and New Zealand.

Daub lives in Williamsburg with his wife Ruth, a former touring professional, who in 2001 won the Virginia state 45 and over singles championship. The couple have a daughter Kate, and son Doug, who won the 2000 high school state doubles title.

2003-04 Outlook

After a solid 2003 season which saw the William and Mary men's tennis team end the year in the Colonial Athletic Association final with a record of 16-9 and ranked as high as 34th in the nation, head coach Peter Daub, now in his 11th season with the Tribe, believes that this will be the year the team has all the pieces necessary to truly break out onto the national scene.

"This year is about making the parts fit," explains Daub. "The coaches, the players and their roles—both leaders and followers, great work ethic, compassion for each other and a love of the game. They're all dangling out there, and if we can bring them together and make them fit we'll be a very strong team."

A key piece of the puzzle will be the guidance of the Tribe's two seniors, Geoff Russell and Kal Patrick. Russell, a five-time all-conference honoree after earning second team accolades last season in both singles and doubles, joins Patrick as the Tribe's emotional leaders throughout every match. This foundation of team chemistry will be crucial in bringing the Green and Gold to national prominence.

"Our two seniors, Geoff and Kal will be called on to bring leadership and experience to the whole team, especially the freshmen," says Daub. "Along with their gung-ho attitude on the court and ability to generate enthusiasm among their teammates, they will play an invaluable role in our success."

A productive unit since their first collegiate match, the three-player junior class will again be heavily relied on in the Tribe's quest for greatness. Last season the group won a combined 118 matches and totaled four all-conference honors. This year even more is expected if the team is to reach its goal of a trip to the final site of the NCAA Tournament.

Junior Alex Fish is a fiery competitor who led the Tribe with 27 doubles victories last year. Classmate Jeff Kader was a first team all-league pick in singles while playing at the top of W&M's lineup and he also strengthened the bottom of the doubles game with a team-best 18-5 dual match record. Another junior, team captain Sean Kelleher, earned first team All-CAA honors in doubles and was a second team selection in singles. He and Kader split the top two singles positions for the College in 2003 and are likely candidates to be at the top of the lineup again this season.

"The junior class brings experience and they all worked very hard over the summer to bring their game to another level," says Daub. "Their role in leading by example, especially with the newcomers, is instrumental."

The only sophomore on the team, Stephen Ward, quickly adjusted to the college game last year. He earned first team All-CAA honors while playing at No. 1 doubles with Kelleher, and also led the team as a rookie with 23 singles wins. Even more will be expected from him this year, as he now has the benefit of a year of competitive experience.

"Stephen was a nice surprise last year and was a great doubles player. Now is the time for him to become even more dominant in his singles game," states Daub.

The wild card for the team this year will be the play of the Tribe's three rookies: Ryan Buchanan, Steven Kane and Colin O'Brien. All begin their careers with impressive high school and prep credentials, and time will tell if their accomplishments will translate to the college game. Their ability to quickly step up their level of play and contribute immediately will be a large part of the team's final picture.

"We have some very strong freshmen, but they must be shown the way," says Daub. "They must be able to fit into the W&M tradition of great work ethic and a commitment to the rest of the team."

Daub's expertise is in the area of doubles play and he believes that it will be an even stronger part of the team this year, amazing considering that the Tribe won 19 of 25 team doubles points last season.

"We've had great doubles over the years,"

Jeff Kader was a first team All-CAA pick last season.

Daub says. "But we can do better than that this year. We have three exceptionally strong doubles teams."

W&M will certainly be tested often in the spring of 2004, as Daub has put together a nationally challenging schedule. The Tribe begins the year on the West Coast with an individual tournament and a dual match in Hawaii, followed by matches at San Diego State and Boise State. After competing at another individual tournament at South Carolina, the Tribe will conclude a brutal regular season schedule that includes 12 of its 18 regular season matches against top-75 teams, along with the prestigious Blue-Gray Classic in March.

"Our schedule is definitely one of the strongest in the nation, but that has to be our challenge," says Daub. "Our experience in Hawaii will give us a great time for the team to bond together, while also facing players from two top-30 teams. With all the other national powerhouses on the schedule we will continually be tested with the elite of college tennis. That's a good position to be in and it puts our players into a situation where they've got to be ready to play every day.

"We have great talent, probably the most talented team on paper since I've come to W&M. But talent means nothing without chemistry and an attitude that requires everyone to put the team before himself," explains Daub. "If we can accomplish this, we will definitely have three of the better doubles teams in the country and we should also have a strong singles lineup from top to bottom.

"The pieces of the puzzle have all been gathered," concludes Daub. "Now it is up to me and the team to make them all fit in place."

Tribe Men's Tennis History

1947 and 1948 Men's Tennis National Champions

The College of William and Mary's 1946-47 men's tennis team posted the finest record in Tribe history when it claimed the team title at the National Intercollegiate Tournament in Los Angeles, in June of 1947.

The 1947 men's tennis team was the first team in W&M history to win an NCAA Championship.

The netters, coached by Dr. Sharvy G. Umbeck, tallied 10 points to clinch first-place honors. Leading the way for the Tribe was Gardner Larned, who won the national singles title that same year by defeating Vic Seixas of North Carolina 6-3, 9-11, 4-6, 6-3, 6-1. Other members of the 1947 team included Tut Bartzen, Fred Kov-aleski, Bob Doll, Bren Macken, Howe Atwater, Lyman Chennault, Dick Randell, Jim Macken, George Fricke, Bill Ozenberger and Bob Galloway.

In 1948, Kovelski and team captain Bartzen, returning as the nation's fourth- and fifth-ranked players, guided the Tribe to its second-straight national team title. In addition, the duo captured the national doubles championship, a feat that has yet to be repeated in William and Mary men's tennis history.

William and Mary's men's tennis team won its second consecutive national championship in 1948.

Tribe Mourns the Passing of Long-Time Supporter Gardner Larned

"It is with great sadness that we learned of the passing of 'Gardy' Larned. He was a cornerstone of the support for our program. Arguably the best tennis player that played on our national championship teams, he is the College's only singles national champion in men's tennis.

"The team and myself pass our condolences on to the Larned family, his teammates and his friends in hopes of relaying a sincere and special thanks for the commitment that he made to our program. One of the main reasons our program has grown to the level that it has is because of the vision and passion Gardy had for William and Mary tennis."

—Tribe Head Coach Peter Daub

A member of W&M's 1947 national championship team, Gardner Larned won the NCAA singles title that year as well.

Men's Tennis Thanks Long-Time Supporter Millie West

Millie West is the cornerstone of the men's tennis program. Her contribution, enthusiasm and fund raising efforts have allowed the men to have a vision toward excellence and national recognition.

Ms. West has continually made it possible for each male tennis player to follow his dream and enjoy his college experience to the fullest.

All past, present and future players from William and Mary men's tennis owe a great debt to Millie West for her tremendous effort and dedication. Our team also congratulates Millie West's induction into the William and Mary Hall of Fame—an honor she is most worthy of.

Student-Athlete Support

Goals

We take pride in the many achievements of William and Mary athletes, both in the classroom and on the playing field. These support services and many others are in place to help each student-athlete achieve their goals. It is our hope that at the completion of their undergraduate career they can reflect upon:

1. An academic experience that prepared them for a successful career.
2. An athletic challenge that brought many rewards.
3. A feeling of loyalty and pride in identifying themselves as a varsity athlete with a degree from The College of William and Mary.

Compliance and Academic Support

As members of the Colonial Athletic Association and NCAA Division I, the College is committed to full compliance with all NCAA and conference regulations. The department has a fulltime Director of Compliance committed to assisting students, staff and coaches through education and monitoring of compliance issues.

All entering students are assigned to a faculty academic advisor assigned by the director of Academic Advising. Students remain with this advisor until their sophomore year at which time they select a faculty advisor in their chosen major.

Within the athletic department, the Academic Support Coordinator is a valuable resource for student-athletes serving in a liaison role with the various student service offices throughout the campus community. The College has offices for Volunteer Services, Career Services, a Writing Resource Center and Oral Communication Studio, to name a few.

The department offers a variety of study, life and career building skills programs, but holds firm to the concept of self-determination—each student must take responsibility for his or her collegiate experience. Our goal is to assure that there is a support system in place to assist students to make positive and informed decisions.

Strength, Speed and Conditioning

Tribe athletics is very proud of the Joseph W. Montgomery Strength Training Center, a 5,000 square foot weight training facility. Under the guidance of the Head and Assistant Strength Coach each sport is provided with a program designed to enhance individual strength and flexibility development specific to the skills and movements required for their sport. Individuals are educated on proper lifting techniques and workouts are monitored to assure safety at all times.

Sports Psychology

The athletic department has on staff a sports psychologist, who holds a Ph.D. in sports psychology. All consultations are confidential and all student-athletes, teams or coaches are welcome regardless of the issues they wish to discuss. Consultation is available for sport psychology education, performance enhancement skills training, strategies for dealing with stress or injury, or for personal issues that may affect performance. The sports psychology consultant is considered a member of the Counseling Center and refers individuals to the Center when appropriate.

Sports Medicine

The Division of Sports Medicine provides a comprehensive health care program for the department of intercollegiate athletics. The staff consists of a team physician, seven full time certified athletic trainers, two graduate assistant athletic trainers and medical specialists from the local community. The team physician has overall responsibility for supervision of the sports medicine program. Tribe athletes have the luxury of rehabilitating and treating injuries in a state-of-the-art athletic training facility.

The priority for the athletic training staff is to enhance and assure lines of communication and cooperation among its staff, student-athletes, parents, coaches, the Student Health Center and involved medical specialists. Through a team approach to health care the sports medicine program can offer comprehensive health care services to the student-athletes in a caring and cooperative manner.

Tribute to Mark McCormack

William and Mary Reflects on the Life of Mark McCormack

“Mark McCormack was truly an honored son of the College. Few individuals in the course of their lifetime have the chance to see and feel and know the influence they have had on the quality and character of an institution. Mark’s influence on William and Mary can be seen not only in the physical buildings he made possible by his generosity, but in the highest level of excellence he expected from his alma mater and from those of us fortunate enough to call him a friend.”

—W&M President Timothy J. Sullivan

“Obviously his loss is enormous, to both the athletics department and the general campus community. He was an icon and a founder of an industry and his generosity touched many within the W&M community. What made Mark even more special was, despite his hectic schedule, he always found the time to show a special interest in the lives of our student-athletes and took the time to establish lasting personal relationships.”

—W&M Director of Athletics Terry Driscoll

“There is no way that I can adequately express the loss of a person like Mark McCormack. He was a devoted contributor of time, resources and talent to the College of William and Mary, and especially the men’s and women’s tennis programs.

—W&M Director of Special Projects Millie West

William and Mary lost a favorite son on May 16, 2003, with the death of Mark Hume McCormack a 1951 graduate of the College. McCormack had been in coma since January after suffering a heart attack. Named by ESPN as one of the century’s most influential people in the business of sport, he revolutionized the world of sports marketing with the founding of International Management Group (IMG).

“Personally, the area that impressed me most about Mark McCormack was that he always wanted to blend in and not stand out. He came to the tennis center he built for our program and would just want to watch, he wasn’t out to call attention to himself or make himself look impressive. Professionally, he was the W&M men’s tennis program. He donated the money and vision to build the best tennis center in the nation, but he also gave the program much more in terms of his time and interest in its progress and success.”

—W&M Head Men’s Tennis Coach Peter Daub

A devoted and dedicated supporter of Tribe athletics, he and his wife, Betsy Nagelsen founded W&M’s McCormack-Nagelsen Tennis Center, endowed a tennis scholarship and were continuing sponsors of the ITA Women’s Tennis Hall of Fame. Also a member of W&M’s Board of Visitors, McCormack chaired the College’s fund-raising campaign in 1993 that raised $153 million and was the honorary chair of the College’s current $500 million campaign.

“There are not enough words to describe what Mark McCormack has done for me and the W&M women’s tennis program. His generosity and support played a direct role in all of our team’s successes. One of the many traits that I truly admired was his ability to treat everyone with respect and make them feel special and appreciated.”

—Former W&M Head Women’s Tennis Coach Brian Kalbas
