

2009 TRIBE FOOTBALL FIRST CLASS

The William and Mary Football Program is proud to offer its student-athletes a first-class experience. Operating out of the state-of-the-art, 30,000-square foot Jimmie Laycock Football Center, its facilities are on par with any program in the FCS world. Led by Laycock, one of the most established and respected coaches in the nation, the program has produced 77 All-Americans, won three conference titles and earned seven NCAA Playoff appearances. Playing within the Colonial Athletic Association, its league is the premier conference in the nation. Located on one of the nation's most beautiful and historic campuses, William and Mary offers an internationally respected educational experience that annually ranks among the nation's elite schools. Simply put, for nearly 120 years, the College's football program has produced outstanding players on the field and exceptional people off it.

With 15 starters returning from a squad that turned in a 7-4 mark a season ago, expectations are high. The Tribe figures to be led by a contingent of returning all-conference performers, including 2008 All-American DE Adrian Tracy.

42

Coaching Staff

Tribe Head Coach Jimmie Laycock enters his 30th season on the W&M sidelines supported by a coaching staff that brings the squad more than a 100 years of combined Division I coaching experience.

58

The Tribe

DJ McAulay is one of six returning all-conference performers for the Tribe. He looks to finish his career inside the top 10 of most of the school's career receiving categories.

104

History

Mike Cook graduated after the 1998 season as one in a long line of great signal callers in W&M's history. He is one of three quarterbacks to have earned All-American honors under Laycock's tutelage.

HIGHLIGHTS | 2009 TRIBE FOOTBALL

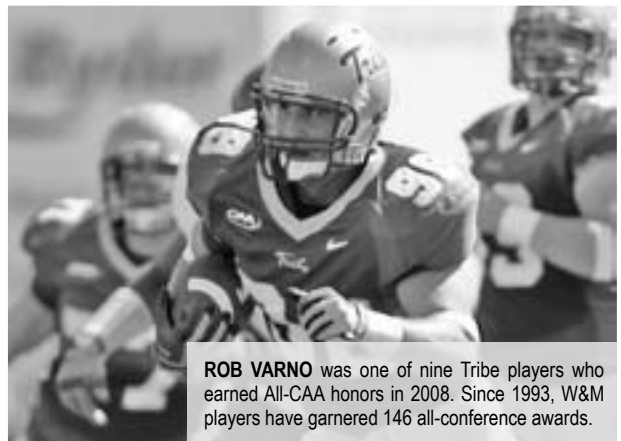

LANG CAMPBELL ('05)

LANG CAMPBELL ('05) is one of 33 players who has earned All-America honors under Head Coach Jimmie Laycock. As a senior in 2004, Campbell earned the Walter Payton Award, given to the nation's most outstanding offensive player in the FCS ranks.

CHUCK ALBERTSON ('67) [middle] was named the 1966 Southern Conference Athlete of the Year after helping the Tribe earn the league title.

ROB VARNO was one of nine Tribe players who earned All-CAA honors in 2008. Since 1993, W&M players have garnered 146 all-conference awards.

TRIBE

- Seven Conference Titles (Yankee/A-10/CAA, '04, '01, '96; Southern, '70, '66, '47, '42)

- Seven FCS Playoff Berths ('04, '01, '96, '93, '90, '89, '86)

- 146 all-conference awards since 1993

- 100% graduation rates in '04, '06 and '07

- 17 all-time Academic All-Americans and 59 academic all-conference selections since 1993

- 33 All-Americans under Head Coach Jimmie Laycock

- One Walter Payton Award winner (Lang Campbell, '04)

- 112-66 (.629) against FCS opponents since 1993

- Fourth-best winning percentage (.585) in conference history

- 195-113-6 (.631) all-time winning percentage at Zable Stadium

- 523 all-time victories, ranking in the top 30 among all FCS teams

- Seven undefeated regular seasons at Zable Stadium

- School records for final ranking (No. 3) and victories (11) in 2004

- Three former Tribe players currently on active NFL rosters

In addition to winning seven conference titles in the program's history, every class since 1996 had earned at least one conference championship ring entering the 2008 season.

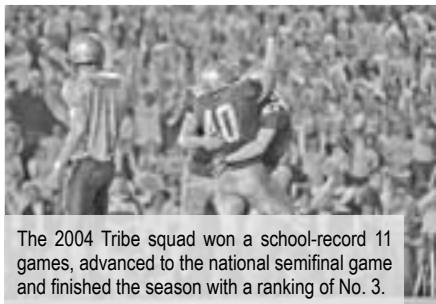

DEREK COX

DARREN SHARPER

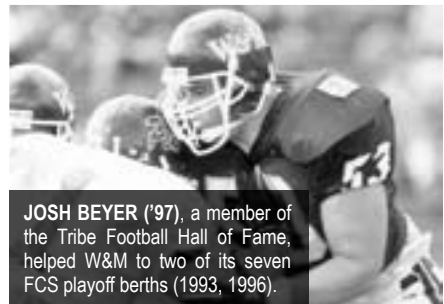

DEREK COX ('09) became the third Tribe player currently on an active NFL roster when the Jacksonville Jaguars selected him in the third round of the 2009 NFL Draft. He joins four-time All-Pro Darren Sharper ('97) (New Orleans Saints) and 10-year veteran Mike Leach ('00) (Arizona Cardinals).

MARK KELSO ('85), a two-time first-team academic All-American, is part of a proud Tribe tradition that includes 17 Academic All-America selections.

The 2004 Tribe squad won a school-record 11 games, advanced to the national semifinal game and finished the season with a ranking of No. 3.

JOSH BEYER ('97), a member of the Tribe Football Hall of Fame, helped W&M to two of its seven FCS playoff berths (1993, 1996).

FOOTBALL

A MESSAGE FROM HEAD COACH JIMMIE LAYCOCK

In a program that has more than 110 years of tradition, there is no more exciting time to be involved with William and Mary football than the present. Generations of Tribe players have benefited from receiving one of the world's best educations, while also excelling on the playing field. The successes of the coaches and players who have come before have made it possible for all future generations of William and Mary athletes to enjoy facilities that are now equal to the greatness of the program's tradition. In the last five years, the school's commitment to football has been unparalleled, as we have installed a new FieldTurf playing surface, a state-of-the-art scoreboard and, of course, the $11 million football center. These additions will allow Tribe players to maximize their development in a first-class environment using the most modern technology available.

There is no doubt that our great history has positioned the program for an even brighter future. As ever, we are looking for student-athletes who want the opportunity to be a part of a championship football program and value the educational experience that will pay dividends for a lifetime.

Go Tribe!

When one thinks of the College of William and Mary, the first thought might be of the history of the institution -- or perhaps its place in American history.

Or, possibly those who attended might think back to their good times, the unforgettable campus or their focus of study. But none of those things are what makes a place of learning great. Though the College has them all -- it is the quality of the graduate and the ability to excel in whichever field of work or study that he or she pursues.

For Tribe Football, the same principles apply, as many former football players have gone on to have successful careers in the business world, professional sports and a number of other areas.

Among the notables is Mike Tomlin ('95), who was named the head coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers on January 22, 2007 and has since led his team to a Super Bowl title. J.D. Gibbs ('92) is the team president of the Joe Gibbs Racing organization, while Tom Dexter ('92), a senior vice president at Merrill Lynch, is one of a number of former players to succeed in business.

It was Thomas Jefferson, Class of 1762, who said of education so eloquently: "Above all things I hope the education of the common people will be attended to, convinced that on their good sense we may rely with the most security for the preservation of a due degree of liberty."

This embodies exactly what his alma mater has been striving to do for more than 300 years of its proud history.

Understandably, William and Mary and Tribe Football have had more than its fair share of the best and brightest of America to claim as its own.

Pictured on these pages are a few of the program's finest alums who have gone on to make an impact in their chosen field.

"Being on campus you always felt like you were part of something bigger. The history and the prestige of William and Mary makes you proud to be a part of the school. The lessons learned in the classroom and out of it continue to be a part of my life to this day."

TROY KEEN ('96)
Vice President

"During my years as a student-athlete at William and Mary, the quality of my experience was often measured by grades and box stats. However, in my years since leaving the College, that same experience has been measured by certain intangibles such as integrity, accountability and commitment – a testament to the high expectations set by the College and the athletic program. While playing football there, you think in terms of wins and losses and it's not until after you've graduated do you realize that you're adequately prepared to face the successes and challenges that lay ahead. William and Mary provided me the opportunity and resources to establish a strong foundation in life and I still stand on it today."

STORIED HISTORY | 2009 TRIBE FOOTBALL

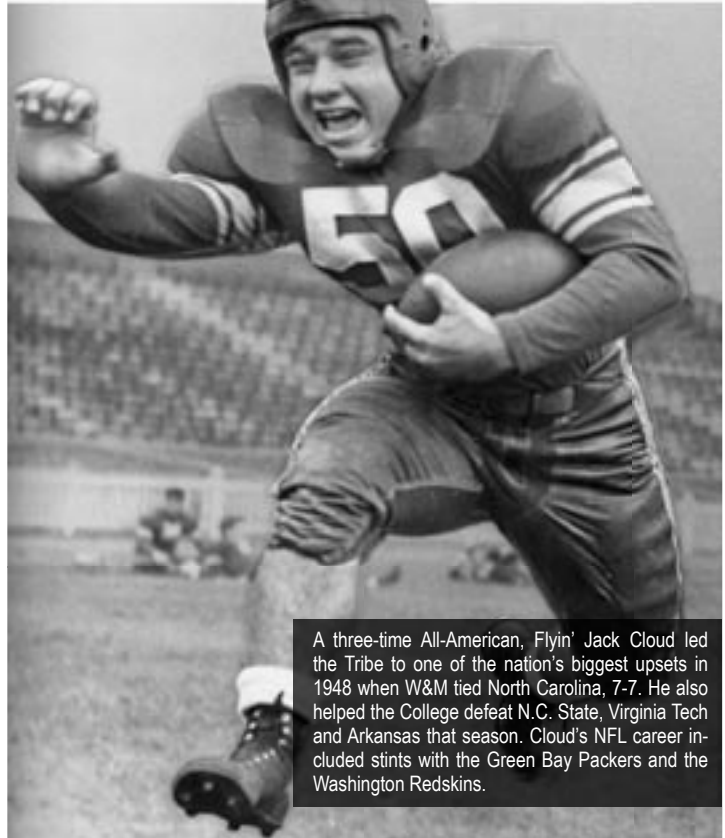

The 1942 squad posted a 9-1-1 record and concluded the season with a 14-7 victory at Oklahoma en route to W&M's second Southern Conference title.

Senior co-captains Lang Cambell and Wade Harrell led the Tribe to the national semifinal game in 2004. The College earned a school-record 11 wins that season and claimed the Atlantic 10 title.

"FLYIN" JACK CLOUD

THREE-TIME ALL-AMERICAN

A three-time All-American, Flyin' Jack Cloud led the Tribe to one of the nation's biggest upsets in 1948 when W&M tied North Carolina, 7-7. He also helped the College defeat N.C. State, Virginia Tech and Arkansas that season. Cloud's NFL career included stints with the Green Bay Packers and the Washington Redskins.

STORIED

The First Team

In the fall of 1893, Charles L. Hepburn brought together the first official football team at W&M, the College's first organized athletic team.

The 1893 team played three games, starting with the first contest in school history against a YMCA team from Norfolk.

From The Beginning

W&M is one of only 20 FCS schools to play 1,000, or more, games in college football history. Outside of the Ivy League schools, only 13 have played 1,000, or more.

W&M ranks inside the top 30 for all-time victories (522) and is one of four teams in the current CAA Football Conference with 500, or more.

Championships

In 1942, W&M won its first Southern Conference Championship. W&M would add Southern titles in 1947, 1966 and 1970.

After joining what is now the CAA Football Conference in 1993, W&M has won conference championships three times. The Tribe captured league titles in 1996, 2001 and 2004.

Bowl Games

W&M earned bowl bids in back-to-back years in 1947 and 1948, with the latter being a 20-0 win over Oklahoma State in the Delta Bowl.

W&M faced Arkansas in the 1947 Dixie Bowl and battled Toledo in the 1970 Tangerine Bowl.

Remember When?

Flyin' Jack Cloud led W&M to one of the nation's biggest upsets in 1948, a 7-7 tie against North Carolina, and wins over N.C. State, Virginia Tech and Arkansas.

W&M's 1967 victory over Navy ranks as one of the biggest upsets in college football history. When the NCAA celebrated the first 100 years of college football, it listed the 10 greatest upsets in history. One of them was William and Mary 27, Navy 16, Oct. 21, 1967.

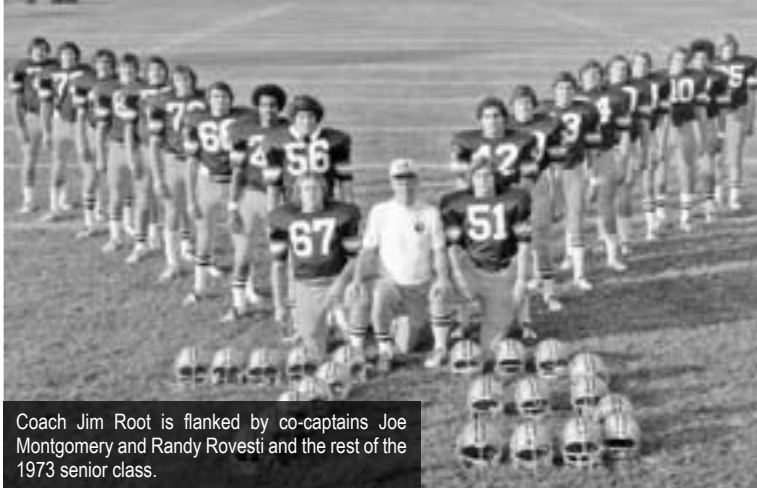

First Team All-American Michael "Pinball" Clemmons was drafted by the Kansas City Chiefs in 1987 and later played 12 seasons for the Toronto Argonauts before being inducted into the CFL Hall of Fame.

Storied Rivalries

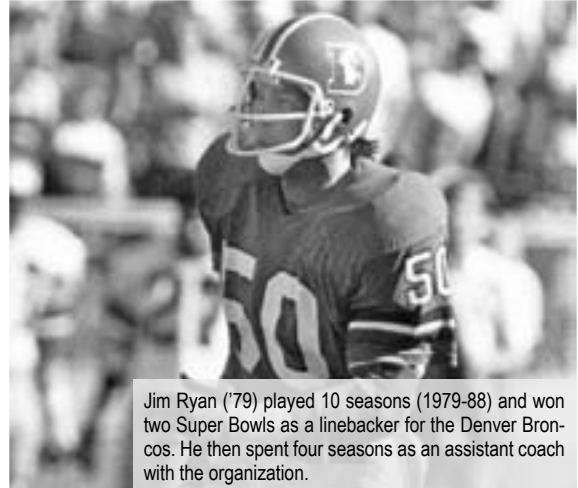

The W&M-Richmond rivalry is the fourth-most played series in FCS history, trailing only Lafayette-Lehigh (143), Yale-Princeton (130) and Yale-Harvard (124).

Additionally, the W&M-UR match-up is among longest uninterrupted running FCS rivalries in the nation.

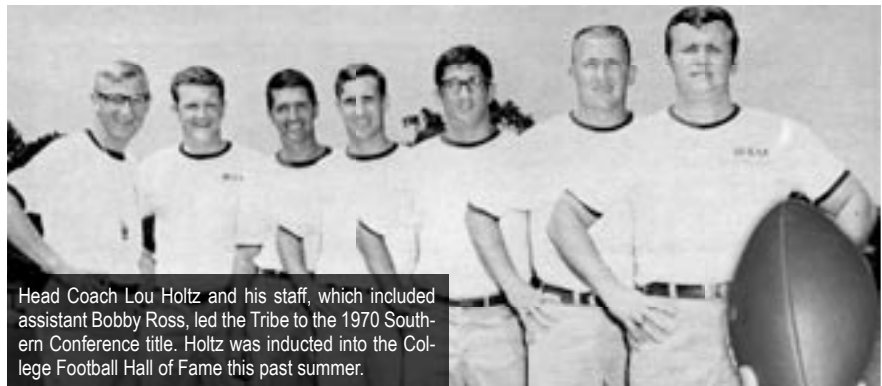

Coach Jim Root is flanked by co-captains Joe Montgomery and Randy Rovesti and the rest of the 1973 senior class.

Jim Ryan ('79) played 10 seasons (1979-88) and won two Super Bowls as a linebacker for the Denver Broncos. He then spent four seasons as an assistant coach with the organization.

A two-time All-American at W&M, Steve Christie had a successful NFL career.

Head Coach Lou Holtz and his staff, which included assistant Bobby Ross, led the Tribe to the 1970 Southern Conference title. Holtz was inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame this past summer.

HISTORY

Legendary Coaches

In 1964, current NFL Hall-of-Famer Marv Levy took over and later directed W&M to one of the school's biggest victories, the 27-16 win over Navy in 1967.

Lou Holtz succeeded Levy as head coach and guided W&M to a berth in the Tangerine Bowl in 1970. Bobby Ross was an assistant on Holtz's 1970 Southern Conference Championship team.

All-Americans

Beginning with Hap Halligan in 1930, Buster Ramsey in 1942 and Jack Cloud in 1946, and ranging to Rich Musinski in 2003 and Lang Campbell in 2004, W&M boasts a long and impressive list of All-Americans.

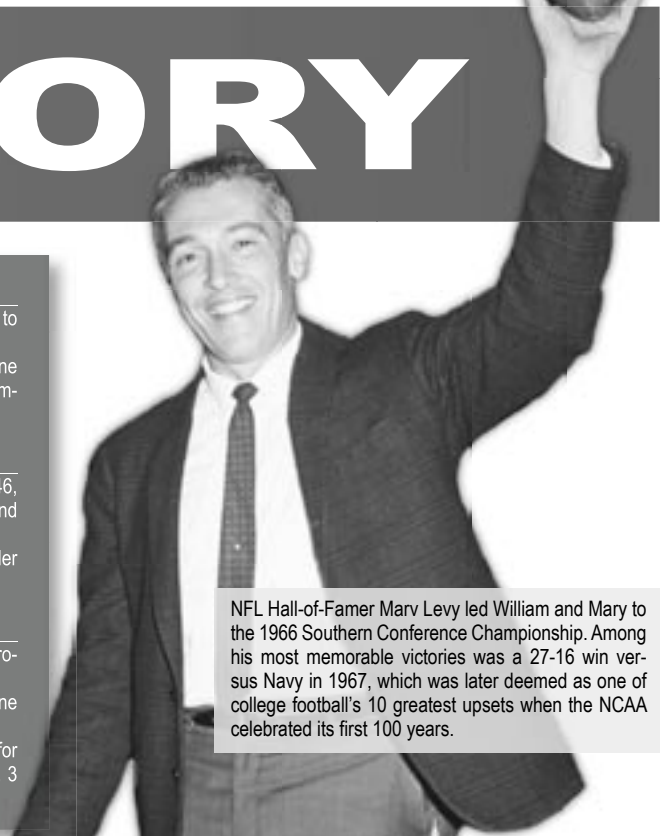

The program has produced more than 60 all-time All-Americans, including 33 under current head coach Jimmye Laycock.

Laycock Era

Laycock returned to his alma mater as head coach in 1980 and has guided the program through an unprecedented run of success that stretches to present day.

W&M has posted 19 winning seasons, made seven playoff appearances and nine postseason appearances in total, while rewriting nearly the entire football record book.

In 2004, the program reached new heights, advancing to the national semifinals for the first time, recording a school-record 11 wins and finishing with an all-time high No. 3 final ranking.

NFL Hall-of-Famer Marv Levy led William and Mary to the 1966 Southern Conference Championship. Among his most memorable victories was a 27-16 win versus Navy in 1967, which was later deemed as one of college football's 10 greatest upsets when the NCAA celebrated its first 100 years.

FACILITY ENHANCEMENT | 2009 TRIBE FOOTBALL

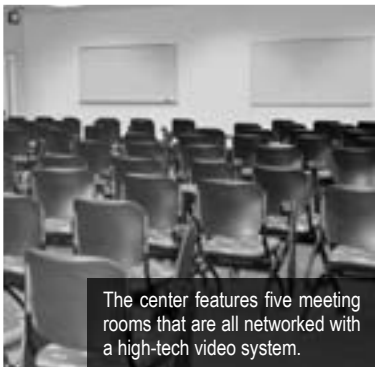

JIMMYE LAYCOCK FOOTBALL CENTER

The $11 million, 30,000-square foot Jimmie Laycock Football Center was dedicated in June of 2008 and provides a state-of-the-art facility for the program. The center features meeting rooms, coaches' offices, team and coaches' lockers, an athletic training room, equipment storage areas and administrative support areas.

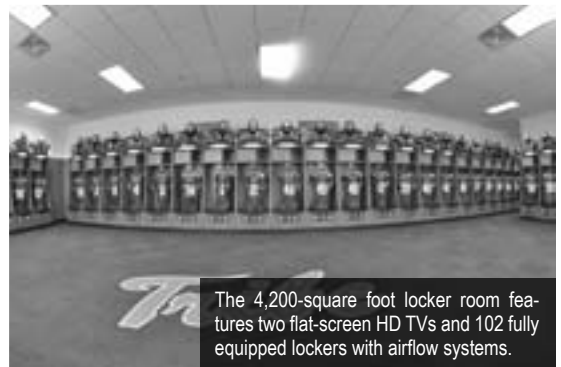

The center's foyer features a 1,650-square foot area that serves as a grand entrance with a circular stairwell to offices. The area also displays prominent moments from the program's proud history.

The center features five meeting rooms that are all networked with a high-tech video system.

The 900-square foot recruiting lounge features a flat-screen HD TV and has windows and a balcony overlooking Zable Stadium.

The 4,200-square foot locker room features two flat-screen HD TVs and 102 fully equipped lockers with airflow systems.

FACILITY

THE JIMMYE LAYCOCK FOOTBALL CENTER

The William and Mary Athletics Department has recently taken major steps in upgrading the football program's facilities. Primarily through the generosity of private donors, current and future Tribe football players will enjoy some of the finest modern day facilities and amenities in the nation.

Last June, W&M officially dedicated the $11 million, 30,000-square foot Jimmie Laycock Football Center, which is located at the northwest corner of Zable Stadium. Funded exclusively through private gifts, the facility provides a new home for meeting rooms, coaches' offices, team and coaches' lockers, an athletic training room, equipment storage areas and administrative support areas.

As part of the Laycock Center project, the Joseph Montgomery Practice Complex was also redone with natural grass Bermuda sod.

The construction of the Laycock Center is just the most recent addition to what has been an incredible transformation of Tribe football facilities. Prior to the 2007 season, W&M added a state-of-the-art scoreboard with video replay capabilities. The scoreboard is located in the same area as the previous scoreboard and is supported by brick columns that compliment the campus surroundings.

In 2006, FieldTurf Pro, a new top-of-the-line artificial playing surface that is featured in more than 20 NFL stadiums, was installed. During the previous season, a state-of-the-art lighting system was added to accommodate night games.

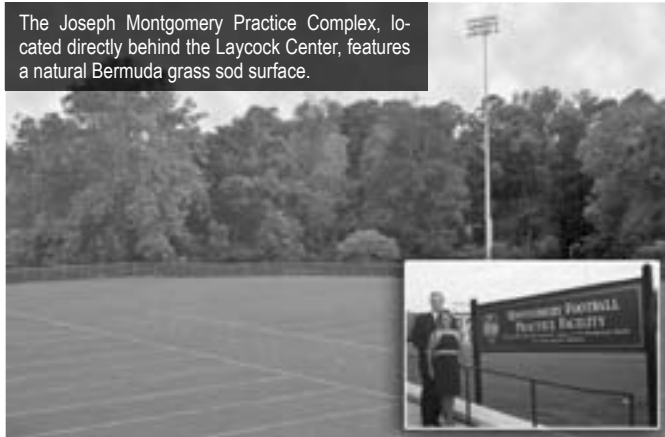

"The center is definitely a tribute to coach Laycock. He's the creator, motivator and architect of what William and Mary football is today. He's the man who put the program on the national map ... Coach Laycock has done the one thing that is so hard in football and that's to consistently compete at a high level and put a winner on the field by doing things the right way."

Darren Sharper ('97)
New Orleans Saints
Four-Time NFL Pro Bowl Selection

A video scoreboard was added to Zable Stadium prior to the 2007 season. The state-of-the-art scoreboard features video replay capabilities and is supported with brick columns.

The Joseph Montgomery Practice Complex, located directly behind the Laycock Center, features a natural Bermuda grass sod surface.

A top-of-the-line permanent lighting system was installed at Zable Stadium in 2005.

An artificial surface, FieldTurf Pro, replaced the natural grass surface of Cary Field in the summer of 2006. FieldTurf Pro is the same surface featured in more than 20 NFL Stadiums.

THROUGH THE YEARS

1906-07

The first Cary Field is built, near the current location of Blow Memorial Hall.

LATE 1920s

Cary Field is moved farther west on campus, approximately to the current site of the Bryan residence complex.

SEPTEMBER 21, 1935

The "New" Cary Field opens at the stadium's current location with a wooden baseball-style bleacher capacity of 10,000. Although the stadium is not fully constructed, W&M and Virginia battle to a scoreless tie. Later that season, W&M records its first victory in the stadium, a 44-0 decision over Guilford.

NOVEMBER 5, 1949

An estimated crowd of more than 19,000 packs the Cary Field Stadium to witness North Carolina earn a hard-fought, 20-14, victory over W&M. It was the College's only loss at Cary Field that season.

THROUGH THE YEARS

DECEMBER 10, 2004

The College hosts state-rival James Madison in the NCAA Semifinals in the first night game at Zable Stadium. Temporary lighting was brought in to accommodate a national Friday-night broadcast of the sold out contest on ESPN2.

JUNE 17, 2005

The W&M Athletics Department announces it received $650,000 in anonymous gifts for the installation of permanent lights at Zable Stadium. The lights are installed later in the summer and debut on Nov. 5, when the Tribe hosts James Madison in the first regular season night game at Zable Stadium.

SUMMER 2006

The College completes an $840,000 project to replace Cary Field's natural grass playing surface with a top-of-the-line artificial surface, FieldTurf Pro, which is used in more than 20 NFL stadiums.

JUNE 25, 2007

W&M announces a state-of-the-art scoreboard with video replay capabilities will be installed in time for the 2007 season. The scoreboard, financed through private donations at a cost of approximately $800,000, is 53'-3" wide x 27'-5" high. Located in the same area as the old scoreboard, it is supported by brick columns that compliment the campus surroundings.

JUNE 21, 2008

W&M officially dedicates the Jimmie Laycock Football Center, located at the northwest corner of the stadium. The $11 million, 30,000-square foot structure provides a state-of-the-art home for meeting rooms, coaches' offices, team and coaches' lockers, an athletic training room, equipment storage areas and administrative support areas.

SPORTS

LINKENAUER ATHLETIC TRAINING SUITE

William and Mary's sports medicine department enhanced its facilities recently with the addition of the Mont M. Linkenauger PT, ATC, Athletic Training Suite, which is located in the lower level of the Jimmie Laycock Football Center.

The Linkenauger Athletic Training Suite, which supplements the department's primary facilities in W&M Hall, is a state-of-the-art facility that encompasses approximately 3,900 square feet.

Associate A.D. of Internal Affairs Steve Cole and Head Football Athletic Trainer Andy Carter worked closely with the architects to design the facility, which is unrivaled in the CAA Football Conference and includes features that can benefit all Tribe student-athletes.

One of the highlights of the new facility is a HydroWorx aquatic therapy pool, the same system used by renowned orthopedic surgeon Dr. James Andrews, the University of Texas, Navy Seals, Pittsburgh Steelers, San Antonio Spurs and Manchester United.

The Linkenauger Athletic Training Suite is another piece of the overall facilities enhancement, which continues to bring the Tribe's facilities to an elite level.

"The Linkenauger Athletic Training Suite will allow the Sports Medicine Department to keep pace with the cutting edge practices and treatments of athletic health care and rehabilitation," Cole said.

MEDICINE

SPORTS MEDICINE EDUCATION

Throughout the year the College hosts a wide range of sports medicine programs that draws participants from across the nation:

- The ACES Preparatory Workshop is designed to prepare students to take the Board of Certification (BOC) exam to become certified athletic trainers. Hosted at institutions across the country, the ACES Workshop identifies participants' strengths and weaknesses and focuses their study into their weaker content areas.
- The Cramer Sports Medicine Workshop at William and Mary offers high school students a four-day introduction to the field of sports medicine. Classroom instruction on emergency procedures, injury recognition, and basic rehabilitation is mixed with hands-on lab activities including taping and wrapping and CPR.
- The Division of Sports Medicine serves as the sports medicine rotation site for the Riverside Family Medicine Residency Program. Second and third-year residents come to William and Mary to work with our staff and enhance their skills in orthopedic examination, sports injury management and physical therapy referral.
- William and Mary is a clinical site for the Old Dominion University Post Professional Graduate Athletic Training Education Program. Two students from Old Dominion complete their two-year clinical assignments as graduate assistants under the direction of our staff.

BRUCE WILLIAMS FOOTBALL LOCKER ROOM

EQUIPMENT

BRUCE WILLIAMS FOOTBALL LOCKER ROOM

The Tribe's state-of-the-art locker room in the Jimmie Laycock Football Center encompasses approximately 4,200 square feet with 102 lockers and two flat-screen HD TVs.

The concept and design of the GearBoss line of lockers were the product of collaboration between the W&M staff and the Wenger Corporation. The result delivered one of the most unique team room lockers in the country.

The units are constructed of antimicrobial laminates and surfaces that improves room sanitation. The lockers also feature an airflow system for the functional drying of helmets and shoulder pads, as well as shoes and gloves. For security, the lockers feature a push-button locking mechanism with personal unlocking number codes. Each locker also features a power outlet for charging personal computers and communication devices. At the top of each locker, a backlit nameplate identifies each player's personal unit.

The lockers are completely modular for easy adaptation and a continued new look and feature bolt-through construction for commercial-grade durability.
