Teacher and Head Girl's Basketball Coach, Peter's Township HS Pittsburgh, Pa.

In honor of the Colonial Athletic Association's 25 years of athletic excellence, panels of current and former coaches and administrators have named 25-member Silver Anniversary teams in each of the CAA's 23 championship sports.

William and Mary forward Kyra Kaylor was one of those named to the women's basketball anniversary team, after ranking as one of just three conference athletes to ever amass more than 1,800 points and 1,000 rebounds in her career.

Kaylor was a three-time All-CAA first-team honoree, beginning in 2005-06 when she won the Player of the Year award as a sophomore. That season, Kaylor was also named the State Player of the Year by the Virginia Sports Information Directors. As a senior in 2007-08, Kaylor became the first W&M winner of the prestigious Dean Ehlers Leadership Award.

"Playing basketball at W&M turned out to be incredible preparation for leading people through the challenges and excitement of making a company successful. Some of the lessons learned - working effectively with others with the same goal but different means of getting there, not letting the recent missed "shot" or bad decision hurt your ability to focus on the task at hand, enjoy the moment, give 100 percent and you will have few regrets - are ones that come to mind almost every day of my life."

"My decision to attend William and Mary is without a doubt the best decision I have made in my life to date. The quality of the people that I was exposed to both on and off the court was like no other. My William and Mary experience not only helped prepare me for life and the workplace, it also provided me with an opportunity to form relationships that will last forever. I am always extremely proud to say that I am part of the W&M family."

"It's still one of my most proudest moments when I see the reaction of a professional colleague when they learn I am an alumni from the College of William and Mary. My experiences both on and off the court prepared me for the many occupational challenges I face today. What I learned from being part of a "team" at college is the reason for my successes as a leader for NCIS. I am thankful to have had the opportunity to be a part of such a wonderful program and school. It was, without a doubt, the BEST decision I ever made."

"I can't begin to express my gratitude toward the coaches, the College itself and the support staff at William and Mary. As soon as I stepped foot onto campus, I knew that it was an extraordinary place. I was able to pursue not only an education that is nationally renowned, but also a myriad of culturally and intellectually stimulating events outside the classroom. My experiences on the women's basketball team at W&M have forever changed my life. I left W&M not simply as a degree holder, but as a better person because of the guidance I was given by my coaches and support staff. They taught me the importance of leadership, teamwork, family and perseverance. The young ladies I was honored to have played with throughout my tenure were exceptional, and we will remain friends because of bonds made and trials overcome during our time together."

"Perseverance and loyalty. For me, those are undoubtedly the two most vital qualities that I attained as both a Tribe women's basketball player and assistant coach. Everything that I have accomplished thus far has been a result of my ability to push through adversity and see the bigger picture. I also have had a great support network of fellow teammates and coaches who helped to motivate and encourage me. the title of Assistant Athletic Director for Sports Medicine.

Honored as the 2007 National Trainers' Association Assistant Athletic Trainer of the Year, Cork was appointed to the Athletic Training Advisory Board under the Board of Medicine by Governor Warner in 2002. She is the only collegiate athletic trainer representative on the Advisory Board. Very involved in the athletic training committees at the state and regional levels, she was honored with the Sports Safety Training Award by the American Red Cross in 1999.

Cork is responsible for the CPR training for all members of the Tribe coaching staffs and also teaches a graduate course at Old Dominion.

A native of Elgin, Ill., Cork served as the head athletic trainer at Drew University prior to coming to W&M as an associate athletic trainer. She earned her undergraduate degree from Iowa State and a master's degree in physical education from Southwest Texas State.

The Division of Sports Medicine at the College of William and Mary is responsible for the health care of nearly 450 student-athletes in 23 intercollegiate sports at the country's second-oldest institution of higher learning. The athletic training program focuses on the prevention, evaluation, treatment and rehabilitation of athletic injuries for all intercollegiate student-athletes.

Tribe athletes have the luxury of rehabilitating and treating injuries in a state-of-the-art athletic training facility. There are eight full-time certified athletic trainers and two graduate assistants from Old Dominion University's post-graduate athletic training educational program on staff. In addition, a group of undergraduate students serve as athletic training aides and assist in the daily operation of the sports medicine program.

Renée Cork heads the William and Mary Sports Medicine staff and holds the title of Assistant Athletic Director for Health Services. Cork is in her 18th year at the College and in 2007 was honored as the National Trainers' Association Assistant Athletic Trainer of the Year.

Cork is joined on the sports medicine staff by a pair of veteran trainers in Senior Associate Athletic Trainer Andy Carter and Associate Athletic Trainer John Knaul. Carter joined the William and Mary staff in 2000 as an associate athletic trainer. A William and Mary alumnus and former Tribe student athletic trainer, he is in his sixth year as the head football athletic trainer, overseeing the sports medicine services for the team. He and his wife, Kristina, who is a physical therapist at Advanced Specialty Center of Williamsburg Physical Therapy, reside in Williamsburg.

Knaul, who earned his bachelor's degree of Alfred University and his master's at Elmira College, is in his 10th year at William and Mary. He and his wife, Katie, reside in Williamsburg.

Heisel, who resides in Williamsburg with her husband, Ian, holds a bachelor's degree from California University of Pennsylvania and a master's from Virginia.

Hollie Walusz begins her third year on the Tribe staff as an Assistant Athletic Trainer, after completing her undergraduate degree at Northern Iowa and her master's at UNC Chapel Hill. Tracey Eisen and Bryce Mueller return for their second seasons as Assistant Athletic Trainers. Eisen, who is originally from Silver Springs, Md., completed her undergraduate degree at Pittsburgh and her graduate work at George Washington. Mueller earned his bachelor's degree from Northern Iowa, while receiving his master's degree from West Virginia.

Also, the two graduate assistants from the post professional graduate athletic training program at ODU, Crystal Nelson and Shawn Lucci, enter their second years on staff. Nelson is a graduate of the University of Tampa, while Lucci completed her undergraduate degree at Pittsburgh.

Michael Potter is in his seventh year on the staff as the team physician. The team physician oversees the full-time athletic training staff and has overall responsibility for supervising the sports medicine program. A family practice/sports medicine specialist, Potter earned his medical degree from Texas A&M. He completed his residency at the Riverside Family Practice in Newport News and his sports medicine fellowship at Wake Forest University. # OUTLOOK

TRIBE PRIDE IS COMMITTING
YOURSELF 100% TO SOMETHING THAT IS BIGGER THAN JUST INDIVIDUAL ACHIEVEMENTS.

OBLINGER

There is a tremendous amount of excitement surrounding the Tribe women's basketball program this season. With two returning all-conference players, an abundance of seasoned veterans, and a highly touted freshman class, this year's team has all the makings of a championship contender.

Last year the Tribe learned tough lessons on adversity early in the season after losing its top two point guards and one of the team's most tenacious defenders to serious injuries. These circumstances allowed new faces to step into leadership roles and prove themselves as competitors. Rising from the challenges of last season has made this year's squad more experienced, more focused, and tougher than ever before. With added depth and experience, this team is hungry for the title.

Coach Debbie Taylor understands the benefit of facing obstacles and sees the transformation her team has undergone.

"Last season provided a tremendous foundation for this season," Taylor said. "Our young kids got better and our team matured. We were playing our best basketball at the end of the season. It's exciting this year to see what we're going to be able to do with all the experience we have returning, and all the lessons we learned."

The Tribe begins this season with a dynamic roster that features four of the squad's top six players from last campaign, and yet another crop of talented newcomers adding depth and size to the group. Leading the charge on the court will be two of the most exciting players to watch in the conference, including CAA Defensive Player of the Year Tiffany

Benson and Rookie of the Year finalist Taysha Pye. Benson has proven to be a force inside, averaging 11.5 boards and 2.7 blocks last season, and is only 27 blocks shy of becoming the CAA's all-time shot-blocker. Pye was the league's most dominant athlete over the final month of play, averaging 19.1 points per game in an 11-game stretch.

Joining the fierce inside-outside combination of Benson and Pye are nine talented returnees who have played significant minutes, along with three standout freshmen, including the Western Pennsylvania Player of the Year, the Washington D.C. Gatorade Player of the Year, and the New York State Foul Shooting Champion.

"A number of kids played substantial minutes last year, so we have more depth than we've ever had," said Taylor. "We have more players we can go to, players who are mature in their game and ready to step in and contribute right away."

GUARDS

With so many young players earning time last year, plus two point guards returning from injury rehab programs stronger and tougher than ever before, the backcourt boasts experience and a developed mental toughness that will enable it to outrun the competition and to push the up-tempo game for which the Tribe is known. Returning guards include three proven 20-point scorers and two of the most tenacious defenders in Tribe history.

All-Rookie selection Taysha Pye is one of the most gifted athletes in the league and caught fire over the final month of the season to score 20 points or more five times in the last eight games, including a career-high 30 against James Madison and 26 at Old Dominion. Able to play any position on the perimeter, she also has a powerful drive to the basket and was the Tribe's third-leading rebounder as a freshman. Pye has focused diligently in the off-season to take her game to new heights, and the Tribe will look for her leadership on the court this season.

"Taysha is just fun to watch," said Taylor. "She has such a strong, powerful body that makes her very hard to guard. She has a quick first step, can get to the rim with power, and can score one-on-one. We're especially excited about the hard work she put in over the summer developing her jump shot and perimeter game."

Also on the wing are two deadly shooters, senior Kelly Heath and sophomore Janine Aldridge, who can take over a game at a moment's notice. Heath's astonishing athletic ability has enabled her to put up high scores of 26, 22, and 19 points last season. She's exciting to watch because she can drive the lane, pull up inside the arc, and spot up along the full 180 degrees of the three-point arc. In 2008-09, Heath was second on the team with a .409 overall shooting percentage, and first in three-point success at .412.

"Kelly has the most experience of our returning guards," Taylor said. "If you ever watch her play, you'll see the light going in her eyes. Once that light goes on, she doesn't miss. She's incredibly skilled and a great scorer from everywhere on the court. This year should be her best yet with the Tribe."

Aldridge is cut from much the same cloth as Heath, and can light up the court at any given time. One of the best 3-point shooters in the league, she shot .400 from the floor while starting each of the Tribe's last 19 games as a freshman. Her talent was on display in the conference opener at Towson, where she shot 6-9 from behind the arc, finishing the game with 22 points, and was named the CAA Rookie of the Week. Aldridge's year also saw her break the College's freshman records for most three-pointers made (55) and attempted (155), and she ranked second in the conference with a .355 percentage.

"Janine learned a lot her freshman year about playing both sides of the ball. She's a money three-point shooter, and she has worked hard on other parts of her game. She's going to be someone that teams have to guard, which will create more opportunities for our posts, because everyone knows you can't leave her open."

Running the point for William and Mary will be classmates Katherine DeHenzel and Katy Oblinger; both returning from season-ending injuries and surgeries last year.

"These two athletes are true leaders both on and off the court," noted Taylor, "and the toughness both have demonstrated throughout the rehabilitation process is inspirational for everyone. Having their mental toughness and competitive drive running the point will prove invaluable this year."

DeHenzel grew into the starting point guard over the course of her freshman season in 2007-08, starting the final 18 games of the year. She averaged 2.4 assists and 2.3 steals per game that season, and was slated to run the offense last year before facing a season-ending injury last August. After a full year of rehab, lifting, and conditioning, the coaching staff expects DeHenzel to rebound stronger, faster, and hungrier than ever before.

"Katherine is a great passer and the toughest kid we have. She is really fired up to get back on the court. She is the mental toughness of the team."

Oblinger, who stepped into the point last year as a sophomore and started the first 24 games before suffering her own season-ending injury, averaged 3.7 assists per game including 10 against Norfolk State, one of the top-four performances in the CAA all season. While a quick and sure point guard, Oblinger is also a skilled shooter that can bombard a defense from the wings.

"Katy grew a lot last year as a player and now has a strong grasp of our system. She does a really good job running the show with a great work ethic and passion for the game."

Providing depth through the guard position will be two of the team's toughest perimeter defenders in senior Robyn Barton and redshirt-junior Lindsey Moller. As one of the team's hardest workers, Barton will provide senior leadership for the Tribe. She is fiercely competitive and always pushes herself and her team.

"Robyn is very athletic and probably our hardest worker," said Taylor. "She's an explosive scorer and runs the floor like a gazelle. She has really grown into being a great teammate over the past three years."

Moller earned a spot in the starting rotation early last season with her ability to shut down her opponents. She plays with pure intensity and fires up the entire Tribe. She shot .375 in her eight games and averaged 3.4 points per game before facing a season-ending injury.

"Lindsey is one of our best athletes, and the best defender hands down. She brings energy and excitement to the game, is hard-nosed and tenacious, and her passion diffuses through the entire team. As a coach or a teammate, you love having that kind of player on the floor."

SWING

With William and Mary's versatile offense, there is great potential for three young Tribe players to make a significant impact at the swing position. Junior Aleia Gland, redshirt-freshman Chanel Murchison, and freshman Taylor Hilton are all multitalented players that can score from the post or perimeter, and will work in nicely with the Tribe system.

Gland saw very limited action last year as a redshirt-freshman, but showed promise with six rebounds, two steals, and an assist in six games. As a senior at David and Mary Thomson in Toronto, she was rated as one of the city's top five players and averaged 21 points per game in her career.

"Aleia can play inside and out," Taylor said. "She's a great explosive rebounder. She's powerful and physical inside, and she can also play the perimeter effectively."

Chanel Murchison will suit up for the first time after redshirting her freshman year in 2008-09. An all-state player in Virginia as a junior at Colonial Forge high school, she averaged close to a double-double for her career but missed her senior season with a knee injury. Murchison has performed very well in practices over the past year, and will prove to be a tough defender during games with the size of a forward and speed of a guard.

"Chanel is another player that's really passionate. She has a strong body, can do a little bit of everything, and is really smart on defense. She has a lot of versatility in her game, and can defend everywhere. She's also the life of the team with huge personality; she's just hysterical."

New to the team this year is freshman Taylor Hilton, the 2009 Gatorade Player of the Year in Washington, D.C. Hilton played for Sidwell Friends School, totaling more than 1,600 career points and averaging 23 points and 18 rebounds per game as a senior. She was a three-time all-conference performer, and twice was named All-Met by the Washington Post. The coaching staff expects Hilton to contribute on the court early in her playing career.

"Taylor plays both inside and out, but will probably play more on the perimeter this year," Taylor said. "She has a really good understanding of the game and is exceptionally strong for a freshman. Taylor will be able to play a variety of positions for us because she does so many things well. She's a very explosive rebounder, and she can finish under the basket."

POSTS

While the Tribe is loaded on the perimeter, this year the team will see greater depth and size in the post. Alongside all-conference performer Tiffany Benson, two freshmen and a sophomore have perhaps the greatest potential of any team in the CAA, and will look to step in right away and contribute.

Benson is the most complete defender in the Colonial Athletic Association, and enters her final campaign looking to lead W&M to the conference title. Already known as a strong defender after her first two years, in 2008-09 she proved an offensive power as well averaging 12 points per game and scoring 16 double-doubles, second-best in the conference. Her 22 10+ rebound games were the best in the CAA by a wide margin, as was her average of 11.5 boards per contest, nearly two full rebounds more than anyone else. Beyond simply scoring on offense, which she did regularly with a .478 shooting percentage, Benson was also absolutely dominant on the offensive glass with a school-record 170 offensive rebounds, 57 more than the next player in the league.

"I'm really excited about Tiff's maturity as a player this year and her desire to want to step up and lead," commented Taylor. "I think making second-team all-conference and becoming Defensive Player of the Year shows the work that she has put into her game. She has worked hard on developing other areas of her game, and I look for her to be one of the premier players in the league this year."

Sophomore Courtney Flynn progressed very well last year as the season went along, appearing in 10 of the final 12 games including both CAA Tournament contests. Playing with tremendous energy, she pulled down 21 rebounds and hit 9-13 from the free throw line in 16 total appearances. In 2009-10 she will look to become a more regular part of the rotation, and draw some of the defense off Benson.

"Courtney will give us some depth in the post. She's gotten stronger and better over the summer, so she'll definitely help us inside."

Also playing in the post this season will be two highly-recruited freshmen, both standing 6-3 and ranking as top-10 recruits in the history of Tribe basketball. Emily Correal was a two-time All-State forward for Peter's Township in Pennsylvania, and was named Player of the Year in the WPIAL last winter. Rated by ESPN as the 12th-best forward (68th-best overall player) in the class of 2013, Correal earned honorable-mention All-American honors as a junior from The Sporting News, and totaled more than 1,800 points and 1,200 rebounds in her career with 85 double-doubles.

"Emily can shoot the three, and has a beautiful, finesse game," said Taylor. "She's going to really give us depth in the post, but she can step out and shoot and handle the ball. She's a real versatile forward and will fit perfectly in our system."

Jaclyn McKenna is the first true center in the Tribe line-up in the past three years, and was a three-time all-state player for Elwood-John Glenn High in New York. A tremendous athlete, scoring over 1,400 career points and also earning four All-State honors in volleyball, McKenna was also noted for her leadership on the court. She led her basketball team to four consecutive league titles, and was a key player on two state title-winning volleyball teams. As a junior, she averaged 16 points and more than 10 rebounds per game, and also was the New York State Foul-Shooting Champion, averaging 91% from the line during her career.

"Jaclyn is a true center who is really good under the basket, but she also has a beautiful outside shot. She's going to give us some depth that we really need at the center position."

The Tribe enters this season with more experience, depth, and talent than ever before. The chemistry is right, the work ethic solid, and the talent in line. Everyone, from senior to freshman, is hungry for the title. With the hard-earned lessons of a year ago, this team figures to position the College for an unprecedented run of success this winter.

BRIGHT · RUDY · INGERSOLL
BARBER · TAYLOR · REWALT

DEBBIE TAYLOR has proven to be one of the best developers of young talent in the Colonial Athletic Association, and looks to further that reputation in her 11th year at the helm of the Tribe with another highly regarded recruiting class. The winningest basketball coach in school history for both men and women, Taylor continues to guide the program to new heights, recently graduating the winningest class in program history.

Under her direction, W&M has produced outstanding scholar-athletes both on the court and in the classroom who have continued to shatter the Tribe record books and make their mark in the highly competitive CAA. Taylor's athletes have won 27 total All-CAA awards, including nine all-rookie selections, five all-academic honors, and the 2007-08 Dean Ehlers Leadership Award.

2008-09 saw two Tribe players join the conference elite as junior Tiffany Benson became the second W&M player to be named CAA Defensive Player of the Year while standout freshmen Taysha Pye was honored as a CAA all-rookie team selection. In addition, senior Dani Kell earned first-team all-academie honors from the CAA, and alongside classmate Courtney Portell, graduated having led W&M to the most wins ever in a four-year period.

Under the tutelage of Taylor and her staff, Tiffany Benson evolved over the course of the past two years from merely a gifted defensive player into a dominant threat on both ends of the floor. Benson has led the conference in offensive rebounds each of the past two years, and held a +2 margin in total rebounding over all other players in 2008-09 while also ranking 10th in the league at 12 points per game. She enters her final season needing only 27 blocks to become the CAA's all-time leader, and has averaged 70 per season in her career.

Freshmen Janine Aldridge and Taysha Pye had outstanding rookie campaigns. Aldridge didn't miss a single shot for the first 26 minutes of the conference opener against Towson, knocking down her first six field goals and finishing the day 6-9 from beyond the arc for 22 points. Her deadly shooting remained constant throughout the year, and she broke the College's 15-year-old freshman records for three-pointers made and attempted (55-155) in a season.

Pye appeared in every game last season, but truly an-women's league.

The 2007-08 squad set an unprecedented 20 school records. The win against Georgia State on January 17 made Taylor the winningest coach in school history with 93 career victories, and she would finish the season with 99 wins, setting the stage for a historic 2008-09.

In 2006-07, W&M won 19 games, the second-most in school history, and three members of the Tribe were recognized with all-conference honors. Highlighting the group was forward Kyra Kaylor, who was selected to the All-CAA First Team for the second consecutive season. The Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, native averaged 14.8 ppg and 9.1 rpg, while ranking among the league's best in numerous categories.

Undoubtedly, the individual honors were impressive, but what the team accomplished collectively during the 2006-07 season was far more significant. Statistically, the Tribe established itself as one of the nation's top defensive teams by limiting the opposition to just 35.5 percent shooting, a figure that ranked 13th in the country. Offensively, the squad was incredibly effective beyond the arc and ranked 23rd in three-pointers made per game (6.3) and 26th in three-point field goal percentage (36.0).

"This is a very exciting time to be a part of Tribe women's basketball. This program has tremendous potential and we are just beginning to take off. We are building something really special here. As a coach, it is exciting and rewarding to work with the quality of student, athlete, and person that this program attracts."

nounced herself over the final month of play with a 19.1 scoring average in 11 games, and five outings of 20 points or more. She won three of the final five Rookie of the Week awards, including both the Rookie of the Week and Player of the Week awards on March 2.

2007-2008, the third straight season with double digit wins, was the climax for two of the program's greats both of whom graduated with more than 1,000 career points.

One of the top players in the program's history, Kyra Kaylor's success throughout her career is a testament to Taylor's ability to recruit and develop outstanding talent. Kaylor graduated as the school's all-time leader in points (1,873) and rebounds (1,124), and also holds 11 other school records. Her career totals also make her one of just three women's basketball players in conference history to total more than 1,800 points and 1,000 rebounds.

The 2005-06 CAA Player of the Year, Kaylor was named first-team all-conference each of her last three years, and was awarded the prestigious Dean Ehlers Leadership Award in 2008, the first for any Tribe player male or female. The Dean Ehlers award, first presented following the 1994-95 season, is named in honor of a former James Madison athletics director, and is awarded each year to a male and female basketball player in the CAA who best exemplifies the highest standards of leadership, integrity, and sportsmanship both on and off the court.

Devin James also graduated in 2008 surpassing the 1,000-point barrier in the first game of her senior campaign. James finished her career with 1,348 points, the fifth-highest total in school history. In 2009, she signed a professional basketball contract with Kug Leimen in Germany's second-division

In Taylor's 11 years, Tribe recruits have come from 14 U.S. states, three Canadian Provinces, and Israel.

DEBBIE TAYLOR

Head Coach • 11 years at W&M • William and Mary, 1986

“We have a GREAT family! I love our players and our staff. They are an exceptional group of people with strong character and a tireless work ethic. I am fortunate everyday to be around such a unified, selfless group who support, challenge, and bring out the best in each other.”

The success of 2006-07 built upon what was accomplished during the 2005-06 campaign. That edition of the Tribe earned the nation's second-best turnaround (+11 wins) and registered the program's best record at 15-13 since the 1998-99 season. Additionally, the Green and Gold's 11 conference victories were a school record, besting the previous mark of nine. Taylor was honored as CAA Coach of the Year joining Kaylor, the league leading scorer and rebounder, W&M's first CAA Player of the Year.

Under Taylor's leadership, guard Jen Sobota finished her career in 2003 as one of the top players in school history. Sobota broke nine school career records, including points scored with 1,511 and games played and started (113).

Taylor, a 1986 graduate of the College, is the fourth Tribe head coach since the program went to the Division I level in 1984.

During her first season, Taylor implemented Team Tribe, a kids' club that provides fan support for women's basketball. In nine years, Team Tribe has grown to more than 450 members.

According to Taylor, "Community support is vital to our team's success. Team Tribe provides our players with an opportunity to interact with and act as role models for young people in the Williamsburg area."

"William and Mary basketball is about unity, about family, about personal growth," Taylor said. "It is the goal of the coaching staff to create an environment that provides an opportunity for our players to challenge themselves academically, athletically and personally. We want to build a national-caliber program with highly motivated student-athletes through which we can help reinforce and develop the skills necessary for their success after college."

A former Tribe letter winner in both basketball and lacrosse, Taylor arrived in Williamsburg on June 1, 1999 after a stint in the Southeastern Conference as an assistant coach at the University of South Carolina and in the Big East at West Virginia University.

Upon graduation from William and Mary, Taylor accepted her first coaching position at Trinity Episcopal School in Richmond, Va. During her six seasons at TES, she won two conference titles and led the Titans to the 1991 Virginia League of Independent Schools championship.

In 1992, Taylor was hired as the assistant boy's varsity basketball coach at Goochland (Va.) High School. At that time she was one of only two females to coach boys' basketball in the state. She was promoted to head coach the following year and in 1994 guided the Bulldogs to their best season in a decade.

Taylor also coached AAU basketball from 1988 to 1995, leading the James River Rapids (Richmond, Va.) to several national tournaments and the 1995 Virginia state championship.

At William and Mary, Taylor earned a bachelor of science degree in kinesiology and was a two-year team captain for the basketball team. She graduated as the College's all-time leader in career assists and steals.

Taylor, who resides in Williamsburg, enjoys boating, reading, playing the piano, and visiting with her family in her spare time. She has four sisters: Laurie, Kathy, Pam and Jennifer; four nieces: Kaitlyn (22), Olivia (9), Alexis (6) and Eden (4); and two nephews: Kenny (19) and Roman (9). She is the daughter of Ed and Ruth Taylor of Fredericksburg, Virginia.

Assistant Coach • 5 years at W&amp;M • New York University, 2002

Having helped guide William and Mary to the best four-year stretch in school history, Meg Barber enters her fifth year on Debbie Taylor's staff and third as the top assistant and recruiting coordinator. Barber has been instrumental in landing some of the most talented recruiting classes in Tribe history. Highlighting her efforts are last season's Rookie of the Year finalist, Taysha Pye, as well as this season's highly touted freshman class, including the 12th ranked forward in the 2009 recruiting class according to ESPN HoopGurlz, and the Washington D.C. Gatorade Player of the Year.

In addition to recruiting, Barber's responsibilities include post development, opponent scouting, scheduling, assisting with conditioning, and practice planning. She is also the program's liaison to compliance and the director of the William and Mary Basketball Camp.

Prior to joining the Tribe staff, she spent three seasons at Utica College in New York as an assistant coach. At Utica, Barber was responsible for film breakdown, scouting, team defense, as well as coordinating recruiting visits. Additionally, Barber monitored Pioneer student-athletes in their academic progress, while assisting in game scheduling. She was also responsible for a variety of communications activities and was the co-director for the Utica College Girls Basketball Camp from 2002 to 2004.

Barber enjoyed a standout career at New York University, where she graduated in 2002 with a bachelor of arts degree in economics. A four-year member of the Violets women's basketball squad, she helped lead the team to NCAA Elite Eight appearances in 1999 and 2001, as well as two ECAC Metro Championships. She was named the ECAC Metro Most Outstanding Player in the 2000 and 2002 seasons. Barber played in every game during her four-year career, starting in all but two of those games. She is ranked seventh on the Violets' career scoring list with 1,228 points.

A native of Hoosick Falls, N.Y., and a fan of the New York Giants and New York Mets, Barber resides in Williamsburg. In her spare time she enjoys reading, golfing, and spending time with friends and family. She has two sisters, Kim and Anne, and is the daughter of Bud and Ellen Barber. She is the proud and loving aunt of her delightful nephew Connor.

The Colonial Athletic Association celebrates its 25th Anniversary in 2009-10 with memories of a proud and storied past and visions of an exciting future.

Regarded as one of the nation's top collegiate conferences, the CAA encompasses five of the nation's nine largest metropolitan areas with a geographic footprint that stretches from Boston to Atlanta. The conference has produced 16 national team champions in five different sports, 33 individual national champions, 12 national players of the year, 12 national coaches of the year and 12 Honda Award winners. Just as impressive, however, are the honors accumulated away from competition, which include five Rhodes Scholars and 20 NCAA post-graduate scholars. In 2008-09, the CAA had more than 1,700 of the league's 4,000 student-athletes received the Commissioner's Academic Award after posting at least a 3.2 grade point average while lettering in a varsity sport. The conference ranked in the top 10 in the nation in 12 of its 23 sports in the latest APR report released by the NCAA.

The landscape of the conference stretches along the majority of the East Coast, and includes six of the nation's top 25 media markets – New York (1), Philadelphia (4), Boston (7), Atlanta (8), Washington, D.C. (9) and Baltimore (25). The number of television homes in the CAA market exceeds 20 million.

The CAA currently sponsors 23 sports with the addition of a 12-team football league in 2007 and women's rowing in 2009. Male athletes compete for championships in baseball, basketball, cross country, football, golf, lacrosse, soccer, swimming & diving, tennis, track & field and wrestling. Female athletes battle for conference titles in basketball, cross country, field hockey, golf, lacrosse, rowing, soccer, softball, swimming & diving, tennis, track & field and volleyball. In 2008-09, 28 teams earned NCAA Tournament berths and 45 student-athletes received All-America honors.

The conference has made its presence known nationally in men's basketball with a league-record five teams advancing to postseason play in 2008-09. Conference champion VCU made its third NCAA Tournament appearance in the last six years, while George Mason reached the postseason for the seventh time in a decade in the NIT. Old Dominion, making its fifth straight postseason trip, captured the inaugural CIT championship, while James Madison made the CIT semifinals. Northeastern reached the quarterfinals of the CBI. In 2006, George Mason captured the nation's imagination by becoming the first mid-major program since 1979 to reach the Final Four, knocking off powerhouses Michigan State, North Carolina, Wichita State and Connecticut along the way. The Patriots were ranked No. 8 in the final ESPN/USA Today Top 25 poll, which was the highest ever for a CAA team.

The CAA has had at least three women's basketball teams participate in post-season play for the past four seasons. Drexel captured its first CAA championship in 2009 and was joined in the NCAA Tournament by VCU, giving the league multiple teams in the Big Dance for the second time in three years.

James Madison earned a post-season berth for the fourth year in a row in the WNIT. Perennial power Old Dominion, which has won three national championships (1979, 1980, 1985) and was national runner-up in 1997, claimed an NCAA-record 17 straight CAA titles before seeing its incredible streak come to an end last year.

The conference also excels in many other sports. CAA squads have combined to win 10 field hockey national titles since the championship began in 1981. Delaware and Towson have each reached the Final Four of the NCAA Men's Lacrosse Championship. Three women's soccer teams have reached the second round of the NCAA Tournament for the past two seasons and at least one men's soccer team has advanced to the final 16 of the NCAA Championship in five of the last seven years. In men's cross country, William & Mary placed 16th nationally as a team in 2008 and Georgia State's Mark Steeds earned All-America status after a 12th-place individual effort. On the mat, ODU's Ryan Williams was one of three wrestling All-Americans after finishing as the national runner-up at 141 pounds. The CAA has sent multiple teams to the NCAA Baseball Championship in nine of the last 12 years and has had 12 or more players selected in the last seven Major League Baseball drafts. The conference also boasts numerous All-Americans in tennis, golf, track and field and swimming and diving.

CAA member institutions are committed to excellence in the classroom. The Colonial Academic Alliance was created in 2002 by the league's presidents with a goal of expanding their partnership to all aspects of university life outside of intercollegiate athletics. Among the programs already established are an undergraduate research conference, coordination of study abroad programs and granting visiting academic status to student-athletes traveling to an away contest so that they have access to libraries, academic resource centers and computer labs.

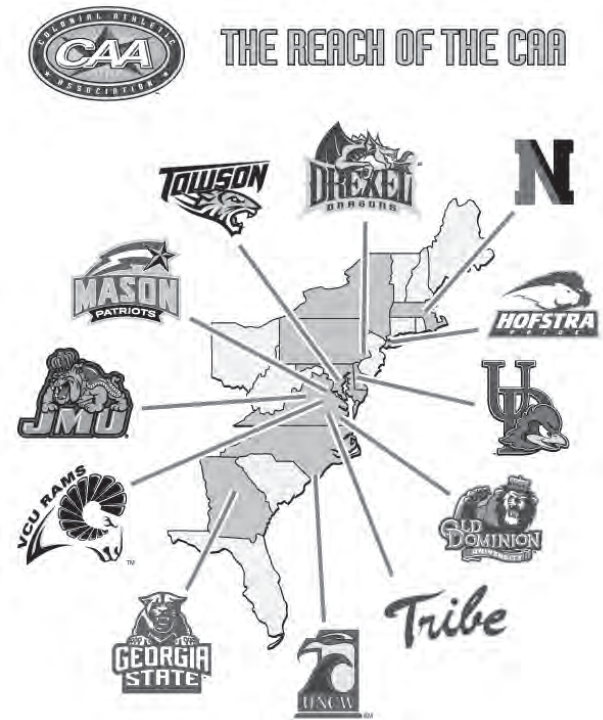

In 2002, two faculty members from CAA institutions were awarded academia's most coveted distinction – the Nobel Prize. John B. Fenn, a research professor in the Department of Chemistry at Virginia Commonwealth University, received the Nobel Prize for chemistry, and Vernon Smith, a professor of economics and law at George Mason University, shared the Nobel Prize in economic sciences.

Commissioner Thomas E. Yeager has guided the CAA since its inception. The conference traces its roots back to 1983 when three of its current members- George Mason University, James Madison University, and the College of William and Mary - were aligned with East Carolina University, the United States Naval Academy and the University of Richmond as a basketball league (ECAC South). During the next two years, the league added 11 sports, acquired two new members (the University of North Carolina at Wilmington and American University) and decided to form a new association. The transformation from ECAC South to CAA took place on June 6, 1985.

Charter members George Mason, James Madison, UNC Wilmington and William and Mary were joined by Old Dominion University in 1991 and by Virginia Commonwealth University in 1995. The conference added the University of Delaware, Drexel University, Hofstra University and Towson University in 2001. Georgia State University and Northeastern University became members of the conference on July 1, 2005.

Celebrating its 25th Anniversary, the CAA takes great pride in producing student-athletes who stand out on the playing field and in the classroom.

Benson Rakes In Awards

Tiffany Benson was showered with accolades following the 2008-09 season, when she emerged as one of the top players in the region. The Colonial Athletic Association named her the Defensive Player of the Year, after she led the league and ranked eighth nationally with 11.5 rebounds per game, and ranked 14th in the NCAA with 2.7 blocks per game. Along with her defensive honor and a spot on the all-defensive team, Benson was also named to the All-CAA second team. State media were also impressed with her season, and she was awarded second-team All-Virginia accolades by the Richmond Times-Dispatch, and the Virginia Association of Sports Information Directors.

Kell Named First-Team All-Academic

Weathering the adversity caused by a major knee injury halfway through her sophomore season, senior Dani Kell ended her career the way she started it with all-conference recognition. An all-rookie selection in 2005-06, Kell was named first-team All-Academic in 2008-09 after averaging 8.7 ppg and 6.2 rpg in the regular season, and more impressively, carrying a GPA greater than 3.2 as a marketing major in the Mason School of Business. She is the first Tribe athlete to earn first-team honors since Sarah Stroh '07 following the 2006-07 campaign.

Pye Earns All-Rookie Designation

Taysha Pye became the latest honoree in a long and distinguished line of Tribe athletes last season when she was selected to the CAA All-Rookie team. The top-scoring freshman in conference play this season, and winner of three of the last five Rookie of the Week awards, Pye is the ninth freshman to earn all-rookie honors in coach Debbie Taylor's 10 years as head coach of the Tribe. All-time, she is the 17th W&M rookie named to the team since its inception following the 1986-87 season.

Dial "00" To Be Amazed

Taysha Pye appeared to be having a typical rookie season when everyone woke up on February 5, averaging 4.8 points in the first 20 games of the season. Beginning that night in Harrisonburg, however, the Bronx native lit up opposing defenses to the tune of 19.1 points per game over the final 11 games of the season, including 30 at home against James Madison on Feb. 26. Her 12.1 ppg average in conference play was the best among all freshman in the CAA, and garnered her a spot on the CAA All-Rookie team.

Unified Award

After averaging 23.5 ppg against James Madison and Towson in the final week of February, freshman Taysha Pye was named both the CAA Player and Rookie of the Week on March 2. It was the first time since Gabriela Marginean of Drexel on February 26, 2007 that a player won both awards in the same week.

Pye Scores 30

Freshman Taysha Pye shot 11-19 from the floor and 8-10 from the foul-stripe on Feb. 26 against James Madison, becoming the first Tribe player to score 30 points in 25 months. Kyra Kaylor '07 was the last to accomplish the feat in January of 2007. Pye's 30 is the second-most ever by a freshman at the college, behind the 31 scored by Angie Evans '91 in February of 1988 against James Madison.

Iron Woman

Courtney Portell played the full 45 minutes against UNC Wilmington on February 22, tied for the third-most minutes ever played in a single game at W&M.

The College of William and Mary is a public university located in Williamsburg, Va. Founded in 1693 by Royal Charter issued by King William III and Queen Mary II of England, William and Mary is the second oldest college in the country after Harvard. William and Mary has a long history of liberal arts education and a growing research and science curriculum that demonstrates a strong commitment to undergraduate research. The College, which became a state university in 1906, has been designated a “Public Ivy,” and for nine straight years has been ranked by U.S. News & World Report as the sixth-best public university in the country – and the nation’s top small public university.

Also referred to as “the alma mater of a nation,” the College has educated four U.S. Presidents – George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, James Monroe and John Tyler - the third-most of any college in the country. William and Mary also claims several firsts, including the 1776 creation of Phi Beta Kappa – the country’s first academic honor society – the first honor code of conduct for college students, and the first collegiate law school, established in 1779. William and Mary is also home to the Sir Christopher Wren Building – the country’s oldest academic building still in use – and the President’s House, the oldest home of a university president still in use.

The College of William and Mary sponsors 23 varsity sports and provides students with a unique and successful balance of athletics and academics. The Tribe Athletics Department finished 117th nationally in the Learfield Sports Directors' Cup Standings for 2008-09, a number that ranked second among Colonial Athletic Association (CAA) programs and fourth in the state of Virginia. The Directors' Cup, which was created by the NACDA and USA Today in 1993-94, is a program that honors institutions maintaining a broad-based program, achieving success in many sports, both men's and women's. W&M has placed among the top 100 nationally in 12 of the program's 16 years, while leading the CAA on seven occasions.

W&M has produced more CAA Championships than any program in the league's history. The College owns 95 league crowns, nearly 40 more than its closest competitor. The Tribe raked in the awards in 2008-09 as well, tallying a combined 197 all-conference honors, 34 All-America honors and six league players of the year. During the 2008-09 season, the Green and Gold produced an overall athletics winning percentage of 68.2, while racking up a combined 888 wins.

Along with its accomplishments on the field of play, the Tribe is just as successful in the classroom, epitomizing the term student-athlete. In the NCAA's inaugural Academic Progress Report in 2005, W&M ranked fourth among Division I teams, which was the highest of any athletic scholarship-granting school and of any public school. Since the inception of the CAA Scholar-Athlete of the Year, W&M has produced 28 honorees, more than any school in the conference.

TRIBE ATHLETICS FIRST-CLASS FACILITIES

William and Mary is committed to building and maintaining outstanding facilities for all 23 of its varsity athletic teams. The College has demonstrated this commitment by investing approximately $16 million toward the construction and upgrade of its athletics facilities during just the last six years. Among W&M's recent projects was the completion of the $11 million, 30,000-square foot Jimmie Laycock Football Center, which was dedicated in June of 2008. This past summer, the Laycock Center renovated the foyer to include photos, information and memorabilia on the Tribe's storied football tradition.

This past summer, Busch Field experienced a renovation that included a total revamp of the field, underlying pad, water cannon and drainage system. The renovation created a competition surface that ranks alongside those used at the U.S. National Training Centers in Virginia Beach, Va., Chula Vista, Calif., and that used at last year's Olympic Games.

In 2005, Kaplan Arena received an upgrade with the installation of 6,900-square foot permanent wood floor along with rubberized sports flooring on the open end of the arena to accommodate track and field and other multi-purpose activities. A year earlier, the home of Tribe soccer and lacrosse, Albert-Daly Field was dedicated, providing the programs with a $1 million all-natural grass facility.

FACILITIES

Tribe basketball as well as various other William and Mary athletic teams use the William and Mary Student Recreation Center for practice and training throughout the season. The Student Rec Center, located across from William and Mary Hall on Brooks Street, offers a variety of avenues for physical advancement. The Student Rec Center had renovations completed on the facility in 2006.

Here is a list of some of the features of the Rec Center:

- Alan B. Miller Gymnasium
- Fitness Room
- Weight room-free weights
- 5 racquetball courts
- 2 squash courts
- 25 yard, 8-lane pool
- Fitness Trail
- Sauna
- Recreational Sports offices
- Outdoor basketball/volleyball/floor hockey court (lighted)
- Sand volleyball court

The Alan B. Miller Gymnasium houses three basketball courts and is used by the Tribe basketball program as a practice facility at times during the season. A plaque outside the gymnasium honors Miller and states, "In recognition of the generosity and leadership exemplified by Alan B. Miller, Class of 1958." Miller played basketball at William and Mary from 1956-58. The facility was dedicated on Nov. 3, 1989. Miller is the chairman and president of Universal Health Services, Inc., and namesake of the the new home for the Mason School of Business (Alan B. Miller Hall).

The fitness area at the Student Rec Center include various elliptical machines, tairmasters, treadmills and row machines for use. The areas also include flat screen televisions for the enjoyment of students and staff during workouts.

W&M STUDENT REC CENTER

When one thinks of the College of William and Mary, the first thought might be of the history of the institution -- or perhaps its place in American history.

Or, possibly those who attended might think back to their good times, the unforgettable campus or their focus of study. But none of those things are what makes a place of learning great. Though the College has them all -- it is the quality of the graduate and the ability to excel in whichever field of work or study that he or she pursues.

For Tribe basketball, the same principles apply, as many former players have gone on to have successful careers in the business world, professional sports and a number of other areas.

Thomas Jefferson, Class of 1762, said so eloquently: "Above all things I hope the education of the common people will be attended to, convinced that on their good sense we may rely with the most security for the preservation of a due degree of liberty."

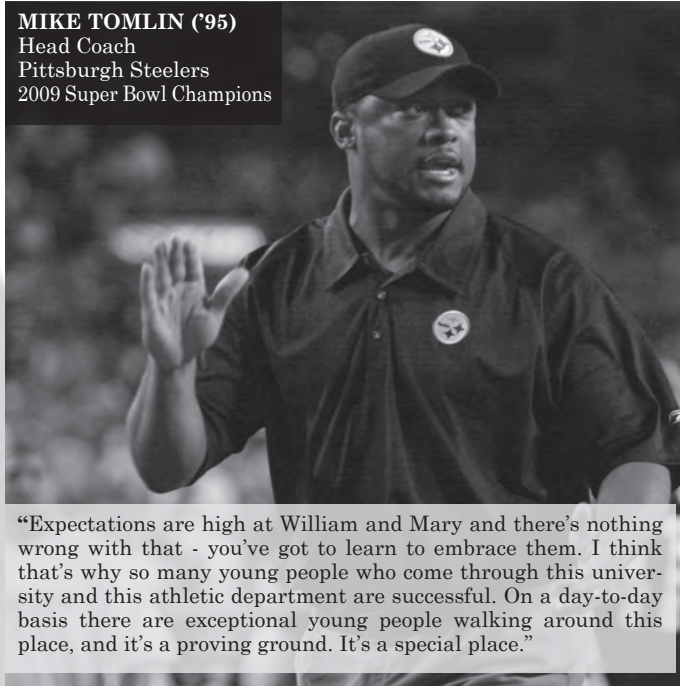

This statement embodies exactly what his alma mater has been striving to do for more than 300 years.

Understandably, William and Mary and Tribe basketball have more than its fair share of the best and brightest of America to claim as its own.

Here, a few of the school's finest alums, champions both on the court and off.

TERRY DRISCOLL

ATHLETICS DIRECTOR

Under the steady guidance and watchful eye of Terry Driscoll, the William and Mary Athletics Department has solidified its standing as one of the nation's preeminent broad-based programs. As Driscoll enters his 14th year as athletics director, he has overseen an unprecedented era of improvement in terms of funding and facilities while also maintaining the history of producing well-rounded College's rich student-athletes.

Driscoll oversees a program that is committed to balancing academic demands with athletic success. One of the department's stated goals each year is to finish among the top 100 in the annual Director's Cup rankings, which has happened in all but one of the years that Driscoll has been the director.

In the last six years, the Tribe's program has combined for a total of 26 Colonial Athletic Association (CAA) titles. This past season, W&M claimed three CAA titles (Men's and Women's Cross Country and Women's Track & Field). In 2002-03, W&M had a school-record 10 teams compete in the NCAA Tournament, with four teams winning conference titles and six that finished in the top 25 at the end of their respective seasons. Overall, no institution in the CAA can claim more all-time league championships than the 95 William and Mary has earned.

As impressive as the athletic accomplishments have been during Driscoll's tenure, the program's academic successes have been even greater. In the NCAA's inaugural (2004) APR rankings, a measurement of academic progress based on academic eligibility, retention, and graduation of student-athletes, W&M was fourth in the nation overall and first among institutions offering athletic performance-based scholarships. Additionally, the Tribe football team has posted a 100 percent graduation rate three times, while the majority of the program's squads have consistently ranked among the nation's finest in terms of graduation. In 2002, the CAA started recognizing Scholar-Athletes of the Year for each of the 22 sports it sponsors, and the College has had a conference-high 29 individuals receive the honor.

In addition to the many academic and athletic successes, Driscoll's impact on the program has been equally impressive in terms of physical and financial improvements. Since taking over as athletics director, Driscoll has overseen the construction of more than $20 million in new facilities, including Plumeri Park (baseball), Albert-Daly Field (soccer, lacrosse) and the Busch Courts (tennis). Recently, the College dedicated an $11 million, 30,000 square-foot Jimmie Laycock Football Center at Zable Stadium in the summer of 2008. During the last four years, the venerable stadium has been enhanced with an $800,000-plus video scoreboard (2007), the installation of a $650,000 permanent lighting system (2006) and an $840,000 state-of-the-art Field Turf Pro artificial playing surface (2006). This past summer, new synthetic turf with water cannons were installed at Busch Field, the home of the William and Mary Field Hockey program.

In addition to the physical structures, Driscoll has also worked with the Associate Athletics Director for Development, Bobby Dwyer, to increase the annual fund-raising totals for non-capital projects from $1.36 million in 1995 to the current annual total of approximately $2.7 million.

A true student-athlete himself, Driscoll's leadership skills were developed during his collegiate years. As a student-athlete at Boston College, Driscoll captained the basketball team to the National Invitation Tournament Finals as a senior, and was named the tournament MVP. In addition to being named an All-American, his success in the classroom as a biology major garnered him an Academic All-America honor.

After graduating from BC, he was the fourth overall pick of the 1969 NBA Draft, selected by the Detroit Pistons, just three spots after the Milwaukee Bucks chose UCLA's Lew Alcindor, later to be known as Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. Driscoll chose to play a year in Italy first, but then returned to the U.S. to play for the Pistons, Washington Bullets and Milwaukee Bucks before going back to Italy as a player and then coach until 1980.

Driscoll then entered the corporate world in 1980, working for Kazmaier Associates, Inc., an international sporting goods sales and sports marketing firm. After Kazmaier purchased Bike Athletic in 1986, KSG Inc. was formed with the objective of becoming the first, and only, national sales agency in the sporting goods industry. By 1987, Driscoll was president of the company and had expanded the agency to all 50 states just two years later. In early 1990, Driscoll's contribution to a marketing research project for the NCAA was the initial step moving him from product marketing and sales to sports marketing and management. The result of the project was a joint venture between Kazmaier Associates and Host Communications - with Driscoll being named managing director and chief operating officer of NCAA International.

In 1993, Driscoll diversified his experience in the athletic world by working as the venue executive director of the 1994 World Cup site in Boston. In September of that year, Driscoll was again enlisted to launch a new business, Eagle International Group, an event management and services company. As vice president, Driscoll worked with Hawaii Pacific Sports to organize the Women's World Volleyball Grand Prix competition in Honolulu.

Driscoll resides in Williamsburg with his wife, Susan. The couple has two children - Keith, a 1997 graduate of Holy Cross, and Leslie, a 2001 graduate of William and Mary.

W&M FACILITY ENHANCEMENTS UNDER DRISCOLL

In his 14 years of guiding the William and Mary Athletic Department, Athletics Director Terry Driscoll has overseen a significant number of facility enhancements for a number of Tribe's athletic programs. It total, W&M has dedicated more $25 million to facilities enhancements under Driscoll. Here is a look at some of the facility enhancements on Driscoll's watch:

- The $11 million, 30,000-square foot JIMMIE LAYCOCK FOOTBALL CENTER (dedicated in June 2008).

- $7 million specifically for men's basketball and the naming of KAPLAN ARENA for the gift from Jim (Class of '57) and Jane Kaplan (Class of '56).

- Upgrades to ZABLE STADIUM, including a permanent lighting system (2005), new artificial playing surface (Field Turf Pro) in 2006, a new video scoreboard (2007) and a new tartan all-weather synthetic track surface (2008).

- The recently completed renovation to BUSCH FIELD with a new playing surface, AstroTurf 12™, underlying pad and drainage systems to create a competition surface that ranks alongside that used at the U.S. National Training Centers in Virginia Beach, Virginia, Chula Vista, California and that used at the 2008 Olympic Games.

- The construction of PLUMERI PARK, home of Tribe baseball, in 1999 due in large part to the generous donation by Joseph J. Plumeri II (Class of 1966).

- The $1 million natural grass facility for soccer and lacrosse, ALBERT-DALY FIELD, (dedicated in August 2004) was made possible by longtime athletic benefactors Jim and Bobbie Ukrop (classes of '60 and '61, respectively).

- BUSCH COURTS opened in September of 2001 as the home for Tribe tennis, includes eight individual hard courts, stadium seating for 500 people and state-of-the-art lighting system.
