The Present Session.

THE College of William and Mary entered upon its two hundred and eighteenth session on September 15, 1910. The prospects for a successful year have never been brighter. While the student roll will perhaps not be as large as that of the past session, the personnel of the body is above any that has been in attendance at this college. The high schools are sending us graduates who are ready for regular college work, thereby making the college classes much larger than heretofore.

Besides, the raising of the entrance requirements has kept away many of those who are not prepared for the work.

The attendance of students from other States is greater than at any time in the history of William and Mary. Twelve States other than Virginia are now represented at the college, and our club of "Northern Lights" bids fair to shine even more brightly than during the past sessions.

The watchword of William and Mary is PROGRESS, and the student who fails to enter into the spirit of the new William and Mary will be hopelessly lost in the forward movement, and will soon be required to step aside and give place to those who are ready and willing to do the work required of them.

The college exists solely for the benefit of the worthy and ambitious young men who enter its halls, and no labor is spared to render it thoroughly wholesome and helpful to all. William and Mary is an especial blessing to those whose limited means render a college education impossible except it be provided at a very low cost, and any aspiring student who is not able to invest a large amount in an education will do well to seek the advantages offered here. State students get through here on a cost per session of less than $250, and have all of the advantages offered other students.

COURSES.

Besides the regular work for the Teachers' Diploma, three strong courses are offered, leading to the A. B., B. S. and M. A. degrees. This is the college that trains young men for positions in the public school work of the State. The efficiency of this work is evidenced by the large number of William and Mary teachers and the twenty-odd division superintendents now working so efficiently throughout the State.

Commencement June, 1910.

The commencement exercises of the session 1909-1910 marked a new departure in such occasions at the college. Besides the regular exercises by the two literary societies, there were other features which were new and attractive. The faculty-senior baseball game on the closing day was a novel feature which was much enjoyed.

The commencement address was delivered by Mr. W. W. Bishop, of the Library of Congress, on Wednesday, June 8th.

The graduating class was the largest ever sent out from the institution—two Masters of Arts, eighteen Bachelors of Arts, four Bachelors of Science and sixteen Teachers' Diploma men.

The address to the graduates on June 9th by ex-Governor A. J. Montague was one of the most eloquent appeals for high ideals of life, and for a determination to live for the good of humanity that it has ever been our pleasure to hear. It was a fitting climax to a college career, and gave the graduates food for after-thought that they will do well to carry with them through life.

The most significant feature of the commencement was the large gathering of alumni on Wednesday. Over one hundred old students were on the grounds—double the number that has attended commencement since 1888.

A most scholarly address to the association was delivered by Mr. James G. Bohannon on Wednesday night, after which the alumni smoker was held in the new library. The festivities were closed with the song, "Alma Mater," and all present agreed that they had been well repaid for their return to the college at the close of this the two hundred and seventeenth session.

OBSERVATION AND PRACTICE SCHOOL.

The Observation and Practice School.

The Observation and Practice School, consisting of a kindergarten and the first four grades of a grammar school, furnishes the student-teacher an excellent opportunity to observe the actual working of a school of this grade, and gives him a chance to solve the problems that arise in every day school work. Each prospective teacher is required to take courses in the Department of Education that carry with them work in this school during the last three years of the Teacher's Courses.

New Heating and Light Plant.

The plans for the new heat and light plant are being worked out by the architect, and will be reported to the Board of Visitors at their regular February meeting. The Legislature at its last session appropriated $15,000 for this plant, and, while the amount is not sufficient to meet the requirements of all the buildings, the Board hopes to have one or more units of the system installed during the next summer.

The building for housing the plant will be located on the grounds of the College Hotel just back of the Infirmary. The erection of this central plant will be a great convenience to the college and will be a saving over the present multiple system of heating.

CUTHERELL BEQUEST.

In September, 1911, the President was notified of the death in Boise, Idaho, of Mr. Henry E. Cutherell, of Norfolk county, Va., and a little later he received from Mrs. Cutherell, in conformity with the terms of his will, a check for $500 to be expended in books for the library. This is a very touching and useful gift, which will be duly appreciated, not only by this generation of students, but by others to come after for many years. Mr. Cutherell was a student of William and Mary in 1877, and is warmly remembered by many of our people. While he died in a far distant land, it is gratifying to know that his heart still lingered in the halls of his Alma Mater.
