EARL GREGG SWEM LIBRARY - PROGRESS REPORT

October 11--the Friday of Homecoming Weekend--has been set as the date for ceremonies attendant upon groundbreaking for the new general library. Whether groundbreaking will literally occur at that time now depends upon the speed with which construction contracts can be let; but the ceremonies will be held at Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall at 4 p.m. on October 11 in recognition of the significance of the building itself, so long needed by the faculty and student community.

Working drawings for the new library were revised early in the summer in accordance with requests from the Board of Visitors. Final drawings then had to be approved by the Board, the State Art Commission and various state officers in Richmond. The completion of detailed specifications for the building occupied the rest of the summer months. The final draft of the plans and specifications was submitted to the Governor's office on September 20.

Named for Earl Gregg Swem, librarian emeritus and a beloved William and Mary figure, the new library will take about two years to complete. It will be the third unit in a new campus area now consisting of Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall and the William Small Physical Laboratory which is scheduled for completion early in 1964. Yates Hall, men's dormitory, the Cornelia Storrs Adair Women's Physical Education Building, and a new women's dormitory, for which construction will soon begin, are other units in adjacent sections of the new campus area.

FACULTY LECTURE SERIES: THE AMERICAN ACHIEVEMENT IN PERSPECTIVE

This year's Faculty Lecture Series will explore the general subject, "The American Achievement in Perspective," and will be moderated by Dr. Lester J. Cappon, Director of the Institute of Early American History and Culture. The student chairman of the series is Jeffrey Marshall of the Student Committee on Lectures and Concerts.

Carl R. Dolmetsch will open the series on October 2 with a lecture on "The Cost of Cleverness: H. L. Mencken and the American Literary Tradition." The following week, October 9, Leon Golden will speak on "Heroes, Ancient and Modern." On successive weeks there will be lectures by Thad W. Tate on "Church and State: The American Dilemma and the American Tradition," Richard K. Newman, Jr., on "The Image of Virtu, Then and Now," Richard B. Sherman on "Republicans and the Negro: Background to Revolt," and Edwin H. Rhyne on "Public Indecision and the American Liberal Tradition."

SEASON TICKETS AVAILABLE FOR THE WILLIAM AND MARY THEATRE PRODUCTIONS

Season tickets for the thirty-eighth season of the William and Mary Theatre are still available. Subscribers will have a choice of two types of tickets. One ($4) will be only for the four student productions; and the other ($9) will include additionally the Canadian Players production of Henry IV, Part I, on November 23, and the National Players in Oedipus Rex on March 9.

William and Mary Theatre productions include Our Town, October 31, November 1 and 2; Lola, a new musical comedy written by William and Mary students, Richard Westlake and Arden Bing, December 12-14; Death of a Salesman, February 27-29; and Richard III, April 23-25.

Season tickets can be obtained at the auditors office in Marshall-Wythe.

NEW CAMPUS MAP PUBLISHED

A new map of the campus, with descriptive legends on all buildings now in use or under construction, and an accompanying text describing main features of the College and its curriculum, was published this month. Copies have been placed in all faculty mail boxes and substantial numbers are being shipped to various groups which have had standing requests for them. A total of 25,000 copies have been printed, with funds provided by friends of the College.

Any corrections or suggested revisions of the map are invited by the Office of Development and Public Information, in anticipation of a new printing when the present supply is depleted.

ACLS REGIONAL ASSOCIATE NAMED

The American Council of Learned Societies has named William F. Swindler, professor of legal history, as the William and Mary member of its Regional Associates program. The ACLS established the Regional Associates several years ago, among more than 100 selected universities and liberal arts colleges, to provide a systematic exchange of information on scholarly developments in the humanities and social sciences.

SUMMER EVENTS

Busts of three renowned figures in Anglo-American law--Sir William Blackstone, Chief Justice John Marshall and George Wythe, were presented to the Federal Bar Federation in Washington on July 25. Presented by the Virginia Committee on Statues of Great Lawyers and the William and Mary Law School Association, the busts are the work of Felix G. W. deWeldon. The original plaster casts of the statues are on display in the Library.

On July 26 the site for The Virginia Associated Research Center (VARC) was deeded to the Commonwealth of Virginia by the federal government. VARC is sponsored by William and Mary, Virginia Polytechnic Institute, and the University of Virginia, and will eventually develop a graduate campus offering masters and doctoral degrees in several fields of science and engineering.

The King and Queen of Afghanistan were visitors of the College on September 5 at the beginning of a thirteen-day state visit to the United States.

King Mohammed Zahir, accompanied by Queen Homaira, spoke to the tenth annual convention of the Afghan Students Association in the United States which met on campus. More than 100 Afghan students who are studying at colleges and universities in this country assembled in the Great Hall of the Sir Christopher Wren Building to hear their sovereign.

The College of William and Mary was host to 450 engineers of the International Business Machines Corporation in the eastern United States from September 3-6, in a technical training conference on campus. The meeting was devoted to new concepts in electronic engineering and consumer services.

The William and Mary-sponsored I.B.M. conference was one of three regional training programs which were conducted across the nation during early September. The other meetings, for the midwest and Far West respectively, were held at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill. and at the University of Colorado in Boulder, Colorado.

CONCERT SERIES SOLD OUT

The "standing room only" sign is out for the 1963-64 William and Mary Concert Series. For the first time in its history, series ticket sales have already accounted for one-hundred per cent of the seating facilities in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

The William and Mary concert series will feature five distinguished programs which will range from jazz to ballet, including mezzo-soprano, Grace Bumby; pianist John Browning; the National Ballet of Canada; the Fine Arts Quartet; and the Charlie Byrd Trio.

FACULTY NEWSLETTER

13 December 1963

CHARTER DAY SPEAKER

Julius Adams Stratton, President of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, will be the 1964 Charter Day Speaker on Saturday, February 8, at 11 a.m. in Blow Gymnasium. The charter day program will also feature the announcement of the second Jefferson Faculty Award, and will mark the formal dedication of the new William Small Physical Laboratory. The Saturday program will also mark the completion of the three-day Conference on High Energy Cyclotron Improvement which will be held in the laboratory under sponsorship of the College physics faculty.

INTERNATIONAL NUCLEAR SCIENCE PROGRAM

Between fifty and seventy scientists in high energy physics and related fields will attend the international Conference on High Energy Cyclotron Improvement on campus February 6-8. All six of the major cyclotron laboratories in the United States will be represented at the sessions, which are intended to provide a medium of exchange of information on processes by which synchrocyclotrons may be adapted to advancing research needs in high energy fields. Among European institutions to be represented at the conference will be the European Center for Nuclear Research in Geneva, Switzerland; the University of Liverpool and the Atomic Energy Research Establishment at Harwell, England; and the University of Uppsala in Sweden.

WILLIAM SMALL PHYSICAL LABORATORY

The Christmas holidays are the target date for the completion of the new ultra-modern physical science center on the "new campus" of the College. Physics faculty members are cautiously optimistic about beginning the move into the building during that period. Named for Dr. Small, famed teacher of Thomas Jefferson and a William and Mary faculty member from 1758 to 1764, the new physical laboratory will have about 65,000 square feet of floor space, including a small auditorium which is housed in a wing outside the main building to accommodate access to that area without interference with the laboratory and classroom facilities. The research equipment is designed to coordinate the advanced studies of the faculty with the continuation of their research at the synchrocyclotron now under construction at the Space Radiation Effects Laboratory at NASA's Langley Research Center.

CHOIR CONCERT NEXT WEEK

The William and Mary Choir and Chorus, under the direction of Carl A. Fehr, will present a program of Christmas music in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall Wednesday and Thursday, December 18 and 19, at 8 p.m. Assisting will be the William and Mary Chamber Players and the Brass Ensemble. Tickets are available at the switchboard in Marshall-Wythe Hall and at the boxoffice.

Fiedler, critic and literary scholar, "The Tragic Hero in American Fiction," March 23; Perry Miller, Cabot Professor of American Literature at Harvard, topic to be announced, May 4; Harold C. Schonberg, music editor of The New York Times, "Music Criticism," May 6; and a possible rescheduling of lectures by Harry Levin, Professor of Comparative Literature at Harvard, and Ramon J. Sender, noted Spanish novelist, if their healths permit them to deliver lectures originally scheduled for the first semester.

PH. D. IN PHYSICS APPROVED

The State Council on Higher Education has approved a proposal for a Doctor of Philosophy degree to be offered by the College in the field of nuclear physics. The degree is essentially a recognition of the level of competence which has been attained by the existing curriculum of graduate studies in physics, augmented by the faculty of specialists in high energy and low energy nuclear research, spectroscopy and related fields. The offering of the degree will officially begin with the second semester of the current academic year.

FOOTBALL COACH TO LEAVE

Milton Drewer, head football coach at the College since 1957, has advised the President's office that after consideration of all the factors involved, he has decided it is not advisable to ask for a renewal of his contract, which expires in June 1964. President Paschall has appointed a committee, consisting of Lester B. Hooker, Jr., athletic director, and Dr. Howard Holland, chairman of the faculty athletic committee, to make recommendations for a replacement.

WALSINGHAM CONCERT AT PHI BETA KAPPA HALL

A special concert by the Sisters of Mercy chorale and orchestra from Philadelphia, offered by the Parents Club of Walsingham Academy as a community event, will be given at Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall, December 26 and 27, at 8:15 p.m. There will also be a matinee performance at 2:30 p.m. on December 27. The program of popular, classical and seasonal music will be given by an 80-voice choral group and a 60-piece orchestra. This is the first time for the "singing sisters" to appear outside the Philadelphia area, where they have been a community favorite for a number of years. Proceeds from the performance will go to the Walsingham Academy educational development fund. Tickets may be obtained by phoning the Academy at CA9-2642, or calling at the Phi Beta Kappa box office in the afternoon or evening of the performances.

ANCIENT LANGUAGES

George J. Ryan addressed the student body of Hampden-Sydney College on December 11. He spoke under the auspices of the Visiting Scholar Program of the University Center.

J. Ward Jones has been elected vice-president of the Classical Association of Virginia. He has been a member of the executive committee of the Association for several years.

BIOLOGY

C. Richard Terman will deliver a paper before the American Association for the Advancement of Science in Cleveland, December 27. His paper, "Cessation of Population Growth and the Sex Organs of Male Prairie Deermice," is based on post-doctoral research underwritten by the Public Health Service and on continuing research under a grant from the National Institutes of Health.

BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Charles L. Quittmeyer attended the Southern Business Administration Conference on November 14-15 in Roanoke. He also attended the Governor's Travel Conference in Richmond, November 21.

EDUCATION

Carl W. McCartha participated in the York County Public School In-Service Program, December 6. He gave an illustrated talk to the elementary teachers on "If These Were Your Children."

Richard W. Copeland attended a regional conference on the mathematics training of elementary teachers in Roanoke, December 6-7. The conference was sponsored by the Committee on the Undergraduate Program in Mathematics which is supported by the National Science Foundation.

Armand Galfo's article, "When Does $2 + 2 = 10$?", appeared in the November issue of School Science and Mathematics. The article describes ways in which number systems, other than the base ten system, can be used to teach for a better understanding of arithmetic alogorisms.

On November 12, Mr. Galfo took part in a seminar discussion of teaching methodology. The seminars are being conducted by Dean Holland for the teaching staff of the Medical College of Virginia. Galfo also served as the "Devil's Advocate" during a panel discussion on "Birth Control" conducted by the William and Mary Newman Club on November 17.

Roderick Ironside has addressed three groups in the past month. On October 28, the topic for the Henrietta Kurzer Academy PTA, Newport News, was "Reading - What Is It?" On November 18, he spoke to the Chuckatuck Women's Club on current school problems in regard to graded classrooms, graded textbooks and recitation as opposed to Socratic questioning. On November 26, the topic for the Hampton Council of the International Reading Association was the potential role of the linguist in assisting primary reading instruction. Ironside also attended the VEA's conference on programmed instruction, December 5-6, in Roanoke.

ENGLISH

William F. Davis, Jr. has been officially notified that his doctoral dissertation, "The Art of Peace: The Moral Vision of Emily Dickinson," has been accepted by Yale University. This completes his work toward the doctorate and the Ph.D. degree will be awarded at the June 1964.

Fraser Neiman was elected president of the North Carolina-Virginia College English Association at its meeting in Chapel Hill, October 26. Mr. Neiman was also elected as chairman of the Virginia Humanities Conference which met at Hampton Institute, November 2. Frank MacDonald, of the Department of Philosophy, was elected vice-chairman at the same meeting.

A paper by Frank B. Evans, "The Printing of Spenser's Faerie Queen in 1596," has been accepted for publication in Studies in Bibliography. Evans made use of the Madison-Tucker-Coleman copy of the 1596 edition of the Faerie Queen in the William and Mary Library and his study was aided by a research grant from the College to obtain reproductions of other early texts. His paper demonstrates that Spenser revised the poem during the printing and establishes the basis for a more accurate editing than has yet been done.

David Clay Jenkins and Cecil McCulley attended the thirty-third annual meeting of the South Atlantic Modern Language Association held in Atlanta, Georgia, November 14-16. Mr. Jenkins read a paper entitled "Wordsworth and Rilke: The Child and 'Unknown Modes of Being.'" Mr. McCulley read a paper entitled "The American Short Story: Problems in the Maturing Definition of a Literary Type."

LeRoy W. Smith and Cecil McCulley attended a meeting at the University of Virginia, November 18, called by the Division of Teacher Education. The purpose of the meeting was to initiate a study, expected to continue for several months, of preparation requirements for certification in English in Virginia. Representatives of numerous institutions of higher learning were present. Mr. Smith served on a committee studying preparation in literature, Mr. McCulley on that studying preparation in composition.

Fraser Neiman's review of Leon Gottfried's Matthew Arnold and the Romantics (University of Nebraska Press, 1962) has been accepted for publication in a forthcoming issue of Modern Philology.

Carl Dolmetsch will represent the College at the seventh annual conference of the Association of College and University Concert Managers in New York beginning on December 15. For the second consecutive year he will be a member of the Host Committee of the conference.

EVENING COLLEGE

John S. Quinn has been appointed to the nominating committee to select national officers for the Association of University Evening Colleges for 1964-65.

FINE ARTS

Thomas Thorne's article, "The Duchess and William Byrd," appeared in the November issue of Antiques magazine. Mr. Thorne will read a paper on "The Style of Charles Bridges" at the January meeting of the College Art Association in Philadelphia.

Carl Roseberg and Thomas Thorne will have a showing of their work in Petersburg, Virginia, during December.

Carl Roseberg, who had a one-man show during November at Ashville, North Carolina, will exhibit an oil painting at the Tidewater Artists Painting and Sculpture Exhibition, which opened December 7 at the Norfolk Museum.

GOVERNMENT

Morton J. Frisch, now on leave as a visiting Fullbright Professor in Political Science at the University of Stockholm, Sweden, recently participated in a panel discussion at the United States Embassy in Stockholm. The topic was "The Civil Rights Question in the United States" and the discussion was sponsored by the The Swedish-American Society.

HISTORY

Richard B. Sherman's article entitled "Johnstown vs. The Negro: Southern Migrants and the Exodus of 1923," appeared in the October 1963 issue of Pennsylvania History.

James Morton Smith is on the program committee of the Mississippi Valley Historical Association. He attended the final meeting of this year's Beveridge Prize Committee in Washington on November 2. Mrs. Smith also attended a meeting of the Board of Editors for the Journal of Southern History on November 10.

The University Press of Virginia has published in its Dominion paperback series The Journal of Major George Washington, for which Thad Tate prepared the notes.

MARINE SCIENCE

The Virginia Institute of Marine Science will have an open house on Saturday, December 14, and on Sunday, December 15, 1-5 p.m. on each day. At 1 p.m. on Saturday two buildings, Maury Hall and Brooke Hall, will be dedicated. Bronze plaques in each building, presented by the Confederate Memorial Literary Society of Richmond, will be installed by grandsons of Matthew Fontaine Maury and John Mercer Brooke.

Jan C. Prager, marine microbiologist from Sandy Hook Marine Laboratory, was a guest at a seminar held on December 5. The subject was "Dinoflagellate Ecology."

Three new faculty members are: W. Jackson Davis, of the Ichthyology Department, working with fish larvae and fisheries research; Dean P. Owen, microbiology-pathology; and Ralph R. Hathaway, physiology.

MATHEMATICS

T. L. Reynolds participated in a state-wide conference on the mathematics training of elementary teachers in Roanoke, December 6-7. The conference was sponsored by the Committee on Undergraduate Programs in Mathematics of the Mathematical Association of America.

MUSIC

Stephen Paledes has served the William and Mary Theatre production of Lola as arranger, pianist and conductor.

F. Donald Truesdell attended the annual National Association of Schools of Music meeting in Chicago last month. Of special interest was an optimistic report on the future of the arts and humanities.

The William and Mary Chamber players, conducted by Alan C. Stewart, have performed at two recent Friday night Capitol Concerts.

At the meeting of the College Section of the Virginia Music Educators Association in Richmond, November 1, Mr. Stewart spoke on "The Theory Program as It Is Today." Mr. Truesdell is the new chairman of the College Section of the V. M. E. A.

Alan Stewart will direct the Williamsburg Chamber Players in a performance of Mozart's Flute Quartet in G Major on Friday, January 10, 8:30 p.m., Phi Beta Kappa Hall. This will be part of the first presentation of the newly-organized Williamsburg Friends of Music. Other performers will be Ann Rowe, James S. Darling, F. Donald Truesdell, Howard Scammon and the Friends of Music Chamber Chorus.

PHILOSOPHY

John Lachs' lecture, "To Have and To Be," part of last year's Faculty Lecture Series, American Society and the Good Life, is in the current issue of The Personalist. "The Impotent Mind" by Lachs is in the current issue of The Review of Metaphysics; his "Santayana's Moral Philosophy" is in the forthcoming issue of The Journal of Philosophy; his "Professor Prior on Omniscience" appeared in Philosophy, October, 1963. This last article was accompanied by "Rejoinder to Professor Lachs on Omniscience" by Professor A. N. Prior.

Frank MacDonald was elected vice-president of the Virginia Humanities Conference at the annual meeting in November at Hampton Institute.

John Lachs was invited to present the lead paper in a Symposium on the Philosophy of Santayana at the meeting of the American Philosophical Association in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, April 30 - May 2, 1964.

SOCIOLOGY AND ANTHROPOLOGY

Wayne Kernodle spoke to the annual dinner meeting of the Richmond chapter of the William and Mary Alumni Association. Mr. Kernodle recently acted as consultant to the Virginia Department of Mental Hygiene and Hospitals on a regional conference for advisory board members of mental hygiene clinics. Kernodle's review of Porterfield's Marriage and Family Living as Self-Other Fulfillment appeared in the December issue of Social Forces.

Augustus Sordinas, presently at Harvard University, will join the Department in February and will offer courses in Ethnology of South America and European Archeology. Mr. Sordinas has studied at the Graduate School of Economics, Athens, Georgetown University, and has had field experience in West Africa, the Caribbean area and Europe.

THEATRE AND SPEECH

Performances of "Lola" will be given Friday and Saturday, December 13 and 14, at 8 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Hall. This original musical was written by Richard Westlake and Arden Bing, Jr. and is being produced by the William and Mary Theatre. This is the first time that the Theatre has produced an original musical. Faculty members, of than those from the Department of Theatre and Speech, who have assisted in the production are Miss Carol Wallace and Stephen Paledes. Miss Wallace, in addition to playing the title role, has helped in the choreography. She is an assistant professor in the Department of Women's Physical Education. Mr. Paledes, of the Department of Music, has served as Musical Director of the production as well as arranging the entire score for two pianos. The box office hours: 3-5 p.m. and 7-8 p.m.

James Sawyer has video-taped the one-hour TV program, "Greece: The Golden Age," which is available for playback in classes. Anyone interested in using this tape should contact Mr. Sawyer at Ext. 274.

The current exhibition in the lobby of Phi Beta Kappa Hall represents the award and honorable mention sketches of the Southern Illinois University Scenic Design Competition and Exhibition, 1962-63. This exhibition will be on display through 19 December.

There will be a post-dramatem on "Lola" Sunday, December 15, at 3:30 p.m. in the Dodge Room. The authors as well as the actors will be present to hear a discussion on their work.

The Debate Council tournament participation for the fall season includes University of Kentucky, University of South Carolina, Wake Forest, Villanova, and Temple. To date, the William and Mary debaters have participated in 94 debates and have won 57. This record of winning more than 60% represents the best results yet achieved by a William and Mary team. Participation in the fall season has resulted in three first-place team awards, two second-place and three third-place. Seven individual speaker's awards have been won.

The spring season will be launched with the Marshall-Wythe Debate Tournament here during the first week end of February. Teams representing the College will participate in eight other meets in the spring.

Donald L. McConkey and Glenn G. Kirk direct the Debate Team.

FACULTY NEWSLETTER

FEBRUARY 1, 1964

CHARTER DAY PROGRAM FEBRUARY 6-8

With a 1964 focus on science education at the College, the Charter Day weekend of February 6-8 will include the following events:

Conference on High Energy Cyclotron Improvement, February 6-8, in the new auditorium of William Small Physical Laboratory; papers by a number of internationally known scientists Charter Day program at 11 a.m. in Blow Gymnasium; Dr. Julius A. Stratton, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Charter Day speaker; second annual Jefferson Faculty Award.

GOVERNOR SANFORD HERE FEBRUARY 18

North Carolina Governor Terry Sanford will be a visitor to the campus on Tuesday, February 18 when he will be among the group initiated into the William and Mary chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, education honor society. Governor Sanford will speak at an evening public convocation at 8 p.m. in the Ballroom of the Campus Center.

CURTIS NAMED LAW DEAN

Joseph Curtis, professor in the Marshall-Wythe School of Law since 1948 and acting dean since 1962, has been named dean effective February 1, 1964. The Board of Visitors took the action at its meeting January 11, upon the unanimous recommendation of the law faculty. Dean Curtis received B.S., LL.B. and LL.M. degrees from New York University, and for the past ten years has been closely associated with the College's unique program in law and taxation. He is a member of the American Law Institute, the Virginia State Bar and the committee on small law schools of the Association of American Law Schools. He has contributed a number of articles on tax law to law and accounting periodicals.

Dean Curtis succeeds Professor Dudley W. Woodbridge, who retired from administrative duties in 1962.

POSTAL INFORMATION ON EULK MAILING

Attention has been called to the fact that a special postal rate is available to non-profit organizations, such as the College. The rate applies only to mailings which contain 300 or more identical pieces of printed matter, mailed at one time. The attendant in the Mail Room should be informed of the fact that there are 300 pieces and that they are identical.

There is a certain amount of "processing" required before such mail is brought to the Mail Room:

- (1) Envelope flaps must be tucked in.
- (2) A count of the actual number of pieces should be furnished the Mail Room attendant.

After postage is applied, this type of mail must be tied tightly into bundles, separated according to States, and then according to post offices, if there are 10 or more pieces addressed to a single post office. For this final step, assistance should be furnished by the office from which the mail is sent.

Use of this system can result in substantial savings, depending on the volume of mail involved, and the amount of clerical labor required for the necessary processing as noted above.

ABA REGIONAL COMMITTEE MEETS ON CAMPUS

An organizational meeting of the American Bar Association Committee on State and Municipal Contracts, Middle Atlantic Area, was held at Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall January 20. The Marshall-Wythe School of Law has been designated as the coordinating agency for the committee's research project, which seeks to compare the practices of six states of this region in contract liability of state and local government units. Professor William F. Swindler is a member of the Virginia subcommittee. The results of the committee's research is tentatively planned for publication in the William and Mary Law Review.

PASSES AVAILABLE FOR JAMESTOWN ISLAND

Through the courtesy of the National Park Service, annual passes are made available to the faculty and staff each year. Passes for the current calendar year are now available and can be secured in the Personnel Office.

On Saturday, December 14th the second annual Awards Night was held in honor of students scoring within the 90th percentile nationally, on the recently concluded physical fitness testings. Letters of commendation were presented during the half-time intermission of the William and Mary -Furman basketball game. The newly formed co-ed gymnastic group under the supervision of Mr. Chet Witen performed briefly as part of this recognition ceremony to all physical fitness endeavors here at the College.

MARINE SCIENCE

Dean William J. Hargis, Jr. and Morris L. Brehmer appeared on the program of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin at its winter meeting January 23-24 in Arlington, Va. Dr. Hargis was moderator for the panel discussing specific problems of the estuary. Morris Brehmer presented a paper on the "Effects of Nutrients on Oyster Quality" and was a member of the panel.

Virginia Institute of Marine Science will operate three National Science Foundation summer programs in 1964. Seven teachers from colleges and universities may pursue their own research for twelve weeks. Ten undergraduates may work with investigators and pursue a small area of research on their own for ten weeks. Fifteen high school students and three high school teachers will be admitted into a C.C.S.S. program of Marine Science at Norview High School, Norfolk under the instructions of Dr. Sewell H. Hopkins of Texas A & M University. Faculty members personally interested in the R.P.T.C. program or who would like to recommend students to the U.S.E. programs, may secure information from Robert S. Bailey at V.I.M.S.

Edward E. Gallaher, a participant in N.S.F.-U.S.E. last summer from the University of Southern Florida is now on the 5th International Indian Ocean Expedition Cruise collecting parasites for Dr. Hargis and Dr. Mitchell Byrd.

The campus at Gloucester Point has been enlarged by the acquisition of the old ferry docks and adjacent land.

The salt water lab is being enlarged to accommodate further research in producing a strain of oysters resistant to disease.

MARSHALL-WYTHE SCHOOL OF LAW

Professor E. Blythe Stason, Jr., represented the Marshall-Wythe School of Law at the 1963 annual meeting of the Association of American Law Schools, held December 28-30 in the Statler-Hilton Hotel in Los Angeles, California. The Association is composed of, and represents, law schools in the United States. Its meeting this year was, as is customary, devoted principally to discussion of academic, curricular and other matters of particular interest to the law teaching profession.

Professor Arthur W. Phelps as a representative of the Law School attended the first mid-winter meeting of the Virginia State Bar Association, which was held in Williamsburg on January 17 and 18. The Committee on Continuing Legal Education of which Mr. Phelps is a member, met on January 17, in connection with the Bar meeting for the purpose of outlining future programs. Progress was reported on the preparation of a new handbook by the Committee on the proof of facts in Virginia.

The copy of Professor Phelps' new HANDBOOK OF VIRGINIA RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE is in the hands of the Michie Company of Charlottesville, and is expected to be available in the late spring. This handbook completes the series of handbooks on the Virginia rules of procedure prepared by Mr. Phelps. They will be kept up to date by regular supplements.

As a member of the State Affairs Committee of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce, Professor Thomas C. Atkeson attended a meeting of the Committee in Richmond on January 10, 1964, to discuss the relationship of Stanley Tax Commission Report to those of the State Chamber. Professor Atkeson served as a member of the Chamber's Tax Study Committee which produced the 1962 report entitled "Opportunities for Improvement of Virginia's Tax Structure."

Professor Curtis' coverage of Virginia case law developments in the subjects of Contracts and Sales appears in the Virginia Section of the November 1963 issue of the Virginia Law Review.

Professor James P. Wythe addressed the Northern Neck Bar Association at Warsaw, Va., in November, on the topic of "Argument and the Conduct of Counsel", which dealt with Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals' decisions on such matters as counsel mentioning that the defendant carries casualty insurance, counsel attempting to explain the law to the jury, and the making of inflammatory statements before the jury.

FACULTY NEWS LETTER

October 2, 1964

College Administration Reorganized

At the general faculty meeting on September 16 and the opening convocation on September 25, the general plan for reorganization of the College was reported to the faculty and student body. Faculty members who have not yet obtained copies of the 1963-64 Self-Study Report and the report of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, may obtain them from the office of the President. The supply of copies of the Handbook has been exhausted, but the Dean of the College may be able to have a few extra copies assembled if needed.

The reorganization plan regroups the activities of the College under four administrative officers who report directly to the President--in contrast to more than twenty who reported to him under the prior plan of organization. The four are (1) Dean of the College, a newly-established position, who is the chief academic and administrative officer under the President; (2) the Bursar, in charge of management and operational processes; (3) the Dean of Students, in charge of student welfare and services; and (4) the Director of Development, in charge of special events and external affairs.

Dr. W. Melville Jones, dean of the faculty of the undergraduate college since 1958, has been named Dean of the College. Dr. Harold L. Fowler, Chairman of the Department of History and of the Division of Social Sciences, succeeds Jones as dean of the undergraduate faculty; and Dr. Robert T. Siegel, research professor of physics, has been appointed to the new position of Dean of Graduate Studies.

The office of the Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences is located in Marshall-Wythe 112. The Dean of the College is temporarily located in the conference room in Marshall-Wythe 101.

Third Annual Faculty Lecture Series

Dr. Bruce L. Welch of the Department of Biology was the first speaker this week at the third annual Faculty Lecture Series. Five other lectures, by as many speakers, will be given in the series on successive Wednesdays in the Campus Center's Little Theater. The theme of this year's series is "Science and Society."

Welch spoke on "Science and Thomas Jefferson's America." Speakers and subjects for the remaining lectures are: Dr. Joseph T. Zung (Chemistry), "Science and Philosophy of Life," October 7; Dr. Alexander Kallos (Modern Languages), "Science and Goethe's 'Faust'," October 14; Professor L. W. Smith (English), "Science and the Novel," October 21; Dr. J. M. Roherty (Government), "Science, Civilians and the Military," November 11; Dr. Robert T. Siegel (Physics), "Science and Social Responsibility," November 18.

Earl Gregg Swem Library

With construction virtually on schedule, the new general library for the College is above ground, with one floor of concrete remaining to be poured and work advancing on some of the other details of the building. Completion date is July 1965.

The new library will consist of four floors, with a sub-basement and with provision for ultimate addition of a fifth floor. Entrances are designed to divide traffic flow between the first floor, below ground level, where the Lord Bote-tourt Gallery, the William and Mary Museum and the facilities of the Institute of Early American History and Culture will be located; and the second floor, where the main services for library users will be available. The top two floors will contain stacks, carrells and faculty studies.

The Swem library, named for the renowned bibliographer and librarian emeritus of the College, will form the keystone of a central court, including Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall and the new wing for the Department of Art, within the new center of advanced arts and sciences now under construction. Architectural plans for the new art wing are now in progress.

Homecoming--Library Cornerstone Laying

The formal laying of the cornerstone for the Earl Gregg Swem Library will launch the Homecoming ceremonies. The laying of the stone will take place at the site of the Library, with the Rector of the Board of Visitors, W. B. Woodward, Jr. of Newport News, presiding. In addition to remarks by the Rector and the President, the main statement will be given by James A. Servies, College Librarian. Earl Gregg Swem III, a freshman at the College, will assist in the ceremonies.

New Dormitory Named for Mrs. duPont

The newest women's dormitory has been named for Mrs. Jessie Ball duPont of Nemours, Delaware. The college board of visitors has formally approved the name of the widely known philanthropist and business woman for the new $1,125,000 structure which opened this fall.

The duPont dormitory, accommodating 270 women students, is located in the wooded residential area being developed adjacent to the new center of arts and sciences on the William and Mary campus. Ultra-modern in many of its furnishings, the building is already being praised as a model of modern student housing.

In selecting Mrs. duPont, the William and Mary board of visitors noted that its policy in naming buildings was to recognize persons for their dedicated service to the college and for the example their lives held out to students served by the building. The board paid tribute to Mrs. duPont's "quiet generosity and deep affinity for youth" which has been reflected in her gifts to the college.

William and Mary Theater Season

The William and Mary Theater will present four major productions this season. The plays are The Time of Your Life by William Saroyan; Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme by Moliere; Long Day's Journey into Night by Eugene O'Neill; and The Duchess of Malfi by John Webster. Season ticket for these four productions will be $6.00

A bonus performance for all season ticket holders will be given by Mr. Hugh Miller, Senior Director of Royal Academy of Dramatic Art, London.

A single admission to each William and Mary Theater production and the bonus performance will be $2.00. Buying a season ticket will save $4.00. All performances are in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. All times are 8 p.m. except Long Day's Journey into Night which will begin at 7:30 p.m.

The first production will be Time of Your Life, October 29, 30, 31.

1964-65 Concert Series

The William and Mary Concert Series will begin next Friday, October 9, with a concert by John Browning, the brilliant, young American pianist. The program is set for 8:30 in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. Many will recall Browning's recital last November 22, when he discarded his planned program and dedicated a special concert to the late John F. Kennedy.

Other artists to appear in the series are Roger Wagner Chorale and Orchestra, November 5; Laurindo Almeida, January 9; Jose Molina's Bailes Espanoles, February 12; Erick Friedman, March 19; and Leon Bibb, April 10.

Yearbook Pictures of Faculty

Yearbook pictures are to be made September 28 through October 16. The photographer will be in the Colonial Echo office, Campus Center, Monday through Friday, 9 - 12 a.m. and 1 - 5 p.m.

Faculty members are urged to have their pictures made on the special day reserved for them, Wednesday, October 7. If this is not possible any time at their convenience will be acceptable and is urged. There is no cost involved and no appointments are needed.

The Colonial Echo staff wishes to present a more complete picture of the faculty this year. The cooperation of each faculty member will be appreciated in making this possible.

DEPARTMENTAL NEWS

Ancient Languages

From August 22 to August 29, Professors Golden and Jones attended the Fourth International Congress of Classical Studies at the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia.

J. W. Jones has been selected by the Medieval Academy of America to write part of a book-length bibliography on Vergil. "Vergil as Magister in Fulgentius," an article by Mr. Jones, has appeared in Classical, Medieval, and Renaissance Studies in Honor of B. L. Ullman.

On October 3, Mr. Jones will attend a meeting of the committee formed to study certification of teachers of foreign languages. The meeting will be held at the University of Virginia.

Business Administration

Algin B. King has completed requirements preparatory to undertaking dissertation for Ph.D. degree at Ohio State University. He returned to the college on September 1.

John S. Quinn directed two weeks training conference at William and Mary for the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants in August.

In July, Charles L. Quittmeyer and a student concentrating in Business Administration, Michael Deligiannis, represented the college at the Southern Industrial Relations Conference at Blue Ridge, North Carolina.

The following members of the faculty were engaged as research consultants during the summer in a study of travel in Virginia. (This study is being carried out for the Virginia Travel Study Committee of the Commonwealth of Virginia.)

Martin A. Garrett (Department of Economics)

Charles L. Quittmeyer (Department of Business Administration)

William T. Reece (Department of Business Administration)

Edwin H. Rhyne (Department of Sociology)

William T. Reece attended a meeting of the Federal Government Accountants Association in Newport News, Virginia on September 16, 1964, and a meeting of the Virginia Society of Certified Public Accountants in Virginia Beach, on September 17, 1964.

Chemistry

Joseph T. Zung, Associate Professor of Theoretical Chemistry, has received a research contract from the Department of Defense, U. S. Army Edgewood Arsenal, to study the evaporation kinetics of liquid droplets. The total amount of contract is $17,590 for a period of thirteen months, starting September 1, 1964. This is the first contract of this kind received by the college. Mr. Zung will conduct this project in cooperation with Dr. Masataka Okuyama, Associate Professor of Chemistry at Osaka University, Osaka, Japan. He will come to William and Mary as an Exchange Visiting Scientist under the State Department Exchange Program.

Education

On June 28-29, 1964, Dr. Paul Clem, serving as a consultant lecturer, accompanied the Aerospace Education Summer Workshop group to Patrick AFB and Cape Kennedy, Florida. The workshop is co-sponsored by the Virginia Wing CAP and the University of Virginia.

Richard Copeland participated in the state mathematics conference in Roanoke on September 25-26, presiding for a panel discussion on upgrading the mathematics certification endorsement in Virginia.

Mental Hazards of the Home and School Life of Children was the topic of the main address delivered by Carl McCartha at the Shenandoah County Pre-School Conference held in Woodstock, Virginia, August 27, 1964.

September 3, Carl McCartha participated in the opening sessions of the York County Pre-School Conferences.

Carl McCartha spoke to the Richard T. Yates Parent-Teacher Association, September 15 on Mental Hazards of the Home Life that Affect our Children.

E. L. Looney spoke to the teachers of Sussex County on September 1, 1964, on the subject of Quality Education. This was during their pre-school conferences.

Marvin L. Wass and James N. Sterling of the Institute research staff are participating in the International Indian Ocean Expedition cruise September 15-November 15. Mr. Wass is investigating hermit crabs of the area and Mr. Sterling is collecting fish specimens for parasite studies. They are sponsored by the National Science Foundation in this effort.

Robert A. Woodmansee, formerly of the University of Southern Mississippi faculty, has been appointed head of the Plankton Research Section of the Institute and Associate Professor of Marine Science in the academic program. He participated in marine research and teaching in affiliation with the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory of Mississippi for the past ten years.

Morris L. Brehmer, head of Ecology-Pollution at VIMS, delivered five lectures on radiobiology during the week of July 27-31, 1964. His audience was a group of eighty high school teachers and university staff members at Eastern Illinois University. During the week he was also guest speaker for the University's Animal Ecology Class, presenting instruction in marine biology.

William J. Hargis, Jr., was elected chairman of the new Chesapeake Research Council, an organization formed among the Virginia Institute of Marine Science, the Chesapeake Biological Laboratory of the University of Maryland, and the Chesapeake Bay Institute of Johns Hopkins University. The council aims for a coordinated approach to common problems of estuarine waters of the Chesapeake Bay and coastal waters of the Atlantic Ocean.

George Moskovits, bacteriologist at the Institute, is publishing his work "Evaluation of 'Floc' as a Replica Plating Material for Bacteria in the December 1964 issue of Journal of Bacteriology.

Edwin B. Joseph, Dr. William J. Hargis, Jr., and Mr. W. A. Van Engel were Virginia's Biological delegates to the Atlantic States Marine Fisheries Commission meetings at Atlantic City, New Jersey September 21-24. Dr. Joseph presented a report jointly with others on the summer flounder.

William J. Hargis, Jr., presented a paper oddly titled Insects, Parasites and Other Small Life of the Antarctic to the Conference on Antarctic Biology at Skyland, Shenandoah National Park, Virginia, Thursday, September 24, 1964.

Eight new students were enrolled for the fall semester of the School of Marine Science seeking the Master's degree and two were enrolled for the Ph.D. program. Total active enrollment in the school is now 17.

Dexter S. Haven presented a paper Concentration of Suspended Radioactive Wastes into Bottom Deposits to the spring conference of the Society of Limnology and Oceanography at Miami Beach, Florida, in June.

J. D. Andrews presented a paper Status of MSX, an Oyster Pathogen, in Chesapeake Bay to the National Shellfisheries Association meetings in New Orleans July 12-15.

November 6, 1964

Tenth Annual Tidewater Tax Conference

The tenth annual Tidewater Tax Conference, sponsored by the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, will be held at the Campus Center on December 5. The conference brings together several hundred attorneys and accountants of Eastern Virginia to review with experts the current problems in state and federal tax rulings and legislation. The 1964 meeting will cover details of the current U. S. Revenue Act, tax law changes made by the Virginia General Assembly, experiences under the Norfolk retail sales tax, and federal tax cases and rulings. Dr. Thomas C. Atkeson and Dean Joseph Curtis of the School of Law are in charge of the annual conference.

American Right of Way Regional Conference

Region Four of the American Right of Way Association, a group of engineers and attorneys concerned with acquisition of land for government agencies and public utilities, will hold a two-day meeting in Williamsburg November 12-13. At the November 12 meeting, at Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall, College speakers will include Dr. A. L. Sancetta, professor of economics; Dr. E. Rae Harcum, professor of psychology; and Dr. William F. Swindler, professor of law.

County Government Institute

The National Association of Counties and the National Association of County Administrators will hold a three-day institute on county government at the College November 22-24. The two national groups will be jointed in sponsorship by the League of Virginia Counties. The institutes, designed to acquaint county governing officials with current developments in the area, have been held at Vanderbilt University in Tennessee and at Coe College in Iowa. William and Mary personnel participating in the third institute include Dr. William F. Swindler, professor of law, and Dr. Dwynal B. Pettengill, assistant professor of government.

Book Store Annex to Begin Construction

A long-needed annex to the College Book Store is expected to get under construction next month, when a contract is let for the work. Preliminary clearing of the ground, formerly occupied by the Morris House and the old Infirmary, has already been completed. The Annex is expected to provide students and faculty with a greatly expanded facility for books and supplies. The Annex is expected to cost about $200,000.

Speaker and Poet named for Phi Beta Kappa Meeting, December 5

E. R. Whittemore, Poetry Consultant at the Library of Congress, and Dr. Robert V. Roosa, Under-Secretary of the Treasury for Monetary Affairs, will be the poet and speaker at the public meeting of Phi Beta Kappa, December 5. The meeting will be held at 8:00 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall and will mark the 188th anniversary of the founding of the society.

Two Added to Library Staff

Miss Ailene Anne Zirkle has been appointed Acquisitions Librarian, replacing Mrs. Mildred Miller. Formerly Assistant Cataloger at William and Mary, Miss Zirkle received her B.A. at Madison College and her M.A. in Library Science at Peabody College. She was Librarian in Amherst County Schools, 1957-1961, and Elementary Librarian at the Naval Weapons Laboratory, Dahlgren, Virginia, September 1961 - June 1963.

Miss Sarah Virginia Gray has been appointed Periodicals Librarian. Formerly Supervisor of the Reserve Book Room, University of North Carolina, Miss Gray received her B.A. at Duke University, and her M.S. in Library Science at the University of North Carolina. From 1956-1958, Miss Gray was an assistant in the Manuscripts Division at Duke University.

The card catalog of the important Brock collection of the Huntington Library, San Marino, California, has recently been acquired in Xerox photocopy, thanks to the generous support of Mr. S. M. Bemiss of Richmond. One of the major resources on the history of Virginia and the South, the Brock collection has been used by several members of the College faculty in recent years. The presence of the catalog in reproduced form on the William and Mary campus will be welcomed by other graduate students and faculty members whose interests coincide with the resources of the Huntington Library. The sheets are now at the bindery and should be available to the public about December 1.

The Virginia Humanities Conference, an organization consisting of colleges in Virginia and individual faculty members, held its annual meeting at the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts this weekend. The general theme was the relationship between architecture and human values. Fraser Neiman, chairman of the Department of English, is the current chairman of the organization.

The William and Mary Radio Network

The College of William and Mary is sending taped programs to more than thirty Virginia radio stations. The new tape network which began full operation late in October includes stations in nearly every part of the state. The programs can be heard as far north as Leesburg and Arlington, as far west as Radford and Roanoke, south to Danville and Crewe, and east to Norfolk and Tasley on the Eastern Shore. Three separate programs are being distributed and some stations are carrying all three.

A five-minute sports interview by Barry Fratkin, the athletic publicity director, is now in its fifth week and is sent to twenty stations. The program was developed a year ago and the number of stations carrying the program has doubled.

A fifteen-minute science interview called, "I've Been Wondering" is being sent to sixteen stations. The program concept is to have a layman ask questions of the scientist. Each of the sciences will be represented several times during the year.

The third program is a half-hour music-lecture series featuring students and faculty members. Much of the material in the first programs has been taken from recordings of recent concerts and recitals. The program may also include selections by community groups and individuals who have only a minor relationship to the College. The speakers of the Thomas Jefferson Faculty Lecture series are also being asked to condense their talks for use on this program. Eighteen radio stations have requested this program series which is called, "William and Mary Presents..."

The acquisition of a high speed tape duplicator has made it possible to provide this service to Virginia radio stations and, in turn, to the College. More than fifty programs are distributed each week and the network will be in operation throughout the academic year.

Art Wing, Dining Hall to Start Early 1965

Two other much-needed capital projects at the College -- a wing of Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall to house the Department of Art, and a first unit of a new dining hall for resident students -- were authorized by the 1964 General Assembly and are expected to break ground early in 1965.

The Art Wing will provide a "second front" for Phi Beta Kappa Hall, and will face the Earl Gregg Swem Library at the apex of the developing half-circle of buildings which will comprise the center of advanced arts and sciences on the campus. The William Small Physical Laboratory, opened last February, and the life science building for which the 1964 legislature authorized a small fund for preparation of plans, will be other components of the center. The Phi Beta Kappa Art facility and the Swem Library will form the central court of this complex of buildings. Tentative plans call for a reflecting pool to occupy the area between the two buildings.

The dining hall will be located between the new Jessie Ball duPont Dormitory for women and the William Yates Dormitory for men. It is intended to serve students in the complex of residence facilities which are planned for this sector of the campus, roughly west of the stadium and north of the Cornelia Storrs Adair Women's Gymnasium.

DEPARTMENTAL NEWS

Ancient Languages

Edwin Floyd, Theodore Crane and J. Ward Jones attended the meeting of the Virginia Classical Association in Richmond on October 30.

Business Administration

John S. Quinn served as chairman of the auditing committee and as a member of the nominating committee at the annual meeting of the Association of University Evening Colleges in St. Louis October 25-28.

He visited the Institute from the Department of Geology, College of William and Mary where he was sponsored by the American Geophysical Union as part of a series of lectures at colleges and universities throughout the eastern United States.

There will be a seminar held at the Institute Thursday, November 12 at 7:30 p.m., on laboratory culture of oyster larvae by John L. Wood and Dana Eldridge. All interested persons are invited to attend.

FACULTY NEWS LETTER

December 1964

ABA President, Ambassador at Charter Day

Lewis F. Powell, Jr., of Richmond, president of the American Bar Association, will be the speaker at the 1965 Charter Day convocation on Saturday, February 13. Lord Harlech, the British Ambassador to the United States, will speak at a Friday evening banquet preceding the convocation, at a joint meeting of the College and the Virginia State Bar Association.

The theme of the Charter Day Conference, which culminates in the convocation, will be based upon the 750th anniversary of the Magna Carta to be observed during 1965. The sponsor of the conference, accordingly, will be the Marshall-Wythe School of Law. Other speakers at the conference, held jointly with the midwinter meeting of the state bar group, will be announced after the first of the year.

The Board of Visitors last year adopted a policy of holding the annual Charter Day conference on a weekend before or following the actual Charter Day on February 8, for the convenience of participants in the conferences. The College inaugurated in 1964 a policy of expanding the charter anniversary to a scholarly discussion in some appropriate field of higher learning. Last year the physics faculty conducted a three-day international conference on high energy cyclotron improvement in connection with the dedication of the William Small Physical Laboratory.

Dean Joseph Curtis is chairman of the 1965 Charter Day Conference committee. In addition to Mr. Powell, an official delegation of the American Bar Association will participate in the program, in cooperation with the state bar group.

Magna Carta Anniversary 1965

The Charter Day Conference will be the opening event in a year-long observance of the 750th anniversary of Magna Carta, the "great charter" of 1215 which is generally regarded as the forerunner of Anglo-American legal and constitutional institutions. The Virginia Magna Carta Commission, under the chairmanship of J. J. Kilpatrick, Jr., of Richmond, was established by the 1964 General Assembly to coordinate anniversary activities within the state and to serve as a liaison with out-of-state groups engaged in observance of the anniversary.

The chief activity of the Commission is to be a series of monographs or booklets, on subjects derived from the Magna Carta theme. These publications, similar to the Jamestown 350th Anniversary Booklets of 1957, will be written by specialists in various fields and will be published by the University Press in Virginia.

Yule Reception at Wren Building

On Sunday evening, December 27, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., the College, together with Colonial Williamsburg, will be host to the Christmas visitors to Williamsburg at an Eighteenth-Century Yule Reception in the Wren Building. A yule log will be lighted in the Great Hall, and a string trio will play. Hot spiced cider and cookies will be served around a bonfire in the west yard.

The College and Colonial Williamsburg cordially invite the members of the faculty and administrative staff and their wives to attend this reception and to assist in welcoming guests and to participate in the festivities.

Faculty Dinner-Dance

A dinner-dance sponsored jointly by the Faculty Club and the Faculty Wives' Club will be held at the Heritage Inn, Friday, December 18, 7-12 p.m. Reservations can be made by calling Mrs. Donald Ball at CA 9-5450. Dress will be semi-formal. The cost is $5.00 per person.

Evening College Statistics

Two out of three Evening College students during the current semester are college graduates. The academic background of the 443 registrants is as follows:

Hold one or more degrees	67%
More than 59 academic credits.	11%
From 3 through 59 credits.	17%
First time in college	5%

Teachers and school administrators constitute 46% of the enrollment, the largest occupational group. Fourteen per cent are in active-duty military service.

Carlos Montoya to Perform in Concert Series

Carlos Montoya, the famed flamenco guitarist, will be presented by the William and Mary Concert Series, Friday, January 15 at 8:30 p.m., in Blow Gymnasium. He is replacing Laurindo Almeida, who is unable to appear as scheduled. Montoya was here two years ago and proved to be one of the most enthusiastically received artists in recent years. There will be a limited number of individual tickets for sale at 2.50 from 7 to 8:30 at the box office in Blow Gymnasium on the evening of the performance.

DEPARTMENTAL NEWS

Ancient Languages

Edwin Floyd read a paper entitled "Alkmaion's Neighbor, Pythian 8" at the meeting of the Southern Section of the Classical Association of the Middle, West and South held during the Thanksgiving holidays. J. Ward Jones, Jr., also attended this meeting.

Education

John Sykes was the speaker for the elementary teachers section of the Middle Atlantic Conference of the National Science Teachers Association. The Conference was held at the Golden Triangle Hotel in Norfolk on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, November 26, 27, and 28.

English

Dabney Stuart's poem "Prizes" appears in the current issue of The Southern Poetry Review. Mr. Stuart also had four poems accepted by The New Yorker recently.

Geology

Kenneth F. Bick, Stephen C. Clement, and Bruce K. Goodwin attended the Annual Convention of the Geological Society of America at Miami Beach, Florida, November 19-21.

While in Miami Beach, Kenneth F. Bick participated in meetings of the Curriculum and Standards Committee of the National Association of Geology Teachers, and of the Earth Science Curriculum Project.

Stephen C. Clement recently submitted a 108-page report and map on the "Mineralogy and Petrology of the Copper Canyon Quartz Monzonite Porphyry, Battle Mountain, Nevada," to the Duval Corporation of Houston, Texas. This report is to aid in an exploratory drilling program on the copper-gold-silver prospect in the Battle Mountain mining district in northern Nevada.

Bruce K. Goodwin's 189-page bulletin "Guide to the Geology of the Philadelphia Area," was published in November by the Pennsylvania Topographic and Geologic Survey, as General Geology Report G41.

History

Joseph Brent signed a contract with Chandler Publishing Company of San Francisco to publish a sociological history of the South in collaboration with Perry H. Howard of Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge.

Library

A Xerox 914 copier is now available in the Audio-Visual Department of the Library. The initial rental charge of this equipment will be paid out of funds made available by the Governor of Virginia, through the State Council of Higher Education, in support of a plan to encourage inter-library cooperation among Virginia's educational and research organizations. A charge of ten cents per exposure is made to cover subsequent fees and operating costs. Inquiries regarding the Xerox 914 and its use should be made to Mr. Lanier, Library 2nd floor or Extension 393. In providing this service to the faculty and students, the Library assumes no responsibility for the ultimate use of photocopied texts. Faculty members and graduate students, especially, are urged to secure before duplication, the necessary permission to use copyrighted materials in their research or teaching.

Mr. Servies was a member of the Southern Association Visitation Committee at the University of the South, Sewanee, Tennessee, November 1-4, 1964; he also attended the recent meetings of the Southeastern and Virginia library associations.

Two recent additions to the special collections division are worthy of note: Mr. and Mrs. John J. Davis, of Washington, D. C., donors of the Jerdone scholarship, have presented a manuscript ledger of Francis Jerdone, mid-eighteenth century Yorktown merchant. Mr. L. B. Wever of Denbigh, Virginia, has presented an early edition of Terence's Comedies. The volume is noteworthy for the ownership marks of Henry Wolf (of Gloucester County?), a heretofore unknown William and Mary student in the period 1787-1790.

Mathematics

Hugh B. Easler served as a member of the Visitation Evaluation Committee at Quantico Marine Base High School, Quantico, Virginia, November 3-6.

Modern Languages

James Rush Beeler, Alexander Kallos and John A. Moore attended the annual meeting of the South Atlantic Modern Language Association in Greenville, South Carolina November 12-14, 1964. Mr. Kallos presented a paper entitled "Ernst Waldinger: Defender of Literary Tradition." Mr. Moore is serving on the Executive Committee.

Mr. Beeler has been awarded a fellowship by the Southeastern Institute for Medieval and Renaissance Studies for its 1965 session which will be held July 19 through August 25, 1965 at Chapel Hill, North Carolina under the joint sponsorship of the University of North Carolina and Duke University.

Ben C. McCary, whose avocation is the study of Virginia Indians, was a speaker at the conference of the College of Hospital Administrators, November 10, 1964. The subject of his talk was "Indian Artifacts in the Williamsburg Area."

Carol Gaar is one of the six co-authors of a text for first year German students published last spring by Scribners. The text is based on an experimental project undertaken over a four-year period at the University of Buffalo. It incorporates the latest linguistic techniques and also includes audio-visual aids to language teaching.

Music

F. Donald Truesdell attended the annual convention of the National Association of Schools of Music in St. Louis, November 27-28 and presented an informal lecture-recital titled, "The Composer's Craft" at the Grandview Christian Church in Kansas City, Kansas, November 29.

Stanley Buetens, lutenist, will be presented in recital in the Campus Center Ballroom, Friday, December 11, at 8:30 p.m. Regarded as the outstanding exponent of his instrument, Mr. Buetens is appearing as part of the Collegium Musicum Series.

The William and Mary Choir and Chorus, under the direction of Carl A. Fehr, and The William and Mary Chamber Orchestra, directed by Alan C. Stewart, will present choruses from Parts I, II and III of The Messiah, Wednesday and Thursday, December 16 and 17, at 8:30 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. Tickets are $1.00 and may be obtained at the door on the nights of performance.

Philosophy

Mr. Lachs' article entitled "Von Bertalanffy's New View" has been accepted for publication in Dialogue, journal of the Canadian Philosophical Association. The theoretical biologist von Bertalanffy has indicated his desire to write a rejoinder to Lachs' article.

On November 6-8 Mr. Lachs delivered a series of three lectures at St. Cyprian's Conference Center on the topic of "The Development of a Science of Man."

Physical Education for Men

The William and Mary Cross Country placed twentieth in the National Collegiate Cross Country Championship on November 23 at East Lansing, Michigan. Coach Harry Groves attended the Annual Meeting of the National Collegiate Cross Country Coaches Association held in conjunction with the meet.

On December 4-5 the Men's Physical Education and Athletic Department conducted the Virginia High School League Third Annual Baseball and Track and Field Clinics. Lester Hooker, Athletic Director and Harry Groves, Head Track Coach, directed the baseball and track phases of the clinic respectively.

The Annual Physical Fitness Awards Night is to be held December 11 during the half-time ceremonies of Furman-William and Mary basketball game. Approximately forty freshman and sophomore students will be presented the American Association of Health Physical Education and Recreation Senior Merit Certificates for scoring within the 90th percentile, nationally. The Alonzo Stagg Physical Fitness Medal winners will also be announced and appropriately honored.

Psychology

On November 12, 1964, Mr. Friedman and Miss Squires participated as members of the Professional Consultant Committee for the Hampton Roads Speech and Hearing Center, in developing diagnostic treatment and training recommendations for cases brought before the committee.

Psychology (continued)

On October 31, 1964, Miss Squires attended the Invitational Conference on Testing Problems sponsored by the Educational Testing Service. The program presented new statistical methods for test development and analysis and recent research concerning test performance of subjects from environmentally deprived or culturally different sub-groups.

Theatre and Speech

On December 3, the Department of Theatre and Speech sponsored the National Touring Company of Edward Albee's provocative play, WHO'S AFRAID OF VIRGINIA WOOLF? This outspoken drama was presented in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall at 8:00 p.m.

Tickets are available at the box office - CA 9-3000, Extension 272.

Members of the Debate Council have participated in debates held in Wake Forest, University of South Carolina, American University, University of Georgia, and Georgetown University. The William and Mary debaters have done extremely well, having carried off first place in several of the tournaments.

Marshall-Wythe School of Law

William F. Swindler is the editor of Magna Carta Documents, one of the first numbers in the publication series to be published under the auspices of the Virginia Magna Carta Commission. He has also signed a contract with Bobbs-Merrill Publishing Company for a book, Magna Carta: Legend and Legacy, to be published in the last half of 1965.

Mr. Swindler is also the author of a review of Elizabeth G. Brown's British Statutes in American Law to 1815, to appear in the Michigan Law Review

School of Marine Science

William J. Hargis, Jr., Director of the Virginia Institute of Marine Science, spoke to the Accomac Farmers Club on "Marine Research and the James River Problems" Tuesday, November 17, 1964.

William J. Hargis, Jr., Morris L. Brehmer, Maynard M. Nichols and Robert L. Ellison attended the AERS meeting in Baltimore, Maryland, November 6-7. Mr. Ellison of the University of Virginia and Associate Faculty member of VIMS presented a paper titled "Diversity of foraminifera in the Rappahannock River" a study begun while he was a participant of the NSF Research Participation for College Teachers summer program at VIMS.

Jay D. Andrews, Head of Malacology Department at the Virginia Institute of Marine Science, has completed a final report on the proper management of stored water for biological purposes with reference to the proposed Salem Church Dam Project. This is a project designed to reduce or eliminate oyster pests such as drills, Dermocystidium, MSX, etc. from the Rappahannock River. The report is being sent to the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, U. S. Wildlife Service and the Corps of Engineers.

Mr. Andrews served as a member of the Textbook Selection Committee for the State Board of Education in selecting biology textbooks for students in Virginia.

Dana Eldridge of VIMS under the supervision of Mr. Andrews, has finished a successful summer's work on breeding of progeny of selected MSX-resistant oysters. Some fifteen different lots of oyster progeny are now available for testing. A rather enthusiastic quarterly progress report has been sent to the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service which administers a federal grant on this project.

Robert S. Bailey presented four TV shows for the Hampton Roads Educational TV Association to be used in a series of sixteen lessons on marine life for sixth grade students in the area. As a consequence, thirteen classes from the Norfolk-Hampton area, representing 500 students, teachers and parents have visited the Institute this fall to augment their classroom studies.

Ten students in Biological Oceanography at the Virginia Institute of Marine Science got to take a long look at the subject of their chosen careers November 23-25. The subject was the sea, specifically the Atlantic Ocean, on which they ranged beyond the Gulf Stream aboard Duke University's new research vessel EASTWARD. The VIMS graduate students received training on the cruise from Langley Wood and Dr. Maynard Nichols, of the Institute research staff, instructors in biological and physical oceanography, respectively. The cruise aboard the EASTWARD was a part of a Cooperative Research and Training Program in Biological Oceanography sponsored by the National Science Foundation.

Virginia Institute of Marine Science

William J. Hargis, Jr. has announced receipt of grants approved by the National Science Foundation totaling $41,985 for three summer research and training programs: Research Participation for College Teachers, Undergraduate Research Participation, and the Cooperative College-School Science Program. Six college teachers at the doctoral level will be sponsored for a 12-week program of research this summer at the Institute's Gloucester Point facilities under the RPCT grant. Ten college undergraduate students will be sponsored for 10-weeks of research at the Institute. Each will be directed and assisted in individual research projects by a VIMS scientist.

The Virginia Institute of Marine Science, Gloucester was host to the seventh annual Shellfish Mortality Conference on Monday and Tuesday, January 25-26.

Dr. J. D. Andrews, head of the Institute's Malacology Department was in charge of the program and other arrangements. About fifty scientists from Atlantic and Gulf Coastal States and Canada met to discuss problems relating to shellfish mortalities and to report progress they have made. The subjects presented ranged from the composition of oyster blood through the various forms of MSX to the progress made in breeding oysters resistant to disease.

Robert S. Bailey, coordinator of National Science Foundation sponsored summer research programs at the Institute, attended the Director's meetings for the Cooperative College-School Science Program and the Research Participation for College Teachers Program in Washington, D. C. January 13-15 and January 28. Many items were discussed at these meetings aimed toward improving the effectiveness of the programs so that both short-term and long range goals may be achieved.

William J. Hargis, Jr., Director of the Institute and Dean of the School of Marine Science, spoke to the Gloucester Kiwanis Club on January 5. He pointed out progress made on the Institute's James River Project, a broad-scale research effort by the Institute to determine biological and physical characteristics of this river that is of incalculable value to many aspects of Virginia's economy. Dr. Hargis also attended a seminar on Research Ships of Opportunity at the Office of Naval Operations in Washington, D. C. on January 22.

Fifteen high-ability, secondary students will be sponsored in the College-School Science program at Norview High School. Dr. John I. McClurkin, Head of the Biology Department at Randolph-Macon College in Ashland, will be the instructor. The program is a joint effort of the Norfolk City School Board and the School of Marine Science to challenge exceptional secondary school students to higher achievement, and introduce facets of the marine environment into the science curriculum of the city schools.

Education

The Division of Educational Research, State Board of Education, has published the results of a study conducted by Howard Holland and Armand Galfo in a booklet entitled An Analysis of Research Concerning Class Size.

A textbook by Armand Galfo and C. Earl Miller of San Francisco State College has been published by the William C. Brown Book Company. The book, Interpreting Education Research, is intended for use in introductory courses in education research and the application of research.

Richard Copeland has contracted with W. B. Saunders Publishing Company of Philadelphia to publish a text in mathematics education for elementary teachers. Publication is set for the summer of 1966.

Carl W. McCartha was guest speaker at the York County James Weldon Johnston School Parent-Teachers Founders Day Program. His topic was "Leadership - A Challenge."

English

Fraser Neiman has been asked to serve as a field reader in evaluating proposals submitted to the Arts and Humanities Branch of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, under its Small Contract Program.

Mr. Neiman talked on Byron to senior English classes at Warwick High School on March 2.

Mr. David Jenkins has received an Asian Fellowship to attend the University of Virginia Chinese Seminar during July and August. He will be tracing the oriental element in the Imagist movement of English and American literature. The program is organized by the University Center in Richmond.

Modern Language

Dr. Gordon B. Ringgold addressed a large group of French students, members of French Clubs of Newport News High Schools, at Kecoughtan High School the evening of March 1. He talked on the French language's traps for English-trained minds, and methods of approach for American students.

Philosophy

John Lachs was awarded a Co-operative Program in the Humanities Fellowship for 1965-1966. These fellowships, jointly administered by Duke University and the University of North Carolina, are designed to enable scholars to spend a year in uninterrupted writing and research. Mr. Lachs will be in residence at Chapel Hill working on a book on the philosophy of the contemporary American thinker, George Santayana. He has also received a grant from The American Philosophical Society for work on the book during the coming summer.

On February 26 Mr. Lachs delivered a lecture at Amherst College, Amherst, Massachusetts under the sponsorship of the Amherst Department of Philosophy. Mr. Lachs' article "Graduate Programs in the Undergraduate College" is in the current issue of Journal of Higher Education. Another article entitled "Experience" appears in the March issue of Southern Journal of Philosophy. A third article "Self-Identity Without a Self" is in the March issue of The Review of Metaphysics.

Lewis Foster read a paper entitled, A Theory of Man Based on the Cayce Psychic Phenomena, to the Edgar Cayce Foundation.

Psychology

Stanley B. Williams, who is on leave of absence in England for the year, writes that he has been asked by the Woodrow Wilson Foundation to interview Woodrow Wilson applicants in England and has journeyed to Aberdeen, Scotland, and Frankfurt, Germany, to interview applicants.

E. Rae Harcum has been asked to serve as Chairman of a paper reading session at the annual meeting of the Eastern Psychological Association in April at Atlantic City. The session will be concerned with the mechanisms of information processing. Dr. Harcum has also served at the request of the program committee as a referee for papers submitted for inclusion on the program.

Mr. Harcum spoke at the March meeting of the Parent Teacher Association of Magruder Elementary School on the topic "The Child As an Information Translator."

Virgil McKenna talked on "The Sense of Self" to a youth group of The Williamsburg Presbyterian Church on February 28.

Sociology and Anthropology

Wayne Kernodle's article, "The Last of the Rugged Individualists," appears in the international edition of C. Merton Babcock's, The American Frontier, recently released by Holt, Rhinehart and Winston.

Mrs. Jessie Bernard, research and consultant sociologist in Washington, visited the College of William and Mary, March 1, 2 and 3, under the sponsorship of the National Science Foundation and the American Sociological Association program of visiting scientists. While here she spoke to several sociology classes; met informally with students; and discussed matters relevant to the profession and the prospects of graduate work in sociology and anthropology with the departmental staff.

Miss Jacqueline Stackhouse, training supervisor in psychiatric social work for Richmond Professional Institute, discussed "Careers in Social Work" with the members of the sociology club March 5.

Marshall-Wythe School of Law

William F. Swindler will speak on March 15 to the interpretive staff of the Jamestown Foundation on "Magna Carta in American Law and Government."

Two Lecture Grants to Law School

The Oliver Wendell Holmes Devise of the Library of Congress has awarded the 1965-66 Holmes Lectures to the Marshall-Wythe School of Law. The lecture series, financed from the Holmes estate, is rotated annually among leading American law schools. The lecturer to come to the campus, and the dates of his lectures, will be announced later. The lectures subsequently will be published by Macmillan Company of New York.

An annual Sherwell Lecture in the Law School has been established through a gift in memory of Guillermo Sherwell, whose family formerly owned and occupied the George Wythe house in Williamsburg. The first lecture in this series, it is expected, will be offered early in the second semester and subsequently will be published by the William and Mary Law Review.

Eleventh Annual Tax Conference

Several hundred attorneys and accountants will gather December 4 for the Eleventh Annual Tax Conference sponsored by the Marshall-Wythe School of Law. Topics for this year include developments bearing on the future of taxation in Virginia, 1965 federal tax cases and rulings, developments this year in federal tax administration proper tax elections, current tax problems and a review--one year later--of the 1964 tax law. Joseph Curtis, Dean and Thomas C. Atkeson, Professor of Taxation, are in charge of the conference.

DEPARTMENTAL NEWS WILLIAM & MARY

Ancient Languages

Dr. Mary Pearl, Visiting Professor of Ancient Languages, is taking the place for this year of Dr. Ward Jones, Associate Professor. Dr. Pearl was, until last June, Dean of Sweetbriar College. Dr. Jones is teaching in Naples, Italy in the Tufts University junior year in Italy program.

Another new member of the Department is Dr. Lewis Leadbeater, Assistant Professor, who was an instructor at New York University last year.

Business Administration

John S. Quinn will address the National Association of Accountants, Hampton Roads Chapter, in Norfolk November 11 on "Are You Interested in Perpetuating the Accounting Profession?"

Gilbert C. Jones attended the three-week Forum on Finance held in June in New York, sponsored by the Association of Stock Exchange Firms, the Investment Company Institute and the New York University Graduate School of Business Administration. Mr. Jones also attended the World Trade Conference October 21-22 at Hampton, and spoke on "The Projected Economic Growth of Williamsburg and James City County" to directors of the Williamsburg Chamber of Commerce on October 8.

Charles L. Quittmeyer and Algin B. King attended the 1965 annual Academic Conference of the American Marketing Association in Washington, in early September.

A 168-page report to Wye Institute, Inc., entitled "Report on the Chesapeake Bay Fisheries of Maryland Pertaining to the Eastern Shore" was completed by a study team of Gilbert C. Jones and Charles L. Quittmeyer, and Jay D. Andrews (Marine Science), Victor A. Liguori (Sociology), Dwynal B. Pettengill (Government), and Anthony L. Sancetta (Economics).

Another study team has submitted a preliminary report on "The Virginia Travel Industry" to the Travel Study Committee of the Commonwealth of Virginia. The team included Charles L. Quittmeyer and William T. Reece, with Edwin H. Rhyne (Sociology), Martin A. Garrett (Economics) and Lorin A. Thompson, Professor of Business Administration at the University of Virginia.

Chemistry

Dr. Joseph T. Zung has been awarded a $23,600 contract for 1965-66 by the U.S. Army Edgewood Arsenal for a theoretical study on the evaporation kinetics of liquid droplets in clouds and sprays in air. This is the second contract received by the Department since October, 1964.

Economics

John Matthews has been appointed to the State Manpower Task Group, which will develop a state Emergency Resource Management Plan. Mr. Matthews is former director of the Virginia Operational Survival Plan.

Leonard Schiffrin is serving on two groups relating to economics teaching in the public schools: The Citizens' Review Committee, developing an economics program for the Richmond city schools under auspices of the Joint Council on Economic Instruction; and a group writing a syllabus to be used in the In-Service Education in Economics program of the State Board of Education.

English

Four members of the Department attended the North Carolina-Virginia College English Association meeting at the Agricultural and Technical College of North Carolina on October 29: Donald A. Ball, who was elected treasurer; Fraser Neiman, a member of the Executive Committee, Miss Mary Beaty and Cecil McCulley.

Fine Arts

Carl A. Roseberg received a summer Fulbright grant for two months of study and travel in India. The program included 60 seminar lectures on all aspects of Indian civilization and 8,000 miles of travel to various archaeological and historical sites in India.

Geology

K. F. Bick and S. C. Clement attended the first Basin and Range Field Conference June 19-July 12. The conference, sponsored by the National Science Foundation, concentrated on the structure, stratigraphy, geomorphology and economic geology of the Basin and Range Province in Nevada and in parts of California, Arizona and Utah.

Bruce K. Goodwin has finished field work on the Hylas quadrangle for the Virginia Division of Mineral Resources and is preparing a manuscript on the geology of that area.

Kenneth F. Bick is preparing a manuscript on the geology of the Williamsburg quadrangle for the Virginia Division of Mineral Resources.

Gerald Johnson completed in September the geologic mapping of the glacial deposits in northeast Indiana for the Indiana Geological Survey. He presented a paper on "The Stratigraphy, Paleontology and Paleocology of the Peoria Loess in Southwestern Indiana" at the Quadrennial Congress of the International Association for Quaternary Research at Boulder, Colorado, August 28-September 5.

History

James M. Smith, Lecturer and editor of publications at the Institute of Early American History and Culture, will read a paper on "Thomas Jefferson and the Kentucky Resolutions" at the meeting of the Southern Historical Association in Richmond, November 20.

Ludwell H. Johnson, Richard B. Sherman and Dietrich O. Orlow were awarded Faculty Research Grants for this past summer.

Mr. Johnson's "The Butler Expedition of 1861-62: The Profitable Side of War" was published in September by the Civil War History.

Mr. Orlow's article, "The Organizational History of NSDAP, 1919-1923," appeared in the June Journal of Modern History, and his article "Die Adolph-Hitler-Schulen," was published in the July Biertejahreshefte für Zeitgeschichte.

Thaddeus W. Tate, Jr. had his article, "The Social Contract in America, 1763-1776: Revolutionary Theory as a Conservative Instrument," published in the July William and Mary Quarterly.

Bruce McCully reviewed G. S. Misra, British Foreign Policy and India Affairs,

History (continued)

1783-1815, in the July American Historical Review. His review of The Founding of Massachusetts: Historians and Sources, Edmund S. Morgan (ed.) appeared in the September New England Quarterly.

Anthony Esler's article, "Robert Greene and the Spanish Armada," will appear in a fall number of the English Literary History. His book, The High Aspiring Mind, will be published by the Duke Press.

William W. Abbot's review of the Transactions of the Colonial Society of Massachusetts, Vol. XLII, 1952-56, Walter M. Whitehill (ed.), appeared in the June New England Quarterly.

Mathematics

T. L. Reynolds represented the College at two meetings: State Mathematics Conference, Norfolk, October 8-9 and regional meeting of the American Mathematics Society at M.I.T., October 30.

Modern Languages

Mrs. Mary Ann B. Coffland received a Doctoral Fulbright grant to study in Italy this academic year.

John A. Moore was a consultant in the question and answer section of the Going to College Handbook published by the Presbyterian Church.

Music

Enrollment in the Summer Band School last summer was at an all-time high. The Summer Band School Concert Band of 70 players was on campus Saturday, September 11, in connection with the annual meeting of the Virginia Band and Orchestra Directors Association. Charles R. Varner was director of both activities.

F. Donald Truesdell's review of newly published piano materials appeared in the July-August issue of Summy-Birchard Company's Piano Teacher. On October 19, he accompanied some of the officers of the newly established Nu Sigma Chapter of Pi Mu Alpha Sinfonia to the University of North Carolina for a province workshop.

Attending the College Section of the Virginia Music Educators Association meeting in conjunction with the Virginia Education Association in Richmond, October 29, were Carl A. Fehr, Alan C. Stewart, F. Donald Truesdell and Charles R. Varner. Truesdell presided before ending a two-year term as chairman.

Physics

Dr. John L. McKnight read his paper "The Intellectual Development of Georg Simon Ohm," at the XIth International Congress of the History of Science, which was held in Warsaw and Cracaw, Poland, August 24-29.

Physics (continued)

Frederic R. Crownfield, Jr. presented a research paper, "Coupling of Degenerate Modes of a Microwave Cavity Due to the Presence of a Magnetized Plasma," at a meeting November 2 of the Southeastern Section of the American Physical Society, at Charlottesville. His work was done with the support of a NASA Research Grant. He is also presenting some results of this work at the annual meeting of the Division of Plasma Physics of the American Physical Society at San Francisco, November 8-11.

Psychology

"Position Reversal Training in the Virginia Opossum: Evidence for the Acquisition of a Learning Set," by Herbert Friedman and David A. Marshall, appeared in the Quarterly Journal of Experimental Psychology, 17, 250-254, August, 1965.

Dr. E. Rae Harcum talked on "Research in the Psychopathology of Vision" at the October 11 Fall Meeting of the Neuropsychiatric Society of Virginia. He was notified by the American Association for the Advancement of Science of his election as a Fellow.

Dr. Harcum's grant from the Institute of Child Welfare and Human Development, Public Health Service, has been renewed. Four reports of research under the grant have been accepted for publication: "Serial-Position Curve of Verbal Learning After Prolonged Practice," "Configuration Determinants in Visual Perception of Binary Patterns: Supplementary Report," "Serial Learning without Primacy or Recency Effects," and "Pre-Knowledge of Isolation as a Prerequisite for the Isolation-effect."

Sociology and Anthropology

Nancy L. Gates spoke on "Sociological Concepts Important to Social Studies Teachers," at the Hampton High School's Professional Day November 3.

"Leaves Without Medical Examination from Eastern State Hospital in Williamsburg, Va.," was the subject of an article by R. Wayne Kernodle in the October Virginia Medical Monthly. He attended the October 29-30 conference on Sociology Tomorrow at Hampton Institute.

School of Education

President Paschall, on October 21, 1965, appointed Dr. Armand J. Galfo to the position of Assistant Dean of the School of Education. Dr. Galfo has been Associate Professor of Education since 1961.

Carl W. McCartha spoke on "Blocks for Stimulating Learning" at a session of elementary teachers at the District R, Virginia Education Association meeting October 11 at Courtland. He also attended the VEA's October 27 convention in Richmond.

J. W. Sykes, Assistant Professor, spoke on "A Reconsideration of the Role of the Social Studies in the Elementary School Program" at a meeting October 11 of District B, the Virginia Education Association.

Patrick Riley will conduct a two-day workshop for clinical supervisors in physical therapy at Medical College of Virginia, November 11-13. The workshop is on "Applications to Learning of the Finding of Educational and Depth Psychology." He was also selected as regional representative for the South Atlantic Philosophy of Education Society to attend the Society's national meeting at St. Louis in April.

Marshall-Wythe School of Law

William F. Swindler attended a municipal problems seminar of the Practicing Law Institute in New York August 18-20. He served as a member of the Committee of Experts at the World Conference on Peace Through Law in Washington, September 13-17. His review of "Justice Rutledge and the Bright Constellation," by Fowler V. Harper, appeared in the fall Indiana Law Journal.

Thomas C. Atkeson was appointed by Governor Albertis S. Harrison as Virginia's representative to the National Tax Association's annual conference on taxation, November 8-12 in New Orleans.

FACULTY NEWS LETTER

December 10, 1965

The Library Move

Books will be moved into the College's new Earl Gregg Swem Library from December 18 to January 3. While the reading rooms of the old Library will be open to the public during that period, the book collection will not be available to readers until the Swem Library is ready for use.

Books issued after December 4, 1965, and books renewed in that period, will fall due after the holidays. After January 4, 1966, please return all volumes to the Earl Gregg Swem Library.

Rockefeller To Speak

Winthrop Rockefeller will address a public meeting Saturday, December 11, on the subject of "The Harmonious Man." The public session follows his initiation as an honorary member of Kappa Delta Pi's William and Mary Chapter. The address is scheduled at 8:00 p.m., at the Campus Center Ballroom. All members of the College community are invited to attend.

Grant for English Summer Institute

The English Department has been awarded a grant of about $45,000 by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to support a Summer Institute for Advanced Study in English. The Institute, which will be directed by Leroy Smith, will offer two courses in advanced composition and a workshop for 35 secondary school English teachers. The courses will be taught by David Jenkins and Charles Davidson for seven weeks, from June 20 to August 5, 1966.

Grants for Physics Programs

The National Science Foundation has granted more than $140,000 to the College for: The eighth Summer Institute in Science and Mathematics, a new summer research program for superior high school teachers in physics and biology, and for purchase of optics equipment for the physics department. The Summer Institute has drawn more than 900 teachers for special advanced study, 55 of whom have earned masters' degrees from it.

WCWM Programs

Included with this month's Faculty News Letter is a schedule of programs for the College's radio station, WCWM, which broadcasts on the FM band at 89.1. Its hours are from 3 p.m. to midnight, with news from United Press International at 4 p.m., 6 p.m., 10 p.m., and just prior to signing off. Much of WCWM's broadcast day is recorded music, but many of the regularly scheduled programs included with the News Letter might be of particular interest to members of the faculty.

News Letter

Because of the holidays, there will be no Faculty News Letter for January. The next issue will be distributed early in February.

DEPARTMENTAL NEWS

Ancient Languages

"A Study of Helen in the Iliad and Odyssey," an article by Professor George J. Ryan, will be published in The Classical Journal December 15.

Biology

Annemarie S. Welch has recently been awarded a one-year grant, amounting to $4,200, by the National Institute of Mental Health to study the effect of stressors on fetal and neonate catecholamine metabolism. Portions of this and related work will be discussed at the AAAS meetings in Berkeley, Calif., during the Christmas holidays.

Bruce L. Welch was appointed a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science November 15.

Dr. Welch has received a one-year grant of $19,920 from the Department of the Army for the study of "Neuroendocrine Adaptation to Different Environmental Conditions." He has also received a two-year grant of $55,246 from the Air Force Office of Scientific Research for the study of "Neuroendocrine Adaptation."

An invitational paper on "Neurochemistry and Aggression" was presented by Dr. Welch at an Interdisciplinary Symposium on Brain Mechanisms and Aggression at the Brain Research Institute, University of California, Los Angeles, November 14-16. He also presented invitational papers on "Physiological Indications of Population Condition" at the 19th Annual Conference of the Southeastern Association of Game and Fish Commissioners in Tulsa, Oklahoma, October 12; and on "Sympathetic Nervous Adaptation" at the 2nd International Catecholamine Symposium in Milan, Italy, July 4-9.

Business Administration

Gilbert C. Jones attended the conference on State Technical Services (Public Law 89-182) sponsored by the U.S. Department of Commerce. The conference was held December 9-10 at the Statler Hilton in Washington, D.C.

John S. Quinn represented the College at a meeting of the Committee on Education of the Virginia Society of Certified Public Accountants in Richmond November 30.

Charles L. Quittmeyer and Gilbert C. Jones briefed Governor J. Millard Tawes of Maryland in Annapolis November 12 on a policy report concerning Maryland's fisheries prepared by a research team comprised of William and Mary faculty members: J. D. Andrews (Marine Science), G. C. Jones (Business Administration), V. A. Liguori (Sociology), D. B. Pettengill (Government), C. L. Quittmeyer, and A. L. Sancetta (Economics).

Geology

Kenneth F. Bick, Bruce K. Goodwin, and Gerald H. Johnson attended a symposium on Time and Stratigraphic Problems in the Evolution of Man presented by the National Academy of Sciences at the Carnegie Institution of Washington, October 16.

Geology (continued)

Stephen C. Clement attended a General Electric X-ray spectro-chemical school in Milwaukee October 18-21. Participants observed the manufacture of X-ray equipment of all types and studied the application of X-ray analysis to a variety of academic and industrial problems.

History

Joseph Brent presented a lecture in the Faculty Lecture Series October 20, titled "The South: A Mythological Society." He has signed a contract with Prentice Hall to prepare a book of readings in U.S. history, in conjunction with Paul Glad and Allen Weinstein of the University of Maryland, for publication in 1967.

Dietrich Orlow delivered a lecture in the Faculty Lecture Series entitled "The Conversion of Myths into Political Power: The Case of the Nazi Party, 1925-1926."

Thad W. Tate was a discussant for a program on "Eighteenth Century Origins of Some Characteristic Nineteenth-Century Southern Views" at the annual meeting of the Southern Historical Association in Richmond November 17.

Marine Science

Three scientists have been added to the research staff of the Virginia Institute of Marine Science at Gloucester Point. They are Dr. Kenneth L. Webb, a physiologist from the University of Georgia, Dr. William G. MacIntyre, a chemical oceanographer from Bedford Oceanographic Institute in Canada, and Evon Ruzecki, physical oceanographer and meteorologist from the University of Wisconsin.

The Virginia Institute of Marine Science was host recently to 125 scientists from universities and state and federal marine laboratories from New Jersey to Florida at the 34th meeting of the Atlantic Estuarine Research Society.

Dr. M. M. Nichols attended the International Conference on Tropical Oceanography at the Carolina Hotel, Miami Beach, Fla., and presented a paper, "Organic Production and Nutrients in Arid Coastal Lagoons."

Dr. William J. Hargis, Jr., director of VIMS, has announced receipt of a grant of $13,160 from the National Science Foundation for support of a Research Participation for College Teachers program for the summer of 1966. This will be the eighth year VIMS has conducted a program of this nature for college teachers. The program will be in progress June 12 through September 2, 1966.

Dean Hargis and Dr. John L. Wood attended a national conference on "The Concept of a Sea-Grant University" October 28-29 at the University of Rhode Island, Newport, Rhode Island. Dean Hargis appeared on a panel: "Sea-Grant Universities: the Possibilities and Complications from the University's Point of View."

Mathematics

Professor T. L. Reynolds attended the regional meeting of the American Mathematical Society at the University of Kentucky November 12-13.

Professors B. R. Cato, L. T. Conner, H. B. Easler, M. Kutner, S. Lawrence, T. L. Reynolds, W. C. Turner, and F. W. Weiler attended the Maryland-D.C.-Virginia section meeting of the Mathematical Association of America. Professor Reynolds is vice-chairman of the section.

December 7 Professor Hans Sagan, of the Department of Mathematics, North Carolina State University, gave a lecture to our staff and graduate students in Mathematics on "Differentiation of Functionals." Professor Sagan is a member of the Program of Visiting Lecturers of the Mathematical Association of America for 1965-66.

Modern Languages

Dr. Alexander Kallos, Dr. John A. Moore and Dr. Pierre C. Oustinoff attended the South Atlantic Modern Languages Association conference in Atlanta, Georgia, November 5. Dr. Moore attended as a member of the Executive Committee. Dr. Kallos presented a paper entitled "The Impact of Maxim Gorky's Lower Depths on the German Stage, 1903-1906." Dr. Oustinoff presented a paper entitled "The Sources of the Nakaz of Catherine the Great." Dr. Oustinoff was also elected secretary of the Slavic Section of SAMLA for 1965-66.

Dr. Alexandr Kurtz has received a research grant from the American Philosophical Society to work on "The Literary Aspects of Gustav Mahlers' Works."

On November 26, at a private ceremony in the French Embassy in Washington, D.C., Dr. J. Luke Martel was awarded the rank of "Chevalier" of the "Ordre des Palmes Académiques." The "Palmes Académiques" is a distinction awarded by the French government for excellence in the fields of literature, fine arts, and teaching.

Dr. Moore's Index to the first five volumes of Romance Notes has recently been published by the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill, North Carolina. Also, Dr. Moore has been named a fellow in one of the Seminars of the Southeastern Institute of Medieval and Renaissance Studies at Duke University, July-August, 1966.

Professor Marcel Reboussin presented a paper entitled "The Writer as a Creator of Myths" for the Faculty Lecture Series November 3.

Dr. J. Worth Banner will attend the meeting of the Modern Language Association in Chicago December 27-29. Dr. Banner was Visiting Professor of Spanish Literature at the University of New Mexico during the past summer.

Music

The William and Mary Choir under the direction of Carl A. Fehr presented a concert at the Peninsula Industrial Management Banquet in Newport News November 18. On December 6, they gave a Christmas program before the officers and enlisted men at Fort Eustis.

Music (continued)

Instrumental ensembles, under the direction of Charles R. Varner, and the Chorus will join with the Choir in the annual Christmas Concerts at Phi Beta Kappa Auditorium, December 14, 15, and 16 at 8:15 p.m.

Alan C. Stewart substituted recently on viola for concerts by the Feldman String Quartet in the public schools of Baltimore, Maryland.

F. Donald Truesdell attended the first convention of the newly organized Virginia Music Teachers Association November 29-30 in Richmond and accepted appointment to the Credentials Committee. Virginia Music Teachers Association is affiliated with Music Teachers National Association, the representative organization for private teachers and college teachers of applied music.

Other concerts slated on the College music calendar include the Lee Evans Trio at Phi Beta Kappa Hall, January 7, at 8:30 p.m.; the Princeton Pro Musica Brass Ensemble, January 9, at 4 p.m., in the Campus Center Ballroom; and The New Orleans Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra, February 11, at Phi Beta Kappa Hall at 8:30.

Philosophy

Frank A. MacDonald was a group discussion leader on the subject "The Humanistic Implication of Science" at the meeting of the Virginia Humanities Conference at Sweet Briar College, November 6. Professor MacDonald was also a speaker at the opening convocation of Old Dominion College October 28.

Professor James J. Leach read a paper entitled "Explanation and Value Neutrality" and Professor Glenn Pearce read a paper on "The Symmetrical Universe" at the annual meeting of the Virginia Philosophical Association at Roanoke College October 14-15.

Professor Elizabeth S. Reed was elected secretary at the annual meeting of the Virginia Philosophical Association.

Physical Education (Men's)

Harry R. Groves has been elected treasurer of the National Collegiate Cross-Country and Distance Running Coaches Association for 1966. This is an automatic appointment to the Games Committee for the 1966 National Collegiate Cross-Country Championship at Lawrence, Kansas.

Psychology

Virgil McKenna reviewed Raymond B. Cattell's Scientific Analysis of Personality for Choice.

Dr. Norman Frederickson, Research Director, Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N.J., will address the Psychology Colloquium, December 17, at 3 p.m. in Rogers Hall 100. His topic: "The Use of Situational Testing in Research." All interested are invited.

The Department of Psychology has had several guest speakers for their weekly departmental Colloquiums. Among them were Dr. Eliot Stellar, from the Institute of Neurological Science, University of Pennsylvania Medical School, September 27, on "Learning and Transfer of Training in the Split-Brain Cat;" Dr. Ray Bortner, from Hampton Veterans Administration Research Center, October 7, on "Studies of Personality Factors in Coronary Disease;" Dr. Nancy Anderson, from the Department of Psychology, University of Maryland, November 5, on "Effects of Accoustic Similarity on Serial Learning and Retention of Letter Sequences;" and Dr. Frank Finger, from the Department of Psychology, University of Virginia, November 12, on "Recent Research on General Activity."

Drs. E. Rae Harcum, Russell P. Norman, and Stanley B. Williams attended the Virginia Psychological Association's fall meeting in Norfolk, October 15-16.

School of Education

Dr. Clem, Dr. Herrmann, and Mr. Geoffroy attended a meeting in Richmond, October 28, which was called by the guidance division of the State Department of Education. Colleges supporting Counselor Educational programs throughout the state were represented and joined in an informative discussion on current problems and trends pertinent to the training of counselors.

Marshall-Wythe School of Law

The Thomas Jefferson Inn of Phi Delta Phi, international legal fraternity, was formally installed at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law December 4. Dean Ben F. Small of Indiana University Law School, international president of Phi Delta Phi, headed the group of national officers who conducted the installation ceremonies in the Great Hall of the Sir Christopher Wren Building. Fourteen law students and several alumni and professional members were initiated, including Professor E. Blythe Stason, Jr. of the law faculty.

Four members of the law faculty will participate in panels or committees of the Association of American Law Schools at the annual Chicago convention December 28-30. Dean Joseph Curtis is a member of the committee on needs and opportunities for smaller law schools; Assistant Dean James P. Whyte is a member of the committee on education for professional responsibility; Professor William F. Swindler is chairman of the Legal History Round Table; and Assistant Professor E. Blythe Stason, Jr. is a member of the committee on international law. Swindler will serve as chairman and moderator of a special panel on the 750th anniversary of Magna Carta, and Stason will read a paper on "A Comparison of Equity and Common Law" at the round table on equity.

Professor Stason will accompany the law student team which has qualified for the National Moot Court Competition in New York, December 15-17. The William and Mary team defeated the University of Virginia in the semi-finals, and lost a narrow decision to Duke University, last year's finalists, in the regional competition in Richmond. Both Duke and William and Mary thus qualified for the national competition.

Professor Swindler is the author of book reviews on "Justice Rutledge and the Bright Constellation," by Fowler Harper, in the Indiana Law Journal, and on "The Case for Liberty," by Helen Hill Miller, in the Reading Guide of the University of Virginia Law School. Swindler's book, Magna Carta: Legend and Legacy, will be published by Bobbs-Merrill just after Christmas.

WILLIAMSBURG

FACULTY NEWS LETTER

February 9, 1966

Charter Day Convocation

The new Earl Gregg Swem Library will be dedicated on Saturday, February 12, as part of the Charter Day convocation at 11 A.M. at the Blow Gymnasium. Miss Marjorie Hope Nicolson, dean of literary scholars, will speak on "Books are Not Dead Things," and both she and Governor Mills E. Godwin Jr. will receive honorary degrees. The Thomas Jefferson Award will be presented to a member of the faculty or staff by J. B. Woodward Jr., Rector of the Board of Visitors.

The new library will be open for public tours on February 11-12. One feature of the tours will be a display of photographs and artifacts associated with the statue of Lord Botetourt in the ground floor Gallery.

Physics Convergence

The College is host tomorrow through Saturday to the first Williamsburg Conference on Intermediate Energy Physics. It is the first conference to be devoted entirely to the physics accessible with proton accelerators operating between 100 Mev (million electron volts) and 1 Bev (billion electron volts). Eminent physicists from across the nation and in Europe will deliver papers and altogether, more than 150 are expected to attend.

Four grants, of $3,200 each, have been made to support the Conference and publication of its proceedings.

Organizing committee for the Conference includes R. T. Siegel, chairman; R. E. Welsh and R. G. Winter. H. O. Funsten will be Editor of the Proceedings and M. Eckhause and J. Kane will be Scientific Secretaries.

Marshall-Wythe Institute

Dr. Warner Moss, chairman of the Department of Government since 1937, has been appointed Director of the new Marshall-Wythe Institute of Public Affairs. The Institute, he said, "will draw upon the resources of the social science departments and facilitate research." He said that it will bring together such current activities as the Marshall-Wythe Symposium, the annual Tax Conference and the Virginia Business Index, and will sponsor conferences and visits of scholars and leaders in contemporary affairs.

Roherty Heads Government Department

Dr. James M. Roherty, an associate professor of government since 1963, has become chairman of the Department of Government to succeed Dr. Moss. The new chairman has written in the fields of national security policy and political theory; currently, he is preparing a book on the Secretary of Defense, supported by grants from the American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research and from the College.

Collegium Musicum

The last two programs in this season's Collegium Musicum Series are scheduled Sunday, February 13 and Sunday, February 20. The first will feature The American Arts Trio, at 4 P.M. in the Campus Center. The second will be a lieder recital and song cycle performed by Oscar McCullough, baritone and Miss Anne McClenny, pianist, both members of the Hollins College music faculty.

Concert Series

A full symphony orchestra, the New Orleans Philharmonic, will perform Friday, February 11, in the third concert of the current William and Mary Concert Series. The program includes Rossini's overture to Cinderella, Debussy's The Sea, and Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks by Richard Strauss. David Bar-Illan will be featured soloist in Beethoven's Emperor concerto for piano and orchestra.

Faculty Research Grants

Sixteen members of the faculty will receive summer research grants totaling $17,000, including four Alumni Grants. The Society of the Alumni increased its contribution to the program to $5,000 for 1966; in 1963 its contribution was $1,500.

Recipients, and their projects as selected by the Committee on Faculty Research include:

Donald F. Ball, "Samuel Richardson's Technique of Characterization." Joseph L. Brent, "Totalitarianism as a Problem in Intellectual History;" Kee Il Choi, "Patterns and Processes of Japanese Economic Development Between 1868-1900," Alumni Grant; Edwin D. Floyd, "The Performance of Pindar's Seventh Neaman;" and Martin A. Garrett, "Trends in Manufacturing Employment in the South by Type of Community, 1947-58."

Also, Frank A. MacDonald, "A Study of Traditional Reduction, Immediate Inference and Reductive Proof," John L. McKnight, "Evidence for Philosophical Influences on Scientists;" John A. Moore, "What is the Renaissance in Spanish Literature;" Glenn A. Pearce, "The Concept of a Conceptual Scheme;" Carl Roseberg, "A New Sculpture: The Creation and Execution of a Large Carving in Lignum Vitae Wood," Alumni Grant; Charles L. Taylor, "The Role of Violence in British Working Class Political Development," and Gerald D. Turbow, "Wagnerism in France in the Nineteenth Century."

Also, David J. Gray, "Juvenile Delinquency: Apparent Success in an Economically Depressed Area," Ludwell M. Johnson, "Influence of Pressure Groups and Party Politics on the Conduct of the Civil War," Alumni Grant; Chonghan Kim, "Democracy in the Republic of Korea, 1948-1963: Progress and Problems," Alumni Grant; and James J. Leach, "Historical Explanation, Objectivity and Value Neutrality."

Johnson New History Chairman

Dr. Ludwell H. Johnson III, a Civil War historian, has been appointed chairman of the Department of History. Dr. Johnson succeeds Dr. Bruce McCully, who had been acting chairman since September, 1964. Dr. McCully had assumed the acting chairmanship upon the appointment of former chairman Dr. Harold L. Fowler to the position of Dean of the Faculty.

Course in Government Contracts

Between 200-350 attorneys and contracting officers from more than 40 states and two Canadian provinces will attend a concentrated course in government contracts being sponsored by the Marshall-Wythe School of Law and Federal Publications Inc. of Washington. The original week-long course, scheduled for February 28-March 4, has been oversubscribed and a second session will be scheduled for March 21-25. Dr. William F. Swindler of the Law School is local administrator; Paul H. Gantt (B.C.L. '42) of Washington is director.

Mr. Gantt, who is chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission's Board of Contract Appeals, will have a meeting of his Board in Williamsburg on March 4, and members of the Board will tour the campus.

Film Society Program

A Spring Festival of Italian Neo-Realism is to be sponsored by the Festival Film Society. Featured are the films of two great directors, Vittorio de Sica and Federico Fellini: de Sica's "The Children are Watching Us," February 18; "Miracle in Milan," February 25; "The Gold of Naples," March 7; Fellini's "Love in the City," March 15; "Nights of Cabiria," April 9; "Variety Lights," April 24; "I Vitteloni," April 30; "La Dolce Vita," May 5; and "8 1/2," May 22.

The society is co-sponsored by the Earl Gregg Swem Library and the Twentieth Century Gallery. Tickets for the series, at $5, can be purchased through the Society at Box 1037, Williamsburg. Films are to be shown in Phi Beta Kappa Auditorium.

DEPARTMENT NEWS

Ancient Languages

Edwin Floyd attended the joint annual meeting of the American Philological Association and the Archaeological Institute of America, held in Providence, R. I., December 28-30. He read a paper entitled "Pindar's Oath to Sogenes: Nemean 7, 70-74." This paper is scheduled for publication in Transactions of the American Philological Association, vol. 96, in the fall.

Biology

Dr. John B. Morrill is recipient of a National Science Foundation grant of $7,700 for support of research entitled "Development of Freshwater Pulmonates Molluscs" for a period of eight months. In December he attended the AAAS meeting in Berkeley, California, where he presented a paper, "Experimental Analyses of Development in Fresh Water Pulmonates" at the American Society of Zoologists Symposium on "Problems in Invertebrate Embryology."

English

Professors LeRoy Smith, William Davis, and Fraser Neiman attended the Modern Languages Association convention in Chicago in December.

James H. McGavran has received his diploma from Columbia University awarding him the M.A. degree as of 15 December 1965.

David Clay Jenkins has published "A Comment upon and Index to The Welsh Review" in the most recent (1965) issue of The Journal of the Welsh Bibliographical Society. The Review, a quarterly journal, was edited by Gwyn Jones. It ran from 1939 to 1948 and included contributions by T. S. Eliot, Vernon Watkins, A. L. Rowse and others.

The past year has been a very busy one for William and Mary's unofficial "Ambassador" to Germany, Dr. Carl Dolmetsch, Associate Professor of English, now on leave-of-absence to complete his second year as a Fulbright Visiting Professor of American Literature in Berlin.

In addition to teaching courses last year and this in American literature and American linguistics in West Berlin at the Free University's John F. Kennedy-Institut für Amerikastudien and Pädagogische Hochschule (teachers' college), Prof. Dolmetsch has delivered guest lectures as a Visiting Scholar in six West German universities during 1965. He lectured on contemporary American fiction at the universities in Freiburg and Münster; on colonial American culture at the university of Mainz; on H. L. Mencken at the Johann Wolfgang von Goethe University in Frankfurt-am-Main; and on Hawthorne at the University of Göttingen and the ancient university of Tübingen (where several generations of his own German ancestors were educated).

He has also been principal speaker at several regional conferences of English teachers in Berlin, Düsseldorf and Recklinghausen. Last spring he was the main speaker at the first national conference of administrators of English studies in Bonn. During the coming semester he will be no less busy. He will lecture at the Free University of Berlin's Institut für Pullizistik (journalism school), at the second national conference of Fachleiter of English (curriculum supervisors) and again at the university of Tübingen.

During this coming summer he will be on the faculty of the Falkenstein Seminar in American Studies, in the Taunus Mountains. This seminar, sponsored jointly by the American Embassy, Bonn, and the Ministry of Culture of the Federal Republic of Germany, for students, teachers and business people, is second only to the famous Salzburg Seminar among European centers of American studies.

Professor Dolmetsch, his wife, and two sons, plan to return to the College community in September of this year.

History

The Negro in Eighteenth-Century Williamsburg by Thad Tate was published by Colonial Williamsburg on December 30 in its Williamsburg Research Studies series.

Gerald Turbow attended some of the meetings of the American Historical Association in San Francisco held in December.

Thad W. Tate and Dietrich Orlow were awarded fellowships in the Duke-University of North Carolina Cooperative Program in the Humanities for 1966-67.

James M. Smith, Lester Cappon and William W. Abbot, of the Institute of Early American History, attended the American Historical Association in San Francisco in December.

Marine Science

Dr. William J. Hargis Jr., director of VIMS, attended a seminar at VPI on "Multidisciplinary Research as an aid to Public Policy Formation Sponsored by Virginia Water Resources Research Center." Dr. Hargis spoke on "Operation James River--A Multidisciplinary Study of a Troubled Estuary." On December 9 he attended the Governor's Conference on Natural Beauty, and on January 21 he attended graduate exercises at the U. S. Coast Guard Center, Yorktown, Va., by invitation.

Dr. John L. Wood and Michael Castagna attended the Eighth Annual Shellfish Pathology Conference at the University of Delaware January 24-25.

Dr. J. L. McHugh, director of the Virginia Institute of Marine Science, Gloucester Point, from 1951 through 1958 and now assistant director for Biological Research, Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, Washington, D. C., was guest speaker recently at a seminar held for VIMS personnel, students and visitors. He spoke on "The International Situation" as it relates to fisheries of the world, paying specific attention to the involvement of the United States in tuna, whale and salmon fisheries.

Modern Languages

Dr. J. Worth Banner, Dr. Alexander Kallos, and Dr. Pierre C. Oustinoff attended the conference of the Modern Language Association in Chicago December 27-29. Dr. Oustinoff served as secretary of Group V, 18th Century French Literature, during the year of 1965 and was elected chairman of that group for 1966.

Dr. John A. Moore's review of H. L. Ballew's book, Senderos literarios españoles, appeared in the December, 1965 issue of the Modern Language Journal.

Professor Marcel Reboussin's book, entitled Balzac et le Mythe de Foedora, will be published by Nizet in Paris. His review of Connaissez-vous by Robert Chasles appeared in the December, 1965 issue of French Review.

Philosophy

Professor Lewis Foster's article, "Philosophic Method and Psychical Research," was published in the January issue of the A.R.E. Journal, a new quarterly devoted to psychical research.

Physics

Faculty members and graduate students of the Department of Physics were joint authors of the paper entitled "A New Measurement of the Lifetime of the Positive Pion," by M. Eckhause, R. Harris, W. B. Shuler, R. T. Siegel and R. E. Welsh, which appeared in the journal Physics Letters 19, 348, November 1, 1965. This work constitutes the first experiment in elementary particle physics performed by a group at one of the VARC institutions, and resulted in an improvement by a factor of fifteen in the precision with which an important physical constant is known.

Professors R. G. Winter and R. T. Siegel have been elected Fellows of the American Physical Society.

Sociology and Anthropology

Dr. Norman F. Garka presented an illustrated lecture on "Historic Sites Archaeology in Canada" to the Archaeological Society of Virginia, Peninsula Chapter, January 14.

Marshall-Wythe School of Law

Harry W. Jones, Cardozo Professor of Jurisprudence at Columbia University, has accepted the invitation to deliver the Oliver Wendell Holmes Lectures to be given on campus May 5-7. The general title of the series of three lectures is "The Path of the Constitution."

Dr. William F. Swindler's book, Magna Carta: Legend and Legacy, has been adopted by the Lawyers' Literary Club for winter distribution. Swindler is also the author of a review-essay on Helen Hill Miller's "The Case for Liberty" which was published in the December issue of the Reading Guide of the University of Virginia Law School.

Three members of the Law School faculty attended the sessions of the Association of American Law Schools in Chicago December 28-30. Dean Joseph Curtis was a member of the Association committee on smaller law schools; Assistant Professor E. Blythe Stason Jr. read a paper on "A Comparison of Equity and Common Law," and Professor William F. Swindler acted as moderator of a panel on the 750th anniversary of Magna Carta. Professor Stason is a member of the AALS committee on international law. Professor Swindler is chairman of the Association's Council on Legal History for the 1966-67 biennium.

A gift from Dr. J. Paul Kent of Altavista, his third in the past three years, has enabled the Law Library to add to its collection of books in medical jurisprudence. Dr. Kent made the gift in appreciation of the education provided by the College to his wife, the former Eleanor A. Martin (A.B. '35), and his sons, James P. Kent Jr. (A.B. '61, B.C.L. '64) and Gordon N. Kent (A.B. '64). According to Mrs. Anna B. Johnson, Law Librarian, it is the Law Library's policy to acquire books in the field of the donor's professional interest where possible. The Kent collection is identified with a bookplate acknowledging the gift.

FACULTY NEWS LETTER

March 2, 1966

Dean Jones Honored

Dean of the College, W. Melville Jones, was presented the fourth annual Thomas Jefferson Award at the Charter Day Convocation February 12. The citation called Dean Jones "an effective teacher and a capable administrator who, with dignity and quiet patience, has manifested his unswerving faith in the principles and outlook which Jefferson sought to foster among educated men." It said that he has "devoted his energy, time and effort unreservedly to the service of the College and his colleagues."

Dr. Sherman in Fulbright Program

Dr. Richard B. Sherman, associate professor of history, has been appointed a Fulbright lecturer at the University of Stockholm, Sweden. He will lecture in American history during the 1966-67 academic year.

Government Contracts Course

Currently underway at the Williamsburg Conference Center is a special course in government contracts, co-sponsored by the Marshall-Wythe School of Law and Federal Publications Inc. of Washington, D. C. This week's course, being attended by 200 lawyers and contracting officers, will be followed by another one March 21-25.

A feature of the week will be a tour of the College on Friday, March 4, by the 13 members of the United States Atomic Energy Commission's Board of Contract Appeals. The Board is headed by Paul H. Gantt (B.C.L. '42), and will meet in Williamsburg that day. Gantt is director of the government contracts course.

NASA Grant Received

A grant of $59,900 has been made to the College by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to support the graduate work of three doctoral candidates in space-related sciences and technology. With the new grant, in September the College will have 12 graduate students in various sciences whose studies are being supported by federal grants.

Faculty Memorializes Miss Blank

The Faculty, on the death January 21, 1966 of Grace J. Blank, professor emeritus of biology, passed a resolution which said, in part; "She was an exacting teacher who always maintained the highest standards in her courses. However, she was known by students as a person who would spend unlimited time and effort in helping one gain deeper insights into her special fields of interest. Her absolute sense of integrity will not be forgotten by those fortunate enough to have studied under her."

DEPARTMENTAL NEWS

Biology

Dr. B. L. Welch delivered a seminar on "Amine Metabolism and the Social Environment" to the faculty and staff of the Department of Psychiatry at Johns Hopkins Medical Center in Baltimore, February 23.

He and Annemarie S. Welch received on February 1 a two-year grant of $59,902 from the National Institute of Mental Health for continued research on "population and brain biogenic amines."

Business Administration

Gilbert C. Jones is preparing a study of Virginia's economy for a Richmond bank.

A Report on the Chesapeake Bay Fisheries of Maryland by Jay D. Andrews (Marine Science), Gilbert C. Jones (Business Administration), Victor A. Liguori (Sociology), Dwynal B. Pettengill (formerly of Government), Anthony L. Sancetta (Economics) and Charles L. Quittmeyer (Business Administration) was published February 1. This policy report was previewed to Governor J. Millard Tawes, other Maryland officials and legislators and industrial leaders at special sessions prior to release.

Charles L. Quittmeyer attended the annual conference of the Academy of Management in New York City in late December.

Wagin G. Dafashy completed early in February the requirements for the PhD. degree in Business Administration at the University of Arkansas. The degree will be conferred in June.

English

J. H. Willis Jr., took part in the Ninth Annual Williamsburg Student Burgesses Conference sponsored by Colonial Williamsburg February 12-16. He acted as a discussion leader. Theme of the conference was "Protest: A Right and a Responsibility."

A review by William F. Davis Jr. of Clark Griffith's The Long Shadow: Emily Dickinson's Tragic Poetry appeared in the Winter issue of Thought, the Fordham University Quarterly.

Fine Arts

The Department is sponsoring the showing of two exhibitions throughout this month: Art and Urban Architecture, at the Campus Center, and 14 Life, a graphic exhibition at Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

Carl A. Roseberg is having a one-man exhibition of sculpture at Longwood College, Farmville, Virginia, during February and March. The 19-piece show includes work in welded metal, wood carving, stone carving and terra cotta.

Government

Charles L. Taylor has been granted a leave of absence for 1966-67 to become Technical Director of the Yale Political Data Program and to write with others the second edition of the World Handbook of Political and Social Indicators. A paper within his case study of British political modernization in the 19th century will be read in September before the American Political Science Association in New York.

Marine Science

Dr. William J. Hargis Jr., director of the Virginia Institute of Marine Science, spoke to the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at the Warwick Yacht & Country Club on February 16. His talk was entitled "The James River - A Troubled Estuary."

Dr. Hargis and John Norcross of VIMS attended the "SEAS" meeting in Washington, February 24. Dr. Hargis also attended a meeting of the Seas-Grant Colleges in New York, February 23.

Dr. J. D. Andrews, head of VIMS Malacology Department, gave a biology seminar at Christopher Newport College, February 23.

Dr. Frank O. Perkins from Florida State University has been added to the research staff of VIMS in the Microbiology-Pathology Department. Dr. Perkins, formerly of Charlottesville, and his wife reside at Hayes, Virginia.

Music

Charles R. Varner, state chairman of College Band Directors National Association, attended the Southern Division Convention of that organization at the University of Florida, January 20-22.

Stephen P. Paledes was music director for the Williamsburg Players' production of "Fantastiks" which ran for 12 performances after January 17.

F. Donald Truesdell attended the annual meetings of the American Musicological Society and the College Music Society at the University of Michigan, December 27-30. As outgoing chairman of the College Section, Virginia Music Educators Association, he attended an executive board meeting January 15 at the University of Virginia, where he attended the Spring Conference of the same organization on February 25. He recently was appointed chairman of the Credentials Committee of the Virginia Music Teachers Association and has been appointed to the Resolutions Committee of the parent organization, the Music Teachers National Association.

Philosophy

Thirteen students of the Sophomore Seminar in Philosophy received grants from the Edgar Cayce Foundation for preliminary study into psychical research principles and methods. The activity was coordinated by Professor Foster as a field trip to foundation headquarters at Virginia Beach, March 18-20.

Theatre and Speech

The William and Mary Theatre participated in the Virginia College Drama Festival which was held at Hollins College on February 19, presenting act one, scene one of "The Tsarevitch," a play written by Robert Weeks in the Theatre 403, Play-writing course. Weeks also directed the play.

FACULTY NEWS LETTER

April 7, 1966

Report on General Assembly

Attached as a supplement to the April Faculty News Letter is a special report by President Paschall which outlines actions of the 1966 session of the Virginia General Assembly as they relate to the College of William and Mary. Among subjects covered in the report are faculty salaries and new positions, new programs for the College and campus construction plans.

Dean Fowler Elected to Phi Beta Kappa

Dean of the Faculty Harold L. Fowler has been elected to membership in Alpha of Virginia Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. Dr. Fowler joined the faculty in 1934 as assistant professor of history, became chairman of the History Department in 1959 and in 1962, was named chairman of the Division of Social Sciences. He was appointed Dean of the Faculty in 1964.

Campus Cancer Crusade

Dr. Donald L. Ball has announced that the annual Campus Cancer Crusade will start April 11 and continue through April 22. He said that faculty members will not be solicited at their homes, but through colleagues on campus. Two films on cancer will be shown at the Campus Center at dates and times to be announced later.

Faculty Exchange With Exeter

The College of William and Mary and the University of Exeter, England, have joined in a faculty exchange program commencing in September, when Arthur W. Phelps of the Law School will serve as a visiting professor at Exeter and Dominik Lasok of Exeter will serve at the College's Law School. Under the plan, each institution has arranged for satisfactory transportation subsidies in addition to compensation of the visiting professor. For a number of years, a student exchange program has been carried on between the two institutions.

Holmes Devise Lectures

"The Path of the Constitution" will be the subject of the 1966 Oliver Wendell Holmes Devise Lectures, sponsored by the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, May 5, 6, and 7, by Harry W. Jones, Cardozo Professor of Jurisprudence at Columbia University. The first two lectures will be given at 3 P.M. in the Little Theatre of the Campus Center, and the final lecture at 3 P.M. in the Virginia Room of the Williamsburg Conference Center as the concluding feature of the William and Mary Law School Association. Subjects of the individual lectures will be: May 5, "Our Constitutional Frame of Government;" May 6, "The Jurisprudence of Judicial Review;" and May 7, "Constitutional Law and Constitutional Morality." The lectures are financed by a fund established by the estate of the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, and are assigned by the Library of Congress each year to a leading American law school. The lectures subsequently are published by the Macmillan Co. of New York.

Faculty Club

The Faculty Club announces the installation of a coffee urn in the Faculty Lounge in the Earl Gregg Swem Library, for the use of all faculty members. Regulations for its use will be posted in the lounge.

Advanced Offering in Business Administration

Commencing in June, the College will offer a course leading to the degree of Master in Business Administration. The program will initially be offered during the evening, to students carrying both full or partial course loads.

WILLIAM AND MARY STRONGLY SUPPORTED
BY 1966 GENERAL ASSEMBLY ACTION*

Action by the General Assembly in its recent 1966 Session enables the College of William and Mary to accelerate a significant new era in its history. Provision for continuing increases in faculty salaries, additional positions, new buildings with up-to-date equipment, and broader support for programs, assures rapid progress in the enrichment of the academic life of the College at both undergraduate and graduate levels.

The understanding and vision of former Governor Albert S. Harrison, Jr., reflected in his recommendations to the incoming Governor and new General Assembly in January; the dedicated leadership of Governor Mills E. Godwin, Jr., in the cause of education; and the unremitting support of the General Assembly, resulted in a thrust forward in educational progress throughout the Commonwealth. Within the framework of this statewide development, the College of William and Mary gratefully acknowledges the generous support accorded its needs, and expresses appreciation in particular to State Senator Garland Gray and Delegate Russell M. Carneal who, knowing first-hand the College's needs, interpreted the same so ably and effectively.

This report is intended to convey a summary of the highlights of this action that means so much to the College. These may be grouped for clarity in presentation as: (1) Specific Legislation; (2) Summary of Appropriations; (3) Maintenance and Operation Items; and (4) Capital Outlay Projects.

SPECIFIC LEGISLATION

Provision for Out-of-State Membership on Board of Visitors

House Bill 11, which was enacted, provides that the membership of the Board of Visitors be increased from fourteen to seventeen, exclusive of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, who has been an ex-officio member for many years. It also provides that three of the Board members may be non-resident of Virginia.

The Society of the Alumni Board recommended to the Board of Visitors that it support the inauguration of such legislation as would permit out-of-state membership, the same being desirable in view of the national reputation of the College, and also as a means of broader interpretation of the College's needs, problems, and progress by such out-of-state representatives. The Board of Visitors on November 20, 1965, adopted a Resolution supporting this proposal, and the legislation encountered no opposition in the enactment process. The bill was introduced by Delegate Russell M. Carneal of Williamsburg, with the assistance of other patrons, and its adoption by the Senate was greatly aided by the efforts of Senator Garland Gray, who represents the Senatorial District in which the College is located.

*A Report by President Davis Y. Paschall
April 2, 1966

Since the bill did not include an emergency clause, it will not become effective until June 28, 1966. Other legislation, which becomes effective at that time, eliminates the State Superintendent of Public Instruction as an ex-officio member of all Boards of Visitors.

Matters Relating to the Two-Year Colleges

House Bill 11, referred to above, also provided for the elimination of a current statutory requirement that the Directors of the two-year colleges report to the Board of Visitors through a co-ordinator, thereby leaving the administrative channel for such reporting a matter to be determined by the Board of Visitors.

Other legislation removed the two-year limitation from the present colleges under the Board of Visitors--Richard Bland and Christopher Newport--thereby enabling the ultimate development of these colleges to a four-year, degree granting level; the same, however, to be determined by the Board of Visitors with due regard to library, faculty, and other physical and academic resources.

Widening of Jamestown Road in Vicinity of Lake Matoaka

House Bill 851 enables the College to sell to the City of Williamsburg a small strip of land paralleling Jamestown Road, across from Lake Matoaka, in order that the road may be widened in this vicinity. The City requested the Board of Visitors to make this land available, the same requiring an Act of the General Assembly, which the Board supported for the aforementioned purpose.

Sale of Land Proceeds for Physical Education Facilities

House Bill 362 amended two previous statutes which provided that the proceeds from the sale of certain Eastern State Hospital property to Colonial Williamsburg would be used for the new library construction and equipment or for debt reduction. The amendment simply adds physical education facilities as an additional prospective use of the proceeds. The fact that a Federal grant under Title I of the Higher Education Facilities Act, not previously contemplated, was obtained for the new library now, with this amended legislation, makes it possible to utilize some of the proceeds toward constructing and equipping the new men's physical education facility.

Projection of a Virginia Research Center for Historical Archaeology

House Bill 363 provided for the establishment of The Virginia Research Center for Historic Archaeology to be within the context of the campus of William and Mary.

SUMMARY OF APPROPRIATIONS

The following chart reflects an overall summary of appropriations, which chart is followed by a breakdown of significant items:

Preliminary Plans for General Classroom Building and Equipment		19,500
Classroom Addition to Phi Beta Kappa Hall and Equipment	138,000
Laundry Addition and Equipment	30,000
Utilities and Site Work	91,950	548,300
 Total from General Fund of Virginia	 $ 344,950	 $6,042,990

In addition:

The Appropriation Act provided that the College is authorized to issue Revenue Bonds approximating $500,000 for the Men's Physical Education facility, and to issue Revenue Bonds for dormitory housing for men to accommodate approximately 410 students

*These items were included in the Governor's Emergency Appropriation Bill enacted in January whereby construction can commence at once rather than wait until July 1, 1966 at which time the funds appropriated for the other projects become available.

MAINTENANCE AND OPERATION ITEMS

The total appropriation for the next two-year period for Maintenance and Operation of $6,916,775 constitutes an increase of $2,300,000 over the amount for the biennium 1964-66. Space will not permit a detailed breakdown of all items, but the following are mentioned because of their particular importance to the College at this time:

Faculty Salaries and Additional Positions

Funds were appropriated as will enable the overall allowed average for faculty salaries to increase from the present $9,146 to $9,603 for the 1966-67 regular sessions, and further increase to $10,083 for 1967-68. This enables the College to continue its significant progress in maintaining a national average level for faculty salaries.

Funds were also appropriated to permit the establishment of 14 additional faculty positions for 1966-67 and 29 for 1967-68.

Computer Facility and Personnel

The request for a highly important electronic computer, to be acquired by January, 1967, was approved. The new facility will have a capacity approximately fifty times that of the present computer in regard to the storage of information, and will be from 50 to 100 times swifter in function. The unit will be an IBM 360 Model 50, capable of operating more quickly than the feed time of information, and its annual rental will approximate $235,000.

Funds were appropriated to provide for an operational staff of 16 trained technicians headed by an expert in computer science, and the operation will ultimately be housed in one entire floor of the new Mathematics, general classroom building.

Plans are being formulated for this facility to serve the research, academic, and administrative needs at the Williamsburg campus as well as the Virginia Institute of Marine Science at Gloucester Point and the Virginia Associated Research Center and Christopher Newport College in Newport News. The off-campus agencies will be served by tele-processing.

Editing of Papers of John Marshall

A very unique and scholarly project can now be realized as a result of the $30,000 biennium appropriation made for the editing of the John Marshall papers under the auspices of the Institute of Early American History and Culture. This appropriation, together with a like amount to be raised by the Institute, will assure a matching of a $60,000 "challenge" grant from the National Historical Publications Commission--or a total of $120,000 for this important project.

In addition to the specific items mentioned above, additional funds were obtained for faculty research, library books and personnel, new graduate programs to be initiated during the biennium, and various maintenance operations. It is significant to note that the General Assembly appropriated an amount of $1,000,000 for the support of graduate programs, which amount is to be allocated by the Governor in accordance with a plan yet to be devised. The College will most certainly be a participant in this allocation.

CAPITAL OUTLAY PROJECTS

The capital outlay projects cited in a previous chart in this report for which appropriations were made from the general fund are described in more detail as follows:

Life Science Building

To be erected east of the new Earl Gregg Swem Library, this three-story facility will house the Biology and Psychology Departments. The General Assembly appropriated from tax funds the sum of $1,649,250; in addition, the U.S. Office of Education has approved a grant application of $568,600 under Title I of The Higher Education Facilities Act. The College plans to start construction in May with a view to its completion by September, 1967.

Men's Physical Education Facility

The sum of $2,035,500 was appropriated from tax sources for construction of a new men's physical education complex to include a 10,000-seat auditorium-gymnasium. The General Assembly authorized the College to raise an additional amount approximating $500,000 through the sale of revenue bonds, and by amending earlier statutes explained earlier in this report makes possible an additional $400,000 from proceeds from the sale of certain land at the old Eastern State Hospital site. Application has been made for a grant of $461,582 under Title I of The Higher Education Facilities Act for this facility. Thus more than $3,000,000 is contemplated for constructing and equipping this desperately needed facility which will provide, for the first time, an adequate meeting place for Commencement, Charter Day and other convocations as well as certain athletic events, together with modern classroom and related facilities. The second phase to be realized in the future will provide a natatorium. The building will be erected north of the new dining hall.

Mathematics and General Classroom Building

The General Assembly appropriated $1,193,000 for the construction of this new building, to be located southwest of the William Small Physics Building. Representatives of the Mathematics, Economics, and Business Administration Departments are presently working with the architect in the hope that the building will be completed by September, 1967. It will house the computer center on one entire floor.

Representatives of the Mathematics, Economics, and Business Administration Departments are presently working with the architect in the hope that the building will be completed by September, 1967. It will house the computer center on one entire floor.

Men's Dormitories

Two new men's dormitories will be erected at a cost of more than $1,600,000 in an area yet to be specifically determined on the new campus. Each building will contain six separate units, with an apartment for a house mother or graduate counselor, enabling isolated "communities" of men to share recreational and study facilities available in each unit. These new units will be suitable for men's fraternities as well as other groups of students desiring to live in situations of this nature, reflecting the newer trend in design of dormitory housing. The new dormitories to be financed entirely from issuance of revenue bonds, are contemplated to be completed by September, 1967. Since these will be occupied by upper classmen, the overall enrollment of men will only increase by approximately 380.

Chemistry-Geology Building

An amount of $31,600 was appropriated to enable the College to prepare plans for this facility to be constructed during the 1968-70 biennium. Tentatively, the building will cost more than $2,250,000, and will be located southeast of the Life Science Building.

General Classroom Building

The General Assembly included $19,500 in planning funds for this new structure expected to cost $1,500,000, and to be erected during the 1968-70 biennium. Neither the location for this building, nor the departments which it will house, have yet been determined by the College.

The Old Library

The General Assembly appropriated $365,000 for a complete renovation of this building to house the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, the nation's oldest law school. Included in plans are full air conditioning, an appropriate Law Library, a Moot Court Room essential to the success of a law degree program, and various special rooms in addition to classrooms.

Tennis Courts

Six new hard-surfaced tennis courts will be constructed, and certain physical education fields expanded, this being assured by an appropriation of $68,000. The new tennis courts, which will replace those lost because of construction of the $700,000 Fine Arts Addition to Phi Beta Kappa Hall, are tentatively planned to be located east of Adair Gymnasium. For the next two years, the College will retain use of the 12 clay courts east of Phi Beta Kappa Hall, and when landscaping for the new Life Science Building prohibits their use, it is hoped that funds will then be available for their replacement at an appropriate area in the vicinity of the new men's physical education complex.

Utilities and Site Work

To support the new construction, the General Assembly appropriated nearly $550,000 for expansion of utilities, new sidewalks, landscaping and other improvements, and reappropriated $91,950.

Equipment for New Dining Hall

An additional $132,840 was appropriated for equipment to enable completion of the new dining hall under construction on the new campus.

Virginia Research Center for Historical Archaeology

Additionally, through an appropriation of $12,000 to the State Historical Landmarks Commission, the General Assembly launched architectural planning for a new Virginia Research Center for Historical Archaeology to be built within the context of the William and Mary campus. Once this facility is realized, an interdisciplinary relationship with early American History can be contemplated and possibly an anthropological center as well, with emphasis on the culture of eighteenth century man.

WILLIAMSBURG

FACULTY NEWS LETTER

May 17, 1966

Commencement Plans

The Secretary of the Treasury, Henry H. Fowler, will deliver the Commencement address on Sunday, June 12, at 5 p.m. The Rev. Peyton R. Williams, rector of Christ and St. Luke's Episcopal Church in Norfolk, will deliver the Baccalaureate Sermon the same day at 11 a.m. Both programs will be in the Wren courtyard or, in case of rain, in Blow Gymnasium. J. Wilfred Lambert, Dean of Students, is chairman of this year's Commencement committee.

Professor's Gift to Library

Professor Thomas E. Thorne, Head of the Department of Fine Arts, has given a portion of his personal library to the Earl Gregg Swem Library as an expression of thankfulness in being a member of the College faculty for 25 years. The gift, valued at approximately $300, includes the Sermons of Savonarola, printed 1514; page from the Nuremburg Chronicle, 1476; Italian 15th century vellum page; Raleigh's History of the World, 1628 folio; sheepskin indenture, 1677; Tillotson sermon, 1693; Epicoene (from the first folio), Ben Johnson, 1616; and large folio of engravings by Houbraken and Vertue, Illustrious Heads of England.

Shakespeare Bust Presented

On April 21, members of the Department of English presented to the Earl Gregg Swem Library a Wedgwood bust of Shakespeare. The bust, in black basalt, was presented in honor of the late Jess H. Jackson, Professor and Head of the Department of English 1929-1957. It is one of a limited number made by Wedgwood, Ltd. at the 400th anniversary of Shakespeare's birth in 1664. The silver inscription was engraved by William deMatteo of Williamsburg.

Law Review Becomes Quarterly

The William and Mary Law Review, which began in 1957 as a once-yearly publication and grew into a semi-annual journal in 1962, will "come of age" as a quarterly journal of professional commentary with the start of Volume 8 this fall. In addition to regular student-edited numbers in December and May, a September issue will incorporate some of the research from the summer seminar in Current Constitutional Issues, and a March edition will incorporate the annual papers and proceedings of the William and Mary Tax Conference, currently being separately published.

Concert Series Program for 1966-67

The William and Mary Concert series has announced the following schedule for 1966-67, its 31st season of concerts. The programs are: Oct. 6, Eden & Tamir and the Camerata Chamber Singers; Nov. 11, the Robert Joffrey Ballet; Feb. 16, the Zurick Chamber Orchestra; Mar. 17, the Newport Jazz All-Star Quintet; Apr. 7, Eugene List, pianist. Season tickets are $8.00 for faculty, staff and students and reservations may be made through Stephen P. Paledes, Extension 378.

Last Faculty News Letter

This is the final edition of the Faculty News Letter for the current academic year. Suggestions are invited from the faculty for its format and content in 1966-67.

Fellowships Authorized

The College has been allotted eight 2-year graduate fellowships known as Prospective Teacher Fellowships under Title V of the Higher Education Act of 1965. Dr. Howard K. Holland, Dean of the School of Education, said the number of fellowships granted William and Mary was the maximum for any institution of higher learning in the United States.

Physics Department Change

Dr. Rolf G. Winter has been appointed chairman of the Department of Physics, to succeed Dr. Melvin A. Pittman, who will direct on-campus institutes for secondary school science teachers and devote more time to research in spectroscopy and optics. The National Science Foundation Institutes for Science Teachers may become a year-round activity.

Dr. Holland Takes Leave

Dr. Howard K. Holland, dean of the School of Education, will teach next year at the American University of Beirut in Lebanon. Dr. Robert O. Nelson, former school superintendent in Newport News until joining the faculty in 1965, will become acting dean of the School in Dr. Holland's absence.

DEPARTMENTAL NEWS

Administration

Robert W. Squatriglia, assistant dean of men, made a presentation at Walsingham Academy April 20 entitled "The Pitfalls of College."

Ancient Languages

Drs. George J. Ryan, Lewis Leadbeater and Edwin Floyd represented the College at the annual meeting of the Classical Association of Virginia at Randolph-Macon College, May 14. Dr. Ryan took part in the program.

Biology

Dr. John Morrill attended the annual meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology at Atlantic City, New Jersey April 11-15, 1966.

Dr. Robert A. Pedigo attended the Association of Southeastern Biologists Annual Meeting at North Carolina State University in Raleigh on April 14 thru 16. Dr. Pedigo presented a paper entitled Effects of Moisture Stresses on Recovery and Growth Rates of Irradiated Pinus taeda Seedlings.

Dr. Garnett Brooks is currently engaged in a Smithsonian sponsored biological survey of Dominica, British West Indies. Dr. Brooks is conducting studies on the ecology of certain reptiles and amphibians found only on this island. A graduate student, Mr. Eugene Nicholls, is now in Dominica working on the parasites of the reptiles and amphibians. Another graduate student, Mr. Robert Gatten, will be on the island this summer.

Drs. Black, Brooks, Byrd, Hall and Terman attended the Virginia Academy of Science annual meeting on May 5 thru 7. Dr. Mitchell A. Byrd was elected to a three year term as a member of the Council of the Virginia Academy of Science.

Dr. C. Richard Terman and Jan F. Sassaman presented a paper entitled "Sex-ratio in Peromyscus populations" at the May 6 meeting of the Virginia Academy of Science.

Annemarie S. Welch and Dr. Morrill drove to Atlantic City, New Jersey, to attend the meetings of the Federated Societies of Experimental Biology and Medicine, April 12-17. These are the annual meetings of the medically oriented biological sciences; over twenty thousand scientists attended this year. Bruce L. Welch joined them on April 14 to present a paper entitled "Differential effect of chronic grouping and isolation on the metabolism of brain biogenic amines." Annemarie Welch was co-author of the paper.

Bruce L. Welch attended the dedication ceremonies of the new Southeastern Water Resources Laboratory at Athens, Georgia, on May 7.

Mrs. Welch presented a paper entitled "Effect of isolation and of social stimulation upon the metabolism of brain biogenic amines" in the medical section of the Virginia Academy of Science meetings, May 4-7, Harrisonburg, Virginia.

Business Administration

William T. Reece attended the American Accounting Association meetings April 28-30 at Chattanooga, Tenn.

Algin B. King has been appointed a management consultant to the Army Transportation School. In this capacity, he will advise the school on the program of instruction for the Officers' Career Course. Currently, this involves designing a management curriculum for the school's Career Course.

Co-authors of a new interdisciplinary study entitled Report on the Virginia Travel Economy are Charles L. Quittmeyer, William T. Reece, Edwin H. Rhyne (sociology) and Lorin A. Thompson of the University of Virginia.

During March and April, Dr. Quittmeyer addressed groups at Langley Research Center, the Federal Government Accountants' Association and Fort Eustis on the new master of business administration program.

In early May, Dr. Quittmeyer and Anthony L. Sancetta took part in a symposium of the Educational Testing Service in Princeton, N.J., concerning the admission test for graduate study in business.

On May 9, Dr. Quittmeyer, accompanied by Victor A. Liguori of sociology, and Dr. Sancetta, addressed a seminar sponsored by the University of Maryland at Benedict, Md., on regional analysis of the fisheries industry..

School of Education

Kevin E. Geoffrey, assistant professor, has recently completed all requirements for the Ed. D. degree from Arizona State University. The degree was in the field of guidance and counseling and will be awarded May 27.

Armand J. Galfo, assistant dean, addressed the Rawls Byrd Parent-Teacher Association on "Quality Education--What Is It?"

Mrs. Margaret Winder and Mrs. Thelma Wenger attended the sixth annual undergraduate workshop on elementary education at Hampton Institute, April 6. Mrs. Wenger attended the spring reading conference at the University of Virginia on April 30, serving as one of the interrogators of the main speaker.

Richard W. Copeland will direct a National Science Foundation Institute in mathematics for junior high school teachers in Norfolk during the 1966-67 academic year. The Institute is the first of a three-year program to be financed by the NSF. Dr. T.L. Reynolds and Dr. Copeland will teach in the Institute.

English

William D. Godshalk's "Bibliography of Sidney Studies since 1935" has recently been published in the second edition of Kenneth Myrick, Sir Philip Sidney as a Literary Craftsman (Lincoln, Neb., University of Nebraska Press).

Fraser Neiman's review of Warren D. Anderson, Matthew Arnold and the Classical Tradition (University of Michigan) appears in the March, 1966 issue of Victorian Studies.

Fine Arts

Carl Roseberg attended the fourth international sculpture casting conference at the University of Kansas. The new Fine Arts wing will have a bronze casting foundry in the sculpture area.

Thomas E. Thorne attended the inauguration of President Culler of the Philadelphia College of Art, representing the College of William and Mary, on May 2.

History

Dietrich Orlow's article on "The Conversion of Myths into Political Power: The Case of the Nazi Party, 1925-26," has been accepted for publication by the American Historical Review.

Lester J. Cappon, Thad W. Tate and Stephen S. Webb of the Institute of Early American History and Culture attended the Organization of American Historians' meeting in Cincinnati April 27-29. Mr. Webb read a paper entitled "The Strange Career of Francis Nicholson."

Home Economics

On April 8, T. E. Lyman, executive director of the Richmond Better Business Bureau, gave a lecture and showed a film to students in Mrs. Miller's consumer education class.

Students in the dressmaking and tailoring courses presented their finished creations in a fashion show in the Campus Center Ballroom, May 11. A social hour for the models and their guests followed the showing.

Geology

Dr. Stephen C. Clement attended the annual meeting of the American Institute of Mining, Metallurgical and Petroleum Engineers held in New York City on March 17, 18, and 19.

Dr. Kenneth F. Bick attended the annual meeting of the Eastern Section of the National Association of Geology Teachers at Cortland, New York. He has been elected vice-president of the Eastern Section of the Association for the coming year. Dr. Bick attended the annual meetings of the Virginia Academy of Science. While there, he served as a judge of papers in astronomy and Earth Science presented by members of the Junior Academy of Science.

School of Law

An eight-panel display in pictures and text, of the development of English legal and parliamentary institutions, given to the Commonwealth by the British government as part of the Magna Carta 750th anniversary ceremonies last year, will become part of the permanent facilities of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law in its new quarters. The display, which has been on view in the Jamestown Festival Park's New World Pavilion, was offered to the law school and accepted by the faculty. It will be stored at the school until the remodeling of the former library, to begin this summer, reaches a point where it can be installed in an appropriate area in the new building.

E. Blythe Stason, Jr. and William F. Swindler attended the annual meetings of the American Society of International Law in Washington April 28-30. They also attended the annual meetings of the American Law Institute in Washington, May 17-20.

Professor Swindler is the author of "John Marshall's Preparation for the Bar: Some Observations on his Law Notes," which will appear in the tenth anniversary issue of the American Journal of Legal History later this year.

Professor Dudley W. Woodbridge, who will retire in June after 39 years of service at the College, was honored at a series of events during the observation of Law Week May 4-7. The George Wythe Chapter of Phi Alpha Delta legal fraternity sponsored an all-school testimonial dinner on May 4, and at the Law School Association luncheon on May 7 it was announced that the spring issue of the William and Mary Law Review had been dedicated to him. Professor Woodbridge retired from the deanship of the Law School in 1962.

E. McGruder Faris, Jr. was speaker at two April meetings of the North Carolina Bar Association's Institute on The Uniform Commercial Code. His subject was Negotiable Instruments, for which he did a prior study for the North Carolina Legislative Council. The Spring 1966 number of the University of North Carolina Law Review contains an Article by Mr. Faris on changes in North Carolina's law of negotiable instruments brought about by that state's recent passage of the Uniform Commercial Code.

Modern Languages

Dr. J. D. Carter, associate professor of modern languages, emeritus, represented the College May 15 at the academic convocation marking the 25th anniversary of Annhurst College, Woodstock, Conn.

Dr. John A. Moore attended the University of Kentucky Foreign Language Conference April 28-30 and presented a paper entitled "A Note on Erasmus and Fray Luis de Granada."

Music

The William and Mary Choir, under the direction of Carl A. Fehr, presented concerts in Danville, Virginia; Salisbury, North Carolina; Atlanta, Georgia; and Anderson, South Carolina. The tour was highly successful and brought the College of William and Mary to the attention of its listeners.

Stephen P. Paledes will direct the orchestra for the Backdrop Club presentation of "Gypsy," May 19-21.

The William and Mary Orchestra under the direction of Alan C. Stewart played a program for the students of Mathew Whaley School. An explanation of the orchestra instruments, and a description of the music was included in the program.

Alan C. Stewart has been appearing with the Feldman String Quartet in programs for the public schools of Norfolk and Baltimore under the sponsorship of Young Audiences, Inc. He has been appearing as viola soloist this Spring for the Palace Concerts. He also heads a trio from the William and Mary Chamber Players that plays at the Capitol Wednesday evenings. May 1, Mr. Stewart was guest artist with the Feldman String Quartet in a concert sponsored by the Jewish Community Center Chamber Music Series in Newport News. Mr. Stewart was a member of the orchestra in Bruton Church's annual Rockefeller concert under the direction of J.S. Darling. The featured work this year was Beethoven's Mass in C.

F. Donald Truesdell appeared on WCWM April 20 at 8:00 P.M. in a discussion of the life and work of Igor Stravinsky. Works featured were Rite of Spring, Symphony of Psalms, and Threni.

The William and Mary Band under the direction of Charles R. Varner successfully presented concerts at four Virginia High Schools including Gretna, Chatham, Altavista and Fairfax County. The annual Spring tour was completed with a formal concert at Edison High School, Edison, New Jersey. Their annual spring concert on campus was presented at Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall, April 29. A concert on the steps of Phi Beta Kappa Hall at 12:00 Noon May 7 was a feature of Parent's Day. Informal concerts in the Wren Courtyard were presented May 11 and 18.

Philosophy

Professors Foster and Reed gave a series of lectures during the annual Spring Conference of the Association for Psychical Research and Enlightenment, April 24-30. Theme of the conference was Eastern and Western Philosophy and Psychical Research.

Physics

Professors Pittman, Lawrence, Ofelt, Feix, Gordon, and Crownfield attended the Annual Meeting of the Virginia Academy of Science in Harrisonburg on May 6. The program included the following papers presented by members of the Physics Department and their graduate students:

"Surface Waves of a Vacuum - Plasma Interface" by Marc R. Feix.

"Oscillations of an Electron Plasma Enclosed in a Conducting Cylinder" by F. R. Crownfield, Jr.

"Computer Simulation of the Time Behavior of a Gas of Stars" by Frank Hohl and Marc R. Feix.

"Scattering of Light from Spherical Particles with Complex Refractive Index" by F. R. Crownfield, Jr.

"Second Order Corrections in Gas Temperature Measurements" by G. S. Ofelt.

"Optical Radar Studies of the Earth's Atmosphere" by J. D. Lawrence, Jr., M. P. McCormick, and D. P. Woodman.

For the past year, Professor Crownfield has been Secretary of the Astronomy, Mathematics, and Physics Section of the Virginia Academy; he has been elected Chairman of the section for the coming year.

Dr. G. W. Crawford is Project Director for a National Science Foundation grant of $5,050 entitled Undergraduate Instructional Scientific Equipment. The money will be used, along with College funds, for equipment for Physics 103 and 104, the introductory course designed primarily for students not concentrating in science.

Psychology

Stanley B. Williams was installed May 6 as president of the Virginia Academy of Science, at its meeting in Harrisonburg. A number of members of the William and Mary faculty participated in the four-day meeting. Among those from the Department of Psychology were:

Herbert Friedman: "Absolute Judgment of Line Length: Unexpectedly Good Performance."

Peter Derks and Anne V. Larson: "The Effect of Event Proportion on the Perception of Simultaneous Binary Patterns."

Mrs. JoAnn Squires addressed the Peninsula United Fund Agency directors in Newport News March 23, on director-staff relations.

Professors Harcum and Derks attended the Eastern Psychological Association meeting in New York, April 14-16. Professor Harcum was judge of the Psychology Section at the annual meeting of the Virginia Junior Academy of Science.

Professor Friedman has had an article accepted for publication by Nature entitled "Colour Vision in the Virginia Opossum."

Sociology and Anthropology

Professor David J. Gray attended Eastern Sociological Society meeting in Philadelphia April 15-17. He has been elected to the Executive Committee of the Virginia Social Science Association. He was guest speaker at Keystone Junior College, La Plume, Pennsylvania March 30th.

Professors Kernodle and Ito attended the annual meeting of the Virginia Social Science Association held at Hampden-Sydney College in April.

Professor Liguori attended Eastern Sociological Society meeting in Philadelphia April 15-17.

Professor Carol Ballingall attended annual meeting of the Eastern Ethnological Society in Philadelphia April 8-9.

Professors Liguori and Ito and 10 selected students in sociology participated in the Intercollegiate Sociological Seminar held at Hampton Institute on April 30.

Professor Beck's criminology classes (including 60 students) took a field trip to the Federal Reformatory in Petersburg to observe the system of rehabilitation at the Reformatory and to participate in the seminar on sociology of crime and correctional methods and to make preliminary assessment of student and faculty research opportunities. This field trip was taken on Wednesday, May 4.

Dr. Norman Barka of Anthropology and Dr. Ben McCary of Modern Languages have been directing archaeological excavations in the Queens Lake area during the past several months, using student assistance. An 18th century colonial trash pit is yielding a large variety of English, Dutch, German, and American artifacts. A prehistoric Indian site is providing a good collection of pottery types. All excavated materials are being used as a study collection and teaching aid in anthropology courses.

Theatre and Speech

The first season of the William and Mary Public Debate Series saw College debaters appearing before audiences totaling more than 7,000. Public Debates were presented before area high schools, several civic organizations in Williamsburg and Newport News, and here on campus. Teams from Oxford University, England, and Wake Forest College participated in this year's Series. Next year the Debate Council will invite four colleges to participate, at different times, in an expanded Series.

During April, ten William and Mary Debaters served as judges for area high school debate tournaments. Students judged for the Peninsula District Debate Tournament for the Virginia High School League held here in Phi Beta Kappa Hall. The tournament was directed by Donald L. McConkey. Students also judged in the Virginia Catholic League Tournament held at Walsingham Academy.
