

B.W.Norton Leads First Seminar

Sees Opportunities For Local Planning

"Williamsburg can offer a practical example of planning at the local level—the 'grass-roots' level," said Mr. B. W. Norton as he addressed the first session of the Marshall-Wythe Seminar on Thursday, February 10, in Rogers 212. Mr. Norton, who is Director of the Williamsburg War Board and Vice-President of the Restoration, discussed "Planning at the Local Level with Emphasis on Williamsburg."

"Our local waters are deep enough for anyone who wants to plunge into them, without his having to search further," the speaker continued as he pointed out the need for post-war planning right now to take care of existing local conditions.

It was with the rebuilding of Fort Eustis and the rise of Camp Peary that Williamsburg really felt the impact of a global war. Labor and housing problems came into view with the flow of Army and Navy personnel.

A War Board was organized to handle such problems as Housing, Resettlement of Families, Recreation, Stabilization of Wages, and Retail Stores. Members of this group include Mayor Channing Hall, Dr. John E. Pomfret, Mr. Vernon Geddy, Mr. C. C. Jackson, Mr. George Duborg, and Mr. W. L. Person; Dr. Charles Marsh was named Director of Research for the Board.

Housing was unquestionably problem number one with Rationing running a close second. The census and housing survey conducted by the students of the college for the War Board was most helpful in listing facts as a basis for the ground work to be done. This housing problem had to be referred to Federal Agencies as it is now largely dependent upon federal procedures. Recently dormitories on Richmond Road were provided to house single white women coming into the town from outside.

"The first cardinal principle for such work is to establish a foundation of facts," continued Mr. Norton. "No city, town, county, state, regional, or federal planning is possible without facts." According to the speaker, one fact which was found by comparing the census of 1940 and that of 1942, shows that the population in Decem-

Fairer Sex Date Their Valentines At German Club Co-eds Saturday

By SUSIE SEAY

Again the increasingly popular girl-take-boy dance came around as the German Club sponsored its second co-ed dance. Held on February 12, the occasion was marked by a decided Valentine's Day influence.

During the past week, clever posters were made and put in the most conspicuous places around campus. A popular and very catchy way of advertising was the trail of signs to the cafeteria—"Take him - to the dance - if you want - him to be - your Valentine!" (Compliments, Burma Shave.)

Saturday afternoon found Barbara Gray with her staff of decorators busy in Blow Gymnasium. With the assistance of a group of ASTU men, the red and white streamers were hung and looped from the balcony, giving a beautiful effect. Ann James and Sunny Trumbo made huge hearts which adorned the side walls. Inci-

Mortarboard's Book Canvass Nets Over 400

Lebe Seay, chairman of the Mortarboard book-collecting drive, announces that almost four hundred books have already been collected and more are still coming in every day. This drive was undertaken last week as a part of the World Students' Service Fund appeal for books to be sent to students in Europe, Canada, and to those interned in the United States.

Dormitories and sorority houses were canvassed by a committee appointed by the Mortarboards to collect textbooks of all types. The types of books especially needed by the W.S.S.F. are college textbooks; preparatory school textbooks; standard works in English literature; language study books in any language; books in the Modern Library, Everyman's Library, Home University Library, and Hazen Series on Religion; and books for professional subjects, such as law, medicine, and theology.

dentally, these hearts had names on them—or did you know?

At the far end of the floor was a huge heart-shaped arch made by Ann Ray. Through this arch Lebe Seay, President of the German Club, and Barbara Gray, vice-president, led the grand march. While passing through the arch, each German Club member gave her date a valentine containing two war stamps.

Two small hearts with war stamps attached were tied with ribbon about each German Club girl's wrist. Thus, the red and white of valentines was tied in with a more patriotic theme.

All girls wore formal evening dresses. They, alone, did the breaking. So, with the tables turned, the girls looked out for themselves, and the dance moved swiftly.

The scene was one of bright colors mingled among khaki and navy blue. A great many ASTU men, chaplains,

Places Emphasis On Global Peace

Dr. Walter Van Kirk, guest speaker at the convocation marking the opening of Religious Emphasis Week, Monday, February 14, addressed a large gathering of students and faculty on the subject, "Pillars of Peace." His second talk, entitled "A Global Faith for a Global Peace," was made Tuesday night, with Russ Powers presiding over the program. Russ will also preside over the final program, which will include songs by the William and Mary Choir, tonight at 8 o'clock. Dr. Van Kirk will make his address on "What Can Christians Do Now for a Just and Durable Peace?" There will be no Chapel Service tonight.

An informal discussion will be led by Muriel Koch this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Dodge Room of Phi Beta Kappa Hall. The two previous groups, on Monday and Tuesday afternoons, were led by Jack Carter and Barbara Ruhl, respectively.

To the student religious leaders, it seems only fitting, since the College of William and Mary was founded primarily for the purpose of training men for the ministry, that the College today devote one week for religious consideration. For the third consecutive year, the Student Religious Union, the Chapel Committee, and the Committee on Lectures have sponsored Religious Emphasis Week. Its chief purpose is, through lectures and informal discussions, to present contemporary viewpoints on Christianity and to stress the importance of Christianity as a driving force in the world.

Exclusive Narrative Film Illustrates Lecture; Presented Monday, February 21, In Phi Beta

Count Byron De Prorok, noted author, archaeologist, explorer, and discoverer of lost worlds, will present his new and exclusive film narrative, "The African Drama," in the Phi Beta Kappa Auditorium on Monday night, February 21, at 8 o'clock. In this lecture, Count De Prorok will tell the audience about a part of the world which has been of significant importance in recent months because of the campaigns of the Americans and British against the Germans and Italians, and because of political complications with the Free French.

Dorms Hold Election Mon.

Elections for members of the dormitory committees in each of the men's dormitories will be held on Monday, February 21, between the hours of 4 and 6 P. M. in each dormitory, it has been announced by the Men's Honor Council.

Petitions for nomination must be submitted to the office of the Dean of Men by 4 P. M. on Friday, February 18. Each petition must bear the signature of six residents of the dormitory which the person desires to represent, including the person nominated; that is, five signatures plus the signature of the nominee.

The tentative plan as proposed by the Honor Council, which is in charge of conducting the initial elections, provides for the election of a dormitory committee in each of the men's dormitories. In Tyler Annex, the Restoration, and the Old Infirmary, the committees will consist of three men each;

Newcomers Seen In Play

Two new assignments have been made in the cast of "Tartuffe," the next production of the William and Mary Theatre. The part of Orgon, the father, has been assigned to Ronald King, and Robert Davis has been given the role of Damis, Orgon's son.

This French comedy, written by Moliere, employs characters of very diversified types; therefore, in the selection of the cast, it was necessary that several newcomers to the Theatre be chosen.

Tom Thornton and Marilyn Woodberry portray the inevitable romantic lovers in this typical seventeenth century drama. Mr. Thornton comes to the William and Mary Theatre from the University of Richmond where he was active in dramatics. Miss Woodberry is a freshman. This production is her debut to William and Mary audiences.

John Helfrich, after a year's absence, returns to the campus to portray the part of Cleante, a serious, wise reasoner, as his first theatre role.

Marian Webb, who has assisted Miss Althea Hunt, director, in previous plays, will be Flipotte, a servant, in the play.

The part of the police officer, a representative of King Louis XIV, will be done by Dennis Wine, a freshman, another newcomer to the stage.

As "Tartuffe" goes into its third week of production, the play is rapidly shaping up, with both the cast and the technical crews well under way.

The Count De Prorok is one of the world's youngest modern explorers, and yet has attained high rank both from the scientific standpoint and from his ability to present his discoveries in popular style. For twenty years he has been on the romantic quest for sections of the world now largely forgotten.

He has headed expeditions under the auspices of several governments to uncover the lost civilizations of three continents. He was the first archaeologist to use moving-pictures to record his discoveries, the first to use the airplane for exploration, the first to cross the Libyan and Tripolitan Saharas with specially designed motor trucks, the first to discover relics of the ancient Carthaginian and Roman cities which had been buried in the shifting sands of the desert, the first to establish a link between the Mayas of Central America and the ancient Libyans of north-west Africa, and the first to excavate the lost Kingdom of Sheba.

In December, 1933, Count de Prorok left Paris at the head of the fourteenth Franco-American expedition to "forbidden Abyssinia." It was the first organized archaeological expedition to receive permission from Emperor Haile Selassie I to travel and explore throughout his unknown domain. From 1936 to 1940, Count De Prorok was delving into those very regions in Africa where the present titanic struggle for empire has been taking place. Thus, his new motion-picture presentation of the African drama is one of the most timely of present-day lectures.

Not only will he show scenes of archaeological interest from ancient times, and pictures of the modern terrain and of recent events; but he will also tell of his personal acquaintance with outstanding leaders such as De Gaulle, Giraud, Weygand, Wavell, Balbo, Badoglio, and Darlan, and will describe significant happenings such as the French underground movement, the preparations of the armies of De Gaulle and Giraud, the building of the Trans-Sahara Railway, and the assassination of Darlan.

Count De Prorok has been decorated by France and Italy. He is a Grand Officer of the Knights of the Holy Sepulchre, a Commander of the Order of the Star of Ethiopia, and a Fellow of the Royal Geographic Society. He has lectured before the National Geographic Society, the French Academy, and countless other societies; at Yale, Harvard, Carnegie Institute, Columbia, the University of Toronto, Cambridge University, Oxford University, and the Sorbonne. His scientific and semi-popular articles are numerous. He is coming to the campus under the auspices of the Faculty Committee on Lectures, Art, and Music.

WAM 'First Nighter' Nets $675 Toward Jeep Fund

Features Include Movies, Exhibits

By EVELYN STRYKER

"This is the jeep drive, man alive, It starts with the gals gettin' hep in the Wigwam. When it arrives, Jack, that's the jeep drive. Roll out your dough, don't go to the show, Come on, let's go!"

With these snappy, original words sung by Jackie Adams, Jean Beazley, Marion Lott, Honey Maguire, and Jean Schwartz, the stage was set for the Wams' successful "First Nighter" held on February 11 from 6:45 to 10:00 in Phi Beta Kappa Hall. The evening's activities netted a total of $643.75, $450 of which was collected from the sale of bonds.

The goal of the Wams is to raise enough money in two weeks by the sale of war stamps to buy a jeep. On approaching Phi Beta Kappa Hall, the visitors were surprised to find a genuine jeep parked at the door. Inside, the room was a babble of confusion as soldiers, sailors, and coeds milled about taking in the sights. Several things caught the eye at once.

Mortarboard Sells Corsages

In one corner, attractive war stamp corsages made by members of Mortarboard were on sale, while in another corner, a brightly-colored booth displayed such signs as "Buy More War Bonds" and "Help the 4th War Loan." Sales from corsages totaled $50.00.

The snack bar provided cookies, doughnuts and cokes, the profit going toward the purchase of the jeep.

WAMS Display Activities

Several girls worked energetically demonstrating how tin cans should be prepared for scrap. Near them was a huge V made of textbooks contributed by the co-eds for distribution in prison and concentration camps.

In a side room three movies, "Blood and Fire," "Divide and Conquer," and "Out of the Frying Pan," were shown, one each hour.

The mysteries of the art of bandage rolling were unfolded as white-gowned girls meticulously measured and folded huge squares of gauze, somehow ending up with a 2 by 2 inch Red Cross dressing.

The walls of the exhibit displayed charts depicting the organization of the Wams. A Wams' Honor Roll gave the names of those girls who had fulfilled their pledge of five hours' war work per month.

General Co-op Meets W & M's War Worries

Views Government, Cafeteria Problems

Several issues and situations created by the war were discussed and passed upon at a meeting of the General Co-operative Committee, February 10 in Philomathean Hall.

Marge Lentz, speakign for the Women's Student Government Association, reported that the judicial rules are not being obeyed and suggested that more frequent opportunities be given for revising the rules. She also suggested that the Wigwam remain open until 11 o'clock for those having special Soda Shop permission. In the discussion it appeared that the Constitution already provides for a larger voice of the Women Students in making of the rules. The difficulty seemed to arise in the late date at which these discussions start and the late date at which they are presented to the president.

Marge Retzke asked that the Cafeteria Committee be called and present its information so that the Committee would be better informed of the difficulties and circumstances in the cafeteria. She asked about the validity of the cafeteria books after they had been cut in half. As far as the Co-operative Committee's authority is concerned, both books are valid. She asked that the President do something to reduce the cafeteria congestion during the early part of the noon and dinner hours, and that a system of issuing the books be devised that would eliminate delay.

A tabled motion brought forward from the Student Assembly was passed. It enables the Men's Honor Council to appoint men to fill any vacancies occurring within that committee and enables the Nominating Committee to fill vacancies that occur in Assembly offices between the fall and spring elections.

Several motions were made to improve the situation in the Wigwam.

The motion which rules that staff membership of the three publications be relaxed was passed.

It was moved that 1 o'clock permission be given for special dances on week nights, that is, dances other than the regular Saturday night dances. This motion is subject to the President's approval.

Dr. Miller stated that because of wartime restrictions on travel, the dates for spring vacation will be changed. For this same reason Commencement and Baccalaureate services this June will be held on the same day, Sunday.

Three Courses Are Added To Curriculum This Year

Barksdale Teaches Nursing, First Aid

Several new courses have been added to the curriculum this year. Since last September the Department of Government has sponsored a course in Geography; and, beginning this semester, the Women's Physical Education Department, under the leadership of Miss Barksdale, is sponsoring a double course in Home Nursing and First Aid.

Miss Barksdale herself teaches the course in First Aid on Tuesday at 3:30 in the gym; while Mrs. Salmon takes time off from her nursing duties in the College Infirmary to teach Home Nursing on Thursday in the special Red Cross building.

Students completing both courses will receive two college credits; but it is possible to take either course separately for a Red Cross certificate only. The Marshall-Wythe Seminar, while not a new development, takes a new topic for study each year.

The final arrangements for the program were completed on Monday, February 14. The first meeting was held on February 10 and the speaker was Mr. B. W. Norton, Director, Williamsburg War Board and Vice-President of Colonial Williamsburg, Incorporated. The guest speaker at the second meeting, on February 24, will be Mr. Raymond V. Long, Director, Virginia State Planning Board; and the topic will be "Planning at the State Level, with special reference to Virginia." One meeting will be omitted and the next speaker will be Virginia Dabney, Editor, Richmond Times Dispatch, on "Domestic Politics in the Post-War Period" on Thursday, March 16. Dr. Mordecai Ezekiel will speak on "National Economic Planning" on Thursday, March 23.

After the spring vacation, the program will be resumed with Prof. Dana G. Monroe, director of the School of Public and International Affairs, who will speak on "The Conditions Necessary for Maintenance of International Peace." Prof. S. D. Southworth of the Division of Monetary Research of the U. S. Treasury, who is on leave from the faculty of William and Mary, will end the series on Thursday, April 27, with his talk on "International Monetary Planning."

By BILL SAUNDERS

Last Thursday, a meeting of all men was held for the purpose of considering a plan for improving conditions in the dormitories. The plan, in brief, calls for the election of committees in each dormitory, and the creation of an Inter-Dormitory Council composed of the chairmen of the various committees. The members of these committees would take care of minor disturbances and report persistent offenders, first to the dormitory committee, and finally to the Inter-Dormitory Council. Here are the opinions of several of the men on the new plan:

Dick Bicks (Freshman, Monroe Hall): Obviously, the men's dormitories, and especially Monroe, need some controlling influence. While this plan is unattractive in some of its aspects, it seems to me to be the best yet put forward.

Tom Thornton (Sophomore, Monroe Hall): I am not in favor of it. I think boys of college age are old enough to discipline themselves. Other colleges with comparable scholastic standings among the men have nothing but the general rules we already have.

Joel Markowitz (entering Freshman, Monroe Hall): Certainly, I approve of it. We should be careful, however, in our choice of those who will administer the plan.

Don Anderson (Sophomore, Taliaferro): Though the men of the college should have some sort of self-government in the dormitories, the form of that government has been put over on them by the Administration.

Robert Horowitz (Sophomore, Taliaferro): I think the idea is degrading to the average William and Mary male student. I believe a person of college age is old enough to conduct himself as a gentleman should.

Robert Burns (Sophomore, Sigma Rho): I don't believe the Sigma Rho house needs this plan. We had the highest scholastic average on the campus last semester. In my opinion the boys in our dorm are well-mannered and considerate of other students. I

Lusk Makes New Record For Sit-ups

A.S.T.P. Rates High In Physical Tests

By PVT. IRWIN DUNN

Results from the Physical Efficiency Tests given by the Army indicate conclusively that the ASTP trainees of this Unit have improved themselves considerably in all fields of physical endeavor. The Army men showed marked increases in their point scores in every part of their multi-phased program. There was a 12% average increase in the Physical Efficiency Test ratings of the group.

The program was administered by the athletic department with the guidance of Carl A. Voyles, head of the Physical Education Department, and coaches Umbach, Steussey, McCray, and Rawlinson.

The most notable physical achievement was turned in by Pvt. Rufus S. Lusk. Lusk did more than 3,000 sit-ups, and in so doing, broke the national ASTP record. The story of Lusk's record feat was published by the United Press throughout the country, while Tad Wieman, former Princeton football coach and at present ASTP athletic supervisor, forwarded a letter to Lusk complimenting him on his achievement.

Ten members of the Unit paced the scorers with marks over 650 out of a possible 700 point score which is considered perfect by the Army. These men were: Ernest Personcus, 674; Vincent Fischer, 668; Elwood Raber, 664; Peter Everett, 658; William Hope, 656; Raymond Clover, 656; Harvey Akright, 654; James Evans, 654; Thomas Beltz, 651; Paul Moreland, 650; and William Cocos, 650.

At the start of the program, the Athletic Division of the ASTP set up certain minimum standards for trainees which have been far surpassed by the William and Mary Unit. New records in individual events are held by: William Cocos, 66 push-ups; Edward Baker, 120 squat-jumps; Rufus Lusk, 3,000 sit-ups; Ernest Person-

Indian Cage Captain Rates Third Highest Scorer In State

By ED KORNBLUH

"Mr. Big" of this year's William and Mary basketball squad is team captain Ed Holle of Clinton, Iowa. He rates third in the Virginia scoring race and has the best point average in the Southern Conference. Holle has a brilliant, aggressive floor game at his command, and his ball handling is a thing of beauty.

Holle began his basketball career at Clinton High School, where he was captain of the team. In 1940, he was second highest scorer in the conference with 125 points; and he was so highly regarded that he was chosen for the all-state team.

Holle has had no previous college experience, which makes his court savvy and coolness under fire all the more remarkable. School-boy stars are generally "diamonds in the rough" needing plenty of polishing before they can show their natural ability to

Tribe Face U. R., Tech

In a two-day homestand, that will bring to Williamsburg two vital State and Southern Conference games, William and Mary's basketball team will play the University of Richmond and Virginia Tech.

The Tribe-Spider game on Friday will be the second game of the season between these two clubs. William and Mary won a two-point decision over its old rivals in Richmond earlier in the season. The Indians now hold six straight victories over the Spider Basketeers, and the last time the Red and Blue Cagers triumphed was a 46-41 affair in 1941. Therefore, it is a safe bet to assume that Coach Mac Pitt's charges will shoot the works in an effort to stop their losing ways, and gain a victory over their old rivals.

The Richmond attack is centered around two regulars and two Naval students, one of these a transfer from William and Mary. Pitt's two regulars are Freddie Gantt, beanpole forward, and a crafty guard, George Gasser, both of whom saw action as regulars last year. At center the Spiders have Erv Kroff, a Naval V-12 student, who played basketball for the Tribe last year and has fitted very nicely into the Richmond attack. The other standout is Charles Sokol, also a V-12 gift. Sokol, who played as an All-State High School center for Julie Conn's state champion Newport News outfit last year, is stationed at forward. His rebound ability is definitely an asset to his team. Coach Pitt will bring all these men plus some high class reserves to Williamsburg, and the game promises to be the high point of the local season.

A new instructor's course will begin on February 16 and 17. It will meet from eight until ten on Wednesday and Thursday nights.

In April a special examiner will be here to grade those taking courses in water safety and in first aid.

Ten girls are in this class. Age requirements are that one must be 19 or in the latter part of her eighteenth year. Those taking this course are Susanne Baude, Connie Conway, Ricky Goldberg, Nancy Hale, Betty Jane Relph, Jackie Sanne, Ruth Sinclair, Ricky Struminger, Jean Taylor, and Jerry Williard.

These girls will be reviewing methods from now until April in water safety, swimming, and first aid.

Two Leagues Play In Annual Bridge Event

Theta, Chandler Hold First Place

First half scores in the annual bridge tournament which began last week show Kappa Alpha Theta leading for north-south and Kappa Kappa Gamma leading for east-west in the sorority league. Chandler holds first place in the dormitory league with Barrett second.

The duplicate system which the tournament uses is played by using pre-arranged hands. In this way, each north and south couple plays all north-south hands. East and west partners play the east-west hands in the same manner. Scores are totaled according to contract bridge rules.

Those participating in the dormitory league are: Chandler—Jane Barteaux, Jean Schwartz, Barbara Nickum, and Margy Knowlton. Barrett—Annis McLean, Sally Smith, Carol Sterner, and Marilyn Wood. Jefferson—Jeanne Bolton, Jane Atkinson, Joan Schmaele, and Tony Lester.

Those playing in the sorority league are: Kappa Alpha Theta—Marge Maroney, Sugie Hartnell, M'Lou Barrott, Nancy Speaks, Hanna Leonard, and Marny Bevans.

Delta Delta Delta—Ginny McGavick, Luella Fitzgerald, Julie Rowen, Martha Adams, and Jean Bulette. Alpha Chi Omega—Dossie Blake, Betty Evans, Barbara Grey, and Marion Lounsbury. Chi Omega—Dede Armor, and Marge Webster. Gamma Phi Beta—Dee Dumas, Mary Jane Chamberlain, Nellie Greaves, Virginia Southworth, Eleanor Dumper, and Edie McChesney.

W-M Tribesmen Handicapped By Loss Of Four Regulars

Tribe Scalps F.U.M.A., 46-25

Playing before a small gathering here on February 9, William and Mary tuned up for its western swing by romping all over Fork Union Military Academy to the tune of 46-25.

It was again Austin Wright and Mac McClellan who led the way with Wright getting 12 points and McClellan 8. Sam Swindell, playing his second game for William and Mary, contributed four points and turned in an all-around fine performance. The Braves, after a shabby start, turned on the heat to win in a walk away, although some nice shots by McKay, cadet center, made the game interesting.

42 Awarded Gold Footballs

At the close of last semester, 42 William and Mary football players were awarded gold footballs. The presentations were made formally by the athletic department at a short ceremony in Phi Beta Kappa Hall. All members who received the gold footballs saw a lot of action in most of last year's gridiron tilts.

The men receiving the awards were: W. Sydnor, E. Dunbar, J. Jackson, J. Hall, W. Martin, W. Galbreath, P. Reynolds, T. Campbell, R. Matton, H. Chappell, B. Chappell, T. Mikula, R. Plummer, A. Wright, B. Raimondi, H. Kindead, A. Grenadier, R. Hefflin, E. White, O. Amon, H. Moore, Mgr.; M. Lipinski, R. Sullivan, D. Brause, N. DeRisi, F. Kidder, J. Fair, P. Everett, J. Och, A. Lincoln, W. Allison, H. Ocque, T. Wagner, J. Goodman, S. Bardsley, R. Holland, H. Caruso, C. Boone, E. Golden, H. Kress, A. Peyton, and D. White.

V.P.I. Wrecks Tribe, 46-22

Minus four regulars, William and Mary's Indians were dealt their first State and Southern Conference defeat at Blacksburg, February 10, by V.P.I.'s Gobblers, 46-22.

Taking the initiative the smartly drilled Techmen were off to an early lead which they kept throughout the contest. Led by flashy Captain Bushkar and Frederick at forward, who tallied 16 points, the Gobblers did everything right, and the Indians suffered one of their most devastating defeats of the season. Doc White, Indian center, led the William and Mary attack with 11 points.

Wilson Hospital Tops Tri-Color

Still without the services of four regulars, William and Mary's Indians took it on the chin for the second successive night as the cagers of the Wilson Army Hospital topped the Braves 47-37 at Staunton, Friday night.

Behind at the half, the Soldiers were forced to overcome a 22-20 Indian lead and as a result, they controlled the play during the last half. Austin Wright, only Indian regular, counted 18 points for the losers while White added 17. High scorers for the winners were Kaufman with 17 and Spellman with 10.

Austin Wright, Local Hoop Star, Bolsters Power Of Court Team

William and Mary's basketball teams have enjoyed a most remarkable season during 1943-44; and it is hard to point out any particularly outstanding players responsible for this; but there are a score who have never faltered in the time of greatest need. Among these stalwarts is Austin Wright, a seventeen-year-old freshman who has played as seventeen-year-olds often do in fiction, but rarely in reality.

To this six-foot, blonde youngster has fallen the task of playing center; and, under the tutorage of R. N. McCray, Wright has turned out to be a first class successor to the great Glenn Knox. Wright is consistent at all times, but in his last few games has really flowered into an all-around threat. In these two games, he has tallied 28 points and now has a season total of 62 points in his seven contests including the Fork Union game. Wright played his first varsity game against William and Mary's deadly rival, the University of Richmond; and it was Austin's free throw followed by Dixon's field goal that gave the Tribe their memorable two-point victory.

Wright attended Matthew Whaley High School here in Williamsburg. In four years there he earned six letters, three in basketball and three in baseball. In his senior year, he was captain of both the basketball and baseball squads and established an all-time school scoring record of 168 points in 15 games, an average of a little better than 11 points a game.

Austin's immediate plans for the future are uncertain, but after the war he hopes to attend engineering school.

For Women Only

By CORNELIA WESTERMAN

The current sports scene seems to center around the Dance Group and Orchesis. We prick up our ears whenever the word dance is mentioned. Why? The Dance Group and Orchesis are working like mad behind closed doors on some new ideas which they will present later in the spring. They've just taken in eleven new members. They are: Constance Anninos, Jean Beazly, Eleanor Herman, Audrey Hudgins, Gloria Iden, Carolyn Macy, Jean McPherrin, Carolyn Thomas, Margaret Pratt, Virginia Turner, and Miriam White. These girls were chosen by the members of the Dance Club who watched them work in Modern Dance classes. The new members make up the Dance Group, while the more advanced girls are in Orchesis.

The Bridge Tournament reached its climax this week. The co-eds played faithfully every day. A tea will be held in Barrett living room next week after the final round of games.

The physical education department is very much encouraged by the success of the recreational period as a third hour of gym. Judging from the mass migration to the capitol every week, one might think it had become some sort of a Mecca for students. Whenever you, gals, tire a bit of the scenery down Duke of Gloucester street, why don't you skip over to the gym and play some badminton. The courts can be used any evening when there are no classes and over the week-end. Or if you've been wanting to splash around in the pool, there are plunge periods Monday, Tuesday, and Friday evenings from 9:15 to 9:45 and on Saturday afternoon from 2:30 to 3:30. After all, variety does lend a certain spice to activity.

Percent Plan To Be Used In Intramurals

Intramural basketball will begin on February 22. There will be a Junior League, composed of teams from dormitories and sororities other than the ones participating in the original intramurals. Points will be given for winning and also for the percent of participation. This is a new system which has been devised to encourage more people to play.

Participation is defined as engaging actively in the required number of practices and tournament games as specified for each sport. This excludes the song contest and the bridge tournament.

Intramural participation in each group or residence league will be based on an average of the numbers in that group or residence in September or February of that year.

The percent of members of each group or residence league taking part in each activity will be computed at the end of each sport season. The percent of participation of each group will be included in the yearly average of the organization, whether or not it enters a team in all of the activities.

This idea of giving points for participation allows the teams which do not rank near the top a chance to receive points.

week at Blacksburg; and the Braves, minus four regulars last week, will endeavor to avenge themselves. The Gobblers have won three out of the last seven contests with the Indians; that is, games played since 1941. They will be out to bring that record up to four out of eight for a 500 average. The Techmen under direction of Coach McEver will bring to Williamsburg a well-balanced crew led by last year's regular Joe Bushkar, who is captain this year, and Frederick, a fine forward who caused the Tribe no end of trouble at Blacksburg last week. Beyond a doubt, all members of the ASTP are in top physical condition and would be able to cope with any conditions the situation might warrant. Over hill or dale, on the mat or in the ring, on the bar or on the rope, the ASTP trainee will show himself to good advantage because of the severe physical program he has mastered.

Under the ASTP classification, 212 members received a rating of "Excellent", with scores of 525 or better, 164 as "Good", with scores of 385-525, and 16 as "Average" with tallies of 315-385.

Did You Know That

- The only state team to beat a Voyles-coached Indian football squad was the University of Virginia in 1939? The next year the Tribe beat the Cavaliers, and since then no state team has topped W-M.
- Bud Methany, the Yankee outfielder who starred in the World Series when the St. Louis Cardinals were thrashed, was also once captain of the William and Mary bat slingers?
- William and Mary has opposed and beaten in football the University of Richmond four times in the past four years?
- The oldest rival of William and Mary is not the University of Richmond as is believed by many, but is Hampden-Sydney?
- Helen Jacobs, national women's tennis star, coached both advanced and beginner tennis classes here in the fall of 1942? Miss Jacobs was taking courses here to fulfill requirements for officer's training in the WAVES.

Tigers Beat William and Mary

Playing for the first time in two nights at full strength, William and Mary's cagers dropped a 45-40 game to Hampden-Sydney at Farmville Saturday night.

The loss darkened the Indian state title hopes, and left them only two state games to play. Bill Cantwell, who was held to but four points in Williamsburg in the last Tiger-Indian contest, led the way for the Bengals with 18 points, while slender Willis Dixon tallied 15 points for the Tribe and Wright 9. Trailing by only three points at the half, the Braves tried desperately to get back in the ball game, but the Tigers matched them basket for basket to gain the victory.

New Faces

Among the new men on the basketball team are several notable athletes who entered William and Mary at mid-term. Among them is Sam Swindell, star back in football, forward in basketball, and catcher on the baseball team at St. Christopher's School in Richmond; and Joe Parker, Petersburg basketball captain. Both of these boys should prove an asset to McCray's cage team.

S. American Art Will Be On Exhibition Representative Works From Ten Republics

"Paintings from Ten Latin-American Republics," a new exhibit collected by the Museum of Modern Art, will be in the foyer of Phi Beta Kappa Hall from February 19 to March 11. Fifty-four paintings will be shown, ranging from realistic portraits to abstract and surrealist compositions. They are primarily concerned with the people and background of the Republics and show the variety and quality of Latin-American painting.

There will be some water colors, monotypes, ink drawings, oils, tempera, and color reproductions in the exhibit. Better known of the Latin-American painters represented will be Orozco, Rivera, and Siqueiros. Although these three men happen to be from Mexico, the rest of the Republics, Argentina, Bolivia, Cuba, Brazil, Colombia, Chili, Ecuador, Peru, and Uruguay, will also be represented.

Shown throughout the United States for the past months, the exhibit has brought the artists' views of South America to the American people.

Sullivan, William Tichy, and Clark D. Zumpe, Jr.

Five trainees were sent to the 14th Armored Division, Camp Campbell, Kentucky: Max Bernstein, Warren L. Carleen, Wendell R. Hall, William L. Hoppe, and Robert G. Mueller.

Howard E. Baldwin, Jerome J. Burke, Robert J. Hefferon, Sherwin Bardsley, and Mark C. Draves, Jr., are now Aviation Cadets.

Competition between sororities and dorms has started at the University of Maryland to select the Maryland War Bond Queen of 1944. This contest is part of a drive toward reaching the campus goal of $15,000.

Specialists Present Smoker To Enthusiastic Audience

Program Consists Of Group Singing; Classical, Popular Music; And Sinatra Impersonation

By CONNIE CONWAY

Talented Specialists from the Chaplains' Training School on campus entertained a large gathering of military and civilian students with much music and general hilarity at another of their "smokers" in Phi Beta Kappa Hall, last Thursday evening.

It is not by chance that the relatively small group of Navy enlisted men in the school contains so many who are musically accomplished. One of the requirements for a Chaplains' Aide is that he must have a knowledge of music.

As Master of Ceremonies of the program, dynamic tenor Coast Guard Eugene Christy kept the show rolling, led the audience in the group singing, and made like Sinatra with Gershwin's "Love Walked In." Christy, who entered the Navy in August of last year, had scholarships in voice to the Kansas City Conservatory and the American Conservatory in Chicago. He has had professional experience singing over the Columbia Network out of Kansas City, and has had the tenor lead in operettas and variety shows there.

The popular piano duo, blond Owen Brady and dark Bill Nolle pounded the ivories with such numbers as "Tea for Two," "Begin the Beguine," "Chattanooga Choo-Choo," and "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes." Brady studied under Mark Wessel at the University of Colorado, and Nolle under Gaston Dethier at the Julliard School in New York. Both have done professional entertaining, and Nolle played for the Columbia Network three months prior to his entrance into the Navy last August.

Ralph Woolley's two songs, "Shadrack," and "The Green-Eyed Dragon," were especially well liked by the audience. Woolley studied at Denver University and Baylor University in Texas, and then taught at Baylor for three years prior to his entrance into the Navy. Professionally, Woolley has also sung in all the entertainment fields, including radio work over NBC in Denver.

Waves Evelyn Gibson and Virginia Moore lent variety to the all-Navy show, with their singing of several Victor Herbert pieces. Miss Gibson has studied at several music schools here and abroad, has taught and done concert and radio work.

Classified as a "dramatic tenor," Marvin Franz Meiers showed the musical ability which enabled him to win a scholarship to the Chicago Musical College in his singing of "Song of Songs," and "One Alone." He has sung over all the major networks, been soloist with several large symphonies, taught voice, and prior to entering the Navy last August, was on the staff of NBC.

Violinist James Heller, and pianist Victor Wolfram made classical contributions to the program with Wolfram's playing of Chopin's "Sonata in B Minor," and Heller's introduction of Specialist Keene's piece—as yet unnamed—written specially for the violinist. Wolfram studied for fifteen years at the Julliard School in New York and was on the faculty there for three years. He has done composing and concert work, and has played over NBC.

Highlight of the evening was the shadow "operation" performed by an unidentified specialist on a second unidentified specialist, who, seemingly, had much intestinal fortitude—consisting of old rubbers, chains, dead fish, and yards of tangled rope.

The entire cast of the show gathered on the stage for the singing of Irving Berlin's "God Bless America," which closed the program.

Miss Adams Gives Concert On Feb. 20

Miss Eleanor Adams, Graduate Assistant in the Music Department, will present a piano concert on Sunday, February 20, at 3:30 P. M. in Phi Beta Kappa Hall. Before coming to William and Mary, Miss Adams studied at Oberlin College and is a graduate of the Oberlin Conservatory.

Among the works to be presented in the program will be Sonata in A flat minor by Beethoven, Intermezzo in B flat minor by Brahms, and Scherzo by Griffes. The concert, one of a series, is sponsored by the Students' Music Club.

Columnist Is Amazed By Committee's Activity

By JERRY HYMAN

Having watched the progress of the students and of the College for over three and a half years, often from the sidelines, occasionally from a better vantage point, never yet have I had cause to feel that conditions were anywhere near ideal. I still do not feel that they are, but many things that have happened recently make me think that maybe we too can have a "new deal."

This hope centers around the last meeting of the General Cooperative Committee. For the most part these meetings are cut and dried affairs. Usually the minutes of the past meeting are read, somebody makes a suggestion which is laughed down, and then there is a motion for adjournment. All of this is usually done in from twenty to thirty minutes.

The February meeting was different, however. I do not mean to imply that conditions are now perfect. There were still signs of the old self-satisfied spirit and contentment with things as they are. But there was a new element. The student members of the Committee came to the meeting with blood in their eyes, ready to put up a fight for their demands as formulated at the last Assembly meeting and elsewhere. By the time they had finished, I think the Committee itself was surprised at its sudden spurt of activity. So much so, that Dean Miller was moved to state that the meeting had been one of the best he had attended and to compliment the members of the Committee for their action and spirit. Also, for some strange reason, the FLAT HAT powers that be had a reporter there; perhaps they have decided to extend recognition to some other part of the College besides the Administration.

Those people who consistently claim that student government is useless should sit up and take notice. Student government is just what the students make it. The proposals of the Assembly that spring vacation be changed to avoid week-end travel, that the Wigwam be kept open until eleven so that upperclass girls may use their late dating privileges, and that one o'clock permission be granted for special dances, were all acted upon favorably by the Cooperative Committee. The committee itself is not a body of final action, but it does make recommendations to the President which in most cases are approved by him. If those people who want things done would submit them to the Assembly instead of merely complaining, they might get some action. This last meeting of the General Cooperative Committee shows that.

Even the Wigwam question, supposedly given its epitaph by the FLAT HAT, came to life again. Complaints ranged from lack of cleanliness to charges of graft on the part of employees. The President was asked by resolution to have the situation investigated, perhaps to the end of employing students in the soda shop. Action may yet be forthcoming.

Of course the perennial question of cafeteria service was brought up. The administrative council, supposedly set up to consider improvements in "diet and service," was asked to consider the complaints and to try to make the necessary adjustments.

The bombshell of the afternoon, though, came with the speeches of the heads of the Women Students' Government Association. Coming to the meeting, determined to find some way to throw off many of the obsolete social rules that have long made William and Mary famous for being the "strictest coed college," they struck the keynote of the meeting when they asked that things be done correctly and that they be allowed to exercise the freedom they supposedly have. My hat's off to them!

Don't get the idea though that Utopia has arrived. Many of these proposals must be pushed further to make sure that they are acted upon. But a good start has been made; the Committee has shown it can do something. Of course everything the Assembly asked wasn't granted. Men's physical education remains unchanged except that the Assembly's position as regards this program for upperclassmen will be communicated to the faculty committee considering a change in the program. Maybe something will come out of this.

All in all, it's been a good week for the College. Maybe it's fitting that, as we celebrate the 251st anniversary of the College, we also celebrate a rebirth of progress at the Col-

Student Heads Voice Complaints At Recent Cooperative Meeting

Solution Of Questions Calls For Student Opinion

All year there has been a wave of dissatisfaction rumbling through the student body—dissatisfaction with the cafeteria, the soda shop, the book store, the laundry, administration, and the Women Students' Government rules. Last Thursday, this dissatisfaction came to a head at the most active General Cooperative Committee meeting held this year. The actual heads of William and Mary's student government were the ones to voice the complaints and to ask for the necessary changes.

The complaints seem to center around three topics: the soda shop, the cafeteria, and the Women Students' Government rules.

Junior Women Lose Privilege

The soda shop presents a problem touching the junior women above all others: by closing at 10 instead of 11, junior women now lose their privilege of dating until 11 o'clock two nights a week in the soda shop. The administration, when questioned concerning the possibility of keeping it open until 11, stated that it was difficult and costly to get help to stay until 12 o'clock every night, which would be required because the cleaning of the soda shop takes an hour after closing. The problem is one of securing help who will work the extra hour—almost an impossibility these days when war jobs offer such high wages and hours which provide one with free evenings.

Several suggestions come to mind as possible solutions to this question of keeping the soda shop open till 11:

- (1) The soda shop open at noon to stay open till 11 in the evening.
- (2) The soda shop maintain the usual hours of service, but the lounge section stay open till 11. This would offer the possibilities of dancing to the nickelodian or playing bridge, as the means of amusement for that last hour. Persons desiring refreshments would have to purchase them before 10 o'clock.
- (3) The soda shop use student aid in the evening. This would mean that students would be responsible for being there on the designated evenings, week-ends included.
- (4) The students volunteer their services to keep the soda shop open in the evening. Each student who volunteered would work without remuneration and would work only a specified time. Credit for Wam work might thus be given, should the Council feel that this were aiding the war effort.

What Do Students Suggest?

These are only a few possibilities which come to our minds. The question is, how do the students feel about the situation and what are they willing to do about it? The President of the College has asked the chairman of the General Cooperative Committee to appoint a sub-committee to confer with the President and the Business Manager of the College about this problem. But this sub-committee must have student opinion with which to work in order to alleviate the situation as it now stands. What do you, the students, suggest as a remedy for this, your problem? Here's your chance to voice opinion, if you have any.

Congestion in Cafeteria Lines

Congested cafeteria lines have been causing difficulties ever since the semester started. Section cards were issued to the students, supposedly dividing the group into two equal shifts. After the cards were issued, they were checked only two or three days; then students were given free reign and one beautiful mess resulted: everyone came over at 12:15 or 12:30, regardless of whether or not they had 1:20 classes. Thus numerous students who actually had 1:20 classes were forced to arrive at them late every day.

The question here is one of lack of student cooperation and one of too many persons having 1:20 classes. If we students will not tolerate the action of students who do not have afternoon classes, that of eating during the first hour and thus causing an even greater congestion than would necessarily result, we can do a little bit to relieve the situation. The administration informs us that they are working on the problem from the standpoint of class hours. They are attempting to work out a more favorable situation whereby 1:20 classes, with the permission of the A.S.T.U., will be changed to 1:35; or 1:20 classes will be changed to 12 o'clock classes.

Judicial Rules Not Obeyed

The Women Students' Government seems to feel that the judicial rules aren't being obeyed as much as they should be. Women students, faced with altered situations as a result of the war, feel that the rules do not apply to conditions as they stand this year. Upperclasswomen are dating out-of-town service men in the majority. This means that the men can get off only at certain intervals, and then only for a short time. Men are not allowed in dormitories or sorority houses until four o'clock in the afternoon week-days and not till after the lunch hour on week-ends. If an out-of-town service man comes to spend the day in Williamsburg, the coed can't invite him to the dormitory or house till after 4 P. M. on week-days (excluding Monday, of course) and after the lunch hour on week-ends. If he comes up on a Sunday, the coed and her date must wander aimlessly about the town, from one public lounge to another, till the dormitories and houses are open to men. While this may be an exceedingly pleasurable experience in the spring, it isn't very comfortable walking about on these cold mornings of January and February.

Changes should have been made early in the school term to take care of these problems, which have been so evident all along. But, as has been the custom for so many years, changes were put off till the last thing at the end of the year.

Constitution Provides for Changes

It was pointed out to the student government heads at the meeting that the Constitution provides for changes to be made at any time during the year. The thing to do is to practice the right.

It was also pointed out that women students can and should have a greater responsibility in the making of the rules which govern them. The Constitution provides that women students can either accept or reject proposals for changes as made by the heads of the committees. In the past, the rules were made, approved by the Assistant Dean of Women and the President of the College, and then presented to the students for them to digest.

Student Government?

Student government has not been student government in the true sense of the word up to this point. Maybe we'll see some changes made. The recent Judicial survey is a ray of hope. At least they are interested in what the student opinion is regarding the rules and the changes that students would like to make.

Viewed as a whole, the recent General Cooperative Meeting was one of the first true pictures of student government operating in collaboration with the administration toward discussing and attempting to remedy student problems. The general tone of the meeting was one of criticism, but accompanying the criticisms were, in most cases, suggestions of real worth.

This Collegiate World

Because the army demands promptness, a Westminster College, New Milington, Pa., professor was hurrying along to meet his scheduled history class for army cadets. In one hand he carried some letters to be mailed. In the other he had his grade book and quiz papers to be returned to the cadets.

As he rounded a corner he stopped at a mail box. He did not discover until he got to his classroom that he had mailed his grade book and test papers and brought the letters with him.

It was a shamed-faced prof who later went to the post office to reclaim his property and mail the letter.

The city council at Cambridge, Mass., passed a resolution calling upon Harvard University to "donate to the war effort the many tons of bronze statues given by the German government and now in storage at the University's Germanic museum."

Then a university spokesman revealed the statues were plaster of Paris, painted to represent bronze.

Parade Of Opinion

Soldier-students of the army specialized training unit at the University of Cincinnati are looking to the day when they can return to peace time college and university study as civilian students.

Dr. L. A. Pechstein, director of the university's war training program and dean of the teachers college, announces 82 per cent of these men expect to attend institutions of higher learning after they have done their part for Uncle Sam.

Results of a survey among approximately 600 average A.S.T.P. men on the campus were reported by Dr. Pechstein. Believed to be the first of its kind, the survey was made among soldier-students within a week after they had arrived at the university in order to determine their attitudes unaffected by campus study and training routine.

In the contrast to the 82 per cent anticipating civilian college careers are 14 per cent who have no present intention of continuing their studies and 4% who are now undecided.

Men Hold Dorm Elections Monday

in Monroe, the committee will consist of four men; and in Taliaferro, of six men, two of whom must be from A section, 3 from B section, and one from C section.

In each committee the man receiving the highest number of votes will become president, and the man with the second highest, secretary. The president of each committee will be the representative on the Inter-Dormitory Council.

Where there are not sufficient petitions to have two candidates for each position, the Honor Council is empowered to provide for additional nominees.

These elections are being held in order to elect committees who will proceed to formulate a system for governing the men's dormitories.
