Battle, Coburn Will Speak

Hutcheson Accepts College Rectorship

The Board of Visitors in a meeting Saturday, April 28, elected Judge C. Sterling Hutcheson, retired U. S. district judge, as the new rector of the College, succeeding James M. Robertson of Norfolk.

The Board also named J. B. Woodward, Jr. of Newport News as vice-rector. Woodward, who is retired chairman of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company, has been a member of the board since 1960.

Judge Hutcheson, an alumnus of William and Mary, was on the board from 1928 to 1933 while he was practicing attorney in Boynton. Until his retirement a few years ago, Hutcheson served as federal judge of Eastern Virginia.

A native of Mecklenburg County, he attended the University of Virginia as well as William and Mary, and he served in the army during World War I. He was appointed to the federal bench in 1944.

Hutcheson is a member of the American and Virginia Bar Association, Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic fraternity and the Virginia Historical Society.

His appointment as rector of the College will run until May 1963. As rector he is chairman of the board meetings and presides over ceremonial programs such as commencement.

For the next two months the William and Mary board will govern the five-college system, but after July 1 the board will no longer be responsible for the Richmond Professional Institute and the Norfolk College of William and Mary as a result of the bill passed by the General Assembly earlier this year.

ODK Forum Presents Talk On Leadership

The annual leadership forum for the officers of campus organizations sponsored by Omicron Delta Kappa, National Honorary Leadership fraternity will be held here next Tuesday and Wednesday, May 8 and 9.

The forum will begin Tuesday at 7 p. m. with registration in the Student Center. Later in the evening Dr. F. Robert Steiger, the director of the American Youth Foundation, will deliver a speech on the philosophy of leadership. Tuesday night's program will end with discussion groups.

On Wednesday the president of each organization is invited to a President's luncheon. Topics for discussion during the afternoon will include the "Techniques of Leadership" and "Role of the Leader."

Wednesday evening at 8 a symposium on "The Needs at William and Mary" will be held. After the delegates again break into discussion groups, the forum will end at 10 p. m. with a reception for all delegates.

ODK urges all organizations to send delegates to this ninth annual forum. Gary McGee, the co-chairman in charge of the forum said. "Each delegate will have to put forth an effort if the forum is to be a success." A fee of $5.00 per organization is being charged. This includes the luncheon on Wednesday.

Battle

Assistant Secretary of State for Education and Cultural Affairs, Lucius D. Battle, and Dean of the Episcopal Theological School of Cambridge, Mass., the Rev. Mr. John Bowen Coburn, will be the principal speakers for commencement exercises, June 10.

College Administrative officials today released the names of these speakers along with a tentative program for the graduation ceremonies.

Battle, former Vice-President of Colonial Williamsburg, Inc. and Williamsburg Restoration, Inc., will be the featured speaker at the 5:30 p. m. (DST) commencement program.

In his capacity as Assistant Secretary of State for Education and Cultural Affairs, Battle deals extensively with the Fullbright scholarship program and educational and cultural exchanges between the United States and foreign countries.

Battle received the Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Laws Degrees from the University of Florida. He saw duty in the Navy during World War II serving on the staff of the Commander-in-Chief, Pacific Fleet, for a time.

Upon release from active duty in 1946, he joined the Department of State.

Battle in 1949 was appointed Special Assistant to the Secretary of State and later served as Program Officer for Europe in the Office of Special Assistant to the Secretary of State for Mutual Security Affairs.

Following this assignment he became First Secretary and Chief of the Political Section of the U. S. Embassy at Copenhagen, Denmark, in 1953. Later he was named Deputy Executive Secretary of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Paris.

While in the State Department Battle served on the delegations to the Japanese Peace Treaty at San Francisco in 1951 and Council of Foreign Ministers in 1949.

Battle joined CW in 1956 as Director of Public Relations and became Vice-President in 1958. He returned to the State Department in 1961.

The Rev. Mr. Coburn, who will be the featured speaker at the Baccalaureate Exercises, graduated from Princeton University with High Honors in the Department of Politics. In 1942 he graduated from Union Theological Seminary, Cum Laude, with a Bachelor of Divinity Degree.

The Episcopal minister holds Doctor of Divinity Degrees from Amherst College and Princeton University. He received the Doctor of Sacred Theology Degree from the Berkely Divinity School in 1958.

He taught English and biology at Robert College, Istanbul, Turkey, from 1936 to 1939. During World War II he served as a chaplain in the U. S. Navy Reserve.

The Rev. Mr. Coburn served churches in New York City, Newark, N. J., before assuming his present position as Dean of the Episcopal Theological School in 1957.

He is a member of the Board of Trustees of Princeton University and The Wooster School and a member of the Board of Directors of Union Theological Seminary.

Dr. Davis Y. Paschall, President of the College of William and Mary will make a short speech at the conclusion of the Commencement ceremony.

Graduation festivities will get underway Saturday, June 9, at 11 a. m. with the ROTC Officers' Commissioning Ceremony in Phi Beta Kappa Hall. That afternoon at 5:30 the President will give a reception and garden party in the College Yard, the Pre-

'Royalist', 'Seminar' Merge, Jobs Open

At the request of President Paschall, the Student Publications Committee Tuesday May 1 resolved to combine The Royalist and The Seminar into one college magazine of general interest to begin publication next fall.

Jo Ann Dotson, chairman, announced that the committee will hold elections May 16 for the editor-in-chief, managing editor, business manager, and art editor of the magazine. Students wishing to apply for these positions or to nominate candidates for them should submit letters to the committee before May 10.

The combined magazine will be considerably broader in editorial interest than either The Royalist or The Seminar containing articles, art, fiction, poetry, humor and satire, photography and special features. Present plans are for three issues during the academic year.

Action toward the combination began in March when the President asked for an informed opinion of the value of student magazines and their operational problems. The study found that there was extensive dissatisfaction of staff members and readers with the operations of both The Royalist and The Seminar. Those interviewed were in favor of establishing a new, combined publication.

Choir and Chorus Have Busy Schedule

Viki Williams

The annual Spring Concert of the William and Mary Choir and Chorus will be given at 8 p. m., May 4 and 5 at Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Auditorium, Dr. Carl "Pappy" Fehr directing.

The program will consist of six sections, four of these sections will be sung by the Choir and the other two will be sung by the Chorus.

Selections

The Choir will sing selections from Bach, Poulenc, Brahms and Jerome Kern. Some of the specific pieces will be: "Praise Ye The Lord" and "All Breathing Life, Sing and Praise Ye the Lord" from the Motet for Double Choir "Sing Ye to the Lord," by Bach, "Gloria" by Poulenc, Palestrina's "Ecce Vidimus Eum," "Der Abend," "Naech-tens" an "Zum Schluss" by Brahms, and lastly some songs from Jerome Kern's "Show-boat."

Selections by the Chorus

Gail McCrary and Greg Tweet, two of the choir soloists, pose for a picture before practice for their Spring Concert, May 4 and 5 at Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

Maria del Carmen Robledo

Maria 'Likes' U.S. And Art Class

by Mary Blake French

Meet Maria del Carmen Robledo from Bogota, Columbia! Maria came to William and Mary in February from the University of the Andes. She is a sophomore and plans to major in Fine Arts.

This is Maria's first visit to the United States, and she finds that living and studying at William and Mary is a "very interesting experience." She decided to come here for the change and travel experience, for the chance to learn more about the U. S. and the people and for the opportunity to improve her English.

Evidently colleges in the U. S. and those in Columbia do not differ greatly. However, Maria enjoys the greater independence and responsibility which the student has here.

Surprisingly enough, the greatest educational differences between Columbia and the U. S. are found in the high school system. As opposed to our high school elective system, the Ministry of Education in Columbia prescribes a required program consisting of nine to twelve subjects per year throughout high school. In this way, the students receive a more thorough educational survey in preparation for college.

This South American miss finds that many major differences do exist between our social life and that of Columbia college students. The numerous festivals and group parties of Bogota are a sharp contrast to William and Mary's fraternity parties and single dates.

Choir...

This concert marks a second big event for the choir who just returned from their annual choir trip. The trip was very successful. The choir went to Alexandria, Virginia; Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Northumberland, Pennsylvania; and Bel Air, Maryland.

During the month of May there will be several musical events at the college. On Sunday, May 6 at 4 p. m. in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall, the William and Mary Chamber Orchestra will present a program.

The annual outdoor concerts will be given on Wednesday, May 9, 16, and 23 in the Wren courtyard at 7 p. m. Another event will be the Student Recital presented by the Music Department on Tuesday, May 15 in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall at 8 p. m.

Dr. Carl "Pappy" Fehr has been the director of the choir and chorus since 1945. Since then the choir has increased from twenty to approximately sixty members. Ten years later the choir became officially known as the William and Mary Choir having previously been called the Chapel Choir. In 1945 "Pappy" began using the artistic formations which are familiar to choir concerts today.

A Grand Success

Block Dance, Queen Crowning, Field Day Highlight Enjoyable Greek Weekend

Looking back over Greek Weekend, chairman Keith Blomstrom feels that the weekend was a success. Not only did all the activities run smoothly, but the turnout and enthusiasm were rewarding to those who worked on the planning.

The Greeks started rocking Friday evening at the fraternity houses, which were open until 9 p. m., and did not stop until late Saturday night. After the lodge parties, the couples attended the semi-formal dance from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m. The dance was held in the lobby of the Campus Center, and eventually spread out onto the patio. The Dynatones were the featured combo which set the pace for the evening.

Highlighting the dance was the crowning by Dean Sturgell, faculty adviser, of Chi Omega's Maynard Williams as queen of Greek Weekend. Surrounding the queen were the members of her court, each of whom carried a red rose corsage.

The girls in her court were: Tinky Williams, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Ann Piddington, Delta Delta Delta; Frances Oliver, Gamma Phi Beta; Connie Moore, Phi Mu; Vee Jones, Alpha Chi Omega; Judy Vilbrandt, Kappa Delta; Laura Yingling, Pi Beta Phi and Joanne Arnett, Kappa Alpha Theta.

Saturday dawned clear and hot, and by 2 p. m. the lawn of the Women's Athletic Field was boiling with excitement and overheated contestants of the Field Day events. The fraternities began with a mighty tug-of-war. With two finalists left Sigma Nu pulled Lambda Chi over the line to win the contest.

Both fraternities and sororities took part in the old ROTC game Dizzy Izzy. Sigma Nu and Tri Delt were the happy, though weary, winners.

The tedious egg throwing competition followed with two members of each fraternity and sorority participating.

The old art of tire rolling was revived in the next game. Only sororities participated in this contest, with the victory going to Tri Delt. Winner of the precarious and riotous three-legged race was Sigma Nu.

No spectator, or contestant, will forget the soap box derby which culminated the field day. Starting at the stadium and speeding onward to the finish at Landrum pond, the three-wheeler of SAE zoomed ahead of Sig Ep to glory.

The unveiling of the "Ben Hur" cast of thousands next Thursday night at 8 p. m. in Phi Beta Kappa Auditorium will reveal to the campus which students are saloon singers, dancers, murderers, and even respectable prostitutes in "Destry Rides Again."

The Backdrop Club production under the direction of Senior J. Reese will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, May 10, 11 and 12 at 8 p. m. and will feature songs, dances, burlesque numbers, slapstick comedy and some serious ideas.

Audience Revels

Director Reese remarks that, "Destry is a show you can come to see to be entertained, to lose yourself in, and to participate in the fun."

Tickets go on sale for the annual musical production this Monday, May 7, at the Phi Beta Kappa (Continued on Page 8)

Needless Graduation Mix-up

The campus has been subjected to an undue amount of confusion and misunderstanding this week over the question of this year's commencement speaker. This has indeed been an unfortunate situation, which could well have been avoided had several measures been taken earlier this year to inform the seniors of this matter with which they are so vitally concerned.

Announcement of the speaker was delayed this year because of several reasons. First and foremost, the speaker, Assistant Secretary of State for Education and Cultural Affairs, Lucius D. Battle, did not give College officials a firm commitment until early this week. Although Mr. Battle was contacted as early as February, the nature of his work is such that he cannot make commitments for the distant future.

A second reason is that in the past senior classes have shown little or no interest in an early announcement of the commencement speaker, therefore, the administration did not feel that an early announcement was necessary.

As a result of the vacuum which developed since there was no forthcoming announcement, a mild discontent cropped up on campus. Rumors flew thick and fast and many seniors felt they were purposely being kept in the dark. But this is not the true picture. It is unfortunate that this situation existed, but we feel that measures will be taken in the future to eliminate a re-occurrence.

Mr. Battle is a well-known figure on the national and international level and is well qualified to serve as commencement speaker at the College of William and Mary. His fellow speaker, who will deliver the Baccalureate address, Dean of the Episcopal Theological School of Cambridge, the Rev. Mr. John Bowen Coburn is also a nationally known figure with an excellent reputation. The College and senior class is indeed fortunate to have two such outstanding men as speakers for commencement exercises in June.

A situation similar to this year's can readily be avoided in the future by the formation of a student-administration committee to work on plans for graduation exercises. President Davis Y. Paschall has expressed an interest in such a group and said he looks forward to working with the officers of the senior class next year early in September. We feel that this committee, which will serve as link between administration and seniors, will alleviate all of the problems of this year. If the committee begins work early in September and is informed of negotiations, the seniors will also be informed and no misunderstanding will develop.

Spring Final Revival Good Going Greeks

The idea that came out of a late Saturday night bull session in Madison Hall turned out to be one of the most fantastic ideas for a gala weekend that has sprung up in the last twenty years. For two students it seemed a shame that the old Spring dances in the Sunken Garden were allowed to lapse. The idea was far from original, but a little ingenuity and event-twisting produced an idea that was pregnant with possibilities and potent with enthusiasm. The idea was voiced the next day and by the following week there was a great amount of lip-service support. Still in doubt as to its feasibility, a now established committee took the proposal to Dean Carson H. Barnes who with genuine encouragement sent the committee to Student Government. It was here that it materialized into a grandiose effort to revive the faltering Spring Finals.

The same committee is still working to make the weekend a success, but they have had to cut through William and Mary's over-abundance of red tape and buck-passing to save the fundamental idea of the "grand proposal." The idea is now not as grand, but the enthusiasm is not dead yet. The committee has worked long and hard, but they have not had long enough to get everything they wanted. Nevertheless the weekend promises to be something new and refreshingly different from typical mundane William and Mary dances.

The idea for the weekend, as we have said, is not original, but this is of little importance when a group of people take the initiative and supply a little unselfish enthusiasm to try to provide something fresh for the student body. This "New Spring Finals" promises to be definitely different, and, we believe something that the entire student body should support.

The strength of any fraternity system rests primarily with the interest and participation of its members. As each fraternity rises or falls on the basis of the personal contributions of its members, so also does the system as a whole stand on the participation of its member fraternities.

During the recent Greek Weekend the strength of the fraternity system at William and Mary was well tested. The problem was "could the Greeks support a campus wide activity lasting two days and including a semi-formal dance, a field day and an informal dance?" In addition, would students attend a semi-formal dance when balmy spring weather made the beach very inviting? But the most important question to the I. F. C. was "would the Greeks support their own dance?" The final answer was yes, and the Greek weekend was an unconditional success.

The new I. F. C. under the leadership of President Karl Zavitskousky and aided by the Pan Hellenic Council successfully organized and carried to completion a weekend of social events which outshone similar efforts of the past few years. Sensible planning accounted for much of the success.

The selection of good, well known bands increased attendance, an important point as the proceeds went to charity. A new idea aided the success. For the first time the main floor of the campus center with the assistance of Mr. Storgell was opened for a major dance. By so doing it was possible for the students to make use of the Wigwam, the patio, and the lounge area. It is hoped that the success of this idea will not go unnoticed by future dance planners.

The success of this weekend points both to the growing strength of the William and Mary fraternity system and to the leadership which that system is finding.

Letters to the Editor

Comments on Grade System

William and Mary needs a new system of recognizing students who have done outstanding work in the academic realm. The present system of placing students on a Dean's List has resulted in numerous cases of persons being denied the recognition they deserve. For example, a girl last year failed her physical education course in bowling by two pins. Despite the fact that all her other grades were A's, she was not placed on the Dean's List. Multiply this example many times and it becomes clear that a new system, a more just and meaningful system, is needed.

Several things are at the bottom of the failure of the Dean's List system, but chief among them is the fact that the students are recognized solely on the basis of their letter grades. Do grades really give an adequate measure of a person's ability? Some professors seem to think so. Everyone is familiar with the professor who always carries out his grades to the fifth decimal place in order to keep from giving another A. In the grade schools, the Teacher's Comments are placed alongside of the letter or numerical grades. This is something which has been lost in the wake of our impersonal, grade-mill type of institution which we call the American College. Grades alone are inadequate and misleading. Subjective evaluations by professors are essential to a meaningful system of grading.

One possible solution would be to have the professors rate their students once a year on their attitude, inquisitiveness, persistence, originality, independence, in addition to their accomplishments on tests and examinations. The top 15% of the students so rated would then be presented before a board of review composed of professors from each of the major divisions of the College — the fine arts, humanities and sciences. The board of review would see to it that professors did not nominate students just to increase the prestige of their department. These students who "pass" the board would then be given recognition on a separate listing.

This new system would greatly reduce the wrongs of the Dean's List. In addition it would encourage those qualities in the student which a liberal arts education ought to install. While it would require more effort on the part of the professors, the students would then be working for something real and meaningful instead of the hollow, meaningless grades now handed out.

Sincerely,
J. M. Truxell

Appreciation

To the Editor:

I wish to thank all students of the Alpha Phi Omega who served as guides for participating contestants in the science contest held at the College of William and Mary, April 27 and 28. This service did much to make the contest a success and enabled visiting students to see a maximum of Colonial Williamsburg and campus life in a minimum of time. It is gratifying to know that we have such organizations of students on the campus. They are to be commended for their excellent work.

Powers Attacks Van Voorhis

To the Editor

Last Tuesday the Senior Class held a meeting. Paul Bankes told the class that he was unable to divulge the name of the graduation speaker because of a promise to President Paschall.

Before the meeting began Bankes told this to Jerry Van Voorhis in my presence. Nevertheless during the meeting Van Voorhis was recognized even though he is not a Senior and spent several minutes demanding that Bankes tell the class the name of the speaker.

Van Voorhis should not have spoken at the meeting; that he is de facto (though not officially) President of the Student Body has no bearing. But more important, he was irresponsible in publicly demanding that Bankes break his promise to the president.

I don't know what weight personal promises have to him, but I would suggest that Mr. Van Voorhis learn of their importance to others. Passionate oratory is not a sufficient rationale for breaking one's word.

WHY?

By the Campus Griper

WHY can't our professors realize that College rules are made for the good of the entire campus community and, consequently, should be obeyed.

A rule which is so often broken is the one dealing with no smoking in classrooms. Students and faculty members disregard this rule entirely, thereby causing non-smoking students much discomfort.

It is plain discourteous to blow smoke in someone's face, especially when the victim can do nothing about it.

It is time to do something about enforcing this rule in every classroom all the time. If there were not good reasons for the rule, it would be dropped.

Brafferton Reminds Us Of Our Glorious History

by Lloyd Stableford

It is to the efforts of the first president of the College of William and Mary, the Rev. Dr. James Blair, that Brafferton Hall owes its existence.

In 1691, the Honorable Robert Boyle, the great English physicist, died. His will stated that his wealth be left for "pious and religious uses."

Through Dr. Blair's influence, the executionists of the will set aside a fund to be divided between Harvard and William and Mary. The income from Boyl's Brafferton Manor in Yorkshire, England, was allocated to the use of the College.

In accordance with the will, the money was set aside for the establishment of an Indian School. The chiefs of the surrounding area sent their sons, held here as peace hostages, to be trained as missionaries.

However, the Indian School had to be abandoned because the graduates seemed to use their knowledge, not in missionary work among their peoples, but to cheat their inferiors. The first master was Richard Cooke, who taught the youths "reading, writing and vulgar arithmetic."

With the beginning of the War Between the States, president, faculty and students enlisted in the Confederate ranks. The abandoned college buildings were used by both northern and southern armies.

In the process, the Brafferton suffered little, whereas the Wren Building was gutted by fire. The interior woodwork was ripped from the Brafferton walls and used as firewood or construction of barracks.

The Brafferton building itself was built in 1732, by Henry Cary Jr., a master builder of Virginia and son of the Henry Cary who directed the building of the Capitol in Williamsburg. The present structure is a restoration based on its original form.

It was restored in the Flemish bond style, having alternating tones of brick. It is two and a half stories high, with dormers on a pitched roof and double chimneys. It measures 54 feet long and 34 feet wide. There are 12 furnished rooms.

Today, the Brafferton building contains the Alumni Office, lounge and darkroom. It has accommodations for guests and alumni of the College.

Fraternity Times

On the Row

by Mick McKann

Since this is my first scheduled appearance on these pages, suppose I should tell you briefly what this column is about. It is about fraternities. Anything any fraternity is doing that can be printed will be used here. The only problem is to find out what is going on; that is where you, fellow Greeks, come in. If you have something about your brotherhood that is worth writing down, leave me a note in Madison 351. This is my first and final plea for information — if none is forthcoming hereafter, I'll print any rumors, scandals, lies and assorted other trash which may come to light; and I will also give undue attention to my own fraternity which action shouldn't please anybody. I will try hard to be impartial and not bust any organization which does not deserve it — even during rush.

Greek Weekend was a success, as far as I can tell, even though the Board of Visitors was visiting here at the time. The Friday night dance was a relatively staid, but fun affair, not counting a few happy people who were wandering around with a duck they captured somewhere. The Dynatones sounded like they just got off the boat, which is good, and everybody seemed to like dancing on the main floor, thanks to Mr. Sturgell, new adviser to IFC.

Saturday afternoon consisted of a mass confusion of games and various amusements on the lawn of the Women's Athletic Field. The highlight of the day was the soap box derby, in which the Sig Ep flying machine couldn't quite catch SAE's three-wheeler. In the other most-liked competition, the tug-of-war, winner Sigma Nu yanked runner-up Lambda Chi across the line. KA and PIKA tied for the overall first place and will share the plaque next year.

Saturday night's dance on Row Road burned up quite a few tennis shoes with everybody twisting to the noise the Jammies put out. The barricades at the street ends, according to rumor, were provided by Pi Lamb and Lambda Chi, who have been quite interested in keeping out the cops lately. In summary, the weekend was a good one; Congratulations to Theta Delta Keith Blomstrom, IFC social chairman, and his committees — they did an excellent job along with Phi Mu's Martha Thomas and her Panhell helpers. Congrats also to Maynard Williams of Chi O, the new IFC Queen.

Several remaining Sweetheart balls are on the way, as evidenced by what looks like a Smith Brothers' convention at the KA lodge. Their Old South is May 12, the same date as the Sigma Pi and Sig Ep formals.

Frosh Sponsors Chosen

Fifty-five women will serve as Orientation sponsors to assist freshmen women in their acquaintance with and adjustment to William and Mary next fall.

The students serving in this capacity will return to the college before the new students next September, so that they may greet their advisees and assist them during Orientation Week. In preparation for their positions, the women will attend three sessions of a training program designed to provide them with necessary information about the college.

Dean of Women, Birdena E. Donaldson, has announced the following women as Orientation sponsors: Head sponsor, Marylyn "Joey" Krider; other upperclass women, Pam Bradley, Sharon Eggen, Sandy Heagy, Sue Trice and Carol Wylie.

The rising sophomores who will serve as sponsors are Marcia Anderson, Anne Barden, Martha Bean, Gene Birdsong, Jill Blevins, Priscilla Brown, Patricia Davis, Tracy Debell, Dianne Dettmer, Jeanne English, Mary Erskine, Diane Freeman, Jean Freeman, Libby Gebbart, Sally Hardy, Glene Hines, Sherie Holland, Barbara Hopson, Donna Hougen, Val Janz, Anne Kabler, Lynn Kerby, Barbara McDermott, Lyn McGriff.

Senior Class Meets;
Class Day On May 24th

The class of 1962 will leave as its gift a Micro-Reader-Printer to the new library when it is built, it was decided at the senior class meeting Tuesday night. The money belonging to the class will be given to James Kelly, executive secretary of the Alumni Association, who will invest it in a mutual fund.

When the new library is opened, Kelly will buy the printer and donate it in the name of the class of 1962. The class at a future reunion will decide what is to be done with the dividends from the fund.

Senior Day will be May 24, the last day of classes. Bankes will appoint a committee to work on plans for the day, including the traditional senior breakfast, class day speeches, the ringing of the bells and a beach party.

Bankes also announced that on June 9, President and Mrs. Paschall will give a tea for the graduating class on the Front Lawn from 4-6 p. m. Following the tea, a buffet for members of the class their guests and friends will be served from 6-8:30 p. m.

A dance will be held that night in the Student Center from 9-12, with the Wigwam remaining open as it did for Greek Weekend. Tickets for the buffet and dance will cost $1.75.

Letters of application and nomination for the four elective offices should set forth candidates' qualifications for the positions, their experience in publications work, and their plans and suggestions for producing a high-quality publication.

Candidates for the four offices must have either maintained a 1.4 over-all grade average, or had a 1.4 average last semester. Applicants for editor-in-chief must be juniors this semester; applicants for the other three positions may be either sophomores or juniors.

The magazine's staff, when complete, will comprise senior and junior editorial boards, a manuscript solicitation department, clerical group, business and circulation staff and art staff.

The senior editorial board, to be appointed by the editor-in-chief and the managing editor, will probably comprise eight to twelve upperclassmen members, including the editor and managing editor. The board will decide acceptance of contributions by vote.

A buffet dinner will begin at 6 p. m. followed by the senior dance at 9 p. m.

Sunday's program will begin at 11 a. m. with Baccalaureate Exercises and will climax with the 5:30 p. m. exercise on the occasion of the conferring of degrees. These ceremonies will take place in Wren Yard.

Student of the Week

Gary McGee States Views
On Campus, Student Body

Senior Gary McGee, this week's Student of the Week, is currently in charge of the Omicron Delta Kappa Leadership Forum.

Blond McGee, a graduate of McLean High School, hailing from Falls Church, is a biology major who will attend Law School at the University of Virginia.

Not one to withhold his views on campus activities, McGee remains aghast at the "lack of taking advantage of the fine reputation of William and Mary — almost hiding the light under a bushel basket. However, he stated, "there has been some improvement during the past year."

A member of Lambda Chi Alpha social fraternity, and a past president of the fraternity, McGee was the Head Group Leader this past orientation week.

Hiding behind the bookcase in the Libray, McGee has managed to study, even though his one big gripe is that "although I'm all for the Campus Center, Phi Beta Kappa, and new dorms, I don't see why any of them were built before a new library."

Elaborating from his vantage point as a second-semester senior McGee added his congratulations to Dr. Carl A. Dolmetsch for his work in improving the quality of cultural events sponsored on campus.

Cindermen Drop Richmond; Way Open to Championship

by Dave Woodson

If all opponents would give W & M the same type of sparkling competition that was furnished by Richmond last Friday, Coach Harry Groves might be forgiven for figuring the State Championship meet Saturday as already won. However, experience has shown VMI and UVA don't abide by the same philosophy as Richmond. They like winning too.

With some of their best performers remaining at home, the Indians dared to venture to Richmond to engage the mighty Spiders. The final result was not certain until the pole vault event, where the Tribe swept all three places giving the cindermen a narrow 22-14 lead. From there, our heroes fought to a 112½-27½ victory. The trio that provided the fatal blow breaking all Spider resistance was composed of Henry, Holdren and Savage.

The W & M Freshmen scored a parallel one-sided victory, 99-31, against the Richmond Frosh.

Leading the Paposes' attack was Aleksander Bergmann scoring in five events to amass 20¼ points. Bergmann took firsts in the pole vault, and high and low hurdles. Ed Yerkes also turned in a fine showing with firsts in the mile and 880. Both Bergmann and Yerkes were part of the victorious mile relay team.

Elsewhere, W & M was well represented both at the Penn State Relays and the Norfolk Pilot Relays last weekend. At Penn State, Pete Bracken took a second in his shot put division with a throw of 51' 7½". At Norfolk, the Frosh mile relay team of Ferguson, Prilliman, Blanton and Hurley captured a second finishing behind Maryland in the time of 3:27.2.

This Saturday the Indians travel to Lynchburg for the Virginia State Championship Meet. Prospects indicate competition will be somewhat tougher than met in Richmond. Too tough? Perhaps the Oracle of Delphi knows, I don't.

From this point onward, the Indian winners came thick and fast. Quickly dashing through the gap in the visiting forces before it could close was springer Billy Morrison, who captured the 220 with a time of 23.1 seconds. All remaining opposition was then annihilated by Norv Burrow's courageous charge in the 100. His winning time of 10.5 was nearly matched by second place finisher - Morrison.

Doug Hinkel added to the Richmond woes as he took first in both the javelin and broad jump, second in the low hurdles and third in the high hurdles. His best performance of the group came in the javelin, where he threw the spear 175' 5½".

In both hurdle events, Hinkel was edged by teammate Bob Diederich who captured first in each. His time for the 220 yd. lows was 25.4 seconds while in the highs it was 15.4.

New Field House

SPORTS FORUM

Do you feel that a new W&M field house would be beneficial? How do you think that money should be raised for such a project? Do you think that W&M will ever get a new field house?

Cordell Bowman — With a new field house William and Mary would attract larger schools for competition, larger crowds for athletic events and better athletes to the school itself. The money should be raised by increased tuition and alumni contributions. Although it may take ten years, W&M must have a new field house if the College is to remain in the "big leagues" in sports.

Bob Pensec — A new field house may or may not be beneficial to W&M. This depends on the support of the students and people in the Williamsburg area. An empty, new field house would be just as bad as Blow Gym. I have no idea how the money could be raised since there are many other projects for other buildings already planned.

Steve Moiser — I think a new field house would be beneficial since a larger crowd would give the team more spirit. Also, it would give the coaching staff something more to offer prospective W&M athletes. I think it should be built by the alumni and the State, i.e. with tax money. From the looks of the present financial situation concerning athletics, it might be quite a while. However, I believe that we should get one eventually.

Jerry Stettler — I not only think that a new field house would be beneficial, but it is badly needed. The present substitute for a field house has a dismal atmosphere about it and certainly does nothing to build up the spirit that our teams need so badly.

Jim Goodell — That a new field house would be beneficial is without question; not only would it improve upon the presently overcrowded facilities and encourage wider participation and spectator support, but it would also bring more athletic talent to this school. Since this is a State owned institution, financial support should come from the State, supplemented by alumni contributions. Furthermore, the cost of attending this college is quite low so a nominal charge could be added to tuition to raise funds for the field house. A field house will undoubtedly be raised eventually; how soon will depend on active campaigning by the College and its alumni.

Room Deposit

Final deadline for paying room deposits for next semester is May 15, the dean of men's office announced today.

All rooms which are not reserved by that time will be assigned to the incoming freshmen.

Cricketers Lose Three Matches; Batting Problem

Lack of effective batting and bowling prevented the W & M Colonial Cricketers from winning their first match this past Saturday. Instead the British Commonwealth Cricket Club squeezed out a 70-67 victory. It was the third straight loss for the cricket team in three matches.

Again batting was the basic factor for the loss. It was the poorest effort by the team, as only five cricketers scored runs. Captain Dick Grubb, in a vain effort, scored 54 runs. This was the highest run production total by and player for the season.

Dave MacDougal and Grubb took over the bowling chores. Yet, the B.C.C.C. were able to find the range against MacDougal and won the match with four wickets left to fall.

The Colonials will have a second chance at the B.C.C.C. on Sunday, May 6. This will be the last home game for the cricketers. With stiff practice sessions this week, Grubb hopes that the team will finally gather their forces and reverse last week's decision.

Softball Dominates Show During Intramural Week

Softball remained dominant in the intramural picture. Sig Ep routed Sigma Nu 19-5, topped Theta Delt 9-2, downed Lambda Chi 14-10 but lost a close decision to PiKA 12-11.

Kappa Sig trounced SAE 23-4, whipped U. S. 10-5 and Lambda Chi 27-4 while losing 12-11 to Sigma Nu, 14-12 to the Magnificents and 7-6 to KA.

Pi Lamb dropped a 12-5 game to U. S. and then followed with a 15-2 loss to the rebels of KA. The trend was reversed with a rousing 23-0 victory over Sigma Nu.

Phi Tau triumphed over Lambda Chi by a score of 12-10 while KA was beating the U. S. (ironically) 8-1. The rebels went on to murder Lambda Chi 27-4 and the Magnificents were victorious over PiKA 13-5.

Sigma Pi beat SAE 14-7 but then participated in three encounters without tasting victory. The Pimen lost a slugfest to Lambda Chi 26-22, were beaten 11-9 by Theta Delt and of Dudley Jensen's pitching for the U. S. gave Sigma Pi their third defeat 12-8.

The intramural pool champion was decided this week. Rod St. Martin beat Jim Hunsucker 150-132 in the finale.

The big swim meet is the project for girls' intramurals for the next week. Participants must be at Blow Gym Pool at 6:30 p. m.

Six players comprise a team. Girls may also compete as individuals and are eligible to swim in three events.

Lacrosse Team Will Participate In Tournament

The women's lacrosse team was victorious Tuesday afternoon when they defeated Westhampton College 5-3.

The scene of play changed ends of the field rapidly for the five minutes before Marie Lynn Hunken tossed in the first goal for William and Mary. Westhampton quickly retaliated with two goals. Lynne Marcus scored on a pass from Janet Willer to tie the game just before the half-time whistle blew.

Having missed the bus, Judy Bryan and Eve Rothrock appeared on the scene late, but in time for the second half. The play in this half was wider open with greater accuracy in passing.

As the final whistle blew, the score stood at 5-3, as Judy, Eve and Marie Lynn each scored one goal. This win leaves the Squaws' record at 1-2.

On Saturday, May 12, William and Mary will host the State Lacrosse Tournament. The members of the State's number one and two teams will be chosen and in the afternoon there will be an exhibition game between these two teams.

Also chosen at this time will be the members of the Virginia team which will play in Boston at the first of June.

New Angle Revives 'Lost' Weekend

Couples will find themselves dancing by starlight to the music of Maynard Ferguson in the most lavish Spring Finals Weekend in over 20 years, May 18 and 19.

Platforms for dancing will be constructed in the sunken gardens for the semi-formal dance Friday night. During the intermission of the dance, which will take place from 10 p. m. until 2 a. m., the Queen of Spring Finals will be crowned. Also during the evening Maynard Ferguson has agreed to give a 20 minute jazz concert for all those attending.

The festivities will continue Saturday beginning with a box luncheon from 12 noon to 1:30 p. m. in the Sunken Gardens to be served to all meal ticket holders. During the luncheon the William and Mary Concert band will play.

To the left is a picture taken by the "Flat Hat" back in 1938, while the campus was getting bedecked for the gala weekend. The three foot high sunken garden hedge and small trees in front of Rogers and Ewell readily bring to mind the difference in date.

Later in the afternoon from 2 until 4 p. m. a pipe smoking contest will take place sponsored by the Pipe and Tobacco Council. All graduate and undergraduate students are invited to participate and valuable prizes will be offered for the most durable puffers.

Saturday night the whole first floor of the Campus Center will be thrown open for a fun promising Twist Party from 8 p. m. until 12. Couples will be "Twistin' the Night Away" to the music of the "Jammin' Jammers" who played last weekend for Greek Weekend Block Party. Attire for the dance will be casual.

Top Band Provides Big Weekend Sound

Maynard Ferguson, youngest bandleader in the country, will bring his band to William and Mary for the annual Spring Finals Semi-Formal Dance, Friday, May 18 in the sunken gardens from 10-2.

The big band sounds of Ferguson is also that of jazz for both dancing and listening. The crew-cut Canadian has made a special effort to find out the musical tastes of undergraduates.

He believes, "They follow the subtler nuances of modern jazz and want a sound that they can identify with personality."

Well-known for his high-note style of trumpet playing, Ferguson tries to develop musical tastes by his manner of presenting dance programs. After getting the crowd and band warmed up to each other, he invites the crowd to come forward for "listening numbers.

Ferguson

A frequent participant in the Newport Jazz Festival, Ferguson is a favorite at the critic's polls as well. Down Beat readers chose him as their favorite trumpeter in 1950, '51 and '52 when he was with Stan Kenton.

In 1959 his own band was selected as the New Star band in the Down Beat International Jazz Critics Poll. The Ferguson ensemble was second only to Count Basie among jazz bands in the same magazines Readers Poll of 1959.

The listenable tunes of Ferguson and his orchestra are recorded on three albums by Roulette: "Swingin' My Way Through College," "A Message from Newport" and "A Message from Birdland."

Colonial carriages, colonial butlers, colonial costumes (worn by every student) but a swinging dance characterized the Colonial Weekend back in 1938. One year Gene Gruppa and Glen Miller were at either end of the sunken garden.

The price for the combination tickets for the weekend will be $8.00, $2.00 less than charged last year.

The Spring Finals Queen will be chosen from candidates nominated by the various organizations on campus, sororities, fraternities and any others who would like to nominate someone. Nominations with a picture, name and activities of the girl must be submitted by Friday, May 11.

The following Wednesday an elimination election will be held on College Corner. After this the four top girls will be interviewed by a committee composed of faculty and student body members. The final selection will be made on the basis of poise, beauty, charm and talents.

Plans for decorating the Sunken Gardens for the dance Friday night are extensive. Japanese lanterns will be strung across the gardens and colored lights will be put in the hedges.

Bill Black, member of the dance committee in speaking about the dance said, "It's the last big fling of the year and it promises to be a big one. Students are already lining up their dates and inviting girls and boys from other schools."

Adams; Terry W. Browne, as Sam Adams; John H. Reese, as Peter Pellham and Judith Marie Davis, as Martha Carr.

A number of other teachers and students from various places in the United States will act in the production. Many of these, including the following, are alumni of William and Mary: Don Smith, teacher at Spotswood, N. J., James Bray, professor at Salem College in Winston-Salem, N. C., Edna Huzzitt, teacher in Yorktown; and William R. Hicks, teacher in Fairfax.

Other cast members will be Robert Gordon, Negan Stuart, students at Vassar College; Delano Driver, teacher in Chesterfield county; Ray Hilton, Director of Interpretation at Jamestown Festival; Patrick Blake, William Sheldon, Charles Bush and Barbara Cleves.

New Majorettes' Results Posted

Selection of the William and Mary Majorettes for 1962-63 was made on Monday, April 23, following practice sessions on the preceding Thursday and Friday.

Joyce Hoskins, Margie Kelly and Joe Anne Smith are the newly chosen majorettes for next year who will work with five girls returning from this year's group.

Recently chosen "Miss Williamsburg," Joyce Hoskins from Halifax is a member of Pi Beta Phi social sorority. Margie Kelly who transferred second semester from Richmond Professional Institute is from Highland Springs. Coming from Alexandria, Joe Anne Smith is a pledge to Delta Delta Delta Sorority.

Heading the majorettes will be Kathy Deeds, a rising senior from Pulaski. Kathy is a member of Gammi Phi Beta Sorority. Serving as co-heads will be Helen Swayne and Jane Miller. Helen Swayne, who comes from Norfolk, is a member of Pi Beta Phi Sorority, and Jane Miller, a member of Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority, is from Abingdon.

Also returning as majorettes are Maynard Williams, Pat Ferrell and Shauneen Cruise.

The majorettes will begin practice for the fall football season shortly before the end of this semester.

Diamondmen Shut Out GW; Lose to Cavaliers, Richmond

Coach Agee's hustling diamondmen notched their third victory of the season last Saturday behind the shutout pitching of John Findlay. George Washington fell victim to Findlay's great effort by a score of 2-0. Defensively the Tribe made only one error, a throwing error on the end of a double play attempt. The two runs came across on a single, a walk, a GW miscue, and a sacrifice fly. In the return engagement scheduled for Wednesday, GW was saved by a torrential rain which cancelled the game.

Richmond, presently tied for the league lead, hung on to preserve an 8-5 win over the Indians. Going all the way for the Big Green was Irish O'Hara who threw a good game. The first five Spider runs scored on errors in the outfield. Batting star of the game was Spider captain Mel Rideout who collected four singles and a base on balls.

For the home side, Bob Irby hit the ball well and Jim Bennett smashed a bad hop four-bagger.

The Virginia Cavaliers also took the measure of the Tribe here at Cary Field. Behind the fast balling righthander Ed Spenser and the hitting of catcher Mel Fasano, they recorded a 7-3 victory. Jim Roy, lanky first baseman for the Indians, collected two hits, each driving in a run, to lead the meager offence. Righthander Jim Hunter absorbed the loss, being relieved by Roger Miller in the ninth.

Linksmen Take Sixth In State Tournament

William and Mary linksmen took a sixth in the 13th annual State Intercollegiate Golf Tournament held at Hot Springs. Virginia Tech emerged victors followed by Washington and Lee, U. Va., VMI, Lynchburg and the Tribe. Eleven Va. colleges participated.

The Indian golfers were paced by captain Jeff Graham who shot a 169 for the 36 holes. The other three Indians whose scores were counted were: Joe Cunningham, 85, 82 - 167; Jim Udell, 86, 81 - 167 and Doug Kielkopp, 88, 84 - 172.

Jeffries Top Indian

State Champion high jumper for indoor track this year, Bill Jeffries, has won the distinction of Indian of the Week. Jeffries, a junior from Waynesboro, Virginia, also won the State and Southern Conference championships in the high jump last year.

With his best jump of 6'2½" against Richmond this year, he is only 1½" inches away from the school record of 6'4" set by Bob Storm in '58. Jeffries has been on the W & M track team for three years and has taken first place in the high jump in five out of seven meets this year.

He was also active as a high jumper at Jefferson Senior High School in Roanoke, and was State champion high jumper during his senior year there. Jeffries is a member of Kappa Alpha social fraternity and is majoring in economics.

College Honors Queen Mary

To honor the 300th anniversary of the birth of Queen Mary II of England, the College held a special convocation last Monday, April 30, at 4 p. m. in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

Queen Mary and her husband King William III, granted the College's charter in 1693.

Dr. Harold L. Fowler, Head of the Department of History, gave an address on the life of Queen Mary.

Mary was born in 1662, in London. Being second in line to the throne, she was brought up in the Protestant faith despite protests of her Catholic father James, Duke of York.

On November 14, 1677, Mary was married to William of Orange, a first cousin, from Holland. The couple moved to William's homeland where Mary became popular with the Dutch because of her gentleness and friendliness.

William and Mary were crowned joint sovereigns on April 11, 1689, after the overthrow of James II, Mary's father in 1688.

As Queen, Mary left most affairs of state to her husband. It was partly her religious interest that caused her concern for building a college in the colony of Virginia. William agreed to grant the charter because of her persuasion.

Shortly before Christmas, 1694, Mary became ill with what doctors thought was measles, but was soon diagnosed to be smallpox. She died December 28, at the age of 32.

Although many of the essays and odes written after her death are exaggerations, Dr. Fowler suggested, Mary should be admired for her religious faith.

The Queen's Guard formed partially in her honor presented the colors. W. Melville Jones, Dean of the Faculty, read a message from the British Ambassador to the United States, who expressed his regrets at not being able to attend the convocation.

Spirited Cast

Reese also stated in an exclusive interview held on the set that, "The enthusiasm of the cast and its spirit are unequaled in the history of Backdrop Club productions and William and Mary Theater productions. More than half of the cast members have never been in a show before. At first I was worried about these members, but they caught on quickly and are working out fine."

All facets of campus life are represented in the cast of the show, and we hope to draw a more extensive campus audience."

Boots Needed

Reese still needs cowboy boots for the coming production. Anyone who has a pair is asked to contact Reese who lives on Monroe Second.

Reese stated that the cast is "polishing up the kinks" right now, and that all will be ready for opening night, May 10.

Backstage Laurels

Mr. Paledes, conductor of the 15-piece orchestra; Susan Stitt, costumes; Bob Gaines, Stage Manager; Toby Sindt, Assistant Director; Kathy Leon, Props; and Terry Kester, Publicity received praise from Reese.

"These are the people who make the show possible and who usually go unrecognized by the audience, which sees only the cast members."

In explaining the plot of the show, Reese stated that it contained a variety of scenes, ranging from the comic burlesque to the serious. Written immediately after the Broadway hit "West Side Story," "Destry" picked up the serious element and in this way "makes an interesting show to watch."

The show is sponsored annually by the Backdrop Club which contributes all of its funds to buy the rights to the show. The annual show is the sole means the club has of making money.

In past years, the Club has presented "Finian's Rainbow," "Guys and Dolls" and "Wonderful Town." Previous to those productions, the shows were written as well as directed by students.

Changing Russian Perspective Symposium Speaker's Topic

Henry L. Roberts, Director of the Russian Institute at Columbia University will be the speaker at the final meeting of the Marshall-Wythe Symposium today at 4 p. m. in Washington 100.

The topic of Roberts speech will be the "Changing Perspectives on the Soviets Challenge." A Rhodes Scholar in 1948, Roberts has received degrees from Yale. During the Second World War he was in the United States Navy and Office of Strategic Services. After the war he entered the State Department as a research analyst.

Since 1948 Roberts has been at Columbia University where he is currently Professor of History. In addition to being the Director of the Russian Institute, he is also director of the Program on East Central Europe.

He has written several books including Rumania (1951), Britain and the United States (1953) and Russia and America (1956). He is also book review editor of Foreign Affairs Magazine.

The Symposium, under the direction of Dr. I-Kua Chou of the College Government Department is sponsored annually, and this year is concerned with problems of national security.

Antarctic Explorer Addresses Open PBK Meeting Tuesday

The annual Open Spring Meeting of Phi Beta Kappa, Alpha of Virginia, was held Tuesday, May 1, at 8 p. m. in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. It was preceded by the initiation and banquet for the fourteen Phi Beta Kappa initiates, thirteen from the class of 1962 and one from the faculty.

The program consisted of the processional and presentation of the new members of Phi Beta Kappa and an address, "Assault on Antarctica" given by Retired Rear Admiral George J. Dufek now Director of the Mariners Museum.

New Members

The new members of Phi Beta Kappa are Dr. Bruce T. McCully from the faculty, Robert Brenton Betts, Peter Andrew Bracken, Constance Earle Bradley, Bruce Allen Garside, Judith Gaither Jorg, Jeremy Russell Kunz, Martin David MacRoberts, Norma Virginia Murray, Jo-Ann Simonson, Jeanine Delight This, James Ellison Thomas, John Jerry Uhl, Jr. and Virginia Ann Yoder.

The meeting was presided over by the President of the Alpha chapter of Phi Beta Kappa in Virginia, Duncan M.

Cocke, who presented the speaker, Rear Admiral Dufek.

Rear Admiral Dufek gave a brief introductory talk on Antarctica before he showed a film made of "Operation Deepfreeze" when he was Commander of this project to set up seven bases in the Antarctica.

Admiral George J. Dufek, the first American to stand on the geographic South Pole, spoke at the general public meeting of Phi Beta Kappa Tuesday night.

He discussed the challenge to explore the Antarctic as only two exploring parties, Norwegian & English, had been there previous to U. S. exploration. The continent is desolate, no animals except for penguins along the coast inhabit there; there is only ice and snow.

The U. S. promised to build seven experimental bases in the Antarctic in 1954 for the Third Geo-physical Year.

The Antarctic was a familiar place for Rear Admiral Dufek for he had accompanied Admiral Richard Byrd in his historic explorations of the South Pole. Thus the base building was assigned to the United States Navy with Rear Admiral Dufek to head what the USN called "Operation Deepfreeze." This task force included the Army, Air Force, and Marines as well as the Navy to complete the job.

The talk was followed by a film made on "Operation Deepfreeze" at the time it was in progress. It was narrated by Dufek and showed excellently the things he had been discussing.

Free Rides North

by Roger Swagler

Fanaticism consists in redoubling your efforts when you have forgotten your aim.

George Santayana

The Citizens Council of New Orleans offered last week to buy for any Negro who was interested a one-way bus ticket to any city in the North. In doing so the council wrote one of the saddest and most pathetic chapters in the story of American race relations.

The Citizens Council apparently viewed its move as a fully legal and rather humorous counter-attack against the freedom riders from the North! Actually it was a heartless and sadistic tactic which showed total disregard for human welfare. By using the Negroes merely as pawns in its deadly game, the Council displayed a degree of cold cruelty which better suits a dictatorship than a democracy.

North to What?

The New Orleans group has moved to export misery and poverty to other cities, most of which are plagued with the same problems. Almost all large cities have overcrowded unemployment rolls which are strained to the breaking point.

What is to become, then, of the unemployed and probably unskilled Negro when he arrives in a large northern city? For the first Negro to arrive there was waiting a one hundred dollar per week job, but considering existing unemployment in these areas, the ones who follow will not be so fortunate. Many of them will not even be able to draw unemployment compensation who has not lived there for a least one year. Obviously, the Negroes who accept the Council's offer can expect only hardship and privation. The readily apparent fact did not seem to bother the Citizens Council, which put its own selfish aims above consideration of the human condition.

The Flight of Reason

Incidents such as this should sadden anyone who has hopes of seeing the racial issue settled justly and with reasonable speed. Fanatical groups on both sides have served only to further complicate the question of intergration — a question which has been complicated from the beginning. Somewhere in the controversy over integration — which has raged since 1954 — the voice of moderation and rationality has been lost. Clear, objective thinking has given way to violent emotionalism.

The fact is that there exist at this time valid arguments in support of segregation, just as there are valid arguments against it. In the heat of the battle persons on both sides have tried to make the racial issue an either-or proposition, which it is not!

A situation which developed over a period of four centuries cannot be corrected in eight years. Yet this does not mean that positive steps towards integration should not be taken, but only that these steps should not be too extreme. Extremist measures on both sides have caused reactions to set in which have slowed progress towards any meaningful settlement of the racial issue. The leaders of the fanatical groups do not realize that their fanaticism does more harm than good to their cause.

The inhumane actions of such groups as the New Orleans Citizens Council must not be condoned or passed over lightly; they must be condemned and opposed. Responsible citizens must band together and work for the common good, putting the interest of the nation as a whole above the petty aims of small pressure groups. If this is not done, and if such groups as the Citizens Council are allowed to have their way, Negroes and Whites in both the North and South will continue to suffer; in short, America will continue to suffer.

Chamber Music Offered Sunday

The William and Mary Chamber Orchestra under the direction of Alan C. Stewart will give a concert Sunday, May 6 at 4 p. m. in the Campus Center Ballroom.

Works by Telemann, Bach, Mozart, Hindemith and Bartok will provide a widely varied program. Featured soloists will be Dora Marshall Short, violin; Ronald Marshall, violin and Phillip Shepard, flute.

Dora Marshall Short and Ronald Marshall, the brother and sister team featured here earlier for a Collegium Musicum program, will present the "Double Concerto in D minor" for two violins by J. S. Bach.

The concerto is under the auspices of the College Music Department and is presented through the cooperation of the Campus Center Management. The public is invited.

Hausman Announces Eight Men, Eight Women for Cheering Squad

Herb Hausman, Head Cheerleader, announced that five men and one woman will join the cheerleading squad for next year.

Barbara Riley, a freshman transfer student, will serve as a regular member of the squad, while Martha Leef and Mary Ellen Rowland will be the two alternates. Both Mary Ellen and Martha are members of Pi Beta Phi social sorority.

Among the newly selected men cheerleaders are Bill Black, Bill Lambert, Pete McPhee, Sam Sadler and Lloyd Stableford. All five of them are sophomores.

Both Sammy Sadler and Bill Black are members of Pi Lambda Phi social fraternity and are active on the Flat Hat staff, serving as advertising manager and copy editor respectively. Sadler is also president of Alpha Phi Omega.

Pete McPhee is a member of Sigma Pi social fraternity and has also served as a group leader. Lloyd Stableford is active on the Flat Hat, in Alpha Phi Omega, on the cricket team and is a member of Wesley.

Old members that will remain on the cheering squad include five women and two men. Among the women are Carolyn Birch, Cathy Carr, Carol Evans, Ann Piddington and Leslie Ward.

The two returning men are Dick Goodwin and Herb Hausman. Wade Johnson is new and is replacing Bill Smith as the William and Mary Indian.

W&M Band and Chorus Will Give Concerts in Wren Yard

An outdoor concert in the Wren Courtyard will be presented Wednesday, May 9 at 7 p. m. by the William and Mary Band and Chorus.

Concerts will also be given on May 16 and 23 in the Wren Courtyard at 7 p. m. The concerts are part of a series held annually in the spring. The Band and Chorus under the direction of Mr. Charles Varner and Dr. Carl A. Fehr, respectively, will perform in each concert.

The Program for the first concert will include "Knightsbridge March" by Coates, "Trauer Sinfonie" by Wagner performed by the Band, and "We Hurry with Tired, Unfaltering Footsteps" by Bach. Other selections will be "Lord Most Holy" by Davis and "Ye Sons of Israel" by Mendelssohn sung by the Chorus.

The Band will then perform "Cantata" by Mennin, and the Chorus will sing its final number "Preludes to Eternity" by Liszt. The final selections by the band will include "Can-Can Overture" by Cole Porter and "Fanfare March" by Goldman.

The public is invited to attend the informal evening concerts.

The William and Mary Choir and Chorus will also perform at the annual Spring concert tonight and tomorrow night at 8 p. m. at Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Auditorium.

Phi Beta Kappa Fraternity Initiates Dr. Bruce McCully

Dr. Bruce T. McCully, professor of history at the College of William and Mary, was initiated into Alpha of Virginia of Phi Beta Kappa at 5 p. m. on Tuesday, May 1, in the Apollo Room at Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

At Spring Honors Convocation in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall on Wednesday, April 25, Dr. McCully was named a faculty member-elect of the honorary scholastic fraternity along with thirteen senior members-elect who were also presented. Dr. Alfred R. Armstrong, the recording secretary of the College's Phi Beta Kappa Chapter, who made the announcement of Dr. McCully's selection, cited him as being "an able teacher as well as a scholar."

Twenty-two years ago, Dr. McCully came to the College as an instructor. In 1961 he was made a full professor in the history department. Dr. Armstrong, noting Dr. McCully's work as a member of the William and Mary faculty, said, "He has been instrumental in encouraging some of the most able graduates of the College in their successful pursuit of advanced graduate work in the field of history."

Besides his helpful assistance to the students here at the College and his active work in the history department, Dr. McCully has written a series of articles for educational publication.

Before coming to William and Mary in 1940, Dr. McCully was educated at Rutgers University. In the course of his years at the College, he has received his masters and Ph.D. degrees from Columbia University.

Concert Series Tickets On Sale; Deadline For Reservations May 14

The deadline for advance reservations for season tickets to the 1962-63 William and Mary Concert Series has been set for Monday, May 14, it was announced this week. This date represents two-week extension over that previously announced because the distribution of Concert Series brochures on campus was two weeks late.

On May 14 the collection boxes at the cafeteria, the Campus Center, the Library and Marshall-Wythe telephone desk will be removed and the campaign to solicit subscriptions on campus will end. The off-campus and mail campaign will continue for several weeks and bills for advance reservations will be mailed to subscribers on or about July 1.

Awards to the fraternity and the sorority having the highest percentage of their membership subscribing to next season's Series will be announced soon after the May 14 deadline. The presentation of the plaques or scrolls by the Committee will take place in the Fall and the winning groups will be cited with honor and distinction on the printed programs of the season's opening concert, on October 30, by The Little Orchestra Society of New York.

Season subscriptions may still be reserved after the May 14 deadline, Prof. Dolmetsch said, "as long as the supply lasts," but students who wish to make reservations will have to do so by mail or by bringing their orders to Ewell 212. "We want to make sure that every student and faculty member has a full and sufficient opportunity to reserve a subscription for himself, so that if he misses out on the chance next season to see these good things, he will have only himself to blame," Dolmetsch added.

Dolmetsch reports that, by using such methods, two of the concert series in our area — The Community Concert Association of Newport News and the Norfolk College of William and Mary Concert Series — have already reported their 1962-63 Series sold out by subscription this Spring.

Life Shoots W&M Campus College Series

Alfred Eisnstaedt, Senior Member of the Life Photography Staff, left Wednesday morning after a four-day stay on campus in which he took pictures for a coming series on the Most Beautiful Colleges in the United States.

The series will include approximately twenty colleges, but final selection is not yet definite. After leaving William and Mary, Eisnstaedt went to the University of Virginia for the final stop of his tour.

Well-known in professional photography circles, Eisnstaedt took shots of the campus and buildings not in the usual sense. The pictures are clearly identifiable as William and Mary by the action as well as the setting.

Many students and even an entire English class appear in the photos.
