

Urge Cooperation To Solve Problems

Speaking here yesterday to a Business Day Conference, Dr. Edward K. Smith, Deputy Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Economic Policy Review, predicted that in the future "business and government will work together to solve problems in areas where private resources create the goods and techniques to solve public problems."

Smith emphasized that the nation must set priorities, and added, "We are going to have to have a priority for the poor." He said enactment of a Guaranteed Annual Income was "likely," and pointed out that "establishment of such a floor is easier because of the rapid growth of our GNP."

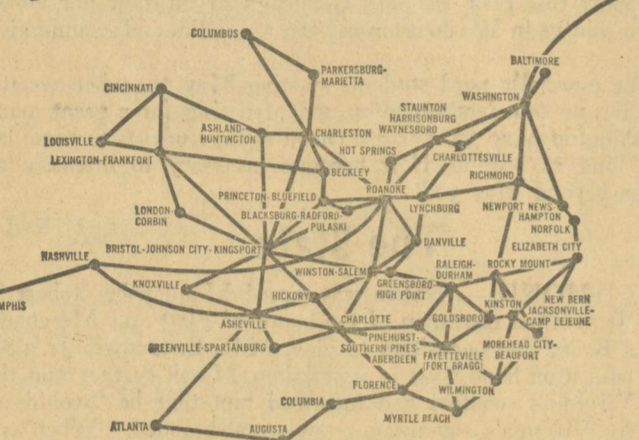

Other speakers at the Conference included Harrison Hubard, vice-president of the Virginia Division of Industrial Development.

The conference was sponsored jointly by the School of Business Administration and the Society for the Advancement of Management.

Supervisors Cut Budget For Schools

WILLIAMSBURG — Funds were cut for the upcoming sessions of the James City County schools when the James City Supervisors adopted a record budget but reduced school expenditures.

Schools have reached top priority in the upcoming June primary for city council. Close to $120,000 was severed from the proposed school monies.

Protests over the cut have been raised through private citizens, civic groups and even a few local politicians. A county supervisor said that in the past five years, the number of pupils has risen 18% and the amount of appropriations, 300%. However, he noted, this was still below national standards.

Issues in the local election are favoring a consolidated school board, something that does not exist at the present. Williamsburg and James City County run their education systems separately.

The city council race has had very few issues to date because many of the candidates express the same or similar views. Schooling needs have been the only concern open to fervent recognition, along with discussion of low-cost housing.

Voters recently defeated two school-bond referendums and the June election may be the last time for several months to elevate the schools.

Freshman Wins Williamsburg Crown

Carol Jane Smythers of Radford, a freshman at the College, won the title of Miss Williamsburg 1968 Monday night in the local contest that is a preliminary to the Miss Virginia and Miss America pageant.

First runner-up was Frankie Mitchell, a sophomore from Salem, who also won the title of Miss Congeniality. Jan McLellan, a sophomore from Norfolk, was second runner-up.

Miss America 1968, Debra Dene Barnes, and Miss Williamsburg 1967, Jan Ernestmeyer, crowned Jane.

In an interview Monday morning, Miss America, a junior at Kansas State College of Pittsburg, voiced disapproval of recent student protests around the country.

"I'm very disappointed in these students," Miss Barnes said. "I think it's sad that they get so much publicity. I really can't understand their reasons and don't know what causes student riots."

The 20-year-old Kansan did compliment her generation on its increased awareness of political events. "Students are feeling their responsibilities even more than the adult generation."

Even so, the brown-haired beauty queen would not commit herself to a presidential candidate in the November election. "I don't feel it is common sense for me to voice my political opinions in the role of Miss America," she explained. "Ask me next year and as Debra Dene Barnes, I'll answer."

"Interviewers want something unusual like I break out in hives every morning," she laughed, "but the feeling is just an indescribable thrill."

Miss Barnes finds the biggest drawback to her title the constant packing and unpacking. Though she manages to fit her entire tour wardrobe into three suitcases, she also insists on carrying a record player with her. "Relaxing" music — mostly piano and instrumental — is Miss America's preference.

Miss Barnes is a music major who is planning to use her $10,000 scholarship received from the Pageant to earn a masters' and doctorate in music and teach on the university level.

THE NEW MISS WILLIAMSBURG
Jane Smythers, a freshman, beams happily Monday night after being crowned Miss Williamsburg 1968. Jane did a classical ballet as her part of the talent competition.
