

New York June 23^d 1828.

Dear Sir

Miss Monroe was injured, by fatigue, the last day of our journey here, but is now recovering, & I think the prospect good, of her deriving all the advantage, from the visit to her Governess, & our daughter, & her other connections that we expected.

My fellow citizens here, have been very kind and attentive, & in a manner which I did not expect, but could not avoid without wounding their feelings.

On this, I will, if I have time, write your grace, but as I intend to set out, in a few days, & stopping by Oak Hill, to be at the University, on the 10th of next month, when I hope to see you in good health, I may defer further explanations, till then.

My hands in albumen will soon be sold, &
the tract below Neill's, before my arrival there.
I wish my friends not to interfere, in any manner whatever, but to let the bank take its own course. We have done all that we could, to prevent a sacrifice, consistent with character, & if the bank are so disposed let them do it. - Sincerely your friend - James Monroe
