We're Number One!

The Colonial Echo is No. 1 in the country.

The 1972 yearbook has been showered with accolades by its judges and is the first yearbook at the College to win top national honors.

In a letter to yearbook editor Harriett Stanley, Professor J. W. Click of the American Collegiate Press Advisers Association wrote:

"The Colonial Echo is very simply an outstanding yearbook, perhaps the very best College-University yearbook in the United States this year."

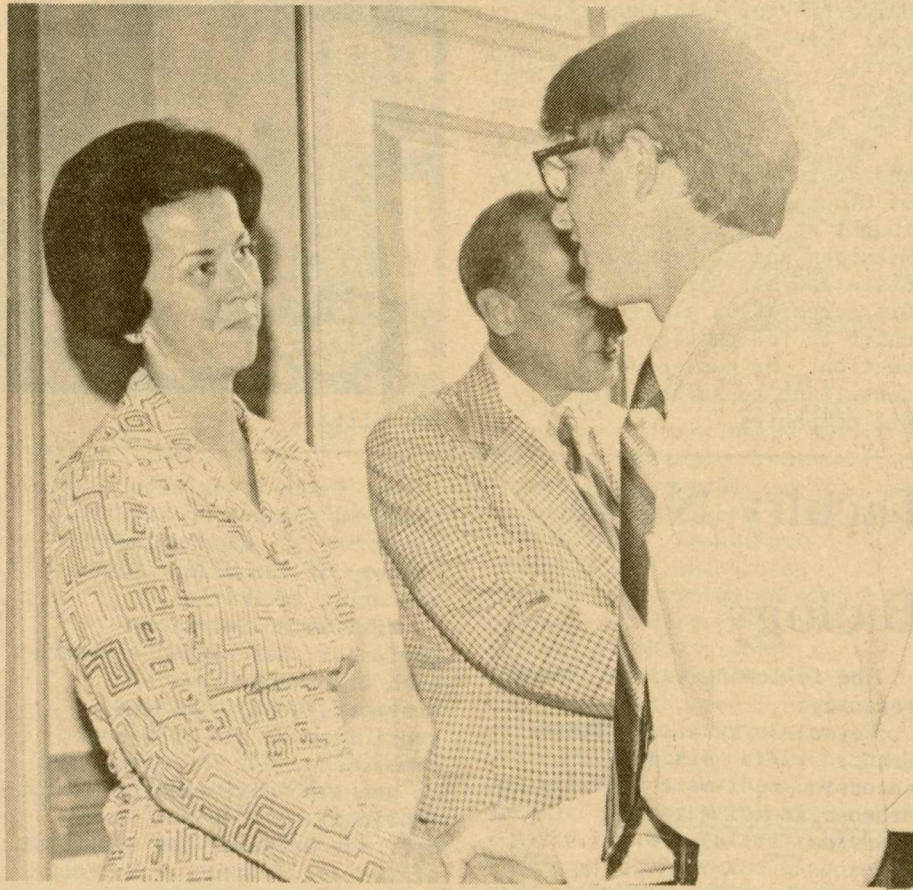

N. S. Patterson, Director of the National School Yearbook Association, added his own handwritten comments to Professor Click's critique:

"What a delight it is to mark my O.K. on Professor Click's score sheet. This is the only yearbook to sweep two double 'A plus' ratings in NYSA grading this year (from the hardest judge and perhaps the top judge in the nation)."

In a four-page critique of The Colonial Echo, Mr. Click stated that The Echo was the "best book he'd ever seen with copy and layout of 'rare quality.'" The most significant quality of the book, he felt, was the fact that it held something new for its readers even on the second, third or even tenth reading.

Mr. Click's advice to 1973 editors - "Forget the 1972 Echo, and try a new style, this one cannot be improved upon...In an age when yearbook editors and books are coping out and dropping out and pronouncing the yearbook dead, The Echo was a welcomed relief."

The Board of Visitors endorsed the opinion of the judges by casting a unanimous vote of praise for The Echo at its recent meeting.

President and Mrs. Graves extend greetings to student at a recent reception for underclassmen.

Miss Stanley reports heavy mail from other colleges both for copies of the prizewinning yearbook and suggestions from The Echo staff for their own publications.

Miss Stanley, who is currently associate editor of the Alumni Gazette, was 1972 winner of the Rex Smith Scholarship award for journalism. A 1972 graduate from Falls Church, she began her association with The Echo when she applied for the job of Sports Editor during her sophomore year. Her journalistic career started back in high school when as editor of the George Mason Senior High School yearbook she brought the school's publication from third to first place in competition. She has also worked on the staff of the Northern Virginia Sun newspaper.

Interviewed last year on her plans for the 1972 Colonial Echo, Miss Stanley stated that she felt the yearbook should not be just a pretty picture book but "a piece of social history - an accurate review of that particular year on campus, including the good and the bad."

Staff members still on campus who are enjoying the good news include: Shari Shank, Cindy Reason, Laurie Smith, Brian O'Boyle, Don Neal, Bobbi Woodall, Bob Barnett, Jane Faust, Peggy Daniel, Ken Houtz, Kathie Perka, Phyllis Rojko, Ruth Wilbur and Andy Andrews.

Staff members for the 1972 Echo also included Gil Peterson Young, Barbara Robertson, Chris and Wanda (Haynes) Williamson, Megan Philpotts and Eddie Morgan.

Sunday Coffee Set in Wren

President Graves will entertain at a coffee in the Great Hall of the Wren Building Sunday Oct. 29, for those attending the "Williamsburg Before 1932" reunion.

This annual event brings together longtime residents of Williamsburg, (residents of Williamsburg before 1932), who gather to renew old friendships and reminisce about "the good old days."

Prior to the coffee hour, a service will be conducted in the Wren Chapel by the Right Rev. John Bentley, of Hampton, former Bishop of Alaska.

Mr. Bentley and several members of the planning committee for the reunion including Miss Mildred Layne, Dr. Janet C. Kimbrough and Vernon Nunn are William and Mary alums. Williamsburg Mayor Vernon Geddy, Jr., is chairman of the planning committee which also includes Gardiner Brooks, Jr.

MISS STANLEY

Stinchcombe Appointed

The appointment of William C. Stinchcombe as diplomatic editor of the Papers of John Marshall has been announced recently by Herbert A. Johnson, Editor of the multi-volume publication project sponsored by the College and the Institute of Early American History and Culture. Mr. Stinchcombe is the author of The American Revolution and the French Alliance, published by Syracuse University Press in 1969. He earned his Ph.D. degree from the University of Michigan, and worked with the Papers of John Marshall as consulting editor in 1970. While on leave of absence from Syracuse University for this academic year, Mr. Stinchcombe will complete the editorial work on John Marshall's role as minister to France during the X.Y.Z. Mission of 1797-1798.

The X.Y.Z. Mission was dispatched by President John Adams to obtain a peaceful settlement of differences which had arisen between the United States and the newly established Republic of France. In company with his fellow commissioners, Charles Cotesworth Pinckney of South Carolina and Elbridge Gerry of Massachusetts, Mr. Marshall tried to open negotiations with the French Directory, only to be rebuffed by the French. The mission ended disastrously when unofficial agents from the French government suggested that a bribe might be required to open the discussions. Those agents, known as Messrs. X, Y, and Z, and their proposal, caused the American commissioners to break off their attempted negotiation and return to the United States. As a result of the publication of their correspondence with the French and their report to President Adams, the United States entered into an undeclared war with France which did not end until 1800. Mr. Marshall was elected a member of the House of Representatives in 1798, primarily because of his participation in the X.Y.Z. Mission.

While researching in Paris this past summer Mr. Stinchcombe discovered several letters to Marshall which had been intercepted by the French police.

These new materials, coupled with the documents previously photocopied from the files of the French ministry of foreign affairs, are to be supplemented by the private papers of individuals involved in the X.Y.Z. Mission. Taken together they will provide the scholarly world with the most completely annotated collection of documentary sources on the X.Y.Z. Mission to appear in print. It is anticipated that the documents collected by Mr. Stinchcombe, and all other materials covering Marshall's participation in the X.Y.Z. Mission, will be published by the University of North Carolina Press in 1975. This will be the third volume of the Papers of John Marshall, and follow the first two volumes, scheduled for release in 1973 and 1974.

Official Memoranda

Building towards a College Assembly

To: Thomas A. Graves, Jr., President of the College

From: Committee on a College Assembly

Subject: Report (revised in accordance with the recommendations of the Administrative Council, and representatives of the Board of Student Affairs, the Student Association, and the Student Bar Association)

This committee was created by your memorandum of 6 October 1971, in which you instructed it "to consider the desirability of the establishment of a College Senate or Assembly at this time" and to "direct its attention to the possible function, structure and membership of such a body, and how it would be related to the overall communications and governance process of the College."

In this context, the committee distinguishes between a Faculty Senate and a College Assembly. The former term refers to a body elected by the several faculties of the College to which the faculties would delegate some of their current legislative authority and in which administrators would most likely serve only by virtue of being faculty members and students only as additional members of committees directly concerned with their interests. The term Assembly is used to mean an organization whose functions would be largely advisory to yourself and in which administrators and students, as members of two of the three major constituencies of the College, would participate with full accreditation.

This committee recommends that an Assembly of the College of William and Mary be established as expeditiously as possible and includes a proposed constitution with this report.

The committee wishes to make clear that it does not thereby recommend against the establishment of a Faculty Senate. It has concluded, however, that in terms of "the overall communications and governance process of the College" a Senate should not, and indeed, in view of the student desires, perhaps politically could not, be established without an Assembly, and that the question whether two central governing bodies are advisable in an institution of this College's size will be best answered by time.

Subject: Recommended Establishment of College Assembly

On October 6, 1971, President Graves appointed a study committee to look into the desirability of a College Senate or Assembly and to give him the benefit of its findings and recommendations. The committee made its initial report last spring recommending establishment of a College Assembly "to facilitate communication within the College and to study and formulate policy recommendations upon any matter of general College concern." The report was reviewed by the Administrative Council, which includes all the principal administrative officers of the College, and received its unanimous approval last June. In early September, the report also was reviewed with representatives of the Student Association and the Student Bar Association, all of whom endorsed the general concept. The latter discussions did result in some suggestions for modifying the ratification procedure.

These recommendations were reviewed further by the study committee, approved by it, and incorporated in a revised report which has now been submitted to the President. He has accepted the report as in keeping with his charge to the study committee, and copies are being distributed with this memorandum to all faculties and students as the first step in the College-wide consideration and ratification procedure.

At the meeting with student leaders, Dr. Graves emphasized that if the College Assembly plan were approved there would be no interruptions in work that the Board of Student Affairs might have under way or planned. In other words, the Board of Student Affairs as presently constituted will continue functioning until a committee or agency of the College Assembly is fully organized and well prepared to assume the functions of the B. S. A. It will be the province of the Assembly to determine the composition of the successor agency to the B. S. A., but it appears to be the consensus of those with whom this question has been discussed that the practical result might be continuation of the current membership of the B. S. A. through this academic year.

Dr. Graves has requested members of the study committee, headed by Dr. John E. Selby, to serve as a steering committee during the ratification process and the committee has agreed to do so. As such, it will serve as the primary source of information on the recommendations and the rationale of the committee's report. To replace graduating and retiring members of the committee, the President has appointed Bruce Gould, Mark Robertson and Professor Frank Evans. Members of the committee will be available to meet with faculties and other groups as may be requested and feasible for explanatory sessions and to respond to questions.

The Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences and the Deans of the several Schools will be responsible for determining, in consultation with their faculties, the precise procedures to be followed by their respective constituencies in submitting the recommendations for ratification. Each faculty member and each student is urged to read the report carefully and to seek answers to any questions that may arise. You will note that failure of ratification by any one faculty or the Student Association will mean the rejection of the report.

The Student Association Senate will be responsible for determining the method of submitting the proposal to the Student Association, and the various graduate student associations will have similar responsibility for submission to their members.

It is important that all exercise the opportunity of expressing themselves on this question. In order that there may be ample time for full discussion and explanations, the President is not setting a specific ratification deadline, but it is requested that the students and the faculties take immediate steps to prepare the way for all constituencies to act on the report and recommendations as early as practicable during this fall.

Executive Vice President

The Constitution

CONSTITUTION

I. There shall be an Assembly of the College of William and Mary in Virginia.

II. The purpose of the Assembly shall be to facilitate communication within the College and to study and formulate policy recommendations upon any matter of general College concern. The Assembly shall be empowered to request from any member or organization of the College all information relevant to its purpose or to have placed in its minutes the reason such information cannot be supplied.

III. The Assembly shall be composed of:

twenty-five faculty representatives, of whom three each shall be elected annually by the Faculty of Arts and Sciences and the faculties of the Schools of Business Administration, Education and Law; and thirteen shall be elected annually at large by the members of those faculties and of the professional staff of the College library by the single transferable vote system of proportional representation with movable quota from among persons nominated by the faculties or professional staff of the College library or by petitions each bearing the names of at least ten persons eligible to vote;

twenty-five student representatives, of whom seventeen shall be elected annually by the undergraduate student body of the College, and two each by the graduate student bodies under the Faculty of Arts and Sciences and the Schools of Business Administration, Education, and Law, in a manner to be prescribed by the representative student organization of each student body, or by the Assembly, should no appropriate student organization exist; and ten members of the administration designated annually by the President of the College.

IV. Only persons holding appointments at the Williamsburg campus of the College of William and Mary as full-time members of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences or of the faculties of the Schools of Business Administration, Education, or Law, with the rank of professor, associate professor, assistant professor, instructor, or lecturer, or of the professional staff of the College library, shall be eligible to vote for, or serve as, faculty representatives to the Assembly; and only persons who are registered as full-time undergraduates during the regular session of the College or who have been admitted to, and are in good standing in, graduate degree programs at the Williamsburg or Virginia Associated Research campuses shall be eligible to vote for, or serve as, student representatives, except that no person holding appointment as a full-time administrator of the College may serve as a faculty representative, nor may any person holding appointment as a full-time administrator or member of the faculty serve as a student representative.

V. The Assembly shall meet at least three times each regular semester, set the date for the annual election or appointment of its members and the beginning and terminal dates of their terms of office, determine its own rules, establish and select its own officers, constitute and prescribe the manner of selecting such committees as are necessary to carry out its purpose, and be the judge of all disputes arising under provisions of this constitution.

VI. This constitution shall be amended upon a two-thirds vote of the Assembly membership after public notice of the proposed change of no less than four weeks and upon ratification by the Faculty of Arts and Sciences and the faculties of the Schools of Business Administration, Education and Law, the Senate of the Student Association, and the graduate student bodies under the Faculty of Arts and Sciences and the Schools of Business Administration, Education and Law, through their respective representative associations, or in a manner prescribed by the Assembly, should no appropriate association exist, and upon approval by the President of the College.

VII. This constitution shall become effective upon ratification by the Faculty of Arts and Sciences and the faculties of the Schools of Business Administration, Education and Law, the Student Association, and the graduate student bodies under the Faculty of Arts and Sciences and the Schools of Business Administration, Education and Law, and upon approval by the President of the College.

Meanwhile, the committee recommends that regular meetings of the full Faculty of the College be held, at which reports of College committees and other business concerning all the faculties may be considered. No change in current bylaws would be necessary to accomplish this.

But should it be concluded that a Faculty Senate is desirable, this committee recommends that a body representing the faculties be convened to draft a constitution.

The role that an Assembly will fill in College affairs has been demonstrated in part this year by the Board of Student Affairs, whose interests have reached beyond strictly student affairs to wider questions of College policy. The committee applauds this development and views the establishment of an Assembly as its logical extension. Broader representation of faculty and administration will enable the Assembly to assume and expand the present functions of the Board to encompass all matters of general College concern.

The committee recommends a relatively large membership of sixty delegates for the Assembly to insure adequate representation of the many constituencies of the College and to enable the Assembly to attend to a wide variety of business without unfairly taxing its members. The committee assumes that committees will normally perform the detailed work of the Assembly, even though the entire body may choose to meet more frequently than the required three times a semester.

The manner of representing the several faculties is another important consideration in this proposal for an Assembly. For understandable reasons of College history, members of the professional school faculties generally desire equal representation with the Faculty of Arts and Sciences despite the great disparity in numbers of faculty members, while members of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences favor the rule of "one man, one vote."

To resolve these differences, the committee recommends that representation in the Assembly assure each faculty of a minimum voice but otherwise be based upon elections at large. Under the system recommended in the draft constitution each faculty voter in the at-large elections will rank thirteen choices in order. First choices will be counted until a candidate receives a quota of votes equal to the quotient of the number of votes cast divided by the number of seats plus one, rounded to the next highest unit. Once a candidate is elected, the second choices of the voters who placed him first will be counted until another candidate obtains the required quota. If at some point no candidate can be elected, the candidate with the lowest number of votes will be dropped and the next choices of those who voted for him distributed among the remaining candidates, and so on until thirteen delegates are selected. This system will assure representation of minority opinion, play down divisiveness by encouraging balloting across faculty lines, and eliminate the need for frequent readjustment of the representative formula as the numerical ratio of the faculties fluctuates.

The committee proposes that otherwise the constitution of the Assembly be brief and simple since it is impossible to foretell accurately how it will develop as an institution. The statement of purpose in Article II with the guaranteed right to ask questions affords unlimited scope for its deliberations and precludes predictions of the interests it will follow and thus, for example, the committees or officers it will need.

With regard to the mechanics for liaison between the faculty and the Board of Visitors and between the students and the Board, the committee recommends that these not be altered at this time. Although such liaison might conceivably be the concern of a central organization in which all are represented, there seems no pressing reason to propose changes in procedures only recently adopted by the Board of Visitors.

Finally, the committee recommends that the Assembly not include representatives from the School of Marine Science. Although the faculty and students at the School are members of the College community, the committee believes that because of distance and the semi-autonomous nature of their program very little of the Assembly's business will interest them. Dean William Hargis concurs in this assessment. The committee suggests, however, that the Assembly inform the School if matters concerning it come before it and extend the School the privilege of sending spokesmen on these occasions.

Reporting Injuries Compensation Act

Irving H. Robitshek, director of personnel, recently attended a Workmen's Compensation Seminar in Richmond. The conference was sponsored by the Office of the Attorney General of the Commonwealth of Virginia.

The Workmen's Compensation Act covers the College's employees who are injured during the performance of their duties. It does not apply when any of the following conditions exist:

- 1) Employee refuses medical attention or examination. He must submit in the event that he may be entitled to compensation.
- 2) Any injury that can be attributed to willful misconduct, intentional self-injury, intoxication, willful failure or refusal to use safety appliance and/or willful breach of employer's rules.
- 3) Any injuries growing out of one employee's attempt to injure another or through horseplay.

Any college employee injured while performing College duties must notify his/her supervisor immediately and then be examined at the College infirmary. If it is not feasible for the employee to be moved, then the College Physician must be notified immediately by calling the College Infirmary, Ext. 386 or 229-2793. Failure to follow this procedure could result in a loss of benefits to the employee which he may be entitled to under the Virginia Workmen's Compensation Act.

'A Cry of Players' Auditions Slated

Members of the campus community - faculty, staff, students - are invited to audition for The William and Mary Theatre production of "A Cry of Players," a drama by William Gibson (also known as the author of "The Miracle Worker"). Auditions will be held in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall next week, Thursday and Friday (Oct. 12 and 13), between 3 and 5, and 7 and 9 p.m. All roles are open. Copies of the playscript have been placed on building reserve in the library's reserve room.

"A Cry of Players" deals with young Will Shakespeare's life in Stratford before going to London theatrical circles. Louis E. Catron will direct; production dates are December 6-9.

"A Cry of Players" is the second of The William and Mary Theatre's own four productions; the first, "Antony and Cleopatra," will be presented October 18, 19, 20 and 21, directed by Jerry Bledsoe.

Wrestlers Elect Co-Captains

Seniors John Kaila and Scott Moyer have been selected as Co-Captains for the 1972-73 wrestling season.

Kaila is a senior, history major from Triangle. He was a two time high school champion at Gar-Field High School and has won the Southern Conference Tournament twice. In high school John registered a record of 40 wins and one loss. John was the 1970 Southeastern NCAA Regional Champion at 134 pounds. He has also won the Virginia Intercollegiate Championships. Outside of wrestling John is an ROTC scholarship student. Recently he was selected as a Distinguished Military Student for the 1972-73 school year. He is married and now a resident of Williamsburg. His high school coach at Gar-Field was Jack Duncan.

Scott Moyer is a senior from Mifflensburg, Pa. At Millmont High School, Moyer compiled impressive accomplishments as a wrestler and a football player. While a high school senior, he was sought after by many colleges and placed second in the tough Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association. At William and Mary, Scott is a sociology major and last semester he achieved Dean's List Honors. Scott has won the Southern Conference twice and the Virginia Intercollegiate Championships three times. In 1969 Scott won 20 dual matches and also won three tournaments. Last season he did a great job placing second in the very tough Wilkes Open. Last season he advanced to the quarterfinals of the NCAA Tournament before being eliminated.

Campus Goes for Nixon

Along with SA elections this week, students held a mock presidential election.

President Richard Nixon got 938 votes, or 57.8 percent of the vote. George McGovern pulled 602 votes or 37.2 percent. American Party candidate John Schmitz received 33 votes or 2 percent of the ballots.

A total of 3 percent of the ballots went to "other" candidates. Among those receiving votes were President Graves, Harold Stassen, Shirley Chisholm, Henry Jackson, Paul N. McCloskey, Jr., Cornell Christianson, David Duff, Bert Kramer, and Groucho Marx. Several voters cast "no choice" ballots, voting for none of the candidates.

A total of 1620 votes were cast.

Ed Steers Returns as Wrestling Coach

Ed Steers has returned to William and Mary as the assistant wrestling coach. Mr. Steers held this same position for the 1968 and 1969 wrestling season. He left the College for two years in order to fulfill his military obligation in the U.S. Army.

Mr. Steers earned his B.S. in physical education at The Citadel in 1968 and his M.Ed. from William and Mary in 1970. While at The Citadel he captained the varsity wrestling team and copped three consecutive Southern Conference Championships. In 1967 he was selected as the Outstanding Wrestler of the Southern Conference. Immediately after graduation Mr. Steers assumed coaching duties at William and Mary.

As a Lieutenant in the Army from 1970 to 1972, he remained involved in wrestling. In 1970-71 he was the Assistant Coach of the All Army Wrestling Team and the Officer in Charge of the C.I.S.M. (World Military Championships) Wrestling Team. During 1971-72 he was the Coach of the All Army Team and also was a coach for the 1972 C.I.S.M. Wrestling Team.

Mr. Steers is married and has a year old daughter.

Ninety Minutes of Shakespeare

The Southeastern Shakespeare Company will present five plays within a ninety-minute period in William and Mary Hall on Oct. 5 at 10:30 a.m. and 8 p.m.

The plays are among those frequently studied in English classes and the selected scenes the most familiar ones. They contain lines often assigned for class memorization, such as Hamlet's "to be or not to be," Portia's "quality of mercy," Juliet's "wherefore art thou Romeo?" Lady Macbeth's "Out damned spot!" Othello's "It is the cause, my soul," and Mark Antony's "Friends, Romans, countrymen." These passages, as well as many shorter excerpts within the scenes, are recognized for the beauty of their language and the dramatic quality of their content.

Interested parties should contact the Box Office of William and Mary Hall by telephone or mail. Address: William and Mary Hall, P.O. Box HC, Williamsburg, Virginia 23185. Telephone: 229-3396.

Exhibit and Sale

A special exhibition and sale of original graphic works is being held today at Andrews Hall until 5 p.m.

The Tomlinson Collection of Baltimore will display works by Durer, Goya, Daumier, Picasso, Chagall and other masters.

Supervisor of Buildings and Grounds

A quick check of employees on campus reveals that quite a few are retired armed forces personnel who have adopted Williamsburg as their home.

One such person is N. E. Kipps, supervisor of buildings and grounds. A retired lieutenant colonel from the Army, Mr. Kipps has approximately 200 employees under his supervision: the carpenters, painters, upholsterers, custodial workers, and bus drivers. Add five to this number for staffers he terms "gangbusters," a never failing crew which does "something of everything."

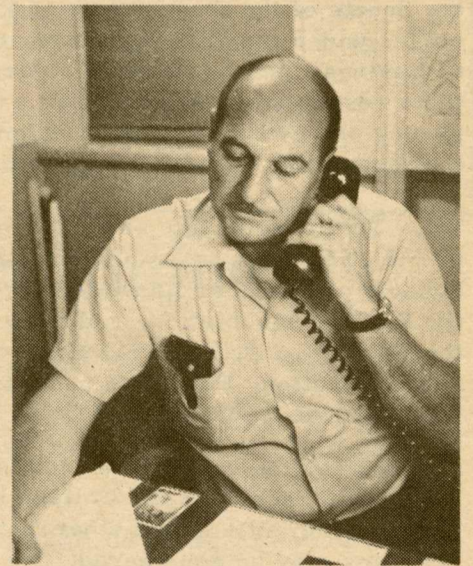

Speaking of his job, Mr. Kipps stated, "I find it very challenging, interesting and certainly not monotonous. There are some moments of frustration but they are very much outweighed by the good points of the job. In some areas, it is a seven-day operation, with some shifts starting at 5 a.m. and others working until 2 a.m."

The son of a Lutheran missionary minister, Mr. Kipps was born in Japan. He attended Muhlenberg College in Pennsylvania and Toledo University.

His wife, Kaye, whom he affectionately refers to as his "wailing wall," is supervisor of the Information Desk for Colonial Williamsburg. Mike, his only child, is a printer for Colonial Williamsburg. His daughter-in-law works in the Biology Department of the College. "My granddaughters, Kathy Ann, 7, and Mary Ann, 5, are my pride and joy," Mr. Kipps stated.

During his Army career, Mr. Kipps served in Europe, the Far East, Middle East and had various United States assignments.

An avid sports fan, golf is his favorite pastime. He is a member of the Lutheran Church in Norge.
