PBK Speaker Announced

Michael Grant, a distinguished classical scholar, currently visiting professor of English at Virginia Military Institute, will speak at the annual meeting of Alpha of Virginia Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa at the College.

The meeting will be held December 5 in Phi Beta Kappa Hall at 8:15 p.m.

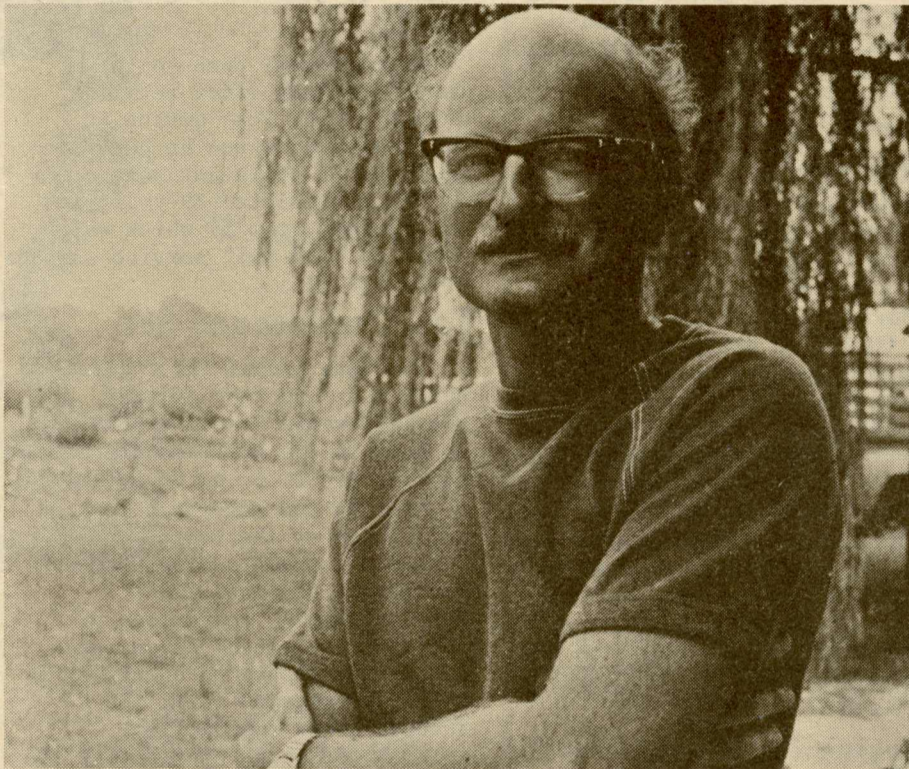

John Frederick Nims has been selected as Phi Beta Kappa poet and will read from his works at the fraternity's December meeting.

Mr. Grant, who retired from The Queen's University, Belfast, in 1966, holds the Mary Moody Northern Chair in the Arts and Social Sciences at Virginia Military Institute. He received the master of arts and doctor of letters degrees from Cambridge University and has honorary degrees from The Queen's University, and from Dublin University. He has translated into English several Greek and Roman works and has published 20 books. His latest book, The Life of Cleopatra, which will be published this spring by Simon and Schuster, will refute several myths about the sultry "Queen of the Nile."

Mr. Nims is visiting professor of English at the University of Florida at Gainesville. Twice visiting professor of English and comparative literature at Harvard University, he has taught at the University of Notre Dame, and Bread Loaf School of Literature and Bread Loaf Writers' Conference. His books of poetry include The Iron Pastoral, A Fountain in Kentucky, Knowledge of the Evening, and Of Flesh and Bone.

Alpha of Virginia will initiate 38 members of the senior class at the December meeting. The fraternity will also honor President Graves, who will receive honorary membership in Phi Beta Kappa, and Dr. Melvyn D. Schiavelli, associate professor of chemistry, who will be presented with the Faculty Award for Advancement of Scholarship. The faculty award is presented annually "in recognition of distinguished teaching and meritorious scholarship," and is made possible through the generosity of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who was a member of the Chapter.

John Barth Here Monday

John Barth will read from his works Monday, December 4, in Millington Auditorium at 8 p.m. He is being sponsored by the College-Wide Reading Program. The author of many novels (four were published during a ten year period, 1956-66), Mr. Barth is currently teaching at Boston University, Cambridge, Mass.

Novice Debaters Capture Varsity Tourney

Two novice William and Mary debaters captured the winner's trophy in the Duquesne University Varsity Tournament in Pittsburgh recently.

The team of Gary Lang and Gary Keane, Jr., won all six rounds of debate in the preliminaries and defeated the University of Wisconsin in the finals to take first place. For Lang, a freshman and a former student at Thomas Jefferson High School in Pittsburgh, it was an especially sweet victory in his hometown. Keane, a junior from Houston, Tex., is participating in college debating for the first time this year.

The team of Joan Harrigan, Wyckoff, N.J., and Sharon Pandak, Staunton, had a 4-2 record for the preliminaries and tied for third place in the overall tournament.

The College sent three teams to the Dixie Classic at Wake Forest University. Only one advanced to the final rounds.

Nancy Dunbar, Lithia, and John Vile, Stanley, won six and lost two in the preliminaries. They advanced to the octo-finals but lost in a split decision to Georgetown University.

Chuck Kennedy, Williamsburg, and Stephen Snoke, Detroit, Mich., were 5-3 in the preliminaries but missed the finals on points. Glen Clatterbuck, Harrisonburg, and Debbie Wood, Gig Harbor, Wash., won three and lost five in the preliminaries.

History Lecture

Andre Bourde, who holds the James Pinckney Harrison Chair of History, will present the second Harrison Chair lecture Dec. 6 at 8 p.m. in Room 220 of the Social Sciences Building. His topic will be "Indomitable City: Marseilles from Baroque to Classicism."

W&M in the News

From the column "Log" in the Wheeling, W. Va., News-Register: "On a radio program early Tuesday it was mentioned in passing that the College of William and Mary is located in Williamsburg, West Virginia? How nice. But erroneous."

Herb Caen, writing in the San Francisco Chronicle, notes in his column Add Femlibnotes: "Women students at William and Mary, second oldest college in the U.S., now wear T-shirts labeled 'Mary and William.'" The T-Shirts were also mentioned last week in Sports Illustrated magazine.

Postal Station Opens Friday

The College plans to open its campus postal facility Dec. 1. According to Dennis K. Cogle, assistant to the vice president for business affairs, the new facility in the basement of Old Dominion Hall will be open for general delivery service Dec. 1 although operational hours may be curtailed due to final construction work.

"There will be some construction going on," said Cogle. "We will be getting the boxes in and adding the finishing touches and as a result we will have to operate on a shortened schedule." He added that the new postal station probably would be open initially on an 8 a.m. - 4 p.m. schedule which would be expanded as soon as all work is finished. Specific hours will be designated for the distribution of general delivery mail.

The new facility will be operated by College employees under the direct supervision of J. A. Caldwell, a former assistant postmaster in the Williamsburg Post Office.

It will offer a limited number of rental boxes as well as other services such as postage stamp machines. It will also serve the faculty and staff by incorporating existing mail operations in James Blair Hall. For specialized services such as special delivery and registered mail, it will be necessary for individuals to go to the Williamsburg Post Office.

Extensive renovation of the basement of Old Dominion Hall has been undertaken to accommodate the postal facility, and several administrative offices were moved from the basement to James Blair Hall.

The U.S. Postal Service had initially informed the College this year that it would need to abandon general delivery service to students after Oct. 1.

However, it agreed later to extend this service at the Williamsburg Post Office until Dec. 1.

The local post office lacks rental boxes in sufficient quantity to serve students and is not permitted by the postal service to expand to meet local demand.

FACULTY NEWS

Economics

Samuel Baker, Robert Barry, Taylor Cousins, Martin Garrett, John Matthews, Francis Rushing, Clyde Haulman, and Leonard Schifrin attended the meetings of the Southern Economic Association held in Washington, D.C., November 9 - 11. Mr. Haulman was a discussant in the session on population at that meeting.

A new publication by the Congressional Research Service of the Library of Congress, Competitive Problems in the Drug Industry: Summary and Analysis, includes excerpts from prepared statements and testimony given by Mr. Schifrin before the Subcommittee on Monopoly of the Select Committee on Small Business, United States Senate (Nelson Committee) in its extensive hearings on that subject.

CAMPUS PROFILE/John A. Caldwell

When the new campus postal station opens Friday at 8 a.m., John A. Caldwell will be there to set the wheels in motion.

Realizing that the mail will more than triple, Mr. Caldwell said "service will come first." With the new facility, mail service will improve, he feels. Until construction has been completed the postal station will be open from 8 a.m. - 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and 8:30 - 11 a.m. Saturday, he added.

Mr. Caldwell came to the campus in July after retiring from the U.S. Post Office in Williamsburg, where he held the position of assistant postmaster. He has accumulated 39 years in postal work, two of which were spent in Navy mail service during World War II.

Tax Conference Set

The 18th Annual Tax Conference under the direction of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law will be held in the Williamsburg Conference Center on December 2.

Morning and afternoon sessions will focus on the topic "Creation, Organization and Management of Small Close Corporations": comparison of major tax and legal advantages and disadvantages of operating in an unincorporated form; the incorporation transaction; initial decisions confronting the new corporation; executive compensation problems; management of the corporation; miscellaneous procedural problems; termination of the corporation. Speakers are Charles M. Davison, Jr., University of Virginia; William M. Goldstein, Esq., Philadelphia, Pa.; Douglas A. Kahn, University of Michigan; Don W. Llewellyn, William and Mary; Marcus Schoenfeld, Villanova; and Richard A. Williamson, William and Mary.

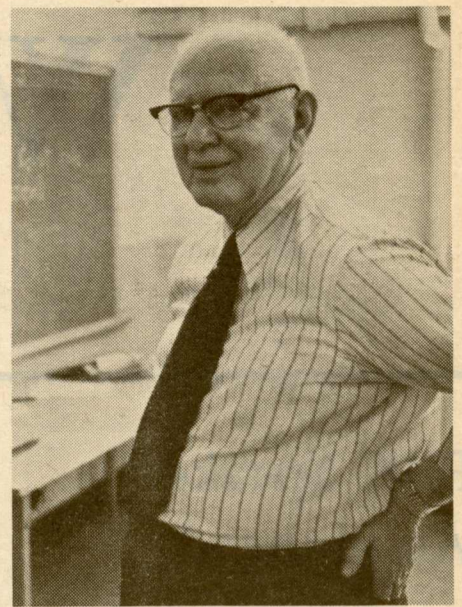

The conference is designed to make available to students, lawyers, and accounting and corporate fiscal officers, timely and important factual material relating to federal tax law, tax procedures and tax policy.

The SA Senate will hold hearings on the College Assembly proposal in the Campus Center Little Theatre Wednesday, Nov. 29, 7 - 10 p.m. and Thursday, Nov. 30, 3:30 - 5:30 p.m. and 7 10 p.m. All members of the College community are invited and urged to ask questions.

and Lew Foster in the semi-finals. The team of Wayne Kernodle and Peter Wiggins won in the semi-final round in three sets, defeating Mr. Garrett and Mr. Edwards. Mr. Kernodle and Mr. Wiggins won over Mr. Galfo and Mr. Foster 6-3, 10-12, 7-5.

In the singles tournament, Mrs. Brown defeated Mr. Galfo 6-2, 6-3. Mr. Haynie defeated Mr. Fuchs, 6-2, 6-0.

In the finals, men's tennis coach Steve Haynie defeated the women's tennis coach, Betty Brown. The match was decided in the third set, with the score 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

MR. CALDWELL

A native of South Carolina, Mr. Caldwell has been a resident of Williamsburg since 1918. His wife, Edna, works in the office of the James City County Commissioner of Revenue. His son, John Caldwell, Jr., is a student in the Marshall-Wythe School of Law.

Office Staff Aids Chinese Youngster

Greetings

from

Wang Mei-Li

At least one Christmas present has already been mailed from the campus this year. It went out from the treasurer-auditor's office to a little Chinese girl in Taichung, Taiwan.

Wang Mei-Li will receive a check to do her holiday shopping from her friends in the James Blair office who "adopted" her in 1970 through the Christian Children's Fund, headquartered in Richmond.

Members of the office staff contribute a dollar a month for the project and the nickels collected from the office coffee pot are also used to provide special gifts at Christmas, Easter and on Wang Mei-Li's birthday.

Playground Committee Report

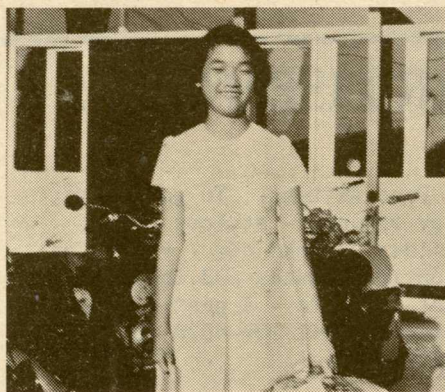

The members of the College Playground Committee report that they are "almost fenced in." According to a spokesman for the group, "the lumber for the fence has at last been ordered, along with the material for the sandbox. The bill will be $271.10. Personal contributions have brought in $122.61 and the bake sale held on Homecoming Weekend raised $95.06."

The Committee is asking for help in paying the last debt of $53.43. Contributions may be sent to Mrs. Toni Conlee, c/o John Conlee, College Mail Room. Checks should be made payable to the College Playground Fund.

President's Calendar

President Graves is in Richmond today attending the monthly meeting of the General Professional Advisory Committee. On Thursday Mr. and Mrs. Graves will entertain members of the Alumni Board at a cocktail party in the President's House. On Friday and Saturday the president will meet with the Alumni Board.

Wang Mei-Li, who will be 12 next March, writes letters and sends pictures which are passed around the office and shared. Raymond Adams, assistant treasurer-auditor keeps the accounts and records on the project. He was instrumental in getting the program set up and would like to arrange for Wang Mei-Li to meet her friends at William and Mary.

WANG MEI-LI

Wang Mei-Li lives with her widowed mother who sought assistance from the Christian Children's Fund because her meager wages from washing clothes were not enough to support her family.

"Christmas: A Time of Peace" is the theme of the annual Christmas parade sponsored by the Williamsburg-James City County Chamber of Commerce, which will begin at 9:30 a.m., Dec. 2 at Matthew Whaley School on Nassau Street.

Units of the parade will move on Nassau St. to Duke of Gloucester, through Merchants Square and onto Richmond Road, disbanding on Monticello Avenue.
