Two Appointed to New Development Positions Recently

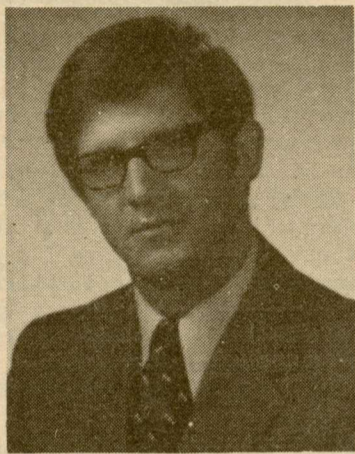

A fund raiser from Washington University in St. Louis and a 1969 alumnus have been added to the staff of the Office of College Development.

Warren P. Heemann, director, has announced that Leonard A. Meyer, director of the Association of Friends at Washington University, has been named director of annual giving. Andrew D. Parker, a graduate of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, has been hired as director of special giving. Both will join the College staff May 1.

The staff of the Development Office also includes Samuel Buckwalter, director, and Webb Hopper, assistant director, Office of Grants and Research Contracts; Stanley Brown, director, Corporate Relations and Placement; and Mrs. Stella Neiman, Office of Sponsored Programs.

Carolyn Koehler Offutt, a member of the class of 1969, from Arlington, was recently named Assistant Director of Annual Giving. Mrs. Offutt, the wife of William Offutt, a third year law student, has worked in the Office of College Development for the past year.

Mr. Meyer's responsibilities will include planning, staffing and implementing the annual fund campaigns conducted on behalf of the College by alumni, parents and other friends of the College. These include the William and Mary Fund, the Parents' Fund, the Marshall-Wythe School of Law Fund, the Friends of the College Fund and others.

In his former capacity as director of the Association of Friends of Washington University, Mr. Meyer handled both corporate and non-alumni programs.

During fiscal 1972 the University realized a 100% dollar increase in corporate support (from $1,857,274 to $3,725,562) and a 190% dollar increase in corporate support (from $1,888,587 to $3,450,683). Prior to joining Washington University, Mr. Meyer was Project Administrator and Analyst with WOFAC, a management consulting firm, and the president and chief executive officer of his own firm, Drugmaster, Inc., which was purchased by a multi-interest concern. He and his wife, Jeanette, have been active in community service work, particularly that associated with their church, St. Dominic Savio in Affton, Missouri.

Mr. Parker's responsibilities will include working with alumni, parents, and other friends of the College on matters of estate and trust planning as they pertain to provisions for William and Mary in wills and insurance policies or establishing charitable annuity trusts and unitrusts which designate the College the remainderment.

He is an alumnus of the College's Marshall-Wythe School of Law, married to the former Missy Galloway, also a graduate of the College ('69).

Before joining William and Mary, Mr. Parker was a trust officer of Citizens and Southern National Bank of Greenville, S.C. Prior to that he was with the Moon and Moon law firm in Clinton, Ohio, law clerk for Judge Ted Dalton, Chief Judge of the Western District of Virginia, and a staff assistant to Senator Frank J. Lausche, former U.S. Senator from Ohio.

He was president of the Student Bar Association while a law student at William and Mary. The Parkers have participated in many community service activities, particularly the United Fund and the Cerebral Palsy Center of Greenville.

Lambert Cited at Honors Convocation

J. Wilfred Lambert, who is retiring as Vice President of Student Affairs, was among those honored at the Spring Honors Convocation, Friday, April 20, in Blow gymnasium.

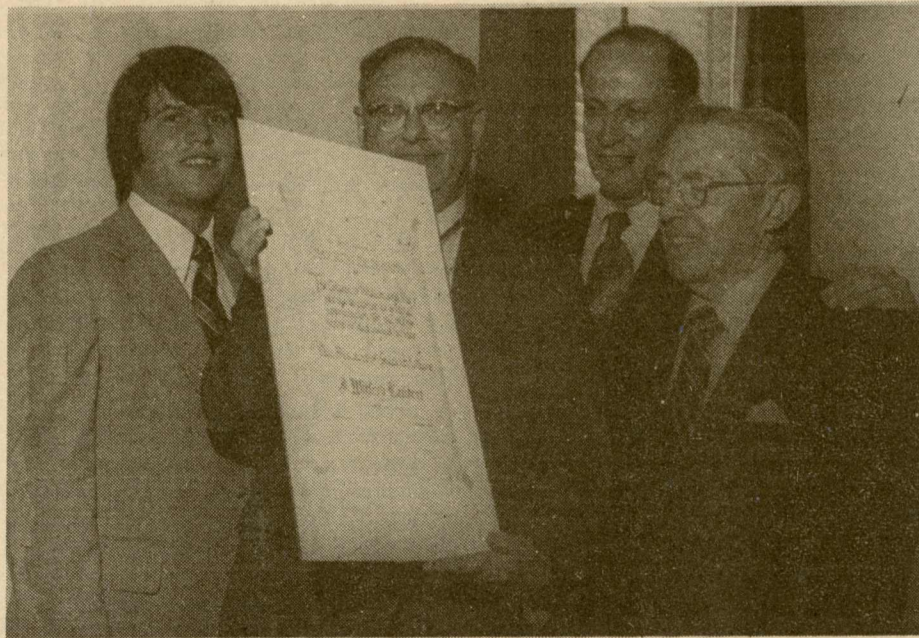

At the close of ceremonies honoring students who have excelled in athletics, scholarship and leadership, President Thomas A. Graves, Jr., paid tribute to Mr. Lambert's many years of service to the College and led the convocation in a standing ovation for him.

It was announced earlier that the Omicron Delta Kappa Leadership Award had been renamed, in his honor, the J. Wilfred Lambert Award.

Obviously touched by the honor paid him, Mr. Lambert said he was deeply grateful and deeply appreciated the kindnesses that had been shown him. He said that one of the greatest joys of his college career had been seeing the development of students and their accomplishments through the years.

"Thank you and goodbye," said Mr. Lambert who is winding up 42 years as a teacher and administrator at William and Mary.

Cornell Christianson, retiring president of the Student Association, gave his farewell address in which he recommended ways in which students can increase their power role in the government of the College.

He called for a four-point program which would allow students to be included on all College committees and recommended public pressure by students to gain "substantial voice" in the governance of the 22 academic departments. He requested full equality of student members of committees and selection of committee members by the Student Association Senate, and a College Assembly of students, faculty and administrators to "structuralize student voice into the important decision-making process at the college."

Incoming president Chris Owens of Whaleyville, pledged her wholehearted support to make the student government a "strong and viable force" on campus.

Elliott Schaubach, president of the Educational Foundation, Inc., announced the recipients of the Educational Foundation Awards. David R. Knight, Alexandria, was named Outstanding Senior Intercollegiate Athlete, and Richard R. Clark, Huntington, N.Y., was selected Outstanding Senior Intramural Sports Award recipient.

The L. Tucker Jones athletic awards were announced by H. L. Fowler, Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences. Jane Harland, Bethesda, Md., was named the woman recipient and Frank A. Scott, Jr., of Radford, won the L. Tucker Jones Award for Men.

History

H. L. Mitchell, co-founder of the Southern Tenant Farmers' Union, spoke on "The Southern Tenant Farmers' Union and the New Deal," April 23 in Social Science 220. Mr. Mitchell, a native southern radical and a one-time associate of socialist Norman Thomas, illustrated his talk with a short movie entitled "The Land of Cotton." Walker Evans was the photographer for this 1936 film.

The Department of History sponsored Mr. Mitchell's visit to the campus.

Education

The Charles E. Merrill Publishing Company, a division of Bell and Howell, has released a new book entitled Simulation Games--Design and Implementation by Robert Maidment, associate professor, and Russell H. Bronstein. Mr. Bronstein is an educational specialist with the U.S. Army at Ft. Monroe. He recently completed requirements for the master's degree in educational administration from William and Mary.

Geology

John B. Thomas, assistant professor, presented a paper, "Heavy Minerals of the Continental Shelf Off the Eastern Shore of Virginia," co-authored by Bruce K. Goodwin, professor, at the Southeastern Section of the Geological Society of America meeting at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, April 11-13.

Mr. Thomas also participated in a short course on cathodoluminescence.

Government

Jan B. de Weydenthal, assistant professor, has been awarded an American Council of Learned Societies research grant for the fall semester of 1973-74. He will do research on East European politics in Cambridge, Mass., New York and Williamsburg.

Music

F. Donald Truesdell, chairman, attended the annual national convention of Music Teachers National Association in Philadelphia recently. Mr. Truesdell, who is president of the state affiliate of the Association, also attended the State Presidents' Council meetings.

He also enjoyed many lecture-demonstrations and concerts of the four-day meeting, one of the highlights of which was a concert by the internationally famous artist, Lorin Hollander.

Music Teachers National Association is the oldest professional music organization in the United States and is preparing for its centennial celebration in the same year that the United States is preparing for its bicentennial.

Physics

J. L. McKnight, professor, gave a theoretical physics colloquium at V.P.I. & S.U. on April 16 entitled "Reinterpretations of the Quantum Theory of Measurement."

The following paper has been published:

"A New Precision Measurement of the Muonium Hyperfine Interval in Argon." H. G. E. Kobrak, R. A. Swanson, D. Favart, W. Kells, A. Magnon, P. M. McIntyre, J. Roehrig, D. Y. Stowell, V. L. Telegdi and M. Eckhause. Phys. Letters 43B, 526 (1973).

One of the most devoted Indian fans in the area is Margaret "Marty" Fincham, who has attended every football game in Cary Field since her arrival as secretary in the Athletic Department in 1958.

Margaret feels that the two most exciting games were those played away - the one in which William and Mary defeated Navy, 27-16, in 1967, and the one last fall in Richmond where the Indians were the victors over VPI, 17-16.

While tallying the financial details of athletics, Margaret has observed the gradual development of this area of campus life:

She has seen the number of intercollegiate sports increase from seven to 13.

The secretarial staff has increased from two to eight women.

In the past, "Marty" recalls, students had to pick up football tickets at Blow Gym prior to each home game and the line would sometimes extend to Richmond Road.

She has seen the department move from Blow Gym to Fraternity Row to its present site, William and Mary Hall.

The list goes on and on. Margaret has been personally associated with the coaching careers of the late "Pappy"

Gooch; Milt Drewer, now a bank president; and Marv Levy, recently named head coach of the Canadian Alouettes professional football team.

Several years ago "Marty" and Betty Adams, ticket manager in William and Mary Hall, initiated the annual Christmas banquet held for William and Mary Hall staffers. Even there, she has seen changes, for the menu has expanded from cookies and punch to include a variety of meats, congealed salads, and, most popular of all, Hawaiian meat balls. Dishes are prepared by the women in the Athletic and P.E. Departments.

"Marty" is a 1958 graduate of James Blair High School and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Hitchens of Williamsburg.

For the past eight years she has been a teacher in the pre-school division of the Lebanon Church of Christ in Lee Hall. She enjoys bowling and is a member of the Tuesday Night Ladies Invitational League.

Her favorite pastime is sample cooking, from various recipes in her collection of 45 cookbooks, for son, Gordy Ray, 12, a 6th grade student at Bruton Heights, and daughter, Robbin, a 4th grader at Rawls Byrd.

Official Memoranda

(Note: The following summarizes an agreement reached this spring by the Society of the Alumni and the College, approved by the Board of Visitors, on a new relationship between the independent Society and the College itself. Alumni were sent letters announcing the new relationship late last week.)

From: President Thomas A. Graves, Jr.

To: The College Community

This week Mr. Colin R. Davis, President of the Society of the Alumni, and I sent joint statements to the alumni of the College, announcing a new approach to alumni annual giving, which we believe will be greatly to the College's and the Society's benefit. The essence of these statements is abstracted and paraphrased as follows:

With the approval of the Board of Directors of the Society of the Alumni and the College's Board of Visitors, the administrations of the Society and of the College have recently concluded discussions which will result in a change, effective in April, 1973, in alumni annual giving.

Under the new arrangement the increasingly important responsibility of raising funds from alumni will be assumed by the staff of the Office of College Development. The annual financial support provided by the alumni under this approach will go directly to the College, rather than to the Society as in the past, and will be used by the College to strengthen those aspects of its educational program for which the State provides no support or for which insufficient appropriation has been made. Final decisions regarding the use of the contributions received will rest with the President of the College and his staff, in accordance with the educational mission and policies of the College.

An individual will be able to designate his contributions for a particular program or purpose, if it is important to him, and for a person making a major gift to the College it is often understandably so. However, "undesignated" gifts are always most helpful because they allow those closest to the situation, the President and his advisors, to apply the funds received to the College's most pressing current needs or to use them to capitalize on special opportunities which may develop during the year in one area or another.

The Society of the Alumni will be able to concentrate its energies on an expanded program of service to William and Mary's growing body of former students, which now stands at over 23,500 members. The operation of the Society and the support of its special projects will be provided for from the College funds, budgeted biennially in amounts to which those responsible for both the Society and the College have agreed.

At the same time, the Society will continue to be an independent, non-profit organization. The Board of Directors will be elected by the votes of the membership, as in the past, and the Executive Secretary and his staff will continue to be employees of the Society, rather than of the College proper.

The Office of College Development will take steps necessary to coordinate fund-raising activities among William and Mary alumni, as it already is doing in regard to other aspects of the development efforts of the College and its affiliated organizations. It is expected that such a coordinated effort will result in substantially greater alumni support, support which will be of critical importance to the College in the years immediately ahead. It will also encourage alumni to plan their giving program on an annual and long-term basis in a more effective manner, and reduce multiple solicitations of alumni from several different organizations within the College. The Office of College Development will work closely with and through the Alumni Society in all phases of each year's campaign and will depend heavily upon alumni volunteers for its implementation and success.

The College is a State-supported institution. In placing increasing emphasis on private financial support, the College is not reducing the type of strenuous efforts which it has made in the past to obtain higher levels of State support. It has become clear in Virginia, as it has throughout the Nation, that the tax resources enjoyed in past years are no longer as readily available because of many other demands on tax revenues. Furthermore, Virginia is going more and more to all-institution, formula-based appropriations of operating funds. William and Mary has never been an average institution. It is clear that private support is one means by which the College can supplement State appropriations and preserve that margin of excellence which is William and Mary's heritage and the key to its future. This coordinated approach to alumni giving to the College is an integral part of the College's overall Development Program, designed to attract new financial resources on a continuing basis from friends, foundations, governments, corporations and, most importantly, alumni.

I personally believe that this new cooperative arrangement with the Society of the Alumni is a major step forward for both the College and the Society, one that holds great promise of benefit to William and Mary--its faculty, students and alumni--in the years ahead.

Subject: Committee on Space Assignment

The Committee on Space Assignment, appointed by the President February 12, 1973, has developed a preliminary assignment plan which has been discussed with the respective deans and chairmen of departments affected. In presenting the details of the various proposals, the Committee requested the departmental views and reactions prior to firm decisions being reached next fall.

A number of recommendations for revision already have been received, orally and in writing, from several departments and individual faculty members. The suggestions now are under further consideration by the Committee which also will receive additional recommendations from an Arts and Sciences group next week. All comments and suggestions are welcomed and will have the most careful consideration in working toward the objective of the plan best suited to promote the educational mission of William and Mary, to relieve those Schools and Departments now handicapped with respect to proper physical accommodations, and to return, where feasible, non-academic space to its intended use.

Most of the changes, as originally developed or as may be revised, would not be effective until the session 1974-75. Thus there will be full opportunity for thorough review, discussion and revision before final judgments are made next fall, a year in advance of their full implementation.

After taking into account the suggestions that have been advanced since the beginning of the discussions with schools and departments, the Committee will publish during May its tentative recommendations so that all concerned may have the additional opportunity prior to the 1974-75 session for further study and reaction.

William and Mary along with other State institutions is under close scrutiny by the General Assembly of Virginia, the State Council of Higher Education and other agencies concerned with the support of higher education in the State. Their interest is directed particularly to the proper utilization of facilities and the productivity of educational resources in relation to State funds. While these are not primary considerations in developing the space plan, the Committee is conscious of their relationship to William and Mary's future as a member of the State system of higher education.

Carter O. Lowance, Chairman
Space Assignment Committee

M. L. King Scholarships for '73-74

Fifteen high school seniors have been awarded the College's Martin Luther King Scholarship award.

Winners were announced last week on campus at a program planned in their honor.

Contributions and pledges for the King Scholarship Fund, as of April 23, totalled $2,695.50, it was revealed by vice president for College development, Warren Heemann.

Mr. Heemann noted that 75 students, 1 campus organization, 3 alumni, and 106 members of the administration, faculty and staff have contributed to the Fund.

Recipients are David Byrd, Hayes; Joseph Cowell, Chesapeake; Marvin Davis, Baltimore, Md.; Bradford Holland, Petersburg; Renaldo Jenkins, Richmond; Kevin Johnson, Hampton; Donna Spencer, Richmond; Sheryl Ferguson, Lynchburg; Peggy Jones, Norfolk; Carrie Michie, Jetersville; Bonita Saunders, Portsmouth; Lorraine Spratley, Williamsburg; Brenda Stevenson, Portsmouth; Marilyn Vaughan and Sheila Witherspoon, both of Richmond.

Nine recipients spent the day on campus, Tuesday, April 17. They were entertained at a reception at which President Graves spoke briefly, welcoming the students and their counselors to campus. Eric Revis of Emporia, president of the Black Students Organization, also spoke to the group. Members of the BSO served as campus tour guides for the visitors later in the day.

George R. Healy, vice president for academic affairs, met with the students, counselors and parents prior to a luncheon in the Commons. Informal group discussions were held during the afternoon.

Biologist Gives Talk May 7

Frank Sandy, microbiologist at Anheuser-Busch of Williamsburg, will present a talk on the technical aspects of brewing beer on Monday, May 7, at 4 p.m. in Millington 117.

This program is being sponsored by Phi Sigma Biology Honorary Society.

Mr. Sandy is currently enrolled in the graduate program in Biology at the College.

Plans for the program were coordinated by Juanita Wallace, assistant dean of admissions.

W&M Host to Scientists May 1-4

The College will host the 50th anniversary meeting of the Virginia Academy of Science and the Virginia Junior Academy of Science, May 1 - 4.

Speakers will include Robert Krauss, president of the American Institute of Biological Science, and W. T. Sanger, a former president of the Academy and president emeritus of the Medical College of Virginia.

Mr. Krauss will present the Sidney Negus Lecture on "Science in the 1970's." Mr. Sanger will present the 50th anniversary lecture and has taken as his topic, "Impact of the Virginia Academy of Science on Science and Higher Education in the State in the past 50 years."

The three-day program will include exhibits, presentation of papers at both the Virginia Academy and the Junior Academy, and the presentation of the Distinguished Service Award, the J. Shelton Horsley Research Award and the naming of Fellows of the Academy. The Program Award of the Southeastern Section of the American Physical Society for outstanding teaching will also be presented at the conference.

Bruce K. Goodwin, chairman of the Geology Department, is coordinating local arrangements for the conference.

Georgetown No. 1 in Moot Court Competition

A three-man team of student lawyers from Georgetown University took first place in the Second Annual Invitational Moot Court Tournament sponsored by the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, Saturday, April 14.

A team from Duke University was runner-up in the tournament which dealt with the constitutional issues that may arise when a jury is deadlocked and under pressure from the bench to return a verdict.

Three-Day Seminar Planned by Marshall-Wythe Institute

The Marshall-Wythe Institute for Research in the Social Sciences and the School of Marine Science will present, for the Division of State Planning and Community Affairs, a three-day seminar on Virginia's wetlands.

The three-day program will be held Monday, April 30, through Wednesday, May 2, at the Holiday Inn in Hampton.

The seminar is one of a series of such meetings, designed to inform public officials of necessary information and to provide them insights into the solutions of problems concerning wetlands.

Specifically, the seminar is being undertaken to explain the role of the wetlands and the various factors affecting them; the legal status of wetlands in Virginia; and the important cost and benefits of alternative wetlands use.

"The Dynamics of Wetlands" will be explained in the opening session of the seminar Monday. Speakers will be Kenneth Marcellus, head, Wetlands Division, Virginia Institute of Marine Science; and Gerald Johnson, associate professor of geology.

On Tuesday, May 1, the morning session will be devoted to a presentation entitled "Wetlands and Man's Activity in the Coastal Zone." Speakers will include Bruce Maddox, chief economist and head, Department of Advisor Services, VIMS; and three faculty members from the College, John Donaldson, professor of law, Marshall-Wythe School of Law; Jack Edwards, associate professor of government; and Clyde Haulman, associate professor of economics and director of the Marshall-Wythe Institute for Research in the Social Sciences. A tour of several wetlands projects is planned during the afternoon session.

A panel discussion concerning the roles, criteria and procedures of agencies involved in approving petitions to modify wetlands will be held Wednesday beginning at 8:30 a.m. The panel will include R. E. Ayers, district engineer, Corps of Engineers; L. A. Balderson, pollution control specialist, State Water Control Board; Mr. Marcellus; N. M. Ruha, Region III, Environmental Protection Agency; L. Shank, area supervisor, U.S. Fisheries and Wildlife; and staff from the Virginia Marine Resources Commission and the Virginia Attorney General's office. Moderator for the panel will be Mr. Haulman.

Particular attention will be paid throughout the three days of sessions to matters which bear directly upon the costs and benefits of alternative wetlands use.

Law School Open House

The Law Day Program of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law will conduct an Open House for undergraduate students interested in law careers on Tuesday, May 1. For location, time, and additional information, call the Office of Placement, Ext. 518.

Phi Beta Kappa members-elect were announced earlier by Alfred R. Armstrong, recording secretary, Alpha of Virginia Chapter.

Three Awarded Research Fellowships

Three members of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences have been awarded 1973 Faculty Research Fellowships for a semester of research.

M. Boyd Coyner, professor of history; Anthony L. Guenther, associate professor of sociology; and Elsa Nettels, associate professor of English, have been named to receive the Fellowships. They will be relieved of teaching duties for the entire semester to enable them to devote full time to their research. All three are preparing manuscripts for books.

Mr. Coyner will be working on a biography, John Hartwell Cocke: The Southern Patrician as Reformer. Mr. Coyner is using the facilities of the library at the University of Virginia and the Library of Congress in preparing his manuscript.

Mr. Guenther is preparing a manuscript for a book entitled The Social System of a Penitentiary, a study which will update earlier work in the field by Gresham Sykes and Erving Goffman. As part of his research Mr. Guenther will collect material at federal prisons in Atlanta, Ga., and Petersburg.

Miss Nettels will be working on campus, at the New York Public Library and the Yale University Library in her work on Henry James and Joseph Conrad: A Comparative Study.

Summer Employment

Jerry Floyd, representative of Amalgamated Clothing Union, will be on campus on Friday, April 27, to interview students interested in summer employment in the Tide-water area.

This employment involves surveying the retail merchant employees located in the Tide-water area. The salary is $2.50 per hour. It is desired that interested students have their own automobile. Applications, which may be secured from the Placement Office, Ewell Hall, must be completed in advance of the interview.

Dissertation in Education

Willard L. Lewis of Williamsburg, a candidate for the degree of Doctor of Education in counseling, will present and defend his dissertation Friday, April 27, at 9 a.m. in the gold room of the Campus Center. His topic is "Development of a Counselor Selection Scale through an Item Analysis of the California Psychological Inventory."

Jerome Kagan

Jerome Kagan, professor of developmental psychology at Harvard University, will speak at the College, Wednesday, April 25.

He will speak on "Early Childhood Education" in the Campus Center Theatre at 8 p.m. His lecture is part of the current Visiting Scholars Series on campus arranged in cooperation with the University Center in Virginia, Inc.

He is the author of Birth to Maturity; Child Development and Personality; Psychology: An Introduction; and Understanding Children.

Mr. Kagan received the B.S. degree from Rutgers University and his doctorate from Yale University. Prior to joining the Harvard University faculty in 1964, he was chairman of the Department of Psychology at the Fels Research Institute in Ohio. He also served as research psychologist at the U.S. Army Hospital at West Point, instructor in psychology at Ohio State University, and clinical psychologist at the Clifford Beers Guidance Clinic in New Haven, Conn.

He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and a recipient of the Hofheimer Prize for Research from the American Psychiatric Association. He is a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, a member of the panel on educational research of the Presidents' Science Advisory Committee, and a member of the Board of Directors of the Foundations' Fund for Research in Psychiatry in New Haven.

Chemists Plan Educational Program Wednesday

Harvey Taufen

"Catalyst '73 - Is Science Necessary?" is the title of an educational program, Wednesday, April 27, planned by the College in collaboration with the Manufacturing Chemists Association.

The program will be held in the Campus Center Little Theatre from 2-5 p.m. and is open to the public without charge.

The afternoon session will include a candid discussion between panelists and audience to bring out information that businessmen, educators and students need in order to work together effectively and to find new avenues of cooperation.

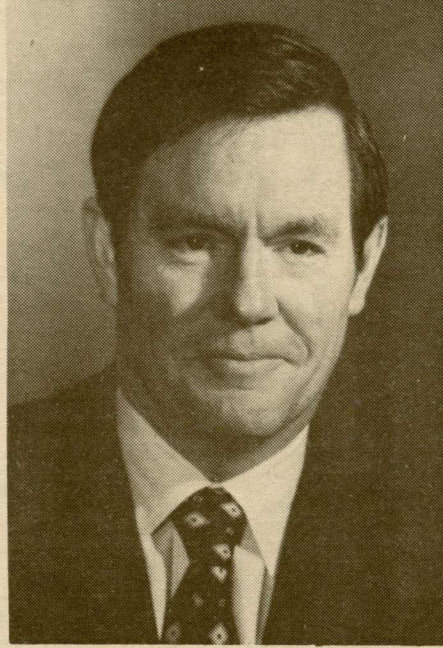

One panel, composed of James F. Mathis, vice president, Chemical Research, Exxon Chemical Company, and Elaine Themo, Department of Sociology, will take as its topic, "Technology: Society's Master or Its Slave?"

Bookbinding Display in Botetourt Museum April 26 - May 23

An exhibition of bookbindings by retired Colonial Williamsburg bookbinder Clement Samford will be displayed in the Botetourt Museum of Swem Library during the period April 26-May 23.

Mr. Samford studied bookbinding with the internationally known bookbinder Gerhard Gerlack and was employed as Master Bookbinder for Colonial Williamsburg from 1953 until his retirement in 1971. During his nineteen years with Colonial Williamsburg he conducted research relating to the eighteenth century bindery in Williamsburg, demonstrated his craft, and bound and restored books for libraries and individuals. His proficiency in binding books is evident in the exhibition which includes books from his own personal library as well as several volumes he bound for the Swem Library and for the Colonial Williamsburg Library.

The exhibit was arranged by Swem Library's curator of rare books, Henry D. Grunder, and curator of manuscripts, Margaret Cook.

J. F. Mathis

The role of multinational companies will be discussed by a second panel composed of Harvey J. Taufen, vice president, Hercules Inc., and Jesse Tarleton, School of Business Administration.

Henry W. Rahn, director, R&D Chemical Division, PPG Industries, Inc., and chairman of MCA's Education Activities Committee, will be moderator.

Program participants will be welcomed to campus by S. Y. Tyree, chairman, Department of Chemistry, and Robert E. Varnerin, MCA's Manager of Education.

Surplus Property for Sale

W. T. Allen, director of purchases and stores, has announced a surplus property sale by the State Department of Purchases and Supply in Richmond. Bids will be opened Friday, May 4, at 2 p.m.

Items including typewriters, automotive equipment, adding machines, filing cabinets, chairs, lighting fixtures and many other types of office equipment, television sets, and laundry equipment are on the list of things to be sold. A complete list may be obtained from Mr. Allen's office.

Sale items are located at various state properties and will be sold "as is and where is" without warranty.

The College's 86-piece Concert Band will present the 1973 Carl Hibbard Memorial Concert Friday, April 27, at 8:15 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

Proceeds from the concert go to the Carl Hibbard Band Scholarship Fund which was established in 1958 by Capt. and Mrs. R. C. Hibbard in memory of their son, a former William and Mary student who played in the College band. Admission is $1.

The program will present music of many styles and moods, including classical and light contemporary. Director will be Charles R. Varner.

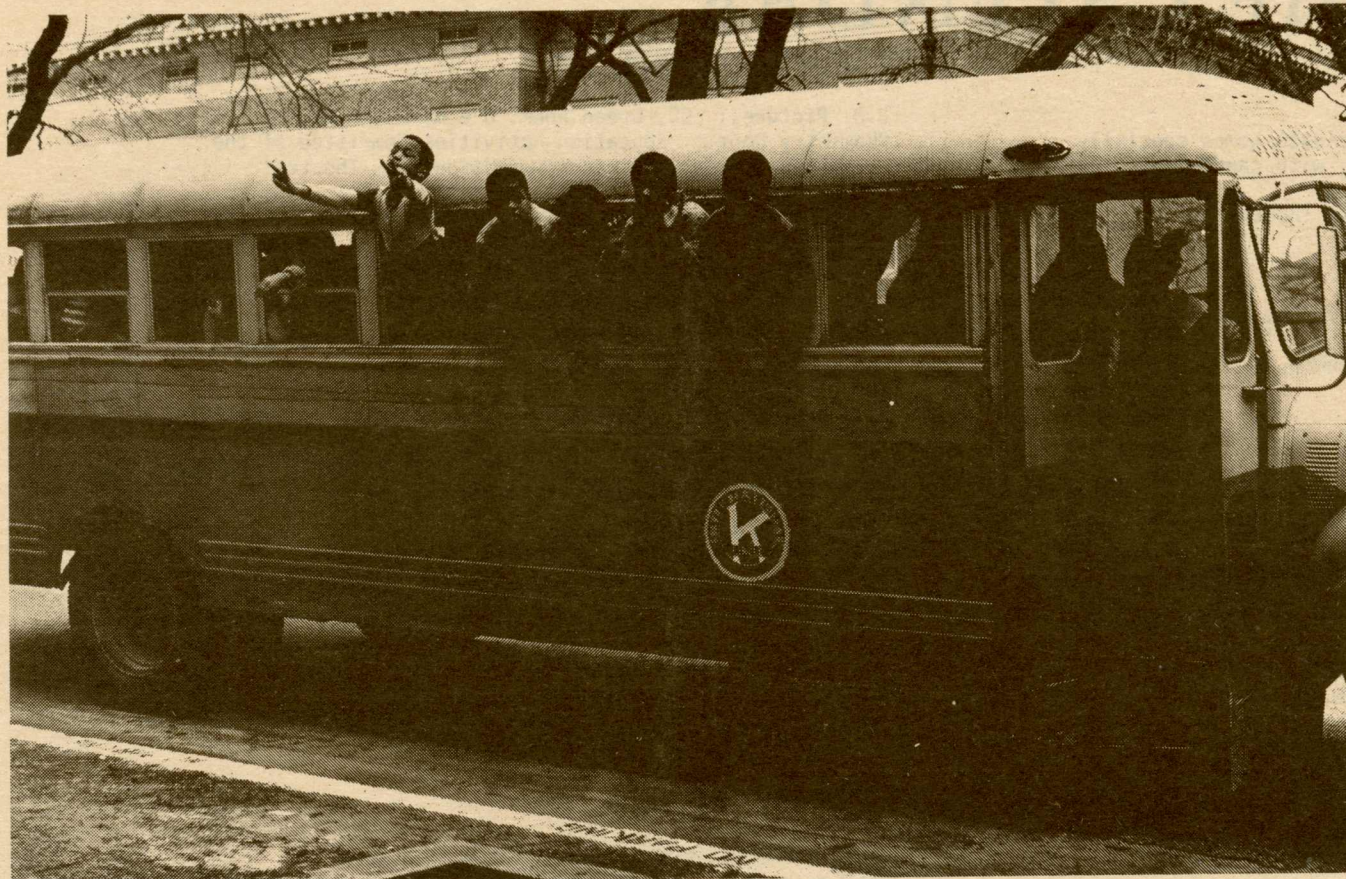

Included in the musical selection is Vivaldi's "Concerto in C Major for Piccolo" featuring soloist Margaret Shaffer, a sophomore from Alexandria.

Aaron Copland's "Lincoln Portrait," which evokes an historic American scene, will be narrated by Clifford H. Pence, Jr., director of radio and television for the Department of Theatre and Speech.

The program will include Jaromir Weinberger's Polka and Fugue from the opera "Schwanda, the Bagpiper," and selections from Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess." In addition, William Schuman's "George Washington Bridge" and Sadel-Tucci's "Lola Flores" will be featured.

Following the Hibbard concert, the band will give a concert at Edison High School in Fairfax County, May 4, and at Half Hollow High School, Dix Hills, Long Island, May 5.

'Fat Albert' Needs a Lift

Once committed to a goal, Circle K doesn't give up easily. For the past two years the service club members have been trying to purchase a replacement for their aging bus. They are still trying.

To date the club has approximately $2,625 toward a goal of $10,000, according to Marshall Miller, chairman of the finance committee. This includes a gift from the senior class, $50 from Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity, $75 from Phi Mu Alpha music honorary, $100 from the Interfraternity Council, $275 from faculty donations, $627 from individuals, and $402 from a Student Association film showing.

The 1953 Ford bus, which covers over 300 miles each week, is used to transport over 200 underprivileged children to community recreation programs in James City County.

The twenty year old chapter of Circle K possesses an excellent service record which it hopes to maintain and improve upon. The club received the 1969-70 and 1970-71 Single Service Awards for the Circle K club with the best service project in the nation. It has received the Capitol District service award for the past four years. In addition, it received the second place Single Service Award for the nation in 1968-69 and has been commended by a regional sorority.

Repairs for the bus have been a drain on club funds for several years. This year it became necessary for the club to abandon one of its community projects, the Sunday afternoon recreation program at Mooretown, near Lightfoot, largely as a result of transportation problems. The club wants to maintain and expand its current programs; both goals require a new bus.

Named "Fat Albert" after one of entertainer Bill Cosby's comedy characters, the Circle K bus registers over 260,000 on the odometer. He has holes in the floor, wobbly seats, no heater, and cracked windows. Aware that he is becoming increasingly unsafe and that repair bills cause a constant drain on Circle K funds, individuals and clubs have offered donations. Some of the members of the sociology of small groups class at the College and campus sororities and fraternities have undertaken fund-raising projects for Circle K. Circle K members admit that still more help is needed.

The Circle K sponsored "Fat Albert" in a Homecoming parade last fall, hoping to draw attention to his plight. Fat Albert's counterpart, "Matilda," previously used to transport children by the Williamsburg Area Tutorial Service at the College, has been permanently retired. By virtue of age, Fat Albert should follow her to a similar fate. Stoppap measures to keep Fat Albert on the road are becoming increasingly futile, as his condition steadily worsens. The Circle K Transportation Committee is working toward purchase of a new bus but is also investigating the purchase of a used bus.

Circle K projects which revolve around the use of a bus include the Monday through Friday day care center or preschool program for children from the Chickahominy community. The Saturday tutoring program matches about 80 children in the first through sixth grades with individual college students in a type of big brother (or sister) situation. While these children are given lunch, the bus picks up an additional 20 to 40 children who do not have tutors and brings them to Williamsburg. All of the children are then taken to nearby places with cultural or recreational value by some of Circle K's 30 members and 175 volunteers.

Circle K is partially supported by students who work at registration, sell soft drinks, and clean up after athletic events and concerts. This year the club is facing a cutback in funds used for its projects, which it receives from the Community Action Agency.

Fat Albert is approaching the end of his natural life and would like to retire. Circle K members would willingly join in a celebration of his retirement if they could be certain of a replacement for this trusty friend.

Donations for a new bus should be sent to Circle K, P. O. Box 1093.

English Major Receives $3,600 Fellowship

Lilla D. Wood, a senior English major, has been awarded a $3,600 fellowship to attend the library school of her choice by the Virginia State Library. Miss Wood is a resident of Dinwiddie County.

She has been accepted for graduate study leading to an M.S. in library science by the University of North Carolina and Emory University and will enroll at one of these institutions in September. Miss Wood intends to work in the area of children's services in a public library after receiving her M.S.L.S.

Nine Selected for Exchange Study

Nine students have been selected for study in Great Britain for the 1973-74 academic year under exchange programs.

Mark R. Reynolds, a senior from Danville, an English concentrator and an Honors candidate, has been selected for the Exeter Exchange Scholarship. He anticipates taking postgraduate or graduate courses in English.

The Exchange Scholarship to St. Andrews University in Scotland has been awarded to Gregory E. May, Timberville, a rising junior and history concentrator.

The following students, all members of the class of '75, have been selected for the Junior Year at Exeter University program: Lucinda Emley, government, Hamden, Conn.; Jenny Lee Garrett, English, Bon Air; William Hanlon, interdisciplinary concentrator in government and philosophy, Riverhead, N.Y.; Richard Krizman, fine arts, Leawood, Kansas; Kathryn Mathews, English, Annandale; Meredith Merritt, interdisciplinary, Franklin; and Barbara McCulloh, theatre, Laurel, Md.

Jeffrey Mincks, a future concentrator in geology from Bloomfield Hills, Mich., was selected for the Junior Year at Exeter program but has elected to continue his studies next year at St. Andrews University in Scotland.

W&M is First Stop for British Team

The Great Britain Touring Team and a United States Squad team will meet in a game of women's lacrosse on Thursday, April 26, at 4 p.m. in Cary Stadium.

Williamsburg is the first stop for this British team which will be making a five-week tour of the United States under the auspices of the United States Women's Lacrosse Association. Generally recognized as the best competitors in women's lacrosse in the world, the British will be attempting to extend this reputation in the face of many challenges. At the last meeting of a U.S. and an English team in England in 1970, the score was very close, but the English prevailed at the final whistle.

Chosen from national teams from Scotland, England, and Wales, the British Internationals reflect a variety of backgrounds and interests. Most are teachers, some are housewives, and some are both. Their interests run the gamut from crossword puzzles to country cottages to theatre, but center on lacrosse at the moment.

The U.S. Squad team comes from the ranks of those chosen last June at the National Tournament to represent the United States. The team captain, Jackie Pitts, teaches mathematics at Sanford School in Delaware and has been a member of the U.S. team for eight years and the U.S. Reserves for four. Another team member, Sherry Vetter, '69, played varsity lacrosse for three years at William and Mary.

Admission to the game is one dollar. Faculty, students, and staff of William and Mary will be admitted free of charge.

Indians Take Honors in Karate Championships

By claiming medalists in many divisions, William and Mary took top honors in the third annual collegiate karate championships held April 14 on campus.

Over 180 athletes including teams from Hampton Institute, North Carolina State, Georgetown University, the University of Maryland and Old Dominion University competed.

The Championship's Sportsmanship award went to Jim Thomas who defeated N.C. State Black Belt captain Thomas Jeffress in the first 10 seconds of sudden death after a tie decision in the team match.
