W&M Site of Educators Meeting

Felix C. Robb, director of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools in Atlanta, Ga., will speak on "Processes and Problems of Self Study" at the annual conference of the Virginia Elementary Committee of the Commission on Elementary Schools of the Association of Colleges and Schools, Thursday and Friday, May 10 and 11.

The conference will consist of two general sessions. The program on Thursday will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Campus Center Theatre. The program will focus on the process of regional evaluation and accreditation. Welcoming remarks will be delivered by Richard B. Brooks, dean of the School of Education, College of William and Mary. The evening's speakers will give an overview of the program and introduce Royce W. Chesser, professor of education at the College. Speakers for the evening will include: Garland R. Lively, superintendent of Hampton City Schools; Robert Dewey, school board member, Hampton City Schools; Raymond E. Vernall, director of instruction, Hampton City Schools; and Mrs. Marion S. Giedemann, director of instruction, Newport News City Schools. Bernard R. Taylor, chairman of the Virginia Elementary Committee, will preside over the program.

Mr. Robb's talk will be given at 9 a.m. in the Campus Center Ballroom. C. P. Ely, principal of Mary Mumford Elementary School in the city of Richmond, will preside.

Bernard R. Taylor will give the annual report of the Virginia Elementary Committee at the Friday morning session.

A symposium on the topic of "School Improvement" will feature Ruth E. Cole, principal of Aragona Elementary School, in the city of Virginia Beach; Doyle W. Bryson, principal of Washington-Coleman Elementary School, in the city of South Boston; and Donald T. Lacey, superintendent of Area IV, Fairfax County Schools. Marguerite F. Christian, elementary supervisor of Chesterfield County Schools, will introduce the closing speaker, William B. Royster, superintendent of Anderson County School District 5, Anderson, S.C., who will talk on "Opportunity--Now."

The Fine Arts Department is sponsoring an exhibition of works by Miaki Yamaoka, William and Mary guest artist and folk potter from Hokkaido, Japan, Tuesday and Wednesday, May 8 and 9, in Andrews Hall from 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

Mr. Yamaoka is an honored Japanese folk craftsman who works in high temperature stoneware and traditional Japanese forms and glazes. The pottery on exhibit is work accomplished this semester in the College kilns and is available for purchase during the exhibition.

Mr. Yamaoka, who is staying with Mr. and Mrs. Fraser Neiman, in a recent interview, described his trip to the U.S. as part of a "friendship exchange." This exchange, he feels, affords him the opportunity not only to share the 800-year old pottery art techniques of Japan with the students here, but also to learn at the same time.

Japanese pottery, which plays a large role in the country's art culture, varies in several ways from our traditional clay work. When Mr. Yamaoka arrived here, he had to delay his work until his own potter's wheel arrived because the wheels used at the College go in a counterclockwise direction, while his own revolves clockwise.

He has been in the United States since February and will stay through May. Through a translator, he said, "I am enjoying my stay very much. It is very culturized here and the people are very nice. I have been able to see things most tourists will never see by being at the College and making friends."

Mr. Yamaoka graduated from three schools of ceramics.

Christ Church Group Visits Campus May 8

The Christ Church Foundation Volunteers from Lancaster County will visit the College, Tuesday, May 8.

They will be the guests of President and Mrs. Graves at a morning coffee at the President's House. The group will tour both the President's House and the Wren Building before concluding their Williamsburg visit at Carter's Grove.

Members of the Volunteers act as hostesses throughout the year for visitors to Christ Church which has been registered a National Historic Landmark and is a member of the National Trust.

Built by Robert King Carter of Corotoman in 1732, the church was erected on the site of an earlier church built in 1669.

Carter, Speaker of the House of Burgesses and Treasurer, was acting Governor of the Colony for more than a year. He was also a Rector of the College.

Mrs. Alexander W. Kreiser, Jr., is chairman of the Volunteers. Richard T. Herndon is president of the parent group, the Foundation for Historic Christ Church, Inc.

Events Set for Commencement

Commencement activities for the two-day period, Saturday, June 2 - Sunday, June 3, were recently announced by J. W. Lambert, vice president for student affairs and chairman of the commencement committee.

The program of events will begin Saturday at 11 a.m. with the commissioning of 26 RCTC cadets in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

President and Mrs. Graves will host a reception for graduating students, their families and friends that afternoon in the Wren Yard and the President's House from 4-5:30 p.m. (in case of rain, Phi Beta Kappa Hall).

Dinner for the students and their guests will be served in the Commons from 5:30-7:30 p.m. at a cost of $2.75 per person.

The culminating activity for Saturday is a concert by the Peninsula Symphony Orchestra at 8:30 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Hall. Admission is $1.50. Tickets are now on sale in James Blair Hall - 206-A, for graduating students only and will go on sale for the general public May 23.

Approximately 1,115 graduate and undergraduate degrees will be conferred by the College at commencement exercises on Sunday, June 3, at 3 p.m. in the Wren Yard (in case of rain, William and Mary Hall).

A breakdown of the degrees, according to recent announcement by the Registrar's Office, is as follows: B.B.A., 67; B.S., 149; B.A., 560; M.Ed., 39; M.A. Ed., 10; Ad. Certif. Ed., 10; M.B.A., 63; M.S., 16; M.A., 43; J.D., 138; L.&T.M., 5; Ed.D., 6; and Ph.D., 9.

College Women Elect

New Officers

Mrs. John F. Lavach is the new president of the College Women's Club.

Other officers include Mrs. Sidney H. Lawrence, vice president; Mrs. John B. Thomas, secretary; and Mrs. George R. Healy, treasurer.

Mrs. David E. Kranbuehl will serve as hospitality chairman and Mrs. William H. Warren as membership chairman. Welcoming chairman for next year is Mrs. Edward L. Fogler and newcomers chairman, Mrs. Richard M. Blood.

The new officers will serve as the board of directors for the club together with Mrs. Richard H. Prosl, retiring president.

New officers were reported at the annual business meeting and luncheon of the club which was held Friday, May 4.

Biology

Alan Lin, a student in the Ph.D. program at VIMS, and Martin Mathes, associate professor, recently published a paper, "The In Vitro Secretion of Growth Regulators by Isolated Callus Tissue," in the American Journal of Botany.

Ruth Beck, instructor, Jerry Via, graduate student, and Mr. Mathes, members of the Bio Bureau, recently presented discussions concerning spiders, birds and plants at Rawls Byrd Elementary School.

Chemistry

Melvyn D. Schiavelli, associate professor, attended the 165th National Meeting of the American Chemical Society in Dallas, Tex., April 8-10 and presented a paper entitled "Isotope Effects and Steric Constraints in the Solvolysis of Haloallenes."

He also visited the Department of Chemistry at the University of Utah on April 16 and 17 and delivered a seminar entitled "Propargyl and Allenyl Cations as Reaction Intermediates."

Education

Kevin E. Geoffroy, associate professor, has been elected president of the Peninsula Personnel and Guidance Association for 1973-74.

Government

Alan J. Ward, associate professor, spoke on "Cabinet Government and Political Power in the Irish Republic" at the 11th annual conference of the American Committee for Irish Studies, held May 3-5 at The University of Michigan.

Swem Library

The Library will be represented by eight staff members at the spring meeting of the Virginia Library Association. Attending this meeting Saturday, at Ferrum College will be William C. Pollard, librarian; Alva W. Stewart, associate librarian; Ailene Zirkle, acquisitions department bibliographer; Mary Lou Cobb, catalog librarian; Kathryn Blue, Berna-Heyman, and Leah Rae Miron, assistant catalog librarians.

Mr. Pollard will be participating in the program for this meeting as a panelist. The discussion topic will be the prospects for a computer network among Virginia libraries.

Nolan T. Yelich, head, Public Services, and Harry E. Krauss, library assistant, Periodicals Department, will be attending a Symposium on the American Revolution sponsored by the Library of Congress May 10 and 11 in Washington, D.C. Planned by the American Revolution Bicentennial

Physics

Several members of the Physics Department attended the American Physical Society meeting in Washington, D.C., April 23-26.

H. O. Funsten, professor, gave an invited paper entitled " π -Induced Nucleon and Multiple Particle Production from Light and Intermediate Nuclei" at this meeting, [Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 18, 533 (1973)].

Listed below are papers contributed to this meeting:

"Observation of Temporal Decay of Electron Plasma Waves," J. Lindemuth, and F. R. Crownfield. Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 18, 660 (1973).

"Large Amplitude Sinusoidal Equilibrium in a Vlasov Plasma," F. R. Crownfield. Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 18, 708 (1973).

"Nuclear De-excitation Gamma Rays Following Negative Pion Capture on ^{32}S and ^{14}N ," C. E. Stronach, W. J. Kossler, and H. O. Funsten. Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 18, 691 (1973).

"Ion Kinematics in Rapidly Changing Currents," S. P. Gary. Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 18, 707 (1973).

"Comparison of the Kinetic and Fluid Approach to the Farley-Buneman Plasma Instability," M. J. Schmidt, and S. P. Gary. Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 18, 633 (1973).

"Relativistic Deuteron Wave Functions," J. Hornstein, and F. L. Gross. Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 18, 621 (1973).

"Observation of Σ -X-Rays in High-Z Targets," W. C. Lam, P. D. Barnes, R. A. Eisenstein, J. Miller, R. B. Sutton, D. A. Jenkins, M. Eckhause, J. R. Kane, B. L. Roberts, R. E. Welsh, A. R. Kunselman, and J. D. Fox. Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 18, 595 (1973).

"Pion-Nucleus Total Cross Sections on He^3 and Be^9 ," C. S. Hsieh, J. R. Kane, C. B. Spence, and J. B. Carroll. Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 18, 691 (1973).

Religion

Members of the Department delivered four papers at professional meetings and served on one panel in March. James C. Livingston lectured at the University of Lancaster, England, on "Matthew Arnold's Religious Criticism: A Reappraisal." Mr. Livingston, currently on leave, is the newly designated dean of the undergraduate program who will take office July 1. Jack D. Van Horn, assistant professor, was discussant for three papers on Pali translation and interpretation presented at the annual meeting of the Association for Asian Studies in Chicago.

At the annual meeting of the Southeastern Section of the American Academy of Religion, held in Atlanta, Mr. Van Horn gave a paper on "The Nature and Function of Creedal Statements in the Pali Buddhist Prose Texts"; at the same meeting, Karl E. Peters, visiting professor, delivered a paper on "Presuppositions of Scientific Theology."

At the Conference on Religion and the Revolution, jointly sponsored by the Institute of Early American History and Culture, and by the American Society of Church History, David L. Holmes, acting chairman, delivered a paper entitled "Virginia Anglicanism: Victim of Revolution."

Sociology

Elaine Themo, associate professor, gave an address on April 27 at a session on "Technology: Society's Master or Its Slave?" held as part of the Manufacturing Chemists Association. Other panelists were drawn from manufacturing and business interests on the general conference topic of "Is Science Necessary?"

Attending the Eastern Sociological Society meetings in New York City were Michael A. Faia, associate professor, Marion G. Vanfossen, professor, and Thomas W. Christ, assistant professor.

Members of the Department attending meetings of the Southern Sociological Society in Atlanta were Mr. Vanfossen; Lawrence S. Beckhouse, chairman; R. Wayne Kernodle, professor; Satoshi Ito, associate professor; Ms. Themo; Anthony L. Guenther, associate professor; Gary A. Kreps, assistant professor; and Jon S. Kerner, assistant professor. Mr. Vanfossen chaired a meeting of the Society's membership committee and read a paper at the session on "Approaches to the Study of the American Future"; Mr. Kreps read a paper (co-authored with Russell R. Dynes) entitled "The Concept of Organizational Intelligence: Its Analytical and Empirical Value for the Analysis of Organizational Behavior" at a session on "Complex Organizations"; and Mr. Guenther was a discussant at the "Crime and Delinquency" session.

CAMPUS PROFILE / Lucille Cowles

"One day I wrote my name upon the sand; but came the waves and washed it away. Again, I wrote with a second hand; but came the tide and I began to pray."

These are lines from a poem written by Lucille Cowles, novice poetess and playwright. Mrs. Cowles is a supervisor in the housekeeping department and will observe her 15th anniversary as a William and Mary staffer in August.

In addition to writing, Mrs. Cowles loves to crochet. One of her favorite show pieces is an afghan, which she recently completed.

A graduate of Bruton Heights High School, Mrs. Cowles received a certificate in housekeeping supervision from James Blair High School.

She is married to Washington Cowles, an employee of the Sheldon Lumber Company in Toano. The Cowles are the parents of three daughters and one son. Two of their daughters, Annie Mae and Marian, are Civil Service secretaries in Washington, D.C., and their son, Clifton, is a student at Norfolk State College. Their oldest daughter, Wilma C. Bland, is a resident of Toano.

Mrs. Cowles is a member of St. John Baptist Church in Toano, where she is a deaconess, president and directress of the Senior Choir, and president of the Pastor's Aide Club. She is also a member of the Peninsula Baptist Ladies Auxiliary of Deacons, secretary of the Williamsburg-James City-York County NAACP, and secretary of the National Ideal Benefit Society.

IEAHC Council Members Elected

The Council of the Institute of Early American History and Culture elected four new members and reelected its chairman for another term at its annual two-day meeting recently at the Conference Center.

The Council is the advisory body of the Institute, a center for historical publication and study, sponsored jointly by the College and the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation.

New members elected to the Council include: J. R. Pole, Churchill College, Cambridge University; Stanley N. Katz, who holds a joint appointment in law and history at the University of Chicago; Wilcomb E. Washburn, director of American Studies, Smithsonian Institution; and Robert Middlekauf, professor of history, University of California at Berkeley.

James Morton Smith, director, State Historical Society of Wisconsin, and former editor of publications for the Institute, was reelected to the Council and renamed its chairman. Whitfield J. Bell, Jr., of the American Philosophical Society, was elected vice-chairman, and John W. Shy of the University of Michigan was elected secretary of the Council.

William G. McLoughlin of Brown University was elected to fill a vacancy on the executive committee of the Council. Other members of the Council include: Bernard Bailyn, Harvard University; Sigmund Diamond, Columbia University; John C. Miller, Stanford University; James R. Short, the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation; John W. Shy, University of Michigan; Clarence L. Ver Steeg, Northwestern University; Whitfield J. Bell, Jr., American Philosophical Society; Sacvan Bercovitch, Columbia University; George R. Healy, College of William and Mary; and Jules D. Prown, Yale University.

Since its founding in 1943 the Institute has published 74 books which, over the years, have won the Emerson Award of Phi Beta Kappa, the Parkman Prize of the Society of American Historians, the Bancroft Prize of Columbia University, and the National Book Award.

The Institute, also the publisher of the leading magazine of early American history, the William and Mary Quarterly, which has subscribers throughout the nation and in 32 countries, is sponsoring the publication of the papers of Chief Justice Marshall and co-sponsoring, with the Newberry Library of Chicago, the Atlas of the American Revolution.

Twenty-Seven to be Honored

Military Science Observes Spring Awards Day

Twenty-seven awards will be made at the Department of Military Science annual Spring Awards Day program Wednesday, May 9, at 4 p.m. in Blow Gymnasium.

Four cadets will receive the Department of the Army Superior Cadet Award as the outstanding cadets in their class. They are Cadet Capt. Philip B. Eastham, '73, Hume; Sgt. Maj. Nathaniel R. Thompson, III, '74, Philadelphia, Pa.; Sgt. Barry C. Curtis, '75, Newport News; and Col. Glenn S. Hayes, '76, Chester. The awards will be presented by Col. Spencer T. Hockaday, PMS at the College.

Cadet LTC. Ronald W. Sullivan, '73, Springfield, will receive the Dixie Post Ordinance Award as the cadet who attained the highest composite score at the previous advance summer camp.

The American Association Gold Key will be awarded to Cadet Lt. William E. Richeson, '73, Springfield, for academic grades, leadership qualities and branch assignment.

The Reserve Officers Association annually awards a gold, silver and bronze medal to an outstanding senior, junior and sophomore. This year's recipients are: Gold Medal, Cadet Capt. Clark L. Berggren, '73, Newport News; Silver Medal, Cadet Sgt. R. P. MacGillivray, '74, Williamsburg; and Bronze Medal, Brett Lassiter, '75, Newport News.

Cadet Sgt. Ward A. Boston, III, '74, Alexandria, will receive the Virginia Chapter of the Daughters of Founders and Patriots of Americans Medal for "patriotism, loyalty and dedication to the ideals of our country as a member of the ROTC Cadet Corps at William and Mary." Mrs. Harvey W. Ragen, recently elected State president of the organization, will make the presentation.

Cadet Capt. Hugh N. Johnston, Jr., a law student from Williamsburg, will be presented the Daughters of the American Revolution Award, for "outstanding ability and achievement." The awardee must be a member of the graduating class and in the top 25 percent of his class in ROTC and academic subjects. The award will be presented by Mrs. Sydney Briggs, chairman of the organization.

Cadets receiving the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution Award, "for a high degree of merit with respect to leadership, soldierly bearing, and military excellence," include: Cadet Capt. Christopher B. Powers, '73, Bon Air; Cadet Sgt. Joseph R. Loehe, '74, Springfield; Cadet Sgt. Richard C. Kissiah, '75, Overland Park, Kan.; and Cadet Corp. Steven J. Handzel, '76, West Chester, Pa. Presenting the award will be Col. (ret.) Nelson Fooks, registrar of the Williamsburg Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution.

The Association of the United States Army Medal, awarded to a cadet who has demonstrated leadership and excellence both on the drill field and in the classroom, will be presented to Cadet Sgt. William S. Eck of Ballston Lake, N.Y., by Maj. General (ret.) Howard Schiltz of Williamsburg.

The Williamsburg Post Number 39 of the American Legion will make two awards this year in recognition of outstanding military and scholastic achievement by ROTC cadets.

Cadet Major Robert W. North, '73, Williamsburg, will receive the award for military excellence; and Sgt. Maj. Nathaniel R. Thompson, '74, Ft. Eustis, will be given the award for scholastic excellence.

Dr. Graves will present the President's Award, which consists of a ribbon and certificate given in recognition of outstanding contributions to the College and the Corps of Cadets. This year's award goes to Daniel O. Graham, '74, Arlington.

The Department of Military Science awards scholastic honor ribbons, each semester, to the cadet in each class who attained an "A" in military science and had the highest academic grade point average for the semester.

Recipients this year are: Cadet Capt. Philip Eastham, Jr.; Cadet Sgt. Nathaniel R. Thompson, III; Cadet Sgt. Bruce P. Cleland, '75, Warrenton, and Cadet Capt. Andrew L. Buckingham, '76, McLean. Harold L. Fowler, Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, will make the awards.

Cadet Sgt. Derek C. Swope, '75, Ellicott City, Md., will receive the Reserve Officers Association junior membership award presented to an outstanding cadet at the College.

Cadet Capt. Stanley F. Victor, Jr., '73, Arlington, will receive the ROTC Athletic Award presented to the senior cadet reflecting the best traditions of excellence and sportsmanship in varsity athletics. Ben Carnevale, athletic director, will make the presentation.

A Pre-Camp Training Award, which goes to the MS III cadet who demonstrates the most proficiency and positive attitude during training in summer camp, will be given to Cadet Sgt. Anthony Price, '74, Hampton. The award, a pair of Chocron jump boots, will be presented by Capt. Arthur Isham, MS III instructor.

Cadet Sgt. Joseph R. Loehe, commander of the Queen's Guard Association, will receive the organization's Proficiency Medal.

President's Calendar

Dr. Graves will be in Washington, D.C., on Thursday, May 10, attending a luncheon meeting, called by the Council of Presidents of State Colleges and Universities in Virginia, with members of the Virginia delegation to Congress. The meeting is to provide an opportunity for discussion of Federal legislation relating to higher education and, in particular, the effects of the President's proposed budget on higher education in the Commonwealth.

Dr. Graves will meet with Portsmouth alumni on Monday, May 14.

Personnel Bulletin

Job Openings

The following positions are open at the College. For information about these positions, apply at the Personnel Office in person, Room 201, James Blair Hall:

Clerk-Typist B

Clerk D - Postal Clerk (with 3 years current postal experience)

Institutional Housing Manager - college graduate with 4 years administrative experience

Individuals who are currently employed by the College will be considered for these positions provided that they have first advised their immediate supervisors in writing of their interest in being considered for other positions. A copy of this correspondence and an acknowledgement by the employee's supervisor must be received in the Personnel Office before the applicant will be considered. The College of William and Mary is an Equal Opportunity Employer. Qualified women and minority applicants are encouraged to apply.

To: Deans, Department Heads, Supervisors and All Permanent Classified Employees

Employee Recognition Award Program

The College of William and Mary is starting a new program to recognize permanent classified employees who demonstrate outstanding performance and initiative, and those employees who have provided long and faithful service to the College.

Members of the College staff who continually perform their duties beyond the normal job requirement as shown by their annual service ratings and other supporting evidence will be recognized. Employees may also be recognized for outstanding performance of a special task beyond normal job expectations. Recommendations should be submitted in writing to the appropriate Dean or Department Head for comments and endorsement. If approval is recommended by all supervisors concerned, the primary recommendation and the endorsements should then be forwarded to the College Personnel Office.

Employees are also encouraged to recommend ways to save money, improve efficiency and promote safety at the College. Recommendations should be submitted in writing by the employee directly to the College Personnel Office, and should include an outline of current and proposed methods of operation, and how changing them will benefit College operating effectiveness. Recommendations will not be considered for award if a similar suggestion has been accepted or rejected within the past twenty-four months; if it is a matter of routine attention, obvious repair or maintenance; if it is a personal grievance or request; or if it is a matter not completely controlled by the College of William and Mary. The Personnel Office will provide assistance in preparing such recommendations.

The Vice President for Business Affairs will establish a committee to consider all suggestions. The committee, which will include a representative of the faculty, classified employees, and the student body, will review all recommendations, and forward those considered the best to the Vice President for Business Affairs for final selection, in consultation with the President and other officers of the Administration.

All recommendations will be returned to the originator with appropriate acknowledgement after final approval by the President.

Winners of citations for performance or accepted suggestions will receive a $25 U.S. Savings Bond. Each employee who receives three or more such citations during the calendar year will receive an additional $25 Savings Bond and will be named Employee of the Year. However, a maximum of only three persons may be selected annually for this award. Presentations of this award will be made by the President or Executive Vice President of the College. Funds will be provided through the College's limited local funds.

As an expression of appreciation for long and faithful service rendered to the College of William and Mary, a service plan is also being established to recognize all employees who have completed five or more years of full-time continuous service on a permanent classified status.

As employees reach their fifth anniversary, they will be presented an appropriate Service Award Certificate. Upon completion of additional service in five-year increments, employees will receive a certificate showing the total years of service. When an employee is eligible for a Service Award, the Personnel Office will forward the Service Award Certificate to the individual's department head. These certificates will be presented at an appropriate ceremony, the time and place to be determined by the Head of the Department.

This employee recognition award program is an effort to express on behalf of the entire College community our gratitude to the people who contribute so significantly to the effective operation of the College of William and Mary.

NSF Announces Application Deadlines for 1973-74 Fellowship Programs

The National Science Foundation has set three deadlines for the submission of applications for 1973-74 fellowship programs. Applications for graduate fellowships are due in mid-November, 1973; for NATO postdoctoral fellowships, mid-October, 1973; and for NATO senior fellowships in science, January 31, 1974.

Oak Ridge Associated Universities Has Four Postdoctoral Fellowships for 1973-74

The Oak Ridge Associated Universities has established four postdoctoral fellowships for 1973-74 to provide opportunities for advanced research in specific fields for holders of a Ph.D. or its equivalent. Research carried out under the fellowships must be compatible with the programmatic objectives of the Oak Ridge National Laboratory.

Two appointments will be made for biomedical research in the Medical Division of the Oak Ridge Associated Universities, working with senior staff members in a variety of disciplines related to cancer, radiobiology and nuclear medicine. One appointment will be made for research in the Population Research Institute, and the fourth appointment will be made for research in experimental nuclear physics in the Physics Division of the Oak Ridge National Laboratory.

Each fellowship carries a $9,000 stipend, with fellows being covered free of charge under the Universities' medical and hospitalization plan. Appointments are for one year subject to renewal for one additional year.

Applicants for any of the fellowships should submit a complete academic record, a list of publications with reprints where possible, three professional references, and a narrative statement of the kind of research proposed to be carried out.

Applications received by May 15, 1973, will be considered for one-year appointments beginning between July 1 and October 1, 1973. All information should be submitted to William G. Pollard, Executive Director, Oak Ridge Associated Universities, P. O. Box 117, Oak Ridge, Tennessee 37830.

Announcements

Physics Colloquium

Wallace M. Manheimer, Naval Research Laboratory, Washington, D.C., will be speaker at the Physics Department colloquium, Friday, May 11, at 4:30 p.m. in Room 109 of William Small Physical Laboratory.

His topic will be "Fluid Theory of Reflected Particle Shocks in a Collisionless Plasma."

Coffee will be served at 4 p.m. in the Conference Room.

Attention: June Graduates

Graduating students are invited to attend the Fort Eustis Job Fair which will be held Thursday, May 24, at 6:30 p.m. in the Fort Eustis Service Club, Building #650. The group will assemble at 6 p.m.

W&M Chamber Orchestra in Concert

Anne Rowe
Shown in Costume for a Concert at the Governor's Mansion in Richmond

The Williamsburg Friends of Music will present the William and Mary Chamber Orchestra in concert Monday, May 14, at 8:15 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. Tickets are $2 and $1 for students.

This year's program will consist of unusual and rarely performed works, one of the objectives of the Friends of Music.

Ronald Marshall of Newport News will again be a guest conductor-composer. He will conduct his "Concertino for Piano Duet and Strings." The pianists will be Becky and John Schonk of Norfolk. The program's opening number will be Bach's "Concerto for Violin and Oboe," with string orchestra. The soloists will be Elnore Andersen, well known local violinist, and Patrick Gainor of the Norfolk Symphony, oboe.

A special feature of the evening will be the "Magnificat" by R. Vaughn Williams. This composition is for Women's Chorus, soprano solo and flute, with string orchestra accompaniment. Anne Rowe, singer in residence for Colonial Williamsburg, will be the soprano soloist; Laurie Johnston will be the flutist, and the chorus from the Bruton Parish Church will also participate. J. S. Darling will conduct the "Magnificat."

David Brooks of Yorktown and Herbert Watson of Colonial Williamsburg's Music Master's Shop will play recorder in Bach's "Brandenburg Concerto No. 4." The other solo instrument for this concerto is the violin, to be played by Dora Short, who has made frequent appearances with the Friends of Music concerts. She has also appeared on campus with the Collegium Musicum Series.

Alumna Honored by Williamsburg

Williamsburg honored an alumna Sunday at Jeanne Etheridge Day, proclaimed by the City Council for an educator who is retiring in June after 42 years of service to the community.

Mayor Vernon M. Geddy, Jr., presided at ceremonies held in the Matthew Whaley School library. Mrs. Thomas A. Graves, Jr., representing the City Library Board, announced that friends of Miss Etheridge had donated funds to establish a Jeanne B. Etheridge shelf of juvenile books at the new Williamsburg Library scheduled to open in June.

S. Stuart Flanagan of the School of Education, president of the Matthew Whaley PTA, presented a check for $150 from that organization toward the library project.

A book of letters from school patrons commending Miss Etheridge's career in the school system was presented to her by Jack D. Edwards of the Government Department, who is a member of the James City County Board of Supervisors.

Miss Etheridge received a bachelor's and master's degree from the College.

Bruce Emerson to Defend Dissertation

Bruce Emerson, currently serving with the U.S. Air Force at Langley, will present and defend his dissertation, Friday, May 11, in Room C of the Campus Center. His dissertation is entitled "A History of the Relationships Between the State of Virginia and its Public Normal Schools 1869-1930."

Mr. Emerson is a candidate for the degree of Doctor of Education in Higher Educational Administration.

Queen's Guard Dining-In Set for May 11

The annual Queen's Guard Association Dining-In will be held Friday, May 11, from 6-10 p.m. in Rooms A&B and the Sit 'N Bull Room of the Campus Center.

Dining-In is a traditional military social event whose aim is to promote cordiality, comradeship, and esprit de corps. It provides an occasion for officers and their guests to meet socially at a formal military function.

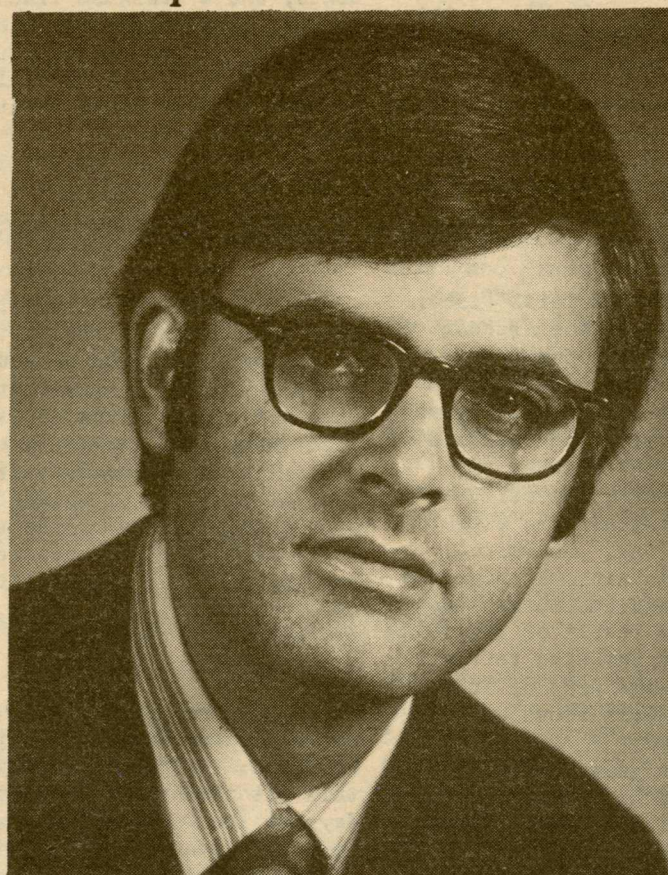

The custom of Dining-In is a very old tradition in England, but it is not exclusively military. It is believed that Dining-In began as a custom in the monasteries, was adopted by the early universities, and later spread to military units when the officers' regimental mess was established. Today's colorful British officers' dinners continue a custom which goes back to the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. The Dining-In is, of course, an all male affair.

The Dining-In, or regimental dinner, is broken into two parts, the formal dinner and the informal smoker. Division of these two phases is sometimes referred to as "removing the cloth," the cloth being officially removed when the senior officer present receives his cup of coffee.

"Here at William and Mary the Queen's Guard is adopting the practice of an annual Dining-In for a two-fold purpose. Primarily it is a training vehicle to give the soon-to-be officers an opportunity to enjoy themselves at a very nice affair and to give them some know-how, through observation and participation, on how to plan and conduct functions of this sort. Of no less importance, our Dining-In aims at promoting better understanding, mutual respect, and cordiality among the faculty, the administration, the assigned officers and the ROTC cadets," stated a spokesman for the group.

The cadets will be attired in their traditional red uniforms.

Charles T. Cullen Named Co-editor of Marshall Papers

Charles T. Cullen

Charles T. Cullen has been named co-editor of the Papers of John Marshall, a multi-volume publication project being conducted under the sponsorship of the College and the Institute of Early American History and Culture.

His appointment, effective July 1, has been announced by Herbert A. Johnson, editor of the Marshall Papers.

Mr. Cullen joined the Marshall Papers staff in 1970 as a Ford Foundation Fellow of the National Historical Publications Commission. He has served as associate editor since September, 1971.

The new co-editor is a native of Panama City, Fla. He received his undergraduate training at the University of the South where he graduated in 1962 with a bachelor of arts degree in history. He received a master's from Florida State University and his doctorate from the University of Virginia in 1971. He was a member of the history faculty at Averett College, Danville, from 1963-1966.

In announcing the promotion, Mr. Johnson stressed the outstanding contribution that Mr. Cullen has made to the editorial work just completed on the first volume of The Papers of John Marshall. This volume was delivered to the publisher at the end of March and it is anticipated that it will be published by the University of North Carolina Press in the spring of 1974. It will cover Marshall's life from November, 1775, when he served as a lieutenant of the Culpeper Minutemen encamped at Williamsburg, to the conclusion of the Virginia Convention held to ratify the present Constitution of the United States in June, 1788.

As co-editor, Mr. Cullen will assume primary responsibility for the editorial work on the second volume of The Papers of John Marshall while Mr. Johnson will devote most of his time to a study of John Marshall's law practice.

Bidding to Open for Surplus Property

William T. Allen, director of purchases and stores, has a detailed list of items available under the current Surplus Property Sale authorized by the State Department of Purchases and Supply.

Bids will be opened Friday, May 11, at 1 p.m.

The equipment for sale at various state institutions is listed on an "as is and where is" basis without warranty. No service of any kind can be furnished by the State. Successful bidders will be required to remit within five calendar days following the opening date of bids, and will be required to remove property within 15 calendar days from the date of notice of award.

The "Conflict of Interest Act," passed in the 1970 Virginia General Assembly, prohibits any employee, spouse or relatives residing in their household to purchase property belonging to the agency by which they are employed. Items 199-211 on the list are thus not available to employees of the College.

Liguori Studies Commercial Fishermen

Modern day commercial fishermen enjoy some of the freedoms of the early American pioneer.

The feeling of independence which working on the water gives to fishermen might be compared to the frontier's effect on the American pioneer, according to Victor Liguori, associate professor of sociology. Commercial fishermen maintain a high degree of physical and emotional independence as a result of their day-to-day orientation to the water - the same kind of independence pioneers found as they moved westward.

In the ten years since Mr. Liguori began his research, he has worked with Atlantic Coast commercial fishermen from New Jersey to North Carolina. He has undertaken concentrated study of the Chesapeake Bay fisheries of Maryland and the seafood industry in Hampton.

In studies of commercial fishing communities, he has found that "isolated" groups of fishermen possess occupational, regional, and ethnic independence.

The "cultural islands," where many commercial fishermen live, exist as insulated coastal enclaves, and occasionally as actual islands. As a result of four factors, physical isolation, traditional life styles, occupational inheritance and the rejection of occupational alternatives on land, commercial fishermen and their families remain set apart. However, according to Mr. Liguori, the once-traditional pattern of occupational inheritance has been steadily breaking down, especially among Atlantic Coast fishermen.

In his studies of the recruitment, training and commitment of fishermen in general, he has found that they share a common goal of money making or "fishing for dollars."

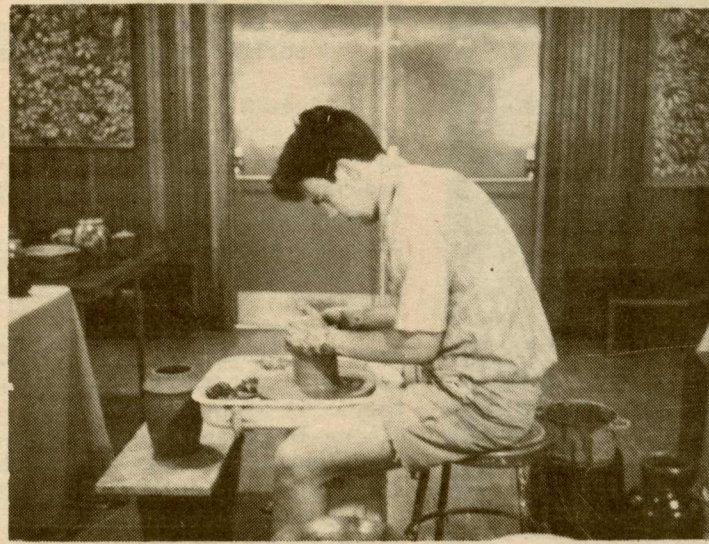

Most fishermen believe that they avoid many of the strictures of conventional jobs on land, he added. "The fishermen I study have not always lived an isolated life--many have worked in factories and changed to fishing. Most of them cannot abide the wage system. They prefer the share system, where they receive pay for an equal share of the day's catch of fish, along with the others in the boat who share an equal status," he said.

Most fishermen have the alternative of working when they want, he added. In practical terms, this often means working as many days of the week as the weather permits, in anticipation of future bad weather.

The independence of fishermen is costly, believes Mr. Liguori. It usually results in a lower standard of living and exploitation of those who are unorganized professionally. "Fishing is a shrinking industry, a hard, dangerous job fraught with problems," he observed. "For instance, the loss of a livelihood may result from a problem over which the fisherman has no control, such as the historical movement during past years of the Menhaden fish out of their usual East Coast area, toward the Gulf Coast waters.

"If a man's established fishing area lacks fish, instead of changing location, he generally gets poorer and poorer. Some eventually leave fishing for another job. Others remain unemployed. Most leave the industry only as a result of injury or death," Mr. Liguori said. Because tradition is an important guiding force in the lives of many fishermen, resistance to leaving an established way of life is high.

Student Potters Hold Exhibit

The work of local craftsmen was displayed at a Student Pottery Exhibit and Sale, last Thursday, May 3, in the Campus Center Lobby.

Four William and Mary graduates, all former fine arts students, and a freshman fine arts student exhibited their stone and glassware, which ranged from multi-colored vases to utility objects such as bowls, plates, mugs, and pitchers.

The potters included Dodi Fredericks, '72, of Colorado Springs, Colo.; Vicky and Dick Hansen, both '71 graduates, from Williamsburg; and Greg Crane, '76, also of Williamsburg.

The glassware at the exhibit was "off-hand blown" by Bruce Cartwright, of Williamsburg, a 1971 alumnus of the College.

Mr. Liguori's study of the Menhaden fishermen of Reedville, Va., focused on an industrialized productive organization. Five or six such companies operate in Reedville. Traditionally, small independent operators, families, or partnerships own most American fishing boats, explained Mr. Liguori, making the organization of the fishing industry in Reedville quite unusual.

Mr. Liguori has incorporated much of his research into a new course at William and Mary this spring entitled "Maritime Sociology," which analyzes the life styles of people oriented primarily to maritime occupations and environments. The course "focuses on inshore and distant-water shipboard life styles, the study of specific work organizations distinguished on the basis of technology, and 'isolated' fishing communities."

Mr. Liguori began his research on fishing communities when he was a graduate student at Princeton University. In 1968 he published Stability and Change in the Social Structure of Atlantic Coast Commercial Fisheries, a comprehensive study of contemporary fisheries. As an early maritime sociologist, Mr. Liguori feels that he was able to develop an overview at a time when others were just beginning to contemplate the field.

Mr. Liguori, together with his work on campus, serves as associate research scientist at the Virginia Institute of Marine Science in Gloucester.

Cadets Turned Fishermen

The U.S. Army Transportation Corps, Fort Eustis, hosted a fishing trip aboard its "Q" boat for nine cadets from the College on May 29. The new fishermen caught 18 blue fish (all 8-10 pounds).

Four W&M Alumni on West Virginia Staff

Four graduates of the College are serving on the faculty of West Virginia University.

They are: John D. Bruner, (M.S., 1972), instructor in psychology; Alexander V. Fakadej, (B.S., 1957), associate professor of neurology and pediatrics; William O. Morris, (A.B., 1944), professor of law; and Robert A. Porter, (M.S.S.W., 1952), professor of social work.

With 96 departments in 16 colleges or schools, West Virginia University is both the state's comprehensive university and land-grant institution. WVU each year serves more than 20,000 students throughout West Virginia.

Student Bar

Plans Follow-up Debate

The Student Bar Association of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law is sponsoring a follow-up debate on one of the unresolved issues which was raised at the recent William F. Buckley, Jr.-Ramsey Clark debate.

The debate will be held at 7 p.m., Thursday, May 10, in the Moot Court Room of the Law School building. The public is invited to attend.

The topic of the debate will be the effect of the Warren Court on criminal justice in America. The precise premise to be debated is as follows: "Be it resolved that every citizen should be conscious of the fact that the Warren Court has made the largest single contribution to the American system of criminal justice in the twentieth century."

Arguing in favor of the premise will be Brian Bromberger, assistant professor of law, and Warren Anthony Fitch, adjunct professor of law and director of the Metropolitan Criminal Justice Research Project. Arguing against the premise will be two members of the Young Americans for Freedom. Moderator will be Jerome Curtis, assistant professor of law and a partner in the Williamsburg law firm of Loring, Curtis and Verzi.

Sussex Program Discontinued

The College has recently had to cancel its Year in England Program on the campus of Sussex University. The Program, in its first year of operation with twenty-two students enrolled, was sponsored by the College in association with the Centre for Contemporary European Studies at Sussex University. Educational Programmes Abroad, Ltd., (EPA), an independent, non-profit organization managed the program for the College and developed the relationship with the Centre at Sussex.

"Unfortunately the administration of Sussex University has just ruled that the arrangements between EPA and the Centre for Contemporary European Studies, made on behalf of William and Mary, are not in conformity with Sussex University Policy. The discontinuance of the relationship has caused the College, regretfully, to cancel its Program. There were no suitable alternatives available," says John H. Willis, Jr., assistant vice president for academic affairs.

Mr. Willis, who has been developing the program for the College, continued, "The distressing aspect of the cancellations is that the decision by the University came so late, and so adversely affected those students selected to enroll in September." Mr. Willis noted that for the students, the cancellation came after many of them had made irrevocable decisions regarding housing, Project PLUS, or special programs. He added that "every possible effort is being made to find alternate programs abroad for them or to place them, where possible, in the housing or programs of their choice."

Terri Bartlett is Miss Williamsburg '73

Terri Lynn Bartlett, a sophomore from Newport News, was named Miss Williamsburg for 1973, Friday night, May 4.

Terri, a five-foot nine inch brunette, will now compete in the Miss Virginia Pageant as the next step in the annual nationwide Miss America competition.

She presented a gymnastic routine on the uneven parallel bars to accompaniment of a tape recording of her playing piano music from Rachmaninoff in the competition for Miss Williamsburg.

Deborah Kay Lawhorn, a senior at James Blair High School, was second runner-up in the pageant.

College Host to Virginia Scientists

The College was host to several hundred scientists and students last week at the 50th anniversary meeting of the Virginia Academy of Science and the concurrent meetings of the Virginia Junior Academy of Science.

The local committee on arrangements included Bruce K. Goodwin, Gerald H. Johnson, Kenneth F. Bick and John B. Thomas of the Geology Department; Richard L. Kiefer, Hans C. von Baeyer, Lawrence L. Wiseman, Physics; Gustav W. Hall, Bradner W. Coursen, Martin C. Mathes, Stewart A. Ware, Charlotte P. Mangum, Carl W. Vermeulen, Bruce S. Grant and Garnett R. Brooks, Biology; Richard H. Prosl, and Benjamin R. Cato, Mathematics; Herbert Friedman and Virgil McKenna, Psychology; and Melvyn Schiavelli, Chemistry.

Serving as judges for the more than 150 papers presented by members of the Junior Academy were W. Larry Ventis, Psychology; Mr. Wiseman; Mr. Vermeulen, Mrs. Ruth A. Beck, Biology; Robert A. Orwoll, Chemistry; Mr. Prosl, John H. Drew, Mathematics; and S. Y. Tyree, Chemistry Department chairman.

Three students at the College, Miss Rosemary T. Enright, Miss Ellen Shepherd, and Stephen Barley, former members of the Junior Academy, were also judges for the papers.

Mr. Brooks retires this year as secretary of the Academy.

Former Faculty Member Dies

Sharvey Umbeck, 69, president of Knox College, Galesburg, Ill., a former member of the College faculty, died Saturday, May 5, while attending a Knox social function.

Mr. Umbeck was a Williamsburg resident from 1938 until 1949 when he became the thirteenth president of Knox College.

He was a member of the Sociology Department and its chairman from 1945-1949. He was Dean of Men in 1945 and became Dean of the College in 1946.

He was tennis coach here and saw his teams win NCAA national championships in 1947 and 1948.

According to a report of his death in the Newport News Daily Press, death was attributed to a heart attack. Funeral services will be private.
