1973-74 Session Underway

Classes begin Friday for approximately 5,200 graduate and undergraduate students.

A freshman class of 1,000 arrived Saturday, September 1, for a four-day orientation program.

Registration will be held September 5 and 6 in William and Mary Hall.

The College anticipates an undergraduate enrollment of 4,000. Over 1,000 graduate students will be enrolled in the Schools of Education, Business Administration, Arts and Sciences, Marine Science and the Marshall-Wythe School of Law.

One of the major changes on campus this year is the reorganization of the Student Affairs program which is now headed by James Livingston, Dean of the Undergraduate Program. Mr. Livingston was formerly chairman of the Religion Department.

Working with him will be W. Samuel Sadler, Dean of Students, and four associate deans - Carolyn Moseley, Associate Dean of Students for Administration; Lynn Schulz, Associate Dean of Students for Student Development; Frank Field, Associate Dean of Students for Career Counseling; and Morris Wray, Associate Dean of Students for Residence Hall Life.

A new "Statement of Rights and Responsibilities" has been approved by the Board of Visitors. As a result of the right of privacy provision of the new Statement, parents and legal guardians will no longer automatically receive copies of student grade reports nor will they be notified of disciplinary or honor council decisions. Students must now request that this information be sent.

The College's new $570,000 Student Health Services Center on campus is in operation with a staff of two full-time physicians and seven registered nurses.

Also new on campus this year will be three Language Houses in Spanish, French and German.

The academic-residential program, Project Plus, will take as its theme this year "Conflict and Conflict Resolution."

Extensive residence hall renovation has been undertaken throughout the summer and Old Dominion Hall will be off the housing list as work there will continue through the fall semester as part of the current residence hall renovation program.

Evening College courses will be offered on campus and at the Virginia Associated Research Campus in Newport News. A wide range of non-credit courses has been announced by the Office of Special Programs.

General registration for Evening College courses will be held Tuesday, September 11, from 7 to 8 p.m. in Blow gymnasium.

Students who encounter unavoidable conflicts September 11 may complete registration on Saturday, September 15, between 9-11:30 a.m. in the Evening Program office. No registration will be accepted after the second class meeting.

Approximately 79 different courses will be offered by the Evening College in the fields of education, economics, English, government, history, physics, psychology, mathematics, sociology, geology, and applied science.

Courses in music, classical studies and physical education for men, not regularly included in the Evening College schedule, will be taught this fall.

F. Donald Truesdell, chairman of the Department of Music, will teach a course entitled "Great Composers" in which he will cover major composers and works representative of various styles. The course is conducted on an intermediate level.

"Greek and Roman Mythology" will be taught by James R. Baron, assistant professor of classical studies. No previous knowledge of ancient civilization is required.

"Health Coordination" will include a comprehensive study of the factors of school and community activities related to health. It will be taught by Howard Smith, chairman of the Department of Physical Education for Men.

Paul N. Clem, director of the Evening College, has announced one change in the Evening College Bulletin. English 201 was incorrectly identified as "Critical Approaches to Literature." This course should carry the title "The Art of Literature." The course, new this fall, is especially designed for those who wish to develop their understanding and enjoyment of literature.

All courses, except one, will be held either on the Williamsburg campus or at the Virginia Associated Research Campus in Newport News. "Environmental Geology," an introduction to the causes and extent of air and water pollution and to methods of preventing, reducing, or eliminating problems relating to ground and surface water, air and solid waste, will be offered on the campus of Christopher Newport College. Instructor for this course will be John B. Thomas of the geology faculty.

A bulletin listing all courses offered by the Evening College and information on registration and fees may be obtained from the office of the Director of the Evening College, College of William and Mary, Williamsburg.

To the Students

Mrs. Graves and I are delighted to have this opportunity to welcome all of you back to the College for another academic year. We wish you an exciting and rewarding year, and we are looking forward to meeting and working with you in the months to come.

College Awarded $2,000 S&H Grant

W. P. Heemann (l) and A. F. Kaiser

The College has received a $2,000 lectureship grant from the S&H Foundation, Inc.

The grant is one of 36 that have been made this year to colleges and universities throughout the country by the Foundation which is sponsored by the Sperry and Hutchinson Company, distributors of S&H Green Stamps.

Albert F. Kaiser, president of the Richmond-based Lea Industries, an interior furnishings subsidiary of the Sperry and Hutchinson Company, presented the check for the lecture series to Warren P. Heemann, vice president for College development.

Mr. Kaiser said, "The purpose of the Foundation's program is twofold: to place students and faculty in direct and informal contact with visiting speakers, and to strengthen the influence of the College of William and Mary in the community by opening the lectures to the public."

Funds from the grant will be used to provide four guest lecturers for a forum which will be part of the Project Plus program on campus this year.

The Project Plus program, inaugurated during the 1972-73 academic year, consists of 84 students living in the same residence hall and taking part of their academic work together under faculty drawn from several departments who will teach in the residence hall.

The forum will meet once a week and will be attended by all students and faculty of Project Plus. It will include reading assignments, appropriate films, debates on major issues and lectures by William and Mary faculty and guests.

The four principal lectures will be spaced throughout the year. During the fall semester two guest lecturers will speak on "International Conflict and Resolution," and "The Just Resolution of Conflict." During the spring semester the topics will be "Conflict in American Society," and "Conflict and the Individual." Names of speakers will be announced later.

ID Pictures

ID pictures will be taken in Room 225 of William and Mary Hall for freshmen, sophomores, juniors, transfer and unclassified students during their registration times on September 5 and 6.

ID pictures of seniors who did not participate in the photographing in April will be taken in Room 225 of William and Mary Hall on Thursday, September 6, from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. and on Friday, September 7, from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Law students and graduate students may have their pictures taken on Thursday, September 6 and Friday, September 7, during the hours mentioned above.

Finished ID cards from the April photographing may be picked up in Room 225 of William and Mary Hall.

Faculty News

Anthropology

Mario D. Zamora, visiting professor for the academic year 1973-74, recently co-edited Themes in Culture - Essays in Honor of Morris E. Opler, published by Kayumanggi Publishers, the Philippines. J. Michael Mahar of the University of Arizona, and Henry Orenstein, Brooklyn College, City University of New York, are also co-editors.

Mr. Zamora is on leave from the University of the Philippines at Baguio, where he is professor of anthropology and dean. He is a former chairman of the University's Anthropology Department and has conducted field work both in India and in the Philippines.

The author of several papers in Philippine and foreign journals, he is co-author of Studies in Philippine Anthropology, Anthropology: Range and Relevance, and Politics and Social Change.

Chemistry

The following paper was published by Nikola Vuletic and Cirila Djordjevic: "Oxidiperoxovanadate(V) Complexes with Bidentate Ligands," J.C.S. Dalton, 1137 (1973).

English

Margaret Freeman has accepted an appointment to the Committee of Examiners for the Achievement Test in English Composition of the College Entrance Examination Board. Service on this Committee includes both advising the Board about the testing of academic achievement in this area, and participating with Educational Testing Service's test development staff in the development and preparation of pretests and a final form of the test.

Staff Notes

Security Office

Nell Turnbull recently joined the staff as secretary. Prior to coming to William and Mary, Mrs. Turnbull was a secretary for the Naval Undersea Center in Hawaii.

Her husband, The Rev. Malcolm Turnbull, also recently joined the staff as Episcopal Chaplain to the College. He was formerly vicar at Emmanuel Church in Hawaii.

The Turnbells' son, Greg, 18, will enter Hawaii Loa College this fall.

Swem Library

Librarian William C. Pollard has recently been reappointed to a second five-year term as a member of the Virginia State Board for the Certification of Librarians. The three-member board is appointed by the governor. The board is empowered to prescribe and administer examinations to individuals seeking certificates as librarians.

A three-month project has recently been completed by a full-time summer employee in the Documents Department.

Louise Moore, a second-year student in the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, began compiling a list of serial publications early in June and completed this project late in August.

Government

Alan J. Ward reviewed The Scottish Political System by James G. Kellas for Perspective magazine, published in Washington, D.C.

The book presents for the first time "an account of what Kellas describes as a distinctive Scottish political system."

Mr. Kellas is Lecturer in Politics at the University of Glasgow.

Law School

Thomas H. Jolls delivered a series of lectures on "Corporate Trust Administration" at the University of Wisconsin Graduate School of Banking in August. In June he also attended the annual meeting of the American Society of Corporate Secretaries at White Sulphur Springs, and in August the annual meeting of the American Bar Association in Washington, D. C.

Scott C. Whitney, a member of the William and Mary Summer School of Law in England, was the subject of a lengthy interview in the Daily Express & Echo in Exeter, and of a television network program in Plymouth, on the subject of environmental law and legislation. Mr. Whitney also addressed a local group of business and legal representatives, on the subject of environmental law, in Exeter.

William F. Swindler has been reelected to a second term as a Virginia member of the Board of Directors of the American Judicature Society. He was featured in the July issue of the American Bar Association Journal for his work as chairman of Chief Justice Warren E. Burger's committee on Supreme Court history.

The tangible result of her work is a visual file which is accessible to any library user. This rotary file, located on a table in the documents area on the first floor, lists the title, library holdings, and call number of every serial publication received by Swem Library - a total of more than 1,800 titles. Included are publications issued by official agencies and departments of the United States, Great Britain, United Nations, and State of Virginia.

In addition to holdings in Swem Library, the visual file includes publications sent to three departmental libraries on campus - Physics, Geology, and Biology - as well as the Law Library, which operates independently. Serial publications shelved in Swem Library's reference collection and in the circulating collection are also included in the visual file.

Helen Bryhn, documents librarian, supervised the compilation of this file, which will be updated to show new serial publications received by the Documents Department.

Swem Library has been a depository for U.S. government documents since 1936.

CAMPUS PROFILE / Henry Hoar

To be retired and hard at work is no contradiction for Henry Hoar who enjoys the best of both worlds.

"My retirement has been a great blessing," says Mr. Hoar of the Special Collections Division of Swem Library. He explains that retirement has given him the opportunity to choose his activities - to do things he wanted to do, but didn't have time to do.

Mr. Hoar has been working at the Library since 1966 when he came to Williamsburg following a 38 year career with the management and sales staff of U.S. Steel. In 1970, when he retired for the second time, he volunteered his services to the College.

A California native, Mr. Hoar transferred from the University of California to Massachusetts Institute of Technology where he graduated in 1925. He spent the next 1-1/2 years travelling throughout the Mediterranean and Scandinavia on a sea cruise with the Raymond-Whitcomb Company, a travel company.

U.S. Steel placed him in Gary, Indiana in 1927, the first in a series of organization headquarters for Mr. Hoar. During his career with the company, he lived in New York City, Richmond, Baltimore, Saint Louis, and Pittsburgh, where he spent approximately 17 years.

Not one to let the phenomenon of retirement dull his enthusiasm, or what he calls his "curiosity" for living, Mr. Hoar volunteered his services in 1965 to the Carnegie Museum in Pittsburgh. He spent six months in the Section of Man division of the museum taking inventory.

When the Hoars moved to Williamsburg in 1966, Mr. Hoar again sought employment. At that time Swem Library had just opened and Mr. Hoar, who had always enjoyed reading and had a special interest in unusual books and bookplates, was hired by the College to organize the rare books collection. "The books had been scattered all over campus and badly needed dusting," said Mr. Hoar.

He has even added two books of his own to the collection. In 1932 he purchased one book bearing the bookplate of Lord Dunmore, and another with the bookplate of John Randolph of Roanoke, in a little bookstore in Richmond.

Mr. Hoar found his work at the Library so enjoyable that, in 1970, when it became time for him to retire again, he decided to stay on at the Library on a voluntary basis. He works four days a week, taking Thursdays off to travel to Richmond to visit his grandchildren.

Mr. Hoar's work includes a variety of tasks. One job has been to replace folders containing 18th century manuscripts.

Mr. Hoar is a newly appointed member of the Associates of Swem Library, an organization whose objective is to gain funds for the library.

Mr. Hoar and his wife, Maria, live on Indian Springs Road in Williamsburg. Mrs. Hoar is active in Bruton Parish Church and helps at the Williamsburg Day Care Center. They have three children. Tom, who lives in California, is studying for his doctorate at U.C.L.A. Both daughters, Cyane, who lives in Richmond, and Catherine, who lives in Charlotte, N.C., are graduates of Hollins College.

Two Positions Upgraded

The upgrading of two positions on campus was recently announced by the Personnel Office:

Edith Marsh, Financial Aid, from clerk-stenographer C to clerk-stenographer D, and Donald Diefendorf, Swem Library, from clerk C to clerk D.

Mrs. Marsh is a native of Akron, Mich., and formerly worked as secretary to the general sales manager of Dow Chemical Company in Midland, Mich.

She is the mother of four children and a member of the Williamsburg United Methodist Church.

A native of Summit, New Jersey, Mr. Diefendorf received the B.A. degree from Davis and Elkins College in Elkins, West Virginia, and the Master's degree in educational media from Boston University.

He taught at Washington and Lee High School in Westmoreland County prior to coming to the William and Mary campus.

Recent Appointments Announced

J. Hodges

John Hodges has been appointed Director of Residences, a newly created position, responsible to the Vice President for Business Affairs William J. Carter.

This position was established to more effectively administer matters pertaining to College housing.

Mr. Hodges is totally responsible for the management and administration of established policies pertaining to the assignment, use, and maintenance of all College housing facilities. These facilities consist of dormitory spaces for resident students, plus houses and apartments for members of the faculty and staff, located both on and off the College campus.

To effectively carry out these responsibilities, Mr. Hodges will work closely with the faculty and students, housing committees, the director of buildings and grounds, and the director of safety and security. Mr. Hodges will devote considerable time to developing and improving standards of housekeeping, maintenance, and a damage control program.

Mr. Hodges was professor of military science at the College from 1969-72.

He received his A.B. degree in history from the College in 1939.

He received a Regular Army commission in 1946, was promoted to the rank of Colonel in 1967, and retired from active military service on June 30, 1972.

Mr. Hodges is married to the former Elizabeth Ames of Holly Springs, Miss. They have two sons, John and Charles.

Charles W. Thomas has been appointed research director for the Tidewater Pilot City Program, administered by the College's Metropolitan Criminal Justice Center in Norfolk.

He was formerly an assistant professor of sociology at Virginia Commonwealth University and an associate at V.C.U.'s Survey Research Center.

A native of Oklahoma, he received his B.S. from McMurry College in 1966 and his M.A. and Ph.D. from the University of Kentucky in 1969 and 1971.

He served in the U.S. Air Force from 1961-65 and became a member of the V.C.U. faculty in

R. L. Weeks

Ross L. Weeks, director of information services, has been appointed chairman of the College's Bicentennial Celebration Committee.

The eleven-member committee, appointed by President Thomas A. Graves, Jr., will also include Bruce K. Goodwin, chairman, Department of Geology; Warren P. Heemann, director of College development; David K. Holmes, Department of Religion; James S. Kelly, assistant to the President; Richard K. Newman, Jr., chairman, Department of Fine Arts; Tim Sullivan, associate dean, Marshall-Wythe School of Law; Thaddeus Tate, director, Institute of Early American History and Culture; Gordon C. Vliet, executive secretary, Society of the Alumni; Nancy Hadlock, '76; and a freshman to be appointed this fall.

The committee has as its objective the identification in the public mind of the significant role of the College in early American history as the "Alma Mater of a Nation." The committee plans to emphasize both internally and externally the role of the College in continued service to the State and Nation.

In a report to the President, a planning committee had made a list of recommendations for the College's participation in the Bicentennial celebration, including scholarly publications, a lecture series, conferences, and special events and exhibits in the fields of theatre, art and music.

1969. He held a half-time research appointment in the Administration of Justice and Public Safety for V.C.U., in addition to serving as assistant professor of sociology from 1971-72.

Mr. Thomas has served as a publications consultant for works in criminology and deviant behavior for Choice, a review journal for college and university libraries since 1971. He has served as a consultant on several projects in the area of corrections for agencies in Volusia County, Fla.; the Virginia Probation and Parole Board Job Development Projects; and the Virginia Department of Welfare and Insti-

M. M. Kellner

Marc Menachem Kellner, currently visiting assistant professor of religious studies at the University of Virginia, has been appointed lecturer in Jewish studies in the Department of Religion for the academic year 1973-74.

His appointment is supported by a gift from the Jewish Federation of Newport News and is the second such lectureship from the Federation to the College. The first lectureship was awarded in 1970 to Mrs. Sylvia Scholnick of Williamsburg.

According to Marvin Mazur, president, and Charles Olshansky, executive director, the purpose of the lectureship is to "present to the students at the College an opportunity to acquire a basic understanding of Jewish life in America and to learn about the history of ancient Israel. We at the Federation are very happy to sponsor these courses to the students at William and Mary."

Mr. Kellner, who specializes in Jewish philosophy, social and political philosophy, and epistemology, received the B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees in philosophy at Washington University in St. Louis, in 1966, 1971, and 1973, respectively. He has done additional study at the Hebrew Theological College in Illinois, at Yeshivat Merkaz Harav in Jerusalem, and at Hebrew University, also in Jerusalem, where he received a scholarship and research grant.

Mr. Kellner is married and has one child.

tutions, Bureau of Planning and Program Development.

He is a member of the Society for the Study of Social Problems, the American Sociological Association, the American Society of Criminology, and the National Council on Crime and Delinquency. He has served as chairman for various sociological and correctional symposia and presented papers at sociological conferences and conventions. His published papers include "Correctional institutions as an enemy of corrections," in Federal Probation; "Social correlates of non-medical drug use," in Journal of Drug Issues; and "Prisonization in the inmate contraband culture," in Social Problems.

A scholar who is an authority on the United States in the nineteenth century and Civil War and Western history will hold the James Pinckney Harrison Chair of History for the 1973-74 academic year.

Don E. Fehrenbacher, professor of history at Coe College in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, will be a visiting professor in the Department of History. He will teach a course for undergraduate and graduate students entitled "The Presidency from Washington to Lincoln" in the fall and a graduate course on "American Politics from Jackson to Lincoln" in the spring.

Mr. Fehrenbacher received the A.B. from Cornell College in 1946; the A.M. and Ph.D. from the University of Chicago in 1948 and 1951; and the M.A. from Oxford in 1967. He was assistant professor of history at Coe College from 1949-53; and assistant professor from 1953-57, associate professor from 1957-62, and professor from 1962-66 at Stanford University. Professor of history at Coe College since 1966, he taught at the Stanford Campus in England during the 1972-73 academic year.

A Guggenheim fellow from 1959-60, he was Harmsworth professor of American history at Oxford from 1967-68. He served in the U.S.A.A.F. from 1943-45.

A member of the American Historical Association and the Organization of American History, he has published books including Prelude to Greatness; Chicago Giant; A Basic History of California; Abraham Lincoln: A Documentary Portrait; The Era of Expansion; and co-authored California, An Illustrated History and Politics and the Crisis of 1860.

The James Pinckney Harrison Chair of History was established at William and Mary in 1969 as a memorial to the late chairman of the board of the Universal Leaf Tobacco Company of Richmond, who died early in 1968 after 18 years as head of the firm. A native of Danville, Mr. Harrison had been known throughout the state for his civic and philanthropic activities and in 1946 was awarded the Legion of Merit.

The chair was established through a gift by Mr. Harrison's widow, Mrs. Nellie A. Meade Harrison of Charles City County, and their son, James Pinckney Harrison, Jr., a specialist in Asian history on the faculty of Hunter College, New York City.

The memorial chair was established to strengthen both the undergraduate and graduate programs in the history department which in 1967 expanded its offerings to the Ph.D. level.

William and Mary News!

Official Memoranda

Date: August 28, 1973

From: Department of Purchases and Stores
 To: All Deans, and Department Heads
 Subject: Establishment of College Office Furniture and Equipment Pool

A notice was published in the William and Mary News on May 22, 1973 concerning the subject above as follows:

In order to utilize effectively College office furniture and equipment, a supply pool of usable items not currently in use, i.e. desks, chairs, tables, book cases, filing cabinets and other office furnishings and equipment, will be established under the direction of the Department of Purchases and Stores.

An inventory of such items not presently in use is needed in order to get this program started. We would greatly appreciate receiving this information from each department head. Forms for the submission of such data are available at the College Warehouse.

Departments which require additional or replacement furniture should submit their requests on the regular warehouse requisition forms (W&M Form 57c) to the Department of Purchases and Stores. If no satisfactory item can be supplied from the pool the Purchasing Office will then take steps to procure new articles, provided the departmental budget can support the requisition.

Under this system the charge for items supplied from the pool will be minimal to cover the handling costs and/or the cost of refinishing when necessary.

It is our plan to make this use of an Office Furniture and Equipment Pool a continuing procedure to insure that the College makes the most effective use of its existing furniture and equipment without resorting to needless duplication of present unused inventories, which will be collected in Trinkle Hall until reassignment is made.

Very little response has been shown in turning in equipment. However, many calls have been received requesting the availability of such items. The lack of response is thought to be because the above notice in the William and Mary News did not fully explain the system for crediting the department for their office equipment or furniture turned into the pool. The system will allow the relinquishing department the full amount received for the item from the buying department by the Department of Purchases and Stores (less 10% handling/administrative and any repair costs) using interdepartmental transfer. The value of the item will be determined by the Purchasing Officer and the Storekeeper using the "fair market value" system.

An inventory of the articles available for re-issue indicating the condition and cost will be published in the W&M News once a month.

Any article not requisitioned after a reasonable time of advertisement will be declared surplus to the state surplus property officer in Richmond. Monies received from this type disposal will be returned/credited to the department in the same method explained above.

Your assistance is essential to the success of this program. We urge each department to review carefully the equipment and furniture (typewriters, adding machines, calculators, copiers, filing cabinets, desks, tables, bookcases, chairs, etc.) in their department and turn in unneeded articles.

As explained in the original news article, forms and assistance may be obtained by calling the Warehouse Storekeeper, Mr. Cliff Meyer, Ext. 381.

Personnel Bulletin

Job Openings

The following positions at the College are or will be vacant. Qualified employees who wish to be transferred to these positions may receive additional information at the College Personnel Office. The College of William and Mary is an Equal Opportunity Employer. Accordingly, women and minority employees are encouraged to apply for those positions for which they feel they are qualified.

Clerk-Stenographer B

Clerk-Typist B

Employee's Contribution to the VSRS

The recorded balance of contributions by each permanent full-time employee to the Virginia Supplemental Retirement System will be furnished semi-monthly with the employee's payroll check stub, effective with the pay period August 1-15, 1973. This new personnel service will enable each contributing employee to know on a semi-monthly basis just exactly how much money he or she has contributed to the VSRS towards his or her retirement.

If an employee does not agree with the recorded balance and can provide documentary evidence that the recorded balance is incorrect, such proof should be brought to the College Personnel Office so that a correction of the records (if appropriate) may be made.

Faculty ID Cards

The following provisions have been made by the Registrar's Office for faculty members of the College of William and Mary who desire identification cards. During the hours of 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on September 5 and 6, 1973, I.D. photos will be taken in Room 225, William and Mary Hall. There is no charge for I.D. photos and cards processed during this period.

Beginning Thursday, September 27, and each working Thursday thereafter, I.D. photos and cards for faculty members may be obtained by applying at the Registrar's Office between the hours of 1 p.m. and 5 p.m. There will be a $2.00 charge for this service.

Veterans Day

The 1973 General Assembly restored November 11 as the date for observing Veterans Day in the Commonwealth of Virginia.

This revision is furnished for information only. Holiday notices will continue to be promulgated during the calendar year as appropriate.

Special Programs Registration

For those who have not previously registered by mail, the Office of Special Programs at the Virginia Associated Research Campus in Newport News will be open Thursday evening, September 6 from 6 - 10 p.m. to accept registrations for fall courses.

Representatives of the Office will be available to provide information and individual counseling and assistance. The office is located at 12070 Jefferson Avenue, Newport News.

A similar registration for Special Programs courses will be conducted in Williamsburg on Monday evening, September 10 in the Campus Center, Room C from 6 to 10 p.m.

Over 40 non-credit short courses, seminars and conferences, covering a wide range of interests, will be offered for the first time to residents of the Williamsburg-Tidewater communities.

Evening and weekend programs are available in subjects of general interest as well as the more specialized fields of business and job related skills, family life, education and the professions. Many of the programs have been developed as the result of surveys of community interest.

Adults interested in improving employment skills, economizing on food budgets, or improving their knowledge in law, investments, chess, archeology, computerized operations or labor relations may find courses which fit their needs. Enrollment fees are nominal but vary with the length or type of program.

Many of the programs are scheduled at William and Mary's, VARC campus in Newport News and others will be held on the Williamsburg campus. A complete listing of the activities available and additional information may be obtained by calling the Office of Special Programs at VARC, 877-9231, Ext. 200.

Recycling Center

The recycling center is open on a seven day a week basis. It is still located on the west side of the Brown Building on the old Eastern State grounds. Bring clear, green, and brown glass (sorted), paper (bundled), and aluminum. If you're interested in helping in any way, and help is needed, call Mike Makulowich at 229-6504 (The Art Loft) during the day, or 229-2693.

Livingston Addresses New Students

Excerpts from a speech to new students by James C. Livingston, Dean of the Undergraduate Program, Monday, September 3.

J. C. Livingston

"I would like to take a few moments this morning to share with you some ideas about William and Mary's educational aims. In other words, why we are here. Our educational philosophy is what gives coherence to our life together on this campus; it is a philosophy which we hope that you, having chosen William and Mary, will make your own.

"We are charged with seeing that William and Mary makes possible greater equality of opportunity and recruits students from more diverse backgrounds. We are also committed to maintaining the highest possible educational standards. This means that William and Mary is a special kind of institution, with limited objectives. Because this is so, we neither can nor should attempt to meet all the manifold interests and concerns of the wider youth community. We cannot be what some colleges have attempted to become--a kind of 'Youth City.' Instead we are a community with a special purpose: viz., to provide you with a superior liberal education. Plato said: 'What is honored in the country is cultivated there.' At William and Mary we honor educational excellence and seek to cultivate it.

"When we speak of education we mean, of course, several things. First and foremost, we mean intellectual activity--the exploration of ideas, the acquisition of knowledge, the mastery of a discipline or subject field....

"But education is, of course, more than this. A well-informed and disciplined mind is not enough. Liberal education isn't concerned primarily with the accumulation of facts or the achievement of skills--for these things can count little in cultivating compassion, justice, loyalty or honor. The danger of college life is that you may come to feel that by increasing your knowledge and thinking great thoughts you have discharged your duty. While you are here you will encounter many worthwhile and even noble ideals to which you may assent with your mind, but which will not necessarily find expression in your deeds.

"A liberal education, on the contrary, seeks to educate the whole person. A wholly educated person is one who has not only acquired knowledge but has achieved a personal philosophy or set of values which can provide a kind of integration of mind, heart, and will, and give life a unified sense of meaning and purpose.

"We hope that you will see your years at William and Mary not only as an opportunity to exercise your intellect and increase your skills but also to evaluate critically the accepted opinions of our society and of your peers. We want you to form your own ideas and work out your own values. That is, we call upon you to develop independence. We hope that you will also learn to examine your own attitudes and feelings so that you can recognize when you are responding emotionally and when you are acting rationally--and where and when reason and emotion have their place.

"A liberal education is necessarily a broadening experience. Here your understanding, appreciation and sympathies should be extended. This should be the occasion for the forming and deepening of your moral commitment and a sensitizing of your social responsibility. We hope that you will leave William and Mary different persons from when you came here. The development of you as a responsible, sensitive, and fully alive person is what distinguishes a William and Mary education from the mere acquisition of knowledge....

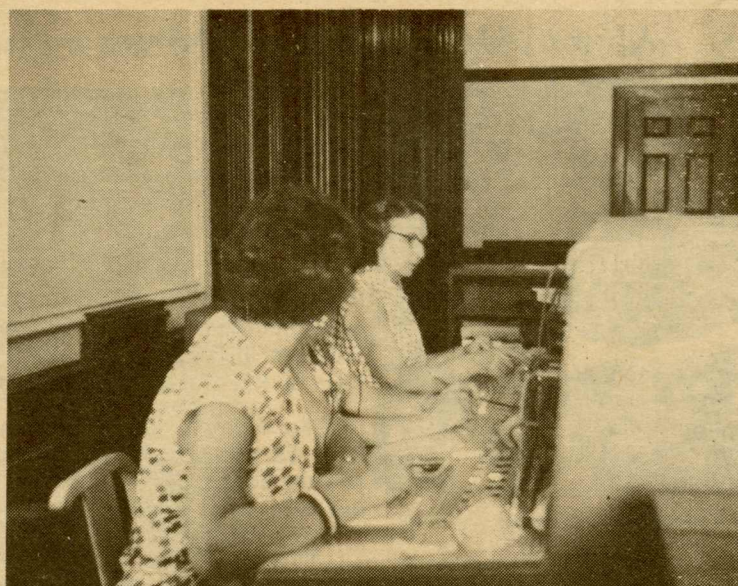

"Because you are adults, we expect to treat you as such. You have been given, perhaps for the first time, a great deal of freedom and self-determination in the living of your lives. Through the centuries philosophers have defined real freedom not as liberty to do as you please but as acting in accord with the greatest good. It is sometimes referred to as Justice. With social freedom comes responsibility and the obligation to be concerned not only with the rights but with the special needs of others with whom you live.

"An important part of your education will take place outside the classroom--on the campus, in the community, in your residence halls. We hope that you will initiate programs which will make your residence halls centers of creative education and places where cultural activities, such as art shows, discussions, and craft classes, are everyday events....

"I believe you will find that the program here at William and Mary offers a good balance of fundamentals and freedom of choice, of breadth and depth. It is an education that can lay the foundations for a creative philosophy of life, while allowing you to gain some mastery of a discipline and field.

"Plato said that education is 'learning to like the right things,' and William James defined the end of a liberal education as 'knowing a good man when you see one.' Simple as they sound, these are quite extraordinary aims.

"We hope, when you leave William and Mary in a few years time, that you will not only have acquired the knowledge requisite for making your way in today's world but that you will have come a long way in 'learning to like the right things' and 'in knowing a good man when you see one. This is the heart of our educational mission. We are pleased that you are with us and invite you to involve yourself fully in this, our common educational task."

New Switchboard in Operation

A new switchboard system has been installed in James Blair Hall in order to provide faster and more efficient service to the entire College community.

Dennis K. Cogle, assistant to the vice-president for business affairs, feels that the new system will offer numerous advantages over the old one. "Under the new system the number of available extensions is increased by 100, thus providing more flexibility in assigning numbers on campus, and the capacity for both incoming and outgoing calls is increased by 30 to 40 per cent." Also, the new switchboard will add to the speed of completing internal calls. "Hopefully, this should mean no more 'dead lines' which have been so troublesome in the past," he said.

Under the new system, when a call comes through from outside the College, the calling party will be able to hear an audible ring when the operator puts the call through to a campus extension, replacing the old system where the calling party could hear no ring at all, and could only conclude that the operator had forgotten him, observed Mr. Cogle.

The ringing on College extensions will now be automatic, or similiar to a home telephone, so that the operator does not control the ring once she has made the connection.

"The current system is an interim measure until a Centrex system is put into operation," noted Mr. Cogle. Such a system would drastically reduce the traffic through the central switchboard. Hopefully, the Centrex will be installed by July, 1976, he said. It is not possible now because of a lack of telephone company facilities.

The telephone company will continue to conduct periodical studies, as it has in the past, to determine problem areas and to make recommendations accordingly.

Alumni Quartet Makes Debut

Calvin Remsberg

A quartet of alumni, billed as The William and Mary Chamber Singers, is making its debut in the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C., September 3 and 4.

Marshall-Wythe Students Aid Va. Candidates

Several Marshall-Wythe School of Law students have been named to head the college campaigns of Henry Howell and Mills Godwin for governor.

Spearheading the Howell effort at William and Mary and in the Williamsburg area will be Robert Sichta, '75.

Craig E. Teller, a first year student, has been appointed as First District youth coordinator for the Howell campaign.

William Ryland "Buster" O'Brien, '74, was recently named to serve as college chairman for the Young Virginians for Godwin.

O'Brien, a former University of Richmond and Washington Redskins football star, will coordinate youth activities and make public appearances throughout Virginia.

A 1973-74 S.A. Film Series pass will cost $5 (9 cents per film) and covers the entire 55-film schedule. Passes may be purchased at Registration, Sept. 5 and 6; at the Campus Center Desk, Sept. 5-10; or at the door to any film. There will be no individual admission fee. William and Mary students, faculty, administrators, staff, and their families will be admitted only with a series pass.

All films will be shown in William and Mary Hall. The date of each film will be determined according to conflicts with the scheduling of events in the Hall. Most films will be shown at 7 p.m. (first film) and 9:30 p.m. (second film); however, some showings will be scheduled at later times. Cartoons, shorts, serials, and coming attractions are scheduled for each showing.

Please consult the William and Mary News Calendar of Events prior to each showing for correct time and date.

The group was invited to perform at the Center's Shakespeare Festival which will be held during September and which inaugurates the Center's third fall season of events.

Members of the quartet are Matthew Spady, '72, Chuckatuck; Lois Beckwith, '71, Earlysville; Carolyn White, '72, Chester; and Calvin Remsberg, '72, Arlington.

The William and Mary Chamber Singers will be heard locally at the Occasion for the Arts on October 14.

Mr. Remsberg, a member of the quartet, is Artistic Director of the Performing Arts Association of Alexandria. This fall he will direct several major productions in Alexandria and give two recitals. Earlier this year he appeared in a concert at the Kennedy Center with Roberta Flack, and premiered a new composition in a performance at American University.

Postage, Please!

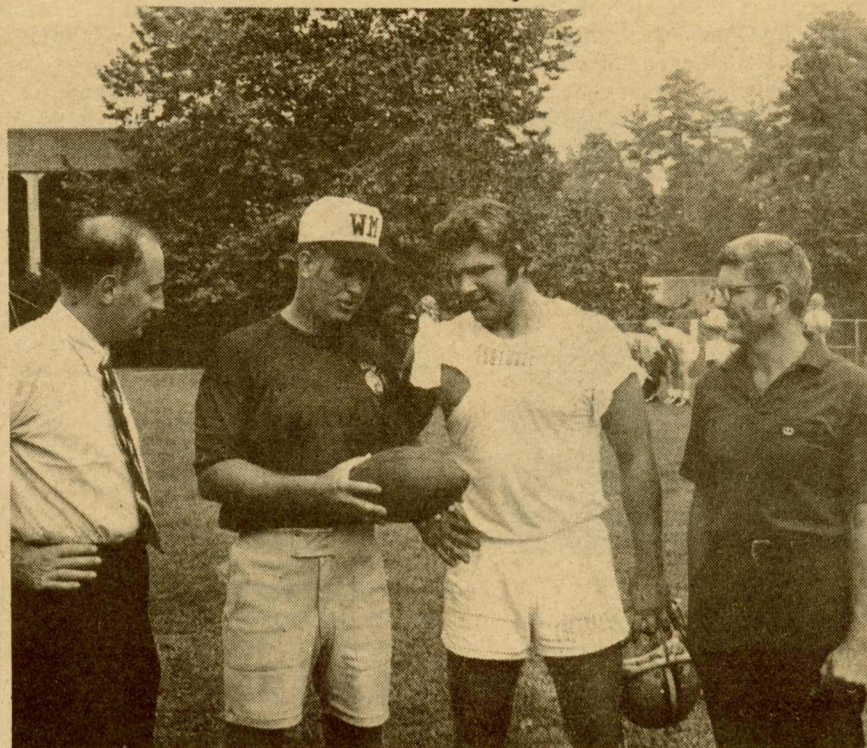

We're flattered to learn that some of our subscribers are mailing out copies of the William and Mary News to their friends off campus.

Individual mailings, however, must carry regular postage and cannot be sent under the College's bulk mailing rate.

The campus post office has received several bundles of papers which were returned because they carried no postage and no return address.

Thanks for spreading our fame, please continue - but don't forget the postage. - Ed.

The William and Mary Indians open their football season against VPI&SU in Blacksburg September 8 at 1:30 p.m. Games will be broadcast locally by WMBG and WBCI.

Books Selected for Study in Reading Program

The College-Wide Reading Program has chosen "Thinking Toward Creative Change" as its fifth annual theme for the academic year 1973-74.

Four books have been selected for an in-depth study next year. They are Freedom to Learn, by Carl Rogers; Conservation with Don Juan, by Carlos Casteneda; The New Industrial State, by John Kenneth Galbraith; and The Harrad Experiment, by Robert Rimmer.

The annual fall retreat has been scheduled the weekend of September 29 for faculty, staff and students.

Co-directors for the Program will be Robert Bohl, assistant professor of philosophy, and Amy Cuervo, a senior from North Palm Beach, Fla.

The College-Wide Reading Program, which is designed to involve the entire College community in a common intellectual undertaking, was initiated in 1968. Thus far it has explored

Institute Sponsors Three-Day Seminar

The Marshall-Wythe Institute for Research in the Social Sciences is presenting a three-day seminar for the Virginia Division of State Planning and Community Affairs.

The title of the seminar is "Land Use Plans and Policies." It will begin September 12 at the Lakeview Motor Lodge in Roanoke.

Partial funding for the program is provided under a Title VIII grant from HUD. Over forty planners and other officials from various state agencies, planning districts and local governments will attend.

Speakers will include Charles A. Christophersen, director, Division of State Planning and Community Affairs; S. Mason Carbaugh, commissioner, Virginia Department of Agriculture and Major working sessions of the seminar will be headed by members of the College faculty. John Donaldson, professor of law, will head a session on the legal framework underlying land use plans and policies; Gary Kreps, assistant professor of sociology, on sociological perspectives on land use; and Jack Edwards, associate professor of government, on a view of the political problems involved in land use decisions.

In addition, a session concerning planning tools will be presented by Mr. Fritz and Mr. Kreps.

Clyde Haulman, director, Marshall-Wythe Institute, will serve as seminar leader.

1973-74 William and Mary Theatre Season to Begin September 26

A scene from the San Francisco New Shakespeare Company's production "As You Like It." This performance will be presented in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall at 8:15 p.m., September 26.

Musical comedies, tragedy, and comedy will be sponsored by The William and Mary Theatre for its audiences during the 1973-74 season. The first performance will be the San Francisco New Shakespeare Company's production "As You Like It." This performance will be presented in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall at 8:15 p.m., September 26. The previously scheduled visiting production September 19 of "Ain't Supposed to Die a Natural Death," by Melvin Van Peebles has been cancelled by the New York Producer.

The first William and Mary Theatre production will be Stark Young's translation of "The Sea Gull" by Anton Chekhov. This production will be performed four nights, October 17, 18, 19, and 20. Chekhov's main purpose in this play was to show alterations of mood. In a letter to a friend Chekhov wrote: "Well, I have finished with the play. I began it forte and ended it pianissimo --contrary to all the rules of dramatic art." In 1898 "The Sea Gull" was successfully produced by the Moscow Art Theatre.

For the first time The William and Mary Theatre will present a work by the Spanish playwright, Federico Garcia Lorca. "The House of Bernarda Alba" will be given Tuesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, December 4, 6, 7, and 8. There will be no performance on Wednesday, December 5.

In the second semester of the 1973-74 season "Anything Goes" with book by Guy Bolton, P. G. Wodehouse, Howard Lindsey and Russell Crouse and music and lyrics by Cole Porter will be presented February 21, 22, and 23 and repeated performances will be given February 28 and March 1 and 2. Such songs as "It's Delovely," "All Through the Night," "You're the Top," "Take Me Back to Manhattan," and "Blow, Gabriel, Blow" sparkle this production.

"A simple-minded play about people who enjoy killing" is the way Kurt Vonnegut, Jr., describes his play "Happy Birthday, Wanda June." This will be the second professional production sponsored by The William and Mary Theatre and it will be presented only one night, Saturday, March 9. Judith Crist says, "Vonnegut's play has so many funny things to say and so many pertinent things to say that it is a worthwhile experience. There's just pleasure in 'Happy Birthday, Wanda June.'"

The Theatre closes its season with another author introduced to William and Mary audiences. For the first time, Ben Jonson, without any adaptation, will be presented by means of his play "The Alchemist." John Gassner describes this play as "a veritable whirligig of farcical humor, a huge canvas of the Elizabethan age drawn in screaming colors." This production will be given on April 17, 18, 19, and 20.

Season tickets will go on sale the first of September. Twelve dollar season tickets include the two professional productions plus the four William and Mary Theatre productions. Information about these season tickets may be obtained by calling Ext. 395.

Marlboro Festival - A Concert Series Feature

"Music from Marlboro" will be the second attraction on the William and Mary Concert Series this season. The performance is scheduled for October 30, Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

The William and Mary Concert Series for the 1973-74 season will present the Richmond Symphony with Jacques Houtmann conducting as its first performance for the year in Phi Beta Kappa Hall, October 23.

A Marlboro Festival performance - "Music from Marlboro" - October 30, will offer an opportunity to hear a wide variety of seldom-heard chamber music works, often combining piano, strings, woodwinds, and voice in a single concert.

Pilar Lorengar, soprano with Berlin's Deutsche Oper, will be heard February 14. Miss Lorengar has sung at La Scala, the Metropolitan Opera, Covent Garden, and many of Europe's most prestigious festivals.

The Goldovsky Grand Opera Theatre, enthusiastically received in an earlier series performance of "La Boheme," returns March 5 with two one-act operas, Mozart's "The Impresario," and Menotti's "The Old Maid and the Thief."

The season will close March 13 with a performance by The Harkness Ballet of New York.

Information concerning the series may be obtained from Warren J. Green at the Campus Center.

W&M Theatre Tryouts

Tryouts for the "Sea Gull" by Chekhov will be held in the Laboratory Theatre PBK Memorial Hall on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, September 5, 6, and 7 from 7-9:30 p.m. Everyone is encouraged to try out. Copies of the play are on desk reserve in Swem Library.
