Gutzon Collection on Exhibit

Adam Niemczyc's "Three Portraits"

Selections from the John Gutzon Collection of contemporary paintings and prints will be on exhibit at the College beginning Friday, October 19.

The exhibit of over thirty works on loan to the College for one month may be viewed from 1 to 5 p.m., Wednesday through Sunday, in the gallery of Andrews Hall. There is no admission charge.

Mr. Gutzon started collecting seriously in 1961 when he moved to London and began to travel extensively as a consultant in computers and automation. His collection focuses on Polish, Czechoslovakian, Hungarian and Rumanian artists whose works he collected because he felt they were "too little known and too little understood in the United States."

Since 1968, Mr. Gutzon has lived in Brussels and has continued to build his collection of works by young contemporary artists met through his travels. At present, the collection numbers over fifty paintings and about three hundred prints in various techniques. The selected works currently on display were recently exhibited at the Harvard Business School and at Middlebury College before coming to William and Mary.

Of the paintings to be shown at the College, Mr. Gutzon said, "it is with great sincerity that I hope they will be enjoyed by the students, faculty and visitors during the exhibition in Williamsburg."

Mr. Gutzon, who graduated from Rennsalaer Polytechnic Institute in 1951 with the B.S. degree in chemical engineering and from the Harvard Business School in 1956 with the M.B.A.

New Anthropology Journal

Anthropologists at William and Mary will edit a new international and interdisciplinary journal entitled Studies in Third World Societies.

The journal, devoted to Asia, Africa and Latin America, will be published and financed by Mouton Publishers, The Hague, Netherlands, and will be issued quarterly in February, May, August and November. The first edition is scheduled for publication in February, 1974.

This is the third scholarly journal at the College, undertaken in addition to The William and Mary Quarterly and The William and Mary Law Review.

The new journal will serve as a forum for third world scholars. It will provide a new medium for the publication of current research concerning third world societies.

Mario D. Zamora, visiting professor of anthropology at William and Mary and former professor of anthropology and dean of the University of the Philippines at Baguio, will be general editor. Mr. Zamora is a specialist on India and the Philippines.

Associate editors will be Nathan Altshuler, professor and chairman of the Department of Anthropology, and Vinson H. Sutlive, Jr., associate professor of anthropology. Mr. Altshuler is a specialist on Guyana and health programs in developing countries. Mr. Sutlive is a leading scholar of the culture of Sarawak, where he lived with his family for a number of years as a missionary anthropologist.

Invitations have been extended to 80 leading scholars from Asia, Africa, Latin America, Europe and the United States to serve on an editorial advisory board for the journal. A list of advisory board members is expected within the next few weeks.

Establishment of the new journal represents an extension of the anthropology program at the College in tropical studies.

"We are concerned with the rapid and vast changes taking place along the rural-urban dimension in the third world," said Mr. Altshuler, "and we have brought together a number of scholars with in-depth field experience in this area."

Mr. Zamora, in outlining the goals and objective of Studies in the Third World Societies, said, "we feel it is high time the so-called underdeveloped scholars forge a working partnership with their colleagues from the West in an atmosphere of free inquiry and pleasant and fruitful academic exchange."

degree, is currently the director of European marketing for the computer consulting firm Bonner & Moore Europe S.A. in Brussels.

The collection is appearing at the College as a result of the interest and enthusiastic support of President Graves. Arrangements for this exhibit were made by Miles Chappell, assistant professor of fine arts.

The first issue will focus on the Philippines and will include articles by Ben J. Wallace, professor of anthropology at Southern Methodist University who has carried out research among the Gaddangs of Nueva Vizcaya; Robert A. Polson, professor emeritus of rural sociology at Cornell University, for a number of years a Fulbright professor at Silliman University in the southern Philippines; and Thomas A. Kiefer, assistant professor of anthropology at Brown University, who is known for his field research among the Tausugs of Sulu.

Contributors will also include Francis C. Madigan, professor of sociology and director of the Institute for Mindanao Culture at Xavier University, Cagayan de Oro City, Misamis Oriental, Philippines; Stuart A. Schlegel, associate professor and chairman of the board of anthropology, University of California at Santa Cruz, a specialist on Tiruray culture; and Mr. Zamora, general editor of the journal.

1973 W&M Homecoming

The Trinidad Tripoli Steel Band will be creating exciting vibrations at William and Mary Hall in a concert Friday, Oct. 19, at 9 p.m., as part of this year's homecoming activities, scheduled to begin this weekend. The 22-member calypso band will play selections from the rock musical "Hair" as well as classics such as Khacaturian's "Sabre Dance."

On Saturday, Oct. 20, the annual homecoming parade will begin at 10 a.m. on Duke of Gloucester Street. The homecoming football game will feature William and Mary against Southern Conference rival Davidson at 2 p.m. on Cary Field. On Saturday night Newport News and Wild Kingdom will provide music for the homecoming dance, which begins at 8:30 p.m. in William and Mary Hall.

Tickets for the homecoming concert are available at William and Mary Hall, ticketron outlets and the Campus Center for $2 in advance and $3 at the door. Homecoming dance tickets will be $1.50 per person and tickets for both nights' events are available at $3 per person and $6 per couple at the Campus Center and William and Mary Hall.

Final voting for the 1973 homecoming queen will take place tomorrow and Thursday between noon and 7 p.m. in the Campus Center lobby. The queen and class princesses will be presented at the homecoming game.

The queen will be selected from senior princess finalists Lynn Adams, Sarah Beeler, Susan Early, Scottye Hedstrom, Jane Pulliam and Martha Savage.

Junior finalists are Christine McKechnie, Lynn Melzer, Kathleen Moriarty, Nancy Norman and Ann Sullivan; sophomore finalists are Sharon Hanson, Karen Larson, Vicki McKee and Ann Swaim; freshman finalists are Heidi Howell, Maureen Lawlor, Milita Love and April Wells.

In addition, reviews in the U.S. to be published are in Ethnohistory, Journal of Asian Studies, and Sociology and Social Research.

Business Administration

William Warren, associate professor, addressed the Peninsula Chapter of the Virginia Society of Professional Engineers on October 17. His topic was "Shall Engineers and Other Professionals Join Unions?"

Wagih Dafashy and James Smith, associate professors, and John Quinn, professor, participated in the Tenth Accounting Forum held October 1 at the McIntire School of Commerce of the University of Virginia in Charlottesville.

Chemistry

Cirila Djordjevic, professor, presented a paper, "Synthesis, Structure and Bonding Properties of Mixed-Ligand Di- and Tri-oxalato Niobates," at the National American Chemical Society Meeting, held in Chicago recently.

Education

S. Stuart Flanagan, associate professor, was one of the 25 teachers in the nation invited to attend the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics Leadership Conference held in Norfolk on October 12. The participants are assisting the Council in determining the role in which the Council can better serve elementary and secondary school mathematics teachers.

Jewel Lynn Delaune, assistant professor, has been notified that her name is to be included in the 1975-76 edition of Who's Who of American Women. Mrs. Delaune is the author of five books for children and for the past several years has written the article on Children's Literature for the World Book Encyclopedia Yearbook. She is also listed in The Writer's Directory and Something About the Author.

History

Don E. Fehrenbacher, James Pinckney Harrison Chair visiting professor, has been invited to give the 12th annual Robert Fortenbaugh honorary lecture at Gettysburg College in Gettysburg, Pa., November 19. The lecture, given every year on the anniversary of the Gettysburg Address, honors a long-time professor of history at Gettysburg College, who died in 1959. Mr. Fehrenbacher will speak on the subject of Lincoln and the Negro.

In addition, he will give an invited lecture on "Lincoln and the Weight of Responsibility" at the Abraham Lincoln Symposium held February 12-13, 1974, in Springfield, Ill.

Edward P. Crapol, associate professor, will attend the Seventh Annual History Forum, sponsored by Duquesne University, Pittsburgh, Pa., from October 31-November 2, at Chatham Center Motor Lodge. Mr. Crapol is scheduled to participate in a panel discussion entitled "Political Anti-Slavery."

Modern Languages

Six members of the department attending the annual Virginia Foreign Language Conference October 5 and 6 in Hampton were Paul Cloutier, Gary Smith, J. Allen Tyler and Anne Netick, assistant professors; Luke Martel, associate professor; and Robert H. Welch, instructor. The two topics discussed at the conference were "Enrollment Trend in Virginia Colleges" and "Counselling Foreign Language Student Majors and Non-Majors."

Mrs. Netick entertained the Russian Club at her home Sunday, October 7.

Philosophy

Visiting assistant professor F. Robert Bohl, Jr.'s paper, "On Sentences Referring," has been published in the current issue of Logique et Analyse.

Physics Colloquium

Gareth Guest, of the Oak Ridge National Laboratory, Oak Ridge, Tenn., will speak on "Plasma Confinement and Heating in Tokamaks" at the Physics Colloquium on Friday, October 19, at 4:30 p.m. in the William Small Physical Laboratory. Coffee will be served in the conference room at 4 p.m.

Religion

James C. Livingston, associate professor and dean of the undergraduate program, has recently published three articles:

"Matthew Arnold and His Critics on the Truth of Christianity: A Reappraisal for the Centenary of Literature and Dogma," Journal of the American Academy of Religion, XLI, September, 1973, 386-402.

"More Published Writings of Richard Holt Hutton," Victorian Periodicals Newsletter, Number 20, June 1973, 32.

Review Article of the Philosophy of Religion Series, ed. by John Hick, in The Thomist, Vol. XXXVII, April, 1973, No. 2, 396-404.

Thomas M. Finn, associate professor, has recently published an article on reference and bibliographical publishing in The Encyclopedia of Library and Information Science, ed. by Alan Kent and Harold Lancour. Marcel Dekker, 1972, ff.

Sociology

Gary A. Kreps, assistant professor, presented a paper at the annual meetings of the American Sociological Association entitled "Innovation in Crisis Relevant Organizations: A Model of the Process of Organizational Change." While at the meetings, Mr. Kreps also attended a meeting, as a member of the advisory council, of The Disaster Research Center, The Ohio State University.

In September, Jon S. Kerner, assistant professor, presented the topic of "Social Change and the Patient Role" at a meeting of the Williamsburg-James City County Medical Society.

Scheduling Procedure

All events which will take place on the College campus should be scheduled at the Campus Center in the office of director of student activities Kenneth Smith. A College calendar of events is maintained in the office.

Persons or organizations wishing to schedule events in the Campus Center should complete a form available in the office. Requests for the use of other campus facilities should be made in writing to Mr. Smith.

Mr. Smith requests that events be scheduled as far in advance as possible.

Faculty Club Events

The Faculty Club has planned a series of four cocktail parties to be held throughout the coming academic year. The first event, welcoming new faculty members as the Club's guests, will be held on Friday, October 26, from 5:30-7:30 p.m. at the Campus Center Ballroom. The Faculty Club has also extended complimentary membership to the emeriti faculty. Following the cocktail party, the Patrick Henry Inn will offer to Faculty Club members an all-you-can-eat shrimp buffet at the reduced rate of $3.45 per person.

Faculty Club dues are $5 for the year and entitle the member to purchase two tickets at the reduced rate of $1.50 per person for each party. Non-members will be assessed $3 per person. A non-drinking member and/or his spouse may purchase special non-alcoholic tickets at $.50 each.

Jesse Tarleton will serve as president of the Faculty Club, Richard Prosl as treasurer, Kevin Geoffroy and Alex Kallos as co-secretaries. Members of the Executive Board include Peter Derks, Trevor Hill, Robert Hunt, Anne Netick, and Martin Mathes.

Membership dues and ticket orders for the October cocktail party are now being received by Richard Prosl via the mail room.

National Honors Council Here

The College will host the Eighth Annual Conference of the National Collegiate Honors Council to be held Thursday, October 25 through Saturday, October 27, at the Williamsburg Conference Center.

The Council, which is the association of colleges and universities with honors programs, is being held in Williamsburg for the first time.

The conference theme is "The Nature of Excellence." Participants will be concerned with examining the question of the meaning of excellence - in students - in faculty - in teaching; what colleges are doing about it and what they should be doing.

Some 400 faculty members, students, and administrators from over 200 academic institutions are expected to attend the conference which will include panel discussions and 50 workshops over the three day period. One of the workshops will be devoted to live-learn programs on campuses. This will be moderated by Virgil McKenna, professor of psychology at William and Mary, and by students from Project Plus, the academic-residential program at the College. James C. Livingston, dean of the undergraduate program at William and Mary, will also moderate an open discussion to be held Friday afternoon.

Among the conference highlights will be a Thursday evening dinner at the student center at the College. George R. Healy, vice-president for academic affairs, will welcome conference participants on behalf of the College and will introduce keynote dinner speaker, Joseph Katz, professor of human development and director of research for human development and educational policy at the State University of New York at Stony Brook. Mr. Katz is the author or editor of many scholarly publications, including No Time for Youth, and Search for Relevance. His speech topic will be concerned with the problem of achieving excellence in the learning process in colleges and universities in general.

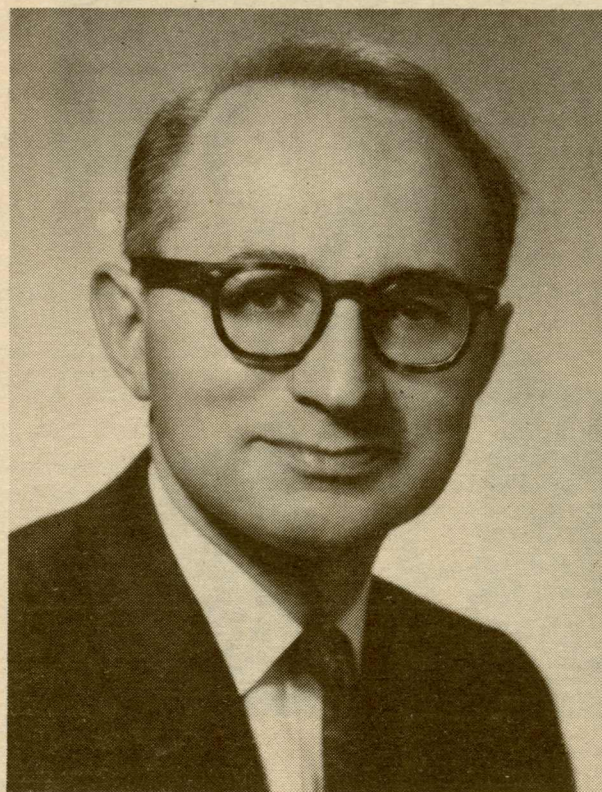

Music Scholarship Awarded

Karla Ann Matzke Hoffman is the winner of the Frances Van Der Meid Smith Music Scholarship for this current academic session, 1973-74. She studied piano for six years prior to coming to William and Mary, and her teachers were Francis Garziglia, Alice Takemoto, and Thomas Schumacher, who is now a professor of piano at the University of Maryland. Her present teacher at William and Mary is Yona Knorr.

During her secondary school career she was accompanist for her high school chorus and for two years she was pianist for the Maryland State High School band and orchestra tryouts. She was also a member in her high school Tri-"M" Modern Music Masters, an honorary society of students interested in music.

Mrs. Hoffman has taught private piano lessons on a limited schedule for approximately three years. She also enjoys playing the piano and teaching music at the Williamsburg Pre-School for Special Children and at the Williamsburg area Day Care Center. She is an accomplished organist and during the summer she has been organist for St. Bede's Church.

As further proof of her musical versatility, Mrs. Hoffman has sung in the junior high school chorus and

Keynote Speaker Joseph Katz

Myron J. Lunine, dean of Hampshire College, Amherst, Mass., and current president of the Council, will deliver the presidential address at a Friday luncheon in the Virginia Room of the Conference Center. He will take as his topic "Excellence, Honors, and the National Interest." Carlyle Beyer, professor of history at William and Mary, and vice-president and program chairman of this year's Council meeting, will become president of the Council at the last session of the conference.

Educators who have registered for the conference will be the active participants in the 50 workshops offered. A limited number of tickets to the Thursday dinner and Friday luncheon may be available from Mr. Beyer after general registration closes October 20.

senior high school choir and has also sung in the University of Maryland Chamber Chorus. She is a solo singer in the St. Bede's Church choir at the present time.

Mrs. Hoffman started her college studies at the University of Maryland and transferred to William and Mary in the middle of her sophomore year. She is now a member of Delta Omicron, women's honorary musical society at William and Mary, and will give her senior recital on April 28 at the Campus Center Ballroom. Her post-graduate plans are to attend the graduate school of a college or university with a concentration in either piano or composition.

The Frances Van Der Meid Smith Scholarship is made available to a rising junior or senior concentrating in music by Mrs. Arthur A. Smith, a resident of La Jolla, Calif., who has consistently supported the cause of good music.

President's Calendar

President Thomas A. Graves, Jr., will meet with alumni in the following cities: Cleveland, Oct. 23; Detroit, Oct. 24; and Chicago, Oct. 25.

He will attend the Phi Beta Kappa Associates dinner-meeting at the Harvard Club in New York City on Oct. 26.

Betts Elected to Board

James F. Betts of Richmond, president of The Life Insurance Company of Virginia, has been elected to the Board of Directors of the Sponsors of William and Mary's School of Business Administration.

Mr. Betts became a full-time life insurance agent at age 19. Following two years of military service, he followed up his previous night school studies at Washington University and William and Mary by returning to Washington University where he received his A.B. degree in 1957. In 1963 he became agency manager in Richmond for New England Mutual Life Insurance Company and by 1972 had become senior vice president of agency operations at New England's home office in Boston. Mr. Betts assumed his present position in September.

The Sponsors' Board, which assists the School of Business Administration with advice and private fund raising, consists of 19 members. Chairman is Thomas Roy Jones, former chairman of the board of Schlumberger, Limited; vice chairman is George M. Walters, executive vice president of Reynolds Metals Company. Dean Charles L. Quittmeyer of the School of Business Administration is secretary and treasurer.

Other members of the Board are: L. C. Ackerman, group vice president, Questor Corporation; William E. Allaun, Jr., president, Bulkeley Corporation; August A. Busch III, executive vice president, Anheuser-Busch, Inc.; Roy R. Charles, president, Crestwood Company; Duncan M. Cocke, senior vice president, Colonial Williamsburg Foundation; W. Brooks George, chairman of the board, House of Edgeworth; Henry Clay Hofheimer II, chairman of the board, Virginia Real Estate Investment Trust; Harrison Hubard, vice president, Virginia Electric and Power Company; Daniel C. Lewis, vice president, Chesapeake Corporation of Virginia; Raymond A. Mason, president, Legg, Mason & Company, Inc.; Walter G. Mason, chairman of the board, Mason & Lee, Inc.; C. Coleman McGehee, chairman of the board-elect, First & Merchants Corporation; B. M. Millner, partner, Marshall, Blalock, Garner & Millner; D. Hillsdon Ryan, chairman, Ryan Enterprises; and Hays T. Watkins, chairman of the board, The Chessie System, Inc.

Impromptu Football

The annual Administration-Bishop Madison Society football game will be held Sunday, Oct. 21, at 2 p.m. on the intramural playing field near William and Mary Hall.

The line-up for the administration is expected to include James C. Livingston, George R. Healy, Barry Fratkin, Les Hooker, Rex Tillotson, James S. Kelly, Carson Barnes, Warren Heemann, and others. Because the society is secret, names of Bishop Madison's men will not be announced prior to the game. Coach for the administration is Dean Olson.

The undefeated Bishop Madison team will be putting its 100-year record on the line. Last year's game ended in a 0-0 tie with the administration on the Bishop Madison team's 2 yard line.

Reading Program Meets

The College-Wide Reading Program will meet Thursday, Oct. 18, at 7:30 p.m. in Room D of the Campus Center.

Visiting Scholars to Lecture

Stephen Freeman

Two lecturers in the field of language will speak at the College next week as part of the current Visiting Scholars Lecture Series.

Stephen A. Freeman, director emeritus of the language schools at Middlebury College, will speak Monday, October 22, and John A. Searle, professor of philosophy at the University of California at Berkeley, is scheduled to speak Wednesday, October 24. Both lectures, to be held in the Campus Center theatre, are arranged in cooperation with the University Center in Virginia, Inc.

Mr. Freeman will speak on "Foreign Languages for the 1970's" at 8 p.m. on Monday. Mr. Searle's lecture, scheduled for 4 p.m. on Wednesday, is entitled, "The Uses of Language."

Mr. Freeman joined the Middlebury faculty in 1925 and retired in 1970 after 45 years of service to the College. During that time he served as acting president of Middlebury in 1941, 1942, and 1952, and was vice president from 1943-63. He became director of the language schools in 1946.

John Searle

One of the nation's pioneers in the teaching of foreign languages, Mr. Freeman was a consultant to the Institute of International Education on foreign study abroad for four years. He holds honorary degrees from the University of Vermont, Norwich University, McGill University, Dickinson College and Middlebury. The French Government made him a Commandeur a l'Ordre des Palmes Academiques and Chevalier de la Legion d'Honneur. He is the author of several books and articles on foreign language teaching.

Mr. Searle was a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford University where he received his doctorate. He joined the Berkeley faculty in 1959. A former member of several national commissions on student unrest, he has been moderator of "World Press," a weekly national educational television program on the Public Broadcasting System, since 1972.

Specializing in the philosophy of languages and social philosophy, Mr. Searle is the author of three books entitled Speech Acts, An Essay in the Philosophy of Language, The Campus War, and The Philosophy of Language.

Ferguson Seminar Set

The Ferguson Seminar in Publishing, a biennial event given in honor of the late William Cross Ferguson, a 1916 alumnus of the College, will be held Thursday and Friday, November 15-16.

The 1973 seminar is designed to introduce upperlevel college students from across Virginia to the general nature of book publishing and to the prospects for a career in book editing, design and production, and sales and marketing. Norman S. Fiering, lecturer in history, is director of the seminar.

Northrop Frye, professor at the University of Toronto, will give the opening lecture Thursday at 8:15 p.m. in the Campus Center Ballroom. The distinguished author and critic will speak on "The Renaissance of Books." The morning lecture is open to the public.

The session on Friday, entitled "Varieties of Publishing," at 9-11:45 a.m., Campus Center, Rooms A, B, C, and D, will include: Pace Barnes, senior editor, General Books, Holt, Rinehart and Winston, Inc.; Ronald Busch, vice president of marketing and corporate development, Bantam Books, Inc.; David Horne, director, The University Press of New England; and Bertrand W. Lummus, editor, College and Professional Division, Macmillan Publishing Co., Inc.

Friday afternoon sessions include: "The Work of the Copy Editor," Campus Center, Rooms A, B, C, and D, 1:15-2 p.m., Catharine Seybold, senior manuscript editor, The University of Chicago Press; and "Production and Design," 2-3:30 p.m., Joyce Kachergis, production and design manager, The University of North Carolina Press, and Richard Stinely, assistant director of publications, Colonial Williamsburg Foundation.

The final session Friday, a panel discussion on "A Career in Publishing," will be held in the Sit 'N Bull Room from 3:45-5 p.m. Panelists include: Diggory Venn, director, Radcliffe College Publishing Procedures Course, and the consultants from the morning and afternoon sessions.

In conjunction with the seminar, Swem Library will exhibit the winning books of the 1972 Southern and Midwestern Book Competition, a collection of approximately 40 books chosen for excellence in design and typography. The exhibit will be open from Thursday, November 1, to Friday, November 30 (8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday and 9 a.m.-1 p.m. Saturday).

William and Mary students who are interested in attending must register for the Seminar. Fifty applicants will be accepted. Applications, available at the Circulation Desk in Swem Library, will be accepted on a first-come, first-served basis.

W&M News Mailing

It has recently come to the attention of the News Office that all permanent employees are not receiving copies of the William and Mary News.

A system is being developed to insure that a copy of the News will be sent to each permanent employee's mailing address. However, it is incumbent on each employee to make certain that the Payroll Office is being informed of his current mailing address. This is not only for mailing the William and Mary News but for essential tax information as well.

Accordingly, it is requested that each permanent employee not currently receiving the News at his mailing address, advise the Payroll Office in writing of his current mailing address.

Thirteen 1974-75 Scholarships to Africa Available

For the 1974-75 academic year, approximately 13 scholarships will be available for graduate students and young professionals to study or do research for one academic year in one of the following countries: Algeria, Cameroon, Ethiopia, Ghana, Liberia, Nigeria, or Tanzania. In addition, grants may also be available to Kenya, Morocco and Tunisia.

Ten grants will be provided under the Fulbright-Hays Program of the Department of State, and three will be offered under a program sponsored by the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation. All grants include maintenance for one academic year for the grantee, round-trip international transportation, and health and accident insurance.

Candidates may apply to one country only, but may list two alternate country choices. A separate Statement of Proposed Study is required for each country listed.

Applicants must hold a bachelor's degree or its equivalent by the beginning date of the grant, must be U.S. citizens at the time of application, where applicable have language proficiency sufficient to carry out the proposed project, and must be in good health.

Information and application forms for enrolled students may be obtained from Fulbright Program Adviser Gary A. Smith, Washington 106B, Ext. 424. The deadline for receipt of completed applications in Mr. Smith's office is November 5.

Students to Sing Operas

The Peninsula Civic Opera Company will use considerable campus talent this spring in a performance of two operas slated for March 1 and 2 at the Bethel High School, Hampton.

Patricia Little, wife of law student Robert Little, will sing the title role in "The Secret of Susanna" by Wolf-Ferrari. Mrs. Little is a music teacher at Walsingham Academy in Williamsburg.

The other two roles in the opera, Count Gil and Sante, will be played by Donald Zuckerman, a sophomore from Winchester, and Frank Hankey, also a sophomore, from McLean. The two will interchange the roles.

Virginia Nichols, mezzo soprano, a senior from Pittsburgh, will portray Mama Lucia in Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana."

All singers are students of Robin Roark of the Music Department.

PERSONNEL BULLETIN

Change in Payday

From: Richard D. Cilley, M.D.
Director of Student Health Service

To: Members of the Student Body

From perusal of the medical history admission forms, the medical personnel at the Student Health Center have noted that some students have reported that they have had neither mumps nor rubella (three-day measles, German measles, light measles) nor the vaccine for either disease.

Mumps is a communicable disease usually contracted in childhood, in which case a person usually has permanent immunity. However, one may miss mumps in childhood but become infected as an adult in which case one may be quite ill. The mumps vaccine produces good immunity. The Student Health Service recommends that if the student has had neither mumps nor the mumps vaccine, the student should consult his or her family physician for mumps vaccination.

Rubella is not usually a serious communicable disease in children or adults. However, if a woman in her first three months of pregnancy contracts rubella, the baby may be born with malformations. Unfortunately, the vaccine may cause malformations, too, if given to a woman just previous to or during the first three months of pregnancy. Rubella can be confused easily with many skin rashes and, therefore, is diagnosed with difficulty. For this reason it is recommended that all female students, whether or not they have had rubella and if they have not already been vaccinated against rubella, consult their family physicians regarding the advisability of rubella vaccination.

These vaccinations can be given at the Student Health Center if one so elects but will have to be purchased by the student on prescription at a drug store before being administered here.

October 19, 1973, had been designated as the date for distribution of paychecks because October 22, 1973, was a legal holiday, Veteran's Day. Since the pay schedule for 1973 was distributed on November 9, 1972, November 11, 1973, has been declared the legal holiday for the celebration of Veteran's Day by Chapter 421 of the Acts of Assembly, 1973. Although October 22 would be the normal date to distribute paychecks, it has been decided that paychecks will be distributed October 19, 1973, in accordance with the prearranged pay schedule.

November Holidays

In November, there are three legal holidays for permanent classified State employees, these being General Election Day, Veteran's Day, and Thanksgiving Day.

Election Day falls on Tuesday, November 6, Veterans Day on Sunday, November 11, and Thanksgiving Day on Thursday, November 22.

Veteran's Day, November 11, is a legal holiday for permanent classified employees. Since this date falls on Sunday in 1973, the holiday will be observed on Monday, November 12, 1973.

In accordance with previous holiday notices, Election Day and Veteran's Day should be given, as far as practicable, to members of each department. It is recognized that certain services must be maintained in the various departments, but these services should be furnished on the holiday by a minimum number of employees. The responsibility for determining the number of employees rests with the department head. It is not a decision to be made by the employees of the department.

Following our custom of past years, all administrative offices of the College will be closed on Thursday, November 22, in observance of Thanksgiving Day. A leave slip is not required for the taking of this day as a holiday.

A leave slip should be submitted to the Personnel Office for any permanent classified employee who takes leave on November 6 or November 12. Permanent classified employees who are required to work on either of these holidays should take the compensatory leave earned as soon thereafter as possible in order to avoid excessive leave accumulation. Hourly employees who work on either of these three holidays will be paid at their regular hourly rate.

Job Opening

The following position at the College is or will be vacant. Qualified employees who wish to be transferred to this position may receive additional information at the College Personnel Office. The College of William and Mary is an Equal Opportunity Employer. Accordingly, women and minority employees are encouraged to apply for those positions for which they feel they are qualified.

Placement Interviews

A representative from each of the following graduate schools will be in the Office of Placement on the dates indicated. Students wishing to interview with these schools should call Ext. 518 or 519. Students may sign up for these interviews two weeks prior to the date the representative will be on campus:

October 16	New York University School of Business
October 19	Vanderbilt University School of Law
October 19	University of Virginia School of Law
October 26	University of Richmond, T. C. Williams School of Law
November 2	Duke University Medical Center
November 5	Marshall-Wythe School of Law
November 8	Council for Opportunity in Graduate Management Education (COGME)
November 8	Drew University Graduate Schools
November 28	Babson College
November 30	Institute of Paralegal Training
December 11	Wake Forest University, Babcock School of Business

OFFICE OF DEVELOPMENT

Instructors and Assistant Professors: Opportunities Abroad 1974-75, Institute of International Studies

Teaching: Interchange and one-way positions in Belgium/Luxembourg, Denmark, Greece, Indonesia, Iran, Korea, Laos, United Kingdom, Republic of Vietnam.

Summer Seminars: In Germany for teachers of the German language; in Italy for teachers of classics

Details and applications: Mrs. Neiman, Ext. 519

Water Resources Research

In its Fiscal Year 1975 program, the Office of Water Resources Research proposes to emphasize support of research in several areas, including the solving of energy and land use problems. To allow sufficient time prior to July 1, 1974, for proposal review, contract negotiations, and transmittal to Congress for a 60-day period as required by the Act, it is requested that formal proposals be submitted so as to reach the Office of Water Resources Research by January 11, 1974 (special proposals may be submitted at any time, but primary consideration for FY 1975 support will be given to those received by this date).

The Diuguid Fellowships--A Developmental Program for Mature Women

The Program: This program is designed for women whose career and professional goals have been deferred because of marriage or other reasons. The fellowships make funds available for one year of intensive retraining or concentrated study on a full-time or part-time basis.

The fellowships are available to women who can demonstrate that a year of formal study, internship, or independent effort can benefit them directly in pursuit of significant careers. The program followed need not lead to an academic degree.

Any woman who meets the following qualifications may apply:
1. must be over 21 years of age and have had an interruption in her career. 2. must demonstrate financial need of the assistance. 3. must be a resident of the Southern region of the United States.

Range of Stipends: Stipends will range from $3,600 to $6,000 a year, depending upon the needs of the recipient. The stipends are made directly to the recipients.

Fellowships are for one year and are not renewable or extendable.

Graduate Fellowships for Black Students--Southern Fellowships Fund

Graduate students, and black students in their senior year who wish to pursue postbaccalaureate degrees that will lead to the M.Ed., the M.B.A., the M.L.S., or the D.Ed. are eligible to apply. Applicants must be committed to careers in higher education.

For all other disciplines in the Arts and Sciences leading to Ph.D.'s, persons may apply to the National Fellowships Fund at the same address.

Stipends: Fellowships for the first year of graduate study will carry a stipend of $2,800 on a 12-month basis, with supplements; fellowships for the second year, $3,100 on a 12-month basis with supplements. Fellowships for the third year of graduate study and research, and for the dissertation year will carry stipends ranging from $3,500 to $5,100 on a 12-month basis, with supplements.

Postdoctoral Resident Staff Fellowships--National Academy of Sciences

Requirements: Ph.D. degree and five to ten years of experience in any of the fields of natural sciences, social and behavioral sciences that are encompassed by the work of the Academy complex.

Prospective applicants should contact Robert W. Johnston, associate executive officer, National Academy of Sciences, 2101 Constitution Ave., Washington, D.C. 20418.

Deadline: December 15, 1973.

National Research Council - 1974 Research Associateship Program

These programs provide opportunities for research in selected federal organizations for postdoctoral scientists. Through the Associateship program the well-equipped laboratories are made more widely available to the scientific community, and scientists who are appointed make significant contributions to the general research effort of the laboratories.

Associateships are open to recent recipients of the doctorate and in some cases to senior investigators. Certain programs are also open to non-U.S. citizens.

Associateships are open in the following fields: Chemical, Engineering, Mathematical and Physical Sciences, Biological, Medical, and Behavioral Sciences, Atmospheric, Earth, and Space Sciences

Deadline: January 15, 1974; NASA: January 15, May 15, September 15

Information on specific laboratory openings is available in Mrs. Neiman's office, Ext. 519.

National Endowment for the Humanities

Research Grants: Projects involving original thought, basic research, and editing in the humanities and in those aspects of the social sciences that have humanistic content. Of particular interest: projects that relate to major issues of contemporary concern and contribute to the forthcoming Bicentennial.

Deadline: for projects beginning after August 1, 1974, November 19, 1973; for projects beginning after January 1, 1975, May 6, 1974

Individuals who have an institutional affiliation must apply through their institutions.

Youth Grants: Supports humanities projects developed and conducted by students which have a specific purpose, clearly defined scope and identifiable end product.

Projects may concern the design or conduct of an education program, study or research of a specific problem, or activities aimed at disseminating humanistic knowledge. Individual awards are normally under $2,000 while grants for new projects may range up to $10,000.

Deadline: November 15, 1973

National Science Foundation

Secondary School Student Science Training Program: Summer science programs at academic institutions in which outstanding secondary school students are brought into direct contact with teachers and research scientists who can provide them with educational experiences in science and mathematics beyond those available in high school.
Deadline: November 16, 1973. (May be extended since guidelines are not yet available.)

Student Originated Studies Program: Projects which are wholly student originated and student managed. The program aims to provide independent, self-directed study, and to demonstrate the effectiveness of cooperative studies as an adjunct to or replacement for formal course work.

Previously addressed to undergraduates, will now be extended to groups of graduate students. The general requirement is that studies be conducted by multidisciplinary groups and be concerned with problems of the physical, biological, or social environment.

Deadline: November 30, 1973

Regional Research Conferences in Mathematical Sciences:

About a dozen five-day conferences will be held in the summer or fall, 1974: to stimulate and broaden mathematical research activity, particularly in regions of the country where such activity needs further development. For further information regarding proposals write: Conference Board of the Mathematical Sciences, 834 Joseph Henry Building, 2100 Pennsylvania Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20037

Deadline: December 1, 1973

American Council of Learned Societies

Asian Research Grants: grants in areas of Chinese civilization prior to 1910 and South Asia relating to Bangladesh, Ceylon, India, Nepal, and Pakistan. Awards rarely exceed $10,000 and may range from short periods of time to at least 6 months of uninterrupted research. For applications write: Office of Fellowships and Grants, ACLS, 345 East 46th St., New York, N.Y. 10017
Deadline: December 3, 1973

Study Fellowships: To assist young humanistic scholars to enlarge their range of knowledge by studies inside or outside the humanities in disciplines other than their present specialization and which normally will employ a different methodology. Social and natural scientists who wish to study a humanistic discipline are also eligible. Age limit: normally 36; preference to those who have taught two to three years after Ph.D.
Stipend: will not exceed $10,000; Time: 6 months to 1 year.

Deadline: November 1, 1973 (Address above.)

Basic Grants Program at William and Mary

William and Mary is participating in a new financial aid program for students this year.

The Basic Educational Opportunity Grant or Basic Grants program is available to full-time freshmen for the current academic year. It is sponsored by the Office of Education of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

For the 1973-74 year $122 million is available to assist an estimated 425,000 students. The maximum award is $452.

The amount of each student's expected family contribution and the amount of his award is determined on the basis of a formula developed by the Office of Education and applied consistently to all students who apply for a Basic Grant.

Basic Grants, unlike loans, do not have to be repaid and may be used to cover a student's tuition, fees, room, board, books, supplies and miscellaneous expenses. They are the "floor" of the assistance package available to eligible students. Other forms of student aid may be provided in addition to these grants.

At William and Mary the Basic Grants program has been added to the three currently existing student financial aid programs--the National Direct Student Loan, the Educational Opportunity Grant and the Work-Study programs.

The Parents' Confidential Statement of the College Scholarship Service is used by the College in its consideration of the financial need of students applying for all financial aid programs with the exception of the Basic Grants program, according to E. Leon Looney, director of student aid. Basic Grants applicants must complete a similar form provided by the American College Testing Service.

Basic Grants forms were mailed this year to William and Mary freshmen who had completed PCS forms and who appeared to be eligible for the grants. Of the 56 applications received, 28 have been completed and 28 are pending. The average award made so far is $250. Grants will be awarded in semester installments, according to Mr. Looney.

The Basic Grants program is operating on a reduction scale this year because it was not fully financed by Congress. When the appropriation is sufficient to fully-fund the program, students will receive grant assistance of $1400, less the amount the family can be expected to contribute for the postsecondary education of the student. No grant can, however, be more than one-half of a student's cost of attendance. The amount the family is expected to contribute may not exceed $1,150.

The new Basic Grants program is designed to assist eligible students planning to enter colleges, universities, community colleges, approved vocational and technical schools and hospital schools of nursing.

Applications were mailed to all high school seniors this year and are available from financial aid officers at institutions of postsecondary education, high school guidance counselors, post offices, State employment offices and county agricultural extension agents.

1973-74 Concert Series

Conductor Jacques Houtmann

The William and Mary Concert Series will open its season Tuesday, Oct. 23, with the Richmond Symphony, Jacques Houtmann conducting.

The concert will be held in Phi Beta Kappa Hall at 8:15 p.m. This is the first visit of the orchestra to Williamsburg.

The program Tuesday evening will include Gustav Mahler's "Symphony No. 5 in C-sharp Minor," and the overture to "Euryanthe," by C. M. von Weber. There will be no intermission.

Under the direction of Mr. Houtmann, who has served as conductor for orchestras worldwide, the Richmond Symphony has come to be considered one of the finest metropolitan symphony orchestras in the country. A native of France, Mr. Houtmann has been cited for his extraordinary talent, spirit, versatility, radiance and communicative enthusiasm. Since he assumed the Symphony's music directorship in 1971, the organization has continually expanded to include a 200-voice chorus, and a full-time, fully professional 24-member Richmond Sinfonia.

Other Concert Series offerings this season will include "Music from Marlboro," Tuesday, October 30, which will include a variety of seldom heard chamber music works, often combining piano, strings, woodwinds, and voice in a single concert.

Pilar Lorengar, soprano with Berlin's Deutsche Oper, will be heard Feb. 14. Miss Lorengar has sung at La Scala, the Metropolitan Opera, Covent Garden, and many of Europe's most prestigious festivals.

The Goldovsky Grand Opera Theatre, enthusiastically received in an earlier series performance of "La Boheme," returns March 5 with two one-act operas, Mozart's "The Impresario," and Menotti's "The Old Maid and the Thief."

The season will close March 13 with a performance by The Harkness Ballet of New York.

Details concerning the series should be addressed to Warren J. Green of the concert committee at the Campus Center.

Biology Lab Students Use Audio-Tutorial System

Biology 101 students are trying out a new approach to a standard course requirement - the lab.

The Biology Department recently obtained three carrels from Audio-Tutorial Systems with the aid of a grant from the National Science Foundation.

The tutorial modules, located on the third floor of Millington Hall, are self-contained units which include slides of weekly laboratory exercises and are equipped with a set of headphones through which students listen to tapes which accompany the slides.

Some 45 students from the introductory biology course are using the audio-tutorial system this semester on an experimental basis, according to Martin C. Mathes of the Biology Department. He and Marvin Freadman, a second year biology graduate student, are working with the students using the new procedure.

"These students are using the same laboratory manual as those in the regular lab sessions and they will be evaluated on tests common to all biology 101 students so that we can determine the success of this approach," said Mr. Mathes. "We are using the same format as in the regular labs, only the approach is different," he added.

"The audio-tutorial unit allows for a variety of experiences," noted Mr. Mathes. To operate the unit, one simply selects the proper cassette and slides corresponding to the lab exercise, and slides appear on a screen in the unit along with tape - an audio which explains the slides in great detail for the student.

"Rather than order the slides, we prepare our own materials which are tailored to our needs and emphasis," he said. "The advantages of this kind of system," Mr. Mathes explained, "are that a student may go at his own pace and work out his own scheduling." By pressing a button a student may stop the procedure or back up to review a slide again and hear the explanation. He may also review past lab exercises if he wishes just by selecting the proper cassette. Discussion sessions are also taped and may be reviewed using the carrel system.

Students sign up to use the carrels on a time sheet posted outside the room in which the units are located. The self locking units are available daily excepting Fridays when the week's labs are set up. There are two demonstration tables adjacent to the carrels equipped with microscopes, demonstrations and equipment for laboratory manipulations. Students receive taped instructions which provide an opportunity to conduct selected experiments.

The entire lab exercise should take a reduced amount of time, said Mr. Mathes. "We are not limited to only one approach by using these units, because we do have the demonstration tables set up and students will have approximately three regularly scheduled labs during the semester."

"Although one may lose the more personal faculty-student contact with this kind of arrangement, we are trying to compensate for this fact," he said. "A special schedule of office hours has been set aside for these students. Individual consultation is available Wednesday and Thursday afternoons.

"Discussion groups on the week's lab are held on Thursdays. At this time students may ask questions concerning the week's lab and quizzes and demonstrations will be given. Also each week students will be given work-study questions to answer in order to help us evaluate this new laboratory approach," said Mr. Mathes.

"We look on this as an experimental program," said Mr. Mathes. "In the future, depending on the success of the approach, we may purchase additional carrels containing the audio-tutorial units and it may be an option for all biology 101 students."
