Business Execs Aid Students By Telephone

John W. Fisher, President
Ball Corporation

John W. Fisher, president of the Ball Corporation, will discuss "Corporate Responsibility to Society" with students on Thursday, February 7.

He will also comment on legislation concerning non-returnable containers currently before the Virginia General Assembly.

Mr. Fisher isn't planning a trip to Williamsburg, though. He'll make his class appointment via the telephone, leading off a list of sixteen top executives who will participate in a course on business policy in the College's School of Business Administration.

Other speakers during the semester will include Donald E. Procknow, president of Western Electric Corporation; Robert B. Pamplin, chairman of the Georgia-Pacific Corporation; K. A. Randall, president of United Virginia Bankshares, Inc.; W. L. Miron, president of Group Operations, The Bendix Corporation; Werner C. Brown, president of Hercules, Incorporated; John W. Simpson, president, Power Systems Company, Westinghouse Electric Corporation; Drummond C. Bell, president, National Distillers and Chemical Corporation; George Weissman, vice-chairman, Philip Morris, Inc.; Henry C. Goodrich, president, Inland Container Corporation; E. N. Cole, president, General Motors Corporation; Lee L. Morgan, president, Caterpillar Tractor Company; John E. Kircher, president, Eastern Hemisphere Petroleum Division, Continental Oil Company; R. F. Shaffer, president, The Greyhound Corporation; E. F. Curtis, president, John Deere and Company; and B. B. Lane, chairman of the executive committee of The Lane Company.

Bicentennial Celebration Inaugurated

Shannon to Speak at Charter Day Convocation

Edgar F. Shannon, president of the University of Virginia, will be speaker for Charter Day, 1974, which will mark the College's 281st anniversary and the inauguration of its bicentennial celebration.

Mr. Shannon will speak at ceremonies to be held at 11 a.m., Saturday, February 9, in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

The College will confer upon Mr. Shannon the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters for his distinguished career in scholarship and teaching.

To identify in the public mind the significant role of the College in early American history as the "Alma Mater of a Nation" will be the aim of the Bicentennial Committee of the College appointed by President Thomas A. Graves, Jr., and headed by Ross L. Weeks, Jr., director of information services. The committee has made recommendations for scholarly publications, a lecture series, conferences and special events and exhibits in the fields of theatre, art and music as part of the College's participation in the Bicentennial celebration.

Affirmative Action Forum

The Advisory Committee on Affirmative Action cordially invites members of the college community--faculty, staff, employees and students--to an Open Forum on Affirmative Action, Monday, February 4, 1974 at 8 p.m. in the Botetourt Theater, Swem Library. Mr. David McCloud, the Governor's coordinator for Equal Employment Opportunity, has accepted the Committee's invitation to chair the Forum.

Chemistry Department Gets $10,000 Award

The Chemistry Department recently received a $10,000 contribution from the Dow-Badische Company of Williamsburg toward the purchase of new equipment for the Department.

The contribution, made through the office of J. T. Faubion, president of the company, is in support of the anticipated needs of the Chemistry Department and the upgrading of equipment and purchase of new instruments for the new Chemistry Building scheduled for completion in 1975.

Charter Day marks for the College the 281st anniversary of the receipt of the College's charter from King William and Queen Mary of England in 1693, establishing it as the nation's second oldest college in the American colonies.

The first meeting of the newly established President's Council will be held Friday, February 8, and members will be special guests at the Charter Day convocation. The Council will also host a coffee for invited guests to Charter Day Saturday morning.

College Collection Art Exhibit to Open Feb. 9

Selected works from the College collection will go on display at Andrews Hall, February 9 through March 3.

The exhibit will be open to the public Wednesdays through Sundays from 1 - 5 p.m.

The display will include paintings, sculpture and prints from the Alice Aberdeen, Jean Outland Chrysler, A. S. Sullivan and Page Collections. The forty odd exhibits will include a portrait of William Short, 1759-1849, by Rembrandt Peale, the gift of Mary Churchill Short, Fannt Short Butler and William Short which has been on loan to the Virginia Museum.

The exhibition will also include several prints from the Collection of the Fine Arts Department as well as a drawing by one of its members, Thomas Thorne.

The first record of any art at the College of William and Mary comes from the account by Mongo Ingles of the fire of 1705 in which mention is made of a portrait of the Duke of Milan being rescued from the College building.

Ingles was then master of the grammar school and is said to have led the children out of the building and then returned to rescue the painting. This particular painting has long since disappeared.

Through the years, however, the College has been the recipient of many gifts of works of arts from alumni and friends.

The Collection exhibition of selected objects from the College's Collections was especially arranged by members of the Department of Fine Arts, both as part of the observance of Charter Day, 1974, and in gratitude to the donors.

Campus Exhibits

Paintings by Prof. Thomas Elston Thorne, Andrews Hall, ending
February 3, 1-5 p.m. Wed. thru Sun.

Business Administration

Colin Park, professor, and Robert F. Allen, president of Scientific Resources Inc. and SRI Human Resources Institute, and Saul Pilnick, president of Human Systems Institute, both of Morristown, N.J., are the authors of an article C. Parks entitled "The Shadow Organization" which appeared in the January 1974, issue of Management Accounting, publication of the National Association of Accountants.

The shadow organization is a complex mesh of social forces which influence the behavior of each and every member of an organization. In this article, the authors identify ten norm clusters which have positive and negative influences on the organization, and they suggest a method of developing a norm profile which is useful in bringing about change.

Economics

Carl Moody, assistant professor, delivered a paper entitled "Productivity Growth in United States Manufacturing" at the American Statistical Association meetings in New York, December 27-31. The paper will be published in the Proceedings of the Business and Economic Statistics Section, for 1973.

Education

Richard A. Kellogg of Newport News will present and defend his doctoral dissertation in education Tuesday, January 29, in Room C of the Campus Center. His topic is "State Controlled Higher Education in Virginia and the Budgeting Process, 1950-1972: A Move Toward Formal Methods."

Mr. Kellogg is a graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point and received a master's degree in education from William and Mary. He also holds a master's in government from George Washington University.

English

At the December commencement of the University of Chicago, the Ph.D. degree in English was conferred upon Terry Meyers, assistant professor.

The following members of the Department attended the annual meeting of the Modern Language Association in Chicago, December 26-29: Carl Dolmetsch, chairman; Scott Donaldson and John Conlee, associate professors; N.S. Bauer and Trudier Harris, assistant professors; and John Hare, a graduate student.

At the MLA meeting, Mr. Dolmetsch served as acting chairman of the American Literature Group I (Colonial Period) and was elected by the group to serve as chairman of the Bicentennial Conference of Scholars of the MLA to take place in 1976.

History

Richard Maxwell Brown, professor, is serving as chairman of the program committee for the 40th annual meeting of the Southern Historical Association to be held in Dallas, Texas, Nov. 6-9, 1974. As program chairman, Mr. Brown is supervising the arrangement of 49 scholarly sessions dealing with Southern history, general American history, and the history of Europe, Latin America, Africa and Asia.

Mathematics

L. T. Conner, assistant professor, attended a research conference on theoretical matrix theory at the University of California at Santa Barbara in December.

Norman Gibbs and William Poole, assistant professors, had a paper entitled "Tridiagonalization by Permutations" published in the January issue of the Communications of the Association of Computing Machinery.

Peter V. O'Neil, associate professor, has signed with the Macmillan Publishing Company for publication of his book entitled Advanced Calculus - Pure and Applied. The book is scheduled to be published in January of 1975. Mr. O'Neil's first book, Fundamental Concepts of Topology, was published by Gordon and Breach in April, 1972.

Modern Languages

An article by R. Merritt Cox, associate professor, entitled "A New Novel by Cadalso" appeared in the Autumn issue of The Hispanic Review.

Physics

The following papers have been published:

"A New Device for Subsampling Plankton Samples." V. G. Burrell, Jr., W. A. Van Engel, VIMS; S. G. Hummel, William and Mary. Journal of the International Council for the Exploration of the Sea 3513, 133 (1973).

"Relativistic Deuteron Wavefunctions." J. Hornstein and F. L. Gross. Physics Letters 47B, 205 (1973).

Track Coach Honored

John Randolph

The Williamsburg Jaycees have named head track coach John H. Randolph winner their Distinguished Service Award for 1973.

Winning over seven other nominees for the award, Mr. Randolph was nominated for his efforts in securing the $95,000, eight-lane, all weather track in Cary Field, which will officially open in April.

A former William and Mary track star, Mr. Randolph has been a member of the P.E. for Men faculty since 1967.

Religion

James C. Livingston, associate professor, has published a review article of a book by Lawrence F. Barmann, Baron von Hugel and the Modernist Crisis, in the January issue of the Journal of the American Academy of Religion.

Jack D. Van Horn, assistant professor, was chairman of a panel entitled "Buddhism in South Asia -- Traditional and Modern" at the Thirteenth Annual Southeastern Regional meeting of the Association for Asian Studies in Raleigh, N.C., January 18-19. Mr. Van Horn also presented a paper entitled "Pali Accounts of Responses to Buddha" at the meeting.

Lecturer Marc E. Kellner has had an article entitled "Should G-D Exist?" accepted for publication in the June issue of Sh'ma.

Thomas M. Finn, associate professor, Jack D. Van Horn, assistant professor, and Marc E. Kellner, lecturer, will deliver papers at the Southeastern/Southwestern Regional Meeting of the American Academy of Religion to be held at Chattanooga, Tenn., March 15-16.

Mardi Gras Ball Set

The College Women's Club will hold a Mardi Gras Ball on Saturday, February 16, in the Campus Center Ballroom from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. for faculty, administration, staff, and their guests.

Gourmet groups of the Club will provide refreshments and music will be by the Tru Tones.

Members of the dance committee include Mrs. Sidney Lawrence, chairman; Mrs. Roger Ries, refreshments chairman; and Mrs. James Baron, decorations chairman.

Upon request, tables may be reserved for groups of 8 or 12-14. Tickets may be purchased until Saturday, February 9, from Mrs. Lawrence at $3 per person. Tickets at the door will be $4 per person. Checks should be made payable to the College Women's Club and mailed to Mrs. Sidney Lawrence, 143 Quaker Meeting House Road, Williamsburg. Further information may be secured by contacting Mrs. Lawrence at 229-8231.

Swem Library

Harrison E. White has been appointed assistant catalog librarian in Swem Library during the period February 1-May 31. A 1967 graduate of the University of North Carolina School of Library Science, Mr. White served as general services librarian at the James Prendergast Public Library in Jamestown, N.Y., for six years. During the 1970-71 academic year, Mr. White taught history in the Evening Division of Jamestown Community College.

Mr. White will fill the position currently held by Berna Heyman, who will serve as acting head of the Cataloging Department during the absence of Mary Lou Cobb, who will serve as visiting librarian of World Campus Afloat during the spring semester. Mrs. Cobb will return to her duties as head of the Cataloging Department June 1.

Mrs. Cobb is attending the mid-winter meeting of the American Library Association in Chicago this week. She is a member of the ALA Council, governing body for the association.

Linda Templeman has assumed duties as a clerk-typist in the documents department. A graduate of Gloucester High School, Miss Templeman has completed several extension courses at the College.

Beryl C. Roach, clerk-typist B in Swem Library, has been promoted to a clerk-typist C in the Marshall-Wythe School of Law Library, effective February 1.

Robert P. Hunt is in the business of bringing good students to William and Mary.

"The admissions world has changed significantly in the last four to five years," according to Mr. Hunt. The student today finds himself with a greater opportunity for choice, more actively sought by a number of colleges and less pressured by the need to get into college. One of the major difficulties faced by admissions offices, including William and Mary's, is estimating how many of the students who have been accepted will actually attend and, accordingly, how many students to "over-admit" to fill vacant places.

The demand for admission to colleges in general and especially private colleges, is no longer as great, says Mr. Hunt. Reasons for this decline may include such factors as a drop in the birth rate, the economic crisis, the growth of community and junior colleges and the belief that a college education is not a necessity in today's working world. The general decline in applications has been felt slightly at William and Mary. For the fall of 1972, 5354 final applications were received, while 4858 students applied for the session beginning in September, 1973.

The admissions office is presently entering one of the busiest periods of the year, the months of February and March, when a large portion of admissions decisions are made.

In order to aid the greatest number of applicants, the admissions office holds "information sessions" twice a day on weekdays and on Saturday mornings, with the exception of the months of November, February and March, when the office "closes some of its doors in the morning" while "early decisions" and regular admissions decisions are made.

A general session which includes a slide show and a tour of the campus, conducted by a student guide, attempts to answer the most commonly asked questions. Afterwards, prospective students and their parents have the opportunity to arrange personal interviews. Mr. Hunt invites interested members of the College community to attend the general information session.

Mr. Hunt is a member of the Virginia Personnel and Guidance Association and the National Association of College Admissions Counselors. He is a William and Mary representative to the College Entrance Examination Board and to the Admissions and Advisory Enrollment Committee of the State Council of Higher Education.

Mr. Hunt is a graduate of Randolph Macon College. He received a master's degree in education from William and Mary. He is married and has two children, a son who attends Rawls Byrd and a daughter at Berkeley Elementary School. He currently serves as president of the Rawls Byrd PTA.

Three in 1974-75 'Who's Who in the World'

John T. Baldwin, Jr., professor of biology, Carl R. Dolmetsch, chairman of the English Department, and Charles L. Quittmeyer, dean of the School of Business Administration, have been included in Marquis' Who's Who in the World, second edition, 1974-75.

Who's Who in the World complements Marquis' editions of Who's Who in America, in which all three professors are listed.

Mr. Dolmetsch specializes in American literature and modern fiction. He is author of a biography soon to be published, William Byrd of Westover, co-editor of The Poems of Charles Hansford, and author of The Smart Set: A History and Anthology. He is on the executive committee of the American Literature Group I of the Modern Language Association and chairman of the Bicentennial Conference of Scholars of the MLA. He is listed in the Directory of American Scholars.

Mr. Baldwin specializes in genetics, cytogenetics, plant taxonomy and economic plants. An alumnus of William and Mary, he is a life member of the Botanical Society of America and the Virginia Academy of Science. The editor of a book entitled, The Great Dismal Swamp of Virginia and North Carolina, he has published many papers and reviews. He is listed in Who's Who in International Science; Who Knows What, American Men of Science; and the World Who's Who in Science.

An alumnus of the College, Mr. Quittmeyer became head of the Department of Business Administration in 1962 and Dean of the School of Business Administration in 1968.

Mr. Quittmeyer has published widely on many aspects of Virginia's economy including the travel industry, manufacturing, seafood and beach erosion and has written the article on the Commonwealth of Virginia to appear in this year's new edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Mr. Quittmeyer is a member of the National Council of the National Planning Commission, the board of directors of the First & Merchants National Bank of the Peninsula, the board of directors of the Virginia Peninsula Industrial Committee and a member and secretary of the Peninsula Airport Commission.

Ferguson Scholarship Competition Opens

The opening of competition for the annual William Cross Ferguson Graduate Scholarship in Publishing has been announced.

The scholarship grant will cover the tuition and other costs for a current senior or a recent William and Mary graduate to attend the prestigious Publishing Procedures Course held at Radcliffe College in the summer.

The Radcliffe Publishing Procedures Course is a six-week intensive professional program, open to recent college graduates, both men and women, who are seriously considering a career in book or magazine publishing. The faculty for the course is drawn almost entirely from eminent publishing executives, and the curriculum is practical more than theoretical, involving discussions, workshops, and field trips.

The annual scholarship is an outgrowth of gift money to the College of William and Mary from Walter F. C. Ferguson in honor of his brother, William Cross Ferguson, who died in 1967. William Cross Ferguson, a William and Mary graduate in the class of 1916, had a long career in book publishing, ultimately becoming president of the World Book Company. Prior to his death he expressed an interest in establishing at his alma mater various programs that would stimulate student interest in publishing as a career.

In 1970 the Ferguson Seminar in Publishing, a two-day event, was inaugurated at the College of William and Mary. The Seminar, held biennially, brings together on campus outstanding figures from the publishing field who lecture and meet informally with interested students gathered from colleges around the state. The Ferguson Scholarship directly assists one student from the College each year to get the necessary professional training for a publishing career.

William and Mary students in their senior year, or recent graduates, who wish to apply for the Ferguson Scholarship may get application forms and further information from Dr. Norman Fiering, Chairman, Ferguson Seminar Committee, P.O. Box 220, Williamsburg, Va. 23185. Applications must be returned by February 18. Announcement of the winner will be made the first week in April.

Apply Now to Project PLUS

Brochures announcing the theme for Project PLUS '74-75 and explaining application procedures will be circulated this week in all campus residence halls. Rising sophomore, junior and senior men and women are invited to submit application forms and essays no later than Wed., Feb. 27. The new theme for the coming year is "The State of the American Dream." The 84 students to be admitted into next year's Project will be announced by March 8.

An open house is scheduled at Project PLUS Sunday, Feb. 17, from 2-4 p.m. to provide an opportunity for prospective applicants to visit Project PLUS. Current students and staff will be on hand to explain the nature of this living-learning program and to answer questions.

Brown to Speak Tomorrow On Transcendental Meditation

"Transcendental Meditation: A Means of Conflict Resolution" will be the topic for the first Project PLUS Forum of the semester on Wed., Jan. 30, at 7:30 p.m. in Millington Auditorium. Ian McPherson Brown, director of resource development at Maharishi International University in Washington, D.C., will speak to Project PLUS students and faculty who are exploring the theme of "Conflict and Conflict Resolution" in their current academic program. The public is invited to attend.

Freshman Grant Applicants Sought

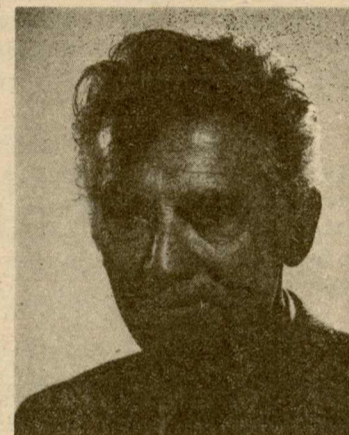

There is much concern in Washington about the lack of participation by first-year full-time students in the Basic Opportunity Grant Program. According to the College Entrance Examination Board, as of mid-November, about 300,000 students had submitted valid applications and of these just under 160,000, or 53%, had qualified for grants, utilizing less than half of the available $122 million appropriated for 1973-74.

The Office of Education recently extended the application deadline from February 1 to April 1, 1974. OE has also made it known that the grants are, in effect, retroactive. Since they are awarded on a yearly basis, a student who did not know about BEOG earlier may still receive help to cover his or her expenses for the entire 1973-74 academic year.

BEOG applications are available from the Student Aid Office, Room 310, Blair Hall.

Audubon Wildlife Film Scheduled

James D. Hammond of Woodside, Calif., a former editor and war correspondent for the New York Times in Asia, will narrate the Audubon Wildlife film, "Malheur: Marsh, Meadow, and Mountain," Monday, February 4, in the auditorium of Phi Beta Kappa Hall at 7:45 p.m.

A patchwork of marshes, lakes, alkali flats and brushy uplands, dominated by a 9000 foot lava mountain, the Malheur National Wildlife Refuge preserves over 180,000 acres of valuable habitat in southeastern Oregon. It is believed to contain perhaps the largest variety of birds and mammals of any of the 330 wildlife refuges in the United States. Mr. Hammond's film seeks out such spectacular wildlife as the greater sandhill cranes and American avocets in their courtship performances, trumpeter swans, burrowing owls, and a pronghorn antelope with triplets in tow. There is also a look at the fascinating human history of this land which saw struggles between Paiute Indians, sheepherders and cattlemen.

Tickets will be available at the door. This film should appeal to all who appreciate nature and the out-of-doors.

W&M Places in Track Meet

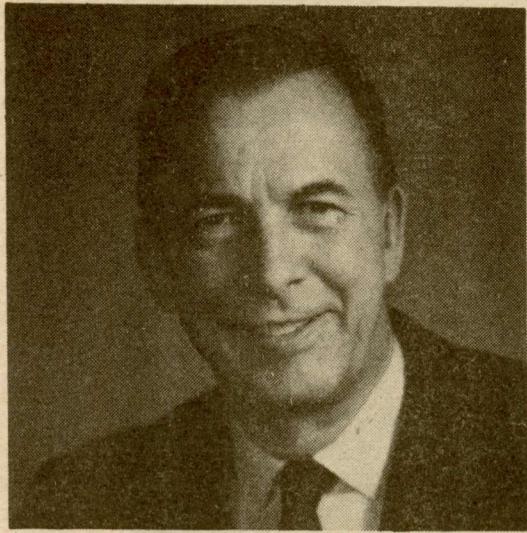

William and Mary placed in the three events it entered at the Wanamaker Millrose Games last Friday night in New York's Madison Square Garden.

Charles Dobson, '75, of Hampton was third in the 60 high hurdles (7.3 seconds).

Reggie Clark, '75, of Newport News, took fifth in the 1,000 (2:10.7).

The Tribe quartet of Nelson Stortz, '77, Hampton; Don Nizolek, '77, Old Bridge, N.J.; Les Ryce, '76, Hingham, Mass.; and Walter Cooke, '74, Richmond, grabbed third in the college division mile relay in 3:25.5.

The executives represent over 2 million members of the country's work force and some $75 billion in sales, according to William H. Warren, associate professor of business administration at William and Mary, who has worked to develop the telephone interview in his class into an effective third dimension in teaching.

From the convenience of his office, a business executive is able to "meet" the class, speak to them on a pre-determined phase of his company's operation, and join in a lively question-and-answer session. Student committees are appointed at the beginning of each semester and assigned to two speakers. The students research the company involved through trade journals, magazines and newspapers. By the time the speaker is ready with his presentation, the students are well-briefed.

Mr. Warren's telephone interviews have been a part of his teaching program for the past year and a half. He has no difficulty recruiting executives for his program. He is currently scheduling speakers for next fall. Time slots have already been filled for summer school.

Because of the interest shown by other students in the telephone interviews, Mr. Warren is planning this semester to invite other students in for special sessions. There'll be room for 30 on a first come, first served basis.

National Center for State Courts Begins Studies

Even before it has completed designing its headquarters on part of the William and Mary campus, the new National Center for State Courts has begun several studies including one for Virginia courts.

The National Center last summer chose land at the College for the site of its permanent facilities after reviewing some 24 locations throughout the nation. Preliminary designs are now being drawn, along with related plans for a new Marshall-Wythe Law School building to help create a unique blend of legal resources for Virginia.

The Center was established in 1971 "to improve the administration of justice in the state courts of the nation." The need for such an agency was the focus at that time of the National Conference on the Judiciary here, chaired by retired Justice Tom C. Clark. Chief Justice Warren Burger and President Nixon were among those who addressed the conference to help stimulate planning for the Center.

From offices in Washington, the Center moved to a temporary site in Denver while a committee of jurists and attorneys studied permanent locations.

The Virginia state court project, being carried out from these temporary offices, entails a study of the case load of appellate courts in the state.

A proposed contemporary building design for the National Center which includes arches and curves reflecting 18th century buildings in Colonial Williamsburg, has been suggested by the architectural firm of Wright, Jones and Wilkerson of Richmond, which has begun preliminary design work under contract to the Center. No decision has been made on the architects for the building. Funds for the building will be raised privately by the Center. The College has sought $4.8 million for the separate law school building.

Along with the headquarters here, the Center will maintain a small liaison office in Washington and set up four or five regional offices at locations accessible to the courts they serve. The first of these has been established on the campus of Emory University in Atlanta, Ga. The second is located in St. Paul, Minn., and others will include Boston and San Francisco.

Major unit within the organization of the Center is the Council of State Court Representatives, consisting of one officially selected representative from each state as well as from the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, American Samoa, the Virgin Islands, and Guam, chosen by the state supreme court or other judicial entity in the state court system. The Council elects members of the Board of Directors of the Center, acts as a national forum for the state judiciary and provides liaison between the state judicial systems and the Center.

The Board of Directors of the Center consists of twelve members who must be active judges from state appellate courts and trial courts of general and special jurisdiction. Many of the major judicial and judicially related institutions are linked to the Center as "cooperating organizations" from whom representatives are selected for the Advisory Council.

Putting It Together

By Dr. Franklin Munsey

When you wake up in the morning with a sore throat you probably will try to recall home remedies that have worked in the past.

Your roommate usually has a few comments about infectious mononucleosis and strep throat and stories about friends who almost died from a sore throat.

By now you realize your sore throat is worse. You're very tired, feel feverish and dizzy, have a headache and otherwise feel terrible.

Most sore throats are virus infections and do not respond to any specific medicine. Antibiotics will not help a virus sore throat. It does help to take aspirin to relieve the aches and pains that may accompany a sore throat, to gargle with salt and water to soothe the throat, to drink plenty of liquids and get as much rest as possible.

There is usually some improvement in a simple sore throat after the second day. If there is no improvement by the second or third day, a visit to the Student Health Center is certainly indicated.

Portrait of Morton to Adorn Hall

Richard Lee Morton, Chancellor Professor of History Emeritus, sits for portrait by David Silvette which will be hung in Morton Hall. Mr. Silvette, one of Virginia's foremost contemporary artists, has been commissioned by the Morton Portrait Committee which includes Harold L. Fowler, dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences; J. Wilfred Lambert, retired vice president for student affairs; Thaddeus Tate, Jr., director of the Institute of Early American History and Culture; Virginius Dabney of Richmond, Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist and former editor of the Times-Dispatch; and Sidney Briggs of Williamsburg. James N. McCord, Jr., associate professor of history, serves as secretary to the Committee. Friends, colleagues and former students of Mr. Morton have contributed to the Morton Portrait Fund. Donations are still being accepted by Mr. Fowler, 112 James Blair Hall. Any money beyond the cost of the portrait will go to the Morton Scholarship Fund.

OFFICE OF DEVELOPMENT

International Research and Exchanges Board announces grants for exchanges and contracts between United States and Soviet Union/Eastern European scholars which are innovative or in fields hitherto neglected. Grants assist in the development of private or multilateral exchanges to supplement official exchange programs and to create a favorable climate for intellectual interchange between scholars of the respective countries. Grants may cover travel and per diem.

EAACH Education Foundation

Fund for the Improvement of Higher Education Institutions. This program supports projects that promise to lead to wide improvement in instruction, administration, or physical facilities utilization in higher education. Grants support (a) pilot projects, (b) developmental efforts, or (c) examination or analysis of practices, trends, and developments in higher education. Projects must have the potential to benefit a broad segment of higher education and should enhance the effectiveness of the educational process. Institutions must assure continuance of successful efforts after support has terminated. Most grants do not exceed $100,000.

Deadline: March 1, 1974

IMPACT program: Deadline reminder: March 1, 1974

National Endowment for the Humanities

Education Project Grants to (1) carry out experiments in education in the humanities, (2) develop teaching materials, (3) promote educational use of libraries, (4) hold training institutes or conferences, (5) develop and strengthen interdisciplinary courses and programs. NEH is especially interested in interdisciplinary programs, cooperative programs between schools and institutions of higher education, and cooperative programs between 2-year colleges and universities. Project grants average $30,000, with the institution expected to contribute 10% of the total cost of the project.

Youthgrants in the Humanities Program (National Endowment for the Humanities)

Established to support humanities projects developed and conducted by groups of students and other young people. The director of a proposed project should not be over 30 years old at the time of grant award, and first priority is given to projects by persons who have not yet completed professional training. Neither academic affiliation nor an academic degree, however, is necessary to apply. Proposed projects may concern the designing or conducting of an education program, study or research of a specific problem, or activities aimed at disseminating humanistic knowledge and materials or applying them to the understanding of ethical and social problems. Projects relating to the forthcoming Bicentennial of the United States are especially encouraged. Grants for group projects range up to $10,000, while individual projects are normally under $2,000.

Supplemental Retirement Annuity

As announced in the Personnel Bulletin on January 22, 1974, a new form of TIAA-CREF annuity contract, the Supplemental Retirement Annuity, may now be purchased on an individual basis by members of the faculty and staff. SRA is designed expressly for use by persons who want to set aside tax-deferred funds over and above amounts being accumulated under their institution's retirement plan. Neither the College nor the State contributes in any way toward the purchase of this annuity plan. A special feature of the plan is that SRA contracts may be surrendered for cash at any time, according to a recent TIAA-CREF publication.

Individual brochures covering the plan may be obtained by contacting the Personnel Office.

College SCATS Bill Too Large, Reduction in Use Asked

Dennis K. Cogle, assistant to the vice president for business affairs, this week issued a memo to members of the administration, faculty and staff reiterating regulations concerning the use of the SCATS line.

"The monthly bill for the College's use of the SCATS line has reached what can only be viewed as unacceptable proportion," asserted Mr. Cogle. "Also," he stated, "it has come to my attention that the privileges offered by this system are being abused by some members of the College community."

SCATS, Mr. Cogle reminded members of the College community, is not a "free system."

"The average charge is between eight and ten cents per minute, depending on the number of minutes of use over a month's period. Combine that rate with the thirty to forty thousand minutes of usage per month, and the cost of the service appears to far outweigh the benefits.

"In light of these situations, combined with the present budgetary crisis, I must ask that all members of the College community reduce their use of the SCATS line to the absolute necessities of College business.

"Further, I reiterate information, contained in both the faculty and employee handbooks, which states that use of the SCATS line for personal calls is prohibited.

"Finally, I must ask that any requests for opening the SCATS line in other than its normal operating hours (8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and 8 a.m. to 12 noon Saturday) be approved in advance through my office. I would also hope that such requests will be minimal.

"In the present budgetary crisis confronting us, we must all work to reduce expenditures wherever possible; the use of SCATS facilities appears to be one such area. Your usual fine cooperation will be much appreciated in this matter."
