Asia House to be Added To Residential Program

Asia House, a new residential unit for undergraduate students, will be inaugurated next fall according to an announcement by James C. Livingston, dean of the undergraduate program.

Thirty-three students and a resident advisor who have interests in the study of Asia will conduct informal programs which will enhance their regular academic work at the College.

Films, speakers, group discussions, field trips, and other activities will be planned by the students with faculty assistance. All aspects of Asian life which are of interest to the students such as music, the culinary arts, politics, religion, art, literature, and history will be included in the weekly programs.

Subscriptions to Asian newspapers and magazines, recordings of Asian music, and other materials will be available. Asian government officials, artists and other professional people will be encouraged to include Asia House in their visits to the country.

Asia House will be open to undergraduate students of the sophomore level and above regardless of their field of study. The only requirements for residence are a strong interest in Asia, usually indicated by involvement in the academic study of Asia, and a willingness to participate in the weekly programs which are tentatively scheduled for Thursdays from seven to eight-thirty in the evening.

Asia House will be under the general supervision of a joint faculty-student Asia House Committee to be appointed by Mr. Livingston. The College has approximately twenty-five courses on Asia taught by ten faculty members in eight academic disciplines. Asia House is expected to serve as an informal center for exploring interests and cooperation in Asian studies.

Asia House will be located in Unit B of the fraternity complex which was vacated by a fraternity last year.

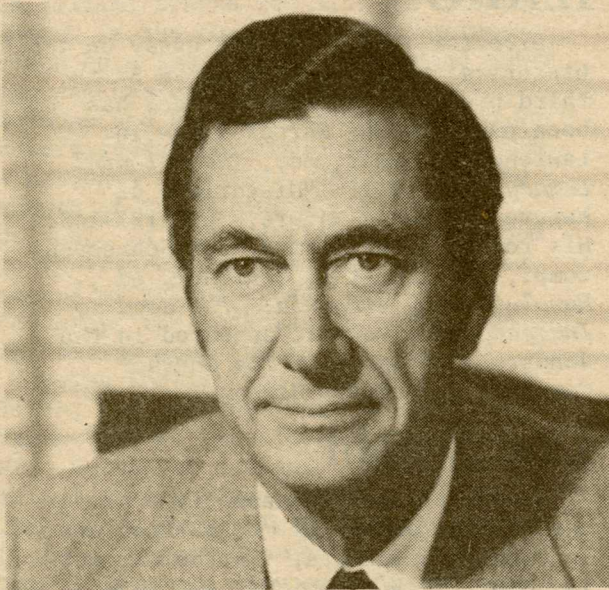

The Ad Hoc committee on Asia House which has been planning for the new unit with Mr. Livingston's office was composed of Donald J. Baxter, associate professor of government; Craig N. Canning, assistant professor of history; Lewis A. Foster, Jr., associate professor of philosophy; Chonghan Kim, professor of government; Vinson H. Sutlive, associate professor of anthropology; Jack D. Van Horn, assistant professor of religion; and two students, Steve Hopkins, a senior from Pittsburgh, Pa.; and Traci Gage, a sophomore from Somerville, N.J.

Study Abroad Talk Scheduled

The Experiment in International Living on campus will feature a talk by Katherine Ebert, director of the study abroad program, Wednesday, February 6, in the Campus Center Theatre at 7:30 p.m.

Following the presentation, a group of five William and Mary students who have all participated in the program will hold a panel discussion.

Bicentennial Charter Day Convocation Set

Edgar F. Shannon, Jr.

The first Bicentennial Charter Day convocation, marking the College's 281st anniversary, will be held Saturday, February 9, in Phi Beta Kappa Hall at 11 a.m.

Principal speaker will be Edgar F. Shannon, Jr., president of the University of Virginia.

Presentation of the 1974 Thomas Jefferson Awards, announcement of a new Chancellor Professorship and the conferral of an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree upon President Shannon will be included in the program.

President Shannon will be presented for the degree by President Thomas A. Graves, Jr. Conferral will be made by R. Harvey Chappell, Jr., of Richmond, Rector of the Board of Visitors.

The College will honor Mr. Shannon for his distinguished career in scholarship and teaching. He has been president of the University of Virginia since 1959 and has announced that he will return to teaching at the end of the present academic year.

A native Virginian, Mr. Shannon was a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Washington and Lee University. He attended Duke and Harvard and received a doctoral degree in literature from Oxford University in England where he attended Merton College as a Rhodes Scholar.

VSB Council Resolution

The Council of the Virginia State Bar adopted the following resolution at its January 25th meeting in Williamsburg:

RESOLVED, That the Council of the Virginia State Bar enthusiastically applauds the decision that the National Center for State Courts be located in Williamsburg on the property made available by the College of William and Mary; and that the Council further endorses the location of the College's Marshall-Wythe School of Law on the adjacent site, the Law School not only being an essential complement to the National Center, but also providing much needed law school facilities for the citizens of this Commonwealth.

A member of the board of directors of the American Council on Education, he has served as president of the Council of Southern Universities and State Universities Association and as a member and chairman of the executive committee and president of the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges.

As part of the Charter Day activities, an exhibition of objects from the College's Collection of Fine Arts has been arranged in Andrews Hall and will be on view through February.

An exhibit of publications by members of the faculty will be on display in the Botetourt Museum of Swem Library.

Among the guests at Charter Day will be members of the newly formed President's Council which will host a coffee prior to the convocation.

Notice to Students

On February 9, 1974, due to Charter Day, luncheon will be served in William and Mary Hall, 11 a.m. until 2 p.m.

Although not part of the convocation program, two afternoon events planned for Saturday are expected to draw sports enthusiasts who will be here for the morning exercises.

William and Mary, the University of Virginia and the University of Richmond will vie in an indoor track meet in William and Mary Hall beginning at 2 p.m.

At 5 p.m., College gymnasts, VPI&SU and Old Dominion will hold a tri-meet.

RBC Report Commended

Unqualified acceptance of the Five-Year Interim Report of Richard Bland College has been announced by Cornelis Laban, acting president.

Mr. Laban commended efforts of James McNeer, acting dean of faculty, in the preparation of the 70-page report for the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

"Acceptance of the report in its entirety, without requests for supplementary texts or additional information, speaks well for the quality of the report as submitted," Mr. Laban said.

The report updates changes to the educational program, student life, physical facilities, faculty, library and expenditures made in the past five years since completion of the RBC Self Study in 1968.

Campus Exhibits

Selected works from the College collection will be on display at Andrews Hall, Sat., Feb. 9 through March 3.

The exhibit will be open to the public Wednesdays through Sundays from 1-5 p.m.

Chemistry

S. Y. Tyree, professor, was guest speaker recently at meetings of the Virginia and North Carolina sections of the American Chemical Society.

Speaking in Raleigh, N.C., on January 24, Mr. Tyree took as his topic, "Metal Ion Hydrolysis." The meeting was held at Meredith College.

"Bankruptcy in Chemical Education" was the topic of his talk before the Virginia section at the Holiday Inn in Hopewell, January 18.

"Inasmuch as it can be proved that most of the organization which we call the good old U.S. of A. is well in the bankruptcy syndrome, I thought I would examine the place of chemical education in the slide," Mr. Tyree told his audience in Hopewell.

"It turns out that we are substantially behind most of the country in the slide as far as money is concerned, but it would seem that we are among the leaders in the professional and intellectual bankruptcy."

Mr. Tyree is currently serving as chairman of the Council of Oak Ridge Associated Universities of which William and Mary is a member.

David E. Kranbuehl, assistant professor, Janet Spencer, a 1972 graduate, and Peter H. Verdier of the National Bureau of Standards, Washington, D.C., had an article entitled "Relaxation of Fluctuations in the Shape of Random-coil Polymer Chains" published in the Journal of Chemical Physics.

Mr. Kranbuehl and Robert A. Orwoll, associate professor, are participating in a symposium on theories of "Configurational Properties of Macromolecules" held at the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md., February 4-5.

Education

Fred L. Adair, associate professor, gave an invited address before the Association of American Library Schools on his research on the Personality of Librarians on January 19. The paper was entitled "A Proposal to Correlate Performance in Librarianship with Certain Personality, Interest and Academic Variables." The Convention was held in the Palmer House, Chicago, Illinois.

Fine Arts

Paul Helfrich, instructor in design and printmaking, has had a drawing selected to be shown in the Images on Paper '74 National Drawing Competition in Springfield, Illinois.

Staff Notes

Buildings and Grounds

Pearley L. Taylor, a custodial worker, has been promoted to Housekeeping supervisor A, effective Feb. 1.

Swem Library

Two additions to the staff are Ahlene S. Holt, order clerk in the Acquisitions Department, and Mary J. Hutchison, clerk-typist in the Reserve Room.

Mrs. Holt studied social studies and history at Syracuse University and Utica College in New York. Mrs. Hutchison attended the University of Colorado.

Government

Alan J. Ward, associate professor, presented a paper to an interdisciplinary symposium on the subject, "Violence in Northern Ireland," sponsored by the University of Florida, January 28-30. His paper was entitled "Seeds of the Northern Ireland Crisis: Ulster and Home Rule, 1910-1914."

IEAHC

Director Thad W. Tate's essay on the historical writings of William Stith, third president of the College, has been published by Harper & Row in Lawrence H. Leder, ed., The Colonial Legacy, Vol. III: "Historians of Nature and Man's Nature," pp. 121-145. His review of William J. Van Schreeven, comp., and Robert L. Scribner, ed., Revolutionary Virginia: The Road to Independence, Vol. I, appeared in the January 1974 issue of The North Carolina Historical Review.

Law School

Jerome F. Leavell, associate professor, is the author of "Legal Problems in Organ Transplants," in the current issue of the Mississippi Law Journal.

William F. Swindler, professor, appeared before the joint committee on privileges and elections of the General Assembly in Richmond, January 30, as a member of a task force which had been organized to study the impact of the proposed 27th (Equal Rights) Amendment to the U.S. Constitution on various phases of Virginia law.

Mr. Swindler also attended the mid-winter meetings of the American Judicature Society, as one of the Virginia members of the Society's board of directors, in association with the American Bar Association meetings in Houston, Tex., February 1-3.

Dean James P. Whyte served as a panelist on the topic of "The Arbitrator's View of Grievance Procedure in the Federal Sector" during the convention of the Society of Federal Labor Relations Professionals on February 7 in Washington, D.C.

Modern Languages

Joanne Basso, instructor, has been appointed to the Committee on Employment Qualifications of Foreign Language Faculty in Secondary Schools, an ad hoc committee of the Modern Foreign Language Association of Virginia (MFLAV). The Committee is to make recommendations which will be presented to the Board of Directors of the MFLAV, to the members of the MFLAV at its spring meeting in April, and ultimately to administrators in secondary schools in Virginia. The appointment was made by Anita Ernouf of Longwood College, president of the MFLAV.

Grad Student Exhibits Paintings

Paintings of Gloria Valko Coker, graduate student in education, are currently on exhibit at Watkin's Art Emporium in Trumbull, Conn.

Mrs. Coker received her undergraduate degree from the University of Bridgeport in 1963. She has exhibited frequently in galleries in Virginia and North and South Carolina and is the winner of several awards. Her work was accepted in the 1973 James River Juried Art Show.

A former resident of Bridgeport, Conn., Mrs. Coker now resides with her husband and two children in Newport News.

Library Acquires Recordings

Approximately 80 recordings covering a wide variety of music styles have recently been acquired by Swem Library. All of the recordings are available for use in the Library's Audio-Visual Department.

Represented by the recordings are classical, semiclassical, sacred, martial, and popular music. Titles include "Opera's Greatest Hits," "Gershwin's Porgy and Bess," "Showboat," "Harry Belafonte/Calypto," "The Immortal Victor Herbert," "Fiddler on the Roof," "Hair," "A Festival of Russian Music," and "The Voice of Africa."

The majority of the recordings were requested by Stephen P. Paledes, chairman of the Music Department. The recordings will be used by students enrolled in music appreciation courses as well as by other interested members of the College community.

The Audio-Visual Department operates a listening room with several stations for the use of individuals listening to recordings and/or tape.

Surplus Property Sale

The latest surplus property sale notice from the State Department of Purchases and Supply is available for review at several locations on campus.

A schedule of items on sale, including several from the College, is available in Ervin D. Farmer's Office, at the Warehouse with Clifford Meyer and in the Purchasing Office.

The sale is "as is and where is" without warranty. Bids will be opened February 20 at 2 p.m. Successful bidders will be required to remit within ten calendar days and remove property within 20 calendar days from the day of notice of award.

The sale notice also contains the following restriction:

The "Conflict of Interest Act" passed in the 1970 Virginia General Assembly prohibits any employee, spouse or relatives residing in your household, to purchase property belonging to the agency by which you are employed.

Car Pool Listing

Rider or ride wanted to Hampton Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. Call Sam Royall, 220-1685 or 229-3511.

Office of Special Programs Seeks Lecture Suggestions

Carson H. Barnes, director of the Office of Special Programs, is seeking faculty and student input for a public lecture series for the Tidewater-Williamsburg community, slated to begin in April.

He is actively seeking suggestions for the series. As part of the grant proposal, he explained, the College community is being asked to submit names of speakers.

Funded by a $15,000 grant from NASA's Office of Research Grants and University Affairs, the series will include four speakers of national and international reputation from various disciplines who will be invited to speak on subjects related to the general theme of the series "Our Future in the Cosmos."

The series is planned for non-scientists and will be offered free of charge to the Tidewater-Williamsburg community through the joint sponsorship of NASA and the College.

Suggestions for speakers should be submitted to Mr. Barnes, either in writing or by phone, 877-9231. Written suggestions may be sent to the Office of Special Programs, 12070 Jefferson Avenue, Newport News, 23606, or placed in Mr. Barnes' box in the campus post office.

Suggestions should be in by Feb. 12 to enable planners to make arrangements for the first speakers. Suggestions to date have included Jacques-Yves Cousteau, Barry Commoner, William O. Douglas, Margaret Mead, Charles F. Richter, S. I. Hayakawa, Joshua Lederberg, B. F. Skinner and Alvin Toffler.

CAMPUS PROFILE/Jewel Lynn Delaune

Assistant professor of education Jewel Lynn Delaune is as busy at home with the crewel embroidery business as she is teaching classes on campus. She has taught Children's Literature to both education majors and non-majors at the College for seven years. At home, while creating crewel kits based on authentic Colonial and Jacobean designs to sell, she employs a century-old means of production, - the "cottage industry."

Together with her family, she works on filling orders for kits which often number in the hundreds. The business began on a small scale about nine years ago and has grown steadily. Mrs. Delaune and her husband have placed an advertisement for "Colonial Crewel" in a national magazine. One sign of the growth of the business, says Mrs. Delaune, is the addition of a workroom to their house to combine the various phases of making crewel kits. Formerly, the work was spread out on the dining room table.

Using English wool and Belgian linen, the Delaunes make up nine different crewel embroidery kits, based on Mrs. Delaune's designs. These include flower patterns adapted from the 18th century, a purse similar to the pocket Colonial women wore on their belts; the William and Mary coat-of-arms and a 19th century boy and girl reminiscent of the designs in children's books.

She uses both the American Colonial crewel embroidery style, which she describes as "light and open" and the heavier Jacobean embroidery. In the manufacturing process, Mrs. Delaune measures and cuts the linen, puts in the needles, folds the linen, and double-checks each kit in its bag.

Using a measuring device he invented, her husband winds and measures the wool, sometimes aided by their youngest son. Both Mr. and Mrs. Delaune perform the most complicated part of the process - printing the designs on a silk screen - and both help with the final sealing of the bags.

When their oldest son is home from college, Mrs. Delaune says, he is in charge of assembling the kits, on a Lazy Susan table made by his father. "Some of the work can be done while watching television," says Mrs. Delaune, "however, much of it, such as printing each design separately on the silk screen, requires close attention."

She first took a course in crewel embroidery at the Winterthur Museum in Wilmington, Del. She received her undergraduate degree in history and master's degrees in Southern history and library science from Louisiana State University.

Summer Faculty Research Grants Awarded

Grants totaling $37,867.27 have been awarded to 26 faculty members for 1974 summer research projects.

PBK Executive Secretary Succumbs

Carl Billman, former Williamsburg resident and executive secretary of the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa for 26 years, died recently at his home in Winchester, Mass.

A 1933 graduate of Harvard University, Mr. Billman came to Williamsburg in the early '50's as the group's executive secretary when the national headquarters of the United Chapters of PBK was moved from New York to Williamsburg. The office was located on campus in the old Phi Beta Kappa building (now Ewell Hall), which was partially destroyed by fire in 1953. The new Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall building opened in 1957.

Mr. Billman moved to Washington, D.C., when the group's permanent national headquarters was established there in 1955.

Phi Beta Kappa was founded at the College on December 5, 1776. The annual public meeting of Phi Beta Kappa is held each December and includes a prominent guest speaker, a poet and introduction of new members.

Black Culture Week Features Program of Events February 17-24

BSO president Willie Webb (right) and vice president Eric Revis post Black Culture Week announcement on bulletin board in Sorority Court.

Black Culture Week, sponsored annually by the Black Student Organization, begins on campus Sunday, Feb. 17.

Representative Ronald Dellums (D), from Berkeley, Calif., a member of the Black Caucus in the House, will speak in Andrews Hall, Wednesday, Feb. 20, at 8 p.m. His topic has not been announced. A reception honoring Mr. Dellums will be held in the Andrews Hall lobby following his talk.

Other events during the week include:

- Feb. 17 - The movie "SOUNDER" with Cecily Tyson, 7:30 p.m., Campus Center Ballroom
- Feb. 18 - HAMPTON INSTITUTE DANCE GROUP - Campus Center Ballroom, 8 p.m.
- Feb. 19 - VIRGINIA STATE COLLEGE GOSPEL CHOIR - Campus Center Ballroom, 8 p.m.
- Feb. 21 - BSO NIGHT - TALENT SHOW & ART EXHIBIT - Campus Center Theatre, 8 p.m.
- Feb. 22 - BSO Dance - Campus Center Ballroom, 9 p.m.-1 a.m.
- Feb. 23 - JAMES BROWN IN CONCERT with the J.B.'s and Lynn Collins, William and Mary Hall, 8 p.m.
- Feb. 24 - MUNTU FINE ARTS GUILD, modern dance group from University of Virginia, Campus Center Ballroom, 8 p.m.

The main purpose of the Black Student Organization is to promote Black awareness in the College community, said Mr. Revis. "Our principal means of attempting to promote this awareness is by sponsoring a Black Culture Week each year.

"Wishing to achieve a more enthusiastic response this year, vigorous efforts are being made to encourage participation of both the College community and area residents."

Physics Colloquium

George Vahala, Courant Institute of Mathematical Sciences, New York University, will speak on "MHD Stability of a Bumpy Screw Pinch," Fri., Feb. 8, at 4:30 p.m. in Room 109, William Small Physical Laboratory. Coffee will be served in the Conference Room at 4 p.m.

Campus Security Log

1/30-9 p.m. Unidentified student reported gas being stolen from College bus parked in Yates Drive. Three of six persons apprehended at scene of crime escaped during investigation. Security Office advised by Williamsburg police no arrest could be made because of insufficient evidence. Three offenders warned not to return to the campus.

Interhall Features Disney Film

Interhall and the Student Association Film Series have arranged nightly showings in the campus residence halls of Walt Disney's "The Absent-Minded Professor." Times and places are shown on back page of the W&M News. Students may check signs in their residence halls for exact location.

Pub Kicks Off Grand Opening With 10 Nights of Entertainment

Scott Sherman, a junior from Shawnee Mission, Kans., is the friendly bartender at the pub, serving Jay Burgomaster and Sharon Pandak.

The Hoi Polloi is having a grand opening!

The pub has been in operation for some time, in fact since 1970, but there's a new enthusiasm among the students who are running it and they are anxious the rest of the campus know about the plans they have to make the pub THE place for the College community to gather.

For a start they have issued invitations to members of the faculty and administration to come and enjoy the "Ten Nights of Entertainment" which will serve as an introduction to the new look at the pub. Daily flyers are going out to students.

Between February 6 and 16, the pub will have nightly attractions which will cover a wide range of musical tastes.

Entertainment Nights

"Slapwater Jack" will start off the opening program February 6. February 7 is "Do Your Own Thing Night," for amateur musicians. February 8 is "50's Night" with the proceeds going to Gamma Phi Beta sorority charities which include summer camps for disadvantaged children and support of a Korean orphan.

February 9 the band will be "Rain"; February 11 the attraction will be folk singer Lewis McGehee; and February 12 will be the country rock night with "Dirty Sneakers." "Soul Night" will be February 13 with "Smoke," and a special Valentine's Day program will feature "Quarterpath" after the basketball game from 9:30-12:30. February 15 there will be dancing to the music of "Leo" and February 16, "Judgement" will be at the pub.

Theatre Seeks '30's Memorabilia

Do you have an attic filled with 1930 memorabilia?

If so, The William and Mary Theatre hopes you will share your wealth to help stage its current production of Cole Porter's musical, "Anything Goes," to be presented in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall on Thurs.-Sat., Feb. 21-23, and Thurs.-Sat., Feb. 28-March 2.

The costume and furniture department is searching for items of the '30's.

Mr. Bledsoe will gladly answer questions regarding loans or donations. His office is in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall, and he can be phoned at Ext. 395.

According to Jay Burgomaster, a junior from Burlington, Mass., and business major who serves as controller for the pub, February 11 has been designated as faculty and administration night although he hopes representatives from both these groups will come often to the pub. He hopes more use will be made of the mirrored room off the pub, formerly a president's dining room, which is available for informal group discussions between students and faculty.

Student Managers

Mr. Burgomaster has charge of securing entertainment for the pub. Managers are Bob Ellis and Jim Mitchell, both students who are employed by Crotty Brothers, food services company for the campus. Mr. Ellis is a law student from Williamsburg; Mr. Mitchell, an MBA student from Richmond.

The aim of the managers is to encourage faculty, students and others of the College community to come to the pub and to create there a collegiate atmosphere.

This semester begins the new push to make the pub the in-place to go and by next semester the managers hope the facility will have the added attraction of a competitive food service which will include hot sandwiches and pizzas.

Messrs. Ellis and Mitchell expressed enthusiasm for the support they are receiving from Philip J. O'Doherty (Mr. O'D) who now heads the Crotty Brothers service on campus. He came to campus in November from Greensboro, N.C. Mr. O'Doherty, say the managers, has a genuine interest in the successful operation of the pub and this interest includes long range plans for the facility.

College Cooperation

Sharon Pandak, a junior from Staunton, who as vice president of the Student Association, has been actively involved with the pub operation, echoed the enthusiasm of the managers and says the cooperation of the College in the current refurbishing has been "just great."

Through the efforts of the maintenance department, the Student Services Committee of the Student Association and the interest of students, mainly those in Brown and Taliaferro, the pub has had some substantial face-lifting. During the semester break the large room has been painted. New light fixtures have been installed, electrical wiring has been replaced, and a new electrical dart board installed.

Lester H. Hooker, director of William and Mary Hall, has loaned the pub a stage and lights with the understanding that the hall has first call in the event of a conflict of events.

'Stein Club'

There's a grid over the bar which will be used to hang steins. The idea, said Mr. Burgomaster, is to encourage the sale of individual drinking steins which will be identified by the owner's name. "Each time they come to the pub they can drink out of their own stein," he said, adding that he hoped the new "Stein Club" would cut down on the amount of thievery of glasses the pub has experienced in the past.

Miss Pandak said she hopes that there will be new tables in the large room soon and some booths by June. Both the tables and booths will come from restaurants that are disposing of surplus equipment. The pub staff does not know at this point whether the equipment will be a tax write-off for the companies or whether they will have to buy it. If they do have to buy it they anticipate the cost will be minimal.

There's a pool table on order and a pizza oven.

The pub is open Monday through Saturday, nightly from 6:30 to midnight and until 1 a.m. on entertainment nights. Mr. Burgomaster plans to have entertainment nights Wednesday, Friday and Saturday.

The pub is working, says Mr. Burgomaster, to get a steady clientele.

The large crowd that came in after the basketball game the other night is encouraging as the type of attendance the pub would like to maintain on a regular basis.

Sorority and fraternity activities, says Mr. Burgomaster, are the pub's biggest competition.

The list of priorities for the future includes a stereo and a color television. With the TV, explained Mr. Burgomaster, the pub could offer special attractions such as "Kung Fu Night."

The pub was opened in September of 1970 at the suggestion of members of the Student Association, and Crotty Brothers was issued a license by the Virginia Alcoholic Beverage Control Board for the sale of 3.2 beer for on-premises consumption.

Poet and W&M Panel Discuss Education Reform

Poet-essayist Judson Jerome will address the Project PLUS Forum on "Radical Premises in the Reform of Liberal Education," Wednesday, Feb. 13, at 7:30 p.m. in Millington Auditorium. Mr. Jerome, author of Culture Out of Anarchy and The Reconstruction of American Higher Learning, was professor of literature at Antioch College's east-coast campus from 1953-1973.

A panel including George Healy, vice president for academic affairs, Mark Gulesian, assistant professor of education, and James C. Livingston, dean of the undergraduate program, will respond to Mr. Jerome's remarks on conflicts in higher education. The public is invited to attend.

This program is one in a continuing series of Wednesday evening Forums on the theme of "Conflict and Conflict Resolution" made possible through a special grant to Project PLUS from the Sperry and Hutchinson Foundation.

SUBJECT: Energy Conservation

The Federal Energy Office recently published mandatory regulations that have affected the College. The regulations set out detailed requirements that allocate the supply of fuel oils, which are used to heat College buildings.

These regulations require elementary and secondary schools heated by fuel oils to lower indoor temperatures by six degrees. Colleges and universities using fuel oils for heat are required to reduce temperatures in dormitories and other living units by six degrees and temperatures in classrooms and all other spaces by ten degrees. This means temperature settings of 68°F for dormitories and 64°F for classrooms and offices are necessary to comply with the new regulations. Just as individuals are required to recognize the temperature reduction in order to be assured of a continued supply of fuel oil at home, so is the College required to take these reduction measures.

The required reductions in temperatures have been made in dormitories, classrooms and offices with exceptions granted to those activities provided for under the regulations. Excepted activities are: the Student Health Service Center, the Population Laboratory, the laboratories of the Biology Department and the swimming pools in Blow Gymnasium and Adair Gymnasium.

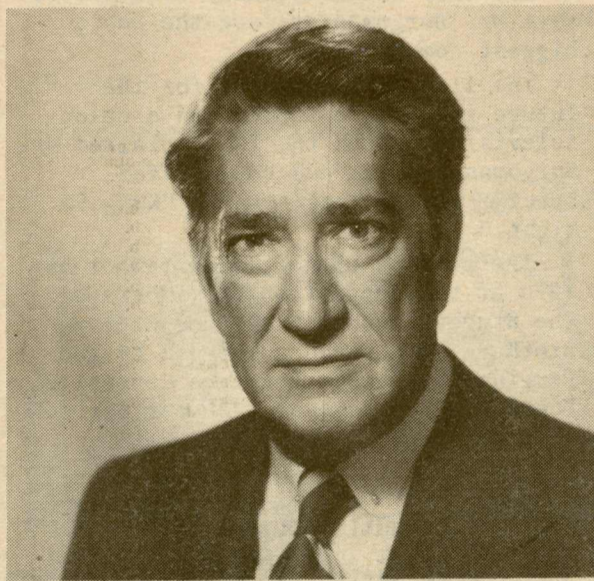

Should other Deans, Department Heads and Directors determine the prescribed reduction in temperature settings prohibit the essential functioning of their activities, they should request exemption in writing. Requests for exemptions should be addressed to the Vice President for Business Affairs.

We regret the required reduction to 64° in classroom and office buildings. However, with everyone's continued cooperation the College should be able to make it through this heating season without undue hardship on anyone.

William J. Carter,

Vice President for Business Affairs

Kappes Is Businessman-in-Residence This Month

Charles W. Kappes

Charles W. Kappes, senior vice president and general counsel of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company of Newark, N.J., arrived this week to spend a month on the campus as part of the "Businessman-in-Residence" program originated by the Institute of Life Insurance.

His visit is being sponsored by the College. During his stay he will lecture in various classes throughout the College and hold discussion sessions with students.

Mr. Kappes is one of eight life insurance company board chairmen, presidents and vice presidents who will spend time during 1974 living on college campuses where they will teach classes and hold seminars.

The program was proposed to the Institute by its University Advisory Council as an opportunity to strengthen communications between liberal arts students and faculty and the life insurance business. The Council--consisting of leading educators from across the nation, and chaired by Edward A. Sullivan, Avalon professor of humanities, Princeton University--felt that the businessman's stay on campus would provide him with a chance to discover what is happening in the academic world, become known by those on campus, and exchange ideas with students and faculty members.

In the program's pilot year, 1973, Gilbert W. Fitzhugh, at that time chairman and chief executive officer of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, spent three-and-a-half weeks at the University of Oklahoma, and Lesley L. Ralson, vice president of The Prudential Insurance Company of America, taught on the Baylor University campus for four weeks.

Those taking part in the program during 1974 and the colleges they will visit are:

James N. Ackerman, vice president and general counsel, Bankers Life of Nebraska (Lincoln), St. Olaf College; Thomas Allsopp, senior vice president, the Prudential (Boston), Tufts University; John T. Fey, president, National Life (Montpelier, Vt.), Pomona College; Richard I. Fricke, executive vice president, Mutual of New York, Duke University; Robert N. Houser, president, Bankers Life (Des Moines), Baylor University; John S. Pillsbury, Jr., chairman, Northwestern National (Minneapolis), Drake University; and Thomas A. Watson, chairman, Lincoln National (Fort Wayne, Ind.), Indiana University.

Fulbright-Hays Exchange Program to USSR

The Council for International Exchange of Scholars, formerly the Committee on International Exchange of Persons, has announced that approximately 10 Fulbright-Hays lectureships are being offered under the 1974-75 exchange agreement between the United States and the Soviet Union. There is no provision under this category of the U.S.-U.S.S.R. exchange agreement for research awards.

Soviet universities are on the semester system (Sept.-Jan.; Feb.-June). Awards will be made either for one or both of the two semesters of the 1974-75 academic year. Applications cannot be accepted for shorter periods. Candidates are requested to indicate their maximum period of availability as well as any preferences of semesters.

The Department of State will provide an award based upon the salary being earned at the time of application but not in excess of $1500 per month, payable in dollars. In addition, it will provide air travel at economy rate for the grantee but not for accompanying dependents. The Soviet government offers a supplementary maintenance allowance of 240 rubles per month and will also provide housing for grantee but not for accompanying dependents.

Soviet institutions are not requiring fluency in Russian; when necessary, translators are provided. Those selected for awards, however, are encouraged to acquire as much language competence as possible prior to departure for the assignment.

Applications will be welcome from senior professors (associate or full) in any of the areas listed below.

Information on awards in the category of social sciences and humanities has not yet been received from the Soviet Union. However, it is anticipated that at least one award will be offered in each of the following fields:

American Literature
American History: Specialist in Domestic Affairs
Linguistics: General Theoretical

A minimum of six awards will be offered in natural sciences, engineering, and mathematics at Moscow State, Tbilisi State or Voronezh State Universities.

Completed applications and all supporting materials must be received by Thursday, February 28.

For further information and application forms contact Ms. Georgene B. Lovecky, Council for International Exchange of Scholars, 2101 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20418, telephone (202) 389-6637.

'74-75 Study in England

Nine or more opportunities for students to study in England in 1974-75 will be available. Seniors may apply for the exchange scholarship at the University of Exeter; sophomores may also compete for this scholarship. Seven junior-year places at Exeter and the exchange scholarship at the University of St. Andrews are open to sophomores exclusively. Interested students should see Cecil McCulley in Lodge 12.

There will be an information meeting Thursday, Feb. 7 at 4 p.m. in Room C of the Campus Center. The deadline for applications is set for Tues., Feb. 26.

Computer Center Offers Courses

The Computer Center will offer a variety of free short courses this spring for all interested potential users. Initial sessions will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays beginning at 7 p.m.

Students are requested to attend orientation and background sessions and may pre-register for sessions A, B, C, D, E or F by calling Ext. 477.

The dates and locations of initial meetings are as follows: session A, Tues., Feb. 12, Small 152; session B, Tues., Feb. 19, Small 152; session C, Tues., Feb. 26, Small 152; session D, Thurs., Feb. 14, Small 102; session E, Thurs., Feb. 14, Small 238; and session F, Thurs., March 14, Small 152.

Sessions will include the following:

- A. Introduction to the Computer Center and to the Services It Provides
Hopefully, all questions new or potentially new users may have will be answered at this time. Topics to be covered include establishing account numbers, submitting jobs, renting tapes, disk packs, rates, the use of terminals and keypunches. A tour of the Computer Center will follow a brief description of our present hardware configuration.
- B. Our Hardware/Software Configuration
An attempt to lead the new user into an intelligent understanding and appreciation of the software environment in which his programs will operate. Questions relating the tasks a person may wish to perform to the present computing environment will be answered at this time. Topics to be covered include the role of OS, HASP, compilers, loaders, job structure; the accessing of various devices, system communication; examples of elementary JCL.
- C. Comprehensive Introduction to System Data-flow
Topics to be covered include system control, types of files, methods of creating, partitioning, modifying, deleting, executing data sets; JCL; TSO.
- C1. More TSO
A 2-3 session course explaining the use of IBM's time sharing option. Suggested prerequisite: Session C.
- C2. More JCL
A 2-3 session short course further describing the job control language. Suggested prerequisite: Session C.
- D. Comparison of Available Packages for Mathematics and Statistics
A discussion to help the user relate his needs to available packages. SPSS, SAS, Biomed, etc. will be briefly described.

SPRING SPECIAL PROGRAMS

CHOOSE FROM A VARIETY OF COURSES
OFFERED ON THE WILLIAM & MARY CAMPUS OR IN NEWPORT NEWS!

GENERAL INFORMATION

The Office of Special Programs administers a variety of non-credit short courses, seminars, institutes, field studies and conferences on the Williamsburg campus and at W&M's Virginia Associated Research Campus in Newport News. These programs allow adults who do not need credit toward a degree the opportunity to improve their employment skills, redirect their abilities to meet new challenges and to enjoy educational programs without concern for grades or examinations.

REGISTRATION To reserve a space in class, complete the application form and mail it or telephone the information to the Office of Special Programs by February 1. Applicants will be sent an acknowledgement of the enrollment in each course. Those who satisfactorily complete courses will receive a Certificate of Completion. Continuing Education Units (CEUs) are also awarded for some programs which qualify under the standards established by the State Council on Higher Education in Virginia. Additional information regarding CEU's may be obtained from the Office of Special Programs.
