Eight Recommendations On Self-Determination

The report on Self-Determination which was made in January by James C. Livingston, Dean of the Undergraduate Program and W. Samuel Sadler, Dean of Students, concluded that Self-Determination is a "sound educational concept" but also emphasized that "implementation of the principle is still incomplete." The study concluded by presenting eight major recommendations designed to transform policy into action and to overcome several deficiencies which were discovered during the College's initial 18 month experience with Self-Determination. Last week Deans Livingston and Sadler reviewed the progress which has been made towards implementing these recommendations, all of which were approved by President Thomas A. Graves, Jr.

The Board of Student Affairs and the Student Association also undertook a study of Self-Determination during the first semester and forwarded their findings to the President. The recommendations in the two reports were very similar and meetings have been held in the last few weeks to resolve the few differences.

The following is a summation of the major recommendations and the progress which has been made thus far towards their implementation:

(1) EXPANDED ORIENTATION AND INTRODUCTION TO SELF-DETERMINATION -- To insure that the members of the College community have an adequate understanding of the responsibilities and obligations as well as the opportunities inherent in Self-Determination, a greatly expanded program of orientation to residential living is planned. Mr. Livingston has drafted a statement on Self-Determination and one on the Honor System which will be sent to potential applicants prior to the completion of their application for admission. The statement on Self-Determination will emphasize the College's commitment to this principle as a cornerstone of residential life. Student Life Policies will be expanded to include a broader discussion of the philosophical and conceptual framework in which Self-Determination works at William and Mary and a more detailed description of the requirements of the policy for all members of the College community. Initial contact has been made with the Director of Publications with the purpose in mind of revising and expanding Student Life Policies in this fashion. Students who have been admitted to the College will receive their copy of Student Life Policies early in the summer prior to their first registration at William and Mary. Depending on the budget, a third publication will be designed to confront new students with some of the kinds of decisions they will have to make as they live within the social system which exists on the campus. This publication would serve as the springboard for discussions which would take place during orientation week. If possible the pamphlet

A Message to Students

"The College of William and Mary is an institution of high ideals and takes pride in the young men and women, representative of Virginia and the nation, who are enrolled here. We are concerned by the current tendency of some students to forget accepted proprieties by engaging in the so-called spring-time fad of "streaking." We are concerned for several specific reasons. The practice violates the rights of others to privacy, leads to possible personal harm or injury, and can attract to the campus undesirable elements. This practice does not conform to the ethics of William and Mary and, in addition, is contrary to the public policy of Virginia as defined by statute.

"I must remind our College community of these facts and caution those inclined to participate in such activity that their action will leave them liable to arrest and prosecution. It is our sincere hope that the law will not have to be invoked at any academic institution, and certainly not at William and Mary."

Thomas A. Graves, Jr.

Board of Visitors' Members Announced

Four alumni of the College have been named to the Board of Visitors by Governor Mills E. Godwin, Jr., and confirmed by the General Assembly.

New appointees are Miss Anne Dobie Peebles, Dunnlorra Farms, Carson, to succeed Mrs. Marion Moncure Duncan; Thomas C. Clarke, Norfolk, to succeed Harry L. Snyder; J. Bruce Bredin, Wilmington, Del., to succeed Blake T. Newton, Jr.; and Mrs. Carter C. Chinnis, Alexandria, to succeed Roger H. Hull.

Reappointed were: Mrs. George Falck, McLean; George E. Zollinger, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.; Dr. Garrett Dalton, Radford; John R. L. Johnson, Jr., Chadds Ford, Pa.; Frederick Deane, Jr., Richmond; and George Sands, Williamsburg.

All appointments are for four-year terms ending March 8, 1978.

New Members

Mr. Bredin, a member of the class of 1936, is president of the Bredin Foundation and the Bredin Realty Company of Wilmington, Del. He is a member of the Board of Overseers of Sweet Briar College and the Board of Directors of St. Andrews School, Middletown, Del. Mr. Bredin is a member of the President's Council at the College and received an Alumni Medallion from the Society of the Alumni in 1965.

Mr. Clarke, '22, is chairman of the board of the Royal Crown Bottling Company, Inc., of Norfolk. He is a member of the Board of Directors and executive board of the First National Bank of Norfolk and the Board of Directors of the Salvation Army. He is a member of the President's Council.

Mrs. Chinnis, '46, was the first woman president of the Society of the Alumni in 1970 and 1971. She has been active in the Mortar Board organization at both the national and state level and served as editor of the Mortar Board Quarterly for several years, and was president of the Mortar Board Alumni Club of Washington in 1968. She is an active member of the Episcopal Church and serves on the vestry of Epiphany Episcopal Church in Washington, D.C.

Miss Peebles, '44, is a past president of the State Board of Education and the Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs. Active in alumni affairs, she was a member of the board of the Society of the Alumni from 1959 to 1965 and served as secretary-treasurer of the board. She received an alumni medallion in 1969.

Campus Exhibits

"Expansions," a series of photographs by Lyle Rosbotham, Phi Beta Kappa Hall, ending March 15.

Exhibit of Publications by members of the faculty, Botetourt Museum, Swem Library, Mon.-Fri., 8 a.m.-5 p.m., Sat. 9 a.m.-1 p.m., ending April 15.

"Raku Forms and Paintings" by Robert D. Crane. Exhibit March 8 through March 25, Andrews Gallery. Open for viewing Wednesdays through Sundays, 1-5 p.m.

Mr. Crane is a member of the Fine Arts Department who teaches ceramics and three dimensional design.

Anthropology

Vinson Sutlive, associate professor, was recently a guest of the Kituhwa Society, Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster, Pa., and spoke on "Forces of Change in Sarawak" and "Family and Longhouse among the Iban."

Education

Robert C. Jones, associate dean, served as a visiting committee member for the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools at Incarnate Word College, San Antonio, Texas, Feb. 17-20.

Mr. Jones has held seven such memberships during recent years.

Armand Galfo, professor, is serving as a consultant to the Education Services Branch of the U.S. Air Force Headquarters at the Pentagon. His current project is a study of the Collegiate Level Examination Program by colleges and universities. Since service personnel often seek to gain advanced standing at universities through the CLEP, the Air Force is interested in the various ways in which institutions of higher education use the instrument for that purpose.

Government

Roger W. Smith, associate professor, has accepted an invitation from the Washington Center for Policy Studies to participate in a conference on political science and theology in Washington, D.C., on May 3-4.

Law School

Walter L. Williams, Jr., assistant professor, served as judge in the Southeastern Regional Competition of the 1974 Philip C. Jessup International Law Moot Court Competition held at Wake Forest University School of Law on March 1-2.

Staff Notes

Buildings and Grounds

Willie E. Randall, custodial worker, has been promoted to housekeeping supervisor A, effective March 16.

Mr. Randall, a native of James City County, has been a member of the staff since October, 1952.

Swem Library

Librarian William C. Pollard will attend a membership meeting of the Southeastern Library Network (SOLINET) at Georgia Institute of Technology in Atlanta on March 14. SOLINET is an organization of approximately 80 academic and public libraries which plans to provide bibliographic data to member libraries for cataloging purposes.

Berna Heyman, acting head, Cataloging Department, attended a meeting of the executive board, Junior Members Round Table, Virginia Library Association, in Richmond, March 8.

Harry E. Krauss, library assistant in the Periodicals Department, recently received a certificate from the Department of History at American University for completion of a two-week course in modern archives administration. The course is offered by American University in cooperation with the National Archives and Records Service, General Services Administration, Library of Congress, and the Maryland Hall of Records.

History

M. Boyd Coyner, Jr., professor of history, will serve as a judge of papers in history at the Fifth Annual Conference on Computers in the Undergraduate Curriculum at Washington State University, Pullman, June 24-26.

Physics

William Lichten of Yale University will speak at the March 15 Physics Colloquium at 4:30 p.m. in Small, Room 109. Mr. Lichten's topic will be "Helium Molecules." Coffee will be served at 4 p.m. in the conference room.

The following papers have been published:

"Multinucleon Removal in 220-MeV π^- Reactions with $A < 51$ Nuclei." V. G. Lind, H. S. Plendl, H. O. Funsten, W. J. Kossler, B. J. Lieb, W. F. Lankford, and A. J. Buffa. Phys. Rev. Letters 32, 479 (1974).

"Analysis of Intermediate Energy Nucleon-Deuteron Elastic Scattering." E. A. Remler and R. A. Miller. Annals of Physics 82, 1 (1974).

E. A. Remler, associate professor, gave an invited seminar at the Physics Department, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill on February 22. His topic was "Quantum Mechanical Scattering as a Stochastic Process."

R. E. Welsh, professor, presented a colloquium to the University of Virginia Physics Department on Feb. 22 entitled "Antiprotonic Kaonic and Sigma Hyperonic Atoms."

Car Pool Listing

From Jarvis Place near Newmarket Shopping Center in Newport News, to campus. Want to leave Newport News around 6:30 a.m. and leave Williamsburg around 4:30 p.m. Monday-Friday. Please call Rena Joy, Ext. 382 or 383, or 838-0349.

Ride wanted to VARC on Tuesday nights, beginning March 12, to leave Williamsburg around 7:30 p.m. Call 229-1634 after 5 p.m. or Ext. 215.

Biology Lecture

John Cairns, Jr., director of the Center for Environmental Studies at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, will present a lecture in the Biology Department Seminar Series Monday, March 18, at 4 p.m. in 117 Millington Hall. His topic will be "Environmental Quality Control Systems."

Mr. Cairns is well known for his research on water pollution and has published extensively in this area. Some recent publications include Coping with Heated Waste Water Discharges from Steam-Electric Power Plants, Application of Aquatic Ecological Information for Water Pollution Control in the Chemical Industry, The Development of an Automated Biological Monitoring System for Water Quality, The Recovery of Damaged Streams, and The Effect of Waste Discharges from Radford Army Ammunition Plant on the Biota of the New River, Virginia. Mr. Cairns is also the editor of two books: The Structure and Function of Fresh-water Microbial Communities and Biological Methods for the Assessment of Water Quality.

Lecture Set Tomorrow

Cyril Ponnampuruma, director of the Chemical Evolution Laboratories at the University of Maryland, will speak on "The Chemical Basis for Extraterrestrial Life," Wed., March 13, at the College.

His talk, which is open to the public, will be given in Small, Room 113.

Mr. Ponnampuruma is well known for his research on lunar and meteorite analysis and is the author of Studies on the Origin of Life.

His campus visit is being sponsored jointly by the Biology and Chemistry Clubs and the Graduate Student Association.

Health Center Report

The Student Health Center report for the month of February shows 2,484 persons were treated as outpatients (1,189 men students, 1,278 women students, 17 employees) and 65 (21 men, 44 women) were hospitalized for a total of 150 days.

Figures from the February, 1973, report show 1,320 persons as outpatients and 52 persons admitted for a total of 91 days.

Two Honored for Service to Kiwanis Club

Two members of the William and Mary community were honored at a recent meeting of the Kiwanis when Ray Adams, assistant treasurer-auditor (second from the left), received a plaque for his service to the Fund-Raising Committee and Jesse S. Tarleton, assistant professor of business administration (third from the left), received a plaque honoring him for serving as secretary of the club for seven years. As chairman of the Fund-Raising Committee, Mr. Adams has led the club in its efforts to raise $7,500 over a five-year period to finance a new recreation field in Williamsburg. At far left is another William and Mary man, local CPA Gil Granger, a graduate of the College, who is president of Kiwanis. At right is John D. Elgorton of Williamsburg, also honored as one of the club's fund-raisers.

Portrait is Recent Gift

A large crayon portrait of Nathaniel Beverley Tucker, 1784-1851, professor of law and police at William and Mary from 1833-1851, has been given to the College by Beverley L. Crump of Richmond.

Mr. Crump is a descendant of William Wood Crump who named one of his sons Beverley Tucker Crump because of his admiration and friendship for his tutor, Nathaniel Beverley Tucker.

Nathaniel Beverley Tucker, who held a judgeship in Missouri before beginning his teaching duties at the College, was also a novelist and the author of three books--George Balcombe, The Partisan Leader, a work which foretold of the coming of the Civil War, and Gertrude.

The portrait by Genarro Persico, a 19th century painter from Richmond, is believed to have been commissioned sometime between 1833-1843.

The portrait has been added to the College collection of art and will be hung in the Botetourt Gallery of Swem Library.

For Fall, 1974

Student Positions Open

Application forms are now available for approximately 200 positions as orientation aides for next fall. All students are encouraged to apply if they are able to return to the campus on September 5.

Students with at least one year of experience as an orientation aide are eligible to apply for six positions as assistant heads of the Orientation Program.

Application forms are available from Dean Lynn Schulz, James Blair Hall 210. Deadline for applications is March 22.

College Women's Club

The College Women's Club will meet Wednesday, March 20, at the Reading Center in the basement of James Blair Terrace #42, from 9:30-11:30 a.m. Baby-sitting services will be available. Call Nora Smith at 229-9330 to reserve a place for each child.

Clothing Drive

Don't throw away those used clothes in good condition. Give them away! There is a young child or an elderly man or woman at Eastern State Hospital who has a need for articles of clothing, children's games and toys (for all ages), and books and magazines (on any subject).

A drive to collect these articles is being conducted in the community now through Sunday, March 24.

Articles may be taken to the Campus Center or Landrum Hall lobby.

Persons desiring information on other locations and those wishing to have their donations collected should call Jim Graham, 229-8405; Tony Price, 220-1473; or Lawrie Falck, Landrum 319, Ext. 575.

Rosser Succumbs

Bernard Rosser, custodial worker in the Wren Building and official bell ringer for the College, died in Riverside Hospital Friday, March 8.

A native of Lynchburg, Mr. Rosser had been a member of the William and Mary staff since 1966.

He was also assistant pastor of Beulah Baptist Church, Yorktown, and a night supervisor for janitors at Colonial Williamsburg.

He is survived by his wife, Sally Kay; a son, Bernard; and a daughter, Arleen.

New Coaches Named

George Balanis has been named new head basketball coach at William and Mary, director of athletics Ben Carnevale announced last week.

Mr. Balanis, an assistant coach for the past three years, had succeeded, on an interim basis, Ed Ashnault, who resigned with five games left in the season.

A graduate of Newport News High School, Mr. Balanis received his B.A. in physical education from the University of Texas. He formerly taught in high schools in El Paso, Tex., and was a coach at Walsingham Academy in Williamsburg. During his third year at Walsingham, he was named State Catholic Coach of the Year. He joined the William and Mary faculty in 1971.

W. Bruce Parkhill has been named first assistant basketball coach. He received his B.S. in physical education from Lock Haven State College in Lock Haven, Pa., and previously served as a graduate assistant at the University of Virginia. He came to the College as an assistant coach in 1972.

Phil Elmassian, '73, has been named assistant football coach. Formerly a graduate assistant at the College, he also coached the junior varsity football team while completing work for his degree.

Mr. Elmassian, who starred as a defensive back for the W&M Indians for two years, will serve as offensive backfield coach.

Fuel Costs Skyrocket

Private citizens concerned with the high cost of fuel oil may gain some solace from the fact that institutions are having similar problems.

At William and Mary this past winter, the cost of a gallon of heating oil jumped from 8.31 cents in September to 24.5 cents in February. Projected to the end of the current fiscal year, the increase will add nearly $132,000 to the $234,707 budgeted for heating.

If the 24.5 cent a gallon price holds up during the next fiscal year, the College will have to come up with $490,000 for fuel oil, assuming the winter is no more severe than the past one.

Trying to cope with the skyrocketing costs and responding to Federal Energy Office (FEO) directives, the College turned back the thermostats to 64° in January and used only 237,000 gallons of oil compared to 280,000 last year--although there was an additional building to heat.

During the current fiscal year, which ends in July, the College expects to put out $365,000 for heating fuel.

VARC Courses Deadline

For persons who have not previously registered by mail, the College's Office of Special Programs at the Virginia Associated Research Campus in Newport News will accept registrations in the following courses until 5 p.m. Friday, March 15: Intermediate Chess Strategy, Symphonic Music of the Romantic Era, Real Estate Investing--Business and Legal Aspects, Exploring Your Personality, and Environmental Law.

Registration may be completed by calling the Office of Special Programs at VARC, 877-9231, Ext. 200. Catalogues with full course descriptions are available upon request.

will include brief descriptions of some of the kinds of dilemmas which students face and will suggest means for resolving them.

(2) ADJUSTMENT PERIOD FOR FRESHMEN-- The report of the Deans recommended that there be a period of time commencing with the new student's first day on campus when he or she would not be eligible to participate in Self-Determination. During this initial period, an intensive orientation program would be presented to all new students. The report of the Board of Student Affairs recommends a different procedure and despite several meetings between the Deans and representatives of the BSA and SA, the adjustment period still remains a point of contention. Lynn Schulz, Associate Dean of Students for Student Development, however, is meeting with several students to devise the techniques and programs necessary for orienting new students to Self-Determination in the fall. Once this program is completed, planning for its implementation will once again be held with the BSA and SA.

(3) UNIFORM GUIDELINES IN UPPER-CLASS RESIDENCES FOR THE FIRST THIRTY DAYS -- Both reports recommended that residence hall councils continue to be selected no later than the end of the fourth week of the first semester of each academic session. Beginning in September of 1974, however, residence hall councils will not be selected prior to the second week of the semester. Once elected, they will draft guidelines for their residential units which will then be voted on by the students residing in their residence hall. Until these student-initiated guidelines are completed and accepted, all residence halls will participate in self-determination under a uniform set of guidelines which are currently being developed. A committee of Interhall is drafting a set of guidelines which are due to be completed by April 15. Once these are finalized, they will be considered by a review committee consisting of the Associate Deans of Students for Student Development and Residence Hall Life and the presidents of the BSA, SA and Interhall or their delegated representatives. The uniform guidelines will be used during the summer session in addition to the first thirty day period of each session. Residence halls will determine the hours that these guidelines will be in effect but may not alter the guidelines in any other fashion.

In the fall, residence hall councils will be assisted in the preparation of their own guidelines by being given a copy of that residence's previous year's guidelines as well as the uniform guidelines which may be used as models. Violations of the uniform guidelines will be heard by the Residence Hall Councils once they are elected in the fall or, to insure a speedy adjudication of any charges, an accused student will be permitted to request that the Associate Dean of Students hear the matter at the time of the accusation rather than delaying the hearing until the council is elected.

(4) ADMINISTRATIVE HANDLING OF COMPLAINTS -- Through Student Life Policies and the other sources of information about self-determination, students will be informed that they have the right to counsel with a member of the Dean of Students staff about any problem arising from self-determination. Where issues of genuine sensitivity exist, the Associate Dean of Students for Student Development will be empowered to hear the matter independent of the Residence Hall Council after conferring with the Chairperson of the Council normally having jurisdiction over the student(s) involved. In this fashion, it is hoped that the College will have provided a way to be certain that all legitimate complaints are heard and dealt with appropriately, even in those cases where the delicacy of the situation might have prevented such adjudication in the past.

In addition, to insure a particular residence hall as many options as possible, beginning in the fall, residence hall councils will be given the right to permit the residents of a particular floor or distinct section of their building to elect hours of visitation more restrictive than those employed in the remainder of the residence hall. With the inauguration of a lottery system of room selection for most students, several students who might wish more restrictive visitation privileges could elect to room together on the same hall or in the same section in the knowledge that this choice might be available to them.

(5) REVIEW PROCEDURE FOR RESIDENCE HALL GUIDELINES -- To insure that the guidelines which are written are compatible with the community standards and those established in the "Statement of Rights and Responsibilities," a committee consisting of the Associate Dean of Students for Student Development, the Associate Dean of Residence Hall Life, the President (or his/her delegated representative) of the Board of Student Affairs, the Student Association and Interhall has been established to review guidelines and to determine their compatibility with these standards. The committee is empowered to withhold the privilege of self-determination from any residence unit which does not develop guidelines within the first thirty days (six weeks in the case of a freshman unit) or which adopts guidelines that are inconsistent with the community's standards or the "Statement of Rights and Responsibilities" and are not corrected within a reasonable period of time as determined by the committee. During the course of the year, this same committee is empowered to review charges of failure to implement the adopted procedures and to recommend to the Dean of Students that the privilege of self-determination be removed until the situation has been corrected. This particular provision is designed to alleviate a current problem which exists by virtue of the fact that residence hall councils are now required to produce guidelines which conform to these standards but no appropriate review process has been enunciated through Student Life Policies.

(6) EXPANDED APPEALS PROCEDURE -- In response to student sentiment, the Interhall Association is developing a campus-wide student appeals board to hear the appeals of students who have been found guilty by their council of violation of residence hall regulations. Once this appeals board is selected, residence hall councils will still retain the option of referring a case directly to the Associate Dean of Students for Student Development and any student who wishes to appeal may carry his/her case to the Associate Dean or the Committee on Discipline rather than the Appeals Board if desired. Should one of the appeals agents overturn the decision of the Residence Hall Council the Council will have the right to appeal that decision to the Dean of the Undergraduate Program. This latter appeal provision has been instituted since the Residence Hall Council is ultimately charged with the responsibility of maintaining the desired environment in the residence hall it has been elected to serve.

(7) TRAINING PROGRAM FOR RESIDENCE HALL COUNCIL MEMBERS AND STAFF LEADERS -- A comprehensive training program for both the members of the residence hall staff and the members of the Residence Hall Councils will be designed and implemented by September of 1974. Both programs will be designed to give these groups the skills necessary to carry out their tasks and will actually consist of a series of learning experiences, spread throughout the academic session in order to take into account increasingly sophisticated levels of needs on the part of both the staff and council members. In the training of the Residence Hall Councils, the Dean of Students' staff will be assisted by the Interhall Association. To further clarify the responsibilities of the residence hall staff for Self-Determination, all job descriptions have been rewritten and disseminated to applicants for positions on the 1974-75 staff.

(8) IMPROVEMENTS IN THE CARD-KEY SECURITY SYSTEM -- Several refinements have been recommended for the card-key security system in order to expand its utilization. An assessment of our present system and its appropriateness to the needs of the campus has been requested and will be conducted before improvements are made. Several of the recommendations are dependent upon budget considerations. A good example is the proposal that the number of card-key security units be expanded and that units now in use be remounted in such a fashion that they are counter-sunk into the doors and walls and all wiring be enclosed rather than the present method of surface mounting which has made it easy to damage the units or sever the wires.

An entirely new system has been proposed for the Fraternity Complex and will be worked out during the summer months. The use of card-key systems will be voluntary since the doors in the Fraternity Complex will be rekeyed so that a student's room key may be used to unlock the interior doors from the second and third floor living areas, lounge area and the basement social area. All exterior doors will be on a different key for security reasons. Members of fraternities who do not reside in the houses but who wish access to the public areas may, with the permission of their chapter, secure a key which would gain them admission to the lounge and social areas of their house. These provisions have been designed in view of the lease agreement with the fraternities which makes them fully responsible for their house and the furnishings in it.

In addition to these recommendations Deans Livingston and Sadler also announced that they would continue to chart the progress of Self-Determination as carefully and as vigorously as the College charts the progress of its other educational programs in order to insure that Self-Determination does achieve its desired educational end.

Team Places Second In Business Game

The College team in the business simulation game, sponsored by Emory University, placed second in competition this year.

This is the fifth year that William and Mary has participated in the 10-year old Emory program. The 30 schools participating were divided into four industrial groupings.

The College team operating as The James Riverware Corporation had difficulty with a price war and wage demands by workers and ended up in the red.

Each team conducted business for their company, fed their work into a computer and received back data on other firms in order to make their next move. The game was played for six weeks, the "companies" making 12 inputs to the computer.

According to Jesse S. Tarleton, assistant professor of business administration, the team figured it was in fifth place going into the final round of oral presentation but picked up to second on the strength of their "corporate report." The students won out over VPI&SU, Western Kentucky University, Vanderbilt, Washington and Lee and Brandeis in their division. First place went to the perennial winner, Harding College.

Seven members of the team, Tom Watkins, Moreland Hills, Ohio; John Dillon, Ramsey, N.J.; Wayne Lorgus, West Chester, Pa.; Milton Mooney, Ashland, Ohio; Jocelyn Davis, Hartborg, Pa.; and Karen Schorschinsky, Massapequa Park, N.Y., are business administration majors. Marilyn Miller, Hawthorne, N.Y., and Susan Marshall, Charlottesville, are both math majors.

College Commended

William and Mary was honored recently in connection with Arbor Day by the Civic Beautification Committee of the Williamsburg Council of Garden Clubs.

President Graves accepted a letter of commendation for the planting around William and Mary Hall.

The letter stated, "The planting around William and Mary Hall is appropriate as well as handsome. We, the residents of the area, have always found the William and Mary campus a source of horticultural beauty; now it is further enhanced by this planting of the lovely holly trees, pines and magnolias. Many thanks for giving to us and to the future citizens such a wonderful creation of beauty."

Orchesis to Perform

"An Evening of Dance" will be presented by the William and Mary Orchesis dance group, Wed.-Thurs., March 20-21, in Phi Beta Kappa Hall at 8:15 p.m.

A selection of ten dances, choreographed by members of the dance group, will encompass a variety of moods and incorporate the music of modern, romantic and classical composers.

"Anything Not At All," a group dance, choreographed by Sherry Crane, Timberville, will include the spoken word through a reading of e. e. cummings' poetry by Frank Hankey, McLean, and Marjorie Ruhlman, Burlington, N. C.

The finale, "Opera Buffa," a spoof on serious opera, will include a cast of courtiers, lovers, soldiers, ballerinas, and a "dying lady" and will be accompanied by the music of Bizet, Gounod, Mozart, and Verdi. The number will be jointly choreographed by Sherry Crane; Kerri Hagler, Arlington; and Joan Wolbier, Alexandria.

Other program selections and choreographers are as follows: "Visions Fugitive," Nancy Nasworthy, Annandale; "Winter's Past," Kathy Parkhill, Waynesboro; "Spectrum," Lynn Melzer, Lake Forest, Ill., with piano accompaniment by Marnie Montgomery, Alexandria; "We See, Hear, and Are Silent," Linda Foster, Farmville; "Celebration," Joan Wolbier; "Sealude," Kathy Todd, Richmond; "S.O.S.," Jane Taylor, Virginia Beach; and "Non," Cindy Stern, Levittown, N.Y.

Technical advisor for the performances is Chris Boll, Williamsburg; David Dudley, Richmond, is in charge of light design.

Orchesis members participating in the program include: Joan Wolbier, president; Mary Brent Whipple, vice-president, Richmond; Sherry Crane, secretary; Cindy Stern and Lynn Melzer, costume mistresses.

AAUP Book Show

The 1973 Association of American University Presses' Book Show is on display in the lobby of Swem Library this week through Friday, March 15, and next week, Monday through Thursday, March 18-21. The show consists of 30 books which, in the opinion of a jury of experts, represent the best in scholarly bookmaking from the viewpoint of design and production.

The books are being presented by the Ferguson Seminar Committee of the College, as a followup to last semester's seminar, held to interest William and Mary students in the possibilities of pursuing a career in publishing. They should be especially interesting to students of graphic design and fine arts.

The show will be open only in the afternoons, from 12 noon to 5 p.m., on the days indicated.

Harkness Ballet to Perform March 13

The Harkness Ballet of New York City will appear in the final presentation of the 1973-74 Concert Series at 8:15 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Hall on Wednesday, March 13.

General admission tickets are $3 and are on sale at the desk of the Campus Center.

The program will include four selections: "Night Song," with music by Alan Hovhaness; "Sebastian," composed by Gian-Carlo Menotti; "Gemini," by Gustav Mahler; and "Time Out of Mind," with music by Paul Creston.

Books by Recent Grads Published

Two recent William and Mary graduates, Joseph J. Ellis, III, of Arlington and Frank Miller Turner of Wilmington, Ohio, have had books published by the Yale University Press within the last six months.

Mr. Ellis is the author of The New England Mind in Transition: Samuel Johnson of Connecticut, 1696-1772. Mr. Turner's book is entitled Between Science and Religion: The Reaction to Scientific Naturalism in Late Victorian England.

Mr. Ellis graduated from William and Mary in 1965 with a degree in philosophy and earned a Ph.D. in history from Yale University in 1969. He served as a captain in the U. S. Army and as an assistant professor at the U. S. Military Academy at West Point. He is currently assistant professor of history at Mount Holyoke College.

His book traces the stormy career of Samuel Johnson and explores the intellectual and cultural forces in New England at a time when religion, education and politics were undergoing drastic changes.

Mr. Turner graduated with highest honors in history in 1966. His wife, the former Margaret Ann Good, was also a departmental honors student who graduated in 1967. He earned a Ph.D. from Yale in 1971. While a graduate student he was a Woodrow Wilson and Danforth Fellow and in 1972 won the John Addison Porter Prize. He is currently an assistant professor of history at Yale.

His book reveals the complexity of late Victorian intellectual life by examining the lives and thought of six late Victorian writers who, having abandoned the Christian faith, found scientific naturalism an equally inadequate guide to life.

Talk by Ryland

Assistant Attorney General Walter H. Ryland was featured speaker at a meeting of the Tidewater Division Superintendents last Wednesday in the Campus Center. He spoke on a "Review of Statutes Affecting Public Education Emerging from the 1974 General Assembly."

Outing Club Display

There will be a display of hiking equipment by the back-packing division of the William and Mary Outing Club in the Ballroom of the Campus Center, Thursday, March 14, at 7 p.m.

In the preface to his book, Mr. Turner adds a note of personal thanks: "acknowledging a long debt of gratitude to Professors Bruce McCully, Harold Fowler, and Richard Sherman of the College of William and Mary, who did not directly contribute to this book but who introduced me while an undergraduate to the pleasures of history."

Third Edition Published

The third edition of the Handbook of Virginia Rules of Procedure in Actions at Law by Arthur W. Phelps, professor of law at the College's Marshall-Wythe School of Law, is scheduled for publication this month by the Michie Company of Charlottesville.

For the Virginia Bench and Bar, this new publication lists rule changes up to the present time, especially those important ones made Mar. 1-Sept. 1, 1972, and includes changes in court nomenclature by the 1973 General Assembly.

Mr. Phelps has thoroughly revised the second edition of his work. The new third edition will include the rules in Part One of the Rules of Court, the general rules of procedure applicable to all proceedings; rules contained in Part Three, which provide the practice procedure in actions at law; and rules in Part Four, which cover depositions and similar pretrial procedures.

A concise statement of the new rules of appellate procedure (except as they relate to the Corporate Commission and the Industrial Commission) which is in Part Five of the Rules of Court, is included in an appendix and should prove useful in view of the substantial revisions made in the appellate rules, effective Mar. 1, 1972.

Mr. Phelps has been a member of the School of Law faculty since 1945.

Civil Rights Symposium

A symposium entitled "Brown v. Board of Education--Twenty Years Later," marking the twentieth anniversary of the 1954 Supreme Court decision on school desegregation, will be held in Phi Beta Kappa Hall, Sat., April 13.

Sponsored by the associate dean of administration's office and the Marshall-Wythe Institute, with the aid of the History Department, the Graduate Student Association, and several Law School faculty members, the day-long symposium will feature a panel discussion, speeches, and workshops.

Marion Barry, Jr., civil rights activist, founder of PRIDE, Inc., and president of the District of Columbia Board of Education, will deliver the main address.

Panel members will include Pat Watters of the Southern Regional Council, Atlanta, Ga., and John Lewis of the Voter Education Project, Atlanta. Mrs. Hamilton Crockford, former chairman of the Richmond School Board, has also agreed to participate.

As a prelude to the symposium, folk-singer Bill Haymes will present a concert of freedom songs from the early civil rights movement at the Hoi Polloi, April 12, time to be announced later. He will also give a lecture-demonstration for the History 466 class that afternoon.

The College Bookstore will have a special display of books and materials by and about several of the symposium participants.

The program will be open to the public.

Official Memoranda

From: James C. Livingston,
Dean of the Undergraduate Program

To: The College Community

Subject: Director of Minority Student Affairs

Several members of the College community have inquired about the status of the College's plan for a minority student officer. This notice is meant to bring you up-to-date on the matter.

The College plans to hire a Director of Minority Student Affairs this spring. The person will begin work September 1, and will report to the Dean of the Undergraduate Program. The Director will have primary responsibility for the recruitment of minority students, and during the initial years on the job the Director's time will be devoted largely to recruitment. The Director will also serve as Counselor to minority students at the College.

The Director's salary will range from $10,000-14,500, depending on professional qualifications and experience. The position has been advertised in The Chronicle of Higher Education and other publications. If you know of qualified and interested candidates please let me know.
