Seniors Begin $10,000 Drive for Class Gift

Craig Cornwell, president of the Class of 1974, has announced a record-setting senior class gift goal of $10,000. The gift, in the form of cash and pledges, will be comprised of five-year pledges, room deposits and the remainder of the senior class treasury.

The gift will be used for those purposes that many seniors have worked so hard for during their years at the College. The Martin Luther King, Jr., Scholarship Fund will be used to continue to encourage minority enrollment at the College so that future students may benefit from increased student diversity and all students will have an equal opportunity to attend the College. The Circle K - Chickahominy Field Improvements will provide for continued support for community service projects so that students will have the opportunity to widen their own experiences while attending college. The College Wide Environment Committee needs assistance as well in order to continue their important work improving the campus surroundings. Many other needs of the College that are not funded by state appropriations, such as Project Plus and Asia House, will also receive support.

J. Edward Zollinger, a distinguished member of the Board of Visitors and an alumnus of the College, took note of the fund drive in a most dramatic manner in a recent letter to Mr. Cornwell. "It is clear to me that voluntary financial support of the College's alumni will be of critical importance in the years immediately ahead. Alumni annual giving may well be the primary source for that margin of educational excellence to which the entire William and Mary community aspires." Mr. Zollinger continued, "I find your effort so admirable that I wish to propose a challenge to you and the senior class. I herewith offer to match on a dollar-for-dollar basis the first $10,000 you and your volunteers raise in cash and pledges from senior class members prior to June 1, provided you raise at least $10,000."

In an effort to meet this challenge, the senior class has organized a group of volunteers to personally solicit contributions from each senior on campus. Members of the Black Student Organization, Circle K, Omicron Delta Kappa, Mortar Board and other interested individuals will be visiting the seniors on Wednesday, April 10, and Thursday, April 11.

Board Officers Named

R. Harvey Chappell, Jr., of Richmond, has been re-elected to a second term as Rector of the Board of Visitors.

Physics

W. J. Kossler, associate professor, and H. O. Funsten, professor, Physics Department, have been awarded a $28,000 research grant by the National Science Foundation.

The money will be used to fund experiments during the coming year at the Space Radiation Effects Laboratory, Newport News, and at the Columbia University Synchrocyclotron, providing the facility begins operation in time. Part of the money, as is customary with such grants, will be used for College needs--in this case over $4,000. The remainder of the grant will be used to defray the actual costs of the experiments.

The research of Professors Kossler and Funsten consists of very accurate measurements of what happens when atomic nuclei are bombarded with fast negative particles called pions. The nuclei, after being struck, emit a powerful radiation similar to x-rays. Observation of the amount and nature of this radiation allows the observers to get an idea of what is going on inside the nucleus. The technique used by Kossler and Funsten is new and has attracted considerable attention among nuclear physicists.

Several members of the department attended the American Physical Society Meeting in Philadelphia, Pa., March 25-28. The following papers were presented:

"Nuclear Magnetic Resonance Detection of Charged Defects in GaAs." R. K. Hester, A. Sher, J. F. Soest and G. Weisz. Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 19, 252 (1974).

"Electronic Density of States of Liquid Metals." K. S. Chang, A. Sher and G. Weisz. Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 19, 317 (1974).

The following paper has been published:

"NMR Study of High Temperature Phase Transitions in  $\text{KH}_2\text{PO}_4$  - type Crystals." J. Y. Nicholson III and J. F. Soest. Journal of Chemical Physics 60, 715 (1974).

The show emphasizes a new form of artistic endeavor that strives to make the creative and the technical aspects of swimming of equal importance. Creative aquatics enables the swimmer, using the water as his medium, to work beyond set patterns and stunts of synchronized swimming to create and communicate an idea.

All the performance numbers have been choreographed by members of the Mermettes group. Three of the compositions, "Etude," a solo number by Karen Larson, '76; "Friends," a duet with Mindy Hallgren, '77, and Madonna Moss, '76, choreographed by Megan Philpotts, '75; and "Ms?" with Chris McKechnie, '75, Madonna Moss, Keith Havens, '76, and Mike Malpass, '75, will be presented at the first national conference of the National Institute for Creative Aquatics at Randolph-Macon Women's College the last weekend in April.

"Tower of Babel Job," choreographed by Chris McKechnie, will incorporate the spoken word through a reading of Carl Sandburg's poetry.

"Water Lillies," is a group number choreographed by Mary Lively, '74, and "Quiet," a number choreographed by Joan Floyd, '77, will be augmented by special sound effects such as alarm clocks, a telephone ringing, a typewriter, and a washing machine.

Choreographer for a number entitled "Moments" is Karen Larson. "Walden III," an underwater group number, is being choreographed by Pam Kuchenbuch, '76. An all male number, "The Case Batman Failed to Solve," has been arranged by Chris McFadden, '76. "The Primaries," a number dealing with the primary colors, blue, red and yellow, has been choreographed by Janice Hight, '76, and "Urbanization" is a large group number jointly choreographed by Sherry Lupton, '76, and Sharon Zook, '76. ## Centex Plans Educational TV Station for Peninsula

The Peninsula section of Virginia will have a new educational television station and a nationally unique tool for educating the handicapped, if federal funding is obtained by a non-profit Williamsburg corporation.

The corporation, Center of Excellence, Inc. (Centex), is jointly directed by College officials and several Peninsula citizens. It is chiefly the result of efforts by John A. Curtis, a nationally known authority in the field of telecommunications, who has made Williamsburg his retirement home.

Centex has applied to the U.S. Office of Education for a grant of $457,000 to enable construction of a fully equipped transmitter at West Point. The transmitter would beam educational programs to a primary viewing area of Charles City, James City and York counties and the cities of Williamsburg, Hampton and Newport News.

Centex has also sought permission from the Federal Communications Commission for the use of UHF Channel 46 for its station, WTEC.

Initially, WTEC would use Channel 46 and its West Point transmitter as a relay for programs telecast by WHRO, Hampton, thus extending WHRO's audience, according to a preliminary agreement between the Hampton educational television station and Centex. Some additional programming would originate at William and Mary, using television studios and equipment at Phi Beta Kappa Hall. The College's equipment, until now, has been used only for closed circuit applications for various academic programs.

Centex is also applying for some $5 million in additional federal funds, to be used over five years, with the endorsement and support of college and school officials in the Peninsula area and in close cooperation with several faculty members at William and Mary, primarily in the School of Education. The funds would enable use of WTEC and related capabilities to support pre-school, school, and adult education for the handicapped and their families. The School of Education's Division of Special Education has been working in this area of Centex planning.

The project would also explore the possible use of 28 special 6-megahertz channels allocated by the FCC for non-profit educational services. The 6-megahertz channels can be received only on receivers with special adapters, and their use permits adaptation to a proposed national network of educational telecasting via a system of relays. The 6-megahertz channels also can be used for two-way audio and video purposes.

Vernon M. Geddy, mayor of Williamsburg, is chairman of the board of Centex. Other officers include Richard B. Brooks, dean of William and Mary's School of Education, president; Mr. Curtis, executive vice president; Robert C. Jones, associate dean of the College's School of Education, vice president; Stephen D. Harris, Williamsburg attorney, secretary-treasurer; George R. Healy, vice president for academic affairs at William and Mary, director; Warren Heemann, vice president for College development, director; and Edward C. Kollmann, dean of the faculty at Hampton Institute, director. Another director is James D. Ahlgren, vice president of Telcom, Inc., of Alexandria, who has loaned his firm's services to development of planning.

Mr. Curtis, who has held a number of management posts in the computer and data transmission industry, was a vice president and general manager of Electronics Association, Inc., of Long Branch, N.J., until he formed his own consulting firm, Curtis Management Assistance Corp., in 1968. He retired last August. With a former partner, he pioneered the world's first railway radio-telephone system, used by the Erie Railroad; the first motorist communications installation, used on the George Washington Bridge and Queens Midtown Tunnel; and the first train sound distribution system, on the Santa Fe line. Just prior to retirement, he was consultant to Data Transmission Co., which has obtained FCC approval to build America's first all-digital microwave transmission network.

The concept which would utilize the 6-megahertz channels was first outlined in a paper prepared by Mr. Curtis for the Advisory Committee on Issues in Educational Technology, Commission on Education, National Academy of Engineering. The paper is to be published this spring by the Academy. It proposes establishment of a national educational telecommunications delivery network, under Congressional authority. The network's chief aim would be to reach the estimated 21 million Americans who, for reasons of time, geography and socio-economic conditions, fail to receive adequate educational services.

The Williamsburg proposal is the first step toward applying the plan that Mr. Curtis has outlined.

In order to get educational broadcasting underway via WTEC and Channel 46 while programming for the handicapped is under development, Centex--and a related corporation, Williamsburg Telecommunications Corp.--has proposed that the station be managed by the Hampton Roads Educational Television Association, Inc., which owns WHRO. Discussions on this proposal are currently underway.

The long-range concept proposed by Centex has been endorsed by the president of the State Board of Education, officials of the State Department of Education, officials of the Virginia Public Telecommunications Council and spokesmen for Peninsula public and private schools. William and Mary has indicated its willingness to provide its television facilities as a way of formalizing "a desirable and functional relationship between the community corporation and the College." Several faculty and staff have provided service as voluntary consultants to the project.

The WTEC timetable calls for completion of transmitter facilities 12 months after receipt of the grant being sought. The related application for federal funds to assist in special educational programming calls for work to begin on July 1, 1974, with an initial year's budget of $660,000. Total 5-year budget would be $4,790,000 not including $350,000 in other anticipated resources.

Registration for Juniors

Rising juniors should begin the process of declaring their concentrations in the Office of the Dean of Students. Appointments should also be made with advisors in the department of intended concentration. Between April 15-22, these students should meet with prospective advisors to plan two-year programs and complete registration cards.

All registration cards must be filled out completely in order to be processed. Information provided must include course number and department, section number, lab section, discussion groups, etc. Students wishing to audit courses should not include these on registration cards. Audit forms can be obtained from the Office of the Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences during the add/drop period in September.

Class schedules are available in the Office of the Associate Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences.

ID pictures will be taken Wednesday through Friday, April 10-12, in the Gold Room of the Campus Center between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. All students returning for the fall semester 1974-75 may be photographed at this time. Rising juniors and seniors who are presently early-registering should have their pictures taken at this time to avoid the congestion in William and Mary Hall during arena registration in September.

Doll Represents Work Of Local Craftsmen

Sally Petzoldt

Lady Skipwith has found a new home. Featured in the display window of a Williamsburg shop for many months, the 34" vinyl doll was won in a raffle sponsored by the Williamsburg Community Hospital. Sally Petzoldt, '76, won the doll for her mother, Bettie Petzoldt.

The doll has since been relocated in the living room of the Petzoldts' Petersburg home.

Lady Skipwith is no ordinary doll; in 1958 she was dubbed "Lady Skipwith" by a Williamsburg craftsman in honor of an 18th century belle. Dressed in the 18th century manner, she has been used most often for display purposes because of the workmanship exhibited in the green brocade dress and slippers she wears, and the trunk and hatbox which accompany her. She is valued at $500. "Her value lies in her accessories, which are all handmade and represent the work of several Williamsburg craft shops," said Miss Petzoldt. Although the doll is only slightly over 10 years old, accessories such as her silver bracelet, made by the silversmith shop, and her wig, fashioned by the wig-maker's shop, add to her value.

Officer Moore will also address the College Women's Club on the same subject on Monday, April 15, at 7:30 p.m. in the Dodge Room, Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

On May 1, the Campus Police will issue parking citations for this violation.

Students Demonstrate Athletic Excellence

Reggie Clark, William and Mary's outstanding 880-yard runner, and Mark Belknap, All-American wrestler, both led their teams in outstanding seasons this year.

Clark captured the NCAA Indoor Championship in the 880 in Detroit recently.

The indoor track team, in a winning season, won the Southern Conference meet for the ninth straight year and the State meet for the fifth straight year. Following this triumph, Reggie Clark, a junior from Newport News, returned to William and Mary to lead the team to a 107-38 victory over Notre Dame in the first outdoor track meet on the College's new tartan track at Cary Field. The new track formally opened over the weekend when William and Mary hosted the 1974 Colonial Relays.

Other outstanding indoor track performers this past season included Charles Dobson, a junior from Hampton, who won the 60-yard high hurdles for the second year in a row at the IC4A meet. Mac Collins, a sophomore from Hampton, placed fourth in the mile race at the same meet. Three members of the indoor track team participated this past season in the prestigious Olympic Invitational track meet in Madison Square Garden. Bill Louv, a senior from Wayne, Pa., ran the 3000-meter race; Charles Dobson ran in the 60-yard hurdles; and Reggie Clark in the 800 meter race.

The wrestling team enjoyed a 14-2 season, losing to ACC power Maryland and to Clarion State (Pa.), a northeastern power. In the Maryland match, which William and Mary lost by only four points, the team had to forfeit the 118-pound division because of an injury.

Mark Belknap, a junior from Port Clinton, Ohio, finished fifth in the nation in the 134-pound division at the NCAA wrestling championships held at Ames, Iowa, recently. This past weekend he competed against a Russian all-star team at a five-meet U.S. tour in Alexandria.

This past season Belknap was also named outstanding wrestler in the 134-pound division in the Wilkes Open at Scranton, Pa., and in the Virginia Intercollegiate Tournament.

Model U.N. Delegation

The College will send a delegation to the National Model United Nations (NMUN) sessions, which will be held in New York City April 16-21.

The NMUN is an intercollegiate organization which annually sponsors mock UN sessions to familiarize students with the operation of the principal organs of the UN. This year some 130 colleges and universities will participate to consider a host of issues, such as the question of disarmament, the situation in the Middle East, the Korean question, multinational corporations, apartheid, the question of Southern Rhodesia, and the problem of international terrorism. The students have been preparing themselves to consider these questions, and each one has submitted a separate resolution relating to one of these issues.

This year the William and Mary delegation, which consists of government concentrators studying international organization (Govt. 325), will represent Indonesia. Those selected to participate are: Jeff Ochsman, '74; Wyatt

Ferguson Scholarship Recipient Announced

Linda R. Musser

Linda R. Musser, a senior, has been awarded the 1974 William Cross Ferguson Graduate Scholarship in Publishing.

The scholarship grant will cover the tuition and other costs for Miss Musser to attend the prestigious Publishing Procedures Course held at Radcliffe College every summer.

Miss Musser is currently copy editor for the College yearbook and a member of Mortar Board, women's honorary society. An English major, she is active in the College-Wide Reading Program.

She served as secretary for the Publications Council, publicity chairman for Tri Delta social sorority and as a residence hall counselor during 1972-73.

Miss Musser is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Musser, Jr., of Gaithersburg, Md.

The scholarship grant is an outgrowth of a gift of money to the College from Walter F. C. Ferguson in honor of his brother, William Cross Ferguson, who died in 1967.

William Cross Ferguson, a William and Mary graduate in the class of 1916, had a long career in publishing, ultimately becoming president of the World Book Company. Prior to his death he expressed an interest in establishing at his alma mater various programs that would stimulate student interest in publishing as a career.

In November 1973 the third Ferguson Seminar in Publishing, a two-day event, was held at the College. The seminar, held biennially, brings together on campus outstanding figures from the publishing field who lecture and meet informally with students from colleges around the state.

Bethel, '75; Pam Cox, '75; Rita Everett, '75; Nancy Hadlock, '76; and Sharon Pandak, '75. Mr. Ochsman will serve as the chairman of the delegation. The faculty advisor is Chonghan Kim, professor of government, who also serves as a member of the Board of Directors of the NMUN.

During the NMUN sessions various speakers are scheduled to address the delegations. One such speaker is Ambassador John Scali of the United States of America. Delegations are also scheduled to visit various permanent missions to the UN for their briefings. William and Mary students will call on Ambassador Sani of Indonesia and Ambassador Zakaria of Malaysia. The latter was Mr. Kim's colleague when he was a member of the Korean mission to the United Nations.
