'Mademoiselle' Here

Representatives from the fashion, photography, and writing staffs of Mademoiselle fashion magazine were on campus last week photographing students for part of their annual August "back to school" issue.

Each year the magazine visits college campuses in different sections of the country to help cover the latest fashions.

Cathy Calvert, a 1969 English graduate of the College, now assistant college and careers editor of Mademoiselle, is preparing a feature article on William and Mary for the August issue. She interviewed members of the faculty and administration as well as several students last week to get an overview of the current social and academic environment on campus that would reflect changes at the College since she graduated.

Ms. Calvert began her career with Mademoiselle as a summer guest editor following graduation from William and Mary. Magazine College Board members at the College include Margaret Lascara, '75, Norfolk; Deborah Pulliam, '75, Indianapolis; Virginia Wagner, '74, New Castle, Del.; and Mary Lively, '74, Richmond.

Campus Exhibits

Exhibit of King William, Queen Mary and Sir Christopher Wren manuscripts, given by Dr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Pullen to the Swem Library Collection, Botetourt Museum, Swem Library, beginning Monday, May 13, ending Sunday, June 30; Mon.-Fri., 8 a.m.-5 p.m.; Sat., 9 a.m.-1 p.m.

Clark Speaks at Law Day Ceremonies

James P. Whyte, dean of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law (l), accepts a check for $1,100 from Mrs. Robert Friend Boyd of Norfolk, president of the Board of the Virginia Lawyers Wives, as former U. S. Justice Tom C. Clark looks on.

Federal District Court Judge John A. MacKenzie administered the citizenship oath to 117 men and women and eight children at naturalization ceremonies which highlighted Law Day activities on campus May 1.

Principal speaker was former U.S. Justice Tom C. Clark who received the Marshall-Wythe Medallion.

Mr. Clark spoke informally and recounted the story of a kindly general practitioner in Lexington to get across his point of the importance to the state and nation of community involvement. He also reviewed for the new citizens some of the founding fathers who prepared the Bill of Rights and praised George Mason for his contribution.

At a luncheon before the ceremonies which were held in Phi Beta Kappa Hall, Mrs. Robert Friend Boyd of Norfolk, president of the Board of the Virginia Lawyers Wives, presented a check for $1,100 to James P. Whyte, dean of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law.

It has been suggested that the donation, which represents a gift from the Arlington, Alexandria and Norfolk members, be used for construction or furnishings in the new National Center for State Courts/Marshall-Wythe School of Law, in which rooms will be used both by the Center and the Law School, such as the moot court room or law library.

Accompanying Mrs. Boyd to the luncheon were Mrs. Henry A. Thomas of Alexandria, special projects chairman for the Virginia Lawyers Wives; Mrs. L. Lee Bean of Arlington, publicity chairman; and Mrs. George D. Fischer, a member from Arlington and major contributor to the project.

The invocation was given by the Rev. Gerald Przywara, Catholic Campus Minister from St. Bede's; and the Pledge of Allegiance was led by the Rev. Cotesworth P. Lewis, Rector, Bruton Parish Church. Emeric Fischer, professor of law, led the new citizens and the recitation of the American's Creed by the audience. Rabbi S. D. Levine of Rodesh Sholom Temple, Newport News, pronounced the benediction.

Members of the Marshall-Wythe Law Wives served as hostesses for a reception in the Dodge Room following the program.

Jamestown Prize Inaugurated by IEAHC

The Institute of Early American History and Culture has announced the inauguration of a new, annual manuscript award, to be given to the author of the best book-length, scholarly manuscript in early American history or culture submitted to the Institute Prize Committee.

The new award, to be known as The Jamestown Prize, consists of a $1,500 cash gift plus the guarantee of publication by the Institute.

The Jamestown Prize supersedes two former manuscript awards offered by the Institute, the Jamestown Foundation Award and the Institute Manuscript Award, which were given in alternate years for different periods of early American history.

The prize competition is designed to stimulate the submission of manuscripts by younger scholars. Authors who have previously published a book are ineligible. The subject of manuscripts entered for the prize must pertain to America before ca. 1815 or to the related history of the British Isles, Europe, and the Caribbean.

Funding for the Jamestown Prize comes from the Jamestown Foundation, the University of North Carolina Press, which will be co-publisher of the winning manuscripts, and the Institute's two major sponsors, the College and the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation.

The first award will be made in April of 1975 for the best manuscript submitted during 1974.

Anthropology

Mario D. Zamora, visiting professor, was a panelist in the session on National Regeneration Movement in Southeast Asia at the University of Windsor, Western Canada, sponsored and financed by the Council on Southeast Asian Studies of Canada. He presented a paper entitled "The 'Autolitarian' Syncretic Movement: A Philippine Case."

Mr. Zamora also addressed the faculty and graduate students in the Department of Sociology and Anthropology at North Carolina State University, Raleigh, on Philippine education, politics, and values.

His reviews were published recently in the following journals:

Masters of Sociological Thought by Lewis Coser, in Sociology and Social Research, University of Southern Calif.

A Historical and Juridical Study of the Philippine Bill of Rights by Joaquin Bernas in Journal of Asian Studies, Michigan.

The Untouchables in Contemporary India, J. M. Mahar (ed.) in The South Asian Review (England) and in The Indian Anthropologist (India).

The Pampangan: Colonial Society in a Philippine Province by John Larkin in Anthropos (Germany) and in Man (England).

Latin Americans: Contemporary Peoples and Their Cultural Traditions by M. Olien in America Indigena. Reviewed in Spanish with J. Scheidecker as co-author.

Japanese Politics by Nobutaka Ike in Anthropological Journal of Canada.

Biology

Eric Bradley, assistant professor, recently attended the Southern Conference on Comparative Endocrinology held at the University of West Florida in Pensacola. He presented a paper entitled "Investigations into the Endocrine Bases of Reproductive Inhibition within Prairie Deermice Populations." The paper outlined several of the current research projects at the College's Laboratory of Endocrinology and Population Ecology.

C. Richard Terman, professor, has been awarded a NATO Senior Fellowship in Science for a visit to England. Mr. Terman and family will locate in Oxford where he will be doing research at the Elton Library and with the Animal Ecology Research Group. In addition, he will be visiting approximately a dozen laboratories and research facilities in England and Scotland where he will participate in discussions and research on population and behavioral ecology.

Fine Arts

Carl A. Roseberg, professor, recently attended the three-day Eighth National/International Sculpture Conference held at the University of Kansas, Lawrence.

Government

Jan B. de Weydenthal, assistant professor, attended the international conference on "American Foreign Policy and the New Europe: Eastern and Western Views" held in Blacksburg, April 18-20. Mr. de Weydenthal discussed a paper entitled "USA--Federal Republic of Germany: Evolution of Relations and its Implications for Detente in Europe."

Metropolitan Criminal Justice Center

Walter Diggles, systems and management project director for the Center, has been invited to serve as a special consultant on national criminal justice standards and goals by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration of the U. S. Department of Justice. Because of this appointment, Mr. Diggles was also invited to participate in the Second International Symposium on Criminal Justice Information and Statistics. Sponsored by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration's Project SEARCH, the symposium convened in San Francisco, April 30 - May 3.

Charles W. Thomas, research director and adjunct associate professor of sociology, recently returned from Atlanta, where he served as a consultant on a National Institute of Mental Health grant for training in the fields of drug abuse and addiction that has been awarded to Georgia State University.

Ineke Haen, research associate, has accepted a doctoral teaching fellowship at the University of Akron. Ms. Haen will be resigning from her present position with the Center later this summer in order to accept this fellowship and to begin her doctoral work in the joint doctoral program offered by the University of Akron and Kent State University.

Recent publications authored by members of the Center's staff include the following:

"Prisonization or resocialization? A Study of External Factors which Influence the Impact of Confinement", by Charles W. Thomas, is scheduled for publication in June as a selection in Sheldon Messinger, et al. (eds), Crime and Justice Annual, 1973. Chicago: Aldine Publishing Company.

"A Comparison of Alternative Techniques of Attitude Scale Construction," by Charles W. Thomas; L. D. Nelson and J. Sherwood Williams, Virginia Commonwealth University, has been accepted for presentation to the Rural Sociological Association convention to be held in Montreal, Canada, in August.

Modern Languages

Alexander Kallos, professor, spoke to an assembly at Denbigh High School on "Innovations in Modern Language Teaching at William and Mary" on April 30.

Philosophy

Thomas K. Hearn, Jr., associate professor, has been asked to serve as a contributor to the book review section of The Review of Metaphysics.

Two members of the Department attended the annual meeting of the American Philosophical Association, Western Division, in St. Louis, April 25-27. F. Robert Bohl, Jr., assistant professor, read his paper, "Yet Another Identity Theory," and Alan E. Fuchs, assistant professor, spoke on "Rational Activity and the Good Life."

Physics

Several members of the Department attended the American Physical Society meeting held in Washington, April 22-25. The following papers were presented:

"High Frequency Velocity Shear Instability," H. W. Bloomberg and S. Peter Gary, Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 19, 584 (1974).

"Coherent Ion Acceleration in Linear Plasma Discharges," S. L. Hsieh, H. W. Bloomberg and S. Peter Gary, Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 19, 584 (1974).

"Anomalous Viscosity," Michael J. Schmidt and S. Peter Gary, Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 19, 584 (1974).

"Semiclassical Calculation of Regge Poles for an Actual Interatomic Potential," J. B. Delos and C. E. Carlson, Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 19, 494 (1974).

"Elastic and Inelastic Differential Scattering of H-(D-) by Ar," S. K. Lam, R. L. Champion, L. D. Doverspike and J. B. Delos, Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 19, 495 (1974).

"Measurement of the Magnetic Moment of the Antiproton," B. L. Roberts, M. Eckhause, J. R. Kane, R. E. Welsh, D. A. Jenkins, W. C. Lam, P. D. Barnes, R. A. Eisenstein, J. Miller, R. B. Sutton, A. R. Kunselman, R. J. Powers and J. D. Fox, Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 19, 562 (1974).

"Reactions Induced by 240 MeV Negative Pions on LiF and Aluminum Targets," B. J. Lieb, W. F. Lankford, S. H. Dam, H. O. Funsten, W. J. Kossler, H. S. Plendl, V. G. Lind, and A. J. Buffa, Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 19, 594 (1974)

"Pion Nucleus Scattering in the Cluster Model," Y. Y. Yam, Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 19, 576 (1974).

"Density of States of Metal Alloys," H. C. Hwang, A. Sher and A. B. Chen, Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 19, 463 (1974).

Psychology

Peter L. Derks and E. Rae Harcum, professors, and Ellen F. Rosen and Kelly G. Shaver, associate professors, attended the meetings of the Eastern Psychological Association in Philadelphia, April 18-20. Mr. Derks read a paper, "Free Recall of Repeated Objects and Object Names"; Ms. Rosen and Linda C. Petty (Virginia Commonwealth University) presented a paper, "Effect of the Ovaries and Exogenous Estrogen on Food-Deprivation Produced Changes in the Lordosis Response of the Female Rat"; and Carole J. Shaver and Mr. Shaver presented a paper, "Consumer Action: Race, Locus of Control, and Participation in the Meat Boycott."

Psychology, continued

The May 1974 issue of Psychology and Behavior will contain a paper by Ms. Rosen and Ms. Petty, "Food Deprivation Effects on Some Estrogen-Sensitive Responses in Female Rats."

Mr. Shaver presented invited colloquia, "Studies in Defensive Attribution," at the State University of New York at Buffalo, April 4, and at the State University College at Brockport, April 5. He served as advisor to a group of William and Mary law students who were conducting an extensive study of student law practice. The study has been published as a Documentary Supplement to the Winter 1973 William and Mary Law Review which contains Mr. Shaver's foreword, "Psychology and the Law: A Courtship of Mutual Advantage."

The following papers were presented at the meetings of the Southeastern Psychological Association in Hollywood, Florida, May 2-4.

Deborah R. Capasso and Virgil V. McKenna, "Self Concept and Family Planning of College Women."

Jay L. Chambers and Beth Surma, "Murray Need Concepts, Homosexuality, and Sexual Uncertainty in Students."

Jay L. Chambers and W. Larry Ventis, "Need Associations of Male Prisoners: An Alternative to a Unidimensional Measure of Murray Needs."

Kelly G. Shaver and Pamela K. Funck, "Value of Curiosity, Degree of Testing Control, and Tested Level of Curiosity in Fifth-Grade Children."

Glenn D. Shean and Chris Faia (Psychiatric Research Institute, Eastern State Hospital), "Videotape Playback of Inebriated Behavior as a Therapeutic Aide in the Treatment of Chronic Alcoholism."

The following scholars have participated in the Psychology Department's Colloquium series this Spring:

Feb. 1: John McConnell (State University of New York at Stony Brook), "Ruminations of a Psychotherapist Stuck in the Citadel of Behavioristic Academia."

Feb. 8: James Deese (University of Virginia), "The Magic Ten Seconds."

Feb. 15: Peter L. Derks, Jean E. Dunman, and Jack Toukatly (William & Mary and University of Virginia), "Memory in the Abstract: Recall and Recognition of Objects, Pictures, and Words."

Feb. 22: Wayne Kernodle (William & Mary), "Heterosexual Encounters in a Mental Hospital."

Mar. 1: C. Richard Terman (William & Mary), "Behavior and Control of Population Growth in Prairie Deermice."

Mar. 8: Alfred B. Heilbrun, Jr. (Emory University), "An Information Sampling and Processing Model for Explaining the Development of Paranoid Behavior."

Apr. 2: Bernard G. Rosenthal (Illinois Institute of Technology), "Development of Attitudes Toward the Self in the Chippewa Indians."

Apr. 5: Harold D. Fishbein (University of Cincinnati), "The Development of Memory for Position and Decentralized Thinking."

Apr. 10: John and Beatrice Lacey (Fels. Research Institute and Antioch College), "The Effects of Cardiac Cycle on Behavior."

Apr. 26: George A. Gescheider (Hamilton College), "Channels of Sensory Information Processing in the Visual, Auditory, and Tactile Systems."

Sociology

R. Wayne Kernodle, Marion Vanfossen, Vernon Edmonds, professors; Satoshi Ito, Anthony Guenther, Lawrence Beckhouse, associate professors; and Jon Kerner, assistant professor, attended the annual meetings of the Southern Sociological Society held in Atlanta, April 17-20. Mr. Kernodle was discussant for the four papers on Appalachian Migrations and Occupational Choices. This section was chaired by John B. Stephenson, a William and Mary graduate in sociology who is currently dean of undergraduate studies at the University of Kentucky.

Mr. Kernodle also delivered a report to the Executive Committee and the Business Session of the Society from the Committee on Coordination of the Society and Social Forces. He is chairman of that committee, which will act as the Publications Committee of the Southern Sociological Society for the next two years.

Mr. Vanfossen presented a paper on "Human Values" in the Sociology of Knowledge Session, and was a discussant of two papers on the "Meaning of Time and the Uses of History in the Study of the Future" in the Sociology and History Session.

Mr. Vanfossen also conducted a meeting of the Membership Committee, of which he has been chairman for the past three years; presented his final report and recommendations to the Executive Committee, from which he received special accommodation for his efforts in doubling the Society's membership; participated in a budgetary review and advisory meeting for the new president of the Society; and was an invited guest at the current Presidents' Luncheon.

Mr. Guenther was a discussant of three papers presented in Section 1, Occupations and Professions, of the Southern Sociological Society meetings. Mr. Ito presented a paper entitled "Structural Determinants of Local-Cosmopolitanism Among Professors" in Section 2, Occupations and Professions.

Victor Liguori, associate professor, has reviewed Vernon H. Jensen's Strife on the Waterfront: The Port of New York Since 1945, for Sociology: Reviews of New Books, Feb. 1974.

School of Business

James E. Smith, associate professor, presented a paper entitled "Inter-professional Communication: An Evaluation of Adequacy" at the Northeastern Regional Meeting of the American Accounting Association in Philadelphia, April 18-20.

Anthony L. Sancetta, professor, and Pieter Elgers, assistant professor, attended the annual meeting of the Eastern Finance Association in Pittsburgh, April 18-20. Mr. Elgers presented a paper on "Role of Assumptions in Financial Forecasts."

School of Education

The Virginia Personnel and Guidance Journal, edited by Kevin E. Geoffroy, associate professor, was awarded first place for State journals at the annual American Personnel and Guidance Association Convention.

Professor Armand Galfo's critique of "Analysis of an Innovation (CLEP)" by Edward Caldwell appears in the June issue of the Journal of Higher Education.

School of Law

William F. Swindler, professor, addressed the Norfolk-Portsmouth Bar Association April 18 on the subject, "The Law and Politics of Presidential Impeachment." The address was based in part on his article, "The High Court of Congress: Impeachment Trials, 1787-1936," appearing in the current American Bar Association Journal.

Mr. Swindler's article, "The Chief Justice and Law Reform, 1921-1971," published in the 1972 Supreme Court Review of the University of Chicago, has been included in a new casebook on Judicial Administration and the Administration of Justice, edited by Dean Dorothy W. Nelson of the University of Southern California and published by West Publishing Company of St. Paul, Minn.

New Leave Sheet Devised

A new leave record sheet, which may be used by departments and employees in keeping their own leave balances, has been developed by two members of the Personnel staff.

Linda Teller and Gloria Parnell worked jointly in devising a form which would be simple and easy to understand. Days taken off are recorded in the calendar portion of the form in the corresponding slot. Total hours taken/earned per month and balances are recorded at the bottom of the form. Leave taken can be determined at a glance, according to Mrs. Teller.

Any employee/department representative desiring information on the new form should contact Mrs. Teller or Mrs. Parnell, 201 James Blair Hall, Ext. 214.

Staff Notes

Security Office

Linda Moore, security officer, attended the Seminar on Current Techniques and Procedures in the Investigation of Sex Crimes Against Women and Children held at the University of Maryland, College Park, last week.

The seminar focused on rape and psychological motivation of sex criminals. Participants visited the FBI Laboratory in Washington, D.C.

Swem Library

Dortha Skelton, assistant reference librarian, will attend the fourth annual Library Orientation Conference at Eastern Michigan University, May 9-11. Methods of providing student orientation to the library, its resources, and facilities will be discussed at this conference.

Personnel Bulletin

The following positions at the College are or will be vacant. Qualified employees who wish to be transferred to these positions may receive additional information at the College Personnel Office. The College of William and Mary is an Equal Opportunity Employer. Accordingly, women and minority employees are encouraged to apply for those positions for which they feel they are qualified.

Clerk-Typist B

Clerk-Typist C

Computer Operator or Computer Operator Trainee for IBM 360. One year minimum experience required on IBM Computer Systems or two years in the operation of business machines. Salary range $5,640-9,168 per year.

Tucker Gets FCA Award

Lem S. Tucker

Lemuel S. Tucker, a senior from Norfolk, has been selected to receive the Fellowship of Christian Athletes' 1974 College Athlete Award. Lem is a defensive back on the William and Mary football team.

He was honored recently at the FCA's fifth annual national recognition banquet at the Crown Center Hotel in Kansas City. His mother accompanied him to Kansas City to see him accept the award.

Lem plans to go to Westminster Seminary in Philadelphia, the first step in a planned career in Christian psychology. He will serve as a counselor at a Fellowship of Christian Athletes camp for high school students this summer.

He has been president of the College FCA fellowship group for the past two years. Under his leadership, the group has grown from four to 25 members. He is also president of the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship group and is active in the Black Student Organization. He is a member of the Westminster Orthodox Presbyterian Chapel in Williamsburg and the Metropolitan AMEX Church in Norfolk.

Lem is listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. A prep football and track star at Lake Taylor High School in Norfolk, Lem was a member of the FCA's National Conference College Staff last summer.

His brother, Henry T. Tucker, Jr., '72, is now a second year law student at the University of Virginia. He was awarded the Sullivan Award by the Southern Society of New York in recognition of influence for good, at the 1972 commencement exercises.

Mann Scholarship Recipient Announced

A senior geology major has been awarded the Glenn D. Mann Scholarship in recognition of his outstanding involvement in civic affairs in the City of Williamsburg.

Mark Blanchard of Springfield is the recipient of the $500 scholarship given in memory of Glenn D. Mann, a 1962 graduate of the College who was killed in combat in South Vietnam in 1965.

Mann was captain of the William and Mary varsity swimming team and actively involved in community service. The annual city swimming meet, sponsored by the Williamsburg Recreation Department, has been renamed in his honor. During the meet, the outstanding boy and girl swimmers are awarded the coveted Glenn D. Mann Trophy.

Mark is assistant Scoutmaster of Troop #103 of Williamsburg, has been a conscientious worker in the Jaycees and has been a Sunday School teacher for the past three years at the Williamsburg United Methodist Church. He has been instrumental in organizing a new Scout troop at Carver High School in Newport News.

Funds for the scholarship were raised by a group of Mann's friends, students, and the Williamsburg Rescue Squad, of which he had been a member. The award will be given annually.

After graduating in June, Mark plans to remain in the area where he hopes to teach earth or general science. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray S. Blanchard of Springfield.

Mayor Vernon M. Geddy, Jr. (r) congratulates Mark Blanchard on receiving the Glenn D. Mann Scholarship for the 1973-74 academic year. On hand for the occasion was Mrs. Sarah Martin Mann, mother of the late alumnus in whose honor the Scholarship was named. Mrs. Mann is a hostess for Colonial Williamsburg.

Model U.N. Delegation Commended

A delegation representing the College recently attended the sessions of the National Model United Nations in New York. Delegation members, consisting of government concentrators, were: Jeff Ochsmann, chairman, Wyatt Bethel, Pam Cox, Rita Everett, Nancy Hadlock, and Sharon Pandak. William and Mary represented Indonesia.

Each W&M delegate prepared a resolution on the topic of his choice, and nearly all of the resolutions were accepted by the secretariat, thereby appearing on committee agenda. Several students co-sponsored resolutions with other delegations. All resolutions sponsored by Indonesia were passed in their respective committees. Due to lack of time during the plenary meeting, only one William and Mary resolution, that of Sharon Pandak, reached that meeting. Miss Pandak ably defended her resolution, which concerned the rights of the people of Namibia to self-determination and independence, and the resolution was accepted.

For their outstanding performance, the delegation received a letter of commendation from the National Collegiate Conference Association. The award was based on the quality of preparation in terms of the resolutions submitted to the secretariat, and on their performance during the sessions.

The faculty advisor was Professor Chonghan Kim of the Department of Government.

New Library Policy

Following consultation with the Library Advisory Committee of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences and with representatives from the Schools of Education and Business Administration, Librarian William C. Pollard announces the following changes in Swem Library's circulation policy which will become effective during the summer of 1974:

1) Effective June 1 the normal book loan period will be four weeks. Borrowers may renew books once only for a like period if desired. The library will recall books needed by other borrowers any time after two weeks from the original date borrowed. The present loan period is three weeks, with two renewals for a like period permitted.

2) The library will recall books immediately, regardless of date due, from non-College borrowers when those books are needed by William and Mary students or faculty.

3) A special six-month book loan will be available for graduate and undergraduate students with a bona fide need for such privileges, e.g., those engaged in research related to theses, etc. Students desiring this special borrowing privilege must request it from the circulation librarian.

4) A term of one year will be imposed upon book loans to faculty members with one renewal allowed if necessary. In addition, certain changes will be made in procedures for recalling books from faculty which will increase the speed with which those books can be made available to other borrowers. Faculty members currently have unlimited borrowing privileges.

"Library staff members are hopeful that these changes will be beneficial to both students and faculty. Comments on the changes by Swem Library users will be welcomed," Mr. Pollard said.

Office of Development

National Endowment for the Humanities

Independent Study and Research Fellowships--Salary matching awards of up to $20,000 per year for full-time study of between 6 to 12 months will be awarded to scholars, teachers, writers, and other interpreters of the humanities who have produced, or demonstrated promise of producing, significant contributions to humanistic knowledge. Applicants must have completed professional training, and applications may come from college and university faculty members and others whose occupations engage them in the humanities. Fields of support include the traditional humanistic disciplines, those aspects of the social sciences which have humanistic content and employ humanistic methods, and the study and application of the humanities to the human environment - with particular attention to the relevance of the humanities to current conditions of national life. In addition, NEH has a special interest in (a) studies relating to the Revolutionary era and to the philosophical and social foundations of the Revolution and the establishment of the nation, and (b) studies of the relationships between human values and science and technology. Fellows must devote full-time to their study and may not hold other major fellowships or grants during tenure, except sabbaticals and grants from their own institutions. A second receipt deadline for this program will be October 15, with awards announced in March, 1975. However, no one may apply against both deadlines. For additional information and application forms, contact Division of Fellowships, National Endowment for the Humanities, 806 15th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20506 (202) 382-5827.

Deadline: June 17, 1974 for announcement in November.

Aquatics Conference

William and Mary was well represented at the first national conference of the National Institute for Creative Aquatics at Randolph Macon Women's College, April 25-28.

Jan Tomlinson, assistant professor of physical education for women and faculty director of the Mermettes, was named secretary of the new organization.

Twenty-three aquatic compositions were presented and of the seven selected for the public performance, two were William and Mary entries.

"Etude," a solo number by Karen Larson, '76, of Davenport, Iowa, and "Ms?" with Chris McKechnie, '75, of Fairfax; Madonna Moss, '76, of Fayetteville, N.Y.; Keith Havens, '76, of Vienna; and Mike Malpass, '75, of Blacksburg, were selected among the best for the performance.

"Friends," a duet by Mindy Hallgren, '77, of Dekalb, Ill., and Madonna Moss, was also performed by the William and Mary contingent.

Madonna Moss was selected as a student critic during the convention and Miss Tomlinson was chosen as an aquatic critic and will serve again in that capacity at next year's competition.

RBC Classes at Fort Lee

Recognizing the increasing nationwide importance of continuing education, Richard Bland College is taking its first major step away from the campus by sponsoring credit classes at nearby Fort Lee.

Cornelis Laban, acting president at RBC, said the approval for the move was given by the State Council of Higher Education for Virginia through its director, Daniel E. Marvin, Jr. Such offerings are considered consistent with the council's State Plan for Regional Consortia.

Arrangements for six classes in a degree granting program have been made by Henry J. Wuensch, director of Evening College and Summer School at RBC, with Leland A. Slaydon, director of General Education Development at Fort Lee.

Orchestra Concert

The College-Community Orchestra will present its annual concert, Sunday, May 12, at 8:15 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Hall. Alan C. Stewart, professor of music, is director.

This year's program will consist of "Overture to the Barber of Seville" by Rossini, Mozart's "Symphony #40 in G Minor," and "The Gloria in D" by Vivaldi.

The Williamsburg Baptist Church and the Bruton Parish Church Evening Song Choir, accompanied by a chamber orchestra of professional and local players, will present "The Gloria." Soloists are Catherine Exton, soprano; Virginia Carr and Trudy Campbell, soprano duet; and Kathy Myers and Jane Koenig, contraltos. David J. Tetrault is the harpsichordist.

The Williamsburg Baptist choir is directed by Mary Gonzales; the Evening Song Choir by Robert Moncrief.

Socialist to Speak

A German political activist will speak in the Botetourt Theatre of Swem Library, Tuesday, May 7, at 8 p.m.

Ellen Lauterbach, a leader in the Socialist Party, will speak on "The Status of Women in Public Life in Germany." She is being sponsored by the Department of Modern Languages.

A native of Kassel, Germany, Ms. Lauterbach was a member of the German parliament from 1969-72. From 1941-45, she was employed at a Berlin radio station, after which she became a personnel manager for the United States Army in Bad Mergentheim, Germany. She later transferred to the U. S. Consulate General in Stuttgart.

Kappa Delta Pi Party

Kappa Delta Pi education fraternity will hold a party for faculty, graduate students and undergraduates in the secondary and elementary school programs on Friday, May 10, from 5-8 p.m. at the Hoi Polloi, College pub.

'Marat Sade' Tomorrow-Saturday

Graves Praises Students at Honors Convocation

"You really do represent the very best that we have," President Graves told award winners at the Spring Honors Convocation April 29, capping an informal evening program in Phi Beta Kappa Hall which was followed by a reception in the Dodge Room.

Principal speaker of the evening was Jack Edwards, Dean-Designate of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences.

James C. Livingston, Dean of the Undergraduate Program, presided and introduced presenters of the evening's academic and athletic awards.

Mr. Livingston took time out of the program scheduled to thank outgoing SA president Chris Owens for her contributions during her term and recognize the incoming president, Sharon Pandak, whom he quipped "has a tough act to follow."

A special round of applause was extended to retiring Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences Harold L. Fowler as his successor, Jack Edwards, paused in his speech to make note of Mr. Fowler's contributions. Alex Kallos was also cited for his work with Omicron Delta Kappa leadership society, which he has served as faculty advisor for many years.

In his closing remarks President Graves said, "I feel indeed proud to be associated with a college in which men and women such as you excel."

Awards Presented

During the Honors Convocation, awards were presented and new members of campus organizations announced.

Winners of the Student Bicentennial Idea Contest, sponsored by the College Bicentennial Committee, were announced. David LaPier, '74, Lynchburg, won the $50 first prize; Sherri Manfredi, '76, Virginia Beach, won the $30 second prize; and Amanda Linden, '75, Kew Gardens, N. Y., accepted the $20 third prize for the Circle K Club.

The Education Foundation Award is given annually to the outstanding intramural athlete and to the outstanding intercollegiate athlete among the senior men. Consideration is given to character, leadership, scholarship and sportsmanship, as well as to athletic prowess.

The intercollegiate award went to Gregory P. Freaney, New Providence, N. J., and the intramural award to Michael Hudson, Richmond.

The L. Tucker Jones Memorial Prizes are awarded annually to the outstanding senior students in the men's and women's intramural programs. Consideration is given to qualities of leadership, high ideals, and scholastic standing. These prizes are supported by the L. Tucker Jones Memorial Fund. The presentations were made by Harold L. Fowler, Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences. This year's recipients are Mary Anne Blazek, Woodbridge, and Raymond O'Leary, Williamsburg.

The Alpha Lambda Delta Award is given to the senior woman who has compiled the highest cumulative grade point average during her four years at the College. This year's recipient is Rosemary Enright, McLean. The presentation was made by Linda Teague, president, Alpha Lambda Delta.

The Kays Gary-Charles McDowell, Jr., Award for excellence in journalism was presented to Ronald B. Risdon, Arlington, for outstanding feature writing for The Flat Hat. The presentation was made by Alexander Kallos, chairman of the Colonial Booklet Fund.

Phi Beta Kappa Members-Elect

The presentation of members-elect of Phi Beta Kappa was made by Alfred R. Armstrong, recording secretary for Alpha of Virginia Chapter of PBK. Members-elect include Margaret L. Hamilton, professor of government, who received honorary membership; and John F. Fausz, a graduate student in history from Lakeside Park, Ky.

Members-elect from the Class of 1974, their concentrations, and hometowns are as follows:

Krizman, Leawood, Kan., station manager of WCWM.

Women Included in ODK

Cornell Christianson, president of Omicron Delta Kappa, presented the ODK leadership award and announced new members. Recipient of the ODK award is Charles R. Eubank, Jr., McLean; he was honored for work with Circle K and in the reorganization of student government.

For the first time women are included in the list of new ODK members. The national convention last fall voted to include women and the College chapter of ODK concurred with this decision.

New ODK members include the following law students, all of Williamsburg:

Bob Johnston, Bob Fitzgerald, Maggie Potts, Sam Boyte, Tim Coyle, Mike Borasky, Cliff Weckstein, Gary Roth, Robert Sichta, Randy Eley, Bill Miller, Doug Stannard, and Charlie Burr.

Seniors are Ron Risdon, Arlington; Ray Dombroski, Alexandria; Glenn Wade, Williamsburg; Jane Pulliam, Blacksburg; Barbara Roos, Roslyn, Pa.; Elizabeth Lee, Drexel Hill, Pa.; Nancy Stone, Glen Allen; Sue Billingsley, Atlanta, Ga.; and Jane Faust, Helena, Ark.

Y.; Carmella Maurizi, North Versailles, Pa.; Nancy Norman, Alexandria; Cathy Wilson, Falls Church; and Sharon Pandak, Staunton.

Mortar Board

Kitty Crush, vice president of Mortar Board, announced the outstanding sophomore and senior awards and new members of Mortar Board, chosen from the rising senior class. Outstanding seniors are not members of Mortar Board but are chosen on the basis of their outstanding contributions to the College and community. They include:

Mary Anne Blazek, Woodbridge; Sue Chittum, Chesapeake; Debbie Clemmer, Souderton, Pa.; Barb Coulter, Fanwood, N. J.; Michelle Garvin, Hampton; Sue Gilkey, Winchester; Kathy Hobbs, Suffolk; Lin Newbern, Virginia Beach; Marjorie Ruhlmann, Burlington, N.C.; Karen Schorschinsky, Massapequa Park, N. Y.; Sherri Shank, Travis AFB, Calif.; Mary Brent Whipple, Richmond; Joan Wolbier, Alexandria; and Betty Wright, Fredericksburg.

The outstanding sophomore is selected for having made the greatest contribution to the College thus far in her career. This year's recipient is Nancy Turrentine, Nashville, Tenn.; she has been active in the Honor Council, Student Association, Chi Omega, and as an orientation sponsor.

New members are chosen on the basis of academic record, leadership qualities and service to the College and community. They include:

Rose Alley, Colonial Heights; Paige Auer, Princeton, W. Va.; Terri Bartlett, Newport News; Nancy Burgess, Norfolk; Lynn Cleary, Youngstown, Ohio; Elizabeth B. Cumby, Petersburg; Candace A. Deen, Mt. Bethel, Pa.; Lucinda A. Emley, Hamden, Conn.; Kay L. Ferguson, Roanoke; Roslyn M. Harden, Atlanta, Ga.; Kathleen C. Jones, Falls Church; Nancy L. King, Youngstown, Ohio; Margaret M. Marshall, Charlottesville; Carmella Maurizi, North Versailles, Pa.; Christine E. McKechnie, Fairfax; Lynn Meller, Lake Forest, Ill.; Marilyn Miller, Hawthorne, N. Y.; Nancy E. Norman, Alexandria; Sharon Pandak, Staunton; Lynne Shackelford, Raleigh, N. C.; Sarah Ann Shank, Travis AFB, Calif.; Ann Spielman, Dearborn, Mich.; George Ann Tobin, Falls Church; and Catherine L. Wilson, Falls Church.

Address Given by Edwards at Spring Convocation 7

Following is the prepared text of the address delivered by Jack D. Edwards, dean-designate of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, at the Honors Convocation on April 29.

"It has been difficult to prepare my remarks for this evening for a couple of reasons. Jim Livingston called me to ask if I would speak briefly this evening. I said, 'What topic do you have in mind?' He said, 'We would like you to describe your complete educational philosophy, all the information on which it is based, and how it applies to William and Mary.' Somewhat doubtful, I said, 'How long do you want me to talk?' He said, 'I think 8 minutes should be enough for you.' Since it would take me fully 12 minutes to do that, however, I have been forced to ignore Jim's instructions.

"My second problem is a deficiency in my background. My only experience in public speaking at the College is my participation in Raft debates. Checking my old notes, I find that I have a story about the food at the Commons; comments about the architectural brilliance of the new campus; a proposal to partition William and Mary Hall for faculty offices; the need for Affirmative Action programs in the fraternities; and 14 one-liners about President Graves. I have reluctantly concluded that all this material, though hilariously funny, may not be perfectly appropriate for this occasion.

"As I have considered the possibilities of the new job which I will begin this summer, I have thought some about the College's assets and liabilities. We liked William and Mary as soon as we moved here. This was partly because of Williamsburg: having grown up in North Dakota, I enjoyed the cool, dry summers; and having moved here from Reno, Nevada, we appreciated the tranquility of a small town without hordes of tourists. But I also liked the College: the administration was not exceptional, but the faculty was good and the students were excellent. The College had a solid core on which to build.

"Since that time, the College has improved in many ways. The physical plant is more satisfactory. The administration has improved, and Mr. Graves is providing some leadership which was sorely needed. The faculty is stronger, particularly in some of the professional schools which complement our liberal arts programs. And the student body is much stronger.

"In many respects, the student body is the strongest part of the College, and our greatest resource. How can we best develop that resource? I would like to focus on just two aspects of that very large question.

Maintenance of Standards, Need for Change

"The first of these is the maintenance of standards. Standards are high on the priority list of faculty members, as well they should be. To maintain standards, we must offer substantial intellectual fare, must insist on excellent performance. Evaluation is a difficult matter. Perhaps some day we will do away with grading in all of our schools, from kindergarten on up. But as long as we have a grading system, one of our most important tasks is to be both fair and discriminating in evaluating students.

"Harold L. Fowler has been Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences for the past decade, and he has been a vigorous leader in the struggle to maintain standards. During this period, there have been many pressures to emphasize the quantity rather than the quality of our educational program. Mr. Fowler strongly resisted those efforts; all of us here, and those who will come after us, owe him a great deal.

"Maintaining standards is one aspect of developing our student resources to the fullest. The other which I want to discuss is the need for change. Change is valuable partly because some things are not being done effectively at the present time. Perhaps more importantly, change is necessary to protect those things which we are doing effectively. An educational program will not remain good, much less outstanding, if those responsible for it are satisfied with successes of the past. A program must change and develop if it is to be responsive to current and future needs; if it is not responsive, it can hardly be successful.

"It is one thing to identify a need, another to prescribe what to do about it. There are many possibilities. I want to mention three matters that affect our academic program, without by any means suggesting that these are the most important items on the College's agenda. I choose these three partly because they are changes which are within our grasp.

"The first of these changes concerns the need to both improve and evaluate teaching skills within the faculty. We started the task of systematically evaluating teaching this year; we are not doing much to improve teaching ability. Both are extremely difficult, but essential. The College must recognize that a high quality of teaching is absolutely critical for our educational goals. Rewards should be structured to recognize this fact.

"A second concern is the way we look at the overall academic program of a student. For one thing, we should try to build variety into each program. We already do this, to some extent, in substantive areas. A student should also have variety in types of courses--seminars as well as big classes, discussions as well as lectures, papers as well as examinations. And to the extent that we have resources, every student should have an opportunity to face the challenges and frustrations of independent study.

"In addition to ensuring variety in a student's program, we also need to consider whether a student's program is manageable. We need to become a little less concerned with specific numbers of hours, and more concerned with how much a student can do effectively. Our students normally take five and even six courses at once; can they perform well and still participate in those other intellectual, recreational and social activities which are so essential for personal development? I have grave doubts about that, and I think we should again consider alternatives such as the standard four course load.

Need for Close Faculty-Student Contact

"My third general comment is that we need to try different things, in our curriculum and in our classrooms. We do not want to innovate for its own sake, but neither do we want to assume that our present way of doing things is always the best possible way. To cite one example, close faculty-student contact is extremely important in almost any educational process. We are limited, of course, by the ratio of faculty to students. What can we do about it? We need to consider possible trade-offs. Perhaps we should increase the number of large classes so that every student is assured of a place in several small classes. Perhaps we should decrease amounts of time spent in class so that there could be more individual or small-group contact outside of class. Perhaps other burdens can be shifted to permit closer contact.

"In all these areas, careful consideration of alternatives may persuade us that our present arrangements are the most satisfactory. Where we do decide to change, we may abandon some innovations because they are ineffective. Even so, our existing programs will be stronger, because we have considered and tried alternatives.

"I would argue that the maintenance of standards and the need to change are closely tied together. Maintenance of standards is often discussed in terms of a student's performance in mastering the subject matter of a set of courses. That is extremely important. But in a broader sense, maintenance of standards must refer to a student's ability and willingness to take advantage of the opportunities for intellectual and personal development during this entire four year period. We must keep asking: how do we want students to develop? Are these expectations reasonable? And are students meeting these broad expectations?

"If my analysis is sound, we cannot maintain standards, in a broad sense, unless we keep changing so that the College meets the needs of the future as well as those of the past and present. Excellence comes from experimenting with the new as well as clinging tenaciously to the best of the old.

"I mentioned earlier that I have spent some time this spring thinking about what I like about William and Mary. Mostly that refers to the many people whom I respect and enjoy. Some of you will be graduating soon but I hope that this will not be the end of a profitable relationship with William and Mary. Most of you will be returning to the College, and I look forward to working with you next year."

Students—Apply for Financial Aid

The Office of Student Aid, 310 James Blair Hall, reports very few inquiries concerning financial aid available under the College Scholarship Assistance Program.

E. Leon Looney, director of Student Aid, hopes business will pick up. Applications must be mailed to Richmond by May 15. Last year nearly $200,000 in unused tuition aid money had to be returned to the general fund, unused.
