William and Mary

Volume III, Number 3

S.*O.P. Gives Handy Facts

S.*O.P. is the cryptic solution to most any student's S-O-S. *Services, *Organizations, *Policies, otherwise known as the Student Handbook, was recently distributed to all students from the Dean of Student's Office. For the first time, information pertinent to graduate and undergraduate students alike is included in a single volume.

In the past, two separate handbooks were published for graduate and undergraduate students with overlapping information in major policy areas including the "Statement of Rights and Responsibilities." These two volumes were combined within a single handbook together with practical information traditionally disseminated only to new students.

Diverse information on topics such as where to do your laundry and how to procure a cab to take you therewas assembled and edited over the summer in Dean Sadler's office by Miss Christine Owens, a June graduate and past president of the Student Association,

With this edition of S.*O.P., the Student Handbook presents a more lively insight into student life than has been revealed by the more legalistic "mustard" edition of recent years. Revitalization of the student handbook has been an issue of special interest to President Graves, first expressed during the early days of his administration.

Students who have not yet received their copies of the Handbook may pick them up in Dean Sadler's office, 212 James Blair.

Bank Initiates MBA Scholarships

Two business administration graduate students have been awarded the first United Virginia Bank of Williamsburg scholarship awards.

Dean William E. O'Connell of the Graduate School of Business Administration, has announced that Oscar Larry Anderson, a first year MBA student from Halifax, and Charles E. Rawley, III, a second year MBA student from Danville, are recipients of the awards, which carry a stipend of $100 each, for the 1974-75 academic session.

The scholarships will be awarded annually to two students in the Business School's Graduate Studies program who have a high academic average and are interested in pursuing a career in finance and banking in Virginia.

In addition to the scholarships, UVB of Williamsburg will employ both students full-time during the summer and part-time during the school year in a training capacity to provide them with exposure to all banking positions.

Anderson is a 1974 cum laude graduate of Elon College where he was an accounting and business administration major and a member of Alpha Chi national honor society. He served as treasurer of the student government association during his senior year.

Rawley received his undergraduate degree in 1972 from William and Mary. He was a member of Lambda Chi Alpha social fraternity and was on the wrestling team during his freshman year.

Diverse Deadlines of Campus Interest Announced

Overseas Scholarships

Three scholarships for study in England, each extending over two years, are open to seniors. The deadline for applications is Monday, October 14, and students may apply for more than one.

Drapers' Company Scholarships, which since 1959 have become a tradition at the College, will be awarded to two men or women students. These grants may be used for a second B.A. or occasionally for a graduate degree in a field of the student's choice at any British university to which the recipient is admitted. Applicants should see Cecil McCulley in Lodge 12.

The Rhodes and Marshall Scholarships are national awards. Men winning the former go to Oxford; the latter is open to men and women, and may be used at any United Kingdom university. Applicants should see Carlyle Beyer in 310 Morton.

Student Research Funds

Money will be again available for students from the Committee for Faculty Research for minor research costs. Travel, purchase of necessary materials, secretarial services, and other expenses that are related to a research project may be supported from this fund.

Students should submit a letter indicating the nature of the project, including a detailed budgetary statement to Lewis W. Leadbeater, chairman, Committee for Faculty Research, in accordance with the following deadlines : October 15, for November announcements; January 2, for February announcements; and April 1, for May announcements.

Homecoming Parade

A new division has been added to the 1974 William and Mary Homecoming Parade and there is now a place for all campus organizations to have a unit participate in the festivities. The Society participation must be approved in of the Alumni Board of Directors has advance by the Parade Committee.

authorized the establishment of a third (OPEN) division. In past years there has been competition in the fraternity and sorority divisions and this year, campus groups, dormitories, etc. can participate in their own division and compete for prize money.

Organizations interested in participating in this year's parade can contact Gordon Vliet, at the Alumni House, Ext. 302, or 229-7545, or Wilford Kale, 229-1512. Deadline for entrance in the parade is Oct. 10. All float designs or unit

To: The College community

On June 20, 1974, the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare issued preliminary guidelines for the enforcement of Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972. Title IX prohibits sex discrimination in educational programs or activities which receive Federal financial aid.

"The published regulation is not a final order," Secretary Weinberger has pointed out; "it is a proposal on which the Department solicits comment from all interested citizens and organizations until October 15, 1974." Only after the comments have been evaluated and the appropriate changes made will the final regulation be submitted for approval by the President. "When approved it will be published in final form in the Federal Register to become effective thirty days from the date of publication."

Because the proposed regulation touches on nearly every aspect of life at William and Mary-from admissions to athletics to employment practices-the William and Mary News is publishing key excerpts from the HEW Fact Sheet. (The full text of the regulation is on Desk Reserve in Swem Library.)

The Affirmative Action Advisory Committee is preparing detailed comments on the Title IX guidelines. Because we recognize the complexity of the regulation and its potentially great impact on the College, the Committee welcomes questions and comments--both positive and negative--from the entire College community. Please send all written statements to Cam Walker, c/o the History Department before October 1.

> Cam Walker, Chairman Affirmative Action Advisory Committee

Excerpts from HEW's Fact Sheet

ADMISSIONS

The proposed regulation covers recruitment as well as all admissions policies and practices of those recipients not exempt as to admissions. It includes specific prohibitions of sex discrimination through separate ranking of applicants, application of sex-based quotas, administration of sex-biased tests or selection criteria, and granting of preference to applicants based on their attendance at particular institutions if the preference results in sex discrimination. The proposed regulation also forbids application in a discriminatory manner of rules concerning marital or parental status, and prohibits discrimination on the basis of pregnancy and related conditions, providing that recipients shall treat disabilities related to pregnancy in the same way as any other temporary disability or physical condition.

Generally, comparable efforts must be made by recipients to recruit members of each sex. Where discrimination previously existed, additional recruitment efforts directed primarily toward members of one sex must be undertaken to remedy the effects of the past discrimination. Thus an institution whose admissions are covered by the regulation may not set quotas and an institution whose admissions are covered may not set different standards.

TREATMENT

As stated before, although some schools are exempt from Title IX with regard to admissions, all schools must treat their admitted students without discrimination on the basis of sex.

Specifically, the treatment sections of the regulation cover the following areas: (1) Access to and participation in course offerings, including physical education, and extracurricular activities, including campus organizations and competitive athletics;

(2) Eligibility for and receipt or enjoyment of benefits, services, and financial aid;

(3) Use of facilities, and comparability of, availability of, and rules concerning housing (except that single-sex housing is permissable).

There is no provision in the regulation which would prohibit discrimination in textbooks and other curricular materials.

Athletics

Where selection is based on competitive skill, athletics may be provided through separate teams for males and females or through a single team open to both sexes. Institutions must determine, at least annually, in what sports students desire to participate. If separate teams are offered, a recipient institution may not discriminate on the basis of sex in provision of necessary equipment or supplies or in any other way, but equal aggregate expenditures are not required. The goal of the regulation in the area of competitive athletics is to secure equal opportunity for males and females which allowing schools and colleges flexibility in determining how best to provide such opportunity.

Where athletic opportunities for students of one sex have been limited, an institution must make affirmative efforts to inform members of that sex of the availability of equal opportunities and to provide support and training to enable them to participate.

Campus Organizations

Generally, a recipient may not, in connection with its education program or activity, support or assist any organization, agency or person which discriminates on the basis of sex. The proposed regulation does not specify in more detail what organization, agencies, or persons could not, if they operated discriminatorily, be supported by a recipient consistent with its obligations under Title IX. It does, however, set out the major criteria to be applied in determining existence of a violation in this area, which are (1) the substantiality of the relationship between the recipient and the organization (including financial support and housing), and (2) the closeness of the relationship between the organization's functions and the educational program or activity of the recipient. -A recipient institution which admits male and female students may not provide varsity sports opportunities exclusively or virtually exclusively for male students. However, it is not required to provide women access to men's teams if it furnishes women separate opportunities to participate in competitive athletics of comparable types and at comparable levels of competition (e.g. varsity, junior varsity, etc.).

-A recipient educational institution would be prohibited from providing financial support for an all-female hiking club, an all-male language club, or a single-sex honorary society. However, an organization whose membership was restricted to members of one sex could adhere to its restrictive policies, and operate on the campus of a recipient university, if it received no support or housing from the university and did not operate in connection with the university's education program or activity.

Benefits, Services, and Financial Aid

Generally, a recipient subject to the regulation is prohibited from discriminating in making available, in connection with its educational program or activity, any benefits, services, or financial aid. Benefits and services include medical and insurance policies and services for students, counseling, and assistance in obtaining employment. Financial aid includes scholarships, loans, grants-in-aid and work-study programs.

Facilities

Generally, all facilities must be available without discrimination on the basis of sex. As provided in the statute, however, the regulation permits separate housing based on sex as well as separate locker rooms, toilets and showers. A recipient may not make available to members of one sex locker rooms, toilets and showers which are not comparable to those provided to members of the other sex. With respect to housing, the regulation requires comparability as to the facilities themselves and nondiscrimination as to their availability and as to the rules under which they are operated, including fees, hours, and requirements for off-campus housing.

EMPLOYMENT

All employees in all institutions are covered, both full- and part-time, except those in military schools, and in religious schools, to the extent compliance would be inconsistent with the controlling religious tenets. Employment coverage under the proposed regulation generally follows the policies of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and the Department of Labor's Office of Federal Contract Compliance.

Official Memoranda

To All Students, Faculty and Administration:

In undertaking last year to bring all administrative policies and practices at the College into conformance with the Statement of Rights and Responsibilities, as approved by the Board of Visitors the previous summer (July 1973), it was recognized that the procedure for interpreting the Statement needed to be clarified. Short of amendment, such a procedure has been implied only.

If the Statement of Rights and Responsibilities is to remain an important document in all of our lives, the interpreting mechanism should be explicitly stated. Such an interpretation procedure follows. In the future, the clarification statement will appear as an addendum wherever the Statement of Rights and Responsibilities is published:

STATEMENT OF RIGHTS AND RESPONSIBILITIES INTERPRETATION PROCEDURE

The President of the College, by virtue of his responsibility to implement and administer the policies established by the Board of Visitors, is responsible for implementing the Statement of Rights and Responsibilities.

The normal tasks of implementation are the responsibility of various offices of the College "who administer its affairs." These offices, whose policies and practices have been brought into conformance with the Statement, "have a special responsibility to ensure that. . . the rights of all members of the College community are preserved."

There are, however, instances in which the Statement must undergo occasional interpretation in the process of its continuing implementation as a document.

In the Statement of Rights and Responsibilities, it is the responsibility of the President or an "appropriate College authority designated by him" to determine when an exception to a specific section of the Statement should be made. The Statement also provides that members of the College community "should enjoy the same fundamental rights and privileges. . .except in those rare cases where. . .the rights or privileges. . .would be in conflict. . .with the goals and purposes of the College as an institution of higher education."

Although the Statement does not indicate who, other than the President, the arbitrating authority should be for exceptions, or who should interpret the Statement when there is a difference of opinion among members of the College community or between individuals and the institution, the clear implication in both cases is that it should be the President or "an appropriate College authority designated by him."

Therefore, I believe that it is desirable for us to proceed ahead along the lines suggested above. If and when relevant questions or issues are raised in connection with the Statement of Rights and Responsibilities, such questions or issues should be brought to the attention of the President's Office as they occur. I shall take responsibility, depending on the nature and substance of a case, for determining whether I or another administrative officer, whom I would designate, should handle the case. Whoever is given that authority will take responsibility for consulting with those whom he believes appropriate, depending on the circumstances, before reaching a decision.
