

Chief Justice Marshall

Museum Director To Speak in Forum

Thomas N. Armstrong, the Director of the Whitney Museum of American Art in New York and former Curator and Associate Director of the Abby Aldrich Rockefeller Folk Art Collection in Williamsburg, will speak Wednesday, Nov. 13, at 7:30 p.m. in Millington Auditorium. His lecture, part of "The State of the American Dream" series in the Project PLUS Forum, is titled "Observations about American Art--and Other Tales and Trivia."

Mr. Armstrong was educated at the College of Architecture, Art and Planning at Cornell University and at the Institute of Fine Arts, New York University.

In addition to the appointments above, he has served as Director of the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, Philadelphia, and as curatorial adviser and lecturer for the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts in Richmond.

Talk on Child Psychology Set

A program dealing with child psychology will be featured at the College Women's Club next meeting.

Deborah G. Hartley, assistant professor of psychology, will discuss the current state of child psychology as related to child rearing in the Dodge Room of PBK at 8 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 14.

A question and answer period will follow Mrs. Hartley's discussion.

Baskin Bronzes and Prints and 20th Century American Sculpture, Andrews Hall Gallery, Monday-Friday, 9 a.m. - 4 p.m. Exhibit ends Nov. 18.

First Volume of Marshall Papers Released

A ceremony and reception at the Supreme Court building in Washington, D. C. is scheduled for Nov. 18 to commemorate the official publication of the first volume of the Papers of John Marshall.

The multi-publication project is under the sponsorship of the Institute of Early American History and Culture and the College of William and Mary; the National Historical Publications Commission; and The Commonwealth of Virginia. Preparation of the papers of the fourth Chief Justice of the United States has been underway since 1966 at William and Mary. They include more than 6,000 manuscripts and documents related to his career.

The Washington reception will be hosted by the publisher, the University of North Carolina Press. Plans are to formally present the first volume to Warren Burger, Chief Justice of the United States, and the Supreme Court Library. The ceremony will include remarks by Chief Justice Burger; George A. Kennedy, chairman of the Board of Governors of the UNC Press; and Herbert A. Johnson of William and Mary, senior editor of the John Marshall Papers.

Other government and academic leaders are expected to attend the occasion including members of the Virginia and North Carolina Congressional delegations, and a number of federal and state officials.

The project began at William and Mary in 1966 under the editorship of James Morton Smith, then director of publications for the Institute of Early American History and Culture.

Dr. Stephen G. Kurtz, a former director of the Institute, edited the Marshall project after Dr. Smith until 1972, when Dr. Herbert A. Johnson took over as editor. Dr. Charles T. Cullen became co-editor of the Papers in 1973. Both are William and Mary faculty members.

The first volume of the Papers covers Marshall's life from his entry into military service to the end of the Virginia ratifying convention in June, 1788. The early material shows Marshall as an officer in the Virginia line where he performed extra duties as a deputy judge advocate.

Upon his discharge, Marshall began his long involvement with the legal profession. A lengthy extract from his law notes demonstrates his method of commonplacing as he studies law at William and Mary in 1780. His papers during the following years reveal Marshall's growing stature as a legal practitioner in Virginia.

The volume concludes with Marshall's speeches to the Virginia convention, where he helped secure ratification of the Constitution he was later to rule on as Chief Justice.

The volume begins the first publication in any form of the Papers of Marshall. They have been collected from widely scattered sources, three quarters of which have never been printed.

Subsequent volumes will trace his rise in the legal profession, his political activities, and his outstanding contributions as Chief Justice. Volume II, covering documents from 1788-95, is expected to be completed in 1975.

A campus observance of the publication will be held at the Alumni House in December.

The first volume sells for $17.95. It is available from the University of North Carolina Press, Box 2288, Chapel Hill, N. C. 27514.

Business School Gets Fellowships

A third endowed professorship and a new graduate fellowship program have been established by alumni at William and Mary, both to benefit the School of Business Administration.

Announcement of the action was made Saturday by President Thomas A. Graves, Jr., during the annual meeting of the School of Business Administration Sponsors' Board of Directors. Thomas Roy Jones, chairman of the Board, presided.

The J. Edward Zollinger Professorship of Business Administration has been established with contributions to the College by J. Edward Zollinger, to be augmented by matching funds from the state under the Eminent Scholars Programs. A member of the Board of Visitors of the College and a trustee of the Endowment Association, Zollinger is a retired corporate executive now living in Florida.

The Elizabeth S. George Fellowship at the School of Business Administration has been designated by W. Brooks George from insurance incomes, to honor his wife. The fellowship will be given annually to a worthy student in the School's MBA Program. George, chairman of the Board of the House of Edgeworth, is former Rector of the Board of Visitors and a member of the School of Business Administration's Sponsors' Board.

Already established at the College is the James Pinckney Harrison Professorship in History which this year is held by Dr. Cecelia Kenyon of Smith College; and the John Marshall Professorship in Law, held by Dr. William F. Swindler of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law.

According to President Graves, an appointment to the Zollinger professorship will be made as soon as the school's resources and the College's staffing constraints permit.

At a special program in Phi Beta Kappa Hall following the business session, Sponsors heard capsule presentations on various aspects of the School of Business Administration's program by Dean Charles L. Quittmeyer; William E. O'Connell, Jr., associate dean of the graduate program; Associate Dean James E. Smith on the undergraduate program; Professor Colin Park in executive education programs; and John E. Grebenstein, MBA Association president, for the student view. Chairman Thomas Roy Jones reported on the Sponsors' Board.

Anthropologist To Talk on Expedition

Anthropologist F. Clark Howell will speak on "The Omo Research Expedition (1966-73): An Interdisciplinary Study of Earliest Man and His World in Southern Ethiopia" on Wednesday, Nov. 20, at 8 p.m. in the Campus Center Little Theatre.

Dr. Howell, who is professor of anthropology at the University of California, has conducted field researches since 1953 in Europe and East Africa on the evolution and cultural adaptations of early man. He has also organized and directed the international expedition researching the Omo tribe in southern Ethiopia.

Author of the popular book Early Man, Dr. Howell has published numerous articles in professional journals on paleoanthropology and human evolution.

His visit to the campus is part of the current Visiting Scholars Series, arranged in cooperation with the University Center in Virginia, Inc.

College's UF Drive Falls Short of Goal

Timothy J. Sullivan, chairman of the campus United Fund campaign, reports that the campaign at the College has thus far fallen far short of its goal. Contributions received to date total only 60% of the College community's stated goal.

Mr. Sullivan urges all members of the College community to contribute to the fund. "Each of us is a member of the wider Williamsburg community, and every one of us has an inescapable responsibility to contribute to the welfare of that community," he said. "The United Fund is an excellent means of aiding many useful activities with a single gift. I hope that all of those who have not as yet contributed will now resolve to do so."

Pledge cards may be obtained either from department chairmen or by calling Mr. Sullivan at Ext. 429.

Dean Issues Reminder Surplus Property Bids Open

A reminder about the student assistants payroll budgeting system has been issued by the Dean of the Undergraduate Program.

Mr. Livingston announced that the Vice President for Business Affairs has arranged for a departmental budget report to be issued monthly by the Computer Center and distributed by the Director of Student Aid, in an effort to assist deans and department heads in maintaining satisfactory budget control and to clarify the procedures by which student assistants are selected and paid.

"Since the intent of the College's program of student financial aid is to provide jobs first for undergraduate and graduate students who have financial need, it is essential that all academic and administrative departments that wish to employ students contact the Student Aid Office," he said. "If no financially-needy student has the qualification required for the job, Mr. Looney will then approve the employment of the student of your choice."

Student payroll time sheets must be submitted to the Student Aid Office by the end of the last day of each month in order for the students to receive their compensation on the tenth of each month.

Bids will open Friday, Nov. 15, at 1 p.m. for items on the latest surplus property sale list issued by the State Department of Purchases and Supply.

Copies of the complete list of sale items may be viewed at the Purchasing Department, the College Plant Office and the News Office. Items on the list include approximately 100 motor vehicles.

Karate Expert To Talk

Hulon L. Willis, Sr., will provide "Straight Talk on Self-Protection" in the Campus Center Theatre at 8 p.m. on Nov. 18.

Mr. Willis, a karate expert, is assistant professor of health and physical education and also director of community safety at Virginia State College in Petersburg.

He has taught karate in Virginia's police systems, is called upon regularly to analyze security systems, and is a frequent speaker on self-protection to college and community organizations.

Mr. Willis received his M.Ed. from William and Mary in 1956, after graduating from Virginia State. He has just been appointed to the Steering Committee of the Association of Parents.

Physics Colloquium Friday

J.L. Kinsey of MIT will speak on "Application of Molecular Beam Scattering Experiments to Spectroscopy (and vice versa)" at 4:30 p.m. on November 15. The lecture will take place in William Small Hall, room S109. Coffee will be served preceding the lecture in the conference room at 4 p.m.

Dinglefest Company Will Perform

A unique and mod approach to comedy will be the essence of the Dinglefest Company's presentation in the sharp-eyed witty showing of "Tom Swift and His . . ." in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall at 8:15 p.m. Monday, Nov. 18.

The Dinglefest is the first of two visiting professional companies sponsored by The William and Mary Theatre as part of its overall 1974-75 season. Theatre officials chose the Company because they agree with Frank Kinahan who wrote in the University of Chicago Review of The Arts, "Talented young men and women like these will do more in the long run to revitalize the American theatre than any three plays by Neil Simon."

The William and Mary Theatre's box office will be open for "Tom Swift and His . . ." during the day of production, Nov. 18, between 3 and 5:30 p.m., and again from 7 to 8:15 p.m. During those hours (and not other times) telephone reservations will be accepted at 229-3000, ext. 272 or 469. All seats are reserved at $3 each.

The Dinglefest Company's "Tom Swift and His . . ." is the third William and Mary Theatre event so far this year, and it will be followed by The Theatre's production of "The Beggar's Opera" by John Gay, Dec. 11-14; "Angel Street" by Patrick Hamilton Feb. 26-March 1; a professional company's showing of "Concerning Poor B.B.," March 8; and "Much Ado About Nothing" by William Shakespeare, April 16-19.

W&M Is Conference Site

William and Mary has been selected as the site for the biennial Organic Reaction Mechanisms Conference in 1976.

The conference will be held June 20-25, 1976. Some 250 scientists will be invited to participate. Attendants in the past have included nobel prize winners in chemistry.

Melvyn D. Schiavelli, associate professor of chemistry, has been elected a member of the conference planning committee which is headed by Dr. Charles DePuy of the University of Colorado.

According to Mr. Schiavelli, this is the first time this prestigious conference has been held at a school the size of William and Mary. He added that consideration is being given to including in the program a section on science during the colonial era to tie in with the Nation's Bicentennial.

Faculty News

Chemistry

S. Y. Tyree, Jr., professor, presided at the annual meeting of the Council of Oak Ridge Associated Universities held on Oct. 15 in Oak Ridge.

A portrait of Dr. William G. Pollard, the executive director of ORAU since its beginnings in 1947, was unveiled. Dr. Pollard's retirement from the position of executive secretary was announced, and his successor, Dr. Philip L. Johnson, was introduced. Dr. Pollard will continue, however, as a staff member of the Institute of Energy Analysis (ORAU).

The spring meeting of the Board of Directors of ORAU will be held in Williamsburg next February at the invitation of the College.

History

Professor R. Carlyle Beyer attended the National Collegiate Honors Council annual conference at St. Louis University Oct. 31 - Nov. 2 where, as retiring president, he spoke at the Friday luncheon.

Mathematics

On Oct. 10 William G. Poole, Jr., assistant professor, spoke to the Computer Science Department at the University of Waterloo in Ontario, Canada. His topic was "Bandwidth and Profile Reduction," a survey of research done in collaboration with Norman E. Gibbs, associate professor, and Paul K. Stockmeyer, assistant professor. Mr. Poole also spoke of that work at the fall meeting of the Society for Industrial and Applied Mathematics in Alexandria on Oct. 23. In addition, Mr. Poole delivered a speech entitled "Configuration Analysis of the STAR-100 on Typical Numerical Problems" at the Second Langley Conference on Scientific Computing, which was held recently in Virginia Beach. Robert G. Voigt and John C. Knight of NASA Langley Research Center collaborated on the research with Mr. Poole.

On Oct. 29-30 Richard H. Prosl, associate professor, attended a short course at the University of Maryland sponsored by the American Association for the Advancement of Science and the National Science Foundation. The course, entitled "Improving College Instruction Through Evaluation," touched on the evaluation of student achievement, educational programs and faculty performance. Participants in the program will meet again in the Spring to discuss additional problems in evaluation.

Modern Languages

Attending the annual meeting of the South Atlantic Modern Language Association in Washington, D.C., Oct. 31-Nov. 2, were James W. Coke, associate professor, R. Merritt Cox, associate professor, Elsa S. Diduk, associate professor, Alexander Kallos, professor, John A. Moore, professor, Anne T. Netick, associate professor, Pierre C. Oustinoff, professor, and Maria R. Palmaz, assistant professor.

Mrs. Netick presented a paper at the meeting in the Slavic section: "Expressionism in Andrejev: A Comparison of Tsar Golod and Kaiser's Gas Trilogy."

Howard Fraser, assistant professor, attended the annual meeting of the Midwest Modern Language Association in St. Louis, Nov. 1-2. He served as discussant for a paper dealing with Surrealism and Rayuela, a novel written by Julio Cortazar of Argentina. In addition, the Spanish American literature section elected Mr. Fraser to their Advisory and Nominating Committee.

J. Luke Martel, associate professor, Joanne Basso, assistant professor, and Denyse Marchesseau, assistant professor, attended the MFLAV and joint AAT meetings at Roanoke College, Nov. 1-2.

Mr. Martel is the vice president of the AATF, Virginia chapter.

Ms. Basso, president of the AATI, Virginia chapter, chaired the meeting of the AATI at Roanoke and also attended the meeting of the Board of Directors of the MFLAV.

Philosophy

Alan Fuchs, associate professor, was co-chairman on Nov. 7 of a group session which was part of the Williamsburg Conference on Ethics and Political Decision-Making. The conference was for all Tidewater elected political officials.

William Cobb, Jr., associate professor, and Mr. Fuchs represented the department at the Chapel Hill Colloquium in Philosophy at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Oct. 25-27.

Physics

The following papers have been published:

"Improved Calculations of the Complex Dielectric Constant of Semiconductors," R.A. Breckenridge, R.W. Shaw, Jr., and Alden Sher, Phys. Rev. B 10, 2483 (1974).

"New Value for the Magnetic Moment of the Antiproton," B.L. Roberts, Colin R. Cox, Morton Eckhause, John R. Kane, Robert E. Welsh, D.A. Jenkins, W.C. Lam, P.D. Barnes, R.A. Eisenstein, J. Miller, R.B. Sutton, A.R. Kunselman, R.J. Powers, and J.D. Fox, Phys. Rev. Letters 33, 1181 (1974).

"Ozone Photochemistry and Radiative Heating of the Middle Atmosphere," Jae H. Park and Julius London, Journal of the Atmospheric Sciences 31, 1898 (1974).

"The Equivalent Mean Absorption Cross Sections for the O₂ Schumann-Runge Bands: Application to the H₂O and NO Photodissociation Rates," Jae H. Park, Journal of the Atmospheric Sciences 31, 1893 (1974).

Metropolitan Criminal

Justice Center

Charles W. Thomas, research director and adjunct associate professor of sociology, attended the annual convention of the American Society of Criminology that was held in Chicago on Nov. 1-4. He presented a paper entitled "Public Opinion on Criminal Law and Legal Sanctions: An Examination of Two Conceptual Models," which he co-authored with Robin J. Cage, research associate, and Samuel C. Foster, department of criminology, the Florida State University.

"Prison Organization and Inmate Subcultures," a paper by Mr. Thomas and David M. Petersen, department of sociology, Georgia State University, has been accepted for publication as a chapter in E. Viano, ed., The Role of Research in Criminal Justice, Lexington: D. C. Heath, forthcoming.

Mr. Thomas has also been asked to review new works in criminology and the sociology of corrections for the Journal of Criminal Law and Criminology.

Biology Meeting Held

The Cell Biology Section of the Consortium of Colleges and Universities affiliated with Eastern Virginia Medical School met on the campus of VPI & SU on Nov. 2. Carl Vermeulen, associate professor of Biology, represented the College at this meeting.

The major item on the agenda was the planning of a Bicentennial meeting of eminent cell biologists and geneticists who would participate in a symposium on Social Responsibilities in Genetic Research. Plans for a program on the topic of Science in Virginia, from colonial times to the time of Darwin, were also discussed.

Lecture on Women to be Held

The first in a series of programs focusing on women today has been scheduled for Nov. 15 at 2 p.m. in the Campus Center ballroom.

Mrs. Patricia S. Lindh, assistant to the President of the United States and in charge of women's programs, Washington, D.C., and Miss Diane Bostick, assistant vice president at Avondale Mills in New York, will be the featured speakers in Friday's program, which is sponsored by Phi Mu Sorority. Immediately following the addresses, seminar groups led by professional women in the fields of communications, volunteer consumers, legal and medical affairs will meet.

Future programs are being coordinated by Associate Dean Carolyn Moseley and the Special Programs Committee.

Flanagan on SSDP Advisory Committee

Dr. Stuart Flanagan, associate professor in the School of Education, is currently a member of the Supplemental Skill Development Program Advisory Committee for the State Department of Education.

The SSDP is an outgrowth of the Standards of Quality and Objectives for Public Schools in Virginia, adopted by the General Assembly for the 1974-76 biennium.

The 1974 General Assembly appropriated $14,456,400 for the Supplemental Skill Development Program for 17,210 fifth-grade students in 1974-75 and for not more than 30,978 fifth and sixth grade students in 1975-76. Under the program additional instruction in reading and mathematics is provided for low achievers.

The advisory committee is composed of 12 members appointed through the Superintendent of Public Instruction of the State Department of Education to assist implementation of the program at the state level.

Foreign Students Conference Set

The annual International Student Conference, sponsored by the Virginia Baptist Student Union, will meet in Williamsburg during the Thanksgiving weekend, Nov. 29 - Dec. 1.

The organization has sponsored the event for 18 years as a continuing effort to provide holiday entertainment for international students.

Conference cost is $41 per person, although some financial aid is available. A $6 registration fee is due by Nov. 15.

Daniel Avery, at 229-3471 or 244 South Boundary Street, is handling reservations. Information may also be obtained from the Department of Campus Ministry, P.O. Box 8568, Richmond, Va. 23226.

Volunteers Help in W&M Greenhouse

Dr. Martin Mathes, associate professor of biology, has a couple of volunteer "green thumbs" working for him.

Every Thursday morning Williamsburg residents Mrs. Martha Moody and Mrs. Isabelle McManus spend a few hours in the College's penthouse greenhouse atop Millington Hall weeding and potting plants in an effort to maintain the diverse plant species housed there.

Mrs. Moody, whose son Carlisle E. Moody is an assistant professor of economics at the College, had heard through George Grayson, associate professor of government and a delegate to the Virginia House of Representatives, that Dr. Mathes was enlisting aid, as the greenhouse is quite spacious and requires continual maintenance. Mrs. Moody then contacted her neighbor, Mrs. McManus, to assist her.

Mrs. Moody is a long-time resident of Boston, where she enjoyed painting in her leisure time and frequently exhibited and sold her art works. Having just moved to Williamsburg within the past year, she was interested in learning about the flora and fauna typical of this area as well as in having an opportunity to become involved in the community. In addition to her volunteer work at the greenhouse, Mrs. Moody plans to help out at the Twentieth Century Art Gallery this year.

Mrs. McManus, a former resident of Newport News, has also recently moved to town and lives with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd N. Payne. For years Mrs. McManus had her own garden and was therefore delighted to have an opportunity to be of assistance in the greenhouse.

Both women are enthusiastic about their "jobs" at the College and agree that they are learning a lot about different species and how to care for them.

Jr. Year in France Program Begins

William and Mary's first Junior year in France program is now well under way in the southern French town of Montpellier, according to Associate Professor J. Luke Martel.

Mr. Martel returned to the campus recently after a seven week stay in France, where he made final arrangements for settling the 28 student participants in the program.

Mr. Martel's prolonged stay was made possible by the timely assistance given by Marcel Reboussin, professor emeritus of modern languages. Mr. Reboussin, who retired six years ago, volunteered his services to the College and assumed Mr. Martel's teaching responsibilities during the first five weeks of the academic session.

Assistant Professor Paul P. Cloutier will visit the students in Montpellier in January, and Mr. Martel will return in May for the critical examination period.

Greene Begins Lecture Series

Richmond attorney JeRoyd X Greene will deliver a public lecture the evening of Nov. 18, sponsored by 45 persons from the faculty and staff of the College.

Monday's lecture, which is the first in a series of seven to be delivered at William and Mary during the next four months, will, according to Mr. Greene, provide "a panoramic view" of "the historical development of the law and Black people in America." It will be presented at 8 p.m. in Millington Auditorium.

The lecture series is entitled "Law, Justice and Racism."
