

"Gaslight" Opens Thursday

A melodrama that, as Time magazine said, creates suspense "not by keeping the audience in ignorance but by making it doubt what it knows" is the next production of the William and Mary Theatre.

Patrick Hamilton's "Angel Street" (also known as "Gaslight") will be staged Wednesday, Feb. 26, through Saturday, March 1, at 8:15 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

Renovation Progresses

One hundred twenty-five students will move into refurbished Old Dominion Hall next Monday, marking the completion of the first phase of a long-term renovation plan designed to modernize College housing.

Although originally constructed in 1927, the "new" Old Dominion Hall will feature a list of conveniences that range from air-conditioning to color coordinated wall-to-wall carpeting.

The first of the five residences scheduled to be renovated, Old Dominion will also offer students a choice of occupancy, with 45 of the 85 rooms designated as singles. Each floor will have two multi-purpose lounges and a fully-equipped kitchen. Nearly the entire fourth floor of the building has been redesigned to serve as a recreation hall and will soon be furnished with ping-pong and pool tables.

The refurbished Old Dominion is designed around the "living-learning" concept of College housing.

As soon as the students vacate Monroe Hall to move into Old Dominion, workmen will begin the second phase of the renovation project. The Monroe renovation, which will cost the College nearly $600,000, includes the installation of new heating, electrical and plumbing systems and a general refurbishing.

Despite the title changes, the play remains the same: it revolves around the plan of one person to torture another into insanity. Present is a Scotland Yard detective who patiently unravels the intricate web of deceptions, and, in the true spirit of melodramas, each step of the plot is filled with reversals and complications.

Howard Scammon, director of "Angel Street," promises an exciting evening of theatre. "The William and Mary Theatre hasn't done a genuine melodrama ever since it moved into Phi Beta Kappa," he says. "It seems time we did one and 'Angel Street' is an excellent, thrilling script."

Scene and costume design are by Jerry H. Bledsoe. Lighting is designed by Christopher Boll and Susan Dandridge, and Albert E. Haak is technical director.

The PBK box office will be open 3-5 p.m., Feb. 25-28, and from 7 p.m. until curtain time on the evenings of the performances. All seats are reserved at $2. During the box office hours telephone reservations will be accepted at Ext. 272 or 469.

Adult Skills Program Is Funded, To Get Underway Next Month

An educational program for employee self-improvement is scheduled to go into effect next month.

The project, called the Adult Skills Program (ASP), received final approval for funding under a federal grant last Thursday.

Coordinated jointly by the School of Education and the Affirmative Action Office of the College and by the Community Action Agency, the project is open to College employees and community members who do not have either a high school diploma or the General Educational Development equivalency of a high school diploma.

British poet Hugo Williams will give a reading from his works, with comments on the contemporary scene in British poetry, tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. in the Botetourt Theatre of Swem Library.

Bach Program Featured Sunday

A recital of music for violin and harpsichord by Johann Sebastian Bach will be presented in the Campus Center Ballroom on Sunday, March 2, at 4 p.m. Dora Short of Virginia Beach and James Darling of Williamsburg are the performing artists.

Mrs. Short is a member of the Julliard faculty in New York, a student of the celebrated virtuoso Joseph Fuchs, and first violinist of the Feldman Quartet of Norfolk. Mr. Darling is the organist-choirmaster of Bruton Parish Church and a William and Mary faculty member who holds degrees from Yale and Michigan. Mrs. Short and Mr. Darling have collaborated frequently in performances of secular and sacred music.

A work that is rarely played, the Sonata in F Minor for violin and harpsichord, will open the program. Each artist will also play a solo-work--Mrs. Short has chosen the A Minor Sonata for Violin Unaccompanied, while Mr. Darling has selected the D Major Partita. The joyous E Major Sonata concludes the recital.

Part of the College's Sunday Series, the recital is open to the public free of charge.

Recital Tonight

The Music Department is sponsoring a series of student recitals during the current semester. The first of these recitals will take place tonight at 8 p.m. in Room 100 of Ewell Hall. Students performing on this recital will be pianists Rebecca Hudleton, Margaret Bozik, Paul Herndon, Robert Yahley, Nancy DeLap, and Milton Chappell. Vocalists will be Frank Hankey and K. C. Jones, while Judy Gerald will play the flute.

The public is cordially invited, and there is no admission charge.

Badminton Match Set Council Seeks Student Editors

The first and only intercollegiate badminton match scheduled for this year will be played on Friday, February 28.

William and Mary faces Duke University at 7 p.m. in Adair Gym. There is no admission charge. The match will feature six men and six women from the College and approximately the same number from Duke. They will compete in men's and women's singles and doubles and in mixed singles and doubles.

Sume-i Course

Asia House will sponsor an intermediate level course in sume-i, Japanese brush stroke painting, taught by Mrs. Irving Williams. The five week course will begin on March 3 and will be held each Monday from 5-7 p.m. at Asia House. The registration fee is $10. Brush and ink sets will also be available for $7. Although the course is intended for those familiar with sume-i, interested beginners will also be accepted.

Mrs. Williams, a native of Japan, has taught sume-i courses, Japanese flower arranging, and she performs the traditional Japanese tea ceremony. The course is open to the general public. To register, contact Bruce Fenner, resident director of Asia House, at 229-8523 before February 28.

Orientation Jobs Applications Due

Applications for Assistant Director of Orientation and for Orientation Administrative Assistants are available now in Dean Albert's Office, James Blair Hall, Room 210. The deadline for accepting applications is March 7.

All interested students are urged to apply. Previous experience in the orientation program is not required. Questions should be directed to Jane Barret, Landrum 12, Ext. 418. Applications for Orientation Aides will be available later.

JBT Good Evening

The first in a series of "JBT Good Evenings" will be held Thursday, Feb. 27, at 8 p.m. in James Blair Terrace 42. William O'Connell, associate dean for graduate studies in the school of business administration, will speak on "Graduate Study in Business: Preparation, Admissions Policies, Potential Careers."

Future "Good Evening" programs will range from discussions on graduate studies in science, law and education, to talks on jobs, W&M foreign study programs, the experiences of a police officer, and human sexuality. Dates and times will be published in the News calendar of events.

The Publications Council will begin its process to select 1975-76 editors of the student publications--The Flat Hat, Colonial Echo, William and Mary Review, Colonial Lawyer, Amicus Curiae, and station WCWM-FM next month.

Chairman Wilford Kale said the Council deadline for submission of recommendations for new editors is Friday, March 7. Nominations can either be

Law Student Publishes Article

An article by Vincent D. Sapp, a second year student at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, has been published in the January issue of the Journal of Taxation.

The article, entitled "How a Two-tiered Partnership Arrangement Can Be Used to Minimize Tax Liabilities," was based on a research project for

Will The Real Jerry Bledsoe Please Stand Up?

Jerry Bledsoe of the Theatre and Speech Department is resigned to the fact that he is probably in for a few more phone calls with the publication this month of The World's Number One, Flat Out, All-Time Great, Stock Car Racing Book, by Jerry Bledsoe. The Jerry Bledsoe of stock-car writing fame is also on the faculty of a southern university, so the confusion is compounded. Jerry H. Bledsoe and his wife Sharon are used to the confusion. Jerry's mother once confronted him with an article from Esquire, wondering if he had a hidden hobby.

There's no doubt about William and Mary's Bledsoe not being an expert on cars, according to an unimpeachable source in his family. "When something goes wrong with the car, he just crosses his fingers and hopes someone can fix it."

Associate Professor Jerome F. Leavell's Legal Research and Writing course last year. Mr. Leavell termed Mr. Sapp's scholarly accomplishment "a signal honor and laudable achievement."

ORAU Directors To Meet at W&M

The 96th meeting of the Oak Ridge Associated Universities board of directors will be held here Feb. 28. The major purpose of the meeting will be the election of corporate officers. Deadline reminder: Independent Study and Research, 1976-77, June 2. Applications available.

U.S. ATOMIC ENERGY COMMISSION DEFUNCT

As of Jan. 19, 1975, the Atomic Energy Commission went out of business, and the new Energy Research and Development Administration assumed responsibility for federal programs of energy research and development, including programs formerly a part of the National Science Foundation, the Interior Department, and the Environmental Protection Agency.

MINI-GRANT PROGRAM TO COMBAT POVERTY

Small amounts of money may be provided to private and public non-profit organizations for mobilizing part-time volunteers to work on human, social, and environmental needs. Outright grants up to $2000 will be made; $2000 - $5000 require a match.

PRESIDENT FORD'S 1976 BUDGET FOR HIGHER EDUCATION

Several aspects of the President's budget, if enacted, will be unfortunate for William and Mary, including the elimination of the Supplemental Opportunity Grants and new capital contributions to the National Direct Student Loan fund; the elimination of the Title I Community Services program, the undergraduate teaching equipment program, veterans cost of instruction payments, and the College Library Resources program; a decrease in College Work Study funds and in language and area studies.

Increased funds will be provided for Innovative and Experimental Programs (a new category), the National Institute of Education's research program, and the Fund for the Improvement of Postsecondary Education.

In Research and Development, the budget provides for a 15% increase over the current year, an increase which "will match expected inflationary pressures . . . and maintain the forward thrust of high priority programs in energy, national defense, and the environment, as well as support the search for fundamental new knowledge," according to the Federal Council for Science and Technology. Major increases are as follows:

Conservation: 100% increase; Fossil Energy: 54% increase; Nuclear Energy: 20% increase; Solar and Geothermal Energy: 30% increase; Environmental and Safety Research: 19% increase; National Security: 14% increase.

National Science Foundation's budget shows an increase from the current estimated fy'75 budget of $697.1 millions to $775.4 millions. The portion of the budget marked for basic research will increase 2% in fy'75. The Scientific Research Project Support budget calls for increases in each discipline with major increases as follows: Earth Sciences: 12.3%; Cellular Biology: 14.1%; Physics: 15.4%; Chemistry: 17.9%; Computer Research: 13%. Increases in Chemistry will include expanded research in catalysis and in other energy-related areas and studies of chemical separation, liquids, and the chemical biological interface. Biological sciences will particularly emphasize solutions to food and energy problems over the long run.

Reductions in NSF's budget will occur in the RANN program, Science Education Improvement, and several small programs. Faculty Fellowships will be eliminated.

Graduate student support will be increased about 12% and will make possible approximately 500 new graduate fellowships.

ADULT SKILLS PROGRAM

A short-range educational program for employee self-improvement was proposed last year, but failed to gain the necessary impetus. The idea was revived early this year when Mr. Trumbo, after reading in local papers of the demise of the initial program, contacted Mr. Wilson with the suggestion that federal funds be used to support a similar but expanded program.

HEW POLICY RESEARCH STUDIES

a. Income Maintenance and Employment. Overall research objective is to provide a better understanding of the causes of low incomes from private employment; to ascertain the effects of existing or proposed income maintenance and employment-related assistance programs; and to suggest program modifications or new initiatives which will contribute to increased self-sufficiency and reduced dependency among low-income families and individuals.

b. Health. Overall research priority concerns the availability and utilization of health services among low income populations, including organizational arrangement of service systems for financing care; arrangements for reimbursement for services rendered; funding of facility construction and modernization; psychological factors influencing utilization; and levels of governmental responsibility.

c. Other Human Services. Overall research objective is intended to provide linkages among a variety of programs which affect the disadvantaged.

d. Basic Research and Statistical Data. Overall research objective is to increase fundamental understanding of the nature and cause of poverty and inequality and to provide for improved data collection, analysis, and utilization of statistical data on policy-relevant economic, social, health, and demographic phenomena.

Deadline: April 15, 1975; applications available.
