Myres Smith McDougal

McDougal To Receive Medallion At Law Day Ceremonies May 1

Myres Smith McDougal, Sterling Professor of Law at Yale University, has been named the recipient of the Marshall-Wythe Medallion from the Marshall-Wythe School of Law.

The medallion will be presented to Mr. McDougal at a special Law Day banquet May 1. Other Law Day events will include a naturalization ceremony at 2 p.m., at which approximately 150 Peninsula residents will become American citizens, and visits by Peninsula lawyers and law students to area high schools.

Mr. McDougal has been a member of the Yale faculty since 1934 and has been a visiting professor at Cairo and Cambridge Universities. A 1931 graduate of Yale's law school, Mr. McDougal has received honorary degrees from Columbia, York and Northwestern Universities.

In 1943 McDougal served the U.S. State Department as general counsel in the Office of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation Operation. Later he was a member of the U.S. Delegation to the United Nations Conference on Law of Treaties in Vienna and a member of the U.S. panel on the Permanent Court of arbitration.

During his long and illustrious career at Yale, McDougal has been recognized as a respected expert in the field of international law. He was special counsel in the celebrated Saudi Arabia Oil Concessions Arbitration and is co-originator of the famous "Eight Values" of sociological jurisprudence and the judicial process.

Former Lt. Gov. Henry Howell will be guest speaker at the naturalization ceremony in the Courtyard of the Wren Building, and U.S. District Court Judge John A. MacKenzie of Norfolk will conduct the proceedings. Following the ceremony, the Williamsburg Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution will sponsor a reception in the Great Hall of the Wren Building in honor of the nation's newest citizens. In the event of rain, the program will take place in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

Lawyers from the Williamsburg, Hampton, Newport News and Norfolk areas will be joined by students from Marshall-Wythe in Law Day visits to Peninsula high schools. As many as 50 practicing lawyers are expected to speak at 15 high schools and one university and to answer questions of high school students who are considering law as a career. The lawyers will also "attempt to explain how the law helps the individual in today's society."

Woodbridge Law Professorship Established At Marshall-Wythe

The College has established the Dudley Warner Woodbridge Professorship of Law in memory of the late Dean of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law.

Dean Woodbridge was credited with reviving the law school, the nation's oldest, and building it into a nationally recognized and accredited institution. He began teaching law in 1927 at William and Mary, became dean in 1950, and retired in 1962. He died in 1969.

The Woodbridge professorship is the law school's second endowed faculty post. A year ago, the Board of Visitors appointed William F. Swindler as the first incumbent of the John Marshall Professorship.

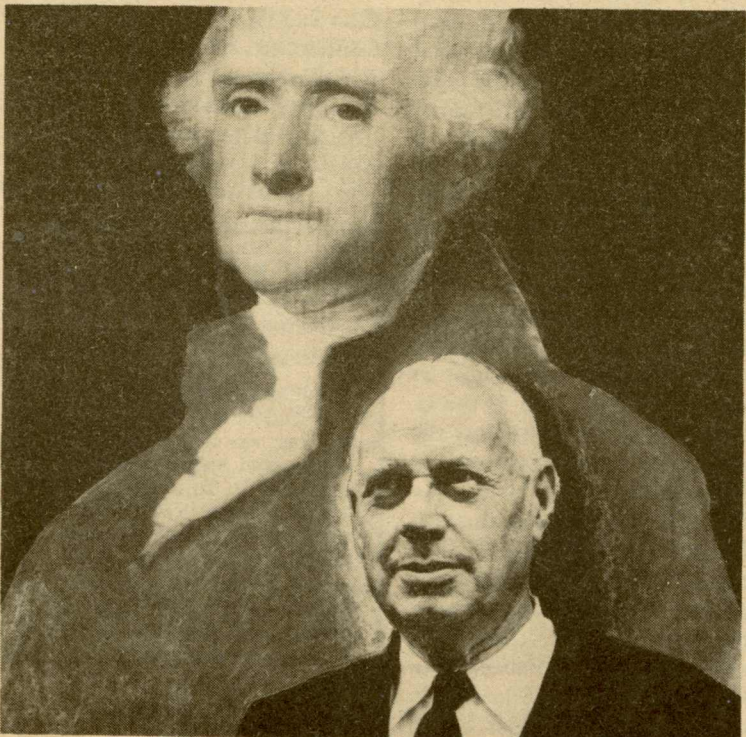

The new professorship has been funded by contributions from the Law School Association and portion of an unrestricted bequest to William and Mary. Income from the endowment will be matched by the Commonwealth of Virginia under the Eminent Scholars Program of the Governor's Office. The professorship is not the same as an endowed chair; income from an endowment for a professorship supplements the incumbent's State-funded salary and expenses of supporting research and other activities.

Dean Woodbridge was, for more than 30 years, editor of the Virginia Bar Notes-- a project which has continued to the present as a means of assisting potential lawyers in preparing for their bar examinations.

He was honored numerous times by various organizations. The College conferred on him its first Thomas Jefferson Award in 1962; he held the Algernon Sydney Sullivan Award, and was a member of a number of honorary organizations in the legal profession. Life magazine listed him in 1950 as one of America's eight outstanding professors.

Except for five summers, his entire teaching career was at William and Mary. A native of Seattle, he studied at the University of Washington and the University of Chicago, and held his law degrees from the University of Illinois.

W&M News Deadline

The deadline for submitting articles to the W&M News is 5 p.m. on the Wednesday preceding publication. Copy turned in after that time may be held for publication in a future issue.

Sharon Pandak To Speak At Honors Convocation

Sharon E. Pandak, outgoing president of the Student Association, will deliver remarks at the annual Spring Honors Convocation, Monday, April 28, at 8 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

James C. Livingston, dean of the undergraduate program will preside, and President Thomas A. Graves, Jr., will give a closing statement.

The order of the program has been altered somewhat this year, reports Dean Carolyn Moseley, who is organizing the convocation. Awards recognizing primarily academic achievement will be presented in the initial part of the program with leadership and service awards following.

The following awards will be presented: Alpha Lambda Delta, for the freshman woman with the highest cumulative grade point average; Phi Eta Sigma, for the freshman man with the highest cumulative grade point average; Kays Gary-Charles McDowell, Jr., for excellence in journalism; the Educational Foundation and L. Tucker Jones awards, for athletic excellence; Glen D. Mann Scholarship, for service; Mortar Board Awards and the Omicron Delta Kappa Leadership Award.

Members-elect and new members will be presented for Beta Gamma Sigma business society; Phi Beta Kappa; Pi Delta Epsilon journalism society; Mortar Board; and Omicron Delta Kappa. Editors-in-Chief of the Flat Hat, Colonial Echo, William and Mary Review and the station manager of WCWM will also be introduced.

The evening program format proved successful last year, and has been retained this year.

A small reception, by invitation only, will be held in the Dodge Room immediately following the ceremonies honoring those who have received awards.

Campus Wrap-up

Art Exhibit At Andrews

Senior fine arts major Margaret C. Lascara and Harry W. Snyder will be exhibiting their works in Andrews Gallery until May 8.

Margaret, a native of Norfolk, is exhibiting prints, including lithographs, embossed prints and gesso prints, while Harry, who is from Kulpville, Pa., is showing ceramic and mixed media sculptures.

Art works by both students will be for sale.

Andrews Gallery will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. seven days a week for this show only.

Final Wren Forum Is Monday

The final program in the Wren Forum Series begins at 8 p.m. on Monday, April 28, in the Wren Great Hall with a discussion of "Ethical Issues in Public Policy."

Panel participants include George and Jane Webb, directors for the Center for Science and Ethics in Public Policy at Christopher Newport College; Alan Fuchs, associate professor of philosophy; and Assistant Professor Bruce Rigelman and Associate Professor Roger Smith, both of the government department.

The public is invited to attend.

Kenyon Slates History Lecture

Cecelia Marie Kenyon, the James Pinckney Harrison Professor of History for 1974-75, will speak Wednesday, April 30, at 8 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

Her lecture, entitled "The Revolutionary Moment: Fate, Fortune, Choice and Posterity," is the final one in a series concerning the political thought of the American Revolution.

College Women's Club Luncheon

The annual College Women's Club luncheon will be held at 12:15 p.m. Friday, May 2, in the Campus Center Ballroom. Mrs. Thomas Graves has invited luncheon guests to a Social Hour at the President's House prior to the luncheon at 11 a.m.

The deadline for luncheon reservations is April 30. To register or to receive additional information, contact Mrs. John McKnight, luncheon hostess, at 229-5294.

P.E. Proficiency Tests

Proficiency tests for women will be given by the Department of Physical Education for Women at Adair Gym May 6 and 7, beginning at 7 p.m. each night.

Recreational Swim Hours Given

Adair Pool is open to all members of the College community for recreational swimming. Until May 13 the recreational swimming hours are as follows:

Monday through Thursdays, 3:30-5:30 p.m.

Friday, 3-5 p.m.

Saturday and Sunday, 1-4 p.m.

Indian Poetry Reading

Indian poet D.B. Patnaik will read and discuss his poetry at Asia House on Thursday, April 24, at 7:30 p.m. Mr. Patnaik has studied in India, at Oxford and in the United States. He received his Ph.D. in English Literature from the University of Louisville and is currently a visiting professor at the University of North Carolina, Greensboro. His publications include translations of Indian poetry, a survey of English poetry in India from 1940-1972, and several volumes of his own poetry. The reading and the discussion are open to the public.

Delta Omicron Recital

Delta Omicron students will give a recital including both vocal and instrumental music on Saturday, April 26, at 8:15 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Hall. The recital is open free to the public.

Freshmen Plan Party

A Freshman Party will be held Sunday, April 27, at Lake Matoaka. There will be canoeing, games, and refreshments in the afternoon, and music by "Sebastian" from 7 to 11 in the evening.

In case of rain, the party will be held in William and Mary Hall.

Swimming Courses Offered

Water Safety Instructor and Senior Lifesaving renewal courses are being offered for currently authorized persons whose certificates will soon expire. There is no fee. Persons who qualify may sign up in advance on the bulletin board in Adair Gym. Classes will be held April 28, 6:30-9:30 p.m.; April 29, 6:30-9:30 p.m.; and April 30, 6:30-8:30 p.m.

Director's Workshop Productions Set

The final Director's Workshop productions for this season will be held Wednesday, April 30 through Saturday, May 3, beginning at 5 p.m. each day in the Lab Theatre of Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

One acts and excerpts from both modern and classical plays will be performed, ranging from absurd and comic to serious dramas.

The public is invited to attend; there is no admission charge.

Director's Workshop provides theatre concentrators with an opportunity to explore the directing and technical aspects of theatrical productions, as well as acting.

Homecoming Float Chairmen To Meet

There will be an organizational meeting of float chairmen for the 1975 Homecoming Parade at 4 p.m. Tuesday, April 29, at the Alumni House.

All organizations anticipating an entry in the '75 parade should have a representative present.

Talk On R. Beverley Slated

Robert D. Arner, associate professor of English at the University of Cincinnati, will deliver a public lecture on "The Quest for Freedom: Style and Meaning in Robert Beverley's History and Present State of Virginia" at 4 p.m. on Thursday, April 24, in room 310 of the Wren Building.

A specialist in Colonial Southern writing, Mr. Arner has published widely in scholarly journals on various aspects of American literary history and criticism and is currently writing a book on Early Southern humor.

The subject of his lecture, Robert Beverley (c. 1673-1722), was the first Virginia historian of literary merit and a brother-in-law of William Byrd of Westover.

His lecture is open to the public without charge and is sponsored by the English department.

Dissertation Defense

The final examination for Thomas P. Vadasz in defense of his doctoral dissertation in history, entitled "The History of an Industrial Community: Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, 1741-1920," will be held on Friday, April 25, at 2 p.m. in the History Department Library, Morton Hall, 340. The examination is open to members of the William and Mary faculty.

Project Plus Forum To Center On Blacks and the American Dream

The Project Plus Forum on Wednesday, April 23, will focus on blacks and the American dream.

Videotape and film interviews with Julian Bond, Ron Dellums, John Lewis and others will be shown at 7:30 p.m. in Millington Auditorium.

The public is invited to attend.

Julian Bond helped found the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee in 1960 at the age of 20. Five years later he was elected to the Georgia House of Representatives, which seated him only after the U. S. Supreme Court ruled that the assembly's vote to bar him was unconstitutional. He continues to serve in that state assembly and to work in various civil rights organizations. His writings include poems and essays, some of which appear in his book, A Time to Speak, A Time to Act.

A native of California, Ron Dellums was educated in that state's university system and holds a masters degree in social work from the University of California. He has been the director of numerous community projects, a psychiatric social worker, a member of the Berkeley City Council, and a lecturer at San Francisco State College and the University of California at Berkeley. He currently is the U. S. Congressman representing the Seventh District of California, a seat he has held since 1971.

John Lewis has been director of the Voter Education Project since 1970. His earlier civil rights activities include chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, an organizer of the 1965 march on Selma, Alabama, a leader in the 1963 march on Washington, and

Grad Student Party

All graduate students from the Schools of Arts and Sciences, Education, Business Administration and Law, and associated faculty and administrators are invited to a Graduate Student Party Friday, April 25, at 4:30 p.m. in the Graduate Student Center on Richmond Road, across from Blow Gym.

There is no admission charge. The Center will furnish all the beer.

Math Expert To Lecture

Morris Kline, author of Why Johnny Can't Add, will discuss informally the current issues and trends in mathematics education in the curriculum of primary and secondary schools on April 27 at 7:30 p.m. in the Botetourt Theatre.

Mr. Kline is director of the division of electronics research at the Courant Institute of Mathematical Sciences at New York University. His visit to the campus is sponsored by the Committee on Lectures.

The public is invited to attend.

ROTC Week

Governor Mills E. Godwin Jr. has designated the week of April 21-27 as ROTC Week. In calling this observance to the attention of Virginians, Governor Godwin stated, in part:

"The Reserve Officers Training Corps continues to represent the finest in the American concept of the citizen soldier. Graduates of the program have proved themselves again and again in the defense of the nation."

An Awards Day recognizing outstanding William and Mary ROTC cadets will be held April 30 in Blow Gymnasium.

ABC Newsman To Talk On Middle East

Peter Jennings, Washington Bureau Chief for the American Broadcasting Company and news anchorman on A.M. America, will speak on "America and the Middle East," at 8 p.m., Thursday, April 24, in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

The appearance by the Canadian-born journalist is sponsored by the Student Association Speakers Series and is open to the public without charge.

Jennings joined ABC news in 1964 as a civil rights correspondent after a successful career as a political reporter in Canada. A year later, at the age of 27, Jennings became the anchorman of ABC's evening news program, "Peter Jennings with the News."

Frustrated with the lack of personal reporting at ABC central, Jennings stepped down from the network's anchorman position to that of a national correspondent in 1967. In the ensuing years, he covered American politics, college campuses, and was one of the first network reporters to take a serious interest in the growing movement for ecology. He won considerable praise for a series of reports in 1968 and 1969 on "the back roads of America."

Following the 1967 Arab-Israeli war, he began intermittently to cover the Middle East, and in 1969 he moved to Rome as the chief roving correspondent for ABC in Europe and the Middle East. A year later he became the first Middle East bureau chief for ABC and moved his home to Beirut in order to cover an area that extends from Bangladesh in the East to the Mediterranean in the West. In 1970 he won the National Headliners Award for his coverage of the war in Bangladesh.

Covered Munich tragedy

Jennings' most recent exclusive was that of being the only reporter to have been in the 1972 Munich Olympics village during the tragic killings on September 25. He locked himself in the bathroom when security forces searched the area. Jennings later reconstructed the event, revealing for the first time who ran the operation and what went wrong with the complex plans of the terrorists.

Jennings is known among colleagues as a "people" reporter, and has more than a nodding acquaintance with a wide variety of world leaders. Currently, however, he generally spends most of his time in the political circles of Washington and New York, conducting interviews with Congressmen, governors and administration officials.

Book Returned ...35 Years Later

Swem Library has reported the return of a book that, the librarians agree, probably has the longest overdue record of any book ever returned in the history of the library.

On April 10 Lawrence Le Shan, a 1942 graduate of William and Mary, returned Poems of Catullus and Tibullus, a book he had checked out in 1940 as an undergraduate.

In lieu of paying the accumulated $635.70 fine Mr. Le Shan has offered to give the library copies of two books he has written, and the library has accepted the offer.

Mr. LeShan returned the book during a visit to the campus to participate in a psychology conference. He is currently a research psychologist at the Institute of Applied Biology in New York. He holds degrees from the University of Nebraska and the University of Chicago.

Biggs Consort Concludes Sunday Series

The John Biggs Consort, a quartet of musicians known for a repertoire of chamber music that spans seven centuries, will appear Sunday, April 27, in the final Sunday Series program of the current season.

The concert, which is open to the public without charge, is scheduled for 4 p.m. in the Campus Center Ballroom.

The John Biggs Consort plays original music from the medieval, Renaissance, Baroque and contemporary periods, utilizing a large collection of authentic reproductions of rare musical instruments. Biggs, the founder and director of the Consort, plays more than a dozen different instruments himself, including the Krumhorn, recorder, viol, minstrel's harp, portable organ and hand-bells.

The versatile musical group has performed for the Fifth International Church Music Congress, the San Diego and Ashland Shakespeare Festivals, and at numerous universities throughout the country. Audiences usually respond favorably to the air of intimacy and informality that comes with each Consort program. The informal spirit of the medieval and Renaissance sitting room has become the trademark of the group, which occasionally performs in Elizabethan costume.

Carmina Burana To Highlight Band Program

"Carmina Burana," composer Carl Orff's collection of 13 musical vignettes, will be featured at the William and Mary Concert Band's annual Carl Hibbard Memorial Concert on April 25 at 8:15 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

Band director will be Charles R. Varner.

Tickets for the concert are available at the Campus Center desk, from band members and will be sold at the PBK box office on the evening of the performance. Admission is $1 for adults, and free for children 12 and under.

Proceeds from the concert go to the Carl Hibbard Band Scholarship Fund, established in 1958 by Captain and Mrs. Hibbard of Triangle, Va., in memory of their son, a former student and band member at the College. The prize is awarded annually to a William and Mary student who qualifies on the basis of musical ability, interest, character, need and academic achievement.

Medieval Song Adaptation

Orff's "Carmina Burana" (Songs of Beuren) is an engaging musical interpretation of an anthology of medieval songs and poems originally written in Latin, German and French. Penned by "goliards," the wandering scholars, poets and monks of seven centuries ago, the ancient manuscript contained works both sacred and secular and varied in style from religious mysticism to earthly worldliness. This range is reflected in the titles of the contemporary compositions's 13 segments. They include "I am the Abbot," "Behold the Spring," "I Lament Fortune's Blows," and "When We Are in the Tavern."

Although Orff's 1936 score calls for vocalists and three choirs, the band will perform a more modern version arranged for orchestra by John Krance, noted conductor and music consultant. This instrumental concept, director Varner feels, "retains the spirit, feeling and overall character of the original score."

Also scheduled for the concert are George Gershwin's classic "Rhapsody in Blue," with piano soloist Milton Chappell; "Sketches on a Tudor Psalm," and Charles Griffé's "Poem," with a flute solo by Judy Gerald. As a finale the band will play highlights from "Fiddler on the Roof."

Soloist Milton Chappell is a sophomore music concentrator from Hopewell. He has served as rehearsal pianist for the Sinfonicron production last fall of "The Gondoliers" and for W&M Theatre's musical last spring, "Anything Goes." He is a student of Mrs. Sandra Vernon Owen, lecturer in music. In addition to his musical interests, Milton is a Student Association Senator and a member of his dormitory's Council.

Judy Gerald, a junior music concentrator from Vienna, is a student of Professor Charles Varner. She is in the W&M band and also plays in various chamber groups. A member of Delta Omicron honorary music fraternity, she will be president next year.

ANTHROPOLOGY

Vinson Suttle, associate professor, has become editor of the Borneo Research Bulletin. The Bulletin is an international publication containing short scholarly articles as well as news of contemporary research of interest both to laymen and scholars of various disciplines.

CHEMISTRY

Robert A. Orwoll, associate professor, attended the 169th National Meeting of the American Chemical Society in Philadelphia, April 6-9. He gave an invited talk entitled "Some Thermodynamic Properties of Solutions of Polyethylene in Normal Decane." William and Mary students J. A. Joki, V. A. McKay, and J. A. Small were listed as collaborators.

The Board of Directors of the American Chemical Society has awarded Mr. Orwoll a Petroleum Research Fund Grant of $10,400 for the period September 1975 - August 1977. The grant will be used to support research in collaboration with undergraduate students. Mr. Orwoll and the students will examine the thermodynamic properties of solutions containing a liquid crystalline component and an organic solvent.

ECONOMICS

Professor Leonard G. Schifrin attended the 1975 meetings of the Virginia Association of Economists in Charlottesville on April 4 and 5, where he chaired the session on the Teaching of Introductory Economics. His review of the book Resistant Prices appears in the forthcoming issue of the journal Drugs in Health Care. He also has contributed a selection to a new textbook, Economic Principles: Microeconomics by Simon N. Whitney of Iona College.

ENGLISH

Professor Scott Donaldson has published the following: "The Old World, the New Journalism, and the Novel" (an omnibus review) in the Summer 1974 issue of Sewanee Review; and "The Seduction of Theron Ward" in the March issue of Nineteenth-Century Fiction.

His paper on "The Machines in John Cheever's Garden," which he presented at the conference on the Changing Face of the Suburbs held in June at the Center for Policy Study at the University of Chicago, will be published in a forthcoming issue of the American Journal of Sociology.

Mr. Donaldson filmed a ten-minute commentary on "Brenda and Rhonda" last fall, a motion picture on black-white relations in suburban schools produced by the Virginia State Department of Education for use by high school teachers.

His article on "Philip Roth: The Meanings of Letting Go" will be reprinted in a microform anthology of criticism on ten contemporary American writers, edited by John Leonard, and his "Should the Suburbs Plead Guilty?" will be reprinted in Introduction to Family Housing, edited by Carol S. Wedin.

Assistant Professor Trudier Harris attended the 35th annual convention of the College Language Association in New Orleans, April 10-12.

Her review of Maya Angelou's Gather Together In My Name appeared in Sunday's New Dominion Magazine of the Daily Press.

GEOLOGY

Associate Professor Stephen C. Clement recently hosted a field trip of the Peninsula Gem and Mineral Society to the geology department, showing the College's mineral collections and associated equipment.

GOVERNMENT

Professor Chonghan Kim organized and chaired a panel on "Styles of Leadership in Liberated Korea" at the annual meeting of the Association for Asian Studies, held in San Francisco March 24-26.

Roger W. Smith's essay "The Economy of Guilt" will appear in the May issue of Political Theory.

HISTORY

An article entitled "The Fortieth Annual Meeting" by Richard Maxwell Brown, professor, appeared in the February issue of the Journal of Southern History. The article is a report on the 53 sessions of the 40th annual meeting of the Southern Historical Association, which took place in Dallas last November and for which Brown served as program chairman.

MARSHALL-WYTHE INSTITUTE

Clyde A. Haulman, director of the Institute, presented a paper on "Determinants of the Canadian Money Supply" at the annual meeting of the Allied Social Science Association in San Francisco, December 1974. Mr. Haulman's paper, "Virginia's Coastal Zone Management Program," appeared in the March issue of Land: Issues and Problems.

The monograph "Assessing Staff Training Needs in Virginia's Child Day Care Centers" by sociologists Jeanne Diana and Irving Franke, both of Richmond, will be forthcoming as part of an ongoing project funded by HEW and administered by the Marshall-Wythe Institute. As part of the same project John Lavach, Robert Bloom and Ronald Wheeler of the School of Education have developed and are presently delivering a three-part program for upgrading the skills of teachers and directors of day care centers on the Peninsula and in the Richmond area.

Scott Whitney, Gary Garafallo and Clyde Haulman attended a workshop, on March 21 at Afton, Va., concerning issues of land use planning in Virginia. Mr. Whitney served as a discussion leader in one of four workshops.

MARSHALL-WYTHE SCHOOL OF LAW

Emeric Fischer, professor, was one of 90 persons throughout the United States invited to a conference on the 1974 Employment Retirement Security Act (ERISA) held at Airlie, Va., March 20-22. The conference, sponsored by the American Law Institute and American Bar Association, was limited to specialists in law, accounting, actuaries, and representatives of the Treasury Department, the Labor Department, and the Congressional committees dealing with taxation. The new law has been treated by these specialists as so complex that the conference was necessary to attempt to formulate guidelines for administrators charged with devising rules and regulations implementing the law.

William F. Swindler, John Marshall Professor of Law, is being formally initiated this week into the University of Oklahoma chapter of the Order of the Coif. Swindler was elected to membership in the chapter during his residence last semester as Visiting Distinguished Professor of Law, and returned to the campus in Norman for the ceremonies. The Order of the Coif, the highest honor society in American legal education, is a continuation of an English legal order dating from medieval times to the latter half of the nineteenth century.

Mr. Swindler was recently named chairman of the advisory board, and a member of the board of directors, of the newly incorporated Supreme Court Historical Society. For the past two and a half years he was chairman of Chief Justice Warren E. Burger's special committee on Supreme Court history, which prepared the way for the permanent society. The new agency complements the White House Historical Association and the National Capitol Historical Society.

MODERN LANGUAGES

The article "Cervantes' Ramon de Hoces el Sevillano" by James D. Lavin, associate professor, was recently accepted for publication in Romance Notes, Univ. of N. Carolina.

Howard Fraser, assistant professor, participated in the April 3-5 Conference in Comparative Literature entitled "Literature and the Occult." He presented a paper on the use of "Witchcraft in Three Stories of Jose Donoso" at the conference, which was held at the University of Texas at Arlington.

Fraser also serves as book review editor for the Latin American Literary Review, published at Carnegie-Mellon University.

Ron Hallett, assistant professor, was elected chairman of the Comparative Literature section of the Modern Foreign Language Association of Virginia (MFLVA) at a conference held at Old Dominion University, April 4-5. Also attending the conference were Associate Professors Anne Tyler Nettek, Luke Martel, and Assistant Professors Gary Smith, Ron St. Onge, Denyse Marchesseau, and Joanne Basso.

PHILOSOPHY

Associate Professor William S. Cobb, Jr., has been named an associate editor of the International Journal of the Philosophy of Religion.

Several members of the department participated in the annual meetings of the Southern Society for Philosophy and Psychology held in New Orleans, March 27-29. They were: Professors David Jones and Frank MacDonald, and Associate Professors Cobb, Lewis Foster, Alan Fuchs, Henry McLane and Elizabeth Reed.

Mr. Cobb presented a paper at that meeting entitled "Plato's Treatment of Immortality in the Phaedo," while Mr. Fuchs read a paper entitled "The Role of the Formal Constraints of the Concept of Right in Rawls's Theory."

Associate Professor Alan E. Fuchs has received a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities to attend a Summer Seminar for College Teachers at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Mich. The grant also provides support for his research project, "The Limits of Liberty: A Philosophical-Legal Study."

PHYSICS

Several members of the physics department attended the American Physical Society meeting in Denver, Colorado, March 31-April 3. The following papers were presented at this meeting:

"Equivalence of Resonance and Tight-Binding Descriptions of d-Band in Transition Metals," J. A. Moriarty Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 20, 298 (1975).

"Depolarization Lifetime for μ^+ Mesons in Ni," K. G. Petzinger, Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 20, 319 (1975).

"Knight Shift in Cd Ag Alloys, H. E. Schone and C. Wrazien, Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 20, 412 (1975).

"Relation Between the Nuclear Exchange Interaction and the Dielectric Constant," C. P. Huang, J. A. Moriarty, A. Sher, and R. A. Breckenridge, Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 20, 449 (1975).

"Free Induction Decay Shape for Defect Induced Quadrupole Interaction," J. F. Soest, M. K. Cueman, R. K. Hester, A. Sher, and I. J. Lowe, Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 20, 473 (1975).

PSYCHOLOGY

The following papers were presented at the meeting of the Southeastern Psychological Association, held in Atlanta, March 27-29: Jay L. Chambers, professor, and Mary Beth Surma, psychometrist, "Picture identification test need associations and psychopathology"; Marcia A. Gilbert, a 1974 honors graduate, now employed at Human Sciences Research, Inc., McLean, Va., and Kelly G. Shaver, associate professor, "Seriousness

Campus Police Officer Peter DeMallie has been promoted to Campus Police Sergeant. Judith Eward, a Computer Programmer A, is now an ADP Production Control Supervisor, and Annemarie Collins has been promoted from Computer Programmer B to Computer Systems Analyst B.

Martha Rose has been reallocated from Clerk Typist B to Data Entry Operator A in the Registrar's Office. Diane Grimes, Ann Heath, Sandra Jones and Beverly Smith have been reallocated from Accounting Machine Operator A's to Data Entry Operator A's in the Computer Center.

Ph.D. Candidates' Oral Exams Set

Final oral examinations for two doctoral degree candidates in physics will be conducted today and tomorrow. Hsing-Chow Hwang will defend his dissertation, entitled "Density of States and Conductivity of Metal Alloys," at 3 p.m. today. On Wednesday

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

The third edition of Professor Armand Galfo's textbook Interpreting Educational Research has been published by Brown Book Company. The book is used for graduate courses at more than 50 colleges and universities in the United States and Canada. The first edition was published in 1965.

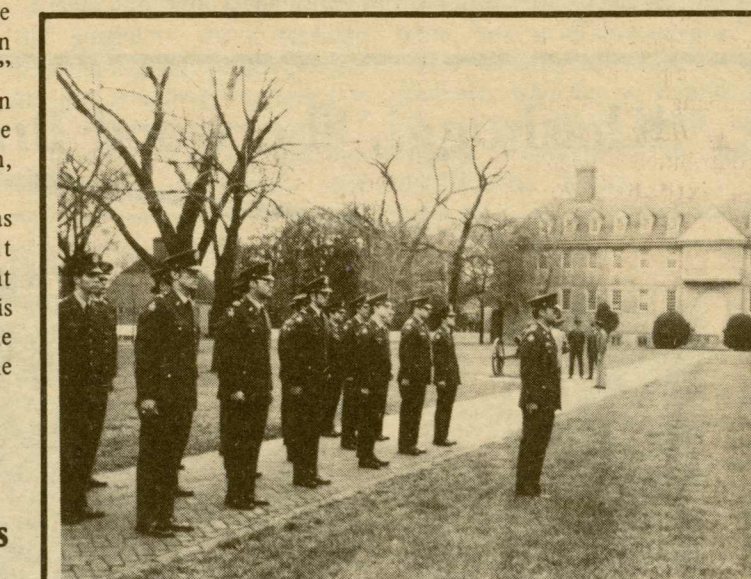

Kevin E. Geoffroy, associate professor, was awarded the Outstanding Chapter Member citation from the Peninsula Personnel and Guidance Association at the recent Virginia Personnel and Guidance Convention.

Geoffroy also served as a panel member on "How to Write for Publication" at the American Personnel and Guidance Association Convention held in New York City.

Douglas Prillaman, coordinator of the School of Education's program in diagnostic-prescriptive teaching, chaired a panel discussion of "Mainstream Education: The Role and Function of the Diagnostic-Prescriptive Teacher." The panel was presented at the annual convention of the Virginia Association of Children with Learning Disabilities held on campus April 12. Panel members included Sandra Carroll, assistant professor, and Rick Bennett, graduate student.

The newly formed Teacher Education Division of the Virginia Council for Exceptional Children has chosen Robert Bloom, assistant professor, president-elect for 1975-76. He will assume the presidency the following year. TED represents the congruent interests of special education teacher educators throughout the Commonwealth. Nationally, this group plays an active role in legislative and certification issues and is expected to perform a similar role in Virginia.

Associate Professor William Bullock, Jr., was recently elected a Fellow of the Royal Society of Health, London. His invitation to membership grew out of an

ROTC CADETS ARE FILM SUBJECT

Cadets in the Reserve Officers Training Corps at the College stand at attention in front of the Wren Building during a filming session last week. N.W. Ayers, a New York based advertising firm that does promotional work for the Army and ROTC, is producing a ROTC promotional film with a Bicentennial theme, and it will feature the William and Mary cadets. According to Colonel Spencer T. Hockaday, professor of military science, the film will narrate how the formation of the College's militia company on August 22, 1777, set the precedent for training the citizen soldier on college campuses—a tradition that ROTC continues today. The advertising firm will also include scenes of W&M cadets in the classroom. It will be distributed to several hundred television stations across the nation.

Awards Available To Faculty For Research and Lecturing

The Council for International Exchange of Scholars announces that applications are now being accepted for senior Fulbright-Hays awards for university lecturing and advanced research in over 75 countries during 1976-77. The booklet on the program for this period is available on request from the Council (2101 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20418), and it may be consulted at the office of the Faculty Fulbright Adviser, Gary A. Smith, Washington 106B, Ext. 424.

Application requirements include: U.S. citizenship; for lectureships, college or university teaching experience; for research awards, a doctorate or, in some fields, recognized professional standing as demonstrated by faculty rank, publications, compositions, exhibition record, etc. Some awards are open to application by advanced doctoral candidates.

July 1 is the deadline for applying for most of the announced research awards, and it is the suggested date for filing for lectureships.

Senior Fulbright-Hays awards generally consist of a maintenance allowance in local currency to cover normal living costs of the recipient and family while in residence abroad, and roundtrip travel for the recipient (transportation is not provided for dependents). For lecturers going to most non-European countries, the award includes a dollar supplement, subject to the availability of funds, or carries a stipend in dollars and foreign currency, the amount depending on the assignment, the lecturer's qualifications, salary, and other factors.

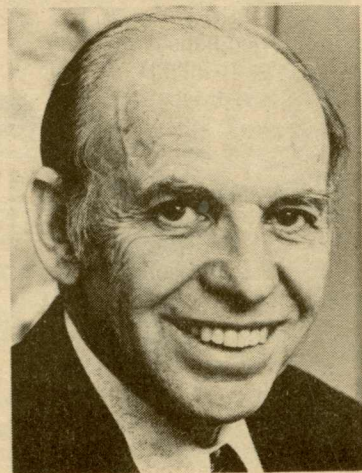

Visiting Scholar Lectures Thursday On Famous Mathematical Problems

"Famous Problems in Mathematics" is the topic R. H. Bing will discuss in a Visiting Scholars lecture here Thursday, April 24, at 8 p.m. in Small 109.

Professor of mathematics at the University of Texas at Austin, Mr. Bing is a specialist in geometric topology and has served on the faculties of the University of Wisconsin and the University of Virginia. He was chairman of the Division of Mathematical Sciences of the National Research Council and is presently serving a six-year term on the National Science Board, the policy-setting committee for the National Science Foundation.

He is a member of the National Academy of Sciences, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the Mathematical Association of America, and the American Mathematical Society. A native of Texas, Mr. Bing received his undergraduate degree from Southwest Texas State Teachers College (now Southwest Texas State University) and his graduate degrees from the University of Texas at Austin.

SPECIAL COMMUNITY SERVICE AND CONTINUING EDUCATION PROJECT GRANTS--TITLE I, HEA

The awards will support special continuing education projects designed to seek solutions to the national and regional problems relating to social and technological changes and environmental pollution.

The 1975 priorities are:

A. Experimentation with and refinement of the process of education special-interest groups with regard to such community problems as consumer affairs, regional or national energy policy, and environmental pollution (including effectiveness testing of multi-media instructional programs on selected target groups).

B. Development of institutional models of community service and continuing education which would increase access to higher education resources, particularly for women, prison inmates, and elderly or handicapped citizens, to enable them to participate more fully in the life of their communities.

C. Demonstrations of effective programs of continuing education for employers, employees and organized labor in relation to the problem of technological unemployment.

D. Development of experimental models of city hall-university co-operation combining current urban research with the education and training of local government officials.

E. Evaluation of institutional programs of continuing education that employ creative techniques and methods in educating adults for community problem solving.

Applications available.

Deadline: May 7, 1975.

NATIONAL INSTITUTES OF HEALTH

1. The Individual Postdoctoral Research Fellowship program, authorized under the National Research Service Act, is once again open to application with a May 1 date for the receipt of applications. Awards will be announced in November 1975.

2. The Research Career Development program is also open to application. May 1 is the receipt date for applications with awards to be announced by December 1975. The Animal Resources Branch, Division of Research Resources, is participating for the first time in the Research Career Development program. Awards will be for individuals with a demonstrated potential to do animal resource-related research who require additional training and experience in a productive scientific environment in preparation for careers in independent research. Specific questions regarding an application in animal resources should be addressed to Dr. Charles McPherson, Animal Resources Branch, Division of Research Resources, National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, Maryland 20014.

Courses Offered

The College's Office of Special Programs is now accepting registrations for its one day field study on Erosion Problems in the Urban Environment, scheduled for April 26 from 12 noon to 5 p.m.

Registrations are also being accepted for a class on Colonial Gardens, which will meet on Saturdays for 3 weeks beginning April 26.

To register for either course, call the Office of Special Programs at 877-9231, Ext. 200.

AEDS Convention

The Association for Educational Data Systems (AEDS) is holding its 13th annual international convention April 29-May 2 in Virginia Beach.

Members of the College community interested in computer technology and its uses in education are invited to attend any or all of the sessions. For information about registration and conference fees, contact Roger Higgs at the Computer Center.

Meeting Here

The chemistry department will sponsor a joint meeting of the Virginia and Hampton Roads sections of the American Chemical Society on Saturday, April 26, in the Campus Center Little Theatre.

The public is invited to attend the 8 p.m. meeting which will feature guest speaker Gerald H. Holman, Dean of the Eastern Virginia Medical School in Norfolk. He will discuss the Eastern Virginia Medical School, one of the state's newest medical facilities.

Khashoggi, Sherwood Bring Business Know-How to Classroom

Last Thursday was a day of coming and going for big businessmen visiting the School of Business Administration, bringing the realities of the competitive business world into the classroom. Adnan Khashoggi, chairman of the board of Triad Holding Company, arrived just in time to take the lectern in Associate Professor William Warren's business policy class. The Arab's whirlwind tour included a "Meet the Press" style panel discussion with students, several interviews with television and newspaper reporters, and a visit to the President's House, where he presented President Graves with an exquisitely-crafted ceremonial dagger traditionally given to heads of state. Just as Khashoggi's private jet landed, David J. Sherwood, president of Prudential Property and Casualty Insurance Company, stepped into a helicopter in the parking lot at William and Mary Hall to whisk away to another campus lecture. Sherwood had been the guest speaker in Professor Colin Park's seminar on business policy formulation and action on Wednesday.

Affirmative Action Head 'Frustrated,' But Notes Some Progress On Campus

Cam Walker, outspoken leader of the Ad Hoc Committee on Affirmative Action, is used to hearing the question "What's the latest cause?" and usually she is quick to reply.

Currently she is concerned that the committee is not making as much headway as she would like in the areas of athletics and classified personnel.

Despite the recent upgrading of the women's athletic program, Walker maintains that there are still "enormous problems."

"Women are getting a bit more," she concedes, but adds "it still doesn't look like equality to me. . . There should at least be equal athletic opportunity for members of both sexes. If the men's football team is all on scholarship, for instance, then a comparable women's team should all be on scholarship."

Walker admits that the problem of equality in sports is compounded both by the lack of any firm federal ruling and the amateur approach to sports that has traditionally pervaded women's athletics.

Staff Problems

In the area of classified employees she sees the need for a grievance committee to which employees can address problems and questions concerning such subjects as College policy on promotion and hiring, the possibility of taking College courses for credit and the transfer of employees from hourly to permanent status. If plans for the new staff organization materialize, Walker hopes this group will prove a useful forum for many of the questions employees now bring to the Affirmative Action committee.

Turning to accomplishments Ms. Walker feels the big breakthrough, as far as Affirmative Action progress on campus is concerned, came in January with the salary adjustments for some women faculty.

Gains for Students

Great gains, she says, have come in the area of students. "The College has tried to eliminate inequalities or just differences in the whole way it looks at students." She cites the reorganization of the student affairs division of the administration to eliminate separate deans for women and men and the employment of a director for minority affairs, Leroy Moore, as examples.

The new Affirmative Action coordinator on campus, Wesley Wilson, who was hired last fall, is also a valuable asset to the cause, says Walker. "He puts the committee in a better position—he keeps us alert to new rulings and procedures." Although Wilson wears two hats and only works in the area of Affirmative Action one half of his working day, his presence on campus, Walker says, "symbolizes the College's concern with Affirmative Action."

This past year, Ms. Walker says, has been a frustrating one for her, but she sees some bright spots. "A number of recommendations made by the original committee have been accomplished," she concedes. With the College caught like most institutions in the economic squeeze, the Affirmative Action committee has found that "we haven't been able to accomplish anything that costs money." Ms. Walker points to the proposed day care center for children of College personnel and students as an example of a project that has languished for lack of funds.

One positive result of the campus' Affirmative Action program has been an increase of awareness of the issues on the part of students. "It adds up to a better atmosphere on campus," says Ms. Walker.

Because of the current economic situation, Walker is pessimistic about the outlook nationwide for Affirmative Action.

"People will go through the motions, but don't expect startling results. Affirmative Action policies work well in times of prosperity but not in times of economic stress. Thus far we have made highly visible but not fundamental changes. Perhaps people are more conscious of the needs.

"At the very least people are certainly willing to hire an outstanding black or female. But this means the gains are for the really superior blacks and women. It encourages more blacks and women to excel, but it doesn't answer the problems of the average person."

Teaching Jobs Available, Says Sykes, But Students Must Be Persistent

"There are jobs available if the student is willing to go where the job is located."

This is an appraisal of the current job market in education by John W. Sykes, director of educational placement on campus.

"Unfortunately most of the information on jobs that has appeared in the press and been given through other media is based on national figures and does not reflect the actual job opportunities in specific areas of the country," said Sykes.

"The South and Southeast sections of the country provide more opportunities for prospective teachers than other areas. The West Coast and the Northeast sections are probably the most difficult areas in which to obtain teaching positions," he advised.

To students who have been questioning the marketability of educational training or the advisability of selecting an educational major, Sykes says, "There are jobs in the field of education for anyone who is sincerely interested. For the first time in many years there is competition for teaching positions. If a graduate is sincerely interested and is willing to meet the competition then the possibility for a teaching position is good. School systems are not as actively recruiting as they were, but they are hiring."

In addition to the openings created by the usual staff turnovers and retirements, Sykes sees added opportunities for teachers in the immediate area. Hampton and Gloucester will open new high schools in September, and York County will have a new school in September, 1976; Virginia Beach is building three new junior high schools and expanding its facilities for elementary students. "These schools will all need teachers," said Sykes.

Last year the usual canvass of graduates showed a ten percent unemployment rate which Sykes terms "not at all discouraging."

"A majority of those were graduates who due to a variety of reasons were limited in seeking employment in one specific area," he said.
