

Ash Lawn Study Completed, Plans Outlined

Warren Heeman, vice president for college development, summarizes the findings of the historical and structural studies of Ash Lawn, which were recently completed, and outlines the College's plans for the estate. Ash Lawn, once the home of President James Monroe, was left to the College by the late Jay Winston Johns of Charlottesville.

William and Mary will undertake a three-part inter-related program of presentation at Ash Lawn, drawing heavily on the resources of the College in the field of colonial archaeology and colonial history to fulfill its unique educational opportunity and obligation as the "landlord" of an historic landmark.

The interpretive program will present in graphic terms the archaeological and historical methods used to determine the nature of an original building and its decoration so that Ash Lawn will be a model for the study of the restoration, preservation and reconstruction of a site of historical significance that has been substantially altered over the years. Monroe's life at Ash Lawn and his contributions to the development of the United States will also continue to be emphasized.

Historical study findings

Results of an historical study of Ash Lawn, undertaken by Harry Ammon, professor of history at Southern Illinois University and principal biographer of James Monroe, authenticates the site, according to Thad Tate, director of the Institute of Early American History and Culture.

Mr. Ammon includes in his report a review of Monroe's years at the Albemarle estate which he referred to as "Highland" or "Highlands." The Monroes moved into the new house at Highland just before Christmas 1799.

"Monroe had no alternative at this time but to build simply for he had returned from France heavily in debt... By the time he retired from the presidency in 1825 his debts amounted to nearly $75,000..." according to the Ammon report.

"After his election to the presidency Monroe spent more and more time at Oak Hill, just a few hours drive from the capital. He still continued to regard Highland as his principal residence and planned to retire there."

Structural study

The Ammon report is collaborated by the structural research by Milton L. Grigg of the firm of Grigg, Wood and Browne, preservation architects of Charlottesville.

Grigg includes in his report not only results of extensive physical inspections of the house and analyses of paint, nails and timber, but also references to the house in Monroe's correspondence and other documents.

Grigg concludes, "There are no recognized physical contradictions to Col. Monroe's statement "... my home for twenty-six years..."

Restoration plans

Approximately $225,000 has been estimated as the cost for the program of restoration, refurbishing and presentation at Ash Lawn. The funds will come from ticket and gift shop sales and some assets of the Johns Estate.

Included in the budget is the first phase of archaeological work which will be taken around the perimeter of the house to uncover foundations of other portions of the original house which may have been destroyed.

Restorative work will be undertaken to bring the gardens at Ash Lawn in line with representative plantings of the Monroe period. Initial studies by Colonial Williamsburg landscape architect Donald H. Parker indicate that most of the plantings now at Ash Lawn date back only to the late 19th century.

The house's first air conditioning, humidity control, and central heating system appropriate to a house museum of Ash Lawn's importance will be installed by the College.

It is anticipated that the large rooms in the front portion of the house, added by the Rev. John Massey during his ownership from 1864-1878, will be used as orientation areas for displays and slide programs, introductory to tours of the Monroe portion of the house.

Guides are escorting visitors at present and the small gift shop on the grounds is open. Visitations since Ash Lawn reopened April 1 have totaled over 4,500. Income from both visitations and the gift shop will be used to help implement the proposed operational plan.

Plans are currently being discussed with Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University and others on the best possible agricultural utilization of the large acreage surrounding the house.

W&M Choir And Chorus Spring Concert Is May 1-3

Ralph Vaughan Williams' "Mass in G minor" will be the featured work in the annual Choir and Chorus Spring Concert at 8:15 p.m. May 1-3 in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

The concert will also mark the debut of a new singing group within the choir --The Botetourt Chamber Singers.

Tickets are $1.50 and are available at the Campus Center desk, at the switchboard in James Blair, weekdays until noon in the music department in Ewell Hall, and at the Rexall Drug Store. Tickets will also be sold at the Phi Beta Kappa box office on the evenings of the performances.

Frank T. Lendrim, chairman of the department of music, will direct the singers in a program of both sacred and secular music.

The Chorus will open the program with Felix Mendelssohn's "Lift Thine Eyes" and "Veni Domine," Howard Hanson's "How Excellent Thy Name," and Randall Thompson's "The Gate of Heaven."

The Choir will follow, singing Alessandro Scarlatti's "Exultate Deo" and Orlando Gibbons' "Hosanna to the Son of David."

The main work will be the Williams' Mass, which Mr. Lendrim considers one of the chief masterworks of 20th century choral literature. Virginia Carr, soprano, Delmar, N. Y.; Jane Koenig, alto, Warrenton; James Wilcox, tenor, Springfield; and Samuel Lanham, bass, Culpeper, will be the featured soloists.

The second part of the program includes a wide variety of primarily secular music. Spirituals and American folk songs will be sung, in addition to contemporary works, such as Daniel Pinkham's arrangement of three Lenten poems of Richard Crashaw and Vincent Persichetti's "Spring Cantata," based on poems by e.e. cummings.

The Men of the Choir will also sing several works, with solos sung by James Gilstrap, Springfield, and Roy Terry, Richmond.

Students to 'Meet the Presidents'

How closely do the corporate strategies of students at the School of Business Administration match those of 20 of the nation's top business executives?

That's the question that will be answered May 1 at "Meet the Presidents Day" when the School's Master of Business Administration program sponsors a day-long exchange of ideas between today's most experienced businessmen and the potential business leaders of tomorrow.

"Meet the Presidents Day" serves as the final phase of the Business School's "executives-by-telephone" program. All 20 of the business leaders have, during the last two years, been interviewed by telephone in Associate Professor William Warren's business policy class.

The executives will spend the morning meeting the students they previously talked to long-distance, and attending a variety of classes.

Then both the students and executives will get down to business as they try to solve the complex production problems of an international business firm.

The presentation of the case, which concerns the future directions of the Universal Manufacturing and Control, Europe, Inc., will begin at 1:45 p.m. in the Williamsburg Lodge with opening remarks by Thomas R. Jones, chairman of the board of the School of Business Administration Sponsors. The public is invited to attend. After students have presented the case, a 12-man panel of business executives serving as Universal's hypothetical board of directors will adjourn to decide in which direction the firm will go. Meanwhile, the students will determine which course they feel the firm should follow, and audience members will state their opinions on a questionnaire.

Finally, the board will return with its opinion and answer questions from the audience. Following the program, Colonial Williamsburg will host a private reception for visiting businessmen.

Anderson Fund Is Established

A prominent New York member of the Class of 1925 has left William and Mary one of the largest bequests in its history.

Richard J. Anderson, who died in 1971, left a $250,000 bequest to the College for the establishment of a scholarship fund to assist needy students.

Mr. Anderson attended the College for two years and completed his degree at New York University two years later. He always referred to William and Mary as his alma mater, however.

The bequest will be used by the Endowment Association to establish the Richard J. Anderson Scholarship Fund to provide financial assistance to needy students at the undergraduate and graduate levels. First awards from the fund will begin next fall.

In his will, Mr. Anderson bequeathed in trust his entire estate to his wife, Louise B. Anderson, for her life; upon her death, half was to be given to the Endowment Association. Mrs. Anderson died in January, 1974.

Campus Wrap-Up

Faculty Club Holds Party

The Faculty Club will hold its fifth cocktail party of the year on Friday, May 2. The event will take place from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. at the Alumni House, and members of the Alumni Board of Directors will be guests. All members of the faculty and administration are invited to attend and may pay at the door or obtain tickets from Richard Prosl at the usual rates: Members - $2 per person ($1 non-drinkers); non-members - $3.50 per person ($2 non-drinkers).

China-U.S. Relations Are Talk Subject

Professor Chun-tu Hsueh will deliver a lecture on current China-U.S. relations at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, May 1, in the Botetourt Theater. A native of China, Mr. Hsueh received his Ph.D. from Columbia University. He is presently professor of political science at the University of Maryland and chairman of the Washington and Southeast Regional Seminar on China. His publications include two books on the Chinese revolution as well as numerous articles in leading national and international professional journals.

The lecture, which is sponsored by Asia House, is open to the public.

World Affairs Seminar Set

The final seminar in the Current World Affairs Series will be conducted by Assistant Professor of Government Jan B. deWeydenthal and will consider "The Soviet Union and Eastern Europe: Perspective and Problems."

The seminar begins at 7 p.m. May 3 in the International Circle Cottage on South Boundary Street.

Sponsored by the International Circle, Student Association and Anthropology Club in honor of President and Mrs. Graves, the seminars are open free of charge to the public.

Class Presents Poetry Readings

The advanced oral interpretation class in the theatre and speech department will present poetry readings for the Williamsburg Unitarian Fellowship at the Methodist Wesleyan Foundation on Jamestown Road at 11 a.m. Sunday, May 4. The public is invited.

Chemistry Lectures Scheduled

David S. Breslow, senior research associate at the Hercules, Inc., laboratory in Wilmington, Del., will be guest speaker in the Seminar in Applied Chemistry at the College May 5 and 6.

Breslow, a specialist in the mechanisms of organic reactions, in synthetic organic chemistry and polymer chemistry, will give two lectures in room 113 of the William Small Physical Laboratory. On Monday, May 5, he will discuss the "Chemistry of Organic Azides and Commercial Applications." The following evening, May 6, he will speak on "Industrial Careers in Chemistry." Both lectures begin at 8 p.m. and are open to the public.

Equality Group To Hold Sale

The College's Women's Equality Group will hold a garage sale from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, May 10, at 482 Penniman Road in Williamsburg.

Members of the College community interested in donating items should call 220-0790 or 220-1280 after 5 p.m., or should bring items to 482 Penniman Road on May 6 or 8, between 6 and 9 p.m. Pick-up will be available for large items.

All proceeds from the sale will be used to establish the Women's Center of Williamsburg.

Former Ambassador Will Discuss Sino-Soviet Activities in Africa

Fred L. Hadsel, executive director of the Marshall Foundation in Lexington, Va., will discuss "Sino-Soviet Activities in Africa" at 8 p.m. Monday, May 5, in the Botetourt Theatre of Swem Library.

The public is invited.

Prior to assuming the directorship of the Marshall Foundation last September, Mr. Hadsel served as U. S. Ambassador to Ghana for three years and as U. S. Ambassador to Somalia.

A career foreign service officer, Hadsel has held assignments as Chief of Mission of the American Embassy in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia; First Secretary of the American Embassy in London; Deputy Director, Office of African Affairs; and Director, Office of Inter-African Affairs, in addition to the ambassadorships.

Concurrent with his Washington assignments, Mr. Hadsel taught at George Washington University,

W&M Backdrop Club Schedules The Hostage, An Irish Comedy

"The Hostage," a boisterous farce by Irish playwright Brendan Behan, will be presented by the Backdrop Club at 8:15 p.m. May 8-10 in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

Tickets will be available at the PBK box office from 3 to 5:30 p.m. Monday, May 5, through Friday, May 9, and 7-8:30 p.m. the evenings of the performances. Tickets are $2.

The play is set in a local brothel where an English soldier is taken as hostage by the IRA in an attempt to prevent the execution of a young Irishman convicted of murder.

Mark Basile, a sophomore from Baltimore, Md., portrays Leslie, the British soldier whose capture gives the play its title. Other leading roles are played by Ann Ruble '77, Roanoke; Frank Hankey '76, McLean; Linda Vorhis '77, Annandale; Christopher Leeper '75, Sterling; Kym Powell '75, Alexandria; Keith Pickerel '75, Williamsburg; and Sarah Williams '75, Newport News.

Other cast members include: Jimmy Schultz '78, Colonial Heights; Judy Marie Webb '76, Mechanicsville; Barbara Bruno '78, Norfolk; Richard Bannin '77, South Hill, Va.; Jeffrey West '75, Williamsburg; Joe Stover '77, Alexandria; graduate student Bruce Eells, Williamsburg; transfer student Robert Powers, Boston, Mass.; masters candidate Ree Stone, Williamsburg; and Pamela Bailey Kator, director of the Lollipop Players, a children's theatre group in Williamsburg.

Martha Kidd '75, Lynchburg, is directing the production, while Nancy McMahon '75, Glen Allen, is musical director, and Pat Kearney '78, Williamsburg, is choreographer.

The set was designed by Kathleen Nuernberg '75, Front Royal, the lighting by Susan Dandridge '75, Martinsville, and the costumes by Tricia Wesp '76, Olney, Md. David H. Dudley '75, Richmond, is both business manager and technical director, while Kay Rouse '76, Midway, Ky., is public relations director.

Special Appearances Slated For Final Biology Seminar

Charles Darwin will discuss his theory of natural selection and the origin of species and Gregor Mendel will explain his discoveries concerning the basic principles of heredity at the final biology seminar at 4 p.m. May 5 in Millington Auditorium.

The public is invited to attend.

In two half-hour long films Richard M. Eakin, professor of zoology at the University of California, Berkeley, impersonates the two great scientists and presents not only their discoveries and theories, but their methods of study and personal philosophies as well—all in the words, dress and manner of their time.

Mr. Eakin first began the impersonations of great biologists in the late Sixties as an attempt to recapture the interest and enthusiasm of his students at Berkeley. Numerous invitations to deliver the lectures at schools across the nation prompted the filming of the impersonations.

Currently president of the American Society of Zoologists, he is a recognized authority on the fine structure of eyes.

U.N. Forum At CNC

The United Nations Association of the Peninsula will hold its final World Affairs Forum on Monday, May 5, at the Christopher Newport College Campus Center.

There is no admission charge, and the forum is open to the public.

Sir Robert Jackson, who has served as a ranking official in various capacities at the United Nations since its inception in 1945, will address the topic "The World Economic Situation in Review" at 8 p.m. in the Campus Center Theatre.

Sir Jackson is currently deputy to Kurt Waldheim, Secretary General of the United Nations. His address will be followed by a general discussion, in which the audience is invited to participate.

Students Attend Model U.N.

William and Mary was one of over 120 schools that participated in the annual National Model United Nations (NMUN) held April 22-27 at the Statler Hilton in New York City.

Members of the William and Mary delegation, which represented the country of Malaysia, were D. Lisle Moore '75, Williamsburg, Laurie Johnston '76, Williamsburg, Robert Burton '76, Hopewell, Scott Shafer '76, Charlottesville and Madge McKeithen '77, Fayetteville, N. C.

The NMUN is a simulation of the United Nations in operation. Delegates meet in committees to consider resolutions dealing with issues presently under discussion by the United Nations, such as apartheid in South Africa, the status of women, multinational corporations, the law of the sea, disarmament and international terrorism.

In model U.N. sessions delegates represent their particular country's position by introducing resolutions, debating and voting.

Chongham Kim, professor of government, is the faculty advisor for the William and Mary delegation.

Columbia University, The Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies and Howard University.

His published articles have dealt with African problems, the United Nations and international politics.

He holds degrees from Miami University in Ohio, Clark University, Worcester, Mass., and the University of Chicago.

While at William and Mary, he is the guest of the government department.

Int'l Circle Spring Dinner

Philippine Ambassador to the United States Eduardo Z. Romualdez will deliver remarks at the International Circle's "Around the World Spring Dinner" on May 4.

The dinner, which features a variety of international foods, begins at 7 p.m. in the Campus Center Ballroom and all members of the College community are invited to attend.

Tickets are available at the Campus Center desk, Dean Albert's office in James Blair 210 and also from International Circle members. The cost is $4 per person.

Ambassador Romualdez is former Secretary of Finance of the Philippines and is one of the country's noted economists and business leaders.

Philippine folk dances will also be included on the evening's program.

Strout, Journalist, To Lecture

Journalist Richard Lee Strout will give the concluding lecture in the Project Plus Forum at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, May 7, in Millington Auditorium.

The public is invited to attend.

Strout has been a journalist since 1919 when he worked for the Sheffield Independent, a newspaper in Sheffield, England. He joined the staff of the Christian Science Monitor in 1921, moved to its Washington news bureau in 1925 and has been writing for the Monitor in that capacity ever since.

In 1936 he collaborated with E. B. White on Farewell to the Model T and in 1939 authored Maud, a work based on a family diary. For over 30 years he has been the writer of TRB, a weekly column in the New Republic.

He holds both an A. B. and an M.A. in economics from Harvard.

Astronomy Dome Nears Completion Atop Small Physical Laboratory

A new addition has appeared on William and Mary's skyline.

An astronomical dome is in the final stages of construction on the roof of the William Small Physical Laboratory, offering students the chance to view the universe without braving the hazards of wind, rain and distracting light.

The aluminum structure is 12.5 feet in diameter and 12 feet high and can be seen from Jamestown Road and Botetourt Drive. It will house a variety of telescopes, including a 10-inch Newtonian Reflector. Before the dome was constructed, students had to mount and dismount the telescope on the roof every night.

More importantly, the dome will shield the eyes of observers from the ever-increasing glow of lights surrounding the building and will eliminate telescope vibrations caused by wind. Only a narrow slot in the dome's roof is open during observation as an electric motor rotates the dome to the desired orientation for peering at particular stars or planets. A heavy cement pier in the middle of the structure supports the telescope.

The dome was paid for by a grant from the National Science Foundation matched by the College. Professor of Physics Carl E. Carlson was awarded an instructional equipment grant of $3,800 in June 1974 for the dome's construction, while the College provided funds for the oak floor and telescope pier.

Opens to public in fall

The principal users of the dome will be students in the astronomy course offered every semester by the physics department. Beginning in the fall, the dome will be open to the public. The telescope hut was specifically constructed with two doors to accommodate a continuous line of observers. Interest in astronomy, according to members of the physics department, is growing rapidly across the country, due primarily to exciting discoveries such as quasars, pulsars and "black holes."

The new dome, reports Carlson, is hopefully "one step toward a return to an active astronomical tradition at William and Mary." Carlson said that the department hopes to purchase a new, larger telescope to replace the present one, which "has suffered greatly during the years of continual movement from its closet to the roof and back again."

William and Mary was one of the first universities in the nation to introduce the concept of a college observatory. Early in its history, the College acquired a fine set of physical instruments, including the newest type of telescope, from England. William Small, the favorite teacher of Thomas Jefferson when he attended the College, was commissioned to buy the apparatus in 1765 and was given a substantial budget to make his purchases. Later Bishop James Madison, president of the College from 1777 to 1812, maintained a small observatory.

'75-76 Concert Series To Be 'The Best Ever,' Says Green

The Concert Series has announced the program for its 40th season, which will begin next fall with return visits by the highly-praised Guarneri String Quartet and the Richmond Symphony.

The 1975-76 season, which Concert Series director Warren Green describes as "the best ever," will feature a wide variety of international talent. The

Student Aid Office Has Summer Jobs Information

William and Mary students who will attend the 1975 Summer Sessions and who seek part-time employment may apply for part-time job opportunities on May 6 in Blair 302 from 8 to 11 a.m. For more information contact the Student Aid Office, Ext. 301.

season will include a program of operatic highlights, accomplished duo-pianists, Anthony and Joseph Paratore, violinist Eugene Fodor and the Royal Winnipeg Ballet.

Green reports that the subscription drive for the 1975-76 season will begin around June 1, with hopes of repeating last season's sell-out.

Recognized as possibly the premiere string quartet in music today, the Guarneri String Quartet will provide Concert Series subscribers with an impressive season's opener October 16.

The chamber music program will be followed on the schedule by the Richmond Symphony's third appearance in Phi Beta Kappa Hall in as many years. Under the direction of distinguished conductor Jacques Houtmann, the 85-member symphony is scheduled to appear November 4.

The third program on the Concert Series agenda will bring the voices of four of the country's top opera virtuosos to the College November 25. Soprano Louise Russell recently returned from a tour in Japan where she sang Gilda in "Rigoletto" and was the only American in an otherwise all European cast from La Scala of Milan. She'll be joined in Williamsburg by mezzo-soprano

Olivia Stapp of the Berlin Opera; tenor Vahan Khanzadian, one of the featured singers for the San Francisco Opera Company; and baritone Ryan Edwards, who recently made his debut performances at the Hollywood Bowl and London Opera Society and currently sings under the auspices of the New York Civic Opera.

Due to the community's enthusiastic response to their Sunday Series program last year, Anthony and Joseph Paratore will return January 20 for a two-piano concert similar to the one that won them first prize at the prestigious International Music Competition in Munich last fall.

Violinist Eugene Fodor, who is scheduled to appear February 12, has been described by critics as a "youthful superstar" with a "full-throated virtuosity" that offers a welcome relief from the weightiness typical of many violin recitals.

The 1975-76 subscription will close March 16 with a performance by North America's only royal ballet company, the Royal Winnipeg Ballet. Winner of the "Best Company" Gold Medal at the 1968 International Dance Festival in Paris, Canada's first professional ballet company has received the highest accolades from reviewers in cities all over the world.

Students Plan Festivities

Interhall, in conjunction with the Language Houses and Bryan Complex, has planned a "Spring Weekend" of activities and events, May 2-3.

Friday afternoon and evening several bands are scheduled to play at Bryan Complex, and all students are invited.

Saturday a "Mayday" festival for all members of the College community will be held at the Language Houses, Botetourt Units 5, 6 and 9. A Maypole dance will open the festivities and a bicycle race billed as "the first annual 'Tour de William and Mary'" will be held, with $100 in prizes donated by local bicycle shops for the winners.

Other activities and events planned for the day include a German Biergarten, exhibits of crafts and art works, picnicing at Lake Matoaka, and presentations of native entertainment by students in the Language Houses.

Saturday evening language house films will be shown outside the Botetourt residences, weather permitting. Jean Renoir's "La Bete Humaine" is scheduled, as well as several cartoon shorts and Charlie Chaplin movies.

In case of rain the festival will be postponed until the following day.

Botanists Form Rescue Squad

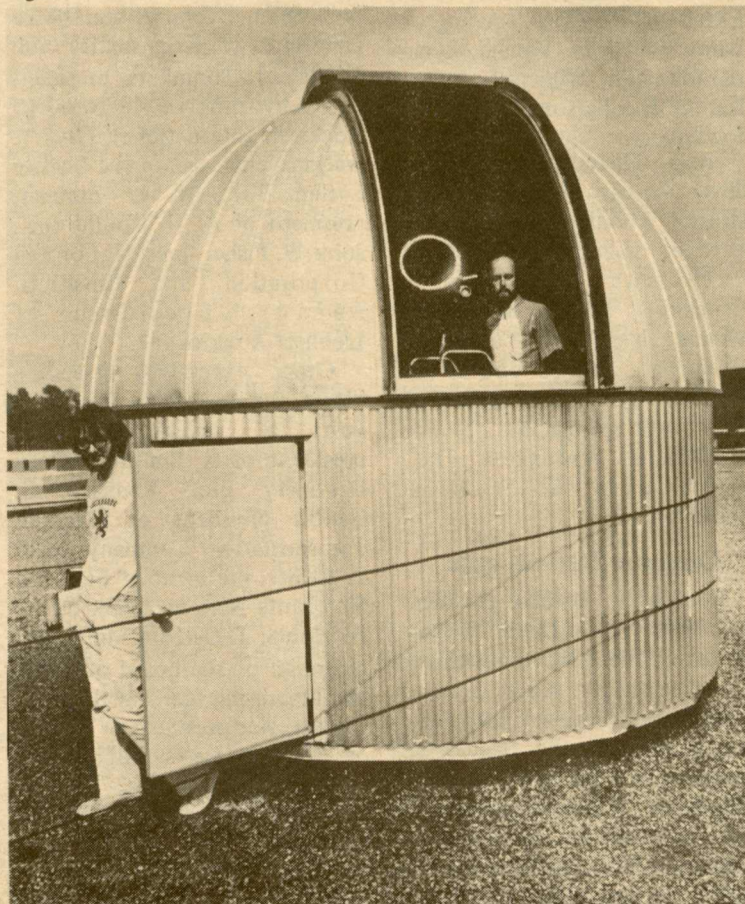

Donna Ware and Martin Mathes of the biology department have developed a Plant Rescue Service for the Williamsburg area.

Under the service, botany students and faculty have volunteered to identify plant species in areas which must be cleared for construction. Members of the Rescue Squad expect to investigate sites ranging from private home lots to public building locations and road right-of-ways.

After the Squad has assessed the abundance of species represented on the site, selected plants will be preserved for study as herbarium specimens and uncommon or endangered non-woody species will be marked for transplanting by the owner into an appropriate area. Plants may also be transplanted into an area of the College campus, which will be developed as a refuge for native Virginia plants.

Individuals who wish to report areas scheduled to be cleared may provide information to the biology department at 229-3000, Ext. 458. If the area contains endangered or otherwise interesting species, a member of the Plant Rescue Squad will contact the landowner to arrange for transplanting.

Annual Spring Honors Convocation Recognizes Student Achievements

Congratulations to award winners from President Graves capped the Spring Honors Convocation held last night in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

Principal speaker of the evening was Sharon Pandak, president of the student association.

James C. Livingston, dean of the undergraduate program, presided and introduced presenters of the evening's academic, leadership and service awards.

Awards for Scholarship

The Alpha Lambda Delta Book Award is given to the senior woman who has compiled the highest cumulative grade point average during her four years at the College. This year's recipient is Linda Jo Lonas, Manassas. The presentation was made by Rebecca A. Cochrane, president of Alpha Lambda Delta.

The Phi Eta Sigma Award, which was added to the program this year, is awarded to the sophomore man with the highest quality grade point average for his first three semesters at William and Mary. Huyen Dinh Tran, Richmond, received the 1975 award, which was presented by Paul R. Lagarenne, president of Phi Eta Sigma.

Business Society

Also new on this year's program was the presentation of members-elect of Beta Gamma Sigma honorary business society, who were introduced by James E. Smith, secretary of the society's William and Mary chapter.

Patricia T. Angstadt, Gibbsboro, N.J., and Jonathan D. Regan, Williamsburg, are junior initiates.

Graduate students in the School of Business Administration who will be initiated include Glenn E. Baruch, Bethesda, Md.; Carolyn Clouser, Wilmington, Del.; Lawrence A. Deas, Newport News; John E. Grebenstein, Williamsburg; H. Tyler Howerton, Lynchburg; Charles W. Kinnamon, Williamsburg; James B. McCabe, Marietta, Ga.; Steven A. McGinnis, Denver, Co.; Arvind D. Shah, Newport News; Richard T. Spencer, Newport News; Roger L. Syverud, Blooming Prairie, Minn.; and Thomas G. Zeni, Williamsburg.

John S. Quinn, professor of business administration, is also a member-elect.

Phi Beta Kappa

The presentation of members-elect of Phi Beta Kappa was made by Alfred R. Armstrong, recording secretary for Alpha of Virginia Chapter of PBK. Members-elect from the Class of 1975, their concentrations and hometowns are as follows:

Mark Bladergroen, philosophy, Fairfax; Michael L. Cohen, English, Vienna; Celeste Corcoran, biology, Richmond; Frank S. Delk, II, chemistry, McLean; Jeffrey J. Doyle, biology, Atlanta, Ga.; John E. Falcone, government, Falls Church; Robin T. Goodwin, biology, Henderson, N.C.; Andrew L. Hisgen, mathematics, Vienna; Barbara A. Homan, English, Wauwatosa, Wisc.; Nancy C. Johnston, chemistry, Pittsburgh, Penn.; and Kevin R. Jones, mathematics, Arlington.

Also, Richard J. Krizman, philosophy, Leawood, Kansas; Nora C. Lulich, inter-disciplinary, Falls Church; Donald J. Moss, philosophy, Williamsburg; Robert B. Mullin, history, Mountainside, N.J.; Robert J. Newman, biology, Burlington, N.C.; Roy C. Porter, mathematics, Vienna; David C. Russo, modern languages, Closter, N.J.; Adrienne M. Stefan, history, McLean; James K. Straub, government, King of Prussia, Penn.; Todd A. Weisman, biology, Falls Church; Betty L. Yeamans, psychology, Richmond; Judith M. Zeigler, government, Norfolk.

The Kays Gary-Charles McDowell, Jr., Award for excellence in journalism was presented to Heather Hollowell, Portsmouth, for outstanding work on the Flat Hat. The presentation was made by Alexander Kallos, chairman of the Colonial Booklet Fund.

Media Heads Named

W. Wilford Kale, Jr., chairman of the Publications Council, announced the names of next year's publications staff heads and the radio station manager. They are Paige Eversole, Hampton, editor-in-chief of the Flat Hat; Peggy Moler, Decatur, Ga., editor of the Colonial Echo; Patricia Joyce, New Carrollton, Md., editor of the William and Mary Review; and Dave Oxenford, Bricktown, N.J., station manager of WCWM.

Pi Delta Epsilon

New members of Pi Delta Epsilon, honorary journalism society, were presented by Cynthia L. Reasor, president. They include:

Robert Benson, New City, N.Y.; Katherine M. Brooks, Woodbridge; Kevin J. Christiano, West Orange, N.J.; Katherine K. Eason, Richmond; Paige Eversole, Hampton; Heather Hollowell, Portsmouth; Elizabeth A. Hutzler, Barrington, R.I.; Patricia M. Kelly, Centerport, N.Y.; and Patricia McMahon, Columbus, Ohio.

Also, Margaret O. Porter, Richmond; Susan M. Romaine, Bricktown, N.J.; Melinda Rose, Berlin, N.J.; James L. Rubenstone, Paoli, Penn.; Susan C. Shank, Travis AFB, Cal.; David S. Slavin, Somerville, N.J.; Paula J. Stassi, Springfield; Robert E. Thompson, Dowington, Penn.; Andrew M. Vanderhoof, Springfield; Anne F. Waring, Williamsburg; and John C. Willard, Richmond.

Athletic Awards

The Athletic Educational Foundation award is given annually to the outstanding intramural athlete and to the outstanding intercollegiate athlete among the senior men. Consideration is given to character, leadership, scholarship and sportsmanship, as well as to athletic prowess.

The intramural award went to Neil J. Jesuele, Englewood Cliffs, N.J. Both Reginal A. Clarke, Newport News, and Mark M. Belknap, Port Clinton, OH., received the intercollegiate award, for track and wrestling, respectively. George Heflin, president of the Athletic Educational Foundation, presented the awards.

The L. Tucker Jones Memorial Prizes are awarded annually to the outstanding senior students in the men's and women's intramural programs. Consideration is given to qualities of leadership, high ideals, and scholastic standing. These prizes are supported by the L. Tucker Jones Memorial Fund. This year's recipients are Nancy C. Parrish, Dunnsville, and Thomas Z. Wilke, Alexandria. Jack D. Edwards, dean of the faculty of arts and sciences, made the presentations.

Mann Scholarship

The Glenn D. Mann Scholarship recipient is James F. Redington, Hackensack, N.J. The Mann award, which recognizes outstanding involvement in civic affairs in the City of Williamsburg, was presented by W. Samuel Sadler, dean of students.

Mortar Board

Elizabeth B. Cumby, president of Mortar Board, announced the outstanding sophomore and senior awards and new members of Mortar Board, chosen from the rising senior class.

The outstanding sophomore is selected for having made the greatest contribution to the College thus far in her career. This year's recipient is Lisa A. Bolanovich, Pittsburg, Pa.

Outstanding seniors are not members of Mortar Board but are chosen on the basis of their outstanding contributions to the College and community. They include:

Martin Luther King Scholarship Recipients Spend Day On Campus

Twenty students have been awarded the College's Martin Luther King Scholarship for 1975-76.

The Scholarship Fund, which usually carries a stipend of $500, was established in 1968 shortly after the assassination of Martin Luther King to assist those outstanding minority students, preferably entering freshmen, who might otherwise lack the financial means to continue their education. Recipients are chosen on the basis of merit and need. Contributions to the Fund are made by faculty members of all schools, the staff, student organizations and alumni. Director of Minority Affairs Leroy O. Moore stated that "the award fund is one means by which the College community seeks to contribute towards the same change in the hearts and minds of men for which Dr. King worked and died."

Martin Luther King Day was observed at the College on Thursday, April 24, with a reception at the Alumni House, tours for the scholarship recipients and their parents, a film on Martin Luther King, and individual conferences with faculty and administrators.

This year's recipients include the following students from Virginia: Wellington Ashe, Newport News; Antoinette Brown, Virginia Beach; Ernest Davenport, Lively; Sharrell D. Duke and Adam N. Harrell, Chesapeake; Samuel Eure, Springfield; Michael Ford, Jarratt; Christopher J. Harris, Dyke; Carlton L. Johnson, Alexandria; Shiela A. Stamps, Danville; Gloria A. Whittico, Hampton; Julie Williams, Woodford; Shiela K. Wilson, Suffolk; and Michael Wise, Smithfield.

Out-of-state students are: Felicia Chambers, Washington, D. C.; Eric A. Longmire, Hillcrest Heights, Md.; Gracie Mullins, Pittsfield, Mass.; Edward Thompson, Chicago, Ill.; Franklin D. West, Philadelphia, Pa.; and Greg Wheeler, Waynesville, N. C.

Redington Named Mann Scholarship Recipient

James F. Redington of Hackensack, N.J., a sophomore, has been awarded the Glenn D. Mann Scholarship in recognition of his outstanding involvement in local civic affairs.

Redington, a physics major and a pole vaulter for the College's nationally-ranked varsity track team, will receive the $500 scholarship for his active dedication to the Williamsburg Volunteer Fire Department and the Red Cross blood bank. The award is supported annually by funds donated by friends of the late Glenn Mann, a 1962 graduate of the College who was killed in combat in Vietnam. Redington received the award at last night's spring honors convocation.

As a trombonist for the William and Mary Jazz Band, Redington makes a musical contribution to both the College and community. He's also one of the leaders of the William and Mary Sport Parachute Club and hopes to represent the College in national skydiving competition commends for "continuous active service" to the department.

"In fact," said Robertson, "Jim has responded to at least one fire on foot, and another on his bicycle." Redington, who lives at James Blair Terrace dormitory, bicycled seven miles one night to assist at a small fire.

Blue Cross-Blue Shield State Health Insurance Plan

May is enrollment month for our State Health Insurance Plan. All eligible employees are advised that May is the only month for signing up to change coverage or to buy coverage if they previously chose not to participate in the plan. Enrollment material will be available in the Payroll Office for permanent State employees by May 1.

In the near future, each permanent State employee will be furnished a copy of a letter from Mr. John W. Garber, Director of Personnel, advising that the premiums rates will be increased effective July 1, 1975. These new rates will be deducted from employee pay checks beginning in June to cover the increased premiums effective July 1, 1975.

Any questions concerning the State Health Insurance Plan should be directed to the Payroll Office.

Memorial Day Holiday

In accordance with the holiday schedule as revised by the 1970 General Assembly, Memorial Day falls on Monday, May 26, 1975.

This holiday should be given, as far as practicable, to members of each department. It is recognized that certain services must be maintained in the various departments, but these services should be furnished on the holiday by a minimum number of employees. The responsibility for determining the number of employees needed rests with the department head. It is not a decision to be made by the employees of the department.

A leave slip should be submitted to the Personnel Office for any permanent classified employee who takes leave on this holiday. Permanent classified employees who are required to work on this holiday should take the compensatory leave earned as soon thereafter as possible in order to avoid leave accumulation. Hourly employees who work on this holiday will be paid at their regular hourly rates.

The Hatch Act as Applied to State and Local Employees

State and local employees who receive all or part of their salary from Federal Funds are subject to the following rules on political activity.

Under the Federal law, YOU MAY NOT:

- (1) Use your official authority or influence for the purpose of interfering with or affecting the result of an election or a nomination for office;
- (2) directly or indirectly coerce, attempt to coerce, command or advise a State or local officer or employee to pay, lend, or contribute anything of value to a party, committee, organization, agency, or person for political purposes; or
- (3) be a candidate for public or political party elective office in a partisan primary, general or special election.

Individuals who desire additional information on the above subject should contact the U.S. Civil Service, the Office of the General Counsel, 1900 E. Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20415.

Retirement Legislation Enacted by the 1975 Session of the General Assembly

Senate Bill 834 removed the $30,000 salary limitation from Group Life Insurance. This change is effective July 1, 1975.

Management Development and Training

The Management Development and Training Service of the Commonwealth of Virginia offers courses on a wide variety of subjects. All State employees have an equal opportunity to apply for the courses listed below. Interested employees should submit their request in writing through the head of their department to the College Personnel Office. All costs must be borne by the employing department. The courses listed below will be held in the Richmond area. Exact locations and dates will be announced in individual course brochures.

Memo from the Director of Personnel

Robitshek Outlines Overtime Provisions Of Fair Labor Act

The Fair Labor Standards Act sets a 40-hour standard as the work-week for overtime purposes. The 40-hour work-week must be established during a consecutive seven-day period. This period is established at the College of William and Mary as Sunday through Saturday.

Under the provisions of the Act, certain employees defined as administrative, executive, or professional, and certain law enforcement personnel, are "exempt" from the overtime requirements of the Act. Exempt employees must earn a minimum weekly salary of $155, in addition to meeting other criteria.

Non-exempt employees include all employees classified as clerks, clerk-typists, clerk-stenographers, trades and maintenance personnel, and many others. Department heads should be familiar with positions under their supervision which fall into the exempt or non-exempt categories. Any questions in this regard should be directed to the College Personnel Office.

All non-exempt employees must be paid for the hours worked in excess of the 40-hour work-week at 1-1/2 times their regular rate of pay. Under the Act, compensatory time off may not be granted to non-exempt employees in lieu of overtime payments for hours worked beyond 40 in a given work-week.

There are no funds budgeted specifically for overtime payments. Accordingly, each individual in a supervisory position should eliminate the necessity for a non-exempt employee to work more than 40 hours in a seven-day period.

If, in order to meet a deadline, a non-exempt employee is required to work in excess of 40 hours per week, the contemplated overtime must be approved in advance by the Assistant to the Vice-President for Business Affairs. Again, it is emphasized that there are no funds in our budget for overtime payments. Therefore, no overtime will be approved unless the proposed work is of a most urgent nature, and unless it cannot be accomplished by some other method.

Special Programs Courses

The College's Office of Special Programs is now accepting registrations for the following courses:

Environmental Law Seminar, May 8-10, $90.

Flowerdew Hundred Field Study, May 10, $18.

Systems Programming, for Computer Programmers, May 12-16, $185.

Those desiring additional information or registration may telephone the Office of Special Programs at 877-9231, Ext. 200.

Security Office Is Center For Lost/Found

Members of the campus community are reminded that the Security Office maintains a central department for lost and found items.

Found property should be taken to the Security Office, located behind the Campus Center, between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Items may also be forwarded to the Security Office via campus mail. Persons turning in items should include their names and the locations where the items were found. If an item is too large to send through campus mail, contact the Security Office at Ext. 596 or 597, and an officer will pick it up.
