W&M Chosen Model For Volunteerism

The State Office of Volunteerism has named William and Mary one of three campuses in the state that will serve as models for the new "Volunteer Virginia" plan recently initiated as part of the state's bicentennial program.

The pilot programs will serve to determine the potential for volunteerism on Virginia's college campuses, showing how student resources at a particular type of school can be collected by a central office and channelled into the community for optimum value to both. William and Mary will be the model representative for state institutions while Northern Virginia Community College will serve as a pilot program for community colleges. The Governor's office is expected to announce a private college as the third model program in the near future.

Director of Student Activities Ken Smith will administer William and Mary's Student Volunteer Network, which will attempt to coordinate a variety of established student volunteer organizations.

With the support of a $2,000 grant from the federal volunteer agency ACTION, the College will hire a student to serve as part-time coordinator for the volunteer network.

Local Radio Station Gives Tape Recordings To Archives

Radio station WMBG/WBCI-FM has given William and Mary a set of tape recordings of interviews with College officials and others on topics of significance for the College's history.

The tapes are now a part of the College archives holdings in its oral history collection. Copies of the tapes are available in the Audio-Visual department for use by researchers and interested members of the community.

The station also plans to give the College similar tape recordings as they are produced in conjunction with the station's news and public affairs efforts.

Tape recordings currently on deposit deal with the series of attacks on students in late Fall 1973, and the College's planned response; former basketball coach Ed Ashnault, January 1974; JeRoyd X Greene and the College's decision not to hire him to teach at the law school, May 1974, and February 1975; the status of women at W&M, July 1974; the College's athletic study and decisions, Fall, 1974; the Metropolitan Criminal Justice Center's juvenile court study, December 1974; and John Dean's speech and question and answer session on campus, February 1975.

Grade Reports Information Given

Grade reports for the second semester of the current academic year will be sent to all students at their permanent home address. Students who wish to have the grade report sent to another address or held in the Registrar's Office for pick-up at the opening of the Summer Session should fill out a request form in the Registrar's Office.

As is customary, no grade reports will be sent to parents or others unless a signed request is on file in the Office of the Dean of Students. Students who have not already done so and who wish to request that their grades be sent to their parents are asked to complete the required process in the Office of the Dean of Students prior to leaving for the summer.

IEAHC Awards Jamestown Prize

A young historian at the University of California at Berkeley, James H. Kettner, 30, has been awarded the Jamestown Prize by the Institute of Early American History and Culture.

The Prize consists of a $1,500 cash award in addition to the guarantee of publication by the IEAHC. It is awarded annually for the best book-length, scholarly manuscript submitted for publication to the Institute. Only scholars who are publishing their first books are eligible.

Kettner's manuscript is an exhaustive study of the evolution of the concept of citizenship in American legal practice and theory from 1607 to 1870.

The prize-winning manuscript was selected by a distinguished committee of historians drawn from the Institute's Advisory Council. Chairman of the committee was Professor William McLoughlin of Brown University. Also serving were Professor Stanley Katz of the University of Chicago Law School and Professor Jacob Price of the University of Michigan.

The Jamestown Prize is funded by the Jamestown Foundation, the University of North Carolina Press, which will co-publish Kettner's book, and the Institute's two principal sponsors, the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation and the College of William and Mary.

The winning author, James Kettner, was born in Greenville, Ohio, and received his Ph.D. degree from Harvard College. From 1966 to 1968 he attended the University of Sussex in Brighton, England, on a Marshall Scholarship. He has also been a Danforth Fellow and a Woodrow Wilson Fellow.

In Case You Were Wondering...

Who holds the record for having the most copies of the brochure offering the book, "Their Majesties' Royall Colledge?"

William and Mary employees all received at least two copies of the mailing, sponsored by the Endowment Association, but the record to date is six.

The multiple mailings were attributed to two factors. Two sets of employee addresses were mistakenly provided the Washington mailing service which processed the brochure, so that households having two employees would have received four brochures. Employees who have contributed to the College, or who are alumni or parents, would have received additional copies, since their names are stored separately at the Computer Center.

The snafu provoked some complaints about the cost of excessive mailings. To set the record straight, it is estimated the duplications cost about $25, at a rate of 1.8 cents per copy.

President Responds To Law Dean's Resignation

Will Soon Name Search Committee

President Graves made the following letter to faculty, students and alumni of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law public late Friday afternoon.

On May 2, 1975, Dean James P. Whyte, Jr., of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law submitted his resignation as Dean of the Law School to me, effective at my pleasure, but no later than June 30, 1976, expressing his desire to return to a full-time position of Professor of Law.

In accepting with deep regret Dean Whyte's resignation, I wrote to him, in part, as follows:

I have known for some time of your wish to return to your full-time position as Professor of Law and feel I must now honor your request. But you will be sorely missed. Under your leadership and direction over the past six years the Marshall-Wythe School of Law has experienced a remarkable period of growth and development, in both the quality and size of its student body, faculty and law library. The fact that the long-awaited new Law School building is on the verge of becoming a reality and that the School is well on its way toward becoming one of the great centers of legal education in the country is due in large part to your efforts. We are grateful to you.

By the end of this month I intend to appoint a Search Committee for a Dean of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law. The search for a dean shall be national, broad and intensive in its scope and attention, which of course does not preclude consideration of possible candidates from within the College. Members of the Search Committee will include, but may not be limited to, several members of the faculty of the School of Law and representatives of the alumni and students of the School. In accepting appointment to the Committee they should be committed to searching for a dean who will provide strong educational and administrative leadership and direction to the School, in continuing to move it toward a position of national eminence in legal education, within the overall mission of and as an integral part of the College of William and Mary.

I shall ask the Search Committee to submit to me for my recommendation to the Board of Visitors, for its appointment at as early a date as possible, the names of no less than three and no more than five interested candidates, any one of whom, in the Committee's judgment, would be agreeable as the new Dean of the School.

I have asked Dean Whyte to continue as Dean of the School of Law until his successor's appointment becomes effective, provided this takes place no later than June 30, 1976. Dean Whyte has agreed to do so, with the understanding that he wishes to relinquish the Deanship at as early a date as his successor is prepared to assume that position.

High School Students Visit Campus

"Operation Bus" is bringing 30 minority high school students to the campus for a day-long visit today.

The project was so dubbed when it was decided that W&M buses would transport the students, high school juniors from Newport News, Hampton and Williamsburg, to and from campus.

The students met informally with several College students and officials in a reception this morning and will spend the afternoon touring the campus and meeting individually with administrators and faculty.

W&M NEWS publication on the bi-weekly summer schedule will be as follows: June 3 and 17, July 8 and 22, August 5 and 19.

Letter To The Community

We wish to express our sincerest gratitude to countless members of the William and Mary community who showed their concern in our time of sorrow. Especially we want to thank those who worked to rescue our daughter, and to insure that she had the best medical attention. Our daughter's friends, and so many who did not know her, supported us so meaningfully with their helpfulness and thoughtfulness during our time at William and Mary.

Sincerely,
Lt. Col. and Mrs. Joseph Gerda

Freshman Student Drowns

Dierdre Gerda, a freshman resident of Jefferson Hall, died early Friday morning when she drowned in the Williamsburg Lodge swimming pool during spring "break out."

Miss Gerda is survived by her parents, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Joseph J. Gerda of Ft. Wadsworth; one sister, Miss Susan Gerda, and four brothers, Terry Gerda, Joey Gerda, David Gerda, and Douglas Gerda, all at home; her paternal grandfather, John M. Gerda of Berea, Ohio, and her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Alice Naturele of Ravenna, Ohio.

In making the announcement last week, President Graves expressed "shock and sadness at this tragedy."

President Graves said that the Williamsburg City Police are investigating the accident, in conjunction with the College's Dean of Students Office and the Office of Safety and Security, and with the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation.

Professors, Students Participate In Science Academy Meeting

Faculty members, students and a member of the Board of Visitors contributed papers to the program of the 53rd annual meeting of the Virginia Academy of Science, which met in Harrisonburg at Madison College May 6-9.

Meeting in conjunction with the Virginia Junior Academy of Science, the Academy heard papers from William and Mary representatives in the areas of physics, biology, chemistry, science education, geology, psychology, applied science and space science and technology.

Members of the physics faculty H.O. Funsten, Harlan E. Schone and William J. Kossler contributed papers which were delivered in a section meeting on astronomy, mathematics and physics chaired by George W. Crawford, W&M professor of physics emeritus.

In the area of biology, program participants included the following students: R. Thad Goodwin, Hendersonville, N.C.; Lynn M. Cleary, Youngstown, Ohio; Judith A. Cooke, Hopewell, Va.; Patricia L. Kipps, Williamsburg; Martha Kress, Allentown, Pa.; Richard Lampman, Hopewell, Va.; and Janet M. Quensen, Gloucester Pt. Members of the biology department faculty participating included Bradner W. Coursen, C. Richard Terman, Norman J. Fashing, R.E. Black, and Gisela Fashing.

In the botany section, the College was represented by several students including Jeff Doyle, McLean; Douglas Boltis, Alexandria; Gerald F. Roe, Luray; and Roland Monette, Wayne, Mi.

Contributing members of the chemistry faculty included: R.A. Orwoll, R.A. Coleman, M.D. Schiavelli, D.W. Thompson, D. Kranbuehl, C. Djordjevic and R.L. Kiefer. One of the papers presented was co-authored by N. Vuletic, visiting professor of chemistry at the College last year. Student participants included: P.M. Metzger, Doylestown, Pa.; R.M. Stimpfle, McLean; R.B. Schiffer, Millersburg, Pa.; J.W. Stubbs, Decatur, Ga.; G. Lock, Monkton, Md.; K. Trimmer, Richmond; W.T. Barnes, Williamsburg; D.P. Swauger, Bridgeport, W.Va.

Ronald Giese, associate professor of education, presented a paper on the individualized science instructional system he has prepared.

At the section meeting on environmental science, Trevor B.

Dance Concerts Scheduled

The Dance Guild of Virginia will present two dance concerts in Phi Beta Kappa Hall this weekend.

Saturday, May 17, the guild will present a family concert featuring a varied program of modern dance, ballet and jazz pieces. The "Evening of Dance" begins at 8:15 p.m.

A program for children will be performed Sunday at 3:30 p.m. Choreographed by Vija Cunningham, artistic director of the company, the dance is based on the story "Elephant's Child" from Rudyard Kipling's Just So Stories.

Admission for each performance is $1 for children 12 and under, and $2 for all others.

Tickets will be on sale one hour before each performance at the PBK box office.

Hill, professor of chemistry, gave a paper on pollutants in fish relative to the oil spill during Hurricane Agnes in 1972.

In geology, four senior students, Marianne G. Moseley, Mechanicsville; Jeffrey L. Mincks, Bloomfield Hills, Mi.; Leslie J. Parsons, Sweet Springs, Mo.; and Sue E. Rickles, Aiken, S.C.; presented papers along with associate professor G.H. Johnson.

Professor R.A. Johnston and students L.G. McCauley, Media, Pa.; Marylie Williams, Greenville, N.C.; D. Gilfoil, Williamsburg; and M.J. Moeschl, Centerville, Va.; participated in the section devoted to psychology, which Herbert Friedman, associate professor of psychology, served as editor. Student contributors included: S.D. Dudley, Newport News; P.L. Parent, College Station, Va.; K. Westlake, Lanexa; J.P. Linstrom, and Barbara Keller, Providence Forge.

Dr. G.D. Sands, Associate Project Scientist for the Viking Project Office, NASA at Langley, spoke on "Project Viking-Mission to Mars," as part of the Science and Technology section.

MBAA Names Stock Contest Winners

The MBA Association has announced the winners of this semester's stock market contest. Each participant in the contest, which ended May 7, submitted a portfolio with a hypothetical investment of $10,000 in from three to 10 stocks.

Howard Kaplan '77, Richmond, captured the $100 first prize with a 55 percent increase in his portfolio of Polaroid, Westinghouse and Holiday Inn stocks. Other winners included: Robert Gessner '76, Williamsburg, $10; Chuck Byrd '75, Alexandria, $5; and Joel Berliner, a transfer student from Falls Church, $1.

According to the computer calculations run by MBA students, the general market showed an increase of 17.94 percent during the contest period.

Associate Professor of Business Administration Stuart Williams utilized an innovative

"dart portfolio" technique for selecting his investment stocks. He attached the newspaper stock pages to a wall and threw 10 darts at random. The stocks selected in this manner rose by 21.67 percent, an increase greater than that of half the entrants who used more conventional methods of stock selection.

The MBA Association plans to hold another stock contest next fall. Once again the contest will be open to all W&M students and employees.

Personnel Changes Procedure For Processing Job Applications

The College Personnel Office has instituted a change in the advertisement and processing of applications for non-faculty vacancies.

All vacancies are reported to the Virginia Employment Commission, and all classified positions are reported to the Division of Personnel recruiting office. Vacancies are also advertised on the College "Dial-a-Job" (229-JOBS) and in the William and Mary News.

The application period will be ten working days. Upon notification that a vacancy exists (or will exist), the Personnel Office will advertise and/or report the vacancy for a period of 10 working days. At the end of the 10-day period, all applications received from qualified employees will be forwarded to the department for consideration. This procedure allows all qualified individuals an equal opportunity to apply.

Job vacancies advertised in the William and Mary News will have a final date noted for receipt of applications. This information will also be included on the "Dial-a-Job" if there is sufficient space on the recording equipment.
