"Parents. . . Then and Now" is theme

Weekend Salute to Parents Set

A two day "Salute to Parents . . . Then and Now," is planned at the College's parents weekend program, Oct. 24-26.

"Open Door" office hours by members of the faculty and administration, lectures by faculty members and panel discussions on "Bridging the Generation Gap" will be some of the activities planned for parents while they are on campus.

President Thomas A. Graves, Jr., Mrs. Cherie Doverspike, president, Parents Association, and Peter Garland, Scotia, N.Y., acting president of the Student Association, will speak at a buffet luncheon Saturday, in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

Students will chair discussion groups Saturday morning. Leaders will be Margaret Bowen and Reggie Moore, Richmond; Corby R. Cochran, Roanoke; Paige Eversole, Hampton; Debbie Locke, Portsmouth; Gayle Yamada, Arlington; Peter Garland, Scotia, N.Y.; Jeff Leppo, Vienna; Dave Oxenford, Brick-town, N.J.; and Ed Walinsky, Falls Church.

Lectures by faculty members covering various disciplines will be given at the opening session Saturday morning by Elsa S. Diduk, chairman, modern languages; Frank T. Lendrim, chairman, music department; Garnett R. Brooks, professor of biology; Gerald H. Johnson, associate professor of geology; Robert A. Barry, associate professor of economics; Richard B. Sherman, professor of history; Jesse S. Tarleton, assistant professor of business administration; and Roger R. Ries, associate professor of education.

Registration will be held Friday afternoon from 1-6 p.m. in Swem Library and again Saturday morning from 8 a.m. to noon in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

Members of the steering committee of the Parents' Association will meet Friday afternoon in Swem Library. New members will be named to the 13-member committee.

Friday afternoon, parents will be invited to visit faculty and administration offices, and the Sinfonicon Opera Company will present the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta "Ruddigore"

SCATS Users Take Note!

The College has been notified that, effective Monday, Oct. 27, the Richmond SCATS prefix will change from 369 to 786.

The only exceptions to the change are the prefixes for Virginia Commonwealth University and for the Medical College of Virginia, which will remain 369.

Please note these changes in your SCATS directory.

Undergraduates Begin Early Registration

Early registration for spring semester courses begins today for all currently enrolled undergraduates.

In a letter to all undergraduate students last week, Charles R. Toomajian, director of Registration and Student Records noted that students should pick up registration materials at the tables in the lobby of Andrews Hall sometime today.

Juniors and seniors have from now until Oct. 27 to return registration forms to the Registrar's Office, while freshmen and sophomores should return the forms before Oct. 31.

Although students are no longer required to consult with faculty advisors during early registration and although they bear the final responsibility for developing a sound academic program, Toomajian strongly encouraged all undergraduates to consult with advisors to interpret degree requirements and develop an academic program. Since the registration period is short, he urged students to contact their advisors as soon as possible, before registration cards are due.

Mr. Toomajian and others in the Registrar's Office welcome any questions and suggestions.

Computer Aids Library Operation

Swem Library has taken a major step toward increasing its services to library users while at the same time effecting economic savings by hooking into a computerized cataloging network at the Ohio College Library Center (OCLC) in Columbus.

Following preliminary arrangements last fall by Mary Lou Cobb, head of Swem's cataloging department, library staff members from the cataloging and acquisitions departments, as well as the rare books cataloger and the VARC librarian, participated in study and training sessions over a period of several months, designed to familiarize them with the system's computer terminals.

In late spring, two terminals were installed, and by mid-summer initial programming problems were resolved and the full use of the on-line services was underway. Carol Linton of the cataloging department has been assigned to coordinate the OCLC terminal use.

The system has already effected some cost savings at the library. The cataloging department has reduced its number of student assistants from 34 to 22.

By using the computer service, Swem catalogers "will be able to lessen the time gap between receiving books that must have original cataloging and getting cards in the public catalog," commented one staff member. "We are also eliminating expensive cataloging time for works that have already been cataloged by some other library," she added.

Full cataloging records can now be made available in the public catalog for library users within two or three weeks of cataloging a book. Before the computer system was used, the process frequently took six weeks or longer.

Access to the OCLC on-line cataloging services was made possible through the College's membership in SOLINET, the Southeastern Library Network of approximately 100 academic and state libraries in this region. The network provides cataloging data to member institutions and has made arrangements for participating members to have access to the OCLC services.

"Computer searches for bibliographic and cataloging information are more efficient and thorough than manual searches," stated Ms. Cobb. She noted that, because the system is so new, some information has not been programmed into it and therefore some manual searching is still necessary. On the other hand, she pointed out, OCLC holds records of many titles not yet contained in other sources.

The OCLC computer will also produce customized ready-to-file library cards.

One result of the computerized system is that "all cataloging records are much more up-to-date and errors are determined and corrected much sooner," said Ms. Cobb.

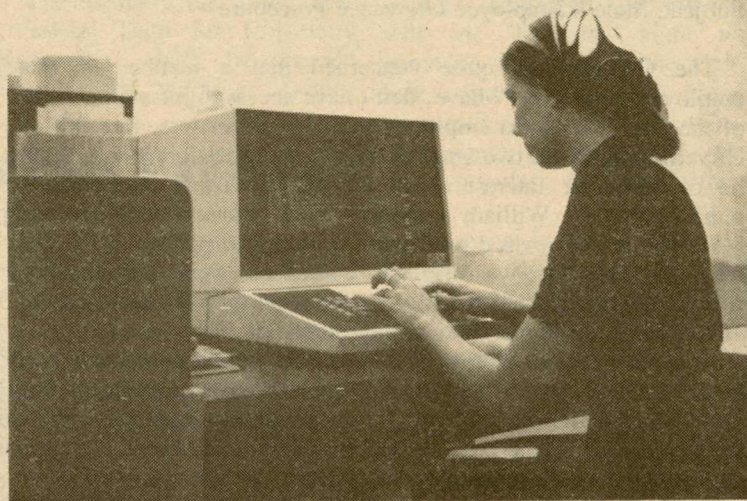

In addition, said Ms. Cobb, "Swem is building a computer record of its holdings, which can be made available for inter-library loans, acquisitions and subject searches when those programs have been completed by OCLC."

Ms. Cobb feels that, "In contrast to manual library systems, which make widespread sharing of library resources cumbersome and slow; automated library systems have the advantage of being used rapidly and simultaneously by more than one institution. Libraries in a network such as SOLINET can share the entire network's joint bibliographic resources with students, faculty, staff, and the community at large."

Romanesque Architecture Talk

"Romanesque Capitals: A Sense of Order" is the topic fine arts professor Richard K. Newman will discuss in the Project Plus Forum at 7:30 p.m., Oct. 29, in Millington Hall.

Newman, who holds a doctoral degree from Yale University, has been a member of the fine arts department since 1946.

Meredith Merritt of Swem's cataloging staff operates computer terminal for library's new SOLINET/OCLC on-line services.

The following positions at the College are or will be vacant. Those denoted with an asterisk (*) are available to any qualified individual. The remainder are open only to permanent classified employees or faculty of the College. To apply, contact the Personnel Office, James Blair Hall, Room 201. The College of William and Mary is an equal opportunity employer. Accordingly, women and minority employees are encouraged to apply for those positions for which they feel they are qualified.

Inquiries about vacancies should be directed to the Personnel Office and not to the department where the opening exists.

Call 229-JOBS (229-5627) for an updated listing of job vacancies and 24-hour service.

CLERK B: (Night Dispatcher), Security Office, $4,920. (Deadline: 10-25)

CLERK STENOGRAPHER C: Admissions Office, $6,144. (10-26)

CUSTODIAL WORKER: President's House, $4,512. (11-15)
Applicants should contact Ernest Boyce, executive housekeeper in the Buildings and Grounds department.

Campus Wrap-Up

Christian Ethics Lecture

The department of religion will sponsor a lecture on Wednesday, Oct. 22, at 4 p.m. in Room 240 of Morton Hall. Waldo Beach, professor of Christian Ethics at Duke University, will speak on "The Wheel and the Cross: Technology and Christian Ethics." All interested persons are cordially invited to attend.

Biology Open House

The Phi Sigma biological honorary society will sponsor an open house in the biology department during Parents Weekend. Laboratories and the greenhouse will be open for visitors on Oct. 25, from 4-6 p.m.

Plant Development Guest Lecturer

F.C. Steward, professor emeritus at Cornell University, will discuss "The Carrot and Plant Morphogenesis" at 8 a.m. Oct. 23 in Millington Auditorium. Steward is a recognized authority in the field of the chemical regulation of plant development. He is the author of numerous books, reviews and research papers.

His lecture will be presented as a result of College Lecture Program funds awarded to Martin Mathes, professor of biology.

Physics Colloquium Slated

Arnold Russek of the University of Storrs will discuss "Electron Attachment in Diatomic Molecules" at a physics colloquium at 4:30 p.m. Oct. 24. The colloquium, which will be held in 109 Small Hall, will be preceded by coffee at 4 p.m. in the conference room.

English Classes Offered

The International Circle and South Asia Society are sponsoring a free class in English for foreign nationals. Taught by Ann Witmeyer '79, Arlington, the class begins at 1:30 p.m. Oct. 22 and will meet weekly at the International Cottage. For further information, contact Nathaniel Folarin, 229-7468; Professor Zamora, anthropology department, Ext. 369 or 341; or Cindy Castle, 229-6269.

Free University Courses Begin

Nearly two dozen free university courses are being offered for all interested persons this fall. Sponsored by the Student Association, the courses range from weekly classes on sewing, first aid, dancing and Black music to single classes on plants or basic photography.

Classes beginning today include the Common Sense Vegetarian, Beginning Guitar and Beginning Journalism.

For further information, contact Laurie Lucker, Ext. 252, or watch for posters with a complete listing. Notice of initial meetings of the classes is also carried in the W&M News calendar of events.

WEEKEND SALUTE TO PARENTS

in Phi Beta Kappa Hall that evening at 8:15 p.m. For latecomers, an informal coffee house will be set up in the ballroom of the Campus Center Friday evening from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Saturday's program begins at 9 a.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Hall. The afternoon football game against Furman at Cary Field is included in the Saturday schedule along with open house at several of the student residence halls and a dance band night at the Campus Center.

FINE ARTS

Pat Winter, lecturer, is represented with four prints in the Tidewater Artists Association invitational exhibition at the Jewish Community Center in Norfolk. The exhibit runs through the month of October.

MATHEMATICS

Carl M. Andersen, senior research associate in mathematics and computer science, has published a paper entitled "Mixed Isoparametric Elements for Saint-Venant Torsion" in the journal Computer Methods for Applied Mechanics and Engineering. Ahmed Norr of George Washington University is co-author.

Andersen and Norr are also presenting a paper on "Mixed Isoparametric Laminated Composite Shell Elements" at the World Congress on Finite Element Methods in Structural Mechanics, which will be held in England this month.

MARSHALL-WYTHE SCHOOL OF LAW

James P. Whyte, professor, addressed the council of the General Practice Section, American Bar Association, on problems of clinical training in existing law curricula, at the council's meeting at the Williamsburg Conference Center, Oct. 3.

The law faculty were hosts at a reception for the ABA General Practice Section council members in the Great Hall of the Wren Building Oct. 4.

William F. Swindler, John Marshall Professor of Law, has been advised that his recent article, "Politics as Law: The Cherokee Cases," in the American Indian Law Review, will be included in a forthcoming book on American Indian Law and Policy, to be published by the University of New Mexico Press. The Oklahoma Law Review has also just published Swindler's article, "The Constitution After Watergate," based on an enrichment lecture he delivered to the University of Oklahoma last fall.

MINORITY STUDENT AFFAIRS

Leroy O. Moore, director, has visited high schools in the Richmond, Petersburg, Norfolk, Portsmouth and Suffolk areas recruiting minority students. During the rest of October he plans to visit schools in the Alexandria area and in Memphis, Tenn.

MODERN LANGUAGES

R. Merritt Cox, associate professor, has published an article entitled "Juan Melendez Valdes: A Visionary Rebel," in the fall issue of Romance Notes.

On Nov. 7 Professor Alexander Kallos will present a paper, "Humor in Rilke's Ewald Tragy and Geschichten vom lieben Gott", at the German section of SAMLA in Atlanta. The paper will be published in expanded form by Essays in Literature, Western Illinois University.

RELIGION

Associate Professor Thomas M. Finn attended the conference, "The Family: It Must Survive", in Norfolk, Sept. 22-23, sponsored by the Virginia Foundation of the Humanities and Public Policy and the Tidewater Assembly on Family Life. He led two workshops on the Ethical Implications of the Women's Movement on Child Rearing.

On Sept. 30 Associate Professor Hans O. Tiefel gave a talk on "The Cost of Fetal Research: Ethical Considerations" at the King's Daughters Hospital for children in Norfolk. This was a discussion of the legal and moral implications of recent Department of Health, Education and Welfare regulations which now control all federally funded research.

Mr. Tiefel worked on this issue in Boston last year as Kennedy Fellow in Medical Ethics at Harvard University, supported in part by a fellowship from the National Endowment or the Humanities.

Official Memoranda

From: I. H. Robitshek, Personnel Director
To: College Employees
Subject: Observance of Veteran's Day Holiday, Nov. 11

Veteran's Day, November 11, 1975, is a holiday observed by the College of William and Mary. It is recognized that classes will be in session on this day, and therefore normal services must be maintained. The responsibility for maintaining the services rests with the department head. It is not a decision to be made by the employees of the department.

A leave slip should be submitted to the Personnel Office for any permanent classified employee who takes the holiday. Permanent classified employees who are required to work on this holiday are urged to take the compensatory leave earned as soon thereafter as possible in order to avoid excessive leave accumulation. Hourly employees who work on this holiday will be paid at their regular hourly rate.

From: I. H. Robitshek, Director of Personnel
To: College Employees
Subject: State's Employee Grievance Procedure

The Governor is quite concerned that a number of State employees either don't have, don't have access to, or are not aware of the State's uniform employee grievance procedure. Recently the Governor approved two amendments to the procedure which should be of particular interest to all employees. These changes were published in the William and Mary News issue of Sept. 2, 1975.

Copies of the revised procedure, which incorporates all changes since the procedure was originally published, were made available for all permanent State employees who received pay checks on Oct. 16, 1975, through the College Payroll Office.

It is the desire of the Governor that every permanent State employee be given a copy of the revised procedure. State employees who were paid on Oct. 16 but did not receive a copy of the revised grievance procedure are requested to pick up a copy at the Personnel Office, Room 201, James Blair Hall.

Newly appointed employees will be given a copy of the revised procedures at time of appointment.

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

Professor Ruth Mulliken has been elected Virginia representative to the Delegate Assembly of the National Association of School Psychologists. She will serve a two year term. The Assembly will meet in Cleveland Oct. 24-26.

Mulliken will also conduct a one day workshop Nov. 13 on diagnosis and placement at Clinch Valley College.

Dean Yankovich attended the State Department of Education's conference on mathematics in Fredericksburg, Oct. 10. He chaired a meeting with teachers in the State who are anxious to form a state-wide organization which will be affiliated with the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics.

W&M NEWS

Volume IV, No. 8

October 21, 1975

Published weekly through the Office of Information Services by the College of William and Mary for faculty, staff and students. Produced by the College News Office, 125 Richmond Road. Inquiries should be directed to Marjorie N. Healy, Information Officer. Mailed to addresses of employees as on record at the Personnel Office, James Blair Hall, to which Office address changes should be directed.

NASA Grant Awarded

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has awarded a grant of $14,990 to David Kranbuehl, associate professor of chemistry, to study the stability of high performance polyimide polymer resins.

The relationships of the molecular weight or molecular size of these plastic materials to their fabrication and mechanical properties will also be investigated.

The grant is under the supervision of Dr. Phil Young and Dr. Norman Johnston of the materials division of NASA-Langley Research Center. It is part of a NASA-Langley program to develop new high performance polyimide materials for use as adhesives, protection coatings, structural composites and elastomers. In particular it is planned that the materials will be used in the NASA space shuttle project.

Funds from the grant will be used to provide research support for graduate and undergraduate students at William and Mary, to provide summer support for faculty and to purchase equipment.

The grant is a continuation of one initially awarded to Kranbuehl last year.

'Experiment' Rep Will Discuss Program Abroad

Peter Wright from the Washington, D.C., office of the Experiment in International Living will give an illustrated informational talk on all of the Experiment's summer, semester and year programs on Monday, Oct. 27, at 7:30 p.m. in the lobby of the French House (Botetourt Unit 5). Mr. Wright will be available for questions and will have literature on all EIL programs.

Since the EIL was founded in 1932, it has arranged exchanges for over 50,000 young people in more than 50 countries. Most popular are the group summer homestay-travel programs. Semester and year programs, on either a group or an individual basis, usually involve a homestay and university study, for which academic credit is available.

Masters degrees in teaching French, Spanish or English as a second language and in international administration are also offered.

Law School Grads Pass Bar Exam

Parental Advices

The concerns of parents sending children to college have not altered considerably over the last hundred years. The questions of money and of attention to academic studies concerned a future President of the United States when he wrote his son at William and Mary in 1834.

Senator John Tyler, later to be elected President, wrote his son Robert, "Recreation at your age is necessary--but I am sure you will not carry it too far. Your lectures first--and then you are ready for genteel society. Avoid the idle as you would a pestilence."

The advice was given in a father-to-son letter acquired several years ago by Swem Library, augmenting the notable collection it has of Tyler family papers.

Thrift advised

On the subject of money, Senator Tyler, who was a William and Mary alumnus, wrote, "Enclosed you will receive ten dollars--half of which I wish you to give your sister--the other half is for yourself. Make yours go as far as you can. You should always so manage as to keep a dollar or two by you--and this can only be done by never spending a cent uselessly."

The letter, dated January 26, 1834, acknowledged a letter written by son to father on January 22. In it, Robert Tyler expressed concern over attending a class without seeking credit for it, and without paying a fee.

"Your anxiety on the subject of attending Mr. Roger's senior class, as a mere spectator and auditor, is without just foundation," the Senator wrote. "This is a privilege which I have no doubt he would readily grant not only to every student at College, but to the whole town."

"You manifest however a very becoming delicacy on the subject, and to put you at rest I have written to Mr. Rogers as the enclosed letter will show. Whether he charges a fee or not is, and ought to be so considered by you, perfectly immaterial. You impose upon him no additional trouble--and I hope you will continue to attend him throughout the year. Him and myself will adjust the whole matter."

The Mr. Rogers under which young Tyler was studying as a "spectator" was Dr. William Barton Rogers, popular teacher of chemistry and natural philosophy. He went from William and Mary to help found the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and to serve as MIT's first president. Rogers Hall on the new campus is named in his honor.

Senator Tyler warned his son not to take on too much of an academic burden, however, indicating that when Robert joined a course taught by Thomas Roderick Dew (later president of William and Mary), "you will have your hands full, and I do not think that much good will arise from overburdening yourself. Whatever you undertake you should learn thoroughly."

Business Research Bureau Hosts Meeting of AUBER

The Bureau of Business Research at the School of Business Administration is hosting the 1975 meeting of the Association for University Business and Economic Research (AUBER) in Williamsburg, Oct. 19-22.

The largest delegation to an annual meeting of AUBER, 194 registered for the four-day meeting which is being held at the Cascades.

The theme of the conference, "Federal Data for University Research," will be carried through the working sessions for which speakers include James H. Quello, Commissioner, Federal Communications Commission; Henry Lowenstein, associate commissioner, Office of Publications, Bureau of Labor Statistics and Editor-in-Chief, Monthly Labor Review.

Professors Ready Cases For New Language Debate

Faculty members from the modern languages department will vie Thursday night to convince members of the College community that the language each represents is the most worthwhile, the most noble, the most popular, the most practical.

The event is the First Annual Modern Language Debate and will be held at 8 p.m. Oct. 23 in the Campus Center Ballroom. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Two students, Eli Alkalais '77 a history major from Athens, Greece, and Bill Presada '77, a biology major from Chester, have arranged the

Departments Cooperate In New Teaching Venture

The first interdisciplinary College Course will be team-taught by faculty members from five departments next semester.

Nathaniel Elliott, Terry Meyers and Fraser Neiman of the English department, Margaret Hamilton of government, James Kornwolf from fine arts, James Livingston of the religion department and James McCord from history will teach "The Late Victorian Era: Challenges to Tradition," a study of the changes from Victorian to modern culture in England between 1860-1914.

Approved by the Faculty of Arts and Sciences last spring, College Courses are interdisciplinary courses or courses which fall outside the present departmental programs. Livingston explained that College Courses were "principally devised as a mechanism to offer courses not normally taught within a particular department--either because the course is by nature interdisciplinary, or because it allows a professor to teach something outside his department but for which he has some expertise."

The Victorian course will focus on the transformation of some older traditions and values as reflected in the literature, art, religion, science and social history of the late 19th and early 20th century in England.

Although students will be assigned common readings and exams, each will have the opportunity to work on a research paper under the guidance of one of the several instructors.

The instructors for the new course are "excited about students and faculty together exploring areas new to them," said McCord. "We will be teaching ourselves as well as the students. The College Courses provide a chance to get together with people outside the department and to bring a new perspective to bear on our own disciplines. Hopefully this interaction will give all of us a better understanding of the period."

Slavic Expert To Lecture

Edward Wasiolek, Avalon Professor and chairman of the department of Slavic languages and director of the Comparative Literature Program at the University of Chicago, will speak Wednesday, Oct. 29, at 8 p.m. in the Campus Center Theatre.

Wasiolek formerly served on the faculty of Ohio Wesleyan University. He has received fellowships from Harvard University and the Russian Research Center in Russia. He is also recipient of the Quantrell teaching prize of the University of Chicago. His most recent books include "Dostoevsky: The Major Fiction," "Crime and Punishment and the Critics," and "Nine Soviet Portraits" which he wrote in collaboration with Raymond Bauer.

Professor Wasiolek is visiting William and Mary as part of the current Visiting Scholars Program. He will take as his topic, "Dostoevsky, Camus and Faulkner." His host while on campus will be Marilyn E. Kerst, instructor in English.

Voice Recital

Deborah A. Smelley will present her senior recital in voice at 8:15 p.m. Oct. 28 in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

The Richmond native will be accompanied on the piano by Robert Yahley, a junior who is also from Richmond, and by clarinetist Anne Ray, a senior from Hampton.

Ms. Smelley is a student of Robin Roark at the College.

Her program, which includes works by Vivaldi, Torelli, Schumann, Barber, Delibes and Schubert, is open to the public.

News Mailing To Homes Will Stop

Effective with the Nov. 4 issue, the William and Mary News will no longer be mailed to employees' homes. Campus distribution will be expanded to insure continued service to all members of the College community.

Quantities of the News will be placed at key locations around campus as well as distributed through campus mail and through supervisory personnel for all employees.

The News is published on Tuesdays and will be distributed on campus that afternoon.

To insure a wide distribution of the News throughout the College community, staff, faculty and administrators are being asked to take copies home for their families.
