IBM Exec Inaugurates Visiting Program Here

T. Vincent Learson, former chairman of the Board and chief executive officer of International Business Machines Corporation, will visit the campus Nov. 4-7 as part of the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation's Visiting Fellows Program.

Learson is now a member of the executive and finance committees of IBM's Board of Directors. He joined IBM in 1935, immediately following his graduation from Harvard University. He was elected a vice president in 1954, a member of the Board in 1961, a senior vice president three years later and president in 1966.

As a Woodrow Wilson Visiting Fellow Learson will meet informally with students in several classes and small group discussions as well as with faculty members during his stay.

The Visiting Fellows program, funded primarily by the Lilly Endowment, was established to promote greater contact, understanding, and sharing of ideas and experiences between the academic community and the world of business and public affairs. Learson is the first under the program to visit the William and Mary campus.

During his stay, Mr. Learson will give two lectures open to the College community. On Wednesday, Nov. 5, he will discuss "Multinational Corporations and the Nation State" at 2 p.m. in 220 Morton Hall. The following day at 2 p.m. he will lecture on "Data Systems and Privacy" in Millington Auditorium. There will be an opportunity for discussion at both lectures.

Mr. Learson will also be featured in the James Blair Terrace Residence Hall's "Good Evening Program" at 8 p.m. on Thursday, when he will discuss "Business and Social Responsibility."

The classes he will visit and the subjects he will speak about

Choir Performance To Be Christmas TV Special

The William & Mary Choir will be featured on television throughout North America in a special Christmas performance to be videotaped early in November.

The program, produced by WVEC-TV of Hampton and Norfolk, in collaboration with Dr. Frank Lendrim, Choir Director, will use the historic Wren Yard as a backdrop. One segment will also be taped in Bruton Parish Church, featuring the newly formed Botetourt Chamber Singers.

In cooperation with WVEC-TV, the Office of Information

Services has arranged the full color, half-hour telecast to be shown at Christmas over 28 stations in the United States and Canada. Their audiences will be extended by cable TV networks to serve most of the nation's viewing population.

The audio tape for the telecast was made Monday in Phi Beta Kappa Hall. The video work will take place on Nov. 6 at Bruton Parish and Nov. 7 in the Wren Courtyard, or on Nov. 8 in the event of inclement weather.

British Envoy Named Speaker For Charter Day

Sir Peter Ramsbotham, British Ambassador to the United States since March 1974, will deliver the 1976 bicentennial Charter Day address on Saturday, Feb. 7, at the College.

The Charter Day convocation, marking the 283rd anniversary of the granting of the College's Royal Charter by King William III and Queen Mary II, will begin at 11 a.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

Sir Peter, 56, succeeded the Earl of Cromer as British Ambassador to the United States in March 1974. Prior to his present appointment, he served for three years as Ambassador to Iran.

Born in London, Sir Peter was educated at Eton and Magdalen College, Oxford University. From 1943-46 he served in the British army, initially with the Reconnaissance Corps and later in the Intelligence Corps, reaching the rank of Lieutenant Colonel.

His diplomatic career began shortly thereafter in 1948 when he joined the British Foreign Service. After two years in Berlin during the blockade, Sir Peter returned to the Foreign Office in London to head the newly-established international oil section. In that capacity he participated in the 1951 negotiations between the British government and Iranian Prime Minister Mussadek.

In 1953 Sir Peter was appointed Head of Chancery in the British delegation to the United Nations in New York. Four years later he returned to the Foreign Office, and in 1960 was appointed head of the Western Organizations and Planning Department. There he worked closely with Edward Heath, who was then in charge of the first negotiations for Britain's entry into the European Common Market.

Following an appointment in Paris, he was promoted and appointed British High Commissioner in Cyprus, his first post as head of a British diplomatic mission abroad. Two years later he became Ambassador to Iran.

Sir Peter and his wife, the former Frances Marie Blomfield, have three children.

The Charter Day convocation at the College will also mark the presentation of the Thomas Jefferson Award and the Thomas Jefferson Teaching Award to outstanding members of the College community.

New Phone Directory Available

The new telephone directory for College faculty and staff has been published and was distributed on campus last week.

Those who did not receive enough copies for office use may obtain extra copies by contacting Mr. Cogle's office, Ext. 203.

The new directory notes that home address corrections should be reported to the Personnel Office so that the files may be updated. Other changes should be reported to Mr. Cogle's office.

Corrections and changes will be carried in the W&M News.

Registration Forms Due

Freshmen and sophomores are reminded to turn in early registration forms for spring semester courses before Friday, Oct. 31.

Charles R. Toomajian, director of Registration and Student Records, was pleased that over 92 per cent picked up registration packets during the first day of early registration. He encourages students to return the completed forms as soon as possible in order to facilitate timely processing and to avoid long lines on Oct. 31.

State Department Seeks Job Applicants

The State Department's Agency for International Development is seeking applicants for its next class of International Development Interns, scheduled to begin in Sept. 1976. Appointments will be in the Foreign Service Reserve at a beginning salary of over $12,000. The deadline for application is Dec. 12. For information, contact the Placement Office, Ext. 604.

Teacher Placement Interviews

Students seeking teaching positions next year are urged to contact the Teacher Placement Office, Jones 215, Ext. 467. Representatives from various school systems will begin interviewing prospective teachers on campus next week. Students who wish to be interviewed should make an appointment through the Teacher Placement Office in advance.

Notice to Claim Property

DuPont Hall's storage rooms have been cleaned and students and recent alumni with property still in storage are asked to claim their possessions. Those items not claimed prior to Nov. 15 will be auctioned or discarded. For further information, contact Anne Gochenour or Heather Dorian at Ext. 413.

Scientist is Visiting Scholar

Eugene P. Odum, Alumni Foundation Distinguished Professor of Zoology, Fuller E. Callaway Foundation Professor of Ecology, and Director of the Institute of Ecology at the University of Georgia, will speak on campus Monday, Nov. 3. His lecture, which is part of the Visiting Scholars Program, begins at 8 p.m. in the Campus Center Theatre. The public is invited to attend.

Geology Major Studies Effects Of Rechanneling

James Rubenstone '76, a geology major from Paoli, Pa., is currently working with several other students in preparing a special report for the National Science Foundation on the rechannelization of rivers.

Rubenstone and eleven University of Virginia environmental science majors conducted a study this summer on rechannelization in Nelson County Va., which was funded by a $15,000 grant from NSF.

Nelson county streams and rivers were rechanneled following extensive flooding damage by hurricane Camille in 1969 and Agnes in 1972.

The report, due in December, will include findings on the benefits and disadvantages of channelization and alternatives.

Tickets are now available at the College's Office of Special Programs for the next lecture in the current "Our Future in the Cosmos" Series sponsored jointly by NASA and William and Mary.

William E. Cooper, professor of zoology at Michigan State University, will speak on "New Frontiers for Man and the Natural Environment," Monday, Nov. 10 at 8 p.m. in Hampton High School auditorium.

Henry Aceto, director of the Associated Research Campus of the College, will introduce Mayor Ann H. Kilgore of Hampton who will be a special guest at the lecture. James D. Lawrence, Jr., director of the environmental quality program at NASA, will introduce the speaker.

There is no admission charge, but because of limited seating, tickets will be required and may

Institute Cookbook Reprinted

Feeling the economic pinch? Try "Recession Cake." Want to splurge? Bake a "Millionaire Pie."

These and other favorite recipes of the Institute of Early American History and Culture staff have been collected in "The Scholarly Chef" by Institute staff members. The original 100 copies proved so popular last spring that another edition has been printed.

Anyone interested in obtaining a copy of the cookbook should contact the Institute. The books are $1.50 for the first copy and $1.25 for each copy thereafter.

Personnel Bulletin

The following positions at the College are or will be vacant. Those denoted with an (*) are available to any qualified individual. The remainder are open only to permanent classified employees or faculty of the College. Those wishing to apply for these positions should make their application at the Personnel Office, 201 James Blair Hall. The College is an Equal Opportunity Employer and women and minority employees are encouraged to apply for those positions for which they are qualified.

Inquiries about vacancies should be directed to the Personnel Office and not to the department where the opening exists. Call 229-JOBS (229-5627) for an updated listing of job vacancies and 24-hour service.

Cooper, author of "Environmental Quality - Now or Never," will discuss the problem of supporting an ever increasing, affluent population of consumers within the constraints of a finite world.

"Since it appears rather difficult to repeal the laws of thermodynamics, and biological evolution still dictates the quality of our ecological environment, societies must learn to develop control and design technologies that can safely resolve conflicts between human expectations and the physical realities of closed systems," asserts Cooper.

Cooper has urged that the basic principles of engineering and ecology be integrated scientifically and then put into operation through "subtle but important alterations" in the present political and economic institutions.

He has published widely in his field and has served on the Governor's Environmental Council in Michigan; as a consultant for the Wayne County Planning Commission in Detroit and is currently a co-director, design and management of environmental systems project, sponsored by the National Science Foundation.

Cooper is the second speaker in the current series which opened in September with Stewart L. Udall, former Secretary of the Interior.

Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., educator and Pulitzer Prize winning writer, and Virginia H. Knauer, special assistant to the President for Consumer Affairs, are scheduled as part of the current series during 1976.

Detailed information on the series may be obtained from the Office of Special Programs, 877-9231 or by mail, 12070 Jefferson Avenue, Newport News.

Professor To Lecture On Scotland And America

Andrew Dunnett Hook, senior lecturer in English at the University of Aberdeen, Scotland, will lecture on campus Monday, Nov. 3, on "Scotland and the American Revolution."

The public lecture, which is sponsored jointly by the English department and the Institute of Early American History and Culture, begins at 4 p.m. in the Botetourt Theatre of Swem Library.

Prior to joining the faculty at Aberdeen, Hook taught English and American Literature for several years at the University of Edinburgh. During 1966-67 he was visiting professor in the English department at Princeton University.

A native of Scotland, Hook received an M.A. degree from Edinburgh in 1954, graduating with first class honors in English. He received his Ph.D. from Princeton in 1960.

He has long been interested in literary and cultural relations between Scotland and America, having written his doctoral dissertation, a book and several articles on that topic.

Hook has also contributed to several books and written numerous articles and reviews in professional journals.

An international traveler and lecturer, he has published widely on a number of topics and is listed in Who's Who in America, Who's Who in the World, American Catholic Who's Who and the Dictionary of American Scholars.

Four Students Receive National SPE Awards

Four members of the College chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity have been awarded scholarships for the 1975-76 academic year.

Senior Steven Nelson, Lee Rettig and David Boor and junior John Haas are among 25 students selected in a nationwide competition of undergraduate juniors and seniors in Sigma Phi Epsilon. The awards, which range from $100 to $400, are funded by the fraternity's educational foundation.

Nelson, Rettig and Boor will receive senior-year awards of $400 each, while Haas will receive a $100 junior-year scholarship. The annual grants are awarded on the basis of financial need, leadership, scholarship and participation in fraternity, college and community activities.

All four of this year's recipients are business majors. Boor is a resident of Danville, while Nelson, Rettig and Haas are natives of Richmond.

Residence Head Resigns Post

John Hodges, director of College residences since 1973, has announced his resignation, effective Oct. 31.

Hodges cited health reasons for his decision.

A native of Williamsburg and a William and Mary graduate, Hodges is the son of the late Dean and Mrs. W.T. Hodges. He concluded a 31-year career in the Army with a three-year term as professor of military science and director of the ROTC program during 1969-72 at the College.

He is a member of the Sons of the American Revolution, is active in Kiwanis and serves on the vestry at Bruton Parish Church and on the City Planning Commission.

Hodges plans to enjoy his hobby of antique car restoring and to work on an 18th century home that he had moved to Williamsburg two years ago. Next spring he may look for a part-time job, he said.

New Counselor Offers Career Planning Information, Advice

Since the first week of classes this year, a steady stream of students has made its way into the career counseling office.

Harriet Reid, the new career counselor, was a little surprised at how early in the year the visits started and how steadily students have dropped in--but she was by no means caught unprepared.

Students visiting her office have found a growing library of graduate school and career materials. Catalogues for graduate study in theology, law, medicine, the arts and sciences and other fields have been amassed, as have pamphlets, books and directories describing numerous career possibilities, career planning, resume writing and job search information.

Ms. Reid hopes to have a fairly complete careers information center set up in James Blair by the end of the semester. Students will be free to study the literature there for career ideas.

She urges students and faculty members to suggest materials for the career library so that she can order them whenever possible.

Individual attention

Much of Ms. Reid's working day is devoted to individual counseling sessions. On a student's first visit with her, she tries to determine what the individual's needs are. On occasion she refers students to the Psychological Services or Placement offices, when she feels those offices are better suited to cope with that individual's needs.

"Career counseling," she explained, "is for the purpose of helping students to know their own career skills, talents and interests; what they want in life, and why, what career fields can help them find these goals and what they must know to enter and progress in these fields. Our goal is to help students propel themselves toward careers appropriate for them."

Group seminars

In addition to individual career counseling sessions, Ms. Reid's office conducts small group career development seminars. With the aid of Mary Lee Darling, a doctoral student in the School of Education; Karen Russell, secretary; and Ed Wine, a second year law student serving as pre-law advisor, Ms. Reid acquaints students with various career options. "Mainly we try to find out what a student is interested in--to discover his interests, talents and skills--and then see what's available in his field of interest," said Ms. Reid.

She also hopes to draw on area alumni as resource people. Students interested in a particular career possibility could get invaluable direction from alumni or others doing well in their fields, she feels. A few such contacts have already been arranged.

A number of speakers programs, career seminars and films will also supplement the library resources and counseling assistance. Reid has made arrangements for a number of business and academic representatives visiting campus for recruitment purposes to devote a special session to discussing careers in their fields.

A representative from Harvard spoke recently on his school's MBA program, for example, and arrangements have been made for a speaker for the upcoming Ferguson seminar to discuss careers in the publishing area.

Nathaniel Elliott, associate professor, was elected vice president of the Victorians Institute for the current academic year at the annual meeting of the Institute in Williamsburg, Oct. 11.

A definitive review by Professor David C. Jenkins of poet A.R. Ammons has been chosen for inclusion in Vol. 5 of the reference series Contemporary Literary Criticism. Originally written for the Spring, 1974, issue of Georgia Review, the article will appear in a semi-annual hardbound text which reviews 200 novelists, poets and playwrights.

HISTORY

Associate Professor Philip J. Funigiello recently served as editorial consultant for the University of Kansas Press.

He was invited to attend a lecture on Oct. 6 at the Museum of History and Technology, Smithsonian Institution. The lecture was "Banking and Commerce in the American Experience" by Professor Vincent P. Carosso of New York University.

On Oct. 16, Richard Maxwell Brown, Professor, delivered a lecture at Clemson University on "The Carolina Back Country in the American Revolution" in Clemson University's seven-part 1975-1976 American Revolution Bicentennial lecture series.

IEAHC

Thad W. Tate, director, was elected to membership in the American Antiquarian Society at its 163rd annual meeting, held recently in Worcester, Mass. He has also been named to the Council of the Society for the Study of the American Land, a newly-formed organization of historians and others interested in American environmental history.

MATHEMATICS

Assistant Professor John Drew presented a lecture entitled "Properties and Applications of the Conic Sections" at a meeting of the Greater Richmond Council of Teachers of Mathematics, held Oct. 1 at Benedictine High School in Richmond.

MODERN LANGUAGES

The Jan.-Aug. issue of Bilingual Review/Revista Bilingue contains an article by Howard Fraser, assistant professor, entitled "Languages in Contact: A Bibliographical Guide to Linguistic Borrowings between English and Spanish."

PHYSICS

The National Science Foundation has awarded supplementary support in the amount of $23,100 to the department for the project entitled "Experiments on the Interactions of Muons, Kaons, Antiprotons and Sigma Hyperons."

This brings the total amount awarded for the project, which expires May 31, 1976, to $178,100. Principal investigators are M. Eckhause, J.R. Kane, R.T. Siegel, and R.E. Welsh.

PRESIDENT'S OFFICE

Wesley C. Wilson, assistant, participated in a three day working retreat in Richmond, Oct. 8-10, as part of the Governor's Advisory Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity.

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

Associate professor Bob Maidment has signed a contract with Pelican Publishing Company, New Orleans, to produce his latest book, Robert's Rules of Disorder. The work, prepared for a general audience, describes organizational dysfunction. Robert's Rules was designed to serve as a sequel to Lawrence Peter's, The Peter Principle and Robert Townsend's, Up The Organization.

SOCIOLOGY

Michael A. Faia, associate professor, has been advised that two manuscripts have been accepted or publication: "Does Tenure Create Deadwood?" to appear in Improving College and University Teaching, and "Secularization and Scholarship Among American Professors" in Sociological Analysis.

R. Wayne Kernodle, professor, has been accepted for the NSF Chautauqua Short Course Sessions on Gerontology to be held at Mt. Holyoke College in October 1975 and April 1976.

Anthony L. Guenther, associate professor, is the author of "Compensations in a Total Institution: The Forms and Functions of Contraband", which appeared in the July 1975 issue of Crime and Delinquency. The paper was prepared under a semester Faculty Research Fellowship.

SWEM LIBRARY

Charles Reeder, head, Audio-Visual Department, visited on Oct. 15 the recently established Xerox International Center of Training and Management Development near Leesburg, Va., as a guest of Xerox. He received a briefing about Xerox's training philosophies and concepts of customer relations. Swem's Audio-Visual Department is responsible for the operation of the duplicating facilities in the library.

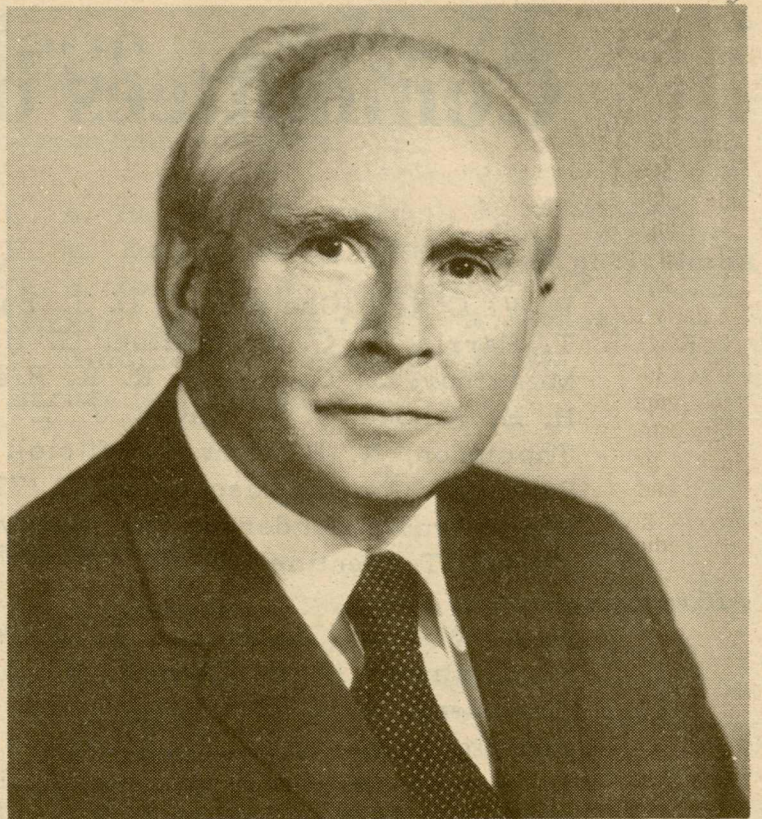

Robert L. Burr, circulation librarian, was recently notified of the acceptance of his paper "Toward a General Theory of Circulation" for publication in the University of Illinois Occasional Papers series sometime in 1976. The paper, based upon research conducted at Swem Library, was awarded first prize in the National Research Competition sponsored by the American Library Association this year. Mr. Burr read the paper at the ALA annual conference in July, 1975.

Course Ideas Requested

Paul N. Clem, director of Summer Sessions and the Evening College, is currently seeking proposals for courses to be offered in the 1976 Summer Sessions.

Since the "major objective of the William and Mary Summer Sessions is to offer courses most needed by the students," said Clem, "we would like very much to be made aware of these needs."

He encourages students and others interested in

Andre von Gronicka

Thomas Mann Lecture Set

Andre von Gronicka, professor of German and former department chairman at the University of Pennsylvania will be a Visiting Scholars lecturer here on Friday, Oct. 31.

Professor von Gronicka will speak on "Thomas Mann: The Champion of a New Humanism," at 8 p.m. in the Campus Center Little Theatre.

He has formerly served on the faculties of Kansas University, University of Chicago and Columbia University. He has been the recipient of two Guggenheim Fellowships, a Fulbright and Social Science Research Fellowship as well as a grant from the American Council of Learned Society.

Among his major publications are "The Russian Image of Goethe," and "Thomas Mann, Profile and Perspectives."

His host on campus will be Elsa Diduk, chairman of the modern languages department.

Bishop Madison Football Game Slated

The Intramural Field across from the fraternity complex will be the scene Sunday afternoon for the annual Bishop Madison Society — College Administration touch football game.

Kickoff time is 1 p.m. Coaches are Lawrence Beckhouse of the sociology department and S. Dean Olson, director of publications.

The well-oiled football machine of the Bishop Madison Society is once again rated as a heavy favorite to mow down the men from the administration. Last year's contest was won by the Society 20-6.

Administration players are not optimistic about their chances. "We expect to get beat and we haven't been disappointed yet," said Coach Olson.

A memo advised administration players to "Please bring a friend (if you have one). We can use all the help we can get. The one who brings the most friends gets to play quarterback."

IEAHC Sponsors Early America Conference

The Institute of Early American History is cosponsor, with the University of Michigan's Center for the Coordination of Ancient and Modern Studies, of a conference on "Classical Traditions in Early America." The conference, to be held at Ann Arbor Oct. 30-Nov. 1, will bring together some 32 scholars drawn from the fields of history, classical studies, literature and fine arts, for the discussion of papers presented by ten of the participants. A special appropriation from the University of Michigan and a matching grant from the RELM Foundation has provided the support for the meeting.

Thad W. Tate and Norman S. Fiering will represent the Institute at the conference, and Mr. Tate will preside at a session that includes papers devoted to the theme of classical influences on early American social and political thought.
