Black Culture Series Features Music, Drama

Nine different events will focus on "The Black Odyssey" during a two-week culture series sponsored by the Black Student Organization at the College of William and Mary.

Beginning Monday, Feb. 9, the Black Culture series will feature a noted Harvard psychologist, one of Broadway's hottest directors, and a varied agenda of dance, music and drama.

In the past only one week long, the Black Culture Series has been expanded this year to include a greater variety of events, according to BSO President Reggie Moore. The series was organized by former BSO President Willie Webb, who has arranged for most of the events to be open to the public without charge.

The Hampton Institute Players will present the one-act drama "Fay Grace" and two dramatic readings to kick-off the Black Culture series next Monday night. The performance is scheduled for 8:15 p.m. at Phi Beta Kappa auditorium.

On Tuesday, Feb. 10, Dr. Richard C. Hunter, superintendent of Richmond Public Schools, will speak on education and the black experience at 7:30 p.m. in the Campus Center ballroom. The Norfolk State College Jazz Ensemble will give a performance at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday night in PBK auditorium.

Dr. Alvin Pouissant, associate dean of students at Harvard Medical School and a noted lecturer on psychology, will speak at 7:30 p.m. Friday in Andrews Auditorium. Saturday night's "Boogie Concert," which features three dance bands, will begin at 8 p.m. in William and Mary Hall. Student tickets are $3.50 each and general admission tickets are $4.50 in advance and $5.50 at the door.

Geoffrey Holder, director and choreographer of Broadway's hit musical "The Wiz," will be featured as part of the William and Mary Theatre series at 8:15 p.m., Monday, Feb. 16, at PBK auditorium.

On Wednesday, Feb. 18, the Virginia Commonwealth University Black Awakening Gospel Choir will perform at 7:30 p.m. in the Campus Center Ballroom. The following night, members of William and Mary's Black Student Organization will present their own variety show focusing on "The Black Odyssey" theme to begin at 7:30 p.m. at Andrews Auditorium.

The Black Culture series will close Saturday night with the traditional BSO ball at the Hilton Inn on Richmond Road. Tickets are $5.00 each and can be purchased from any BSO member.

Volunteers and visiting dignitaries were the order of the day here last week. Mrs. Mills E. Godwin (center), honorary chairman of the "Volunteer Virginia" program, was welcomed by President and Mrs. Graves at a statewide conference on volunteerism held on campus Friday and Saturday. Carter Lowance, special assistant to the Governor and acting state secretary of education, and Wyatt B. Durette Jr. of Fairfax, a member of the Virginia House of Delegates were featured speakers. Meanwhile, other College volunteers were busy assisting with preparations for President Ford's visit to Williamsburg on Saturday. (See story, Page 2.)

Project Plus To Focus On City

The City in History and Contemporary Life — the Project Plus theme for 1976-77 — holds promise of being one of the most stimulating areas yet explored by Project members.

The Project, now in its fourth year, is an academic and residential program open to 84 students in the freshman, sophomore and junior classes. Application forms, which are due Monday, Feb. 9, are available at Project Plus, located in Botetourt Residence 4, Unit 7, and from Carlyle Beyer, director of Honors and Experimental Programs, in 310 Morton Hall.

Beyer sees numerous possibilities for study based on the urban theme. Student tutorials or the public forum series could deal with such topics as busing, the architectural aspects of cities, the image of the city in literature, the question of whether the city can survive, planned communities as alternative to city living.

He emphasizes that "both the sciences and the humanities will have a role in the study." Where the historian may be interested in major cities in the past, Beyer explained, the sociologist might focus on differences in city, country and suburban life styles and the scientist may be concerned with how technology can deal with pollution in industrial cities.

The exciting things about Project Plus, Beyer believes, is the opportunity for students "to approach areas of study where knowledge is limited and speculation begins. You don't have to be a major to benefit from the program. A student with curiosity and an interdisciplinary bent can profit from and react to the very best of minds."

Beyer summarized his idea of the 1976-77 theme as an attempt "to understand the culture of the cities, and thereby ourselves, to clarify our thinking as to what the alternatives are, and to determine which alternatives are viable."

Bruce Chosen to Head Alumni Society Board

Jean Canoles Bruce '49 will lead the Board of Directors of the Society of the Alumni for the coming year.

A resident of Norfolk, Mrs. Bruce was elected president at the Society's meeting here Jan. 23. She succeeds Colin R. "Randy" Davis '50, Suffolk, who is retiring from the Board after serving as president for four years — longer than any other president since the Society was founded in 1842.

Mrs. Bruce was secretary-treasurer of the Society for two years, was a member of the Fiscal, Planning and Personnel Committee, and chaired the College Relations Committee.

John F. Morton Jr. '58, New Orleans, was re-elected vice-president of the Board, while Mrs. Harriet Nachman Storm '64, Hampton, will succeed Mrs. Bruce as secretary-treasurer.

At a joint dinner of the Alumni Board and the Board of Visitors, members of the two boards were each presented Bicentennial medallions commissioned and struck by the Society of the Alumni.

Carl A. "Pappy" Fehr, chancellor professor of music, emeritus; Harold L. Fowler, professor of history, emeritus; W. Melville Jones, chancellor professor of English, emeritus; and Ben L. Carnevale, director of athletics, also received medallions.

Steps Taken To Prevent Asbestos Hazard

Although the buildings on campus tested for asbestos pollution were cleared by the Bureau of Industrial Hygiene of the State Health Department the College has planned several steps to insure that a health hazard will not develop in the future.

"Because of incompleteness of present research in this field, the College will continue its efforts to monitor air quality and encourage the efforts of the Science Faculties to participate in this continuing research," said Vice President for Business Affairs William J. Carter.

Carter explained that, "Because of some asbestos content in the sprayed insulation materials existing, the protective procedures specified by the Bureau of Industrial Hygiene will be used for maintenance or repair work in which these materials are disturbed."

As an additional precautionary measure, the College will refurbish and seal the Adair Natatorium ceiling, the only installation where sprayed material containing asbestos is exposed.

Scholarship Deadline Approaches

Applications are due Feb. 13 for the College-sponsored exchange scholarships at the Universities of Exeter and St. Andrews in Great Britain in 1976-77 as well as for junior year abroad programs at these schools.

Seven to ten students may be admitted to the junior year at Exeter program, and one religion-oriented junior or senior may attend St. Mary's College, the divinity school of St. Andrews.

There is no limitation on the study programs for the exchange scholarships; students in the junior year at Exeter program are expected to take three English courses and two electives.

There will be an information meeting for interested students on Wednesday, Feb. 4, at 4 p.m. in the Campus Center, room C.

Application information is available from Professor Cecil McCulley, Lodge 12.

Print Workshop

The Botetourt Bibliographical Society will sponsor a printing workshop for all interested members of the College community at 2:30 p.m., Friday, Feb. 6, in the printing room of Swem Library.

The workshop will feature a demonstration of how to operate the College's hand printing press, and participants will be encouraged to start projects to be completed later this semester.

Students Work For, Meet Ford

Ken Smith's office was a hectic place last week. As director of student activities, he was busy preparing for the statewide conference on volunteerism, held Jan. 30-31 on campus.

It seemed appropriate that his office was the one contacted by the Governor's office to arrange for volunteers to work as secretaries and drivers in conjunction with President Ford's scheduled visit.

Four skilled secretaries were needed to work with the White House advance staff. On Monday Gayle Yamada '76, Arlington, head of the Honor Council, and Susan Gray '76, Norfolk, joined Leta Bailey, secretary to the State Coordinator on Volunteerism in Richmond, and Irma Lee King, a hostess for Colonial Williamsburg, for a briefing. Tuesday the four assumed their duties in the temporary White House advance staff office in the Lodge.

Susan Gray, who works part time in the Residence Hall Life office, explained that much of their work was routine. "The setup was the same as in any office — just the equipment was a little different." Walkie talkies and a Dex machine for sending messages to the White House were the notable differences.

In March the schedule is: "Theodore Gericault, John Constable," Mar. 3, Andrews Hall; "Joseph Mallord, William Turner," Mar. 17, Andrews Hall, 4 p.m.; Washington 100, 8 p.m.; "Eugene Delacroix, Jean-Francois Millet," Mar. 24, Andrews Hall, 4 p.m., Milling Hall, 8 p.m.; "Auguste Rodin, Edgar Degas," Mar. 31, Andrews Hall, both showings.

Efficiency and attention to detail characterized the operation of the office, according to Gray. "We were busy, but everything went very smoothly," she said.

The four received pens inscribed with President Ford's name, bracelets with the presidential seal and also had their picture taken with Ford.

Other William and Mary volunteers drove cars in the presidential motorcade on Saturday. They were Ralph English '76, treasurer for the Student Association; Mike Valois, a law student and activities supervisor at the Campus Center; Tom Nanzig, area coordinator for DuPont and Yates; Jeff Elinsky '77, William and Mary choir members sang at the close of the dinner Saturday evening, which was attended by President Ford, Governor and Mrs. Godwin and numerous state officials, as well as President and Mrs. Graves and a number of College officials.

Ford evidently enjoyed the performance. After the dinner he spoke informally with choir members in the lobby of the Lodge, and, at his request, the choir sang William and Mary's "Alma Mater."

Earlier in the day another group of students had also drawn an appreciative response from the President during the procession down Duke of Gloucester Street. The students greeted Ford with a "Stumble for U.S. Gerry" sign.
