Admissions Reduced For Entering Students

William and Mary will reduce slightly the size of its freshman class this fall and lower the number of transfer students it can take.

The Admissions Office mailed letters of acceptance last week for the 1020 freshman and 86 transfer places available this fall.

These figures indicate a slight drop in the size of the freshman class from last year, when there were 1059 freshman enrolled and the number of transfers was 227.

According to Robert P. Hunt, Dean of Admissions, requests for admission continue to be far in excess of capacity. To date, his office has received 4,790 applications for the freshman class and 674 requests from transfer students for admittance in September 1976.

The slight reduction in the 1976 entering freshman class, and the smaller number of transfer students accepted, are the result of the College's effort to bring its total undergraduate enrollments more nearly in line with projections approved by the State Council of Higher Education, explained Hunt.

George R. Healy, vice president for academic affairs, said that in recent years the College has enrolled considerably more students than it projects, in order to be "as responsive as possible to sustained heavy demand for admission." He noted, however, that the budget bill passed by the 1976 General Assembly tends to penalize colleges and universities which enroll beyond previously approved projections. Under the new bill, the revenues generated by the additional tuitions are withheld from institutional use.

The reductions planned in the number of freshman and transfer students next year will not be large enough to bring the College's total enrollments down to the size projected and funded, said Healy.

To accomplish that in one year, he said, would require a dramatic decrease in the 1976 entering class and a virtual prohibition of transfer students. This would not be desirable, he explained, because the College wishes to remain as responsive to the demand for admission as funding allows. One seriously disproportionately sized class would also present difficult curricular and staffing problems.

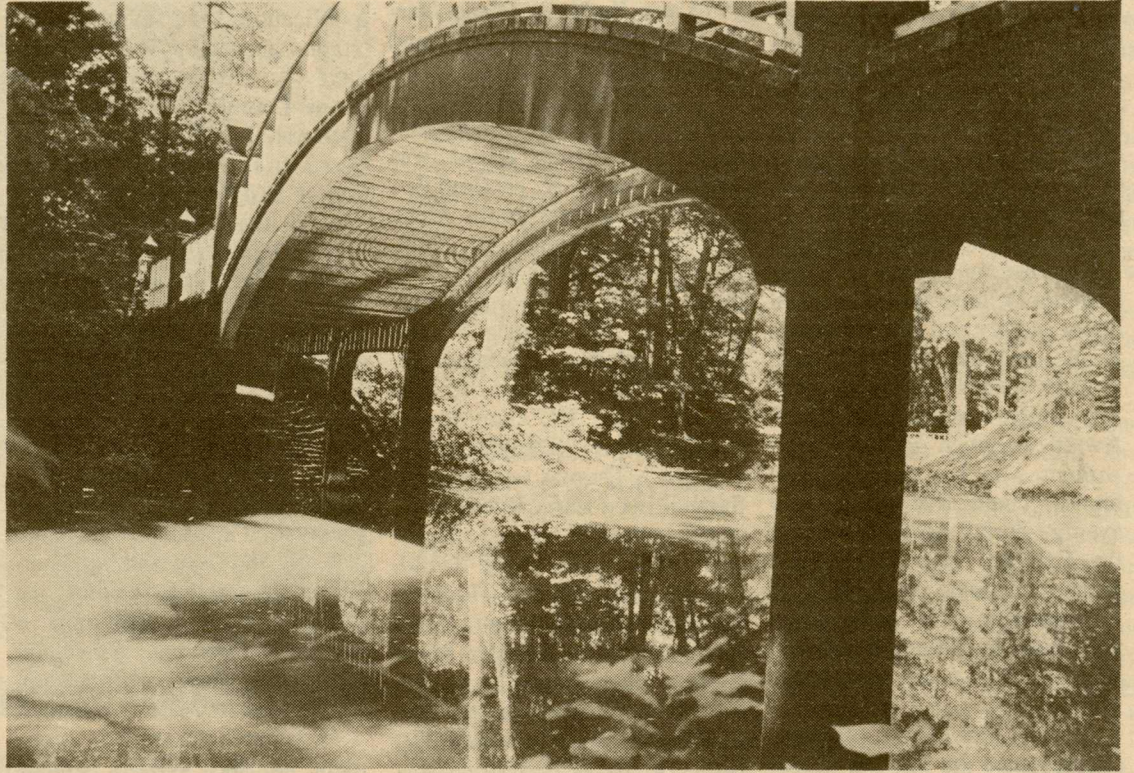

Kyd's 'Spanish Tragedy' Concludes Theatre Season

"A bloody good show" is what director J. H. Bledsoe is aiming for in the upcoming William and Mary Theatre production.

Thomas Kyd's melodrama "The Spanish Tragedy" will be performed April 14-17 at 8:15 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

The tragedy's "complex story of horrible murders and spectacular revenge made this the single most popular play of the Elizabethan Age," said Bledsoe. "Kyd was evidently striving to satisfy the Elizabethan sanguinary taste when he composed the famous thriller in 1586."

The production will be one of the first times the play has been performed in the United States, he noted.

Faculty Receive Research Grants

Nine faculty members will receive Faculty Research Fellowships during the 1976-77 academic year and twenty will be awarded Summer Research Grants for this summer.

Two of the fellowships have been designated the J. Bruce Bredin Awards. Professor of history Richard M. Brown and Associate Professor of Law Michael T. Madison have been selected award recipients, made possible through a gift of J. Bruce Bredin, president of the Bredin Foundation, Wilmington Del. Mr. Bredin, a member of the class of 36, is a member of the Board of Visitors.

Brown's research is entitled "American Violence in Comparative Perspective: England, France, Canada, Australia, and the United States." Madison will research the topic "Federal Assistance to and Regulation of Real Estate Financing."

Other Faculty Research Fellowship designates during the coming year include: Eric L.

Bradley, biology, "Studies on the Relationship of Stress to Reproductive Inhibition"; Stephen B. Brush, anthropology, "Green Revolution in Potatoes: The Peasant Response"; John W. Conlee, English, "A Critical

April 10 Symposium Views Women and Law

The Mary and William Law Society, along with women's groups from the law schools at the University of Richmond and the University of Virginia, is sponsoring a symposium on women and the law Saturday, April 10, from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law.

Detective Ann Bourdo of the Newport News Police Department Gammeil Poindexter, Commonwealth's Attorney for Surry County, and Sheila Tonihka, an ex-convict, will lead a panel discussion at 10 a.m. on "It All Depends Upon Your Point of View." They will also field questions on women and criminal law.

Elaine Major, co-director of the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) Women's Rights Project will discuss representing plaintiffs in sex discrimination cases at 11:15 a.m.

Keynote speaker Ann Jones, director of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) division of investment regulation will speak on "From Secretary to Division Director: Some Personal Reflections" at the luncheon in the Wren Building.

Afternoon workshops will provide information on entering law school and on careers in the law.

The public is invited to attend all of the sessions at no charge. Those who wish to attend the luncheon should pre-register and pay the $4 fee today. For information, call Ingrid Hillinger, at 595-5793, or write her at 12 Heather Lane, Newport News.

Venetian Art Is Lecture Topic On Wednesday

Artist and art historian Philipp Fehl will discuss "Gods and Harlequins in Venetian Art" Wednesday, April 7, at 8 p.m. in Andrews Room 101.

Fehl is a member of the Department of Art and Design at the University of Illinois, Champaign, Urbana. His "capricci" which he calls "nonsense drawings that make sense" have been exhibited in several one-man shows and are frequently reproduced in journals. Fehl has also published two books of drawings, "Capricci" (1971) and "The Bird" (1970).

Her visit to the campus is sponsored by the department of fine arts.

Bilyeu and Smetana

Cello Recital Thursday

Frantisek Smetana will present a faculty recital Thursday, April 8, at 8:15 p.m. in the Campus Center Ballroom. The public is cordially invited to attend.

His program will include Paul Dorsam's Sonata for Cello and Piano in F sharp, Carrier's Quintaped for Cello and Tape, Kirak's Three Pieces for Cello and Piano and Martino's Sonata No. 3 for Cello and Piano. Smetana will be accompanied at the piano by Landon Bilyeu.

A member of William and Mary's music department since 1974, Smetana is a native of Czechoslovakia. He presented his first cello recital at the age of 10. He has studied in Prague and in Paris, and has received diplomas from the Prague Conservatory and the Ecole Normale de Musique.

Landon Bilyeu is a member of the VCU faculty and has performed as soloist with orchestras throughout the United States. A composer as well, he has written more than 24 compositions.

Convocation Recognizes Student Achievements

Nearly 400 students were recognized for outstanding scholarship, and other special achievements at the Spring Honors Convocation held last night in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

R. Wayne Kernodle, professor of sociology and recipient of the 1976 Thomas Jefferson Award, was principal speaker.

James C. Livingston, dean of the undergraduate program, presided and introduced presenters of the evening's academic, leadership and service awards.

Awards for Scholarship

Presentation of the Alpha Lambda Delta women's national honor society and Phi Eta Sigma men's national honor society awards opened the ceremonies. The Alpha Lambda Delta Book Award is given to the senior woman who has compiled the highest cumulative grade point average during her four years at the College. This year's recipient is Cynthia W. Castle of Williamsburg. The presentation was made by Sharon F. Suchy, vice president of the honor society.

John G. Strickler Jr. of Roanoke received the Phi Eta Sigma Award, which is presented annually to the sophomore man with the highest quality grade point average for his first three semesters at William and Mary. Joseph J. Brennan, president, presented the award.

Business Society

Members-elect of Beta Gamma Sigma business honor society were introduced by James E. Smith, associate dean for undergraduate studies in the School of Business Administration.

Senior members-elect are David Andrew Boor, Barry Coleman Curtis, Steven Jeffrey Handzel, Stephen Andre Lambert, Clyde Shaw Laushey, III, Andrea Marie Murowski, Colleen Blanche Rodman, Helen Jane Ryan and Gerard Joseph White.

Initiates from the class of 1977 are Kathleen Diane Durdin, Winfred Eddins, Jr. and Eleanor Hening Scardami.

Phi Beta Kappa

The presentation of members-elect of Phi Beta Kappa was made by James N. McCord Jr., recording secretary for the Alpha of Virginia chapter of PBK. Members-elect include: Paul Jerome Abbott, Jr. George Robert Boyer, Jr. Jill Belinda Brown, Herman Wallace Brubaker, Jr. Edwin Scott Castle, Roscoe Thomas Cox, III, Gary Ewing Crickenberger, Douglas Alan Dempsey, Thomas Lee Driscoll, Samuel Leon Earp, Robert Dabney Eastham, Lenora J. Genovese and Lynda Anne Guild.

Also, Rebecca Ann Huddleston, John Noble Iurino, Carol Taylor Johnson, Jennifer Marie Kaiser, James Carl Klagge, Susan Mary Maclure, Pamela Ann Matthews, Peter Thomas Mellis, Kenneth Dean Peterson, Jr., Brian Walter Pusch, Mary Alice Coffroth Russell and Karen Lee Ryer.

Also, Ann Marie Scanlon, Jeffrey Matthew Sconyers, John Philip Skibiak, Kenneth Mark Stahl, Alan O'Neil Sykes, Luther Kent Thompson, Huyen Dinh Tran, Grady Spurgeon Wann, Charles Akira Wilkes, Nancy Brent Wingo, Susan Claire Yates and Donald Louis Zuckerman.

Phi Beta Kappa, the oldest Greek letter fraternity in the United States, was founded at William and Mary in 1776.

Selection of members is based on scholarship.

Media Heads Named

Athletic Awards

The Athletic Educational Foundation award is given annually to the outstanding intercollegiate athlete among the senior men. Consideration is given to character, leadership, scholarship and sportmanship, as well as to athletic prowess.

G. Elliott Schaubach Jr., president of the W&M Athletic Educational Foundation Inc., presented this year's award to Murray A. Collins III of Hampton. Collins has represented William and Mary on a national level in track meets during all four years at the College. In 1975 he was captain of the cross country track team and this year has headed the indoor/outdoor track team.

The L. Tucker Jones award for the outstanding senior in the intramural programs was given to Jeanne Mershon of Springfield, Va. Consideration in making the award is given to qualities of leadership, high ideals, and scholastic standing. Mershon is a physical education major, is president of the Women's Recreation Association, and has been active in athletics during her entire undergraduate career. The prize is supported by the L. Tucker Jones Memorial Fund. Jack D. Edwards, dean of the faculty of arts and sciences made the presentation.

Mann Scholarship

For the second year in a row, James F. Redington, a junior from Hackensack, N.J., has been selected recipient of the Glenn D. Mann Scholarship. A physics major, Redington received the award for his active dedication to the Williamsburg Volunteer Fire Department and the Red Cross blood bank. He has completed paramedical training, is a member of the College orchestra and is president of the William and Mary Sport Parachute Club.

The Mann award, which was presented by W. Samuel Sadler, dean of students, recognizes outstanding involvement in civic affairs in the city of Williamsburg.

Mortar Board

Cathy A. Collins, president of Mortar Board woman's honorary society, announced the outstanding sophomore award recipient, gave special recognition to several seniors and named the members-elect of Mortar Board, chosen from the rising senior class.

The outstanding sophomore is selected for having made the greatest contribution to the College thus far in her career. This year's recipient is Ellen A. Gastoukian of Springfield, Va. As a freshman she served as a Student Association representative and this year is a resident advisor in Stith residence hall.

Outstanding seniors are not members of Mortar Board but are chosen on the basis of their exceptional contributions to the College and community. They include: Jane Elizabeth Barret, Mary Paige Eversole, Frances Margaret Ferguson, Judy Marie Gerald, Nancy Lee Hadlock and Rae Ann Lindberg.

Also, Sherry Ann Lupton, Elizabeth Bruce Malone, Margaret Ruth Moler, Katherine Oakes Richter, Carol Anne Rogig, Jean Elizabeth Sanders and Jane Elizabeth Statler.

Omicron Delta Kappa

John F. Weiner, president of Omicron Delta Kappa, presented the J. Wilfred Lambert Leadership Award and announced new members of ODK.

David Nass Jr., a sophomore from Plantation, Fla., was named recipient of the leadership award. He was honored for his contributions as a resident advisor and president of Yates Hall and as chairman of the Student Association finance committee.

F.H.C. Society

New on this year's program was the presentation of new members of the F.H.C. Society, which is dedicated to the preservation and continuation of the traditions of the College.

The Society, believed to be the first college fraternal organization in the United States, was founded at the College in 1750.

Congratulations to award winners and closing remarks from President Graves capped the evening ceremonies.

(The names of other award recipients and honor society initiates will be carried in next week's W&M News.)

"DIAL-A-RIDE"

A group of students is attempting to coordinate a "Dial-a-Ride" service for the College. Those seeking rides or riders for travel out of town may call Ext. 423, Mondays through Thursdays, from 5-7 p.m. for assistance.

Faculty Members Awarded Grants

Publications Office, production News, photographs and advertisements should be sent to the News Office, 308 Old Rogers Hall. Calendar items should be sent to Ken Smith, keeper of the College calendar, at the Campus Center.

The deadline for all submissions is Wednesday at 5 p.m. for publication the following Tuesday.

Waller Named Director Of Grants, Research

Dennis G. Waller, 32, has been named director for Grants and Research Contracts in the Development Office.

Waller fills the position left vacant when Wesley Wilson was appointed assistant to the president last July.

Waller, who assumed his new duties on campus March 16, will assist faculty and other members of the College staff to obtain federal support for research and instructional program development. He will also be responsible for the fiscal administration of all federal grant and contract accounts.

He may be reached at 314-B Old Rogers Hall, Ext. 563.

Before joining the William and Mary staff, Waller was an administrator in the Division of Infectious Diseases at the Medical College of Virginia, a post he held for two years. Previously, he was assistant director of unit management at MCV.

During his undergraduate study at the University of Virginia, Waller spent a year studying economics and business at the London School of Economics. He holds a masters degree in history from Duke University, pursued historical research at Christ Church, Oxford, England, and has taken courses in accounting at the Virginia Commonwealth University Business School.

Cows on Campus Recreated

"Just being here on hallowed ground/Where trod the feet of men renowned/Whose greatness dwarfs our statesmen now/Makes me content to milk a cow." The poem by State Secretary of Commerce and Natural Resources Earl Shiflett was fitting for the day--April Fool's--and the scene--Cows on Campus. The secretary and his wife joined President Graves in the Wren Yard April 1, where Shiflett and Graves did indeed milk the cow. President Graves told an amused audience of students, employees and tourists that he had been prompted to bring cows back to the campus after reading Parke Rouse's book about early William and Mary, "Cows on the Campus." The cover on Rouse's book is based on a watercolor of the Wren Yard by 18th century William and Mary professor John Millington.

German Gymnasts Compete Here

The William and Mary varsity men's gymnastics team will host the touring West German KTG-Osnabruck team in an exhibitional competition Wednesday, April 14 at 7 p.m. at William and Mary Hall.

Advance tickets, available at the William and Mary Hall box office, are $2 for adults and $1 for students, with children under six free. At the door, tickets will cost fifty cents more except those for William and Mary students. Funds raised from this meet will be used to finance a new floor exercise mat for the men's and women's gymnastics teams.

Before joining the German championship team, several of the KTG gymnasts were members of the West German Youth national team. William and Mary coach Cliff Gauthier, who was selected the 1976 Southern Gymnastics Coach of the Year, considers this meet to be "undoubtedly the finest gymnastics to come to Virginia in quite some time."

Gauthier's gymnastics squad recently finished its regular season. The team made a surprise showing in the Southern Championships, placing third, and was edged out of second place by under three points by the University of Georgia Bulldogs. From this Southern Championship meet, one William and Mary gymnast qualified for the NCAA Championships at Temple University--freshman Mason Tokarz of Richmond, who placed third on the vaulting event. Four other William and Mary gymnasts were southern finalists: Senior Bob Gessner of Massillon, Ohio, ninth on floor exercise; senior James Harbert of Heathsville, ninth on pommel horse; sophomore Jeff Mayer of Wayne, Pa., seventh on horizontal bar; and co-captain Glen Willsey a senior from Cherry Hill, N.J., fifth on rings. For graduating seniors Gessner, Harbert, and Willsey as well as Steve Handzel of West Chester, Pa., Phil Oosthoek, of Arlington, and Dan Russell of Arlington, this West German meet marks the end of collegiate gymnastics competition.

Senior James Harbert will be among those competing in the April 14 exhibition gymnastics meet in William and Mary Hall.

Lake Matoaka Is Setting For Music, Craft Exhibit

Crafts with "the natural look" will be featured in the second showing of The Floating Gallery next weekend at the Lake Matoaka shelter.

The Floating Gallery is an exhibition of local arts and crafts that occurs about every five months and is not confined to a formal gallery setting. The current showing will take place Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. -5 p.m. in the natural surroundings of Lake Matoaka.

The display of local work will include pottery by John Amer-son, musical instruments by Marcus Hansen, hammocks by Bill Griffith, basketry by Sandy Rosar and textiles by Joan Wol-bier.

An interlude of song, dance and poetry has been scheduled from 1 p.m.-4 p.m. Saturday as part of the "celebration of crafts and music." Featured performers are musicians Gene Spencer, Kevin Crowe, Dan Johnson, Frank Thornton and John Keating; musical groups Raphael and the Thursday Consort; poet George Goode; dancer Diane Hull; and the "Pantomime" players from Richmond. In the case of rain, the entertainment will be postponed until Sunday afternoon.

Marlene Jack, fine arts instructor, is coordinating the showing. She said that, like all showings of The Floating Gallery, the Matoaka display will seek "to give the artist an opportunity to communicate ideas, in a visual form, to others." Jack hopes that future showings will be set in a variety of unusual locations, including a greenhouse.

Concerts, Talks Highlight Music Society Meeting

The Music Department will be host to a meeting of the Southeast chapter of the American Musicological Society, April 9-10. Papers and concerts will be presented on different areas of American music, both present and past. Among the speakers will be H. Earle Johnson, visiting professor of music at William and Mary, who will give a paper entitled, "Who is The American Composer?"

The meetings will be held in the Little Theatre of the Campus Center. The public is cordially invited to attend any or all of the sessions. A detailed program is available in the Music Department Office, 106 Ewell Hall, Ext. 230.

ARTS FESTIVAL

The Student Association and Student Affairs Office are sponsoring a Festival of the Arts on Saturday, April 10, from 12 noon-until 4 p.m. in the Sunken Garden.

Faculty, staff and students are invited to display and sell their arts and crafts. Entry blanks are available at the Campus Center Desk and must be completed by 5 p.m. on Wednesday, April 7. The fee is $.50.

In case of rain, the festival will be moved to the Campus Center.

DAYCARE SURVEY

A committee has been formed in conjunction with the College's Help Unlimited office to survey the Williamsburg area concerning the need for additional daycare facilities for the community.

Questionnaires have been prepared, and volunteers are needed to distribute the forms to local businesses and civic groups. It is anticipated that results will be used to prepare requests for state, local and private funds to finance the needed facilities.

Members of the College community interested in assisting should call Joey Jacoby, project coordinator for Help Unlimited, at Ext. 551.

Chairs, Silver Among Recent Gifts to W&M

Two finely carved Chinese audience chairs and a pair of silver baskets, once the property of the John Marshall household, were recently donated to the College art collection.

The 16th or 17th century Chinese chairs, which have their original caned seats, are a gift to the College by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lamberson of New York. Mr. Lamberson has also donated to the College Collection several paintings and lithographs by contemporary Israeli artist Nissan Engel and an ancient Islamic bowl.

The gift of John Marshall silver, which also includes a small silver candlestick, was made by the estate of Mrs. Ruth M. Hogue. Mrs. Hogue was the wife of Andrew O'Beirne Hogue, a great great grandson of John Marshall. A native of Athens, Ga., Mrs. Hogue lived in West Virginia, where her husband was in the coal business.

The beautifully carved Chinese chairs and the antique silver are on display in the President's House.
