Newport News Councilwoman To Speak

Observance Here Friday Honors Martin Luther King

An address by Newport News City Councilwoman Jessie Rattley will highlight the Martin Luther King Day observance April 23 at the College.

Mrs. Rattley will speak at 2 p.m. Friday in Phi Beta Kappa Hall. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Her audience will include minority students who will enter as freshmen in September, and their parents, who have been invited to campus that day to meet with faculty and administrators and tour college facilities.

King Scholarship

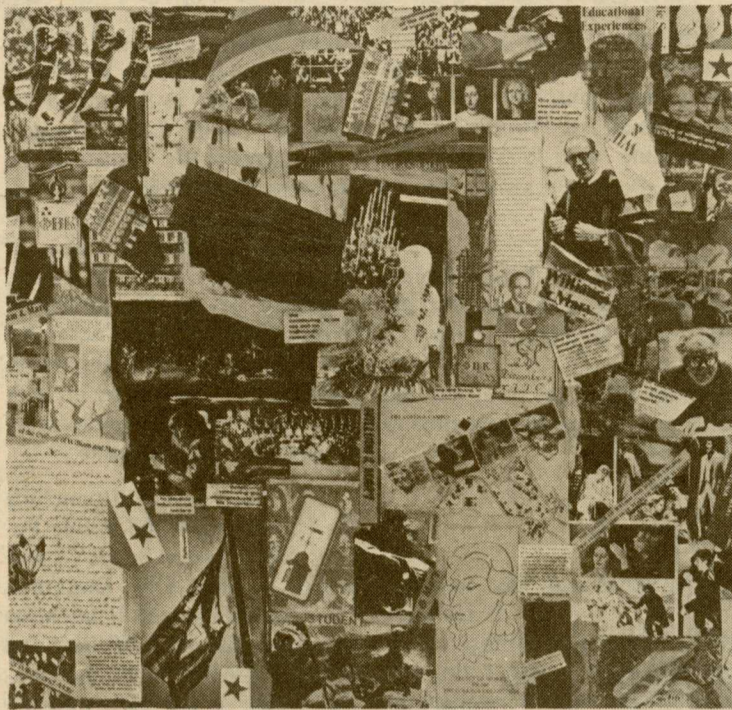

Twenty one of the entering minority students have been awarded the College's Martin Luther King Scholarship. They are: Karen M. Anderson, Marlow Heights, Md.; Mrs. Lelia P. Archer, Langley Air Force Base; Michael Bell, Charlottesville; Kevin L. Billups, Daryl C. Dennis and Duane Thomas Smoot, all of Baltimore; Cheryl Renee Davis and Christopher Goodin, Bronx, N.Y.; Maria R. Green, Arlington; and Debbie Louise Holland, Ettrick.

Also Jerma Jackson and

James Gregory Spry Newport News; Thomas James, Hampton; Carla Lipford, Concord; Vickie C. Marshall, Martinsville; Barbara Renee Matthews, Annandale; Phyllis A. Terrell, Fredericksburg; Carolyn O. Tillman, Doswell; Mary Diane Whitfield, Bena; and Rodney Lee Williams, Petersburg.

Faculty Established Fund

The scholarship fund was established by the faculty of arts and sciences in 1968 following the assassination of Martin Luther King to commemorate his achievements and to show the faculty's commitment to attracting minority students to William and Mary. The award is based on both academic and extra-curricular contributions and on potential for further contributions.

A collage of materials relating to William and Mary will be among the works by New York artist Gertrude Perrin exhibited in Andrews Gallery, April 21 to May 16. The exhibition is open to the public Mondays through Fridays, 10 a.m.-4 p.m., and Sundays from 1-4 p.m.

Students "Meet the Presidents"

Corporate executives from across the country will bring the "real" world of business into the classroom this Thursday when the School of Business Administration sponsors its third annual "Meet the Presidents

Day."

The business executives will join about 200 students and 20 professors in round-table discussion focusing on five topics: government regulation of business, business responsibility to society, consumerism in advertising, multi-national corporations, and productivity as the key to business success.

"We're trying to bring the academic world and the business world in tune with each other by providing as much interplay between students, faculty and executives as possible," explained Ken Grebenstein, president of the MBA Association.

Business executives scheduled to attend the day-long program include David L. Pebbles, president of Ferguson Enterprises; Jerry T. Faubion, former president of Dow Badische; Sydney Lewis, president of Best Products; W.L. Miron, president of the Bendix Corporation; J. Paul Sticht, president of R.J. Reynolds; W. Gordon Binns, Jr., assistant treasurer of General Motors; E.A. Martin, president of Uniroyal International; William R. Battle, president of Shenandoah Life Insurance Company; J. Richard Carling, Senior Vice President of Metropolitan National Bank; and Denys Grant, vice president for manpower development of First and Merchants.

Others are T. Parker Host, Sr., president of T. Parker Host Inc.; J. Thomas Vaughan, president of First and Merchants National Bank of the Peninsula; W.H. Burnap, vice chairman of Continental Oil Company; Gerald M. Wolberg of the Everfresh Juice Company; E. Douglas Kenna, president of the National Association of Manufacturers; Charles H. Taylor, president of the Virginia Manufacturers Association; Graydon C. Essman, former chairman of Degna Proprietary Limited; Charles D. Tandy, chair-

Truesdell Dedicates Recital To Two Music Organizations

Frederick Donald Truesdell will present a faculty piano recital on Sunday, April 25, at 8:15 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Auditorium. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Truesdell's program will open with Norman Dello Joio's Piano Sonata No. 3. Truesdell will also perform Piano Sonata No. 3 by Ross Lee Finney and Louise Talma's Piano Sonata No. 1. Samuel Barber's Piano Sonata, Opus 26, will conclude the program.

Professor of music at William and Mary and former department head, Truesdell earned degrees at Michigan and Rochester Universities. He dedicates his program Sunday to two music organizations that through the years have worked to promote American music, Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia music fraternity and the Music Teachers National Association.

The College's Nu Sigma chapter of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia received its charter on April 25, 1965, and Professor Truesdell has served as the faculty advisor since that time. The Music Teachers National Association was founded on April 25, 1876, and he is immediate past president of the organization's state chapter.

Truesdell is also faculty advisor for Delta Tau chapter of Delta Omicron music society and a member of the American Musicological Society and Pi Kappa Lambda.

Evening Of Tudor Music, Drama Set

On Tuesday and Thursday nights, April 20 and 22, two performing groups composed of Project Plus students will present "An Evening of Tudor Entertainment: Music and Drama," at 8 p.m. in the Great Hall of the Wren Building.

The program will begin with a selection of Renaissance madrigals sung by the Project Plus Madrigal Singers, directed by James P. Keena. A variety of instrumental pieces of the period will be performed by the Peninsula Recorder Society under the direction of May B. Daw.

After a short intermission, the evening will conclude with its major presentation, the Williamsburg premiere of John Redford's The Play of Wit and Science. This Humanist morality play, written about 1535, provides an amusing and vivid sketch of the student who strives for knowledge. In the play's allegory, the student is represented as a young man, Wit, who seeks marriage with a beautiful young lady, Science, who represents knowledge. In order to win her hand, he must slay her enemy, the terrible giant Tediousness.

The Project Plus performance attempts to preserve most of the early Renaissance flavor of the play. The language has been altered very little, the songs and dances have been adapted from historical models, and the costumes convey both a hint of each character's essential nature and the age in which the play was written. Even in the assignment of roles, the performance follows the Tudor practice of doubling: twenty parts are divided among thirteen actors, some of whom portray as many as three roles.

The students in the play have studied the development of the English morality play this semester in a Project Plus tutorial taught by Carl P. Daw of the English department, who will direct the performance. There will be no admission charge.

Downing Discusses New Law

First District Congressman Thomas N. Downing will speak on campus Thursday, April 22, at 2 p.m. in the Sit 'n Bull Room of the Campus Center.

Downing will discuss "The 200 Mile Limit for Fisheries Jurisdiction" with students in the seminar on the Environment and International Law at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law. Interested persons are cordially invited to attend.

The U.S. Congress passed legislation this year to extend the United States' fishing jurisdiction to 200 miles. Downing was one of the bill's sponsors and is expected to comment both on the legislation and on the problems of fisheries in general.

A reception, sponsored by the International Law Society at Marshall-Wythe, will follow Downing's talk.

Campus Wrap-Up

Literary Prize Offered

Entries are now being received for the annual Tiberius Gracchus Jones literary prize, a cash award given by the College for the best piece of student writing submitted. Any undergraduate may offer one or more pieces--story, poem, play, or essay--to Professor Cecil McCulley in Lodge 12 by the deadline date of April 30.

Lecture on CW Research

Edward M. Riley, director of research for Colonial Williamsburg, will give an illustrated lecture entitled "Documentation for the Restoration," April 22 at 8:15 p.m. in the Botetourt Theatre of Swem Library.

Riley's lecture will be the final program of the year for the Botetourt Bibliographical Society. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Circle K Open House

The Circle K Club will have an open house with free beer and other refreshments on Wednesday, April 21, at 8 p.m. All members of the College community are invited to come see the cottage which serves as Circle K's office. Refreshments will be served, slides will be shown and members and project chairmen will be available to answer questions about the club. Several of the children with whom Circle K works will be special guests.

The open house will follow Circle K's regular Wednesday night meeting at 7 p.m., and interested persons are invited to also attend the meeting.

The Circle K Cottage is located at 208 South Boundary St., three houses down from Hunt Residence Hall.

Swem Seeks Catalog Copies

Swem Library would like several copies of two college publications to fill gaps in the documents collection. Members of the College community with copies of either the School of Business Administration catalog for 1973-74 or the Evening College extension catalog for August 1972 (Vol. 66, No. 10 of the bulletin series) are asked to donate them to the Documents Department.

Charter Day Observance Date Changed

At its April 7 meeting the President's Advisory Council approved changing the date of the 1977 Charter Day observance from February 5 to February 12. Please note this change in the 1976-77 Academic Calendar.

Clothes Drive for ESH

Delta Sigma Theta Sorority members are conducting a clothes drive for patients at Eastern State Hospital. Anyone who wishes to donate clothing may deposit items in the boxes placed in student residence halls or contact Deborah Parker or Marilyn Vaughan, Landrum 117, Ext. 573.

Hoe 'n Rake Project

The Student Affairs Special Programs Committee and Help Unlimited are seeking help in planting vegetable gardens, April 23 and 24 for area residents who need assistance with food supplies. The Williamsburg-James City County Community Action Agency will provide work equipment and seed and plants. Volunteers are needed to plant gardens, donate transportation for those planting the gardens or donate non-perishable food to local church "food closets."

For information, contact Dean Moseley's office, 208 James Blair Hall, Ext. 354.

Student Summer Opportunities

The Office of Career Counseling is posting announcements concerning summer opportunities for students on the bulletin board outside 209 James Blair Hall.

Careers for Religion Majors

The religion department will present a panel discussion on "What Do You Do With a Religion Major?" Wednesday, April 21, at 4 p.m. in Morton 240. Panelists are Mary E. Abrecht, public prosecutor for the District of Columbia; Thomas Finn chairman of the religion department at the College; Reverend Malcolm Turnbull, associate rector at Bruton Parish Church; and Glenwood Morgan, chaplain at Eastern State Hospital.

Health Issues Subject Of Public Forum

Two distinguished scholars will discuss "Issues in Health Care: Brain Death and Euthanasia" in a public forum Thursday, April 22, at 8 p.m. in the Campus Center Little Theatre.

Dr. Robert W. Veatch of the Hastings Center in New York will speak on the need for legislation in the definition of brain death, and Dr. A.D. Woolzley of the University of Virginia will consider what the law should be with regard to euthanasia. Alan Fuchs of William and Mary's philosophy department will moderate.

The discussion will conclude the "Philosophy and Public Policy: A Discussion Series" sponsored by the Old Dominion University Research Foundation in cooperation with William and Mary. Professor Fuchs and Donnie J. Self of the ODU philosophy department are coordinating the series, which is funded by a grant from the Virginia Foundation for the Humanities and Public Policy.

There is no admission charge, and the public is invited to attend.

Edward O. Sanu

Nigerian Envoy Speaks On Decolonizing South Africa

Edward O. Sanu, Nigeria's Ambassador to the U.S., will be principal speaker following the annual international dinner of the International Circle Sunday, April 25, at 7 p.m. in the Campus Center. He will discuss "Decolonization and South Africa."

The 45-year old diplomat obtained an M.A. in economics and an M.P.A. degree from Harvard University. He finished his B.A. with honors at Howard University, Washington, D.C. Before his appointment as Ambassador to the U.S., he served as ambassador to Belgium and to Ethiopia. From 1970-72 he was a member and later chairman of the executive committee of the Economic Commission for Africa. He became chairman of the finance committee of the United Nations at the 26th session of the U.N. General Assembly in 1971.

Helen V. Taylor '76, Williamsburg, is soloist in Lullaby of the Duchess from the Alice In Wonderland Chorus.

W&M Choir Spring Concert Features American Music

The Spring Concert of the William and Mary Choir and Chorus will take place on Friday and Saturday evenings, April 23 and 24, at 8:15 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Auditorium.

This year's concert will feature music by American composers, especially twentieth century composers, including Daniel Pinkham, Samuel Barber, Randall Thompson, Wallingford Riegger, Vincent Persichetti, Irving Fine, and William Schuman. Works to be performed in the concert will be Choruses from Alice in Wonderland by Fine, Barber's Reincarnations, An Emily Dickinson Mosaic by Pinkham, and Persichetti's Mass.

The Men of the Choir and the newly formed Botetourt Chamber Singers also will perform. All of the groups are under the direction of Frank T. Lendrim.

Tickets are $1.50 and are available now in the Campus Center, James Blair switchboard and the music department office in Ewell Hall. They will also be sold at the box office the night of the concert.

SBA Plans Apr. 26 Drug Symposium

As part of its observance of Law Day USA on May 1, the Student Bar Association of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law has scheduled a symposium on drug abuse and the law on April 26.

Monday's symposium, entitled "Drugs, the Law and Virginia: Where We Are and Where We Are Going," begins at 4 p.m. in the Campus Center Little Theatre. Panelists include Ted Morris of the Virginia House of Delegates; Mary S. Holt, chairman of the Peninsula Drug Abuse Council; Aubrey Davis, Commonwealth's Attorney for Richmond; and Judy Nauman of Bacon Street, the local drug abuse counseling service. Kermit Dunahoo, assistant professor of law at Marshall-Wythe, will moderate.

Among the topics planned for discussion are the evolution of drug laws in Virginia, the current penalties, both criminal and civil, attached to drug offenses and the role of education in curbing drug abuse. The public is invited to attend.

Sykes Receives NSF Award

A senior majoring in economics has been awarded a National Science Foundation Fellowship. Alan O'Neil Sykes, of Vienna, is one of 29 fellowship recipients nationwide in the field of economics.

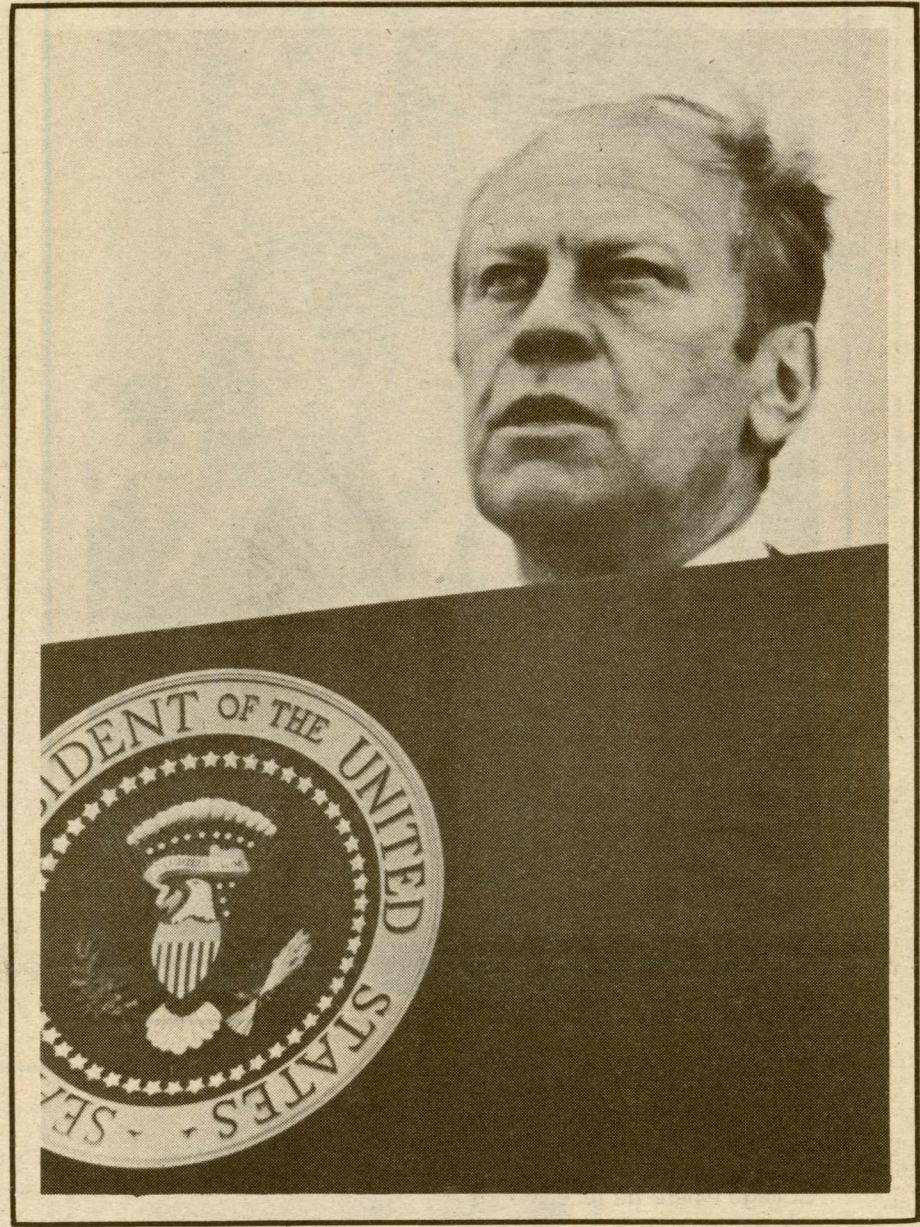

The award covers three years of study at a university of the recipient's choice. Sykes has chosen to study for his Ph.D. in economics at Yale University.

A Phi Beta Kappa scholar, Sykes has been active with the William and Mary debate team. He also plays oboe with the Norfolk Symphony.

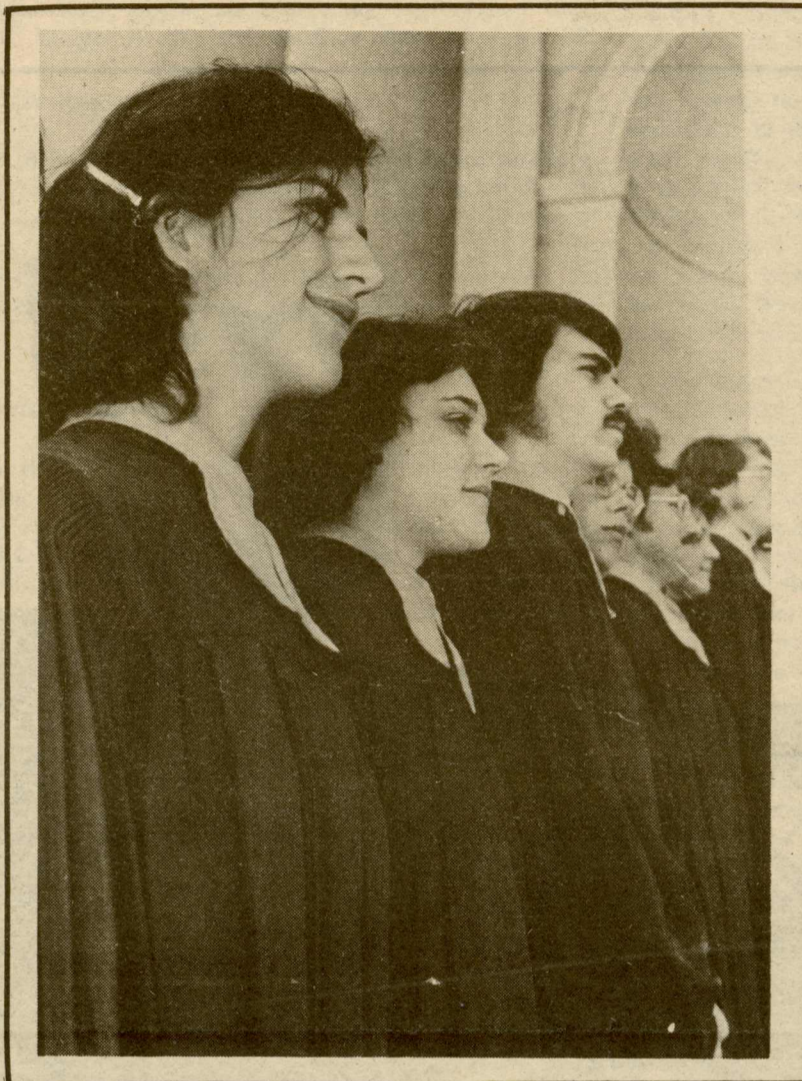

Jefferson's Birthday: The College and the Nation Celebrate Together

A delegation from the College that included the William and Mary Choir, 20 students participating in the Washington Program, and President Graves traveled to the nation's capital last Tuesday to take part in a variety of activities.

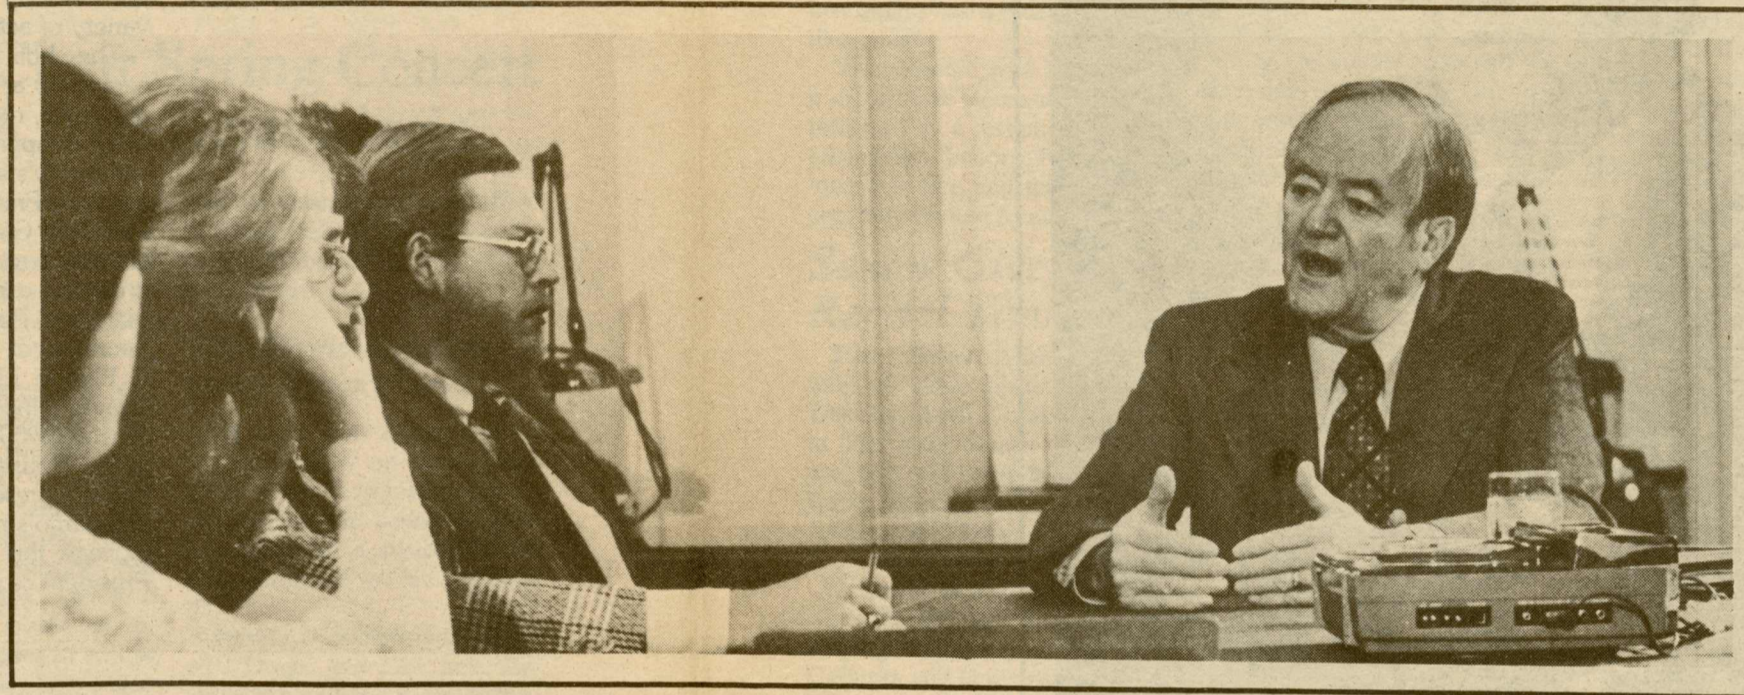

The choir, which sang during a ceremony at the Jefferson Memorial, received a personal word of approval from the ceremony's special guest speaker--President Gerald Ford. President Graves and a group of alumni were also on hand to present a copy of "Their Majesties' Royall Colledge" to Secretary of the Interior Thomas F. Kleppe. Later in the day, Graves joined participants in the Washington Program at the White House, where he again made a presentation of Jack Morpurgo's new history of the College, this time to the President of the United States.

President Ford Pays Tribute to Thomas Jefferson and his Alma Mater; Graves Presents New Morpurgo History to Ford, Kleppe and Byrd

Members of the choir pay close attention to President Ford's remarks, which paid tribute to Jefferson and the College where he received his education.

Just minutes before the choir was to sing at the Jefferson Memorial, Senator Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) was opening the second session of the Washington Program, the College's new academic venture in the nation's capital. Humphrey talked to 20 students about "The Character of American Presidential Leadership", and NBC news cameras covered the entire discussion.

President Graves presented another copy of Jack Morpurgo's history of the College to Senator Harry F. Byrd Jr., who Graves said was "serving the Jeffersonian tradition by upholding and fighting for integrity in government."

President Ford, surrounded by a host of Congressmen, signs a bill declaring April 13 as "Thomas Jefferson Day." The table used for the signing is the same table where Jefferson sat to sign the Declaration of Independence almost 200 years ago. Among the congressmen on hand were Representative Thomas Downing, far left, and Senator Harry F. Byrd, Jr., directly behind President Ford.

Humphrey and Reston Offer Insights On “American Presidential Leadership”

Humphrey was an impressive speaker who used his hands as well as his words to make a point. Other guest speakers in the Washington Program, including New York Times correspondent James Reston and New Republic Magazine columnist John Osborn, said that Humphrey was one of only a handful of politicians who could express themselves well in almost any situation.

Before President Graves presented Senator Byrd with the history, Board of Visitors Rector John R.L. Johnson Jr. gave Virginia's senior senator a specially-folded dollar bill. A Japanese folding expert had shrunk the dollar bill to about the size Johnson said it was worth in today's marketplace. Byrd said he would give the dollar to someone who'd be sure to appreciate Johnson's point--Secretary of the Treasury William Simon.

Koto Music Concert Set

On Saturday, April 24, Asia House will present a concert of Koto music by Kyoko Okamoto. Mrs. Okamoto has been teaching the Koto for five years in the Washington area. During 1969-70, she studied under the Japanese koto master, Kazue Ehara of Ashiya, Japan, and achieved the rank of teacher.

The koto is a long zither with movable frets and was introduced into Japan from China in the 8th century. It is about six feet long and one foot wide and has 13 strings which are normally plucked with ivory picks. The instrument has a pleasing, harp-like quality.

The concert will begin at 8 p.m. at Asia House and will be followed by a reception in Mrs. Okamoto's honor. The performance is free and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Senior Gives Recital Tonight

Larry Steven Allen will present his senior piano recital on Tuesday, April 20, at 8:15 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Hall. His program will include works by Bach, Beethoven, Liszt, Muczynski, and Chopin. The public is cordially invited to attend.

A native of Richmond, Allen was elected to Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities. He is president of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia men's music fraternity and a member of the William and Mary Band. He has also served as musical director for the Sinfonicon Opera Company's production of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Ruddigore."

After graduation he will pursue graduate studies in the Washington, D.C., area. Larry Allen is a student of Mrs. Sandra Owen.

Interhall To Sponsor 'Mayday In April'

Interhall, the student residence hall association, is sponsoring a "Mayday in April" weekend this Friday and Saturday.

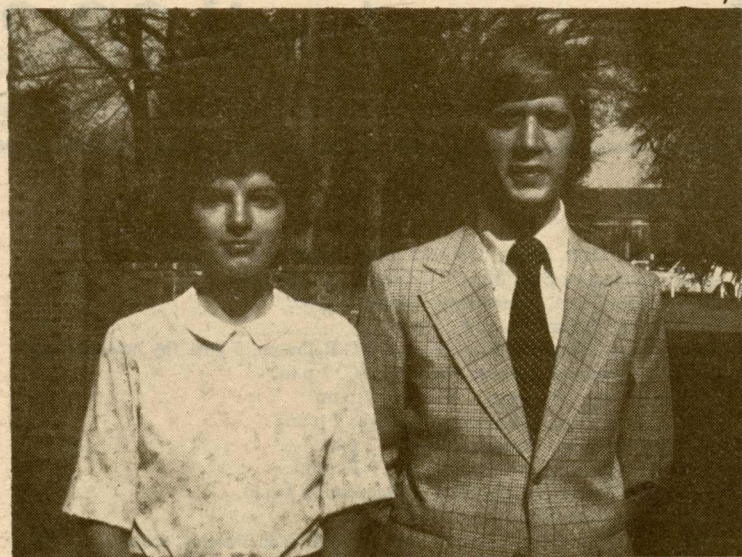

The festivities start on Friday night at 8 p.m. at Bryan courtyard, where a coffeehouse will be set up with plenty of free beer on hand. Entertainment will be provided by Bill Munroney and several other campus guitarists.

On Saturday the language houses and Project Plus will re-create a medieval fair. All members of the College community are invited to attend the afternoon-long affair in the courtyard of Botetourt Complex, Units 5-9. Among the many activities scheduled are a May Pole Dance, madrigal singers, a puppet show, a Spanish play, German folk dancing, a fencing exhibition, and a magic show.

The French House will have a country inn, and the German House will run a beer garden serving cold beer at a nominal price. The Spanish House has several craft and food booths planned. Flower vendors, jesters, lords, and ladies should aid in producing an authentic atmosphere.

Several contemporary activities are also planned. Visitors can get T-shirts silkscreened with the official Mayday emblem. Asia House has scheduled a karate demonstration, and the second annual Tour de William & Mary bike race will take place.

Judy Gerald, Vienna, and Larry Allen, Richmond, have been chosen recipients this year of the Anna B.K. Nimmo Scholarship. The $300 scholarship is awarded annually to a student in the music department, based on sound musicianship, service and help to the department, potential for future musical growth and development and on potential for carrying forth the best ideals of the music department.

College Receives 100th Dissertation

A milestone in the College's graduate program has been reached with the recent submission of the 100th dissertation written by a student enrolled at the College.

Robert W. Virnstein, a student in the School of Marine Science, is the author of the 86-page dissertation entitled "The Effects of Predation by Epibenthic Crabs and Fishes on Benthic Infauna in Chesapeake Bay." Using manipulative field experiments, Virnstein tested the significance of large mobile predators in controlling the distribution and abundance of fauna in a shallow subtidal sand community.

Before enrolling at VIMS, Virnstein received his B.A. in biophysics from The Johns Hopkins University and his M.A. in zoology from the University of South Florida. He was a research assistant in ecology-pollution at VIMS during 1972-75 and currently holds an assistantship in the Department of Invertebrate Ecology at VIMS.

The College awarded its first Ph.D. in 1967 to Frank Hohl, who received a doctorate in physics.

Lendvay Presents Lecture/Recital

Pianist Vera Zathureczky Lendvay of the music department will give a lecture-recital concerning Bela Bartok's Mikrokosmos at 3 p.m. April 21, in Ewell Hall room 100. The public is invited to attend.

Mrs. Lendvay is a native of Budapest, Hungary, where she received her professor and artist degrees from the Franz Liszt Academy of Music. Among her professors were Leo Weiner, Zoltan Kodaly, Gyorgy Sebok, and Annie Fischer.

She served on the faculty of the Music Conservatory before leaving Hungary in 1956. She has taught piano and keyboard harmony at the New York College of Music and New York University and appeared in concert in solo and chamber recitals.

To Place An Ad...

All members of the College community may place personal advertisements in the William and Mary News.

The deadline for submitting advertisements is 4 p.m. on the Wednesday preceding publication. For a $2 fee, each ad is run in three consecutive issues. Payment must be received before the ad can be printed.

Individual advertisements should be limited to not more than 40 words.

Advertisements for non-commercial announcements of goods, rentals and real estate, either offered or sought, and for lost and found items will be accepted.

Advertisements for profit-making business ventures, such as guitar lessons and babysitting services, can not be accepted.

There is no charge for listing found items.
