In the News

● Scholars prominent in the fields of business, law, theatre and music will be joining the faculty this fall. Story on pages 1 and 3.

● Having visitors this summer and want to introduce them to the campus? Looking for a different way to spend your lunch hour? A campus tour is the answer! We've made it easy for you with a map and a multitude of suggestions for interesting spots on campus. See page 4.

● Professor Gibbs' computer symposium and Dean Spong's goodwill trip to Europe and Russia head the list of "Newsmakers" on page 3.

● If you are planning a weekend trip, or even next year's vacation, be sure to stop in at Swem Library. The reference staff maintains a pamphlet file that covers everything from Sherwood Forest's history to the animals found at the Chincoteague National Wildlife Refuge on the Eastern Shore. One section of the file is devoted to Virginia's cities, counties, historic landmarks and eminent citizens, while the other section contains information about other states and nations. The Reference Room is located on the first floor of the library.

● New travel regulations have been issued by the Governor's office. Employees using their own cars for state business may now be reimbursed fifteen cents per mile. The State has also changed its insurance company for state vehicles. Details inside, under "Official Notices."

● Common Glory dancers and actors have planned special performances on the first three Sunday evenings in August. Check the William and Mary News calendar for information.

WINTER WONDERLAND IN JULY? It's only wishful thinking as summer's "dog days" settle over the Campus and temperatures soar to the nineties.

New Eminent Scholars On Faculty To Include First Zollinger Professor

Eminent scholars in the fields of business, law, theatre and music will be joining the faculty this fall.

Thomas H. Williams, who has gained a national reputation in the academic and business communities for his expertise in the field of financial reporting, has been named first Zollinger Professor of Business Administration at the College.

John Ritchie, professor at the University of Tennessee College of Law since 1974, and Dean and John H. Wigmore Professor Emeritus of Northwestern University School of Law, has been appointed Tazewell Taylor Visiting Professor of Law.

Professional actor Arnold Moss will be Visiting Professor of Theatre and Speech.

Arthur F. Schrader, a music associate and ballad singer at Old Sturbridge Village, Mass., for nearly fifteen years, will join the faculty as Visiting Professor of Music.

Endowment funds for the professorships are augmented by the state through the Eminent Scholars program.

Zollinger Professor

Williams, professor of accounting and a member of the graduate faculty at the University of Texas, has been named to a professorship endowed by alumnus J. Edward Zollinger, '27, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Zollinger, former vice president and executive assistant to the president of IBM, serves on the Board of Visitors and is chairman of the $19 million Campaign for the College, which began in May.

Visitor Named

Aubrey L. Mason, a member of the Class of 1947, and executive vice president of the investment securities firm Mason and Lee, Lynchburg, has been appointed to the Board of Visitors by Governor Godwin.

Mason fills the unexpired term, ending in March 1978, caused by the death of Dr. Garrett Dalton of Radford.

A member of the Alumni Board from 1954-60, Mason was its president in 1956-57. He is currently a member of the President's Council, the Athletic Educational Foundation and the executive committee for the Campaign for the College.

Mason is a recipient of the Alumni Medallion and a founder, along with his sisters and their father, of the Walter G. Mason Chair of Religion Fund.

His wife, Vilma B. Mason, is a 1949 alumna, and four of their five children attended the College.

Mason recently completed his term as chairman of the board of Ferrum College.

the School of Business Administration, cited Williams for "his outstanding record of published scholarly research" as well as for "his innovative work in teaching both elementary and advanced financial accounting subjects."

Williams was a member of the University of Illinois faculty for four years, prior to joining the University of Texas faculty in 1963. From 1967-71 he served as chairman of the university's accounting department, one of the largest in the United States.

Over his academic career, Williams has at various periods concentrated on a variety of subject areas in accounting and related disciplines, including theory formulation and philosophy of science, mathematical modeling, information systems, managerial accounting and control systems, and the implications of capital market theory and research on accounting.

He was accorded singular recognition when he was chosen for the James V. Forrestal Chair of Management at the Naval War College, Newport, R.I., in 1969-70, and for the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA) Distinguished Visiting Professorship at California State University, San Jose, in 1972-73.

Official Notices

Revised Insurance Coverage for State Pool Vehicles

The State has transferred its pool car insurance policy to Transit Casualty Company. William and Mary's transportation officer, William T. Allen, advises employees operating state vehicles to notify both his office and an insurance representative as soon as possible, in the event of an accident involving a pool car. Information about accident notification procedures has been placed in the glove compartment of each of the state cars assigned to the College.

Updated Travel Regulations

The Governor's Office has issued new regulations governing reimbursement of travel expenses by officials and employees of the Commonwealth while traveling on official business.

The Office of the Vice President for Business Affairs will provide copies of the new regulations to deans, department heads and supervisors in the near future.

Offices Note Staff Changes

In recent weeks the State Personnel Office has approved a number of new appointments to classified positions at the College.

Ivory Carey has joined the campus security force as a police officer. A member of the Gloucester County Sheriff's department before coming to William and Mary, Carey holds a certificate of criminal justice from Thomas Nelson Community College.

Four recent William and Mary graduates are among the new staff members. Linda Horn (B.B.A., 1974) is a data entry operator in the Treasurer's Office. Before returning to Williamsburg, she worked as a bank examiner for a Richmond firm.

Linda Baker (M.A., English, 1976) is a clerk typist in the Evening College office.

Janet Shepherd, who has worked for the Alumni Society for the past year as a records clerk, is now clerk typist in the law school. She holds a B.A. in English from the College.

A fourth William and Mary graduate, Patricia Ferguson (B.A., English, 1975), is clerk typist for the Applied Science program.

Joining the Plant Department office as clerk typist is Jean Belvin. A graduate of Hampton High School, she worked for a computer science firm in Hampton for several years before joining the College staff.

Charles Hall was recently appointed carpenter foreman in the Buildings and Grounds department. He has worked at the College previously on a temporary basis and is also self-employed as a dry wall contractor.

Transferring from the power plant at Eastern State Hospital where he was a stationary boiler fireman, James Acheson has assumed new duties as a power plant shift supervisor at William and Mary.

Anne Nealon, who graduated from Norfolk Business School as a professional secretary, is clerk stenographer for the Theatre and Speech department.

In the News Office, Karen Detwiler has been appointed clerk typist. A graduate of the University of Illinois at Champaign-Urbana with a B.S. in Journalism, she worked previously for the Campaign for the College.

Phyllis Holzenberg is a new clerk typist in the Registrar's Office. She graduated from Florida State University last year with a B.A. in History.

Ann Barnes has also joined the Registrar's Office staff as a data entry operator. She transferred to the College from the State's Department of Mental Hygiene and Hospitals. A graduate of Richmond Business College, she was deputy clerk of the superior court in Halifax, N.C., for a number of years before returning to Virginia.

Scholars In Law, Theatre, Music Join Faculty

Thomas H. Williams

A prolific writer, Williams has written or co-authored seven books and texts as well as numerous articles published in academic and professional journals.

A graduate of the University of Cincinnati, Williams holds masters' and doctoral degrees from the University of Illinois.

He is a member of Beta Gamma Sigma business honor society and Omicron Delta Kappa leadership society.

John Ritchie

As Tazewell Taylor Visiting Professor of Law, Ritchie will serve as jurist-in-residence during the 1976 fall semester at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law. The professorship honors a member of the Tazewell Taylor family of Norfolk.

Prior to assuming his present post at the University of Tennessee, Ritchie was a professor at the University of Virginia for two years. He had taught previously at UVa from 1937-52. In 1952 he was named Dean and Kirby Professor at Washington University, St. Louis. The following year he became Dean and Professor of Law at the University of Wisconsin, a post he held until he joined the Northwestern faculty in 1957.

A Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of Virginia, where he received his B.S. and LL.B. degrees, Ritchie holds a J.S.D. degree from Yale University.

He has been active in several professional associations and served as national president of the Coif, honorary legal society, as president of the American Association of Law Schools and as president of the Judge Advocates Association.

He has also been actively involved in the American Bar Association, serving as a member of the House of Delegates, 1957-71, and the committee on evaluation of ethical standards, 1965-70.

The Taylor bequest was made several years ago by the late Tazewell Taylor, a prominent Norfolk attorney, in honor of the donor's father and grandfather.

Professional Actor Arnold Moss

As a faculty member during the fall semester, Moss will teach acting classes, as well as direct and play the leading role in the Theatre's production of Shakespeare's "King Lear" and present his own one-man show called "Windows on America."

Moss most recently appeared in Harold Prince's "Follies" and is known for his many movies ("Salome," "Kim," "Viva Zapata") and television guest appearances (Hallmark Hall of Fame, "Star Trek"). Critics have called Arnold Moss one of America's foremost professional actors.

A Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the College of the City of New York, Moss holds a master's degree from Columbia University and a doctorate from New York University.

For seven years he was a member of the Speech and Theatre Department of Brooklyn College. He has taught short term seminars in theatre at several universities in this country and abroad, was Distinguished Visiting Professor in the Department of Dramatic Arts, University of Connecticut at Storrs, in 1973-74, and was Visiting Professor at Pace University in 1975.

Musician Arthur F. Schrader

Because of his interest in folk song and dance, Schrader has both organized and performed in several folk festivals at Old Sturbridge Village, a restoration similar to that of Colonial Williamsburg.

In 1962 he organized the "Old Sturbridge Village Singers" to sing religious and patriotic music of New England composers and the following year initiated the "Sturbridge Anacreontic Society" to perform drinking songs, catches and glees. In 1968 he began the "Parlor Music Hostesses" to sing parlor ballads.

He was awarded a three year grant in 1965 to underwrite eight concerts of patriotic and parlor music and to begin the Sturbridge Martial Band.

In recent years, Schrader has pursued a recording project for all types of music performed in Old Sturbridge Village. He serves as editor for the recording series.

Schrader holds an A.B. in history and an Ed.M. from the University of Buffalo.

He has been a consultant in early American music to several historical associations, among them the Massachusetts and Connecticut Revolutionary Bicentennial Commissions, the Connecticut Historical Society, the New York State Historical Association and the Ohio Historical Society.

Newsmakers

Norman E. Gibbs, mathematics, is symposium chairman for a meeting in Williamsburg of over 200 computer science educators. The two day symposium, which concludes today, provides a forum for discussion of topics of interest to those involved in computer science instruction at all levels. It is sponsored by the Special Interest Group on Computer Science Education of the Association for Computing Machinery.

William Poole is program chairman, while Peter Scheuermann is in charge of book exhibits for the conference.

William B. Spong Jr., dean of the law school, left Saturday for a three-week goodwill visit to Russia and several European capitals. He is leading a delegation of 14 Virginia attorneys who will visit with legal and judicial officials in Brussels, Amsterdam, Moscow, Leningrad, Budapest and London. The group is following an itinerary arranged by the U.S. Department of State under its People-to-People program. Members are paying their own expenses for the trip, co-sponsored by the Virginia Bar Association, which Dean Spong heads.

At the 51st annual conference of the International Association of Auditorium Managers, held July 12-15 in New Orleans, H. Lester Hooker Jr. was named a Certified Facilities Executive. Hooker, who is director of William and Mary Hall, was one of 27 recognized for professional excellence and personal achievement in the management of public assembly facilities. IAAM President Mildred Grood presented Hooker with an engraved plaque and certificate of award.

James D. Lavin of the modern languages department and Wallace B. Gusler, curator of furniture at Colonial Williamsburg, are co-authors of a forthcoming book on antique European firearms. The book, to be published by the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation, will accompany an exhibit at the 1977 Antique Forum of 94 guns and pistols, dating from the early 16th to mid-19th centuries. Lavin has previously published a history of Spanish firearms and numerous articles on the subject.

Governor Godwin has appointed Librarian William C. Pollard to the Virginia State Historical Records Advisory Board. Pollard will serve a one year term ending June 30, 1977. The seven-member board is responsible for advising the National Historical Publications and Records Commission of records problems in Virginia and for reviewing applications for grants to individuals and institutions in the state.

In the School of Education Mark Gulesian has been appointed a regional judge for the National Council of Teachers of English (NCTE) 1976 Achievement Awards in writing competition. Gulesian, who is the new president of the Virginia affiliate of the NCTE, will serve on the panel to determine which of the Virginia entrants will be recommended for an award. Some 800 high school seniors across the country receive the award annually.

Mini-courses at North Carolina Wesleyan College, and the role the library played in supporting the courses, are the topic of an article by Associate Librarian Alva W. Stewart. He describes the contributions N.C. Wesleyan's library made to the courses, offered during the May term in the school's 4-4-1 plan. The article covers a three year period and appears in the summer issue of Improving College and University Teaching, a journal published by the Oregon State University Press. Stewart was the librarian at Wesleyan prior to coming to Swem Library in 1971.

John D. Morgan, associate dean of students for residence hall life, led a task group during the June 22-25 Residence Hall Education Symposium in Richmond. Participants dealt with training, purposes and programs for residence hall staff. Virginia Commonwealth University joined with the Continuing Education Committee and Commission III: Student Residence Programs of the American College Personnel Association to sponsor the three day program.

Charles Toomajian, director of registration and student records, and Ross Weeks, Jr., director of information services and assistant to the president, took part in a workshop on Media and Higher Education on June 26. Toomajian presented a discussion on "The Buckley Amendment and Student Rights," while Weeks was a panelist on the handling of sensitive news stories. The annual workshop was sponsored by Landmark Communications, Inc. of Norfolk, owners of WTAR and the Virginian-Pilot and Ledger-Star, and took place at the Tidewater Community College's Frederick campus.

Terry Meyers has published an article, "An Interview with Tennyson on Poe," in the Tennyson Research Bulletin, November 1975. Walter Wenska's "The Coquette and the American Dream of Freedom" has been accepted for publication in Early American Literature. Both Meyers and Wenska are members of the English department faculty.

Six Swem librarians participated in the American Library Association's annual conference last week in Chicago, where circulation librarian Robert L. Burr presented a paper on "A Behavioral Model of Circulation." Research for his paper was partially supported by a William and Mary faculty grant.

Catalog librarian Mary Lou B. Cobb met with members of the Technical Services Administrators of Smaller Research Libraries discussion group, of which she is chairman. She also attended meetings of three ALA committees on which she serves.

Assistant catalog librarian Berna L. Heyman attended a meeting of the ALA-SELA membership committee, of which she is a member.

Others who participated in the conference were Beth Bliler, Kathryn Blue and Sandra K. Peterson.

Take a Campus Tour!

Want a change of pace during your lunch hour this summer? Meet a friend for lunch at the Wigwam in the Campus Center, and then visit some of the many interesting spots on campus. Or start your tour by bringing a bag lunch and eating it in the shade of a tree in the historic Wren Yard.

SIR CHRISTOPHER WREN BUILDING--Open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The oldest academic building in continuous use in the United States, it has served the College since 1699. Known through most of its life simply as "the College," the Wren Building now bears the name of the distinguished British architect who may have shaped its original design. According to an early account, it was "first modelled by Sir Christopher Wren," but was later "adapted to the Nature of the Country by the Gentlemen there."

Stop in Room 100, the College's Information Center, and pick up a campus map. While you're there, take a look at the surveying instruments on exhibit. Lisa Offley, a member of the Information Services staff who is responsible for the Center, will be glad to answer your questions.

Before leaving the historic area of the campus, visit the archaeological exhibit of the Virginia Center for Archaeological Research. Buried treasures from more than 20 locations throughout the state are on display in the museum in the basement of the Wren Building. Hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays. Enter through the north door facing Richmond Road.

COLLEGE GATES--The Ewell Memorial Gates at the intersection of Blair and Richmond Roads were a gift from Mrs. Beverley Bland Munford in 1932. Two red brick pillars are surmounted by iron statues of King William and Queen Mary, imported from France. At one time wrought iron gates, decorated with the College seal and an eagle poised for flight, connected the two pillars.

CEMETERY--Did you know there is one on campus? It's located behind Old Rogers Hall, between Monroe Hall and Blow Gymnasium. A small monument in the tiny graveyard marks the burial place of Lucian Minor, professor of law during the first half of the 19th century. The wall surrounding the cemetery is dedicated to Benjamin Ewell.

EWELL HALL--Contemporary art from a collection donated to the College by alumna Jean Outland Chrysler is displayed in the foyer. The building is named after Benjamin S. Ewell, president of the College from 1854 to 1888. He was almost solely responsible for the College's surviving some of its most difficult years. The College closed twice during those years--once from 1861-1865 due to the Civil War, and again from 1881-1888, for lack of funds. Ewell earned the appellation "the old bell ringer" during that second period, when he had the College bell rung at the opening of each academic year in order to keep alive the College's charter.

WASHINGTON HALL--A permanent exhibit of 17th century artifacts is on display in the Flowerdeew Hundred Museum, located in the basement of the building. The museum is open to the public daily. Enter through the side door on the east end of the building.

The artifacts have been recovered from the Flowerdeew Hundred Plantation, which is located on the south bank of the James River in Prince George County. Members of the anthropology department of the College and students have been active in archaeological work at the site under the auspices of the Southside Historical Sites Foundation. The site, which is extremely well preserved, is of particular value to archaeologists because so little is known of the early colonial period and sites dating to the early 1600s.

more leisurely pace. Laid out in 1935 on the mall directly west of the Wren Building, the sunken garden is based on a similar treatment of the grounds adjacent to Chelsea Hospital in London. Boxwood borders the garden, backed by crepe myrtle trees. At the far end are European cypress, firs, pines, maples, oaks and dogwood trees. The lovely and unusual plantings that distinguish the entire campus are due in large part to the efforts of the late J.T. Baldwin Jr., long-time professor of biology. The 1932 graduate of the College died in September 1974. Ten years ago the Jefferson Prospect (so called because, as a student Jefferson reportedly expressed the view that the "College should always look upon the country") was extended westward, with the completion of the Crim Dell area.

SWEM LIBRARY--Select some books for summer reading, or visit the gallery and museum located on the ground floor. The statue of Norborne Berkeley, Baron de Botetourt, Colonial Governor of Virginia and Rector of the College's Board of Visitors, is the central feature of the Botetourt Gallery. The statue, one of the oldest surviving examples of colonial statuary in America, was acquired by the College in 1801, and until 1958 stood in the College yard in front of the Wren Building. Another feature of the Gallery is the permanent display of a portion of the Library's collection of early Virginia portraiture--including works by Bridges, Wollaston, Sully and others. To the east of the Botetourt Gallery is the Zollinger Museum, Displayed here are the College mace; the record book of the Phi Beta Kappa Washington Hall is named for the first president of the United States, who received his surveyor's commission from the College in 1749, when he was 17. Washington later became the first American chancellor of the College, serving from 1788 until his death in 1799.

BLOW GYMNASIUM--Interested in a more active lunch hour? Try jogging or playing handball at Blow Gym. Open weekdays from 2-10 p.m. and weekends from 2-6 p.m.

ADAIR TENNIS COURTS--If tennis is more to your liking, the Adair courts are open daily until 12 midnight. Plan ahead and sign up at the courts early. Located just off Botetourt Drive on the new campus.

ADAIR SWIMMING POOL--Cool off during recreational swim hours, 2-7 p.m. daily.

CAMPUS PATHWAYS, BRICK WALKS (more than 10 miles of them at last count!) and CARY FIELD TRACK offer prime opportunities for jogging enthusiasts.

SUNKEN GARDEN and CRIM DELL are ideal spots, if you prefer a

Crim Dell is named for John William Henry Crim, a lawyer and distinguished alumnus from the Class of 1901. An Oriental footbridge crosses the pond here, and the area is specially landscaped with azaleas, camelia, dogwood, weeping cherry, mountain laurel, magnolia trees, bayberry, and evergreen japonica, as well as various types of holly, hemlock and other trees and shrubs.

ROGERS HALL--Have you visited the newest building on campus yet? It houses the philosophy and chemistry departments.

MILLINGTON HALL--A special penthouse greenhouse, open to visitors daily, tops the building. The rooftop location eliminates the problem of plant experiments being hampered by shade from surrounding trees. Included among the unusual plants in the greenhouse are "babytoes," "baseball plants," "living rocks," and "tiger jaws," names that aptly describe the appearance of the plants. Orchids bloom in the tropical room of the greenhouse, while turtles, frogs and other small animals find a natural habitat in the greenhouse's terrarium.

society, from its establishment at the College in 1776 until 1781; the earliest book of faculty minutes, and other records and artifacts illustrating the growth of the College through three centuries. Museum hours are 8 a.m.-5 p.m. weekdays, 9 a.m.-1 p.m., Saturdays.

WILLIAM SMALL PHYSICAL LABORATORY--Scientific equipment is on display in the foyer that joins the two sections of the building.

ROBERT ANDREWS HALL OF FINE ARTS--Fine arts became a part of the College's curriculum when Thomas Jefferson reorganized the school into a university in 1779. That year the Reverend Robert Andrews, who had served as Professor of Moral Philosophy at the College since 1777, was made "Professor of Moral Philosophy, the Laws of Nature and of Nations, and of the Fine Arts." Several large pieces of sculpture given to the College this spring by alumnus and artist Joseph Lonas are currently on display in Andrews foyer. During the summer, works created by students are also being exhibited in the central foyer. Visitors are welcome.
