In the News

September 15 is the deadline for purchasing 1976-77 parking decals. Decals are on sale at the Campus Police Office from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Canoes are available free to faculty and staff at the Matoaka Boathouse for use on Lake Matoaka. Under the revised schedule, canoes may be checked out from 12 noon to 5 p.m. on weekends and from 3 to 5 p.m. on Thursdays and Fridays. Children must be accompanied by an adult.

The 1976-77 Cultural Events brochure was distributed on campus last week. If you missed your copy or would like an extra one for a friend, call the Information Services Office, Ext. 226 or 331, to request one.

Recreational swim hours at Adair Pool are 3:30-5 p.m. and 9-11 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays; 3-5 p.m. on Fridays; and 1-4 p.m. on weekends. After October 1, the pool will not be open for the 3:30-5 p.m. period on Mondays through Thursdays. Pool privileges are available to students, faculty and staff.

Courses ranging from time management to conversational German are among the fall offerings of the College's Office of Special Programs. For information, contact the office at 877-9231, Ext. 200.

Law students try harder. To qualify for in-state tuition, previously enrolled students must not only have established residence in Virginia for one year, but they must also be able to establish that they intend to remain permanently in Virginia. To prove his intentions, one enterprising second year law student bought a burial plot in Williamsburg.

(His request was turned down.)

Associate Dean of Education Named

Robert Emans, former dean of the College of Education at the University of Maryland, has been appointed Professor and Associate Dean in the School of Education.

Emans will provide general assistance to James Yankovich, dean of the School, with responsibility for all aspects of the program. Yankovich expects Emans to be of particular help in program design and other aspects of the School's teacher preparation program.

Emans will also teach courses in reading and curriculum development and theory.

Dean Emans, said Yankovich, "is recognized throughout the country as a first rate teacher and an accomplished scholar." Emans has written more than a hundred articles and other publications and was principal investigator of at least ten funded research projects. He is currently completing several books.

Prior to his appointment at the University of Maryland in 1974, Emans was professor of education and chairman of the academic faculty of Early and Middle Childhood Education, the largest faculty of the College of Education at Ohio State University.

"He is a very capable person and an effective administrator," said Yankovich. "While at Ohio State he led the faculty in improving the quality of undergraduate and graduate education."

"At the University of Maryland he led the faculty in NCATE [National Commission on Accreditation in Teacher Education] accreditation approval; he improved the resource allocation process through managerial procedures; and made major contributions in clarifying the missions of that very complex institution," Yankovich added.

Emans has also taught at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, Chicago Teachers College and Temple University, and has been a visiting faculty member at the University of Chicago and the University of Hawaii.

He attended Lawrence University, Wisconsin, and the University of Paraguay before receiving his B.S. in Education from the University of Wisconsin in 1957. Emans received both master's and doctoral degrees in education from the University of Chicago, where he also completed post doctoral studies.

He is a member of the National Education Association, International Reading Association, American Educational Research Association, and numerous other professional and honorary societies.

Grants Support Faculty Research

Nearly $50,000 in research grants has been awarded to faculty scientists in recent weeks.

A $30,000 grant from the National Science Foundation has been awarded to physicist H.O. Funsten for continued support of his experiments in nuclear physics.

Funsten is studying the reactions that occur when atomic nuclei are bombarded with pions, elementary particles that hold the atomic nucleus together. The studies involve positive and negative pions--sometimes referred to as "atomic glue"--produced at the Space Radiation Effects Laboratory (SREL) synchrocyclotron and at the Columbia University Nevis synchrocyclotron.

Using SREL's germanium lithium gamma ray detector, Funsten observes the prompt nuclear gamma rays associated with the pion-nucleus reactions.

The 18-month research grant will permit Funsten to extend his current experiments at SREL and will support a graduate student assistant.

The American Chemical Society has awarded Eric Herbst, assistant professor of chemistry and a 1976-77 Sloan Fellow, in $11,000 two-year Petroleum Research Fund grant for studies in interstellar chemistry.

"It is our goal to explain the recent observations by radio astronomers of large quantities of organic molecules in interstellar clouds," said Herbst. For a long time, he explained, it was thought that the composition of interstellar clouds was relatively simple, consisting primarily of hydrogen.

More recently, he said, it has been found that the cloud composition is more complex than was previously believed. Herbst is interested in studying how the complex organic molecules are produced and synthesized.

Official Memorandum

From: George R. Healy
Vice President for Academic Affairs
To: Students of the College
Subject: Notification Concerning the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974

Under the terms of the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974, the College is to inform enrolled students annually of their rights under the law. The Act does not apply to students admitted to the College who have not officially enrolled.

The College hereby affirms that its policies and procedures are in full compliance with the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974, whereby each student's right to the privacy of his or her official College records and access to the same is assured.

Enrolled students have the following rights under the law:

1. The right of access to his or her official College records. Under the terms of the Act the College is not required to make available to students the following materials:
 - a. Confidential letters of recommendation placed in students' files before January 1, 1975, and those letters for which the student has signed a waiver of his or her right of access.
 - b. Parents' confidential financial statements.
 - c. Medical, psychiatric, or similar records "which are created, maintained, or used only in connection with the provision of treatment to the student and are not available to anyone other than persons providing such treatment; provided, however, that such records can be personally reviewed by a physician or other appropriate professional of the student's choice."
 - d. Personal files and records of faculty or administrative personnel, "which are in the sole possession of the maker thereof and which are not accessible or revealed to any person except a substitute."
 - e. Records of the Admissions Office concerning students admitted but not yet enrolled at the College. Letters of recommendation are removed from the Admissions files before the files are forwarded to the Registrar's office.

2. The right to inspect and review his or her official College records.
3. The right to a response from the College to reasonable requests for explanations and interpretations of his or her official records.
4. The right to an opportunity for a hearing to challenge the accuracy or appropriateness of his or her official records.
5. The right to have disclosure of his or her official records limited to College officials or other persons authorized under the act, for legitimate purposes, unless release of such information to other parties is given in writing.

The College has designated the following information as "Directory Information" which may be released to the public:

1. Student's name, address (permanent and local), telephone number (permanent and local).
2. Student's birthdate.
3. Dates of attendance at the College, field of concentration, current classification, degrees awarded.
4. Previous schools attended and degrees awarded.
5. Honors or special recognition.
6. Height and weight of members of athletic teams.

A student who does not want the above information made public must file notice in writing of this request to Dean Carolyn Moseley, 208 James Blair, before September 22, 1976.

A student wishing to review his or her College records must consult the directory of official student records in the Registrar's office. The directory lists the offices where official student records are maintained and the name of the official responsible for the maintenance and release of each type of record, and to whom requests for access should be made.

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act is a complex law and new guidelines and interpretations are still forthcoming. Students wishing to consult the College's current statement of policies and procedures with regard to this law will find copies of the statement available to them in the Registrar's office.

If any of the rights guaranteed are violated, a complaint may be submitted in writing to: FERPA Office, 330 Independence Ave. S.W., Washington, D.C. 20201 explaining the alleged violations.

Scholarships Abroad

A distinctive program for graduating seniors at William and Mary, the Drapers' Company Scholarships, is now accepting applications. Two students will be selected for two years of study each at a British university, either a second B.A., which is most common at Oxford and Cambridge, or a graduate degree at another English or Scottish institution. Those interested should see Cecil M. McCulley in Rogers 208; the deadline is October 6.

In addition, two national awards for two years of study at a British university may be applied for concurrently. The well-known Rhodes scholarships afford a second B.A. at Oxford; the Marshall Scholarships, like the Drapers', support study at any British university to which one may be admitted. Applicants should see Dr. Carlyle Beyer in Project Plus. October 6 is again the deadline.

Basic Grant Recipients

William and Mary students who have received a grant through the Basic Educational Opportunity Grant Program (BEOG) for the 1976-77 session must visit the Student Aid Office to complete the required paper work. All Student Eligibility Reports (SER) should be completed during September. The Student Aid Office is located in James Blair Hall.

Teacher Exams

Students completing teacher preparation programs may take the National Teacher Examinations on any of the three following dates: November 13, 1976, February 19, 1977 and July 16, 1977. Prospective candidates should contact the School of Education for specific information. A copy of the Bulletin of Information for Candidates may be obtained by writing National Teacher Examinations, Box 911, Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey, 08540.

James Carter Jr., Professor Emeritus, Dies

James D. Carter Jr., associate professor of modern languages emeritus, died Sunday in Williamsburg Community Hospital after a long illness. He was 82.

Born in Duffield, Carter was graduated from the College in 1923 after serving in World War I.

Carter taught and served as principal in several western Virginia high schools, and later completed his doctorate at the University of Toulouse, France.

In 1927 he returned to the College as assistant professor of modern languages. At William and Mary, Carter founded the French Club in 1929 and founded and served as president of the Modern Language Tournament of Virginia.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Grace Carter of Williamsburg; two sons, James D. Carter III and John R. Carter, both of Williamsburg; three sisters, five brothers, and five grandchildren.

A graveside service will be conducted at 11 a.m. today in Grace Episcopal Church Cemetery, Yorktown.

Grant Opportunities

ROCKEFELLER FOUNDATION

Humanities Fellowships Fellowships are available to support the production of works of humanistic scholarship intended to illuminate and assess the values of contemporary civilization. Awards cannot be made for completing graduate or professional studies, or for writing poetry or fiction. The ordinary grant will be about $10,000-15,000. Contact: Rockefeller Foundation Humanities Fellowships, Rockefeller Foundation, 1133 Avenue of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10036. Deadline: October 1.

TITLE I, HIGHER EDUCATION ACT, 1965

Invitation for Preliminary Proposals to be funded during FY 1977. Priority areas include: consumer education, especially for those on fixed, low and middle incomes; educational program for adult family members and those who work with families aimed at preventing such problems as juvenile delinquency, child abuse, divorce, domestic conflict and other symptoms of family dysfunction; special education program for the aged and handicapped which will make them more self-reliant, e.g. pre- and post-retirement counseling, improved health and dental care training; educational program for citizens as well as government and industry representatives, so that they might participate more responsibly in environmental decision making. For a brochure which describes funding priorities and how to apply for grants, see Dennis Waller, Grants Office, or contact: State Agency for Title I, P.O. Box 3697, University of Virginia, Charlottesville, Va. 22903. Phone SCATS 234-7154. Deadline: October 15.

NATIONAL SCIENCE FOUNDATION

Scientific and Technical Manpower Forecasting Activities. $300,000 is available for projects in three categories: improvement in projection methodology, development of data to fill currently existing data gaps, and projections of science and engineering manpower demand and supply. Program announcement NSF 76-12 may be inspected in the Grants Office, Old Rogers Hall. Local Course Improvement for Undergraduate Science Education. Grants to insure that students are introduced to currently important scientific and technological developments and to improved approaches to the presentation of scientific concepts. Grants up to $25,000. A descriptive brochure SE 77-34 may be inspected in the Grants Office, or contact Division of Science Education Resources Improvement, NSF. Deadline: November 15.

NSF DEADLINES

Graduate Fellowships, 1977-78--December 1, 1976.
NATO Postdoctoral Fellowships--November 29, 1976.
Student Originated Studies--December 1, 1976.
Comprehensive Assistance to Undergraduate Science Education--December 3, 1976.
Local Course Improvement--November 5, 1976.
Ethical and Human Value Implications of Science--OPEN.
Science Faculty Professional Development--January 7, 1976.

Employment

The following positions are open to all qualified individuals; however, current faculty and classified employees will receive first consideration. Except where noted, inquiries and application should be made at the Personnel Office, 201 James Blair Hall, and not at the department where the opening exists. Call 229-JOBS (229-5627) for an updated listing and 24-hour service. An EEO/AA employer.

CAMPUS POLICE OFFICER--$8784 per year, Campus Police Office, deadline Sept. 16.

CLERK STENOGRAPHER C--$6720 per year, Personnel Office, deadline Sept. 17.

Vol. V, No. 2 September 14, 1976

Published weekly by the Office of Information Services during the academic year, except when the College is in recess, and twice each month in June, July and August.

Publications Office, production

News, photographs and advertisements should be sent to the News Office, 308 Old Rogers Hall.

Calendar items should be sent to Ken Smith, keeper of the College Calendar, at the Campus Center.

The deadline for all submissions is Wednesday at 5 p.m. for publication the following Tuesday.

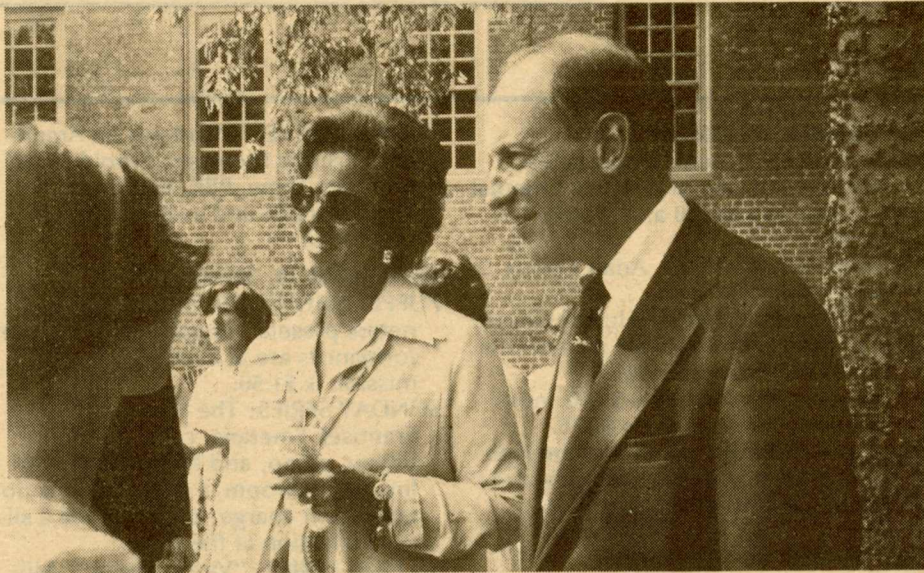

President's Aides Chosen For '76-77

Aides to the President for 1976-77 have been selected and will begin working with President Graves at a meeting tomorrow evening.

Serving as ex officio members are Student Association President Laurel Bond and Senior Class President Margaret Rollins.

Also selected to represent the diverse interests of William and Mary students were seniors Nathaniel A. Folarin, Deborah Habel, Jeffrey Hosmer, Jeffrey Leppo, Edith Newsom, David Oxenford, Donna Szuba, Robert Thompson, George Tsahakis, and Karen Yanity.

Also named were juniors Sheryl Lukasik, Isiah L. Parnell and Susan Strommer.

PRESIDENT AND MRS. GRAVES welcomed guests at their brunch for faculty and administrators, Sept. 5. The Graves have also been hosts for receptions honoring new students and foreign students. They will hold an open house for graduate students, Sept. 26, from 4-6 p.m.

Emden Appointed To Business Faculty

Karen A. Emden has been appointed acting assistant professor in the School of Business Administration, a new position created by the Board of Visitors due to the increased enrollment in the school.

A William and Mary graduate, Emden holds a B.A. in government and a J.D. degree from the Marshall-Wythe School of Law.

Kathy H. Whitehead has also been appointed to the faculty in the School of Business Administration. A graduate of Florida State University and a certified public accountant, Whitehead will serve as a lecturer in the school during the first semester.

In the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, Sally James Andrews has been appointed lecturer for the second semester. She is an assistant city attorney in Hampton and received both her B.A. and J.D. degrees from William and Mary.

A doctoral degree candidate in medieval history at the University of Virginia is acting assistant professor in the history department this year. Victoria Chandler holds A.B. and M.A. degrees from the University of Georgia and an A.B.D. degree from the University of Virginia.

Mary Lou Eason Fletcher has been appointed lecturer in the music department. She graduated from Boston University with a bachelor of music in applied voice and is a master's degree candidate in applied voice at Boston Conservatory.

In the philosophy department Mark Fowler has been named acting assistant professor. A graduate of California State University at Los Angeles, Fowler recently received his Ph.D. from Princeton University.

William H. Martineau is acting assistant professor of sociology. Martineau has taught previously at George Washington University, the University of Connecticut and Ohio Wesleyan University. He holds a doctoral degree from the University of Notre Dame.

Grants Fund Research In Sciences

"Since interstellar clouds are the most massive objects in our galaxy, their chemistry--still poorly understood--poses an important problem to astronomers, chemists and biologists alike," said Herbst.

Herbst's scientific contributions in the field of interstellar chemistry were recognized earlier this year when he was one of two Virginia scientists to be named a Sloan

Research Fellow for 1976-77. The other award was made to another faculty member, Carl E. Carlson in physics.

A $4,800 Cottrell Research Grant has been awarded physicist John B. Delos for theoretical studies of chemical reactions involving negative ions.

Delos and graduate students Randall T. Swimm of Chelmsford, Mass., and Ronald Taylor of Williamsburg, are conducting a project to initiate theoretical studies of the collisions of negative ions with atoms and molecules. They intend to apply the results to experiments being conducted in the laboratory. Additional support for the project is being provided by both the College and NASA's Langley Research Center.

For his previous contributions to the theory of the interactions between atoms, Delos received the 1975 Faculty Award for the Advancement of Scholarship from William and Mary's Phi Beta Kappa chapter.

The U.S. Department of the Interior has awarded a $2,000 eight-month extension of its previous support to biologist Mitchell Byrd. With the additional grant, total support for Byrd's project, a study of herons as indicators of environmental quality, amounts to some $17,000 since April 1975.

Byrd has conducted research to determine reproductive and fledgling success in two heron colonies in Wachapreague, Va., to compare census techniques in these two colonies and in nearby colonies, and to determine differences in nest site selection in these colonies.

Diversity Marks Faculty Works On Exhibit At Andrews Gallery

The faculty show currently on exhibit in Andrews Gallery gives a good indication of the diversity in the talents of the studio art faculty. Three-dimensional works, sculpture, ceramics, drawings and paintings are included in the show, which continues through September 26. Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays.

"The exhibit gives the sense that the department as a whole has different points of view, and it gives students exposure to different temperaments and different use of materials," says associate professor Henry Coleman.

Coleman chairs the committee which has arranged for a number of exhibits in Andrews Gallery throughout the academic year.

Gallery visitors will be drawn to three works in enamel and copper by Pat Winter. Her "pliqueajour"--intricately etched and enameled copper plates--resemble medieval stained glass.

Carl Roseberg's large wood sculpture, entitled "Nike," dominates the gallery foyer. Roseberg's several works on exhibit suggest his extreme versatility in using different mediums and in treating different subjects and ideas. In addition to the wood Nike, they range from a lifelike bust of the "Ancient Prophet" carved in stone, to a red spiral form of welded metal.

Marlene Jack experimented this summer in creating large, Raku-fired ceramic platters, and several are on exhibit. A number of bowls that have been wheel thrown and then handled are also included, effectively grouped on bricks reminiscent of the kiln in which the pieces were fired.

Paul Helfrich's works are distinctively bold, highly imaginative abstract drawings in black and white. Helfrich is one of the few faculty artists who seems to enjoy naming his works, choosing such titles as "Ted Mack," "367 Columbia Street" and "Elyria," the name of his hometown in Ohio.

Sharply delineated edges merge with soft, undefined shapes in Bill Barnes' subtle and complex pencil drawings of still life scenes.

Although objects are more clearly depicted in his large acrylic works, Barnes' paintings retain the same deceptive quality as the drawings. Distorted perspectives and the disproportionate sizes of the objects "give a sense of another place, another time," to his drawings, said Coleman.

Coleman's drawings and paintings are smaller in scale than those by Helfrich and Barnes. Although his works are generally based on objects, he says "the subject matter doesn't make a great difference. I work from things around me." He enjoys studying the variations within an object and trying to bring out the subtle differences through his art, as he does in a sequence of three pencil drawings called Natural forms I, II and III.

Current Issues Are Topics For CaMU, Student Affairs Forum

Issues in economics, health care, international interdependence and politics will be examined in a series of discussions planned by the Campus Ministries United in conjunction with the Student Affairs Special Programs office.

Bill Losito of the School of Education and Father Mike McLernon of Campus Ministries United will open the series on Monday, Sept. 20, with a workshop on "What Has Posterity Ever Done for Me?" The workshop begins at 8 p.m. in the Moot Courtroom of the law school, and the public is invited to attend.

The title of Monday's workshop, explained the organizers, is borrowed from Robert Heilbroner's "The Human Prospect," in which Heilbroner expresses pessimism about mankind's capacity to change its economic life style to meet future needs.

Tom Mainor of CaMU and Debbie Hartley of the psychology department are planning the second forum, October 12, on health care.

On October 25 the third forum will focus on international interdependence. CaMU's Braxton Allport and William and Mary Director of Registration and Student Records Charles Toomajian are organizing the forum, which will be held in Millington Auditorium.

The final forum, directed by Harriet Reid of career counseling and by Benton Lutz of CaMU, will come on the heels of the national presidential elections. Participants will discuss the political responses to the issues, November 8, in Millington Auditorium.

All programs begin at 8 p.m.

Calendar

SEPTEMBER 14, TUESDAY

YOUNG DEMOCRATS, CC Sit 'n Bull Room, 7:30 p.m.
HOI POLLOI presents John Riley and Steve Culp.

SEPTEMBER 15, WEDNESDAY

MEETING--The final Homecoming Parade meeting will be held at the Alumni House at 4 p.m. Organizations that have not yet submitted their float description should be prepared to do so at this time.
SPEAKER, Project Plus presents Wolf von Eckardt, Washington Post writer on urban problems, "Hopes for the City," PBK, 7:30 p.m.
