Freshman Class Profile Shows Varied Interests

The 1040 students enrolled as freshmen this year represent a wide span of interests, according to a profile analysis undertaken by the Admissions office.

The class of 1980 includes 95 valedictorians or salutatorians.

This class has 726 members who achieved academic honors during high school and includes National Merit winners, finalists and commendation recipients, and members of the National Honor Society and Beta Club.

Some 184 members of the freshmen class were captains of varsity teams; 174 were newspaper, magazine or year-book editors.

Nearly 5,000 applications

Applications for the freshman class this year totaled 4,878, of whom 418 were accepted under early decision.

Applications by transfer students totaled 796, of whom 166 were enrolled.

Sixty-nine percent, or 835, of all enrolled freshmen and transfer students are from Virginia. Geographic distribution from other areas is as follows: Middle Atlantic, 248; South, 40; Midwest, 28; Far West, 13; New England, 29; and foreign countries, 14.

Seventeen percent of all entering students received grants and or loans. The average amount of financial aid per student, excluding student employment, was $1,334. The total of grants and loans received by entering students from all sources was $234,129.

Enrollment down slightly

The size of the freshman class and the number of transfers accepted this year is slightly under last year's enrollment of 1059 freshmen and 227 transfer students.

Robert P. Hunt, dean of admissions, explained that the reductions are a result of the College's effort to bring its total undergraduate enrollments more nearly in line with projections approved by the State Council of Higher Education.

George R. Healy, Vice President for Academic Affairs, said that in recent years the College has enrolled considerably more students than it projects, in order to be "as responsive as possible to sustained heavy demand for admission." He noted, however, that the budget bill passed by the 1976 General Assembly tends to penalize colleges and universities which enroll beyond previously approved projects, by withholding from institutional use, the revenues generated by the additional tuitions.

In the News

Artist Douglas Denniston spent more than a decade experimenting with abstract, or non-objective forms of art before deciding he was more interested in traditional subjects, nudes, still lifes and landscapes.

A selection of his watercolors are now on exhibit in Andrews Gallery through November 24. Gallery hours are 9 a.m.-4 p.m. weekdays.

Denniston received part of his formal artistic training at the Richmond Professional Institute of William and Mary in the early 1940s. He later went on to earn a bachelor's and master's degree of fine arts from the University of New Mexico. He taught for 11 years at Colorado Women's College. Since 1958 he has been an instructor at the University of Arizona.

Denniston uses oil paints and watercolors as his primary media. The watercolors at Andrews show a wet technique that provides a contrast to the dryness of the subject matter, the arid Southwest.

Denniston uses his paper integrally in his work as clear surfaces shaped by the intermingling of structured forms. His brush strokes vary from long, light gestures defining the contour of a nude, to short, strong pushes which produce the pattern in a still life.

IBM Executive Chosen For Business Medallion

The first William and Mary Business School Medallion will be presented Saturday, Nov. 6, to Thomas J. Watson, Jr., chairman of the executive committee of the board of directors of International Business Machines Corporation (IBM).

The award, made by the faculty of the School of Business Administration, is given to recognize an individual whose distinguished career in management represents the highest standards of professionalism and integrity.

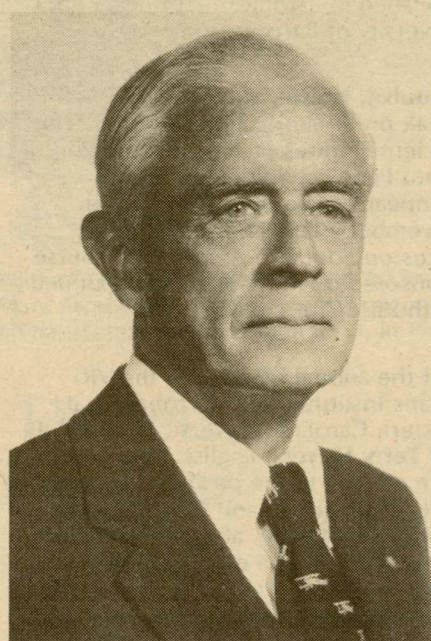

The presentation will be made at a program Saturday morning at 10:30 a.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall, to which the public is invited.

The award ceremony will be the highlight of the business school's third annual Sponsor's Day, honoring members of the Sponsors Board of the school.

Kenneth E. Grebenstein, president of the MBA Association, will preside at the meeting. President Thomas A. Graves, Jr., will give welcoming remarks. The presentation of the medallion to Watson will be made by Dean Charles L. Quittmeyer.

Just prior to the public meeting and presentation, the new MBA Alumni Association will hold its first meeting, and the first slate of officers for that organization will be announced.

Quittmeyer said he hopes the medallion presentation will become a regular part of the Sponsors Day program each year. "It is," he said, "a means of acknowledging business leaders, particularly those in the private sector, as important contributors to the life of the state and nation."

Son of the founder of IBM, Thomas J. Watson, Jr., was elected president of the company in 1952. In 1956 he was made chief executive officer. He was elected chairman of the board in 1961 and became chairman of the executive committee ten years later. Watson retired in 1974 and remains as chairman of the executive committee of the board of directors.

Exhibition

Pugs, People and the Peter Chapin Collection. Pug figurines and graphics. Zollinger Museum, Swem Library. Gallery hours; 8 a.m.-5 p.m., Monday through Friday, and 9 a.m.-1 p.m. on Saturday. October 20-December 1.

Newsmakers

Alan J. Ward of the government department spoke on "The Westminster Model and Political Centralization" at the Midwest Conference on Irish Studies, Oct. 17, in Chicago. Ward also lectured on "Irish Unionism and the Partition of Ireland," Oct. 14, at Loyola University in Chicago, and on "Nationalism and National Self-Determination during World War I and the Versailles Peace Conference," Oct. 13, at Marquette University, Milwaukee.

Judith Ewell, Virgil McKenna, Robert Orwell and Cam Walker attended the Seminar on the Report on Teaching, sponsored by the University Center in Richmond, Oct. 16. Ewell, McKenna and Orwell served as panelists for the history, psychology and chemistry sessions, respectively.

Recent publications by biologist Charlotte Mangum include chapters on "Primitive Respiratory Adaptations" in Physiology and Biochemistry of Marine Animals (Butterworth's Publ. Co., London) and research papers in the Biological Bulletin and the Journal of Experimental Zoology.

In January, Mangum began a four-year term on the editorial board of the Journal of Physiological Zoology.

"Race Relations and Equal Opportunity Education in the Air Force: A Case Study," by Professor of Education Armand Galfo, has been released by the Office of Social Actions, Headquarters, U.S.A.F., the Pentagon. In his study, Galfo measured attitudes towards minorities and women before and after three-day equal opportunity workshops at Langley Air Force Base. His findings indicate that attitudes toward equal opportunity for women, already high, did not change. Attitudes towards minorities, which were very low before the education program, showed statistically significant improvement, but still remained relatively low.

Ruth Mulliken, School of Education, has been invited to serve on the Executive board of the Virginia Association for Children with Learning Disabilities (VACLD). The VACLD is the state chapter of the National Association for Children with Learning Disabilities, and devotes its efforts to easing the problems of disadvantaged children. Recently, Mulliken was invited to serve as a national consultant to Hampton Institute's Follow-Through Program for disadvantaged children. The Hampton Institute program has participant schools throughout the United States. Mulliken visited one in Pulaski county, Arkansas, to present workshops on perception to teachers and paraprofessionals involved in the program.

Robert Bloom, also of the School of Education, will present a series of behavior management workshops at Hampton Institute, Marymount College, Mt. St. Joseph College, and Azusa Pacific College. Psychoeducational instructional skills for teaching disturbed/disturbing children will be taught to education students at the various colleges during the sessions.

Biologist Joseph L. Scott presented a seminar on "Ultrastructure of Cell Division and Development in Marine Red and Green Algae" in the botany department at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Sept. 27.

A paper by economist Robert Archibald and William S. Reece of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, entitled "The Impact of the Energy Crisis on the Demand for Fuel Efficiency: The Case of General Aviation," will be published in the November/December issue of "Transportation Research."

Two other papers by Archibald have recently been accepted for publication. "On the Theory of Industrial Price Measurement: Output Price Indexes" is forthcoming in "Annals of Economic and Social Measurement," and "Labor Queues and Involuntary Unemployment" will appear early next year in "Economic Inquiry."

Vickie Babenko's review of G. Belaia and L. Lazarev's "Vospominania ob Ilje Erenburge" is appearing in the fall issue of "Books Abroad." Two other reviews, on Felix Chuev's "Virazhi" and Olga Morozova's "Odna sud'ba," will appear in the winter issue of the publication.

This summer, Virgil McKenna, Larry Ventis and Cynthia Null of the psychology department received an additional $31,000 from the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development, which will permit them to continue their research on "Age at Marriage and Time to First Birth" during June and July, 1977.

Kelly Shaver, psychology, recently attended the annual meeting of the American Psychological Association in Washington, D.C., where he served as chairman of a session on "Self-Perception" and as organizer and chairman of a symposium on "Seriousness of Crime and Severity of Punishment." The symposium examined the psychological factors involved in sentencing and parole decisions. Among the participants was Lee Hamilton, a former student at William and Mary, now teaching at the University of Michigan. The presentations were discussed by Andrew von Hirsch of the Center for Policy Research and Rutgers University; and by Philip Hirschkop, a defense attorney in private practice in Alexandria.

Mario D. Zamora's article "Moral, Immoral Science: The Case for Cultural Anthropology," was reprinted in Norman Alger's "Many Answers: A Reader in Cultural Anthropology." The Spanish version of this article will be published in "Ethnica," Spring 1977, University of Barcelona, Spain.

Louis J. Noisin, anthropology, will speak on "Historical Background: The Ancient Empires of Africa, Expansion of Bantu Peoples, Settlement of the Europeans in Southern Africa," on November 7 and 14, as part of the Focus on Southern Africa study course sponsored by the Williamsburg United Methodist Church.

At the annual meeting of the Victorians Institute, held October 23 at Western Carolina University, Nat Elliott and Terry Meyers, English department, were elected to the positions respectively of president and vice president.

Scott Donaldson, also of the English department, spoke on "Frederick Henry, Selfish Lover" at the third Alabama Symposium on English and American Literature, held October 14-16 at the University of Alabama. Professor Donaldson's paper was the winner of a national competition for a place on the program, which was devoted to a reevaluation of Hemingway. Donaldson will submit a separate paper on "Frederick Henry, Careful Warrior," to be included in a book of the Alabama conference proceedings. The second paper will replace the one he read at the conference, since that one was taken with only minor changes from his forthcoming book on Hemingway, to be published by Viking as By Force of Will: The Life and Art of Ernest Hemingway, early in 1977.

Donaldson is the author of two entries in the Dictionary of American Biography, one on Booth Tarkington and the other on Ridgely Torrence. Both are included in Supplement 4 of the DAB, 1946-50.

He has agreed to edit a Viking critical library edition of Jack Kerouac's On the Road.

Alva W. Stewart, associate librarian, is assisting with advance registration for area high school and college students and faculty for the 82nd National Conference on Government, to be held at the Williamsburg Conference Center, November 7-10. Approximately 400 faculty members and students from area schools are expected to attend one or more sessions of the conference, which is sponsored by the National Municipal League. The theme of this year's conference is "The Citizen and American Federalism". Mr. Stewart is the state correspondent for National Civic Review, the League's monthly journal.

Henry E. Mallue, Jr., School of Business Administration, presented a paper entitled "Revenue Sharing for Education: From Springfield Township to 1976" at the annual convention of the Southeastern Regional Business Law Association, held October 28-29 in Knoxville, TN. On October 21 he attended a seminar entitled "RESPA under the New Regulations," and on October 22 he attended a seminar entitled "Saving Financially Distressed HUD Multifamily Rental Projects," both sponsored by the American Law Institute - American Bar Association Committee on Continuing Professional Education, in Washington, D.C.

Bruce K. Goodwin and Steven R. Benham attended the meeting of the Virginia Geological Field Conference, October 23, in Charlottesville. They were accompanied by eleven students from the department of geology. The group spent the day studying the geology of the Blue Ridge and the area immediately west of it.

At the South Central Conference on Slavic Studies, held Oct. 28-30, in Dallas, Texas, Vickie Babenko delivered a paper entitled "Poetic Devices in Chekhov's Ustritsy."

Kevin E. Geoffroy, School of Education, attended the September meeting, held in Washington, D.C., of the Board of Journal Editors of the American Personnel and Guidance Association. The Association produces about twelve journals in the field of personnel work, guidance and counseling in colleges and other institutions. Geoffroy is editor of Together, by the association for specialists in group work.

The Latin American Literary Review has published Howard Fraser's article, "Witchcraft in Three Stories of Jose Donoso" in its fall-winter issue. Fraser's essay, "La magia y la alquimia en 'El rubi' de Ruben Dario" was recently included in a volume of articles on nineteenth-century Ibero-American literature, La literatura iberoamericana del siglo XIX, published by the University of Arizona Press. Fraser also attended the annual meeting of the Rocky Mountain Modern Language Association in Santa Fe, New Mexico, where he delivered a paper, "Decadentism, Dario, and 'The Nightingale'."

Scott Donaldson, English, has been elected to the board of directors of the Fuirbright Association, a new organization being formed to advance international exchange of scholars and teachers. He attended a meeting of the board, October 7, in Washington, D.C.

Each of the above offerings will be held in Richmond.

State Employees Credit Union

Individuals employed by the Commonwealth of Virginia on a permanent basis are eligible for membership in the State Employees Credit Union, Inc.

The credit union is a non-profit organization for State employees.

In order to become a member, an employee must be on the permanent payroll for at least 90 days. (This provision eliminates hourly personnel and those people who are on a restricted appointment, as well as those with less than 90 days on a permanent basis.) To join, an employee must fill out a membership application, sign it and have it signed by his or her supervisor or department head. The 25¢ entrance fee and the cost price of a $5 share must accompany the application.

Application forms and further information about the credit union are available in the Personnel Office.

Published weekly by the Office of Information Services during the academic year, except when the College is in recess, and twice each month in June, July and August.

Anthropologist Views U.S. Culture

Roy Wagner, professor and chairman of the anthropology department at the University of Virginia, will speak November 4 on "Ambiguity and the Central Symbols in Modern American Culture."

Thursday's lecture, sponsored by the Lyon G. Tyler Historical Society, begins at 8:15 p.m. in the Campus Center Gold Room. The public is invited to attend, and refreshments will be served following the talk.

Wagner is the author of numerous books and articles. "The Invention of Culture" (Prentice-Hall, 1975); "Incest and Identity: A Critique and Theory on the Subject of Exogamy and Incest Prohibition" (Man, 1972); and "Pigs, Pearl Shells and Women: Marriage in the New Guinea Highlands" (Prentice-Hall, 1969) are among his recent works.

Wagner earned his A.B. in history, cum laude, at Harvard University, and his A.M. and Ph.D. degrees in anthropology at the University of Chicago.

Lectures Honor Law School Founder

An annual series of lectures honoring the founder of America's oldest law school will be initiated here December 3.

The series, to be known as the George Wythe Lectures, will mark the establishment of the chair of law and "police," first occupied by Wythe, in December 1779. Leaders of the bar and legal profession in the United States will be invited to give the lecture each year.

Francis Allen, former dean of the University of Michigan Law School and current president of the Association of American Law Schools, will deliver the 1976 lecture. The lecture, which will be open to the public, will be on the evening of December 3 to avoid conflict with the annual tax law conference on December 4, the actual anniversary of the action by the William and Mary Board of Visitors reforming the college's pre-Revolutionary curriculum and introducing the law program. The lecture will be held in Millington Hall at 8 p.m.

Dean William B. Spong, Jr. said there were two particular reasons for inaugurating the Wythe Lecture series this year. One is the fact that 1976 marks the 250th anniversary of Wythe's birth; the other is that the series will mark the beginning of activity looking toward observance of the law school's own bicentennial in 1979.

At a luncheon meeting on December 3, a special talk on Wythe will be given by E.M. Hutton, administrative assistant to Congressman Thomas N. Downing and a long time student of Wythe's life. Wythe, a signer of the Declaration of Independence and one of the leading lawyers of the early republic, taught at William and Mary from 1779 to 1791, when he resigned to become presiding judge of the chancery court of Virginia. One of his earliest students was John Marshall, later the "great Chief Justice" of the United States.

Francis Allen is Edson R. Sutherland Professor of Law at the University of Michigan and taught at Chicago, Harvard and Northwestern Universities before becoming dean of the Michigan Law School in 1966. He resigned the administrative post in 1971 to become a Guggenheim Fellow. He is a member of the Order of the Coif and Phi Beta Kappa, and in 1961-63 served on the Attorney General's Commission on Poverty and the Administration of Criminal Justice. He has twice been a faculty member of the Salzburg Seminars on American Law.

Three Receive SPE Awards

Three William and Mary students have been awarded scholarships by the Sigma Phi Epsilon Educational Foundation.

The recipients are seniors Mark Robert Tezak of Joliet, Ill., and William Dean Craig of Charlottesville, and junior Samuel R. Lowe of Bellevue, Neb.

In all, 17 scholarships were awarded this year to Sigma Phi Epsilon members who have demonstrated academic excellence and campus leadership. Since 1957, a total of 399 Sigma Phi Epsilon members have been awarded scholarships amounting to more than $90,000.

NAASS Conference Participants Meet

Three members of the faculty and administration are among the scheduled program participants for the annual conference of the North American Association of Summer Sessions, meeting in Williamsburg, Nov. 1-3.

President Graves welcomed the more than 200 conference participants at the first plenary session, held last night at the Campus Center Ballroom. Following the banquet, guests heard a keynote address by Jerome H. Holland, president of Hampton Institute from 1960-70 and currently a business consultant and professional public director of corporations. Holland spoke on the relevance of summer sessions as an expansion in services to an extended community.

Paul N. Clem, director of William and Mary's summer session program, is a panelist this afternoon for a session on support services entitled "You Can't do it Alone."

On Wednesday morning, Donald Herrmann of the School of Education will be a panelist for a discussion of the educational strengths and weaknesses of three week summer sessions.

Clem invites members of the College community to contact him at Ext. 238 or 338 if interested in attending any of the remaining workshop sessions.

KING LEAR (Arnold Moss) refuses the advice of his fool (Hardwick Spencer) in a rehearsal of the upcoming William and Mary production. Shakespeare's tragedy, directed by and starring Arnold Moss, will be presented November 10-13, in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

Visiting Scholar Directs, Plays Lead In 'King Lear'

The William and Mary Theatre has announced the cast for its upcoming production of King Lear. Shakespeare's tragedy is scheduled to be performed at Phi Beta Kappa Hall, November 10, 11, 12, and 13 at 8:15 p.m.

Appearing in the title role and also doubling as director of the play is Arnold Moss, professional actor and director. Moss, widely known for his extensive work in theatre, films and television, is currently teaching courses in acting under the auspices of the College's Eminent Scholar program.

Cast as the Earls of Gloucester and Kent are Chris Leeper, Williamsburg, and Curry Worsham, Richmond. Gloucester's two rival sons will be portrayed by Peter N. Holloway of Harrington, N.J., as Edmund, and J. V.

Hutton Cobb of Ronceverte, W.Va., as Edgar.

Appearing as Lear's daughters are Elizabeth Forrest, Williamsburg, as Goneril; Ellen Etheridge, Chesapeake, as Regan; and Irene Maher, Hampton, as Cordelia.

Also included in the cast are Richard Bannin, Hewlett, N.Y.; Roger Buck, Gloucester Point; Brian Coad, St. Louis, Mo.; Bob Lewis, Vienna; Robert McBride, Louisa; James Morton, Newport News; Jefferson Sage, Reno, Nevada; Granville Scott, Richmond; Jamie Skove, Charlottesville; and Hardwick Spencer, Chatham.

Tickets will be available from 3 to 5:30 p.m. weekdays at Phi Beta Kappa Hall, beginning November 8.
