In the News

UNDERGRADUATE PRE-REGISTRATION--All undergraduates may pick up materials for fall registration on Tuesday, March 15, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in Andrews Hall.

TAXES AND GOVERNMENT--The authors of the controversial monograph "A Comparison of the Fiscal Systems of New Hampshire and Vermont," critiqued by economist Milton Friedman in Newsweek last July, will be on campus March 15-16 to discuss their findings concerning the desirable scope of state and local government.

The study by Professor Colin D. and Rosemary G. Campbell of Dartmouth College has sparked considerable debate in its attempt to partially answer the question, "Do higher and increasingly centralized taxes imply increased public services or just an increased number of tax collectors (. . . and other bureaucratic intermediaries)?" The contiguous states of New Hampshire and Vermont provide a particularly robust test of this hypothesis as they reveal relatively homogenous voter preferences and rank 4th and 47th, respectively, in state and local tax liability as a percentage of personal income.

The presentation will take place at 2:15 p.m., Tuesday, March 15, in Morton 220 with a reception to follow in the Economics Library.

HISTORIC TOURS--Colonial Williamsburg is offering special escorted tours of the historic area for all William and Mary employees and their families on Thursday, March 3, and Sunday, March 6. Those interested should make reservations through the Office of Information Services at the College, (Ext. 4226, 4371 or 4331) for either of the tour dates. Participants must have a CW annual pass, available free to area residents at the CW Information Center. To cover CW's special costs for escorts, a $2 charge per person has been established, payable in advance at the College's Office of Information Services, 308 Old Rogers Hall.

NEWS PUBLICATION--Although students will be on Spring Break, the William and Mary News will be published next week for faculty and staff.

Will receive honorary doctor of laws degree

Rehnquist To Speak At Commencement

The College will award five honorary degrees at commencement, May 15, in William and Mary Hall at 2 p.m.

William H. Rehnquist, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, and U.S. Senator Harry F. Byrd, Jr., will receive the Doctor of Laws degree. Rehnquist will be the commencement speaker.

Honorary degree recipients will also include Jefferson historian Dumas Malone, biographer-in-residence and professor emeritus of history at the University of Virginia; Clement E. Conger, U.S. State Department curator who has been credited with upgrading the White House collection to the front rank of Americana collections of the 19th century; and Mrs. Jouett Shouse, founder of the Wolf Trap Foundation for the performing arts.

Malone will receive a Doctor of Literature degree, and Conger and Shouse will receive the Doctor of Humane Letters degree.

The College will also recognize at commencement the 50th reunion of the class of 1927.

The commencement weekend program will include the traditional reception for members of the senior class and their families, Saturday afternoon in the Wren Yard, hosted by President and Mrs. Graves.

Development Director Named

Michael R. Schoenenberger, an alumnus from the class of 1965, assumes duties today as the new director of special gifts in the Office of College Development.

Schoenenberger, who received a J.D. degree from the University of North Carolina law school in 1971, will work with alumni, parents, and other friends of the College who wish to include William and Mary in their estate plans, make gifts of real or personal property, or who are contemplating other special contributions which require legal instruments. He will also serve as counsel to the Endowment Association.

According to Warren Heemann, vice president for college development, "Schoenenberger will play a major role in William and Mary's $19 million Campaign for the College," which is seeking $14 million in new endowment and testamentary gift commitments.

Schoenenberger brings a varied background as both attorney and management consultant to his new duties. In 1971-73, he served as legislative counsel and investigator for a Special Pension Task Force Study Group of the U.S. Senate Labor Committee, investigating the administration and operation of private corporate pension and employee benefit plans.

Most recently, Schoenenberger has been a senior consultant in the Washington-based management consulting firm of Shanes, Ltd.

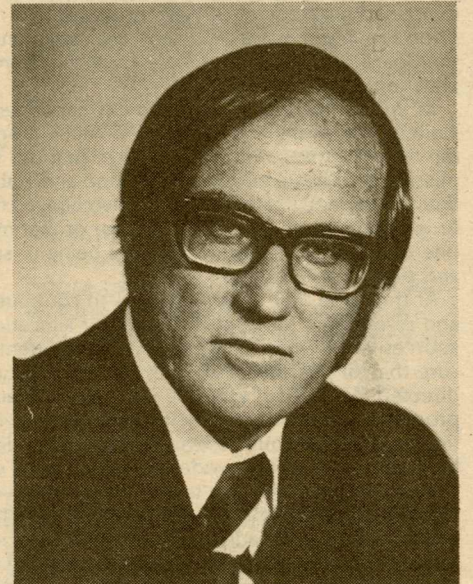

He is a member of the North Carolina Bar Association and the American Bar Association.

Commissioning exercises for ROTC students will be held Saturday, May 14, at 11 a.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. Principal speaker will be Major General Alton G. Post, commanding general and commandant, Transportation School, Fort Eustis.

Members of the senior class are planning a social event Saturday evening, but no definite plans have been announced.

Invitations for commencement may be purchased at the College Bookstore after April 4. Each senior may pick up four tickets for commencement when placing an invitation order. Additional tickets will be available at the information desk at the Campus Center.

The William and Mary Hall location provides ample seating for parents and guests of the graduating class. The site recommendation was made to President Graves earlier this month by the college-wide commencement committee.

Political Columnist McDowell Is Journalist In Residence

Charles McDowell, Washington correspondent and columnist of the Richmond Times-Dispatch, will be "Journalist in Residence" in March.

According to Anne Frost Waring, president of the Society for Collegiate Journalists, the program's sponsoring organization, McDowell will be on campus March 24, 25 and 26.

McDowell is the second guest of the "in-residence" program, which was originated last year by the Society for Collegiate Journalists with the endorsement and support of the Publications Council.

McDowell will be featured speaker at the annual publications banquet, March 26 in the Great Hall of the Wren Building.

A detailed schedule of McDowell's visit has not yet been announced, but

Graves Schedules Visits With Alumni

President Thomas A. Graves, Jr. will make five guest appearances in March at meetings of alumni groups, courtesy of the Society of the Alumni's Board of Directors.

Because of current budgetary constraints at the College, President Graves' visits are being made entirely at the expense of the Society of the Alumni from non-appropriated (special) funds at the request of the Society's Board of Directors.

President Graves will visit Detroit, March 3; Chicago, March 4; Pittsburgh, March 10; Cleveland, March 11; and Cincinnati, March 12.

At each stop President Graves is expected to give a review of 1976 on campus as well as talk about current programs and plans for the future, including the financial challenges which the College will face.

programming will be aimed at giving students who have an interest in journalism and mass communications an opportunity to meet with an outstanding person in the field.

A native of Danville, Ky., McDowell graduated from Washington and Lee University and received a master's in journalism from Columbia University. He has been a member of the Times-Dispatch staff since 1949.

The author of three books and a regular column, McDowell is known for his wit and humor. Formerly a nationally syndicated columnist, McDowell and his "reliable source" came to be known as one of the best political barometers in Washington.

An annual award presented to the outstanding feature writer of The Flat Hat has carried his name for the past 14 years. McDowell will make the presentation to the award winner this year at the publications banquet.

Davidson Slates Chorus Concert

The Male Chorus of Davidson College will appear in concert in the Great Hall of the Wren Building, Thursday, March 3 at 8 p.m. under the sponsorship of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia music fraternity.

The public is invited. There is no admission charge.

The chorus, under the direction of Donald B. Plott, will sing music by Handel, J.S. Bach, Ives, William Byrd, Kodaly and others. Among the works to be performed are "Tenebrae Factae Sunt" by Ingegneri, "Der Herr segne Euch" by Bach and the powerful "Salvation Belongeth to our God," from the Russian by Tchesnokov.

Official Memorandum

President orders re-examination of college priorities and allocation of resources; establishes preliminary task force to assemble data.

From: Thomas A. Graves, Jr., President
To: The College Community

On November 9, 1972, the Board of Visitors approved a statement of "Purpose and Aims of the College of William and Mary." This statement was developed for the purposes of the Report of Self-Study and had a broad consensus of support within the College community. That statement, together with related documents, is attached.

As the Steering Committee of the Self-Study stated in its letter of transmittal of October 27, 1972, the statement should be subject to continual review and change in order to accurately reflect the purpose and aims of the Institution.

In January, 1974, the State Council of Higher Education published the Virginia Plan for Higher Education that contained a statement of William and Mary's mission, based upon the Report of Self-Study and the statement approved by the Board of Visitors. The State Council statement is also attached.

In the intervening years much has happened at the College and in the environment in which it operates to lead me to feel more confident than ever that our fundamental mission at William and Mary is sound and viable. I believe that we continue to have within the college community a broad and strong consensus in favor of that mission. I see one of my major responsibilities as being to support, foster and protect that mission.

At the same time it behooves us to continue to examine and re-examine our priorities and our allocation of resources within the College and its component parts, to be sure that all possible resources and energies are being directed in the most effective way toward that mission. This process becomes especially important in a period of continuing scarce resources which require that difficult choices be made, both college-wide and within parts of the College.

I am charging with this task of examination of priorities and allocation of resources the Long-Range Planning Committee, which is broadly representative of various College interests, and which has such a responsibility implicit in its present charge. To bring its title more accurately into line with this function, in consultation with its chairman I have changed the name of the Long-Range Planning Committee to the Planning and Priorities Committee.

Before the Planning and Priorities Committee can well begin the process of examining priorities and the allocation of resources within the College, there must be gathered and ordered comparable data on our present allocation and use of resources. To do so, I am establishing immediately an ad hoc task force whose responsibility it will be to organize such data, as expeditiously and accurately as possible, for the use of the Planning and Priorities Committee. My hope is that the bulk of the pertinent data will be available to the Committee by the end of this academic year.

The task force will be responsible to George R. Healy,

Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost. It is constituted as follows:

Martin A. Garrett, Professor of Economics
Henry C. Johnson, Registrar and Director of Automated Data Processing
Peter V. O'Neil, Professor of Mathematics
James M. Yankovich, Dean, School of Education
George R. Healy, Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost, ex officio
David E. Kranbuehl, Associate Dean, Faculty of Arts and Sciences, Chairman

It is expected that the task force, and particularly its chairman, Dean Kranbuehl, will continue to operate, as needed, beyond this spring to provide data as requested by the Planning and Priorities Committee. Dean Kranbuehl, in performing his responsibilities as coordinator of information for planning, will report to Mr. Healy. These duties are in addition to his major responsibility as Associate Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences. The Office of Institutional Research will, of course, also be much involved with this data collection through its Director, Charles R. Toomajian, Jr., who will work closely with Mr. Johnson, who is a member of the Committee.

So as to lose as little time as possible in this process of planning, I am asking that each of the Faculties, through the Vice President for Academic Affairs and its Dean, and each of the major administrative offices give early consideration, in a manner that best suits its purposes and organization, to its own internal priorities. I am also asking the Planning and Priorities Committee to start now its preliminary work of organizing itself for the study of priorities and resource allocation on a college-wide basis.

As the study proceeds, the Planning and Priorities Committee will make periodic reports to the Faculties of the College, in formats yet to be decided, but which will give the fullest possible opportunity for individual comments and questions.

The essential obligation of the Planning and Priorities Committee, in this assignment, is to advise me, and where appropriate the Board of Visitors, on college-wide priorities and allocation of resources. I hope that the Committee will be ready for at least an interim report by the end of the fall semester 1977-78.

I do not want to urge that we rush toward conclusions and recommendations any earlier than our data, analyses and discussions allow, but I see this college-wide study as having the highest priority. My hope is that out of it will come not only a reaffirmation of our fundamental mission, but a consensus on how we can together best direct our resources and energies toward its support.

academic and professional graduate programs prepare students to contribute at the frontiers of their fields and add to the cultural and intellectual opportunities for everyone. For residents of the peninsula area of Virginia, the College of William and Mary provides imaginative educational and cultural opportunities. The commitment in all programs to liberal education is the source of institutional coherence.

In its endeavor to develop individual potentialities William and Mary pursues the goal of excellence. It concentrates its resources in compatible areas, advocates full-time, residential study in undergraduate programs that remain at a moderate size, seeks students who bring a personal initiative to their pursuits, and promotes the growth of teacher and student alike. In all programs and activities it strives to use the most promising means of teaching and learning. In all relationships it seeks a sense of community. It encourages an association of the personal and academic lives of its members and provides the opportunity for each to participate in the governance of the institution.

The College of William and Mary is a university of unusual strength and promise. It is large enough to provide a diversity of opportunities and interactions, yet small enough to be humane, responsive, and innovative. Its engagement in the creation, criticism, and sharing of knowledge, art and values provides the setting for a variety of activities that embody the spirit of liberal education.

Board Resolution

Board of Visitors
November 9-10, 1972

STATEMENT OF PURPOSE AND AIMS OF THE COLLEGE OF WILLIAM AND MARY

A Statement of Purpose and Aims of the College of William and Mary has been circulated by the Steering Committee of the College Self-Study among students, faculties and administrative personnel for consideration and endorsement. The faculties of Arts and Sciences and each of the graduate Schools have acted favorably, as has the Senate of the undergraduate Student Association. The Chairman of the Self-Study Steering Committee has officially reported these results to the President of the College, and recommended that the Statement be submitted to the Board of Visitors for concurrence. The President also has carefully reviewed the document and, finding it compatible with his own views as to the mission of the College, recommends favorable consideration by the Board of Visitors.

BE IT RESOLVED, That the Board of Visitors hereby concurs in the objectives for William and Mary as enunciated by the Steering Committee of the Self-Study, and endorses the purpose and aims so stated.

SCHEV's Virginia Plan for Higher Education

The College of William and Mary
Williamsburg January, 1974

Founded in 1693, as the second institution of higher education in this country, The College of William and Mary is a highly selective, co-educational, full-time, residential university, with primary emphasis on a liberal education in depth and breadth at the undergraduate level. It is a State university and at the same time is national and international in character and contribution. The College offers the Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science degrees, and the Bachelor of Business Administration degree. Furthermore, it offers graduate degrees in arts and sciences and graduate degrees in the professions of business, education, and law.

Summary of Institutional Plans

TYPE OF INSTITUTION—This institution is, and plans to continue to be, a doctoral-granting institution placing limited emphasis on doctoral programs in those disciplines for which the College is especially qualified.

EXTENT OF INVOLVEMENT IN INSTRUCTION, RESEARCH, AND PUBLIC SERVICE—The primary emphasis at William and Mary is on providing the highest quality instruction. The College's involvement in research is confined primarily but not exclusively to the departmental research necessary as a complement to the teaching process. Organized or sponsored research is carried on in most departments to the extent required to support relevant graduate programs and for faculty development.

The College recognizes the importance of public service and offers a wide range of courses, seminars, and programs to adults, both for credit and non-credit. The College's public service activities serve the local community and immediate surrounding areas on the Williamsburg campus and at the Virginia Associated Research Campus, through the Office of Special Programs, the Evening Division, and the Summer Session. Christopher Newport College, a branch of The College of William and Mary, is the urban extension of the educational programs of William and Mary, and offers significant public service in the Peninsula region.

The College of William and Mary will propose additions to its undergraduate and graduate curricula as they are needed to enhance its primary mission as an undergraduate college of the liberal arts and sciences and to be of service in areas in which the College is especially qualified. The State Council of Higher Education will study such proposals carefully to determine whether they are consistent with the mission of the institution and whether there is, in addition, a need within Virginia for the program.

Letter of transmittal from Steering Committee

October 27, 1972

Dear President Graves:

One of the requirements of an institution conducting a self-study for the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools is that the institution should clearly define its purpose and should incorporate this definition into a statement which is a pronouncement of its role in the educational world. If such a statement is to be effective it must obviously represent the views of the Governing Board, the Administration, the Faculties and the Student Body.

The Committee on Purpose and Aims submitted the enclosed Statement to the Steering Committee after members of each constituency had been given the opportunity to comment on an earlier draft of the Statement.

The Steering Committee of the Institutional Self-Study fully supported the Statement and in order to determine the degree of acceptance of the Statement by the College Community, the Steering Committee requested that each constituency of the College formally endorse the Statement in its present form. The Steering Committee recognized that the Statement would not be perfectly acceptable to all members of each constituency but, to permit each group to amend the Statement and to have each amendment ratified by all other constituencies would have posed an almost impossible task.

In its present form the Statement has received widespread endorsement: The School of Business and the School of Education voted unanimous endorsement, the Student Association voted endorsement 29-0, the College of Liberal Arts voted endorsement 131-31 and the Marshall-Wythe School of Law voted endorsement 10-5. Moreover, you have stated that the Statement is in keeping with your understanding of the mission of the College. Although the Graduate Student Associations and the Society of the Alumni have yet to consider endorsement, it is obvious that the Statement has received widespread acceptance among the Administration, the Faculties and the Student Body of the College Community. The Steering Committee of the Institutional Self-Study therefore requests that the Statement be presented to the Board of Visitors for formal endorsement in its present form at the November meeting.

The Steering Committee wishes to emphasize that, as with other aspects of the College, this Statement should be subject to continual review and change in order to accurately reflect the purpose and aims of the Institution.

Respectfully,

|                   |                          |
|-------------------|--------------------------|
| Charles Davidson  | Mark Robertson           |
| Emeric Fischer    | George Sands             |
| Mark Gulesian     | Arden Sher               |
| Margaret Hamilton | Richard Vargo            |
| Thomas Hearn      | John Willis              |
| Mary Mann         | Martin Garrett, Chairman |

Statement of Purposes and Aims

The College of William and Mary is a small university, supported by the Commonwealth of Virginia and operated under the general supervision of a Board of Visitors appointed by the Governor.

The basic goal of the institution and the heart of its mission in serving the Commonwealth is the development of individual capabilities through liberal education. By liberal education is meant an introduction to those areas of inquiry which heighten one's ability to cope with his environment and to modify his behavior in order to accomplish his objectives, familiarity with a broad range of knowledge and skills which improve one's decision-making abilities, exposure to a range of value systems and encouragement to construct a personal system of beliefs as a foundation for personal happiness, and provision of a variety of experiences which improve one's ability to make and to communicate intellectually and aesthetically defensible discriminations based upon personally examined grounds. William and Mary seeks to develop independent, responsive, and responsible individuals.

The aims of liberal education are pursued in all areas and on all levels of study. The fullest expression of this concern is the undergraduate arts and sciences program which has a long tradition and broad endorsement. Undergraduate professional programs combine liberal education with the development of more specialized professional competencies. In areas where appropriate strengths exist,

Nominations Sought For Mann Award

Nominations are being sought for the Glenn D. Mann Scholarship, a $500 award which recognizes the William and Mary student who is actively involved in Williamsburg area community service.

The scholarship was established as a memorial to Glenn D. Mann, a 1962 graduate and Marine helicopter pilot who was killed in South Vietnam in 1965. As a student, Mann was active in community affairs, particularly the Williamsburg Rescue Squad.

The award is made to the student who best exemplifies self-sacrifice to the common good, dedication to principle, perseverance and strong moral character.

Nominations from local residents and members of the College community will be considered by a four-member selection committee, including the mayor of Williamsburg, the president of the student body, and two College administrators. Nominations should be submitted in writing no later than March 18 to E. Leon Looney, director of student aid, 303 James Blair Hall.

All sessions begin at the Courthouse of 1770 on Market Square and will be conducted by professional CW guides. Special features, such as baking gingerbread cookies at Raleigh Tavern, will be part of the tours. For further information, contact Laurie Lucker, at 220-0232 or 253-9248.

Development Office Grant Opportunities

NATIONAL SCIENCE FOUNDATION

Social Science Projects - Research proposals in social sciences with starting dates of Sept. or Oct. 1977 should be received by NSF by March 31 for the following programs: Economics, Political Science, Sociology, History and Philosophy of Science, Human Geography and Regional Science. Proposals with a Jan. 1, 1978, starting date should be received by NSF by Aug. 31, 1977. For further information, contact Dr. Herbert Costner, NSF Division of Social Sciences (632-4286).

Research in Science Education - Proposals for educational research in the natural and social sciences, mathematics and engineering are invited. Eligible topics include: (1) evaluation of existing research findings and studies in order to focus on differences between actual and desired science education practices and to identify needed new research; (2) research studies in several areas of science education, curriculum development, and science instruction; and (3) exploratory research in science education. Copies of the program guidelines are available from Julia B. Leverenz in the Grants Office, Ext. 4391. Deadline: April 22.

Visiting Women Scientists Program - Proposals are invited for (1) Science Career Workshops for women undergraduate and graduate students in science. (2) Science Career Facilitation Projects aimed at women who received bachelor's or master's degrees in science between 2 and 15 years ago and who wish to enter or reenter careers in science or graduate education in science, and (3) a Visiting Women Scientists Project for high school students. A copy of the proposal guidelines is available from Julia B. Leverenz in the Grants Office, Ext. 4391. Deadline: March 25.

NATIONAL ENDOWMENT FOR THE HUMANITIES

Summer Seminars for College Teachers - Reminder: Deadline for applications is March 15.

Consultant Grants - Small grants to aid in the process of reconsidering existing curricula by engaging the services of consultants from the NEH National Board of Consultants. Consultants provide advice on how to build successful humanities programs. Further details and a list of consultants are available from Julia B. Leverenz, Ext. 4391. Deadlines: March 15 and June 15.

Education Projects - To encourage the development and testing of imaginative approaches to education in the humanities by supporting demonstration projects which can be completed within a specified period of time, which address a particular topic in humanities education and which promise to have widespread impact in many educational institutions. Projects usually emphasize training faculty in new approaches to their disciplines, the pilot period of a program, or the design of new curriculum materials. Deadline: April 1.

ENERGY RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT ADMINISTRATION

Special Projects in Energy Education and Training - proposals are solicited to assess or study a problem or to test the proposed solutions to a problem important to the nation's energy education on a national basis. Program guidelines are available from Julia B. Leverenz, Grants Office, Ext. 4391. Deadline: March 31.

Program Slated On New Course In French

Students interested in learning about the accelerated beginning French course being offered for the first time next fall are invited to an information session on Wednesday, March 16 at 7 p.m. in Rooms A&B of the Campus Center.

The College has received a grant of approximately $6,000 from the Exxon Education Foundation to initiate French 101X, a Dartmouth Intensive Language Model in French, under the direction of Paul Cloutier, associate professor of modern languages.

Students spend more time initially at the job of learning a foreign language, both in the classroom and language laboratory, but achieve fluency in the language at a more rapid rate than students taught by conventional methods.

A film demonstrating the unusual technique will be shown followed by discussion.

Official Memorandum,

UNIQUE CHARACTERISTICS OF THE INSTITUTION--The unique characteristics of William and Mary are found in such qualities as the high selectivity of students, resulting from limited enrollment and heavy applications, the residential and full-time undergraduate programs, the integrated curriculum, the strong liberal tradition, and the relatively moderate size of the institution and its classes--adding up to a State university that provides a special educational opportunity for the citizens of Virginia.

OTHER PLANNING CRITERIA--The College of William and Mary has a policy of drawing 70 percent of its undergraduate enrollment from Virginia. The remaining 30 percent of undergraduate enrollment, which is drawn from outside Virginia, provides a significant national and international character and contribution to the College.

The College is primarily a residential institution with nearly all of its undergraduate enrollment living on campus and enrolled full-time. It will accept local students living off campus as freshmen. At present, 19 percent of graduate enrollment and 22 percent of the law enrollment are from out-of-state in terms of technical domicile. All law students and most graduate students in arts and sciences and business are full-time, while most graduate students in education are part-time.

The College of William and Mary is responsible for the operations of two branch institutions: Christopher Newport College and Richard Bland College.

Roland Carter

A DUO-PIANO CONCERT of both classical and contemporary works will be presented Wednesday, March 2 at 8:15 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall by artists Roland Marvin Carter and Greer Dawson Wilson, both of Hampton Institute. Sponsored by William and Mary's student activities office, the concert is open to the public free of charge.

"Jesu Joy of Man's Desiring" by J.S. Bach, Chopin's "Rondo," opus 73, and other classical works will highlight the first half of the program. Contemporary works will dominate the final portion of the program, including Scott Joplin's "Maple Leaf Rag" and "The Entertainer," Morris Albert's "Feelings," and Masser and Goffin's theme from "Mahogany."

Carter, a member of the music faculty and choir director at Hampton Institute since 1971, serves as music director of the Peninsula Youth Orchestra, and is active in several other Peninsula music organizations. He has served on the board of directors of the National Association of Negro Musicians and in 1974 won that organization's Distinguished Musician Award.

Greer Wilson, coordinator of student activities and director of the student union at Hampton Institute, has studied piano since the age of four. She received a bachelor's degree in music education from Indiana University and pursued graduate studies in music both there and at Virginia Commonwealth University. She holds a master's degree in counseling and guidance from Hampton Institute.
