CRISIS IN IRELAND--Ronan Fanning, senior Fulbright scholar at Georgetown University, will discuss "The Present Crisis in Northern Ireland," Monday, April 4, at 4 p.m. in Morton Hall 220. The public is invited to attend.

Fanning is on leave at Georgetown from University College in Dublin, where he lectures on modern Irish history. He was educated in Dublin and at Cambridge University. Fanning has published a number of articles and books on modern Ireland and is presently joint editor of "Irish Historical Studies."

Fanning's visit to campus is sponsored by the government and history departments. In addition to his public lecture, Fanning will lecture to Associate Professor James McCord's British history class at 9 a.m. on April 4 and will attend a coffee hour sponsored by Pi Sigma Alpha, the government honor society, at 3:15 p.m. that afternoon in the government department library.

CHOIR TOUR--The 66-member College Choir, under the direction of Frank T. Lendrim, will sing in St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York on April 3 as part of a spring concert tour.

The choir will give an afternoon concert at the Cathedral as well as performances in Connecticut, Maryland and New Jersey, beginning in Alexandria, Va., April 1.

The concerts are the first for the choir since it participated in the world premiere of the oratorio "To Form a More Perfect Union," in Phi Beta Kappa Hall in December, marking the 200th anniversary of the founding of Phi Beta Kappa by five William and Mary students, December 5, 1776.

RECITAL--Melita Pleasants Osborne will present a voice recital, Saturday, April 9, at 8:15 p.m. in the Campus Center Ballroom. There is no admission charge, and the public is invited to attend.

A student of Robin Roark, Osborne is a senior chemistry major. Her program will include works by Caccini, Scarlatti, Mozart, Schubert and Moore.

Two Chosen For NEH Fellowships

Two professors at the College have been named Fellows of the National Endowment for the Humanities' College Teachers in Residence program for 1977-78.

Assistant Professor of English Trudier Harris will be in residence at Brown University, where she will participate in a seminar on "The Black American Experience: Insiders and Outsiders" especially designed for the NEH Fellows. Harris will also undertake independent research on lynching and burning rituals in Black literature.

Assistant Professor of Philosophy F. Robert Bohl Jr. will be in residence at the University of California at Davis. Bohl will participate in a seminar on "The Nature of Knowledge and Knowledge of Nature," as well as conduct research on a new theory of the structure of knowledge.

The NEH fellowships carry stipends of $14,500 for a nine-month period and were awarded to fewer than 200 competitors from across the United States. Sixteen different seminars will be held in 1977-78, each limited to twelve Fellows.

The fellowships are designed for college instructors who are primarily concerned with increasing their own knowledge of the subjects they teach in order to improve their teaching.

Fellows are chosen on the basis of their academic qualifications, the importance of their projects as contributions to the excellence of teaching in the humanities, and the candidate's commitment as a college teacher.

works by Black writers will be valuable for the literature courses she teaches at William and Mary, including her course on Black literature in America.

Harris is interested in both the psychological attitudes and the societal role play at work in the violence committed and in the works Black writers produce.

A member of the William and Mary faculty since 1973, Harris holds her undergraduate degree from Washington College and both graduate degrees from Ohio State University.

Robert Bohl anticipates that his research on the structure of knowledge will be an asset in the courses he teaches in contemporary philosophy.

"There are two dominant, contemporary views on the structure of knowledge," he said. "They are both half-right and half-wrong. I think I might be able to get a plausible view that incorporates the two views."

Bohl said, "It's really important to me that I teach well."

He feels he teaches best when he's learning as much as he is teaching his students, and he expects the seminar to be a valuable experience.

Bohl joined the William and Mary faculty in 1972. He received the B.A. from Rutgers University and M.A. and Ph.D. from Brown University.

He is on leave from William and Mary this semester to teach a graduate seminar and undergraduate courses at the University of Virginia.

Admissions Requests Reported Up

The College is getting more requests for admission this year than last, contradicting a national trend which shows a leveling off of applications for admission to colleges and universities elsewhere.

At the undergraduate level, admission requests for the freshman class this fall are up 16 percent over a year ago.

At the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, applications are up 13 percent over last year.

Robert P. Hunt, dean of admissions, said that the College had received 4,717 freshman applications and 608 applications from transfer students a year ago. This year the office has 5,489 freshman and 710 transfer applications, or a total increase of 874 applications.

Law School applications this year have reached a record 2,346. Last year the school received 2,054 applications.

Approximately 1,050 freshman and 160 transfer students can be enrolled in 1977-78, out of a total projected undergraduate student body of about 4,350.

Nearly 60 percent of the freshman applications are from out of state students. As a state supported institution, however, William and Mary limits out-of-state enrollment to 30 percent of the student body.

For the 1977-78 freshman class, approximately one in ten of the 3,229 out-of-state applicants can be enrolled, compared to one in three of the 2,260 Virginia applicants.

Hunt said that the increase in applications applies across-the-board. We're generally up in all categories, in and out of state, and among both men and women," he said. Applications for both Virginia and out-of-state men are up by 13 percent, while Virginia women's applications increased nine percent and out-of-state women's 27 percent.

Hunt said minority applications are up 58 percent this year. Last year 240 non-white students applied; this year 380 applied.

Dean Hunt said that the quality of high school and transfer students applying to William and Mary appears to be at least as high as it has been in recent years.

At the law school, officials now reviewing the applications for next fall's entering class of 150 say that the quality of applicants is "every bit as high as it's always been, and if anything, the students applying are more qualified than the year before." Nationally, the American Bar Association reports, the quantity and the quality of applications began to decline in 1976 for the first time since 1968.

Richard A. Williamson, associate dean for admissions, says that Marshall-Wythe does "seem to be going in the opposite direction from a number of other law schools."

He predicted that two-thirds of this year's applicants would probably be qualified to enter Marshall-Wythe. Only one of 11 of those qualified will be admitted to next fall's freshman class.

Because Marshall-Wythe is state-supported, applicants from Virginia have a better chance of being selected. Last fall's entering class consisted of 104 Virginians and 47 students from out-of-state. Yet in 1976, almost twice as many out-of-state students applied, compared to those from the Old Dominion.

Currently, about 450 students attend Marshall-Wythe.

New Radio Series Features College Personalities

Listeners to more than 50 radio stations from Maine to North Carolina are tuning in each week to hear William and Mary professors talk about everything from love and marriage to the economics of health care.

Professors and administrators from the College, as well as guests from Colonial Williamsburg, are the featured guests on "The Williamsburg Report," a weekly five-minute interview program produced and marketed by the Office of Information Services. Most interviews are taped, edited and copied on campus, then mailed to a wide range of commercial stations.

During the first 34 weeks of the series, guests on the program represented 15 different academic departments. Chemistry professor Richard Kiefer discussed alternatives to nuclear power plants, biology professor Bruce Grant gave audiences a taste of Highland bagpipe music, economics professor Allen Sanderson talked about capital punishment, and history professor Dale Hoak discussed old and new forms of witchcraft.

A number of interviews have covered College personalities and events. Parke Rouse, author of "Cows on Campus," presented a fascinating personality sketch of the Rev. James Blair, the College's first president. Former vice president for student affairs J. Wilfred Lambert described the longlasting appeal of William and Mary's homecoming weekend. President Thomas A. Graves, Jr., in an interview closing out the Bicentennial year, discussed the course William and Mary will take in the future as it prepares students to face a world "that's at least as challenging as the one faced by Thomas Jefferson when he graduated more than two centuries ago."

Other guests have included student residence coordinator Virginia Hughes, who talked about old and new Christmas traditions at the College, and Carolyn Holmes, curator of Ash Lawn.

Professor Norman Fashing talks about insects with Lisa Offley and Jim Rees for a segment of the Williamsburg Report to be broadcast in May.

Response from subscribing stations has been exceptional, and some have decided to schedule "The Williamsburg Report" during morning "drive-time," the two hours when the most radios are in use as people drive to work. Station WPIK-WXRA in Alexandria writes that the "subject matter and format are interesting and well presented." Two New York stations commented that the show is "a great addition to our broadcasting program," with interviews that are "off-beat enough to attract attention." Station managers have also commented the questions of interviewer Lisa Offley, a member of the Office of Information Services staff.

"The Williamsburg Report" is the first series of radio programs the Office of Information Services has marketed on the East coast. The program is produced by Jim Rees, who coordinates radio and television programming at the Information Office. Students at the audio-visual department in Swem Library prepare the copies of the tape on multiple-feed machines.

"There are still some key listening areas we're trying to line up, particularly in Richmond and Norfolk," said Rees, "but overall, I think we've secured a wide range of stations throughout the northeast."

The best thing about "The Williamsburg Report" is its low production cost—tape, mailer, postage and student help needed to produce a single spot for one station cost about 87 cents. Rees and Offley tape most of the interviews in the professors' offices or at the Alumni House with a portable reel-to-reel recorder.

The purpose of the program is primarily to serve the public by informing them about current issues, and by entertaining them with lively, fast-paced human interest segments. "But we also realize," says Rees, "that it's important to communicate to listeners that William and Mary people are the brightest and most interesting scholars you can find. It's really the people you interview that make or break a show like this, and our people have been outstanding."

Stations in Virginia that air weekly segments of "The Williamsburg Report" include WPIK-WXRA, Alexandria (Sunday, 9:35 a.m.); WFLO AM-FM, Farmville (Saturday, 9:05 a.m.); WDDY, Gloucester (Saturday, 9:55 a.m.); WOLD AM-FM, Marion (AM: Saturday, 11:10 a.m. and FM: Sunday, 6:35 a.m.); WYCS, Yorktown (Tuesday, 6 p.m.); WLSD, Big Stone Gap (Tuesday, 8:45 a.m.); WMEK, Chase City (Saturday, 5:10 p.m.); WHBG, Harrisonburg (Wednesday, 12:45 p.m.); WMBC, Williamsburg (Sunday, 11:30 a.m.); and WEXM AM/FM, Exmore (Friday, 9:05 a.m.).

Out-of-state stations include WTHD, Milford, Del. (Saturday, 12:20 p.m.); WHFC, Bel Air, MD. (Wednesday, 1 p.m.); WSNJ AM-FM, Bridgeton, N.J. (Tuesday, 8:35 p.m.); WCLI AM-FM, Corning, N.Y. (weekdays 9:30 a.m.); WCKB AM, Dunn, N.C. (Wednesday, 9:45 a.m.); WLSE, Wallace, N.C. (Monday, 9:30 a.m.); WYNN, Florence, S.C. (Saturday, 9:05 a.m.); WMCS, Machias, Me. (Friday, 8:30 a.m.); WPAA-FM, Andover, Mass. (Friday, 7:20 p.m.); WOKO, Albany, N.Y. (Sunday, 8:20 p.m.); WJTN, Jamestown, N.Y. (Saturday, 11:35 a.m.); WVIN, Bath, N.Y. (Tuesday, 11:10 a.m.); WFSC, Franklin, N.C. (Saturday, 6:15 p.m.); WPEA, Exeter, New Hampshire (Saturday, 8 p.m.); WSBF-FM, Clemson, S.C. (Wednesday, 1 p.m.); and WPNO, Auburn, Maine (Saturday, 6:55 a.m. and Sunday, 6:25 a.m.).

Official Memorandum

From: George R. Healy and William J. Carter
To: Deans, Directors and Department Heads
Subject: Continuation of Controlled Expenditures Program

In a memorandum dated January 25, 1977, President Graves imposed a moratorium on expenditures at the College of William and Mary, with the moratorium to extend "through the end of February", by which time he hoped that we would be in a more knowledgeable position from which to assess the fiscal implications for the balance of the 1976-77 budget year.

The magnitude of a potential shortfall continues to be projected in excess of $250,000, despite the abatement of the normal spending pattern by a significant amount. The continued projection of such a shortfall, despite savings during the period of the moratorium, is predicated largely upon the now-definite requirement for the reversion of an additional 1% of our General Fund appropriation, or more than $108,000, the total reversion for 1976-77 thus being 6% or $649,760. In addition, utility costs have exceeded earlier estimates by over $100,000, despite savings of over $50,000 made possible by the new computer-controlled energy system. This increase is caused by a combination of a unit cost increase as well as the extraordinarily cold weather.

This situation was reported to the Board of Visitors on March 18, and the Board expressed its "grave concern as to the impact of mandatory reversions on the educational program and essential supporting services of the College." The Board emphasized again that all available remedies should be pursued to the utmost to relieve this potential shortfall.

Although the formal moratorium has been lifted by President Graves, we are obliged to continue a closely-monitored program of controlled spending through the end of the current fiscal year, effective immediately.

While it is our intent to seek the least dislocative approach, the most promising areas for savings appear to be:

1. Travel - Either out-of-State or overnight
2. Equipment purchases

3. Library purchases
4. Publications
5. Communications, including both telephone and mail service
6. Duplicating services, including Xeroxing

The first four items will continue to require the written approval of the appropriate dean and vice-president.

The items of Communications and Duplicating Services should be controlled as stringently as possible at the departmental level. We should be receiving our first departmentalized Centrex billings at an early date, and we will be sharing them with you for your aid in exercising such control.

It is becoming increasingly clear that a portion of the anticipated shortfall will have to be carried forward into the 1977-78 fiscal year, with a resulting decrease in our appropriation for that year. Accordingly, every dollar saved in 1976-77 will make it possible for the 1977-78 budget to be more responsive to the needs of the College next year, when we shall be faced with an additional reversion of at least 6%.

We realize that the most desirable means of controlling such a fiscal situation would be at the departmental level through budget revisions. However, the time frame in which we find ourselves does not permit the detailed departmental budget analysis required for such an approach, in view of the time requirements for the development of a 1977-78 College budget, as well as the 1978-80 biennial budget request which must be presented this summer.

You are urged further to process invoices directly upon receipt of the goods or services involved, so that we may monitor as closely as possible the actual expenditures. You should assume no expenditures beyond your current operating budget; it is our intention that such expenditures will not be processed.

This memorandum does not affect the expenditure of private funds or grant research funds.

We will appreciate your continued cooperation in this matter.

Unusual Recordings Of American Music Given To College

William and Mary's music department is one of a selected group of schools and libraries across the nation chosen to receive a gift of a Recorded Anthology of American Music, a 100 record collection of all kinds of American music, past and present.

Intended to reflect the social and cultural history of the United States through its music, the records are being distributed in a series through the Recorded Anthology of American Music, a non-profit company created by a grant from the Rockefeller Foundation. The project is scheduled for completion by the end of 1978.

According to department chairman Frank Lendrim, American music in all idioms and from all periods will be represented—folk and jazz, symphonic and chamber, religious music from gospel to liturgical, country and western, avant-garde and traditional, and musical theater in all its variety.

Lendrim said that many works never before recorded were performed by distinguished American artists expressly for the series. Other discs will be drawn from the vast store of historic commercial and scholarly recordings, many of which have been long unavailable, he said.

The repertory has been selected by an editorial committee of musicologists, critics, composers, and performers.

The records will be kept in the Music Department Library in Ewell Hall. Seventeen are already available, including original recordings of the Sousa and Pryor bands from 1901-26; songs of the Civil War and of the American Revolution; country and blue grass music from the 1940's to the 70's; jazz; 1850's piano music and a host of other selections.

Aquatics Group Swims 'Impressions'

Imagine a ballet where dancers were free of the force of gravity and you will have an idea what to expect of the creative aquatics performance "Impressions" by William and Mary's Mermettes, March 30-April 1, at 8:15 p.m. at Adair Pool.

The public is invited to attend. There is no admission charge.

The program encompasses a wide variety of aquatic numbers—from "Connections," which features swimmers using ribbons in a variety of floating patterns, to the finale, "It's An Underwater World," which involves all 30

Asian Studies Group Meets

Scholars in the field of Asian Studies will meet on campus, April 1 and 2, for the spring colloquium of the Virginia Consortium for Asian Studies.

Approximately 20 Virginia colleges and universities are members of the Consortium, which was organized in 1966 to foster a better understanding of Asian life and culture. William and Mary joined last spring.

Participants will arrive in Williamsburg Friday afternoon for registration and a Japanese dinner at Asia House.

Mrs. Kyoko Okamoto, president of the Washington Koto Society, will present a concert of koto music at 8:30 p.m. at Asia House. The public is invited to attend.

Consortium members will participate in a symposium on resource-sharing opportunities, Saturday, from 9:30 a.m. until noon in the Sit 'n Bull Room of the Campus Center. The symposium will focus on the outreach programs of the South and East Asian Languages and Area Centers at the University of Virginia.

Speakers include Craig Canning, assistant professor of history, and Thomas Creamer, resident advisor at Asia House.

A panel discussion on "Asia Today — The Current Situation and Its Implications for United States Foreign Policy" will be held at 1:30 p.m. in the Sit 'n Bull Room of the Campus Center. The public is invited to attend.

Panelists and their areas of expertise are: Terry E. MacDougall, department of government and foreign affairs, UVa, Japan and Korea; Lewis M. Purifoy, history department, Emory and Henry College, China; Lewis P. Fickett, political science department, Mary Washington College, India; and Ronald Krannich, political science department, Old Dominion University, Southeast Asia. Moderator is David Anthony, a member of the Asian Studies department at Randolph-Macon Woman's College. The public is invited to attend.

Craig Canning is in charge of local arrangements.

Mermettes and is performed entirely under water.

Carol Corsepius, a sophomore from Springfield, Va., choreographed "Connections," and Karen Stephan, a senior from McLean, Va., created "It's An Underwater World."

Stephan, a director for Mermettes, has teamed with co-director Hatsy Sagan, a senior from Leesburg, Va., to choreograph "Resilient Reflections." Stephan and Sagan will perform the duet, in which movement is based on the idea of elasticity.

Movement also plays an important role in Tammy Vance's "Keep Pulling." Vance is a freshman from McLean, Va.

Body lights worn by performers create a special effect in the number "Variations on a Theme in AC or DC," choreographed by Linda Beezer, a junior from Lancaster, Pa.

Several works have a humorous undertone. Harlequin costumes add a comic twist to "Surely You Jest," by freshman Mary Ward, Arlington, Va. Priscilla Brown, a senior from Arlington, Va., uses music from James Bond movies in her 007 spoof, "Blunderball."

Different characters take time out from their usual routines in Hatsy Sagan's "A Time for Play."

"The 5th Fifth of Beethoven" also strikes a light-hearted note. Choreographer Jan Laberteaux, a senior from Bethlehem, Pa., combines the classical and modern versions of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony to create an aquatics performance that is both graceful and energetic.

In a more serious vein, Joan Floyd has choreographed "Elegy," which the swimmers will perform to a reading of Floyd's poem of the same title. Floyd is a senior from Ellicott City, Md.

Choreographer Mindy Hallgren, a junior from Williamsburg, Va., has also chosen a more somber theme for two numbers she has created, the duet "And It Will Slip Away" and "After the Laughter" in which she will solo.

Mermettes faculty advisor is Jan Tomlinson.

Band Program Includes Student Works

Hibbard Memorial Concert Will Be Held On Friday

Two musical selections by student composers will be included in the program of the William and Mary Concert Band for the annual Carl Hibbard Memorial Concert, April 1 at 8:15 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

The public is invited to attend. Admission is $1.50. Tickets will be on sale at the Campus Center desk and at the Phi Beta Kappa box office the evening of the performance.

The band will play "Penitential Psalms," by Gregory Johnson, a senior from Virginia Beach; and "Theme and Variations," by Hal Breitenberg, a senior from Springfield, Va.

Featured soloist will be Milton Chappell of Hopewell, who will play Grieg's Concerto in A Minor for Piano.

The band, under the direction of Charles R. Varner, will open its program with the introduction to Act III of Lohengrin by Wagner. The first portion of the program will also include the finale from "Death and Transfiguration," by Richard Strauss; portions from "Pictures at an Exhibition," by Moussorgsky; and "Concertino for Percussion," by Clifton Williams.

The second portion of the program will include Chappell's solo and will conclude with selections from George Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess."

Proceeds from the concert go to the Carl Hibbard Band Scholarship Fund, established in 1958 by Capt. and Mrs. R.C. Hibbard in memory of their son, a former student at the College and former member of the College band.

1,500 Expected For Relays

Head track coach Baxter Berryhill anticipates an "outstanding field of competitors" for the 15th annual Colonial Relays at Cary Stadium, April 1 and 2.

"It looks as though we will have close to 1,500 competitors, from Boston to Florida," he said.

Friday's events begin at 2:45 p.m. at Cary Field track with the 440 Intermediate Hurdles and conclude at 5:30 p.m. with the Distance Medley Relay Championship.

On Saturday, competition opens at 9:30 a.m., when both the Discuss and 10,000 Meter Run are scheduled.

Events will continue throughout the day, closing with the 1 Mile Relay Championship at 5:40 p.m.

Competitors will include two of the foremost track clubs in the country, the Philadelphia Pioneer Track Club and the D.C. Striders, as well as top high school and college runners. The relays will also include one of the biggest fields ever of women's events.

Tickets are $2 for the weekend and are on sale at the William and Mary Hall ticket office and from local members of the Kiwanis Club. Tickets will also be sold at the gate during the relays.

Summer Study In England

The School of Education will sponsor a summer study program at Rolle College, Exmouth, England, on the Open School, June 19 through July 10.

The program will be an intensive study of the philosophy and techniques of child-centered education and the organization of Open School classrooms.

Cost of instruction, transportation in England, room, meals and transfers is $550.

April 1 has been set as the deadline to register. Further information and registration materials are available from Paul Unger at the School of Education, phone 253-4289.

Klappert Wins Poetry Award

Poet-in-residence Peter Klappert has won the Lucille Medwick Award of the Poetry Society of America for his poem "Estienne."

Judged the best poem of under 100 lines on a humanitarian theme, "Estienne," is from the manuscript of "Idiot Princess of the Last Dynasty" and deals with the theme of suicide. It is basically a dialogue between Dr. Matthew O'Connor, persona of all poems in the "Idiot Princess" manuscript, and a poet friend in Paris in 1939.

Klappert's poem will be published in the fall issue of "Antaeus," which is edited by poet Daniel Halpern. Halpern is editor of a new definitive anthology of young poets, "The American Poetry Anthology," in which Klappert is included.

Klappert came to William and Mary last fall from France, where he was conducting research and writing a book of poems about the fall of France in 1939-40.

His poetry has been published in numerous magazines as well as in several anthologies. He was winner in 1970 of the Yale Series of Younger Poets competition for a collection of verse entitled "Lugging Vegetables to Nantucket."

He is also the author of "After the Rhymers' Guild: Recent Poetry in Central Florida," and a chapbook, "Circular Stairs, Distress in the Mirrors."

A committee of the Aspen Institute for Humanistic Studies, chaired by William F. Swindler, John Marshall Professor of Law, met last week in Williamsburg to begin discussions on a projected study of "Main Currents in American Legal Thought." Robert B. McKay, former dean of New York University Law School and director of the Institute's Justice in Society program, also participated in the discussions. A reception for committee members was given by the Law School faculty in the Great Hall of the Wren Building on March 25.

The Aspen Institute, a continuing education agency for leaders in business, labor, government and social organizations, conducts summer seminars in Colorado and winter programs in New York and Germany. It periodically undertakes multi-author studies on subjects which have been developed by the seminars. The meeting in Williamsburg will explore the feasibility of undertaking the study of American legal thought over three centuries.

Several members of the School of Business Administration faculty presented papers at the annual meeting of the Southeastern American Institute for Decision Sciences (AIDS) held last month in Birmingham, Ala.

The papers and their authors are: "Quantitative Methods in the Undergraduate Business Curricula," Wagih Dafashy and Richard Blood; "In Process Inventory Balance Through Simulation," William J. Maddocks; "Forecasting Rail Freight Traffic Movement Through Bi-Proportional Projection," Donald Messmer; and "An Empirical Evaluation of Interprofessional Accounting Communication," James E. Smith.

The papers have also been published in the Proceedings of the Southeastern AIDS.

Earlier this month William H. Warren, School of Business Administration, conducted a workshop in Williamsburg on "The Management of Management Time" for the Virginia Hotel and Motel Management Association.

William S. Cobb of the philosophy department has had a paper on "Plato's Treatment of Immortality in the Phaedo" accepted for publication in the Southern Journal of Philosophy. It will appear in the Summer 1977 issue. Combining attention to the philosophical significance of the literary and dramatic forms in the dialogue with careful analysis of the logical structures and linguistic usages in the arguments, Cobb contends that Plato does not present immortality as a serious philosophical doctrine but rather as a sort of magical charm, designed to calm the childish fear of death lest it cloud reason's recognition that the philosophical life is intrinsically preferable, even if it hastens one's death.

Margaret W. Freeman, of the department of English, attended a meeting in Princeton, March 17-19, of the College Board English Composition Test Development Committee, which she chairs. The committee's responsibility includes decisions about the new essay section to be included in the December administration of the English Achievement Test.

Jim Klagge, a 1976 graduate of the College, has had an article on Hintikka accepted for publication in Philosophical Studies. Klagge, who majored in philosophy, was a Danforth Scholar and is now attending graduate school at UCLA.

President Thomas A. Graves Jr., extended official greetings on behalf of Virginia colleges and universities at the inauguration March 27 of Thomas M. Law Jr. as president of Virginia State College in Petersburg. Graves, who serves as president of the Council of Presidents of State-supported colleges and universities in Virginia, praised Law as "an energetic and articulate colleague, and a wise and warm friend."

Professor of Chemistry S.Y. Tyree was elected vice president of the corporation at the February meeting of the board of directors of Oak Ridge Associated Universities held at Florida State University, Tallahassee.

Earlier this month Tyree addressed sections of the American Chemical Society in Lake Charles, La., Monticello, Ark., Longview, Tex., and Shreveport, La.

Writer-in-Residence Peter Klappert has had an active year, giving poetry readings and meeting with students at colleges and universities throughout Virginia and the South.

To date he has presented programs at John Carroll University, Kutztown State College, Sweet Briar College, Mary Baldwin College, Virginia Commonwealth University, Franklin and Marshall College and Christopher Newport College.

This spring he has scheduled visits to Roanoke College, the University of South Carolina at Aiken, University of Georgia, Jacksonville University and at Eckerd College in St. Petersburg, Fla. In April he will read his poetry and visit classes at several colleges in Ohio.

Recently Klappert's poem "O'Connor the Bad Traveler" and an essay on his working methods were published in the anthology Poetry as Process: Fifty Contemporary American Poems Analysed by their Authors, edited by Alberta Turner and published by the David McKay Co.

Chemist Eric Herbst, recipient of a Sloan Research Fellowship for 1976-77, discussed his study of the "darker than dark" regions of the universe at the American Chemical Society's national meeting, March 21 in New Orleans.

Herbst has collaborated with Harvard chemist William Klemperer to formulate a detailed molecular model of the chemistry of interstellar clouds--the "dark" regions of the universe located between stars. Herbst's paper will deal with "The Formation of Interstellar Molecules."

'Echo' Chosen Top Yearbook

"The Colonial Echo" yearbook has been named the top book in the nation in competition sponsored by the Society for Collegiate Journalists.

The 1976 yearbook, which was edited by Ms. Peggy Moler, Decatur, Ga. who graduated last June, received three other awards in addition to winning the "overall excellence" category.

It placed first in the "reporting in words," category and in "concept of the book" while taking a second place position in the "visual display" category.

Second place in the national contest went to "The Milestone," of Eastern Kentucky University.

"The Colonial Echo" was cited by William M. Lawbaugh, director of Journalism Studies at Catholic University and associate Professorial Lecturer in Journalism at George Washington University, this year's judge, as "one of the few books in the country deserving of a bicentennial treatment." He said "the '76 Colonial Echo utilizes the [bicentennial] theme without being exploited by it. The opening is sensational. . . organization of the book is superb, even original and distinctive."

In student newspaper competition, "The Flat Hat," edited by Robert A. Evans, a junior from Lorton, Va., received honorable mentions in the overall excellence category.

Evans received an honorable mention for editorials, while Richard Walker and Harry Braithwaite received honorable mention for photography and Hank Hoffman for cartoons.

Three Chosen For Study Abroad

Three sophomores have been selected for the School of Education exchange program. John Underhill of Alexandria, Kim Edmiston of Martinsville, and Karen Kraus of Arlington, will spend the fall term of their junior years at Rolle College in Exmouth, England.

During their term in England, the students will be exposed to the philosophical background of the open school concept. Open Schools center about non-structured classroom environments and self-initiated learning.

Stover Awarded Hope Scholarship

The James Barron Hope Scholarship for 1976-77 has been awarded to Joseph M. Stover of Alexandria, Virginia, for his story "And I Am," which appeared in the William and Mary Review. The prize of $75 is awarded annually to a Virginia student for the best piece of creative writing published in the student literary magazine by a student who is at the time below senior rank.

'NewsBank' Stores Wealth Of Information

Swem Library has just added a microfiche service that gives library users ready access to the most up-to-date information on a wide range of current issues in urban and public affairs.

Called "NewsBank," the service contains news, feature stories and editorials printed in more than 150 American newspapers in all 50 states. Indexes provide an easy guide for locating material.

NewsBank covers 17 subject categories, including business and economic development, education, environment, government structure, fine arts and architecture, law and order, the performing arts, social relations, literature and transportation.

Students researching current issues will find information on solar energy, women's movements, mass transit, child abuse, prisoners' rights, abortion, death with dignity, land use, and a wealth of other topics.

At least one newspaper from each state capital is indexed. Virginia newspapers are the Richmond Times-Dispatch, the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot and the Norfolk Journal and Guide.

Swem Library's holdings of NewsBank begin with papers published on January 1, 1976.

Fears Joins Coaching Staff

Ivan Fears, a senior from Suffolk majoring in business, has been appointed to William and Mary's football coaching staff. He replaces Dave Zimmerman, who has resigned to join the University of Cincinnati athletic staff.

Fears, who played for the Indians his freshman year until suffering a knee injury, served last year as a student assistant for the team. He has been assigned to coach receivers, a post previously held by Bill Casto, who will now direct the offensive line.

Biologist's Cancer Course For Laymen Clears Up Fears, Misconceptions

It's probably our most dreaded disease--and one of the most frightening words in the English language. Like many things people fear, it remains a mystery characterized by widespread misconceptions and a lack of knowledge.

Cancer, according to research specialist and biology professor Lawrence Wiseman, is one of the greatest unsolved mysteries the world has ever known. Yet the facts doctors and scientists have uncovered--limited as they are--contradict many of the commonly held beliefs the public has long attached to cancer.

In teaching a layman's course about cancer to people of all ages, Wiseman has attempted to clear up some of these misconceptions about cancer. He explains that research specialists are working day and night to find a cure for the disease, and then takes his students to the lab where they observe anti-cancer drugs in action against diseased cells in tissue cultures.

Students who take Wiseman's course at the Virginia Associated Research Campus in Newport News are generally individuals whose lives have been touched by cancer. Many have had relatives who have contracted the disease, and some have faced deaths in the immediate family caused by cancer. Their questions reflect the general public's typical misunderstanding of the disease. Although he's a careful research specialist at heart, Wiseman attempts to answer questions in concise, easy-to-understand terms.

Just what is cancer? Wiseman says "the best definition of cancer is an abnormal growth of cells. Generally, cells respond to the controlling influence of other cells and tissues and don't divide when they're not supposed to. But cancer cells seem to divide wildly and continue to divide."

"There really can't be any one definition of cancer because it is not one disease--there are at least 100 different kinds of cancer, and all of them are quite different in appearance and how they affect the patient," says Wiseman.

Is cancer contagious? According to Wiseman, "there's not any really good evidence to indicate that cancer can be transmitted from one person to another."

Why does it seem that more and more people are suffering from cancer? "The major reason," says Wiseman, "is that people live longer than they used to. Because cancer tends to be a disease of older people, it is natural to think that if the population on the average lives longer, more people will have cancer."

"We're also producing thousands of different kinds of chemicals which we're putting into the air and the water which didn't even exist a few years ago. Some of these do cause cancer. Today, we also have better detection devices and people go to the doctor more often, so more cases of cancer are reported. These cases may have existed before, but they just never came to the public's attention."

Why is cancer almost always fatal? "It's not now," says Wiseman, "In the 1950's, only one of four people with cancer survived more than five years after the disease was detected. Today, we can save one of three, and with earlier detection it's predicted we could save half. It's just not true that there is no hope for cancer patients."

Why can't we seem to discover a cure for cancer? Wiseman says "everybody is interested in finding a cure for cancer, but it's just not going to be as easy as some of our other great challenges in science, like going to the moon. When we went to the moon, we knew most of what we had to know. In order to find a cure for cancer, we have to uncover quite a bit of new knowledge. We just don't have a lot of the basic pieces of information about how cells work that will enable us to come up with a cure right now."

What is the key to discovering a cure for cancer in the near future? "Hopefully, scientists are starting to ask the right questions, the intelligent questions we must ask if we want to come up with very specific answers," says Wiseman. "What we need now is more time and more money to carry on."

Judicial Experts Named Visiting Professors

Three of the nation's leading experts on judicial administration will serve as visiting professors of law next fall.

Walter E. Hoffman, retired Chief Justice of the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Virginia, and Delmar Karlen, New York University law professor, have been named Tazewell Taylor Visiting Professors of Law for 1977-78.

Justice Paul C. Reardon, the first president of the board of directors for the National Center for State Courts, will serve as a guest lecturer at the College and will participate in a seminar concerning judicial administration.

Hoffman and Karlen will be the first Tazewell Taylor professors to establish residence at the College and to teach complete courses at the nation's oldest law school.

The Tazewell Taylor professorships were established at William and Mary from endowments set aside for curriculum enrichment and matching funds from the Eminent Scholars Fund. They honor two members of the Tazewell Taylor family of Norfolk.

Judge Hoffman, who retired from the bench in 1973, received the Herbert Harley Award last year from the American Judicature Society for his work in improving the effective administration of justice throughout the United States. In 1968 the Virginia Trial Lawyers Association recognized his "outstanding contributions to the advancement of the administration of justice in Virginia" with their annual award, and in 1972, Judge Hoffman received an award from William and Mary's Student Bar Association for his contributions to the College.

Judge Hoffman previously taught at Marshall-Wythe from 1933-42 on a part-time basis. He was appointed U.S. District Judge for the Eastern District of Virginia in 1954 after more than two decades as a practicing attorney in Norfolk and was named Chief Judge in 1961.

Long active in legal associations, Judge Hoffman is past president of the Norfolk and Portsmouth Bar Association, past vice president of the Virginia State Bar, and former director of the National Association of Referees in Bankruptcy. He has been a member of the board of directors for the Federal Judicial Center, serving as vice chairman in 1973-74.

Judge Hoffman holds a B.S. in economics from the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce at the University of Pennsylvania. He attended law school at William and Mary in 1928-29 and graduated from Washington and Lee University's law school in 1931.

Delmar Karlen

Professor Karlen, one of the most respected legal scholars on judicial administration and court procedures in the nation, has served as a member of the New York University faculty since 1953. He received the Warren E. Burger Award in 1976 from the Institute for Court Management for "outstanding contributions to the development of court administration."

During his tenure at N.Y.U., Karlen has held visiting professorships at the University of Chicago; University of Ankara, Turkey, where he was co-director of the Legal Research Institute; University of Sydney, Australia; Soochow University in Taipei; and at the University of Southern California. He has been active in the Institute of Judicial Administration (IJA), serving as associate director in 1952-62, as director in 1962-71, and as vice president and counsel in 1971-76.

A graduate of the University of Wisconsin and the Columbia University law school, Karlen is the author of more than ten law texts as well as numerous articles and reviews in professional journals.

Paul C. Reardon

Justice Reardon, a key mover in the founding of the National Center for State Courts, recently retired from the Massachusetts Supreme Court. He will lecture at Marshall-Wythe during his trips to Williamsburg to organize the Second National Conference on the Judiciary, which is scheduled to coincide with the opening of the new National Center next spring.

Justice Reardon is a former Chief Justice of the Massachusetts Superior Court. He is a fellow and past president of the Institute of Judicial Administration, a member of the Council of Harvard Law School Association, and trustee of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. He holds both a bachelor of arts and law degree from Harvard.

He is a former Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Board of Overseers of Harvard College, Chairman of the National Conference of State Trial Judges of the American Bar Association, Chairman of the Section of Judicial Administration, and a trustee of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency.

In 1964, Justice Reardon was appointed by the president of the ABA to head a committee to study the controversial fair trial-free press issue. The resulting five-year study, known as the Reardon Report, set press-bar standards which have been adopted in one form or another by virtually every state.

Development Office Grant Opportunities

NATIONAL SCIENCE FOUNDATION

Antarctic Research Program - Research on problems of worldwide and regional scope of current scientific importance, including environmental monitoring and resources research. Investigators may propose to perform research and analysis individually, in small teams, or in large interdisciplinary projects. Proposals describing new instrumental techniques for improving understanding of the physical characteristics of the ice sheet are also welcomed. Areas of research include glaciology, biological and medical sciences, earth sciences, upper atmosphere physics, meteorology and ocean sciences. Further information is available from Julia B. Leverenz, Grants Office, Ext. 4391. Deadline is June 1.

Social Sciences Deadlines - Proposals for research in social sciences with starting dates of September 1977 should be submitted to the National Science Foundation by March 31 for the following programs: Economics, Political Science, Sociology, History and Philosophy of Science, Human Geography and Regional Science. Proposal deadline for projects starting January 1978 is August 31, 1977. For more information, contact: Dr. Herbert Costner, Division of Social Sciences, NSF, 1800 G. St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20550. Telephone: 202/632-4286.

NATIONAL AERONAUTICS AND SPACE ADMINISTRATION

NASA is looking for Guest Investigators to participate in the Viking 75 Mission to Mars. Proposals solicited for investigations directed at the major Viking Objectives: (1) Obtain image, thermal, atmospheric water vapor information from orbit with both spatial and temporal variations. (2) Conduct investigations of planetary figure, ephemeris, internal mass distribution, upper and lower atmosphere, and relatively using the spacecraft radio systems. (3) Determine the structure, composition and meteorological phenomena of the Mars atmosphere. (4) Obtain images of the Mars surface in both mono and stereoscopic views in B&W, color, and near IR. (5) Determine the physical properties and chemical composition of Mars surface material. (6) Observe Martian seismic activity. (7) Observe samples of Mars surface material for evidence of biological activity. Program guidelines are available from Julia B. Leverenz, Grants Office, Ext. 4391. Deadline: May 15. Space Shuttle Materials Processing - Applied and basic research projects in branches of materials science where the weightlessness and ultra high vacuum obtainable in orbital flight can be exploited to unique advantage. Program information is available from Julia B. Leverenz, Grants Office, Ext. 4391; the deadline for preliminary proposals is April 6.

NATIONAL INSTITUTES OF HEALTH

Hypertension Control Projects - Proposals to develop tested, cost-effective alternatives to controlling hypertension in the work setting are solicited by National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute. As many as six three-year contracts under which NHLBI will provide for research costs of investigators, data analysts and possibly health educators are anticipated. Write P. M. Sullivan, Contract Specialist, NHLBI, NIH, Landon Bldg., Rm A 909, Bethesda, Md. 20014. Reference: RFP NHLBI-77-19. Deadline: April 22.

NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF MENTAL HEALTH

Rape Prevention Program - Applications will be accepted for (1) Basic and Applied Research Studies focusing on (1) laws and social policies and their impact on rape; (2) actual incidence of rape in relation to reported incidences of rape; (3) studies on high risk groups and situations potentially vulnerable to sexual assaults; (4) special problems of those least able to care for themselves in the rape situation - children and juveniles, the handicapped, and the elderly; (5) sexual assaults in correctional institutions; (6) social attitudes and motivations giving rise to sexual assaults; (7) impact of rape on victims and treatment needs of victims, and their families; (8) studies on offenders and implications for treatment; and (9) organization and activities of programs dealing with the prevention of rape and treatment of victims and offenders.

(II) Research-Demonstration Projects - Applications are encouraged but not limited to the following areas (1) a variety of mental health, counseling, social and legal services to rape victims and their families; (2) programs concerned with appropriate medical treatment of rape victims; (3) models of community-wide and regional efforts directed at improved programs and services with regard to rape; (4) models of community education to achieve community, citizen and professional awareness of the problems of rape; (5) a variety of intervention strategies to deal with sexual assaults in correctional institutions. Applications and further information available from Ms. Elizabeth S. Kutzke, Chief, National Center for the Prevention and Control of Rape, National Institute of Mental Health, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857 or telephone 202/443-1910.

THE NATIONAL ENDOWMENT FOR THE HUMANITIES

The Research Materials Program - The program has two components - (1) Research Tools, which supports the production of basic reference works for advanced humanistic scholarly research; for example, dictionaries, bibliographies, guides, and catalogs; and (2) Editing, which supports the work of making historical and literary papers or works more available for scholarly purposes. Grants awarded for both areas are usually for long-range collaborative efforts. Prospective applicants should definitely make preliminary inquiries of the Endowment staff prior to developing a formal proposal. Such inquiries should be made at least eight weeks prior to the official deadline. For further information, guidelines, and application materials contact: Division of Research Grants, Mail Stop 350, National Endowment for the Humanities, Washington, D.C. 20506 (202) 382-1072. Deadline: May 1.

THE NATIONAL ENDOWMENT FOR THE ARTS

Public Education and Awareness - Grants are specifically awarded for preparation of publishable material, films, videotapes, exhibits, critical journalism, and other forms of public communication, with priority given to proposals which can identify a specific audience clearly; describe a well-defined means for broad dissemination; initiate further action; and involve groups or communities which have had little previous exposure to design concerns. For further information and application materials contact: Architecture + Environmental Arts Program (Mail Stop 503), National Endowment for the Arts, Washington, D.C. 20506 (202) 634-4276. Deadline: May 6.

NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF EDUCATION

Research on Organizational Processes in Education - For programs of research in organizational aspects of schooling. Small grants of up to $7,500 may be made for projects of up to 12 months duration; other grants may be made for any amount for projects up to three years duration. Preliminary proposals are due April 15 and final proposals by July 15. A program announcement may be obtained from the Research Staff, Group on School Capacity for Problem Solving, National Institute of Education, 1200 19th Street NW (Mail Stop 4), Washington, D.C. 20208. Telephone 202-254-6090.

Personnel Bulletin

Administrative Increases In Salary For Permanent Classified Employees

Permanent classified State employees who were employed at the basic entrance rate are eligible for a one-time merit increase six months subsequent to the initial date of permanent employment.

Subsequent merit increases may be granted each twelve months thereafter until the employee reaches the maximum step in the salary scale for their classification.

Such increases are not automatic, by any means, and will be granted only to those employees who are rendering completely satisfactory service and whose services the College wishes to retain.

Other increases may be authorized by the Governor of the Commonwealth of Virginia. Such increases will be granted only to those employees rendering completely satisfactory service, and whose services the College wishes to retain.

When official information is received concerning other salary increases for permanent classified employees at William and Mary, it will be published in the William and Mary News.

Service Ratings For Permanent Classified Employees

Continued employment in the service of the Commonwealth is assured by the Virginia Personnel Act on the basis of merit and fitness. It is incumbent upon each appointing authority to take those actions within his purview which will assure appointment on the basis of merit and fitness, and to remove from the service of the Commonwealth those persons who do not meet this measure. Accordingly, employees at the College shall be rated annually in accordance with the following procedure:

- During the latter part of each year supervisors are requested to evaluate the job performance of classified employees based on the following characteristics: habits of work, quality of work, amount of work, cooperation, intelligence and initiative.
- The rating scale is excellent, very good, good, fair, or poor. The supervisor must review the service rating with the employee so that the employee may know how his performance has been judged. Each employee is required to sign the rating to indicate that he/she has seen and discussed the rating with the supervisor.
- It should be noted that the following ratings constitute an unsatisfactory evaluation, and will cause the employee's merit increase to be denied:
 - a. Any appraisal of "Poor" and/or
 - b. More than two appraisals of "Fair"

- The primary intent of the annual rating is to aid in the development of the employee and in the evaluation of his work when considered for a promotion, demotion, layoff, or a salary increase. Ratings of fair and poor indicate marginal and unsatisfactory performance and may be grounds for termination.
- Employees may review at any time (by appointment) their service rating in the Personnel Office.

Designation of Beneficiary (VSRS)

It is extremely important that each member of the Virginia Supplemental Retirement System keep up-to-date the designation of their beneficiary. The beneficiary is the person, or persons, to whom the contributions and interest credited to the member's account, or other benefits in the Retirement System, are to be paid in the event of the member's death. Form VSRS-1, Designation of Beneficiary, is used for changing the designation of beneficiary. This form will also be used to distribute the proceeds from a member's Group Life Insurance Policy.

The form and assistance in its completion are available in the College Personnel Office.

Social Security Information

The Social Security representative is at the Williamsburg-James City County Court House on the second and fourth Tuesday of each month from 9:00 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. to answer questions and assist in filling out forms.

Equal Employment Opportunity Policy

The Commonwealth of Virginia shall provide equal employment opportunity to its employees and applicants for employment on the basis of fitness and merit without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, political affiliation, sex or age (except where sex or age is a bona fide occupational qualification). This policy shall be followed in recruiting, hiring, promotion into all position classifications, compensation, benefits, transfers, layoffs, return from layoff, demotions, terminations, State sponsored training programs, educational leave, social and recreational programs and use of State facilities. Any person employed by the Commonwealth of Virginia who fails to comply with this policy is subject to disciplinary action.

Notices

HISTORICAL SOCIETY MEETING--Dean William Spong of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law will discuss "Advise and Consent: The Fortas, Haynesworth and Carswell Nominations" at a meeting of the Lyon G. Tyler Historical Society, Wednesday, April 6, at 4 p.m. in Lodge 2. Dean Spong represented Virginia in the U.S. Senate from 1967-73, and his speech will reflect the Senate's role in the appointment of Supreme Court Justices. The public is invited to attend.

ANTHROPOLOGY CLUB--Ivor Noel Hume, resident archaeologist at Colonial Williamsburg, will lecture on "17th Century Sites at Carter's Grove," Tuesday, April 12, at 7 p.m. in Room 100, Washington Hall. The public is invited to attend.

NOT TO LUNCH--The William and Mary Christian Fellowship organization is sponsoring a "Not to Lunch" day, April 7, to help fight world hunger. Students who regularly board at the Commons can sign up there during dinner March 30 and 31 or April 4 and 5. For every student who signs up "not to lunch" on April 7, the Commons will donate 50¢ to CARE.

Those who do not board at the Commons can make contributions by donating the money they would normally have spent for lunch at the checkpoint in Swem Library lobby between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. on April 7.

FOREIGN FILM--The Language House Foreign Film Series will present the Spanish film "The Garden of Delights," Saturday, April 2, at 7:30 p.m. in the German House Lobby, Botetourt Unit 5. Admission is free. Made in 1970 and directed by Carlos Saura, the film deals with a man who has suffered partial paralysis and amnesia. His family attempts to bring him back to normality by reflecting upon the man's past. English subtitles.

FILMS--The Karate Club will sponsor two movies, "Samurai" and "Duel at Ichijiro," Wednesday, March 30 at 6:30 p.m. in Andrews 101. There will be a $2 admission fee.

CANOE TRIP--The women's physical education department is sponsoring a recreational canoe trip on the South Anna River, Saturday, April 16, from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. The trip is open to any student or College employee who can canoe at Level I. A $3 fee is being charged to cover transportation. For information, contact Chris Jackson at Ext. 4360.
