EASTER EGG HUNT—President and Mrs. Graves cordially invite the children of all College faculty and staff members, from the age of two to six years, to an Easter Egg Hunt at the President's House, on Sunday, April 10, at 3 p.m. Baskets for the Hunt will be provided.

Parents and other family members are invited to watch the festivities and join the Graves' for punch and cookies. In case of rain, the Easter Egg Hunt will be cancelled; if in doubt, please telephone 229-3030.

ANTIQUe SILVER AT PRESIDENT'S HOUSE—Through the generosity of two area residents, several valuable pieces of antique silver are now on display at the President's House.

J. Ricks Wilson, president of Ricks Wilson Ltd., has loaned a pair of three branch candelabums now in use at the President's House. The candelabums are Old Sheffield silver circa 1800.

Mrs. Jean Falk of Newport News has given the College an Old Sheffield silver mirror plateau made in England circa 1800. The plateau, which is three feet long, was designed in three pieces to be displayed on a table and is also in the Graves' home.

'Lobbying' Theme For Program In D.C.

Applications are currently being accepted for the next Washington Program, which will be held April 18, 19, 20.

The theme for the program will be lobbying.

Who are the lobbyists? How do they decide what issues they will lobby for? How do they achieve their goals? These will be some of the questions under discussion in two full days of meetings in Washington, which will include sessions with representatives from Zero Population Growth, and the International Association of Machinists and Aero Space Workers.

All full-time graduate and undergraduate students are eligible for the program. Twenty students will be selected. The fee is $40.

Application forms are available at the Campus Center desk, the circulation desk of Swem Library, the switchboard in James Blair Hall and from Area Coordinators in residence halls. Applications must be received by Dean Sadler by noon, April 11.

The 1971 proposal for federal funding of the SST jet aircraft project will be used as a case study and basis for discussions on lobbying. There will be a briefing session on the SST issue and general discussion of lobbying the evening of April 18 in preparation for the meetings that will follow.

The first session on April 19 will deal with issues surrounding the SST decision. Program planners have invited several groups that were involved with the SST case to join the discussion and explain why each was involved.

George Alderson and Joyce Wood, coordinators of the National Coalition against SST, will talk about the strategies employed by lobbyists and in particular those involved with the SST.

Representatives of the Committee for the SST will talk about how lobbyists work with Congress, plan to shape public opinion and evaluate their opponent's strategy.

Following a wrap-up session, the program will take on a lighter vein. A visit to the Kennedy Center for a performance of the musical "Shenandoah," is scheduled for Tuesday evening.

The first session on April 20 will be devoted to a general examination of lobbying.

IBM Awards $100,000 Grant To Aid Women In Business

IBM Corporation has awarded a $100,000 grant to the "Campaign for the College" to help fund a new program encouraging women to pursue careers in business management.

The School of Business Administration will apply the funds to a program to aid women, particularly those in the South, to attain executive positions in business management. The program will emphasize women's completing graduate education and attaining the Master of Business Administration degree. Applications for admission to the program will be sought from both undergraduate women and women already established in business careers.

In designing its proposal, the College consulted alumnae who are pursuing successful careers in business and graduate students in the School of Business Administration. The College also examined similar projects being conducted by other institutions of higher learning, in order to develop a program that would educate women to meet the increasing opportunities available in the world of business.

"We are very pleased that IBM has made this $100,000 grant," said Dean Charles L. Quittmeyer of the School of Business Administration. "It will enable us to provide much needed assistance to more women seeking to prepare themselves for management positions."

The School of Business Administration currently enrolls 281 students in its MBA program, 42 of whom are women. The IBM grant is the largest ever made to the Business School in its nine year history.

The IBM grant is also the second major corporate grant to be made to the $19 million campaign.

COLONIAL WILLIAMSBURG INTERNSHIPS--For the third year, the Department of Group Visits and Educational Programs of the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation is offering an Intern Program for the 1977-78 academic year. This program extending from Sept. to June, is an excellent opportunity for undergraduate or graduate students to be exposed to the working elements of a large museum, and to gain experience in the field of museum education. For information, contact the Career Counseling office.

WINTERTHUR MUSEUM OPPORTUNITIES--The Henry Francis du Pont Winterthur Museum in Winterthur, Delaware, has several internships of varying lengths available for 1977-78. Competition is quite keen, and students should be juniors or seniors majoring in art history, American studies or history. Tuition charged the student will be shared 50/50 with the Museum. If interested, contact the Career Counseling Office for more information.

Personnel

Revision of the Grievance Procedure

The Governor has approved, effective March 15, 1977, certain revisions in the procedure for handling State employee grievances. The revisions apply only to the manner in which the panel to hear the grievance is selected. The forms issued for filing grievances are not changed. Copies of the revised procedure are available in the Personnel Office, Room 201, James Blair Hall.

Official Memorandum

From William J. Carter
Vice President for Business Affairs
To All Students of the College
Subject: Tuition and General Fee, Room, Board, and Other Fees for 1977-78

At its meeting on March 17-19, 1977, the Board of Visitors of the College of William and Mary approved several changes in the Tuition and General Fee, in Room and Board fees, and in other fees for 1977-78.

These changes have been made necessary through several adverse impacts on the fiscal structure of the College.

The heaviest such impact has been the requirement by the Governor of the Commonwealth that we return to the State 6% of our General Fund appropriation in the current year, 1976-77. In addition, the College has been instructed to return an additional 6% in the 1977-78 fiscal year. The 6% reversion for 1976-77 will amount to $649,760; for 1977-78, it will be $694,200. Therefore, the College is operating with its General Fund appropriation reduced by $1,343,960 for the two-year period.

In addition to these reductions we have required to absorb at least one-half of the cost-of-living increases for our supporting staff, which amounts to approximately $108,000 for 1976-77. Utility and fuel costs are about 31% more than originally anticipated, due to an increase in prices. For example, the cost of heat, light, power, and water has risen from a total of $1,027,211 in 1975-76 to a projected amount of $1,349,263 for the current year, 1976-77. This increase has come about despite substantial savings which we have produced as the result of the installation of a computerized energy control system in the fall of 1976. Further, we are experiencing continuing inflationary pressures on operating costs in all areas. Also, our revenues from tuition in the current year are not as great as had been projected.

All of these adverse financial circumstances have left the College facing a potential revenue "shortfall" by June 30 of this year which might necessitate our borrowing money from the State Treasury to balance the budget for 1976-77. Such a loan would be deducted from our 1977-78 appropriation. As all department heads at the College are aware, we have taken every possible measure, including a carefully monitored expenditure curtailment program to minimize this potential "shortfall," but we cannot eliminate or curtail essential activities further than we have.

In the light of the austere fiscal outlook for the College, the following increases in fees have been held to the minimal level considered essential to enable the College to maintain the calibre and scope of present programs:

TUITION AND GENERAL FEE

For Virginia Students:

For fulltime students, an increase of $36.50 per semester, from $479 to $515.50.

For part-time students, an increase from $32 to $34 per semester hour, for both undergraduate and graduate.

For out-of-State students:

For fulltime students, an increase of $111.50 per semester, from $1,128 to $1,239.50.

For Part-time students, an increase from $75 to $83 per semester hour, for both undergraduate and graduate.

Other Allocations from the Tuition and General Fee

Increased operating costs of the Men's and Women's Non-Revenue Sports Programs require a total increase of $7 per semester in allocations from the Tuition and General Fee. All proceeds of the increased allocations will be used exclusively for the Men's and Women's Non-Revenue Sports Programs.

The overall impact of this increase is lessened somewhat by a reduction in the allocation for General Auxiliary Enterprise Services amounting to $3 per semester. This reduction will not affect the on-going operation of our Auxiliary Enterprises, those operations such as student residences, the dining hall, the Student Health Center and other such self-supporting activities. The reduced allocation is possible because of increased efficiency in the overall Auxiliary Enterprise operation, in addition to the fact that funds from this source are no longer required to finance the student residence renovation program.

In connection with the allocation for Athlete and Recreational Activities ($122 for 1976-77), it should be noted that $8 of that allocation has been shifted to the allocation for Student Activities, so that all student activities and funded recreational programs, including intramural sports, will now be covered by a single fee allocation. The newly-titled allocation of Intercollegiate Athletics thus provides funding only for that purpose, not for other programs, plus the overhead amount which must be paid to the State.

In summary, the allocation for athletics is affected as follows:

$122 - 1976-77 allocation

-8 - Transferred to Student Activities

plus 14 - Increase for 1977-78

$18 - 1977-78 Allocation -

Intercollegiate Athletics

ROOM RENT

An increase of an average of 8.1% from the present range of $295 to $395 per semester to a range of $320 to $420 per semester. This increases the average rent per semester from $357 to $386.

Current room rentals are not sufficient to cover increasing operating costs (particularly utilities) and essential improvements.

BOARD FEE

An increase of $19 per semester, from $383 to $402, or approximately 4.9%.

The continuing rise in the cost of food and labor, utilities, and essential equipment replacement necessitates the increased board fee. Negotiations are currently underway which might modify this increase.

While we regret these increases, they are nevertheless essential. The fees for 1977-78 have been established after considerable study and consultation with student representatives whose viewpoints have been taken into account very carefully by the Administration and the Board of Visitors of the College.

This memorandum is being circulated to inform all members of the College Community, so that students and, where appropriate, parents and guardians, may be informed directly of these changes in our fee structure for 1977-78.

Knorr Chosen NEH Fellow

Yona Zuzovsky Knorr, pianist and lecturer in music, is the third faculty member to be named a Fellow of the National Endowment for the Humanities' College Teachers in Residence program for 1977-78.

Assistant Professor of English Trudier Harris and Assistant Professor of Philosophy F. Robert Bohl Jr. were named earlier as recipients.

Mrs. Knorr will spend the academic year at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, where she will participate in a seminar for the NEH fellows on the styles and techniques of piano performance from Mozart to Liszt. She will also undertake an independent project interpreting the keyboard sonatas of Joseph Haydn.

The NEH fellowships carry stipends of $14,500 for a nine month period and were awarded to fewer than 200 competitors from across the United States. Sixteen different seminars will be held in 1977-78, each limited to twelve fellows.

Haydn's works have been neglected by performers and teachers alike, Knorr said. She hopes her research will result in lecture-recitals, critical articles and annotated editions of his works that will increase understanding of Haydn as a composer for the keyboard.

Haydn composed the sonatas during a transitional time in music history, Knorr said, when the harpsichord was evolving into the pianoforte and when the baroque style popularized by Bach was giving way to the classicism of Mozart and Beethoven. "This in itself warrants a close study of the performance practices of that time," she said.

Mrs. Knorr is a graduate of the Rubin Academy of Music in Jerusalem, Israel, and she received her master of music degree from the University of Texas.

She has served on the faculty of the Jerusalem Conservatory and joined the William and Mary faculty in 1971.

Littlefield Receives ACLS Grant

Mark Littlefield, assistant professor of modern languages, has received a grant from the American Council of Learned Societies (ACLS) under its program of Research Grants for Recent Ph.D.'s.

The grant carries a stipend of $5,400 for a six-month period, beginning July 1977.

Under the grant Littlefield will continue a research project begun several years ago for his doctoral dissertation, preparing a critical edition of a 13th century Spanish translation of the Vulgate Bible. He will conduct the research at the Seminary of Medieval Spanish Studies at the University of Wisconsin, Madison.

Littlefield will be using a sophisticated computer at the University of Wisconsin to help him in his editing. The 13th century manuscript, he explained, can be entered in the computer, and the computer can then produce a concordance for the work. A

Engerman Lectures On Slavery

Stanley I. Engerman, professor of economics and history at the University of Rochester, New York, will present a lecture on "Slavery in the British West Indies and the American South," Tuesday, April 12, at 8 p.m. in William Small Hall, Room 113. The public is invited to attend.

Engerman is co-author of "Time on the Cross: The Economics of American Slavery" (1974; and co-editor of "The Reinterpretation of American Economic History" (1971) and "Race and Slavery in the Western Hemisphere: Quantitative Studies" (1974).

He was a National Science Foundation Faculty Fellow in 1969-70 and a National Endowment for the Humanities Senior Fellow in 1974-75.

A member of the University of Rochester faculty since 1963, Engerman taught previously at Yale University.

He holds B.S. and M.B.A. degrees from New York University and received his Ph.D. in economics from the Johns Hopkins University.

Engerman's visit to the campus is under the co-sponsorship of the economics and history departments.

MLA Researcher To Lecture Here On Novella Theory

Joseph Gibaldi will lecture on the "Renaissance Theory of the Novella," Tuesday, April 12, at 8 p.m. in the Botetourt Theatre of Swem Library. The public is invited to attend.

A sherry reception will also be held for Professor Gibaldi from 4 to 5 p.m. that afternoon at the Italian House.

Students and faculty members interested in the field of literature are invited to attend.

A professor of Comparative literature, Gibaldi is assistant to the director of research of the Modern Language Association of America. He has taught previously at the University of Georgia and Brooklyn College.

Gibaldi is co-author, with Robert J. Clements, of the book "Anatomy of the Novella," which was published last month by New York University Press. He has also published numerous articles on comparative literature and on the novella.

He is a graduate of the City College of New York, and received a master's degree in English from the City University of New York and a doctoral degree in comparative literature from New York University.

Gibaldi's visit to the campus is under the sponsorship of the department of modern languages and literatures, the Italian House, and the Committee on Lectures.

Latin American Shanty-towns Are Topic Of Anthropology Talk

Charles W. Wagley, visiting professor of anthropology will conclude his four part lecture series, Thursday, April 7, with a talk on "Latin America Becomes Urban" at 7:30 p.m. in Millington Auditorium. The public is invited to attend.

Participants in the Project Plus Forum, which this year is exploring the theme "The City in History and Contemporary Life", are encouraged to attend Professor Wagley's lecture. No Forum will be held on the previously scheduled date of Wednesday, April 6.

Wagley, on campus this year under the Eminent Scholars program, is a past president of the American Anthropological Association. He has been graduate professor of anthropology and Latin American studies at the University of Florida since 1971. His special interest is Brazil.

In Thursday's lecture, Wagley will emphasize the formation and organization of the shanty-towns which are found today in and around almost all Latin American cities and the studies of such communities by social anthropologists.

Wagley has acted as a consultant to Brazilian and U.S. officials for many years. He has been a consultant to the Ministry of Education in Brazil and was for four years a member of the advisory board of the Brazilian American Cultural Institute.

concordance is a list of each word in the text, along with the phrase or verse in which it appears. The advantage of a concordance, Littlefield said, is that, since each word is given in context, it is much easier to determine what the word meant in the 13th century.

Littlefield hopes to complete his research under the grant and to publish his critical edition as well as a concordance, both of which he anticipates will help linguists studying Old Spanish.

A graduate of Yale University, Littlefield holds master's and doctoral degrees from the University of California at Berkeley. He joined the William and Mary faculty in 1974.

Psych Department Seeks Origin Of Questionnaire

The psychology department has learned that a questionnaire claiming to be for a Psychology 406 course on sexuality is being circulated with neither the knowledge nor the approval of the department's faculty members.

Department chairman E. Rae Harcum said his department frequently distributes questionnaires and normally urges recipients to respond. In this case, he said, the questionnaire was not cleared through the psychology ethics committee, the course instructor has no knowledge of it, and he considers the questions asked an invasion of privacy.

Harcum urges anyone with information about the origin of the questionnaire to contact the psychology department.

A panel discussion with representatives of the United Auto Workers, the National Association of Manufacturers and Common Cause will focus on how lobbyists choose the issue for which they will work, how they allocate their resources, and how they inform their key constituencies.

Dr. Richard Curry, formerly a member of the government faculty at William and Mary and now associate director for legislation of the National Park Service, will discuss with program participants the role of the federal government as a lobbyist. Curry is expected to talk about how the executive branch of the government seeks to implement passage of its programs through the legislature.

In the final session, Dr. Norman Orenstein, staff director of the House Select Committee on reform of the committee structure, will talk about the role of lobbying in the governmental process and how effective lobbying is.

Jack D. Edwards, Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences; Ronald Rapoport, assistant professor of government; and Cam Walker, assistant professor of history, have worked with W. Samuel Sadler, Dean of Students, in planning the Washington Program.

Albee Plays Open April 13

The William and Mary Theatre will present a double bill of Edward Albee one-act plays, April 13-16, at 8:15 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

Individual admission is $2. Tickets will be on sale April 11-15 from 3-5:30 p.m. at the Phi Beta Kappa box office, Ext. 4272, and from 7-8:15 p.m. on the evenings of the performances.

Elizabeth Forrest of Williamsburg will play the leading role of Gamma, a salty-tongued relic of the past, in Albee's "The American Dream," which will be the first half of the two-play program.

Albee's absurdist comedy on American consumerism will also feature Kristen Willman of Old Bethpage, N.Y., and Hardwick Spencer of Chatham as Mommy and Daddy, a couple demanding satisfaction in everything they buy.

The second play will be Albee's "The Zoo Story," a serious statement about man's animal nature which creates a subtle mood of despair. L. Curry Worsham of Williamsburg portrays Jerry, Albee's modernized Christ figure in the drama. Richard Bannin of Hewlett, N.Y., is Peter, a middle-class man who awakens from a middle-class stupor to discover he has committed murder.

Both plays will be directed by Bruce McConachie, a new member of the department of theatre and speech this year.

Williamsburg Report

April 4-10

FRED ADAIR, a professor in the School of Education, talks about shifting careers in the midstream of life. Today there are no holds barred on job-switching, as soldiers decide to become ministers and assembly line workers opt for careers as classical musicians. Adair tells his own unique story — he sold his hardware store, his house, his car and his boat to find enough cash to get a Ph.D. in education. Then he gives a formula for how to tell if you're really unhappy in job switches from pure wishful thinking, and sums up the risks and sacrifices involved in quitting one job to pursue another.

April 11-17

CAM WALKER, an expert on the development of the South since the Civil War, discusses the well-publicized New South. She also questions whether the South is losing its identity in the face of rapid immigration from the North, increased urbanization and greater industrialization. Walker says certain signs of the old southern traditions still can be found if you look hard enough, but that the romantic ladies and gentlemen from the southern plantations don't exist now, and probably didn't exist 100 years ago. She believes that Scarlett O'Hara and Rhett Butler are attractive but unrealistic characters who serve as foils for city dwellers who dream of living a plantation life of romance, wealth and leisure.

April 18-24

PARKE ROUSE, one of the Old Dominion's most popular historians, talks about a man who was probably at one time the most powerful individual in the American colonies. James Blair was not only the governor of Virginia, but the head of the English Church in America and the president of the College. He was an extremely persuasive man, and rumor has it that he convinced the King and Queen to use fines placed on pirates to sponsor the establishment of William and Mary. Rouse also tells the story of how Reverend Blair at the age of 35 convinced a young girl of 18 to marry him. A very personal look at one of the greatest but most overlooked men of the colonial period.

April 25-May 1

VINSON SUTLIVE, a world traveler who spent many years living among native tribes in Borneo, describes the world's first psychiatrists. Known as shamens, these prehistoric witch doctors used surprisingly modern techniques to help people solve their psychiatric problems. Today, shamens still exist and work side-by-side with modern medical doctors in native villages. They use a series of chants and spells to "cure" disturbed tribesmen and gradually assume a very respected position in the tribe. Physically, the shamens are always the weakest members of the tribe. But mentally, they are no doubt the most influential.
