FOOTBALL KICKOFF

William and Mary's football season opens Saturday, Sept. 3, at home against Norfolk State. Other home games have been scheduled for Oct. 1, against Villanova; Oct. 29, against Rutgers (Homecoming); and Nov. 19, against Richmond. All games begin at 1:30 p.m. at Cary Stadium, except the Homecoming game, which begins at 2 p.m.

HELP UNLIMITED VOLUNTEER FAIR

Help Unlimited, the campus volunteer coordinating service, will sponsor a Volunteer Fair on Friday, Sept. 2, from 11 a.m.-2 p.m. in front of the Commons dining hall. Representatives from all community service organizations on campus and from such agencies in the area as Bacon Street and Eastern State Hospital will be on hand to answer student's questions.

In case of rain, the fair will be held either at the Commons or at William and Mary Hall. For information, call the Student Activities Office at Ext. 4557.

CONCERT SERIES SUBSCRIPTIONS

Information flyers and subscription forms for the William and Mary Concert Series have been distributed to faculty and staff members. Anyone who did not receive the material and wishes further information should contact Ken Smith's office in the Campus Center, Ext. 4235.

Campaign Gifts Up $1 Million Over 1976-77

Private voluntary support of William and Mary climbed by more than a million dollars in fiscal 1976-77, exceeding $3 million for the first time in the College's history.

Gifts and grants from individuals, corporations, foundations and other organizations during the 12-month period ending June 30, 1977, totaled $3,181,760.26, or $1,080,657.26 more than was given in the previous 12 months. The $3 million-plus total consists of cash or properties in hand and includes no pledges or testamentary commitments.

The increase of more than a million dollars represents an accelerated pace of giving during the initial stage of the College's $19 million, 3-year Campaign for the College fund drive. Last year, when the College took in more than $2 million for the first time in its history, giving increased by $146,000 over the previous 12 months.

Total Campaign gifts and pledges stood at $6.7 million or 35 per cent of the $19 million goal as of July 31, 1977.

This year's annual giving total of $3 million-plus consists of $428,620.14 from corporations and business concerns; $3,504.00 from religious denominations; $933,880.63 from alumni; $1,575,926.98 from other individuals; $170,472.34 from foundations; and $69,356.17 from non-alumni, non-church groups.

William and Mary received $889,337.25 from the final settlement of the estate of Jay W. Johns. The total Johns estate, the first part of which was settled last year, amounted to $1,442,337.25.

Gifts for capital purposes such as endowment and of real and personal property, including art and antiques, totalled $1,346,783.24. For current operations, the amount given was $1,834,977.03, which represented nearly a million dollar increase over last year.

Official Memorandum

To: Members of Teaching and Research Faculties and Members of Administration in Faculty-Equivalent Positions
From: President Thomas A. Graves, Jr.
Subject: Collegewide Faculty Meeting

You will recall that in each of the past three falls we have held a collegewide faculty meeting to introduce the academic session. The academic deans, Dr. Healy and I have the impression that these meetings have gone well and have been well received, and we are planning a similar meeting for this September.

As announced in early July, the meeting will be held in Millington Auditorium on Tuesday, September 6, at 3:45 p.m. As before, a major purpose of the meeting will be to provide an introduction to the 1977-78 academic session.

New members of the faculty and of the administration will be introduced by Dr. Healy, the academic deans, and the Dean of the Undergraduate Program.

I shall make brief and general remarks about the major issues and questions facing the College as a whole in the coming academic year, and Dr. Healy will focus his remarks on several areas of interest within academic affairs for 1977-78.

We have tried to choose a day and time for the meeting when most of you can be in attendance. I hope that you can plan your schedule on what will be the first day of Tuesday-Thursday classes for many so that you may be with us as a faculty community on Tuesday, September 6.

Freshmen Settle In To Campus Life

This scene in the newly renovated Jefferson Hall was repeated countless times across campus last weekend as students in the Class of 1981 arrived for orientation. Entering freshmen and their parents met College administrators at an informal coffee, Sunday morning on the lawn between the Commons and William and Mary Hall. That afternoon in William and Mary Hall parents were greeted with talks by President Graves; W. Samuel Sadler, dean of students; and David Nass, president of the Student Association. Students were welcomed later that afternoon by President Graves; George Healy, vice president for academic affairs; and David Nass. This week new students will be meeting with faculty advisors, touring the campus, learning about the academic and co-curricular programs, and attending social events. Susan Deery, associate dean for student development, has organized the orientation week program.

Gubernatorial Candidates To Debate Here, October 17

The first gubernatorial debate ever to be televised throughout Virginia will be held on campus October 17.

President Thomas A. Graves, Jr. announced last week that the 90-minute debate will take place before an audience of students, faculty and invited guests in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall, based on invitations he sent the two major candidates after the June Democratic primary.

The statewide telecast will be sponsored and financed by Virginia's five public television stations and produced by Bruce Miller, public affairs director for WNVT of Annandale. Norfolk's WHRO will originate the telecast, which will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Graves called the debate a "major educational public service" for Virginians as well as an "exciting opportunity" for students and others interested in state governmental affairs.

Phi Beta Kappa Hall, the site of last year's October 22 Presidential Debate which was nationally televised, is a memorial to the founding of the noted scholastic honorary society by William and Mary students in 1776. Phi Beta Kappa, the nation's first Greek-letter organization, began as a debating group.

Both major candidates, Republican John N. Dalton and Democrat Henry E. Howell, Jr., have agreed to the debate and the basic ground rules for conducting it. Staff representatives from both campaigns conferred Wednesday and Thursday last week with College and television officials to work out preliminary details on schedule and format.

Format for the debates will be similar

Newsmakers

Alexander Kallos, modern languages, was guest speaker at the commencement exercises of Lafayette High School on August 16.

Robert Maidment, School of Education, was recently appointed to the Publications Task Force of the National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASSP).

In the psychology department Chris Faia, Cynthia Null, Larry Ventis and Virgil McKenna, attended the conference of the American Psychological Association in San Francisco this month. They conducted a symposium on their study for the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development on age at marriage and child-spacing.

A chapter of Simulation Games: Design and Implementation, a book co-authored by Robert Maidment, School of Education, has been incorporated into a German-language volume on the same subject. "The Design and Use of Classroom Simulation Games" has been translated into German and appears in Simulation und Planspiele in der Schule, a compilation of articles edited by Jurgen Lehmann.

Simulation Games presents an in-depth analysis of the construction, use, and evaluation of classroom simulations of real-life situations and dilemmas. The book has recently entered its second printing in the United States.

William F. Swindler, John Marshall Professor of Law, is the author of a special illustrated article in the August American Bar Association Journal on the documentary film series, "Equal Justice Under Law," which will have its first public showing on public broadcasting stations in September. Swindler has served as special consultant on the documentary films for the Judicial Conference of the United States, which is producing them through WQED Pittsburgh. He is also the author of a background look, The Constitution and Chief Justice Marshall, which will be published at the end of the year by Dodd, Mead & Co. of New York.

The documentary films cover three major constitutional decisions of the Marshall Court -- the judicial review case of Marbury v. Madison (1803), the "bank case" of McCulloch v. Maryland (1819) and the "steamboat case" of Gibbons v. Ogden in 1824. It also covers, in two separate films, the treason trial of Aaron Burr in the old circuit court in Richmond in 1807. A special 90-minute showing of the three Supreme Court cases will appear on PBS stations at 6 p.m. Sept. 24, and a second 90-minute special film, on the two Burr trials, will appear at the same time the following week, Oct. 1.

Dean James C. Livingston has been appointed to the University Advisory Council of the American Council of Life Insurance. The Council consists of a group of academicians who assist in planning programs to foster continuing exchange between the academic world and the business community. The Council has assisted in such programs as the recent Princeton Conference on Alternative Careers for Ph.D.'s in the Humanities, the 1976 Arden House Conference on Freedom and Control in a Democratic Society, and the Business Executive in Residence Program.

Carl M. Andersen, senior research associate in mathematics and computer science, was program chairman for the 1977 MACSYMA Users' Conference, which took place at the University of California, Berkeley, July 27-29. MACSYMA is a versatile computer system for manipulating symbolic expressions arising in algebra and calculus. At the conference Andersen presented a paper co-authored by Ahmed Noor of George Washington University entitled "Symbolic Manipulation Techniques for Vibration Analysis of Laminated Elliptic Plates".

William G. Poole, Jr., mathematics and computer science, also attended the conference, where he presented a paper entitled "Timing Formulas for Dissection Algorithms on Vector Computers."

William H. Warren, School of Business Administration, presented two papers on August 15 to the annual meeting of the Academy of Management in Orlando, Florida. Mr. Warren presented the first paper, "The Synergistic Benefits of COMPUSTAT AND SPSS in Business Policy and Teaching" to the Business Policy and Planning Division of the Academy. The second paper, "The Effect of Instructor Reputation and Personality on Student Evaluations of Teaching Competence," jointly authored with William E. O'Connell, Jr., was presented to the Management Education and Development Division.

On August 17 Warren presented a position paper before the Virginia House and Senate General Laws Subcommittee on Grievance Procedures. The paper was entitled "Ombudsman Plus Arbitration: A Proposal for Effective Grievance Administration."

John Freeman, trades book manager at the College Bookstore, was a guest on Richmond station WWBT-TV's Good Morning Show, Aug. 22. Interviewed by the show's host, Annemarie Hancock, Freeman discussed what books make the "best seller" list. He'll discuss a similar topic, Sept. 15, at 1 p.m. when he appears on the Mike and Lynn "Roundabout Tidewater" Show on Norfolk station WAVY-TV.

Others Return To Campus After Completing Projects

Many Professors On Leave To Conduct Research

Several College of William and Mary faculty members will be away for all or part of the 1977-78 academic year to pursue research projects or teach as visiting professors at other colleges and universities both here and abroad.

Other faculty members will be returning after fulfilling research and teaching assignments at other schools.

In the anthropology department, Stephen B. Brush will be away the entire year in Peru. He has received a National Science Foundation grant to study Peruvian potato farmers.

In the biology department, Mitchell A. Byrd will be away for the spring semester. He will be doing field work in the Chesapeake Bay area completing a seven-year study of the population dynamics of the osprey.

Melvyn D. Schiavelli, associate professor of chemistry, is returning this fall from the University of Aberdeen, Scotland, where he was an exchange professor last year.

Leonard G. Schifrin, professor of economics, will be on leave for the fall doing research; while Clyde A. Haulman, associate professor of economics, will be a visiting professor at Florida Technological University for '77-'78.

In the School of Education, Louis P. Messier will be gone from September through January to serve as project director with the Special Education Division, Virginia Department of Education.

The English department has a number of faculty on leave and returning. Carl R. Dolmetsch, recently back from Germany where he was a Fulbright Visiting Professor, will be away again this fall doing research on the collected edition of the plays of St. George Tucker. Cecil M. McCulley will be on leave during the fall doing research on the merchant in English drama to 1800. Trudier Harris will be at Brown University for the year on a National Endowment for the Humanities grant, and James B. Savage will be on leave-of-absence this academic year. Professors David C. Jenkins and Scott Donaldson will be away for the spring semester doing research on several writers including E. A. Robinson, Hemingway and Fitzgerald. Jenkins will be researching the biography of the literary forger J. Payne Collier (1789-1883).

In the government department Roger W. Smith will be teaching this year at the University of Glasgow, Scotland. Alan Ward will be on research leave this fall. Donald J. Baxter will be returning after spending a year teaching at the University of Leicester, England.

Associate professors of history Edward P. Crapol and Philip J. Funigiello will be returning in the fall. Crapol was an exchange professor at Exeter University, England, last year where he taught a seminar on the U.S. and the Cold War. Funigiello was teaching in Italy on a Fulbright scholarship.

Also in the history department, Michael McGiffert will be away for the 1977-78 academic year on a National Endowment for the Humanities grant.

The law school will have Professor Michael T. Madison back this fall. He has been doing research in Richmond. Walter Williams will be in England on an exchange program.

Paul K. Stockmeyer, assistant professor of mathematics and computer science, will be on research leave at Stanford University's Computer Science Department for a year.

In the modern language department, Mark G. Littlefield will be gone for the fall semester on a grant from the American Council of Learned Societies, and J. Luke Martel will spend the fall semester in Montpellier, France, where he will teach in the College's junior year abroad program.

Returning to the modern language department this fall are associate professors Ann Tyler Netick, who has been on leave doing research; Joanne Basso Funigiello, who was in Italy acting as a translator for her husband, Philip; and James W. Coke, who spent 1975-76 as an exchange professor to Exeter University, England, and 1976-77

New Faculty Appointments Announced

Two additional faculty appointments have been made recently.

In the Student Affairs Office Joseph P. Healey has been named associate dean for extramural affairs. Healey is responsible for all off campus programs, including the Washington Program, foreign study and the development of intern programs for students.

Since 1974 Healey has been director of fellowships, counselor for foreign study and work, and Fulbright-Hays campus advisor at Harvard University. He holds a Ph.D. degree in Near Eastern languages and civilizations from Harvard, M.A. from Catholic University, Ph.L. and Ph.B. degrees from the Pontificia Universitas Gregoriana in Rome, Italy, and A.A. degree from LaSalette Junior College, Altamont, N.Y.

In the psychology department, Joseph Galano has been appointed assistant professor. Galano recently completed his internship in clinical and community psychology at Rutgers Medical School. A graduate of St. Francis College, Brooklyn, N.Y., he holds an M.S. degree in psychology from New Mexico Highlands University and Ph.D. degree in clinical psychology from Bowling Green State University.

on a leave-of-absence doing research.

In the music department, Yona Zuzovsky Knorr, lecturer in music, will participate in a National Endowment for the Humanities' College Teachers in Residence program in 1977-78, at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

David L. Holmes, Jr., associate professor of religion, is returning from the University of Virginia, where he has been teaching and doing research for a book on Bishop William Meade.

Alan E. Fuchs, associate professor of philosophy, returns this fall after a year away on a National Endowment for the Humanities fellowship at Yale.

On leave for 1977-78 in the philosophy department are: William S. Cobb, Jr., who will be on leave-of-absence; F. Robert Bohl, Jr., who will be away on a National Endowment for the Humanities Teachers in Residence program at the University of California at Davis; and James F. Harris, who will be at Oxford University doing research on a book.

The physics department also has a number of professors who are leaving or returning. Carl E. Carlson will be gone for the entire academic year on a Sloan research fellowship. Three others will also be on leave for research: Edward A. Remler, in Israel; Lynn D. Doverspike, in Paris; and Jon F. Soest, in Washington state at the Weyerhouse Corporation.

Returning to the physics department are William J. Kossler, who was on research leave to Switzerland, and Frederic R. Crownfield, Jr., who has been at the Mathematical Institute, St. Andrews, Scotland.

Kelly G. Shaver, associate professor of psychology, will be off campus for the 1977-78 term. He has been named program director for social and developmental psychology at the National Science Foundation in Washington, D.C.

Leonhart, Former Ambassador, Named Diplomat In Residence

William Leonhart, former United States Ambassador to Yugoslavia and currently vice president of the National Defense University at Fort McNair, Washington, D.C., will spend the 1977-78 academic year on campus.

Ambassador Leonhart, who is coming to William and Mary for the Diplomat-in-Residence Program of the State Department's Foreign Service Institute, will reside in Williamsburg and may offer a course during the spring semester. He will not be teaching this fall.

He will be free to give lectures in the Tidewater area and hopes to have time to carry on his own research. During his stay on campus the Ambassador will be assigned to the Department of Government.

This is the first time that the College has been included in the Diplomat-in-Residence Program which was formally inaugurated in 1965.

Those selected for the program are not professional teachers or educators, but rather professional diplomats. Their host universities treat them as full professors on the basis of their experience and their standing within their own profession.

The program is designed to alert career diplomats to the country's changing moods and values as reflected on university campuses, provide participants with the stimulus of an academic community and afford faculty and students an opportunity to get to know a practicing political scientist.

Ambassador Leonhart began his State Department career in Buenos Aires in 1943 as an economic analyst. A native of West Virginia, he received his bachelor's degree from the University of West Virginia and graduate degrees, including the Ph.D., from Princeton University.

Ambassador Leonhart has held many foreign posts, including assignments in Italy, Japan, Cambodia, Laos, Vietnam, Tanganyika, Zanzibar and England.

He served on the State Department Policy Planning Staff in 1957 and the National Security Council Planning Board in 1958, and he was a presidential assistant in 1967, advising on Vietnam civilian programs and foreign policy.

He was sent to Belgrade in 1969 and served as United States Ambassador until 1971, when he joined the staff of the National Defense University.

Transcendental Meditation Lecture Set

A special lecture on the Transcendental Meditation Program, Enlightenment and Supernormal Abilities, will be given Tuesday, Sept. 6, at 8 p.m. in Rooms A&B of the Campus Center. A member of the Virginia Association to Develop an Ideal Society will speak, and the public is invited to attend.

The lecture is sponsored by the College's chapter of Students International Meditation Society.

A spokesman for the society said the program, as taught by Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, can help participants develop to their full potential by improving their learning ability, interpersonal relationships and physiology.

Gubernatorial Candidates To Debate Here

to last year's series of Presidential Debates. The College will invite a panel of professional Virginia journalists and a moderator to help conduct the debate and pose questions based on the issues. After opening statements from each candidate, the questioning will begin in a sequence determined by the toss of a coin just before 7:30 p.m. Rebuttals will be allowed after each question is answered. The debate will conclude with closing statements from the candidates. None of the questions will be submitted in advance to the candidates. Advance preparations are being directed by Ross Weeks, Jr., assistant to the president and director of information services at the College.

The participating stations are WNVN, Channels 53 and 14 in Northern Virginia; WVPT, Channel 51 in the Shenandoah Valley; WHRO, Channel 15 in Tidewater; WCVE, Channel 23 in Central Virginia and WBRA, Channel 15, in Southwestern Virginia.

Tickets for auditorium seats will be made available first to students, faculty and staff of the College and then to other interested persons. Some seats will be reserved for family and guests of both candidates and special guests of the College. A press seating area will also be set aside.

Extraterrestrial Life Is Lecture Topic

The highly successful public lecture series "Our Future in the Cosmos," co-sponsored by William and Mary and NASA Langley Research Center, will open its fourth season with an illustrated talk entitled "The Search for Intelligent Life in Other Worlds" to be presented Sept. 12 in Hampton Coliseum by Walter Sullivan, writer and science editor for the New York Times.

Funded by NASA and administered by the College's Office of Special Programs, the series this year will include at least four speakers. Sir Robert Mark, director, New Scotland Yard, London, will be the second speaker this fall.

Economist Milton Friedman will be a guest lecturer in the spring. Other speakers have yet to be announced.

Sullivan will speak at 8 p.m. Sept. 12 in Hampton Coliseum. Free tickets are available by phoning William and Mary's Office of Special Programs, Newport News, 877-9231, prior to Sept. 5. After that date, tickets will be available at the Coliseum Box Office only.

Author of the best sellers "Quest for a Continent" and "We are Not Alone," Sullivan will discuss some of the implications of the expansion of space exploration and evidence that life may exist elsewhere in the solar system.

Designed to bring global issues of the day, discussed in layman's terms by experts in the field, to the residents of Tidewater, the series has included an impressive list of speakers over the past three years.

The format of each program includes a question and answer period following the speaker's formal presentation to give members of the audience an opportunity to participate.

Carson Barnes, director of the Office of Special Programs, feels the success of the lecture series can be measured both by the fact that recent lectures have required the use of larger facilities and that some prominent speakers will now alter their schedules to be included in the lecture series.

Evening College Registration To Be Held Wednesday

Courses in a wide variety of subjects, ranging from cultural anthropology to marine science and education, will be offered in evening classes this fall.

Registration will be held Wednesday, Aug. 31, from 6:30 to 8 p.m. in James Blair Hall at the Evening College Office on the first floor.

Those unable to register on Wednesday evening may complete registration on Saturday, Sept. 3, between 9 and 11:30 a.m. in the Evening College Office. No registrations will be accepted after the second class meeting.

For courses on Thursdays, the first class session will be September 1. Monday classes will begin on Labor Day. Tuesday and Wednesday classes begin September 6 and 7.

This is the second year the College is offering the general introductory course in marine science, which includes biological, chemical, geological and physical oceanography. The course

$25,000 NEH Grant Awarded Southside For Flowerdew 100

The National Endowment for the Humanities has awarded a $25,316 grant to Southside Historical Sites, Inc., in support of a project to develop an interpretative program of Flowerdew Hundred for the general public.

Southside Historical Sites, Inc., is a public foundation chartered to carry out archaeological and historical research in conjunction with the Department of Anthropology at the College.

Flowerdew Hundred, established on the south side of the James River near Hopewell in 1619, was one of the largest and most developed settlements in the Virginia Colony. Southside and College anthropologists have been conducting archaeological excavations at Flowerdew Hundred for the past five years. This summer a reproduction of an 18th century windmill was completed at Flowerdew, site of the first windmill in America.

Principal participants in the project will be Norman F. Barka of the William and Mary anthropology department, director; Nathan Altshuler, William and Mary anthropology department; Junius R. Fishburne, Jr., president, Southside Historical Sites, Inc., and Edward Ayres and Arthur Barnes, SHS historians.

Classifieds

All members of the College community may place personal advertisements in the William and Mary News.

The deadline for submitting advertisements is 4 p.m. on the Wednesday preceding publication. For a $2 fee, each ad is run in three consecutive issues. Payment must be received before the ad can be printed.

Individual advertisements should be limited to not more than 40 words.

Advertisements for non-commercial announcements of goods, rentals and real estate, either offered or sought, and for lost and found items will be accepted.

Advertisements for profit-making business ventures, such as guitar lessons and babysitting services, can not be accepted.

There is no charge for listing found items.
