PRESIDENT ISSUES DEBATE STATEMENT

President Thomas A. Graves, Jr., issue the following statement early Tuesday:

"I have been informed by John N. Dalton of his decision to cancel, for the remainder of the gubernatorial campaign, all joint appearances with Henry E. Howell. The televised gubernatorial debate that was to have been held in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall on the evening of Monday, Oct. 17, sponsored by the College, has therefore been cancelled.

"Mr. Dalton has asked me to express his regret for any inconvenience that this change in plans may have caused those who would have been involved in the debate in one way or another. Let me add my thanks to all those who have been active in the preparations for the debate.

"I hope that Mr. Dalton and Mr. Howell will each be able to appear on the William and Mary campus during the campaign, and that each of them will speak to and discuss the issues with members of the College community.

"I am hopeful also that the College will have the opportunity to sponsor debates between major candidates for state-wide and national offices in the future. We see this as a way in which William and Mary may be of public and educational service to the citizens of Virginia and the nation."

ASIA HOUSE PROGRAM SET

Asia House will be sponsoring several events this week. On Tuesday evening, Sept. 20, Mr. Hita Brata Roy, a State Department representative in Calcutta, will discuss "The Distinctive Culture of Bengal," the eastern province of India noted for being a center of great intellectual and cultural activity.

The regular Thursday program on Sept. 22 will feature Mr. Walter K. Anderson, a State Department speaker who will discuss "India after Indira." Mme. Gandhi had been Prime Minister since 1966 but recently lost the election after two years of "emergency rule." Each program will be held in the Asia House lobby at 7:30 p.m.

Written For The Layman By Marshall-Wythe Students

Guide To Virginia Law Published

Virginia is the first state in the nation to have a comprehensive statement on the laws of the state, written for the non-lawyer.

"The Layman's Guide to Virginia Law," written and edited by 19 former students at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, has been published by the Michie Company of Charlottesville as a book designed to make the law of Virginia more understandable to the average citizen.

Wes Jackson
Visiting Scholar

Ecologist Wes Jackson To Lecture

Ecologist West Jackson, director of The Land Institute, Salina, Kansas, will speak on campus Sept. 28 as part of the Visiting Scholars Lecture series of the University Center in Virginia.

Jackson will discuss "Ecological Principles and the Search for an Alternative Agriculture," at 4 p.m. in Millington 117. The public is invited to attend.

The Land Institute, which Jackson heads, is a non-profit educational-research organization, devoted to a search for alternatives in energy, shelter, agriculture and waste disposal.

Professor of environmental studies at California State University, Sacramento, during 1971-1976, Jackson has devoted much research time to genetics and has presented papers at national and international professional meetings. His book "Man and the Environment," was adopted in more than 500 colleges and universities, and a third edition is now in preparation.

Jackson has won many awards for his work and has received fellowships from the National Science Foundation in genetics, plant taxonomy, marine biology and tropical ecology.

The Guide includes an analysis of each of 19 areas of law, including property, taxes, wills and estates and women's rights. The chief purpose of the book is to equip citizens with a knowledge of their rights under the law, in the hope that such knowledge will help dispel the mystery surrounding the profession and prompt people to seek legal advice before a crisis develops.

All of the editors and writers of the Guide are former members of the Student Bar Association at Marshall-Wythe. The book has been four years in the making.

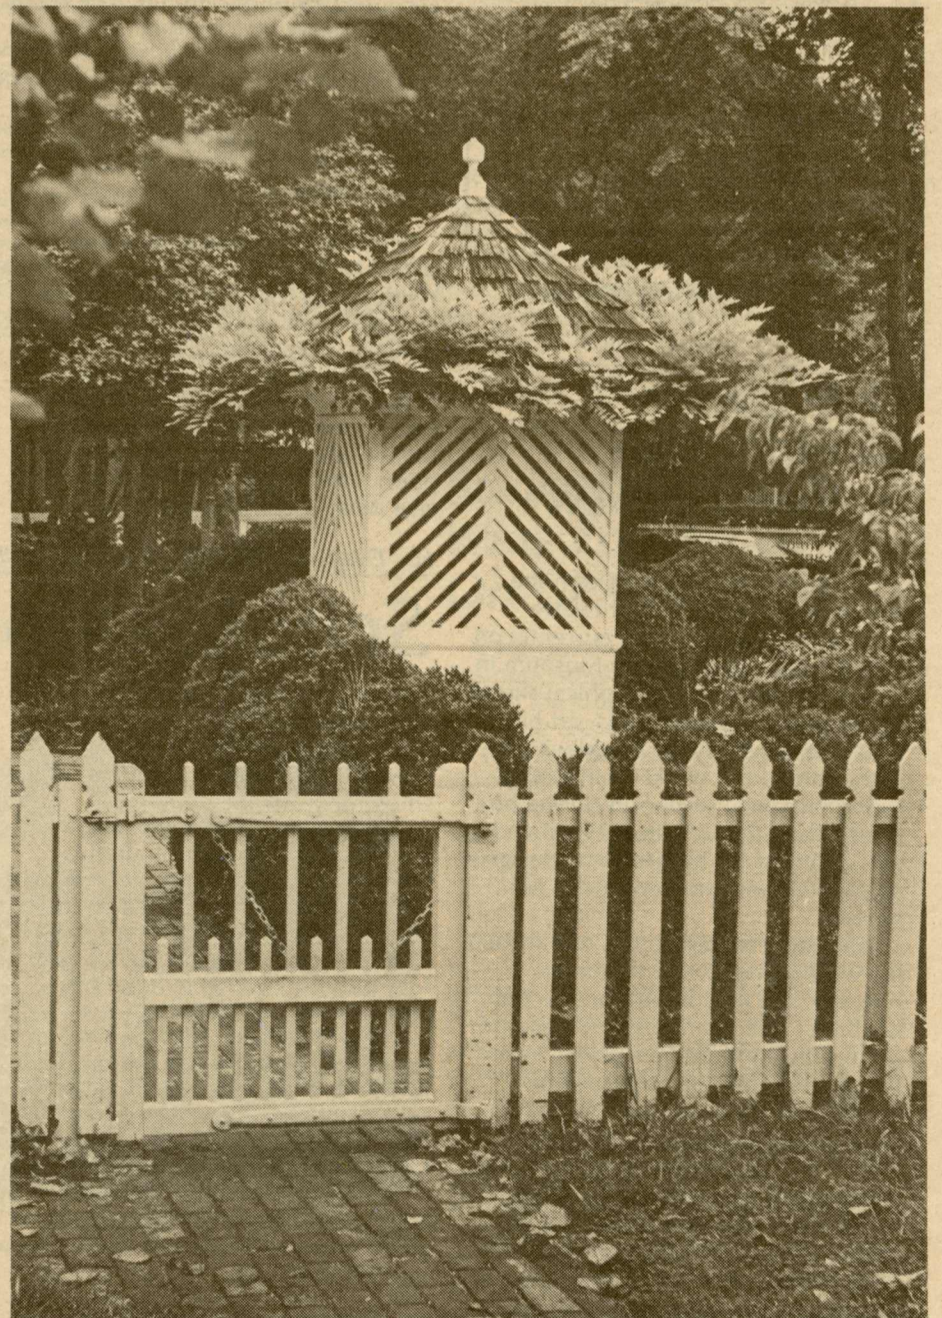

The project started in 1973 at the urging of William F. Swindler, John Marshall Professor of Law. Swindler was then a visiting professor at the University of Oklahoma law school, whose students were trying to compile a law guide for that state. The Oklahoma book, despite encouragement by the American Bar Association, has never been published.

Financing for the Virginia Layman's Guide was provided by the Marshall-Wythe Student Bar Association. Profits from the sale of the Layman's Guide will be donated to the College in trust for the use of the law school library.

Each chapter of the book was written by a student, reviewed by three editors and checked for accuracy by one or more faculty members or practicing attorneys.

The Guide will be recommended to the Virginia State Bar, the Virginia Bar Association, and the American Bar Association for endorsement. Guide editors hope these and other professional organizations will promote the book as a model for similar projects in other states.

In addition to regular commercial distribution through bookstores, The Michie Company plans to promote the Guide to public and private school systems and libraries, civic and business organizations, local bar associations, and colleges and universities.

Newsmakers

The professional appointments, lectures, achievements and publications of William and Mary faculty and staff are featured regularly in this column.

Faculty members in all schools and departments and professional staff in all offices are invited to submit written notices of appropriate professional activities to the News Office, 308 Old Chemistry Building.

It is the policy of the William and Mary News to include only activities of a professional capacity to an audience directly related to the speaker's field of expertise. Attendance at conferences will be included only if a faculty member or administrator has contributed to the program in a significant way, such as delivering a paper or address, or chairing a session.

Bettie S. Adams, assistant director of William and Mary Hall, has been named a Certified Facilities Executive by the International Association of Auditorium Managers. Adams received the CFE award at the 52nd Annual IAAM Conference, in San Francisco, July 24-28. Adams was presented with an engraved plaque and certificate by 1976-77 IAAM President Charles P.

Dali's "Shattering Entrance"

Etchings By Salvador Dali In Swem Exhibit

"A Shattering Entrance Upon the American Stage" is one of twelve etchings by Salvador Dali currently on exhibition at the Zollinger Museum in Swem Library. In a biographical sketch accompanying the etchings, art historian Andre Parinaud describes the story behind the works. Dali's "shattering entrance" occurred during his third trip to the U.S. in 1939, when he was asked by Bonwit-Teller to design a display window on New York's Fifth Avenue.

According to Parinaud, Dali finished his work about 2 a.m. When he returned the next afternoon, he found his decor had been changed because store officials feared a scandal. When the store refused to withdraw his name from the work, Dali forced his way to the window and tried "Shell-less Opisthobranchs of Virginia" the process, the window was shattered. Dali, who was the talk of the town in the papers the next day, said "the broken glass did more for my glory than if I had dressed the whole of Fifth Avenue."

Minor Grants For Research

Application forms for Minor Grants for Research are now available in the office of the Vice President for Academic Affairs, Brafferton, Room 6. All currently enrolled students, faculty, and staff are eligible to apply. The deadlines are midnight, September 30 (for October announcement) and midnight, January 31 (for February announcement). All applications should be sent directly to Franz Gross, Chairman, Committee for Faculty Research, at the Department of Physics, Small Hall. Applicants are asked to use the new forms prepared for this year.

Minor Grants for Research (normally less than $300) are intended to assist with certain necessary and unavoidable expenses directly related to research, and are not intended to fund research costs which should be included in the normal budgets of departments and schools. The policy regarding the use of this fund is very restrictive—in particular, transportation to professional meetings, meals, lodging, books, and typing of these are some of the items which will normally not be funded. A more detailed statement of the funding policy is included with each application form.

Applications for Summer Research Grants and Semester Faculty Research Assignments are also available, and these programs will be announced next week.

Graviss, manager of the Civic Auditorium, Bakersfield, Cal.

The IAAM Certification Program was initiated in 1976 by the international organization to recognize professional excellence and personal achievement in the management of public assembly facilities. The award also recognizes outstanding leadership and participation in the association, which represents over 500 auditoriums, arenas, stadiums, theaters and convention centers/exhibit halls throughout the world.

An article by Michael Faia, sociology, entitled "The Mastectomy Complex: A Brief Note on a Recently Discovered Fragment from the Theoretical Works of Dr. Sigrid Void, Adumbrating a New Psychology of Men," has been accepted for publication by The Worm Runner's Digest.

David Kranbuehl, chemistry, recently published an article in the Journal of Chemical Physics entitled "Relaxation of the aspherical shapes of random-coil polymer chains."

In the anthropology department, Mario D. Zamora and James Lett, Jr., a William and Mary graduate, are co-authors of an article entitled "Conflict Analysis: a Pakistani Example," published in the recent issue of The Eastern Anthropologist, Lucknow, India. Zamora is also author of a review of Frank Lebar (ed. and compiler), Ethnic Groups of Insular Southeast Asia (The Philippines and Formosa), published in the Journal of Asian Studies in August.

John McGlennon, government, presented a paper entitled "The Effects of Corruption Scandals on Police Department Control and Support" at the annual meeting of the American Political Science Association, held September 1-4 in Washington, D.C. The paper was presented on a panel on Corruption in Local Government, part of the official program of the APSA. Alan J. Ward of the government department chaired a session on "The Role of Movement Politics in a Traditionalist Democracy."

Physics department chairman Hans C. von Baeyer attended the Workshop on Classical Particle Electrodynamics in Trieste, Italy, July 11-15, where he gave a talk on "Recent Advances in the Two-Body Problem."

Ron Wheeler, School of Education, presented a paper entitled "Disposition Toward Cooperation and Competition: Cooperative and Competitive Classroom Effects" at the conference of the American Psychological Association in San Francisco.

Associate professor of education Robert B. Bloom has been asked to be a field reader for the Division of Personnel Preparation, Bureau of Education for the Handicapped of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. In addition, Bloom has been named program chairman for the Virginia Psychological Association's spring meeting to be held April 13-16 in Williamsburg. He is planning to include an academic psychology program and invites American Psychological Association members on the faculty to submit original research for presentation at the conference.

In the mathematics and computer science department, Robert W. Miller has had a paper accepted for publication in Communications in Algebra. The paper, entitled "Cotorsionfree Modules and Colocalizations," was co-authored by Jonathan S. Golan of Haifa University, Haifa, Israel.

Norman E. Gibbs has been elected to a two-year term as vice-chairman of the Association for Computing Machinery Special Interest Group in Computer Science Education.

Professors Gibbs and William G. Poole, were members of the organizing committee for the 8th Technical Symposium of the ACM-Special Interest Group on Computer Science Education, held at the University of Southwestern Louisiana, August 3-4. Gibbs presented a paper entitled "An Introductory Computer Science course for All Majors," which was published in the conference proceedings.

In the physics department, several papers have been published: Etienne Delacroix and Franz Gross, "Effects of the Small Components of the Nucleon on Pionic Disintegration of Deuterium Near Threshold," *Phys. For Drapers', Rhodes, Marshall and Danforth Awards

Scholarship Applications Due Soon

Applications are currently being invited for Drapers', Rhodes and Marshall Scholarships for study in Great Britain, and for Danforth Fellowships for graduate study.

The Drapers' Company Scholarship, which covers the cost of attendance for two years at a British university of the recipient's choice, is open to men and women undergraduates of the College who will graduate in January of May 1978. It is expected that two scholarships will be awarded.

Application and recommendation forms are available at the office of Joseph P. Healey, associate dean for Extramural Programs, 209 James Blair Hall. Applications are due Friday, October 7, in Dean Healey's office.

All applicants will be interviewed by the Committee on Foreign Scholarships. It is recommended that interested students talk with Dean Healey or with Cecil McCulley, chairman of the committee, before applying. Professor McCulley is on research leave this semester but will be available for consultation in 208 Old Rogers Hall on Mondays from 9-10 p.m. and on Wednesdays from 4-5 p.m.

Rhodes, Marshall Scholarships

Students interested in applying for Rhodes or Marshall Scholarships for study in England should meet with Carlyle Beyer, professor of history, 321 Morton Hall, Ext. 4417, or with Dean Joseph Healey, 209 James Blair Hall, for information and advice on application procedures.

The scholarships are open to men and women and provide two or three years of study at Oxford for the Rhodes Scholars, or at any British university for Marshall Scholarship recipients.

The deadline for preliminary applications is October 7.

Danforth

Applications are now being invited for the Danforth Graduate Fellowships, to be awarded by the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, Mo., in April 1978.

The fellowships are open to all qualified persons who have serious interest in careers of teaching in colleges and universities, and who plan to study for a Ph.D. in any field of study common to the undergraduate liberal arts curriculum in the U.S.

Applicants for the Danforth baccalaureate awards must be college seniors and may not have undertaken graduate level programs of study beyond their college-level work. At William and Mary, applicants must be nominated by Philosophy Professor Earl McLane, Danforth liaison officer. The deadline is November 15.

The fellowship is a one-year award but is normally renewable until completion of the advanced degree or for a maximum of four years of graduate study. Fellowship stipends are based on need, but they will not exceed $2,500 for single or married fellows with no children, or $3,500 for married fellows with one child. The fellowship also covers tuition and fees.

Vera Lendvay
Piano Instructor

Vera Lendvay Presents Faculty Piano Recital

Pianist Vera Zathureczky Lendvay of the William and Mary music faculty and violinist Philip Lewis of Virginia Commonwealth University will present a recital, Saturday, September 24, at 8:15 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

There is no charge for the recital, which is sponsored by the College's music department.

The concert program includes sonatas by Mozart, Dohnanyi, Schubert and Beethoven.

Lendvay graduated from the Franz Liszt Academy of Music in her native Hungary, where she studied with noted composer Zoltan Kodaly. She has performed extensively in Hungary, where she was a member of the faculty of the Music Conservatory, and in the United States.

In 1975 as president of the Musicians Club of Richmond, she organized the first National Piano Competition of Virginia.

Lendvay joined the William and Mary faculty in 1969 and also teaches at VCU.

Philip Lewis was born in Pasadena, Cal. He has studied violin since an early age and enrolled at the Peabody Conservatory in Baltimore. Lewis has been soloist and concert master with the Annapolis Symphony, the Santa Barbara Festival Orchestra, the Peabody Orchestra, and the Calgary Philharmonic Orchestra in Canada.

Gerald F. Mische, long-time activist in the World Order Movement for peace and justice, will speak on "The Revolution Against National Sovereignty" in the Project Plus Forum on Wednesday, Sept. 28.

The public is invited to attend the Forum, which begins at 7:30 p.m. in Millington Hall auditorium.

Mische has been adjunct professor of the Center for Humanistic Studies, Seton Hall University, since 1973. With his wife, Patricia, he founded Global Education Associates in 1973, an organization "to facilitate concerned people of diverse cultures, talents and experience in contributing to a more human and just world future."

Gerald and Patricia Mische are co-authors of "Toward A Human World Order," in which they urge the dismantling of the current system of independent nation states and stress the need to rely on global interdependence.

Mische received a bachelor's degree in social science and philosophy from Maryknoll College, completed three years of graduate study in theology at St. John's University and received a master's degree in international affairs from Columbia University.

He has been associated with several organizations devoted to the study of international and humanistic problems, including the Institute for World Order and the Association for International Development. He and his wife have spent many years living and working in a number of European, African and South American countries.

Interested faculty and students are invited to talk informally with Mr. Mische on Thursday, Sept. 29. Professor Carlyle Beyer, Ext. 4549 or 4652, is arranging times for one or two small group meetings.

Several copies of Mische's "Toward A Human World Order" have been ordered by the College Bookstore and are expected in the near future.

Reed Named Assistant Registrar

Sharon Reed, assistant director of admissions at Bard College, New York, has been appointed assistant registrar, effective Oct. 1.

Reed replaces Elizabeth R. Stearns, who retired in June after more than 20 years on the College staff.

As assistant registrar, Reed will be responsible primarily for overseeing the evaluation of undergraduate students' progress toward satisfying degree requirements, said Registrar Henry C. Johnson. Reed will also oversee the creation and maintenance of all student permanent academic records, Johnson said.

Within the office, he said, major responsibilities in the area of registration, commencement and related activities, will continue to be under the supervision of Assistant Registrar Dorothy Bryant. Bryant has been a member of the College staff since 1970. She was named assistant registrar in 1972.

Reed is a graduate of the University of Missouri at Columbia and holds a master's degree in English from New York University.

Dissertation Defense

A final examination in defense of dissertation will be held for Rosalie M. Vogel, candidate for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in Marine Science, at 10 a.m. Monday, Sept. 26, in the Byrd Hall Conference Room, School of Marine Science.

Vogel's dissertation is entitled "Shell-less Opisthobranchs of Virginia and Maryland."

Business Student Wins Top Award On CPA Exam

A May graduate of the School of Business Administration has been presented the Gold Medal Award for receiving the highest score in the State on the Certified Public Accountant examination.

Winfred Eddins, Jr., of Culpeper, received the award at the annual meeting of the Virginia Society for Certified Public Accountants held in Williamsburg.

Eddins was also the recipient of the Sells Award, an honor established by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants to recognize individuals who receive the top 67 scores in the nation. Approximately 44,000 accountants took the three-day exam last May.

Eddins, who recently accepted a job in the Richmond office of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co., is the latest in a long line of award-winning accounting graduates from the School of Business Administration at William and Mary. William and Mary students also received the Gold Medal Award in 1971 and 1974.

Official Memorandum

From: James C. Livingston
Dean of the Undergraduate Program

To: The College Community

This past year the Committee on Student Financial Aid and Placement gave careful consideration to a number of issues relevant to our program of student financial aid. The Committee recommended, and the Administration has approved, the adoption of the following policy statement:

"The continued lack of funds to fully cover all of the certifiable needs of its students, and the desire of the College to support needy students, requires that need-based awards continue to receive the highest priority within the College. This position has several specific implications.

1. Existing funds currently utilized for need-based awards should not be diverted to other uses, such as academic-based or merit awards.
2. The College, in its solicitation of funds to be used for financial assistance to students, should place primary emphasis on obtaining unrestricted funds which might be used for need-based awards.

Nevertheless, there is a trend among colleges and universities, especially private institutions, of returning to the use of academic scholarships as a means of attracting gifted and talented students. Further, since students of exceptional ability make an important contribution to the total academic environment of the College, it may become advisable to offer merit-based awards in the near future. Therefore, awards on the basis of academic excellence should receive a secondary priority within the College. This position also has several specific implications.

1. Although potential donors should be encouraged to give unrestricted funds which may be utilized for need-based awards, the College should gratefully accept contributions for academic scholarships.
 2. Amounts unexpended from restricted funds at year end may be carried over and used for merit awards for entering students within the restrictions of the fund used.
- Finally, it is appropriate for academic departments or schools to use work-study funds (budget code 1123) to develop undergraduate "assistantships" for exceptional and meritorious students. Control for such an endeavor is primarily under the department chairperson who might be interested and who is willing to use these funds in this manner. Since, however, work-study funds are considered by HEW, the State and the College to be a form of student financial assistance, the implementation of the assistantship program must not jeopardize the employment of needy students on a priority basis."

Supreme Court cases tried under Chief Justice John Marshall, who studied law at William and Mary, set a strong precedent in emphasizing that Presidential power is limited by the Constitution, and must remain so if the balance of power is to secure a democratic government for all. Four major constitutional cases at which Marshall presided are dramatized in a five-part film series "Equal Justice Under Law" to be televised soon. Above, Marshall (center) presides with associate justices Bushrod Washington (left) and Joseph Story. Area residents may watch "Mr. Chief Justice" on Sept. 24 at 6 p.m. and in half-hour segments, Oct. 3-5, at 7:30 p.m.; and "The Trial of Aaron Burr," Oct. 1 at 6 p.m. and in half-hour segments, Oct. 6, 7 and 10 at 7:30 p.m. on WHRO-TV. Complementing the film series will be a documentary book, "The Constitution and Chief Justice Marshall," written by William F. Swindler, John Marshall Professor of Law.

Classifieds

All members of the College community may place personal advertisements in the William and Mary News.

The deadline for submitting advertisements is 4 p.m. on the Wednesday preceding publication. For a $2 fee, each ad is run in three consecutive issues. Payment must be received before the ad can be printed.

Individual advertisements should be limited to not more than 40 words.

Advertisements for non-commercial announcements of goods, rentals and real estate, either offered or sought, and for lost and found items will be accepted.

Advertisements for profit-making business ventures, such as guitar lessons and babysitting services, can not be accepted.

There is no charge for listing found items.
