REQUIREMENTS DISCUSSED FOR HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATION

Phi Delta Kappa education honorary will sponsor a panel discussion on minimum competency for high school graduation, Nov. 3 at 8 p.m. in the Dodge Room of Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

Delegate George Grayson and Numa Bradner, director of the division of secondary education for the State Department of Education, will make opening remarks. They will be joined by Paul Cummings, supervisor of industrial arts for the Newport News school division, and William Anderson, superintendent of the Hampton School division, for a discussion of the program topic.

The audience will be invited to join in the question and answer session, which will follow the formal presentation by the speakers.

The program is being arranged by Ward Ellis, PDK program chairman.

BACKDROP CLUB SLATES PERFORMANCE

The Backdrop Club will present the play "J.B." by Archibald MacLeish, in the television studio of Phi Beta Kappa Hall, Nov. 3, 4 and 5 at 8:15 p.m.

Tickets are $2.50 each and are available at the PBK box office daily from 3-5:30 p.m. Reservations may be made by calling 253-4272.

The title role of J.B. will be played by Frank Hankey, a balladeer at Chowning's Tavern who played the part of Decker in the Williamsburg Players' production of "Bus Stop."

The cast also includes Susan Beckett, a sophomore from Vienna, Va., as J.B.'s wife. She was previously a member of the cast of "Guys and Dolls." Dylan Baker, who plays Zeus, is a sophomore from Lynchburg. He has participated in several main-stage productions including "Damn Yankees," and has worked with community groups including Center Stage in Hampton. Jay McClure, a freshman from Stuarts Draft, is also a cast member. The director is Mark Stanley, a senior from Seoul, South Korea.

Joseph S. Iseman

Prominent New York Lawyer Is Visiting Wilson Fellow

Joseph S. Iseman, New York lawyer, will be Woodrow Wilson Visiting Fellow at the College during the week of November 7.

Iseman follows former IBM president Vincent Learson, ABC commentator Edward P. Morgan and former Michigan governor George Romney as the fourth Wilson Fellow on campus. The visiting fellows program was initiated by the Wilson Foundation to bring college students face to face with successful men and women from business, government, diplomacy and other professions.

A graduate of Harvard University and Yale University law school, Iseman has been a partner in the law firm Paul, Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton and Garrison, one of the largest firms in New York, since 1954.

He has served as legal counsel in matters ranging from aviation to estate planning and administration, corporate law and publishing. Recently he has represented such authors as Theodore White and the late Vladimir Nabokov. He has been counsel to the Saturday Review magazine for some 20 years.

Iseman currently represents a number of foundations and educational concerns, including the Charles F. Kettering Foundation; the Educational Broadcasting Corporation; Children's Television Workshop, producers of the popular Sesame Street; Academy for Educational Development Inc.; and Educational Facilities Laboratories, Inc.

Iseman served as Acting President of Bennington College, Vt., from January to July 1976, following the abrupt mid-year resignation of the college president and her husband, the college vice president.

He has since lectured frequently on the problem areas of academic administration. Recently he has been advising the Board of Bennett College, a small New York State two-year college, how to deal with a situation when a college simply cannot afford to reopen.

During his four day visit on campus Iseman will be meeting with a number of classes in the School of Education and the Marshall-Wythe School of Law. He will also discuss "Revolution in Education" with students in the academic-residential program Project Plus, "Media and the Law" with members of the Publications Council, and the "Differences between perceptions of college life and structure held by trustees and by the president" with members of the Board of Student Affairs. An interview with Iseman on careers in law will be video-taped for inclusion in the Career Planning library.

While on campus, Iseman will also be meeting with President Thomas A. Graves Jr. and a number of members of the faculty and administration to discuss problems of academic administration.

James C. Livingston, dean of the undergraduate program, is coordinating campus arrangements for Iseman's visit.

German Scholar To Discuss Psychoanalysis and Literature

"Psychoanalysis and the Misinterpretation of Literature" is the topic of a lecture here Friday, November 4, by Visiting Scholar Erich Heller.

Avalon Professor in the Humanities at Northwestern University, Heller will speak at 7:30 p.m. in the Botetourt Theatre at Swem Library. The public is invited to attend his talk, which is sponsored by the Modern Languages Department and the Visiting Scholars Program of the University Center in Virginia.

A prominent scholar of modern German literature, Heller has taught at major universities in Great Britain, Germany and the United States. He is the author of several books, including "The Hazard of Modern Poetry" and "The Ironic German, A Study of Thomas Mann."

He received the Johann-Heinrich-Merck Prize for Essay and Literary Criticism from the German Academy of Language and Literature in 1969. Heller was elected a Fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences in 1971.

A graduate of the German University in Prague, Heller received his doctoral degree from Cambridge University.

Theoretical Physicists To Hold Annual Conference On Campus

Theoretical physicists from throughout the eastern United States will meet here November 4-5 for the 16th annual Eastern Theoretical Physics Conference.

Some 100 physicists are expected to attend the conference, which is being sponsored by William and Mary's Physics Department and the National Science Foundation. Hans C. von Baeyer, head of the physics department, is conference chairman.

Jack Edwards, dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, will give welcoming remarks preceding the first session Friday morning in the William Small Physical Laboratory on campus.

Sessions on Friday morning will focus on elementary particle physics with special emphasis on the problem of how the fundamental building blocks of matter, called quarks, are held together to make up nuclei of atoms. Speakers include Thomas W. Applequist, Yale University; Curtis G. Callan, Princeton; and Sidney Coleman, Harvard. Franz Gross, of William and Mary, is chairman for the sessions.

The theory of turbulence, the wild irregular flow of fluids in motion, is the topic of Friday afternoon's session, chaired by Marshall N. Rosenbluth of Princeton. Speakers are Robert H. Kraichnan of Dublin, N.H.; David C. Montgomery, William and Mary; and Thomas H. Dupree, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The Saturday morning session, on the physics of surfaces, will concentrate on the mathematical description of the atoms situated on the surface of materials, where they behave differently from similar atoms buried inside the material. Joel A. Appelbaum of Bell Laboratories is chairman, and speakers include Keith H. Johnson, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; John J. Quinn of Brown University; and Paul Soven, University of Pennsylvania.

The final session, Saturday afternoon, deals with astrophysics, with special emphasis on how galaxies and groups of galaxies assumed the shapes they now have. The speakers are P. J. Peebles of Princeton University; Richard B. Larson, Yale; and Edwin M. Kellogg of Harvard. David De Young of the National Radio Astronomy Observatory in Charlottesville, Va., is chairman.

Newsmakers

Alan Fuchs, philosophy department chairman, was elected secretary of the Virginia Philosophical Association at the association's Oct. 20-21 meeting at James Madison University. Eunice Belgium presented a paper, "Weakness of Will: Theory and Practice," at the meeting. Other faculty members attending included Lewis Foster, Earl McLane, William Cobb, Tom Brickhouse, Lyle Angene and Professor Emeritus Frank MacDonald.

Several members of the William and Mary faculty and staff recently participated in sessions of a four-day Foreign Legal Visitors Orientation Program, conducted in Williamsburg by the National Center for State Courts. History Professor Boyd Coyner spoke on "The Historical Origins of the American Federal System" at the orientation session, Oct. 19. Richard A. Williamson, associate dean of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, discussed due process of law at the Oct. 20 session, while Government Professor George W. Grayson participated in an Oct. 21 session on Civil Rights for minorities in America.

A collection of short fiction, Rope Dances, by English Professor David Porush has been accepted for publication in the spring of 1979 by the Fiction Collective, Braziller Press of New York.

Louis J. Noisin, anthropology, has been invited by the anthropology department of Wake Forest University to be a panel member at a symposium on "Human Nature and the Value System of American Law." He will present a cross-cultural aspect of law and law enforcement systems in different countries at the symposium, which will be held Dec. 1.

In the sociology department, William H. Martineau has had an article entitled, "Informal Social Ties Among Urban Black Americans: Some New Data and a Review of the Problem," published in the September issue of Journal of Black Studies.

Donald J. Messmer and Marvin M. Stanley in the School of Business Administration presented a paper entitled "Forecasting Rail Freight Car Demand: An Application of Box-Jenkins Analysis" at the 1977 Transportation and Logistics Educator conference, Oct. 16 in Los Angeles, Cal.

Economists Fred Harris and Carl Moody have recently completed a report for the Commonwealth's Marine Resources Commission entitled "A Benefit-Cost Analysis of Virginia's Oyster Subsidies: An Historical Appraisal and Proposal for the Future." The authors and co-editor Sam Baker, also of the economics department, conclude that the ecological devastation created by the MSX organism in the early 60's and Hurricane Agnes in 1973 has justified the massive recent subsidies of the oyster industry. They suggest, however, that in the future a more competitive bidding scheme should be introduced for allocating leases to the public oyster grounds and that more efficient dredging equipment no longer be prohibited. The project was funded through the Virginia Marine Advisory Service with funds from the National Sea Grants Council and the Virginia Institute of Marine Science.

R. Merritt Cox, modern languages, will chair the Spanish II division meeting of the South Atlantic Modern Language Association to be held in Washington, D.C., Nov. 3-5.

Anne Tyler Netick, modern languages, gave an illustrated talk on Russian icons at the "Russian Focus" program of the 15th annual Virginia Foreign Language Conference held in Richmond, Oct. 14. Netick has also recently published several articles in Choice, including reviews of Henry Gifford's Pasternak: A Critical Study, Roy A. Medvedev's Problems in the Literary Biography of Mikhail Sholokhov, and Lidiia Lotman's Afanyas Fet.

Alan J. Ward, government, read a paper entitled "Home Rule and Devolution: A Study of the British Constitution and Regional Nationalism," to the Mid-West Conference on Irish Studies at Carroll College, Wisc., on Oct. 15.

MDTS Course Offerings Given

The Management Development Training Service of the Commonwealth of Virginia offers courses on a wide variety of subjects. All State employees have an equal opportunity to apply for the courses listed below. Interested employees should submit their request in writing through the head of their department to the College Personnel Office. All costs must be borne by the employing department.

Courses, dates of training, nomination deadlines and eligibility requirements are: "Program Budgeting I," Nov. 17-18, deadline Oct. 31; and Nov. 21-22, deadline, Oct. 31, for program managers, fiscal officers, and others with program management responsibilities. "Program Budgeting II," Dec. 8-9, deadline Nov. 21; and Dec. 15-16, deadline Nov. 28, same as above plus

Staffer Earns Degree

Julius Green, property control supervisor in the Department of Buildings and Grounds, received his Associate Degree in liberal arts from St. Leo's College, in ceremonies held Oct. 28 at Fort Monroe.

Green completed requirements for the degree as a part-time student evenings and weekends. He has already begun work toward a bachelor's degree in the St. Leo's program.

Green joined the William and Mary staff in October 1973. He was previously chief warrant officer stationed at Ft. Eustis. Green is married and lives in Newport News.

an introductory course, workshop, or seminar on program budgeting.

Nominations will be accepted after these dates if the class size permits.

Each of the above offerings will be held in Richmond. Tuition for each offering is $30 with lunch provided.

Guard Performs

Members of the Queen's Guard Association participated for the first time last month in a military wedding. They escorted arriving guests at the wedding of 1st Lt. Doug Farris, a 1975 graduate of William and Mary, and Lt. Roseanne Mellert at St. Mary's by the Sea Chapel at Fort Monroe.

Oct. 15. Following the ceremony, the ten Guard members participating formed a sabre arch for the newlyweds to leave the chapel.

Formed originally as a part of the ROTC program on campus, the precision drill team is now an extra-curricular organization. Its commander is Tom Bell, a junior from Williamsburg.

Notices

AUDUBON FILM--America's vanishing wetlands and the valuable and colorful wildlife they support will be featured in an Audubon film, Friday, Nov. 4, in the Ballroom of the Campus Center at 7:45 p.m. Tickets are $1.75 for adults, $1 for students, and $.75 for children, and may be purchased at the door. Once extending over some 127 million acres, the interior and coastal wetlands of the U.S. have been reduced by almost half through drainage and development, often ill-advised. Thomas A. Sterling of the National Audubon Society lecture staff will be narrator for the film.

WANTED: CRAFT ITEMS--Students, faculty and staff are invited to enter their crafts in the second annual Campus Center Crafts Festival, to be held Saturday, Dec. 3, in the lobby of the Campus Center, 10 a.m.-4 p.m. For information about entering items, contact Amy Owens at Ext. 4041.

HIMALAYAN ARCHITECTURE--Asia House will present a lecture by Joseph Stein, visiting professor of architecture and South Asian Studies at the University of Virginia, on Thursday, Nov. 3. Stein will discuss "Environmental Influences on Architecture in the Himalayas" at 7:30 p.m. in the Asia House lobby, Unit B of the fraternity complex. The public is invited to attend.

GYMNASTICS CLINIC--"Dance for Gymnastics," a clinic given by Maria Bakos, U.S. Olympic team dance consultant, will be held in Adair Gymnasium, Saturday, November 12, from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Students are invited to participate free. For information, contact Sylvia Shirley, Ext. 4014.

WASHINGTON POST INTERNSHIPS--Juniors, seniors and graduate students interested in newspaper journalism careers are invited to apply for the Summer 1978 News Positions with the Washington Post. To apply, send a postcard for an application to: Employee Relations Department, The Washington Post, 1150 15th Street NW, Washington DC 20071. The deadline for requesting applications is November 15.

VIRGINIA CAMP JOBS--A number of application forms are available in the Career Planning Office, 208 James Blair Hall, for jobs at summer camps throughout the State.

ORIENTAL ART SALE--An exhibition and sale of original Oriental art will be held at Asia House on Monday, Nov. 7, from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. and on Tuesday, Nov. 8, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Works from Japan, China, India, Tibet, Nepal and Thailand are included.

PSYCHIATRIST DISCUSSES DEPRESSION--Psychiatrist Martin Palmaz and clinical social worker Carl Beffa will discuss the problems of suicide and depression, Sunday, Nov. 6, at 9 p.m. on the Monty Griffith-Mair Show broadcast over campus radio station WCWM FM-89. During the one-hour broadcast, Palmaz and Beffa, who are also staff members at the Tidewater Mental Health Clinic, will discuss topics ranging from the cause and treatment of depression to where persons suffering from emotional stress can obtain help. WCWM listeners are invited to phone-in questions at 253-4544 or 229-4068 during the broadcast.

SELF-DEFENSE COURSE FOR WOMEN--The Student Association's Free University is offering a four-week course in self-defense for women. The course will be offered Tuesdays, Nov. 1, 8, and 15 from 7-9 p.m. in the Campus Center. For further information, contact Cynthia Saunders, Ext. 4207.

Official Memorandum

To: The College Community
From: Dennis K. Cogle, Assistant to the Vice-President for Business Affairs
Subject: Use of Mail and Telephone Service

Periodically it seems advisable to issue a reminder to the College community regarding use of the two primary communication facilities available to us.

MAIL SERVICE

You are urged to separate your outgoing mail into three categories:

1. Domestic Mail
2. Foreign Mail
3. Campus Mail, which requires no postage

Each type of mail should be bundled separately.

Items intended for campus delivery should be marked plainly "CAMPUS MAIL".

If regular white business envelopes must be used they should be marked plainly, "CAMPUS MAIL" in a conspicuous place on the envelope, preferably in the upper right-hand corner. However, as an economy measure, you are urged to use the brown inter-departmental envelopes, which may be re-used many times, rather than the more expensive white business envelopes.

TELEPHONES

Please remember to use the SCATS system for any calls to points within the State of Virginia, to Washington, D.C., or to southern Maryland. You are urged to restrict your number of long-distance calls in order to save budget dollars.

Whenever you place a business call from your home telephone which may be legitimately charged to the College, do not charge it to 253-4000. Instead, the charge should be made to your office telephone number, so that the billing will show a proper point of origin. Your cooperation in these matters will be appreciated and expected.

Conference Views Early Education Of Children

The School of Education is sponsoring a one-day conference on Early Childhood Education, Saturday, Nov. 5, at VARC in Newport News, from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m.

"Early Interactions" is designed for teachers and parents of children from infancy to ages 7-8.

Educators are recognizing more and more how important the early interactions between children and their parents and teachers can be in shaping children's intellectual, social and emotional development, said conference director Delpha Keys. Keys is Early Childhood Education Coordinator for the School of Education.

Speakers at the conference will include John Buckley and Robert Bloom of the School of Education, as well as Professor Marilyn Segal, Nova University, Florida; Lois Winter, kindergarten teacher, York County Schools; Professor Betty Rowen, University of Miami; Louise McClure, music consultant, Silver Burdett music publishing company; and Professor Carol Seefeldt, University of Maryland.

Interested parents and teachers may register by calling the Office of Special Programs, 877-9231, Ext. 201. The fee is $25.

Washington Consort Gives Sunday Recital

The Washington Consort, a musical ensemble which performs Medieval and Renaissance music on reproductions of historical instruments, will give a recital in the Nov. 6 Sunday Series.

The concert will begin at 3 p.m. in the Campus Center Ballroom. The public is invited to attend.

The seven-member group uses such instruments as the lute, gemshorn, hapsichord, and rackett to reproduce the musical sounds of many centuries ago. Their diverse repertoire includes music from all parts of Europe: Italian madrigals, Burgundian love songs, English carols and German Baroque sonatas.

Residence Hall Concerns Are Conference Subject

Residence hall staff members from colleges and universities in Virginia and Maryland will be attending a day-long conference at the Campus Center Saturday, Nov. 5, sponsored by William and Mary's Residence Hall staff.

About 75 persons are expected to participate.

A discussion of the student affairs staff organization by Debbie Davis, head resident at Barrett Hall, and William and Mary area coordinators Roger Ballou, Ginger Nobles and Dave Charlton, will open the program.

The opening session will be followed by small group workshops on a variety of topics, including counseling, alcohol abuse, programming residence hall activities, problems in upperclass and in freshman halls, and legal responsibilities and liabilities of resident advisors.

Speakers from the College include Dean of Students Sam Sadler; area coordinator Tom Nanzig; Clinical Psychologist Miriam Card; Education Professor Thayer Cory; and Resident Advisors Larry Fineran, Du Pont; Sue Washko, Barrett; Kevin Leary, Bryan complex; and Liz Sowder, Landrum.

Resident advisors Amy Scott, Barrett, and Larry Fineran, Du Pont, are conference coordinators.

Songs Of Protest, Revolution Are Subject Of Nov. 9 Forum

Black singer and cultural historian Bernice Johnson Reagon will give a "song-talk" on Black American songs of protest and revolution for the Project Plus Forum, Wednesday, Nov. 9, at 7:30 p.m. in Botetourt Unit 7.

Reagon has been a folklorist and cultural historian with the Smithsonian Institution's division of performing arts since 1974. She has also been director of vocal music for the D.C. Black Repertory Company since 1972.

A native of Albany, Ga., she began performing in 1962 with the original Freedom Singers, a quartet that grew out of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC).

She continues to perform as a solo artist at folk festivals and in college and formal concert hall recitals. Reagon also is lead singer with "Sweet Honey in the Rock," a group she organized in 1973.

A frequent consultant and lecturer on Black music and history, she has conducted field research under grants from the Smithsonian Institution in Haiti, Ghana, Nigeria, Zaire, Egypt and other African countries.

A graduate of Spelman College in Atlanta, Reagon holds masters and doctoral degrees in history from Howard University.

She is currently a member of several advisory boards at the Smithsonian, including the Advisory Committee on Symposia and Seminars, the Folklife Advisory Council and the African Diaspora Advisory Group. She also serves on the board of directors of Southern Folk Culture Revival Project, the policy board of the Institute of Arts and Humanities at Howard University and the Board of Advisors for the Institute of the Black World.

Anthropologist James Deetz

Archaeologist Slates Lecture On Black History In New England

James Deetz, visiting professor of anthropology, will give a lecture on "Black History in New England: An Archaeological Perspective," Thursday, November 10, in Millington Hall Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

One of the country's most prominent historical archaeologists, Deetz is on leave from Brown University, where he has been professor of anthropology since 1967. He is also assistant director of Plimoth Plantation, Plymouth, Mass.

His lecture will focus primarily on what an archaeological investigation at the Parting Ways site near Plymouth, Mass., reveals about the black community located there from 1792 to about 1850. Some 30 people lived in the community, Deetz said. The men who headed each of four major households had earned their freedom through military service during the Revolutionary War.

Except for military records, little information about early American Black families was recorded, Deetz said. Consequently, he said, historical archaeology holds great promise for understanding the people not represented in written records.

The Nov. 10 program is the second in a series of four public lectures Deetz will give this year. In subsequent programs Deetz will focus on "Historical Archaeology in the Old Colony of New Plimoth," February 2; and "Material Culture and the American Past," April 6.

Summer Courses Suggestions Sought

The Summer Sessions Office is inviting students to make known their requests for courses to be offered next summer.

Course proposals should be made not later than Nov. 15 and should be made in writing to the Summer Sessions Office, James Blair Hall. Students should include their names and classification and indicate whether they would like to have the course offered the first or second session.

In 1978 the Summer Sessions will offer two schedules, the first, June 12-July 14 and the second, July 17-August 18. For the first time this year tuition rates were raised for out-of-state students. For the 1978 sessions, rates will be $34 per semester hour for Virginia residents and $83 for out-of-state students.

Rain Puts Damper On Homecoming

Despite a drizzling rain on Friday and Saturday morning, most of last weekend's homecoming activities went off as planned.

Eight new tennis courts, constructed behind William and Mary Hall with a $150,000 gift to the Campaign for the College from the Anheuser-Busch

Foreign Study Scholarship Offered

The Richmond, Va., Branch of the English-Speaking Union plans to send one or more students who are legal residents of Virginia to study during the summer in the United Kingdom.

William and Mary has been invited to nominate one student who is a rising senior for this scholarship. The value of the scholarship is $1300, which is sufficient for the student's round trip fare, tuition and fees at the university which the student attends.

Students wishing to apply should speak to the departmental chairpersons of their respective departments of concentration.

The College deadline for applications is November 22.

Foundation, were dedicated Friday morning. Tennis pros Joy Archer and Howard Smith of the College's physical education departments lent a helping hand to tennis amateurs President Thomas A. Graves Jr. and Athletic Director Ben Carnevale in opening doubles play.

At the annual meeting of the Society of the Alumni Friday evening, five new members were named to the Alumni Board of Directors.

They include Williamsburg dentist Dr. Marvin West '52; attorney R. Stanley Hudgins '43, Virginia Beach; Patricia King Sell '58, a homemaker from La Jolla, Cal.; prominent New York restaurateur Norman Moomjian '55; and Marilyn Miller Entwisle '44, a homemaker from Meadowbrook, Pa.

The 1977-78 Alumni Fellows were also recognized at the annual meeting. This year's recipients are Paul Cloutier, modern languages; Eric Herbst, chemistry; John Lavach, education; Vincent Sutlive, anthropology; and Roger Smith, government, currently on leave of absence.

The annual meeting also included an address by President Graves and entertainment by the Botetourt Singers.

Rain caused the annual Homecoming parade along Duke of Gloucester Street to be cancelled, although floats were judged and prizes awarded. In the sorority division, Kappa Kappa Gamma won first prize with the theme "Run Rutgers Raggedy." Second, third and fourth place winners were Alpha Chi Omega, Chi Omega and Kappa Alpha Theta, respectively. In the fraternity division, Sigma Phi Epsilon captured first place with the theme "King Arthur dubbed the Knights; the Indians will Club the Knights." Other winners were Pi Kappa Alpha, second; Pi Lambda Phi, third; and Kappa Alpha, fourth. In the open division, the Science Fiction Club received first prize with the theme "Green and Gold decimates the Scarlet Knights." Yates and DuPont Halls won second prize, and the Black Student Organization and Ludwell tied for third place.

Calendar

To schedule an event, contact the Campus Center Office, Ext. 4235 or 4236.

When a special program is planned for a meeting on campus, the William and Mary News welcomes further information about speakers, discussion topics, tickets and other details. Contact the News Office, 308 Old Rogers Hall, Ext. 4331 or 4371.

Williamsburg Report

A weekly five-minute interview program produced and marketed to radio stations along the East Coast by the Office of Information Services.

November 21-27

JULIA OXRIEDER is an expert on all kinds of folklore--games, superstitions, sayings, riddles and customs passed on from one generation to the next. She describes how mountain people celebrate birthdays in strange ways and how some backwoods women condition their hair by cutting it off and placing it under a rock in a stream.

November 28-December 4

JOE GALANO, a professor of psychology who believes in attacking people's problems at the grassroots level, talks about stress. He says it's a bigger threat to modern man than vicious dinosaurs were to prehistoric man. But Galano says we can fight stress by developing ways to relax and a good sense of humor. In addition, he explains that some stress can be good for some people--but only up to a point.

Area radio stations that broadcast the Williamsburg Report are WDDY, Gloucester (Saturday, 9:55 a.m.); WYCS, Yorktown (Tuesday, 6 p.m.); and WMBC, Williamsburg (Sunday, 11:15 p.m.).
