"UNCLE VANYA" BEGINS NOV. 16

Anton Chekhov's powerful realistic drama "Uncle Vanya," first presented in Russia in 1899, is the William and Mary Theatre second show this season. Performances will be given Nov. 16-19 at Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall at 8:15 p.m. Tickets are $2.

Featured in the title role is Richard Bannin of Hewlett, N.Y., who plays a comically self-pitying manager of a country estate in late 19th century Russia. Laurie Smith from Fairfax is his sympathetic niece, Sonya. Dominating the other characters in "Uncle Vanya" is Professor Serebrayakov, played by Steven Culp from Virginia Beach, who proposes to sell the estate that has provided the livelihood of Uncle Vanya and Sonya for many years.

The play is directed by Bruce McConachie.

GOVERNOR PROCLAIMS VETERANS DAY

In remembrance of American men and women who have defended freedom at home and abroad and to honor those who now stand guard around the world, the General Assembly of Virginia has decreed that November 11 be set aside each year for the observance of Veterans Day.

Therefore, I, Mills E. Godwin, Jr., Governor of the Commonwealth of Virginia, do hereby proclaim Friday, the eleventh day of November, one thousand nine hundred and seventy-seven as Veterans Day throughout the Commonwealth.

Given under my hand and under the lesser seal of the Commonwealth, at Richmond, this twenty-sixth day of September, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and seventy-seven, and in the two hundred and second year of the Commonwealth.

DISCUSSION SET ON ATHLETIC PROGRAM

The Athletic Policy Committee will hold an open faculty discussion of the College's athletic program Wednesday, Nov. 9, in Millington Auditorium at 7 p.m.

Senator Scott Schedules Visit

The Honorable Hugh Scott, former U.S. Senator from Pennsylvania and Republican minority leader, will spend November 15-17 on campus meeting with students in government and law.

Scott's visit to campus is being sponsored by the Former Members of Congress organization under a grant from the Ford Foundation. William and Mary is one of the first chosen under the program.

Although Senator Scott has not scheduled a formal public address, two programs with students will be open to the public.

An authority on Oriental art, in addition to his political expertise, Scott will lecture Tuesday, Nov. 15, on "The Golden Age of Chinese Art" at Asia House, Unit B of the fraternity complex, at 7:30 p.m.

On Wednesday, Nov. 16, Scott will speak at a meeting of the Government Club on "Directions in American Foreign Policy" in the Dodge Room of Phi Beta Kappa Hall at 7:30 p.m.

The public is invited to attend both programs.

During his visit, Scott will meet with several government classes to discuss aspects of the legislative process, international trade and the organization of political parties in Congress.

He will also meet informally with students in the Marshall-Wythe School of Law and will address a law seminar on The Constitution and Foreign Policy.

Now a member of a Washington, D.C. law firm, Scott served as U.S. Senator from Pennsylvania from 1958 to 1976. A highly influential congressman, he was Senate minority leader, 1969-76, and served on a number of powerful committees, including those dealing with foreign relations, the judiciary, rules, administration, and minority policy.

He is the author of several books on politics, including "How to Go into Politics" (1949), "Come to the Party" (1968); and "How to Run for Public Office and Win" (1968) and is co-author of "Politics U.S.A." (1960).

Scott has also taken an active interest in the arts, serving as vice chairman of the Senate Commission on Art and Antiquities and as a member of the board of regents for the Smithsonian Institution and on the Oriental art committee of the Philadelphia Museum of Art. He is the author of "The Golden Age of Chinese Art: The Lively Tang Dynasty" (1967).

To Business School and "Campaign for the College" Jones Donates Half Million

The School of Business Administration and William and Mary's Campaign for the College, will be the beneficiary of a deferred gift from Thomas Roy Jones of Gloucester in excess of $500,000.

The gift will be used to endow "The Thomas Roy and Lura Jones Education Fund," for the School of Business Administration for the "enhancement of academic quality." The Fund may be used to support visiting scholars, lectureships, faculty or student research and the procurement of special equipment not normally provided by state funds.

A graduate of the University of Kansas and the Harvard Business School, Jones has served as a senior executive officer in several organizations and retains emeritus status in some today. For many years he was Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer of the electronics company, Daystrom, Inc., and its predecessors (now part of Schlumberger Ltd.) He is the retired vice chairman of the Board of Schlumberger and is now a consultant to that firm. Jones is also an emeritus member of the Board of Trustees of Lafayette College and Union College, N.J.

Jones' support of business education at William and Mary dates to 1965 when the College still had a Department of Business Administration. In 1969 he was one of the group of business executives who began exploring with Dean Charles L. Quittmeyer, the formation of what is now the School of Business Administration Sponsors, Inc. Jones was a charter member of the Sponsors and later vice chairman and chairman of its Board of Directors. He continues to serve as a member of that body and as a member of the Business and Industry Committee for the Campaign for the College.

The School of Business Administration has more than 600 students in both undergraduate and graduate programs. The MBA degree program instituted in 1966 as a 36-credit hour evening program with part-time students today is a two-year program with 236 full-time equivalent students. In addition, enrollment at the undergraduate level in the undergraduate program leading to a BBA degree, instituted in 1971, has grown from 189 full-time equivalent students to 408, a growth of 116 percent in six years.

Ferguson Seminar Slated Nov. 17-18

The Ferguson Seminar in Publishing, a biennial event designed to introduce upper-level students in Virginia to the nature of book publishing as a career, will be held on campus November 17 and 18.

Attendance will be open to approximately 70 students, most of whom will be from William and Mary.

The seminar opens Thursday evening on a theoretical vein with a public address by Walter J. Ong, S.J., professor of English and professor of humanities in psychiatry at St. Louis University. The author of many distinguished books and president-elect of the Modern Language Association for 1978, Father Ong will take as his topic "Reading, Technology and the Nature of Man."

Friday morning discussions will open with Alan D. Williams, vice president and editor of Viking Senior Books at the Viking Press, talking about "the variety of publishing," which will introduce seminar participants to the world of trade publishing for both fiction and nonfiction audiences. Susan Hirschman, editor-in-chief of the Greenwillow Books Division of William Morrow & Company, will discuss publishing juvenile and children's literature.

Later in the morning the seminar turns to other varieties of publishing with J. G. Goellner, director of the Johns Hopkins University Press and John T. Harney, vice president and general manager of the College Division, D. C. Heath and Company.

Book designer and noted publisher David Godine of Boston, will give a slide lecture on translating a manuscript into type, paper, binding, and illustrations.

Donna Sheppard, editor of the Publications Department of the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation will review the work of the copy or manuscript editor. Peter Mollman, vice president for production of Random House, Inc., will discuss the work of the production department of a publishing house, and in the final session, Dianitia Hutcheson, publicity manager of the trade division of J. B. Lippincott Company, will talk about selling and promoting the finished product.

The seminar will conclude with an open discussion of the job possibilities in book publishing for recent college graduates. Among the participants in the discussion will be Doylie Venn, who for twenty years has directed the Radcliffe Publishing Procedures Course, a summer training program that has been extremely successful in placing young people in publishing work. Also present will be Barbara J. Meredith, coordinator of the Publication Specialist Program at George Washington University.

The Ferguson Seminar is supported by a gift to the Endowment Association of the College by Dr. Walter F. C. Ferguson as a memorial to his brother, William Cross Ferguson '16, editor-in-chief, secretary and later president of the World Book Company and also director and treasurer of the American Textbook Publishers Institute.

Arrangements for the seminar are handled by the Office of Career Counseling. Walter P. Wenska, assistant professor of English, is chairman of the Ferguson Committee, which includes Scott Donaldson, N. S. Fiering, Harriet Reid, J. N. Rountree, John E. Selby, Robert P. Maccubbin, and J. D. Barnes.

"Words on Paper" By Artist Greene Opens in Andrews

"Works on Paper," a collection of recent drawings by contemporary American artist Stephen Greene, is on display through December 2 at Andrews Gallery.

The Gallery is open to the public weekdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

A master draftsman, Greene combines geometric and organic images, using a wide range of mediums. Oil, gouache, pastel and crayon are used in some of the works on exhibit, while others are created from dried pigment, charcoal and glue.

A New York critic has described the collection as "quirky and beautiful." The drawings, he writes, "are full of disparate incidents and shapes, rich in color--mauves rubbed with pinks and vermillion, accents of deep green and clear blue."

Greene has been a member of the Tyler School of Art at Temple University since 1968. He taught previously at Columbia University for several years and was artist-in-residence at Princeton for three years.

Greene has held numerous one-man shows at the Grace Borgenicht and the Staempfli Galleries in New York. His works have been included in selected group exhibitions of American Art at such museums as the Whitney Museum of American Art, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, The Art Institute of Chicago, and the Solomon R. Guggenheim Museum. He has also been represented at major exhibitions in museums in France, Canada, Brazil and Italy.

He is the recipient of several awards for contemporary painting, including the coveted Prix de Rome, in 1949.

He holds bachelors and masters degrees from the University of Iowa.

Harvard Curator Discusses "Search For Theatrical Past"

Jeanne T. Newlin, curator of the Harvard Theatre Collection, will discuss "The Search for the Theatrical Past" through historical research, Monday, Nov. 14, in Botetourt Theatre, Swem Library, at 4 p.m.

Her lecture, which is based on the theatre collection at Harvard's Houghton Library, is sponsored by the Botetourt Bibliographical Society.

Newlin joined the Harvard library staff in 1969 and was named curator of the theatre collection in 1972. She has also been a lecturer in Harvard's Department of Comparative Literature since 1969.

A graduate of Marylhurst College, Oregon, she holds a master's degree from Villanova University and a doctoral degree in English literature from City University of New York.

Newlin is the author of several articles published in professional journals on research in theatrical history. She has also lectured widely on the Harvard Theatre Collection.

Official Memorandum

To: The College Community
From: William J. Carter, Vice President for Business Affairs
Holiday Schedule

Again this year the College will observe an extended Christmas-New Year's holiday period, from Saturday, December 24, 1977 through Sunday, January 1, 1978, dates inclusive. Should the Governor declare an additional holiday, or holidays, such holiday or holidays will lengthen this period from the beginning of the holiday. As an example, if he declares one day, we would close at 5:00 PM on Thursday, December 22, with the holiday beginning on Friday, the 23rd. In any case, the holiday will end on January 1, 1978, and full operation will be resumed on Monday, January 2.

Due to the nature of the service provided by the College of William and Mary, it is necessary that employees work on certain days which are listed as legal holidays in the Virginia Personnel Act. In recognition of this fact, the Board of Visitors of the College has authorized an alternate holiday schedule. The seasonal holiday noted above is consistent with that alternate holiday schedule.

Administrative offices, the plant department (except for those employees required to maintain essential services), and the Campus Post Office will be closed during that period. The Campus Police Department will maintain regular hours. Regular switchboard hours will be maintained during the holiday. Emergency service may be obtained at any time by calling the regular College telephone number, 253-4000.

The names of permanent classified employees who are required to work during this holiday period should be reported in writing to the Personnel Office in order that they may be credited with compensatory leave. Permanent classified employees who are required to work on any of these days should take compensatory leave earned as soon thereafter as possible in order to avoid excessive leave accumulation. Hourly employees who work on any of these days will be paid at their regular hourly rates.

This holiday decision has been considered from many standpoints, since it is recognized that a few people might be inconvenienced by such a close-down over a continuous period. Those individuals or groups who might be so inconvenienced by this extended holiday should direct their concerns to me, IN WRITING, no later than Friday, December 9, 1977, in order that we might make any special arrangements necessary to accommodate those concerns. In the absence of such notification it will be assumed that all offices are agreeable, and adaptable, to this extended close-down.

Employee morale constitutes one strong justification for an extended holiday. Another justification, of equal importance, is the fact that it enables the College to exercise effective energy and cost savings measures. We are under constant pressure on these points, and, with the students away from the College, this holiday period affords the best opportunity of the entire College year for a virtual close-down of most facilities.

Paychecks for permanent employees will be available at the normal location (Payroll Office, 2nd Floor, James Blair Hall) from 9:00 a.m. to 12 Noon only on Friday, December 30. Access to buildings during the holiday will be as follows:

Student Residences--No access after Wednesday, December 21, at noon, except for 216 Jamestown Road, 312 Jamestown Road, 314 Jamestown Road, Thiemes, and JBT #42 basement. Heat will be reduced elsewhere to 60° at that time to extend through noon Sunday, January 8, 1978. Separate instructions to Area Coordinators, Resident Tutors, and Resident Directors will be issued by the Office of Residence Hall Life.

Offices--Access at the discretion of the individual who occupies the office. However, after 5:00 PM on Friday, December 23, heat will be reduced to 60°; this will extend through Sunday, January 1.

Libraries--Access governed by hours established by the two libraries (Swem Library and the Law Library).

Actual savings last year from this holiday closing amounted to more than $28,000. It is estimated conservatively that this year's schedule will produce savings in excess of $30,000. The increase is attributed primarily to the inflated cost of utilities since last year. We are confident that, with your continued cooperation, such significant savings can be achieved without hardship or dislocation to our educational objective.

Father-Son Team To Receive Business Medallion

The father-son team who serve as chairman and vice chairman of the Richmond-based Ethyl Corporation have been selected to receive the Business School Medallion at the College.

Floyd D. Gottwald and Floyd D. Gottwald, Jr., will receive the Medallion at a special ceremony scheduled for 10:30 a.m., Saturday, Nov. 19, at Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. The School of Business Administration presents the award to individuals whose management careers represent the highest standards of professionalism and integrity.

Both Floyd D. Gottwald and his son have been long-time supporters of

British Publisher To Speak Thursday

British author and publisher Nigel Nicolson will lecture here November 10 as part of a two day visit to campus.

The author of "Portrait of a Marriage," Nicolson will speak Thursday on "Diaries and Discretion: How Far Should a Biographer Go?" in the Botetourt Theatre, Swem Library, at 8:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

Nicolson has written a number of biographies, including one of Lord Alexander of Tunis. A forthcoming work is on Mary Curzon: "Portrait of a Marriage" is based on an autobiography by his mother, Vita Sackville-West. Nicolson is currently co-editing a projected six-volume edition of Virginia Woolf's "Letters," of which two volumes have already been published. He has also edited the three-volume diaries of his father, British diplomat and biographer Harold Nicolson.

Nicolson's visit on campus, which is sponsored by the English Department, will include meetings with undergraduate and graduate classes in English.

"Friends" Begin New Drive

The Friends of the College, an organization which is comprised of area business leaders, has begun its 1977-78 fund drive to raise $32,000 for William and Mary.

Last year the organization exceeded its goal of $25,000 by over $6,000.

J. B. Hickman, owner of Binns Fashion Shop, is president of the Friends organization and will head up this year's drive. Hickman said he is aiming at 100 percent participation by James City County and Williamsburg businesses in reaching this year's goal.

Organized locally three years ago, the Friends of the College has raised funds which have been used to bolster the private resources of the College and augment academic and enrichment programs at William and Mary. Gifts in the past have been earmarked for specific areas including debate and the business education, particularly when it stresses the importance of America's free enterprise system. But they don't mind telling young business students that today's business world is more demanding--and more complex--than it has ever been before.

Despite all the complexity, the senior Gottwald says it's still possible for a clever strategist to strike it rich in big business. "You've just got to be very smart," he says.

"You've also got to find ways to comply with ten times more federal regulations that tell you exactly what your firm can or can't do," adds Floyd D. Gottwald, Jr. "I definitely think that our businesses today are over-regulated, and I think it's the public that's really suffering from it the most. The cost of all these new regulations, like most everything else, is being carried by the low man on the totem pole."

The senior Gottwald admits there was a less restrictive atmosphere in 1962 when he pulled off one of the most astute business deals on record. Under his direction, the Albemarle Paper Company purchased Ethyl, a firm 13 times its size, for $200 million from General Motors and Standard Oil of New Jersey. Since then, the firm has expanded into a number of new markets and, in doing so, greatly increased both sales and profitability.

Approaching 80, Gottwald is still in the thick of things, both in the Ethyl hierarchy and in the Richmond business scene. His life has followed the same basic theme adopted by the corporation--"Changing: To Serve a Changing World."

"That's the real challenge," he says. "And it's certainly more exciting than the normal hum-drum everyday life. Here there's something new going on all the time."

He looks to business school graduates--as well as those that follow in his footsteps in the "school of hard knocks"--to lead America's industries to bigger and better things in the future. His message to the young executives of the 1980's is a simple one: "Come into business because it's a challenge, and because we need you."

Gottwald joined the Albemarle Paper Company in 1918 as an office clerk after attending John Marshall High School in Richmond and the College of William and Mary. He moved his way up the corporate ladder to export manager, production manager, vice president, and president in 1941. After the acquisition of Ethyl in 1962, he served as chairman of the board until 1968. Currently, he serves as vice chairman of the board and of the executive committee.

Floyd D. Gottwald, Jr., who started his career with Albemarle as a chemist in 1943, was more than prepared to step into his father's shoes. He attended Virginia Military Institute and the University of Richmond and served as a lieutenant in the U.S. Army before working in a number of executive posts for both Albemarle and Ethyl. Currently, he serves as chairman of the board, chief executive officer and chairman of the executive committee.

Both Gottwalds have been active civic leaders. Floyd D. Gottwald is a former member of the Richmond School Board, the Richmond-Petersburg Turnpike Authority, the Board of Directors of First & Merchants National Bank, and the Board of Directors of the Metropolitan Richmond Chamber of Commerce. In 1964, he was named the nation's Management Man of the Year by the National Management Association.

Floyd D. Gottwald, Jr., is a member of the board of directors of the American Petroleum Institute, Seaboard Cost Line Industries, Inc., the Council for Financial Aid to Education and the National Association of Manufacturers. He currently serves as vice president of Downton Development Unlimited in Richmond. Earlier this fall, he was a special guest speaker at William and Mary's School of Business Administration.

The Business School Medallion was created last year by the faculty of the School of Business Administration in an effort to recognize business leaders "who have made important contributions to the state and the nation." Marvin M. Stanley, Chessie Professor of Business Administration, will make the official presentation of the award.

The award ceremony will be the highlight of the business school's third annual Sponsor's Day, which honors members of the Sponsors Board of the School.

Nolie A. Haynes, Local Donor, Gives Campaign $550,000

The Campaign for the College has received a healthy boost by a testamentary gift commitment of more than a half-million dollars from a local donor.

Nolie A. Haynes, owner of the Lord Paget Inn, has informed College officials of her intention to make the gift to the $19 million Campaign. The value of the bequest has been estimated at $550,000. Mrs. Haynes is the widow of R. Hugh Haynes who had been prominent in business and civic affairs in Williamsburg for many years.

The gift will be used to establish an endowed chair or program of fellowships in the names of R. Hugh Haynes and Nolie A. Haynes in the Marshall-Wythe School of Law or some other school or department as may be deemed appropriate by the executor of the will.

In addition to the Lord Paget Inn, Haynes operated one of the largest plumbing and heating firms in the Williamsburg area. He was a member of the Lions Club and active in other civic organizations and causes.

Mrs. Haynes has been an active patron of the Girl Scouts of America for many years and maintains her interest in the program. She is also an active member of the Williamsburg Methodist Church.

Personnel Bulletin

Thanksgiving Holiday

The administrative offices, the plant department (except for those employees required to maintain essential services), and the mail room will be closed on November 24 and 25. The Campus Police Department will maintain regular hours.

The names of permanent classified employees who are required to work on either November 24 or 25, 1977, should be reported in writing to the Personnel Office in order that they may be credited with Compensatory Leave. Permanent classified employees who are required to work on either of these days should take compensatory leave earned as soon thereafter as possible in order to avoid excessive leave accumulation. Hourly employees who work on either of these days will be paid at their regular hourly rates.

Classifieds

All members of the College community may place personal advertisements in the William and Mary News.

The deadline for submitting advertisements is 4 p.m. on the Wednesday preceding publication. For a $2 fee, each ad is run in three consecutive issues. Payment must be received before the ad can be printed.

Individual advertisements should be limited to not more than 40 words.

Advertisements for non-commercial announcements of goods, rentals and real estate, either offered or sought, and for lost and found items will be accepted.

Advertisements for profit-making business ventures, such as guitar lessons and baby-sitting services, can not be accepted.

There is no charge for listing found items.
