At Final John Marshall Lecture

Judge Re To Discuss Lawyer's Role

Thursday evening, Chief Judge Edward D. Re of the United States Customs Court will deliver the final lecture of the 1978 John Marshall Lecture Series sponsored by the Marshall-Wythe Chapter of the Supreme Court Historical Society.

Judge Re's address, "The Role of the Lawyer in the Judicial Process," will be given in the Moot Court room of the law school at 7:30 p.m. A reception will follow.

In 1977 Judge Re was appointed Chief Judge of the United States Customs Court after serving on the court for eight years. As an active member of the Supreme Court Historical Society, he chairs the Law Student Membership Committee, which seeks to encourage student participation in the organization.

During the Johnson Administration, Judge Re served as Assistant Secretary of State for Educational and Cultural Affairs. He also chaired the Foreign Claims Settlement Commission of the United States under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson. In addition, Judge Re has had a distinguished career as an educator, teaching at New York Law School, Georgetown University Law Center, the Federal Judicial Center and St. John's University, his alma mater.

Judge Re's lecture will conclude the activities of the Supreme Court Historical Society for this year. Elections of officers will be held at a business session before Judge Re's presentation.

Refuge Receives $12,000 Gift

A gift of $12,000 has been received from a private foundation for the Campaign for the College, to be used specifically for the Wildflower Refuge project on campus.

Funds from the foundation will be used to construct a three-tier amphitheatre in the wildflower refuge. Concrete seats will form a bowl following the natural contours of the land at Crim Dell. A redwood deck, which will provide an area for the presentation of lectures and programs, will be built over a stream, providing a screen for a concrete drainage system in the area.

The Williamsburg Council of Garden Clubs has donated approximately $1,000 which has been used to purchase benches for the area. The Birchwood Garden Club recently made a gift of $50 for the purchase of plants for the spring planting. The Wildflower Refuge project has also received a pledged gift of approximately $14,000 from the Class of 1977 for the establishment of pine bark paths. Since the

New Additions to Coheleach Collection

Artist Donates 'Lion, Cub

A majestic lion head and a playful polar bear cub are the latest additions to the collection of signed wildlife prints by Guy Coheleach, which the artist has provided the College for the benefit of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law environmental law fund.

The artist's ties with William and Mary are primarily a result of his close association with Scott Whitney, one of Marshall-Wythe's experts on environmental law. Both men share a concern for conservation and are members of the Explorer's Club of New York City. Coheleach is also the youngest person ever to have been admitted to the Adventurer's Club in New York.

Coheleach was awarded an Honorary Doctor of Arts degree from the College in 1975.

Coheleach is the highest-paid wildlife painter in the world, and his original paintings sell for more than $40,000 each. His painting "Beware," which captures the anger of the African elephant, hangs in the East Room of the White House. His painting "Leopard on a Rock" received the International Wildlife Artists "Magnum Opus" award in 1972 and was described by one critic as "the finest wildlife painting of all time."

The College has available a limited number of signed prints, including several of Coheleach's most popular editions. Most are already sold out on the wholesale market and many trade today for more than twice their original price. Collectors everywhere rate Coheleach prints among the best art investments on the market today.

Among the prints available are Golden Eagle, Bicentennial Eagle, Great White Sharks, Red Shafted Flicker, Short-eared Owl, Snow Leopard, Cape Buffalo, Mute Swans, Charging Elephant and Wood Ducks. Prices for signed, limited editions start at $25.

Anyone interested in supporting the environmental law program by purchasing a Coheleach print may contact William McGoldrick, Office of Development, Old Rogers, ext. 4391.

Anna Held at her piano in the Hotel Ansonia in New York. A native of France, the Polish French actress was an amazing popular success in New York. The walnut piano, lavishly trimmed in gold was of French design and was custom made in 1907 for showman Florenz Ziegfield, who was Anna's husband from 1897 to 1913. The piano is now in the President's House, a gift to the College by Dr. and Mrs. Loren P. Guy, formerly of New York, who are now living in Williamsburg. The piano was recently restored by Dr. and Mrs. Guy at the Richmond Piano Rebuilders Shop and has regained much its original splendor. ## Annual Aquatic Art Extravaganza

Mermettes Show Includes 'Big Surprises'

Mermettes perfect techniques for Annual show

The Mermettes will present their annual aquatic art show April 6, 7, 8 at Adair Pool beginning at 8:15 p.m. There is no admission charge.

According to Marcia Milbrath, coach for the Mermettes, this year's show will include a number of surprises, lots of special effects and several compositions that have qualified for national competition in the National Institute of Creative Aquatics at Mt. Holyoke College.

The show numbers have been choreographed by members of Mermettes including Mary Ward, Jan Laberteaux, Sue Sherland, Keith Havens, Janis Gibbs, Nana Bain, Melissa Larson and Carol Corsepilus. Co-directors for the show are Melissa Larson and Carol Corsepilus.

The show opens with an underwater routine entitled "Symphonia Concertante," choreographed by Janis Gibbs. The number is an interpretation of the excitement of symphonic music and ballet and swimmers make some intriguing patterns using large silver cubes.

This year's solo will be performed by co-director Melissa Larson.

Carol Corsepilus in "Box of 8" has choreographed some interesting color patterns on the pool's surface.

Vivid color and sharp movements characterize the number choreographed by Mary Ward. The men of the Mermettes will be featured in a novelty number in which they will be called upon to use both their singing and swimming skills.

One of the surprises of the show is contained in the finale in which all 30 members of Mermettes will participate and which uses special lighting to heighten the effect of the choreography.

President's House Drive Collects Gifts

The drive to furnish the President's House with period antiques is off to an encouraging start. Because of two recent gifts from members of the committee spearheading the effort, the house's 18th century personality is beginning to emerge.

Two English Chippendale chairs have been donated by Mr. and Mrs. George M. Kaufman of Norfolk. Mrs. Kaufman is a member of the committee.

The chairs have been in the family of the College's first president, James Blair, for over two centuries. Family tradition has it that this pair of chairs, dated circa 1760, was in the President's House in the 18th century, which would make them the oldest pieces of furniture to return to the President's House so far. They are presently on display in the front hall of the President's House.

Another major gift has been made by Mrs. George Maurice Morris of Washington, D.C. Mrs. Morris, who is well-known as a collector of antiques, has given the College several pieces of historical value including a Queen Anne blanket chest, a pair of brass candlesticks dated circa 1720, and a small decorated box. A William and Mary mirror has also been donated by Mrs. Morris. Dating from the latter part of the 17th century, the mirror is especially prized for its rarity.

The special committee formed to furnish the President's House is made up of alumni, antique experts, and friends of the College. Their overall aim is to replace the contemporary reproductions now in the 246-year-old house with gifts of antique furnishings and decorative items appropriate for the oldest home of a college or university president in the United States.

Built in 1732, the President's House has been the official residence of all of its presidents, and all but one have made it their home. Today the elegant three story Georgian brick house continues to be a center of activity on the campus, where President and Mrs. Thomas A. Graves, Jr., entertain thousands of students, faculty, alumni and other visitors each year.

Because of the house's historical significance and its collection of exceptionally fine 18th-century American portraits, Dr. Clement E. Conger agreed to chair the Committee to Furnish the President's House in May, 1977. Conger is currently Curator of the Diplomatic Reception Rooms of the Department of State and of the White House. He has also been active in the project to refurnish the Executive Mansion in Richmond.

Conger and his committee are searching for gifts, bequests, and long-term loans of English and American Queen Anne and Chippendale furnishings to replace the reproductions provided by the College. Their "shopping list" ranges from furniture and fireplace equipment to Chinese and European porcelains and screens.

Grace Jones 'Makes This Place Move Along'

The Employee Recognition Award of a $50 U.S. Savings Bond was presented Tuesday to Mrs. Grace Jones, secretary in the department of history since 1964, for her service to the College.

At the presentation in his office, President Graves told Mrs. Jones that he was most grateful for her work and the motivation it represented.

"I am most grateful to people like you that who make this place move along," said Graves.

Mrs. Jones said she was delighted to have been suggested for the award by a co-worker. She said she planned to keep the bond until maturity and would consider returning it at that time as a gift to the College.

Mrs. Jones added a plug for "grey power," saying she felt veteran workers make a special contribution to the College because of their experience and knowledge of the institution.

Mrs. Jones was initially employed at the College in March, 1959 in the office of the Dean of Students and Registrar where she worked for more than six years. In 1964 she voluntarily took a cut in pay to take her present job which she saw as a new challenge.

Characterized as a public relations practitioner as well as a secretary, Mrs. Jones was dubbed "stateswoman in residence at Morton Hall," during the presentation ceremonies.

"Her performance in every facet of her job goes well beyond anything expected," said Thomas F. Sheppard, chairman of the history department.

"Since we have about 400-500 requests for information and 150 completed applications each year for our graduate program, she serves in reality as the admissions officer for the department.

In my more than two years as chairman, I have observed that she also serves as a kind of "information center," for the campus. It is not at all unusual for other secretaries or faculty members when faced with a problem to say "Let's ask Mrs. Jones."

Mrs. Jones has received excellent service ratings for the past four years and in addition to Sheppard's recommendation received the endorsement of Jack Edwards, Dean of the Faculty who strongly supports her candidacy.

The awards program was initiated in 1973 as part of a recognition program for permanent classified employees who have shown outstanding performance and initiative in their work.

Recommendations should be submitted in writing to the appropriate dean or department head for comments and endorsements. If approval is recommended by all supervisors concerned, the primary recommendation and endorsements should be forwarded to the Personnel Office.

Employees may also qualify for a Savings Bond award based on their suggestions for ways to save money, improve efficiency or promote safety at the College. Such suggestions should be submitted in writing by the employee directly to the Personnel Office and should include an outline of current and proposed methods of operation and an explanation of how the change would benefit operating effectiveness.

Mrs. Grace Jones (center) flashes a big smile as she receives a $50 U.S. Savings Bond from President Thomas A. Graves, Jr. Looking on is Thomas Sheppard, Chairman of the History Department.

At Business School Interview

Fuqua To Tell 'Secret of Success'

School of Business students are planning to put the son of a Virginia tobacco farmer on the hot seat to find out how he developed a tiny radio station in Georgia into one of the nation's most successful business conglomerates.

J. B. Fuqua, founder and chairman of Fuqua Industries, will be the featured guest in two business policy classes April 6. Fuqua, a native of Prince Edward County, will add a real-life dimension to one of the case topics in the business textbook which focuses on acquisitions and mergers in the fast-growing leisure time industry.

Fuqua is the ideal "professor" for this particular subject. According to Business Professor William H. Warren, Fuqua has been "a wheeler-dealer entrepreneur of the first order" almost since the day he graduated from high school. Today his conglomerate boasts annual sales of over $1.6 billion, and the recent purchase of National Industries promises that the sales level will skyrocket even higher in the future.

The business students will be asking Fuqua questions about the highly competitive and often dangerous strategies business executives utilize when acquiring other firms.

Warren has arranged for five other leading business executives to either attend his business policy class or to answer questions from students by way of a special telephone connection. The executives represent a variety of industries covered in the business policy textbook.

The first telephone interview is scheduled for today, with Andrall E. Pearson, president and director of PepsiCo, Inc., the parent company for Pepsi, Frito-Lay and the recently acquired Pizza Hut chain. Two days later, Frederick F. Avery, executive vice-president for the Dr. Pepper Company, will visit Warren's class to explain why his relatively small soft drink corporation has grown into the most profitable in the industry.

On April 11, Orin W. Atkins, chairman of Ashland Oil Company in Ashland, Kentucky, will discuss by telephone the social responsibility of an oil company faced with the depletion of its crude oil resources. Warren predicts that students will also ask Atkins to justify his $100,000 gift to the Nixon election campaign.

Roy Ash, chairman of Addressograph Multigraph Corporation, will talk to students on April 18 about his attempt to "turn around" a floundering but potentially promising firm. Ash was

Library Week Set for April 3-7

The week of April 3-7 is being celebrated throughout the country as National Library Week. In honor of this, Swem Library will be sponsoring various events, speakers, and programs throughout the week. Monday, April 3 will be a day of amnesty when any student or resident with fines less than $5.00 will be able to return their material without charge to the Circulation, Reserve, and Government Documents Departments.

Also scheduled are a lecture/demonstration on photography, special exhibits by various departments, and book displays in the lobby area of the library. A specific schedule will be published and available shortly in the library, campus center, and other community and college locations.

formerly the head of Litton Industries and the budget director for President Nixon.

On April 20, L. Kimsey Mann, chairman of Blue Bell Inc., will discuss why his apparel firm has remained highly profitable while many competitors are falling by the wayside.

Students assigned to each case study covered by the guest executives will prepare detailed written reports, or as an innovative alternative, a feature-length article appropriate for use in a popular business magazine. Warren, as well as many of the executives who have visited his class, has emphasized the importance of being able to communicate the goals and practices of a corporation in a manner the public can readily understand.

Alice Priest, an editor for Business Week magazine, will critique each of the student articles. The author of the best article will receive a cash prize from the School of Business Administration.

Hahn To Perform In Sunday Series

Pianist Marian Hahn will perform in the Sunday Series April 2 at 3 p.m. in the Campus Center Ballroom.

Although there is no admission charge, a silver collection will be taken at the end of the concert.

Miss Hahn received her undergraduate degree from Oberlin College and her Master of Music degree from the Juilliard School, where she studied under the late Ilona Kabos and Guido Agosti.

Miss Hahn's tours throughout the United States have included appearances with the Cleveland Orchestra and recitals at Carnegie Hall. She has also made debut performances in Paris and London.

She has received many awards during her career including prizes in the Kosciuszko Foundation Chopin Competition, the Busoni International Competition and the 1976 International Leventritt Competition.

established in 1958 by Capt. and Mrs. R.C. Hibbard in memory of their son, a former student at the College and a member of the College Band.

This year marks Director Varner's 25th anniversary with the band. Professor of music at the College, Varner arrived on campus to a band that had been inactive for two years; this year there are 110 members. A special invitation has been extended to alumni band members to attend the Hibbard concert and celebrate Varner's silver anniversary.

The band's program will include "Prelude" from Prelude and Fugue in C Minor by J. S. Bach; Symphony for Band by Robert Washburn; "Festival Fanfare March" by Roger Nixon, and "Jalousie," by Jacob Gade.

Featured soloists for the program will be Miss Kathleen O'Kane of Falls Church, Va., playing the Vivaldi Concerto in C Major for Piccolo; Robert Yahley of Richmond, playing the first movement of Rachmaninoff's Piano Concerto No. 2 in C Minor; and Thomas Cambern, Springfield, playing Harold Farberman's Double Concerto for Single Trumpet.

Cambert will be literally doubling in brass for the concert. Changing style from jazz to classical, cued with a top hat and bowler, he will play a novel composition by one of the best known names in American music. Harold Farberman, composer and performer, was a former timpanist with the Boston Symphony. He is presently conductor of the Oakland Symphony Orchestra. Cambert is an economics-music major and is studying trumpet with Stephen Carlson.

Yahley, a 1977 William and Mary graduate, is a piano student studying with Mrs. Sandra Owen. The Rachmaninoff Concerto he will play was composed in 1900. Up against a compositional block, the composer went to a Dr. Nikolai Dahl, a psychiatrist specializing in auto-suggestion, was virtually hypnotized into overcoming his hangup, and then created in almost a single burst of energy both this concerto and the second twin-piano suite.

Miss O'Kane will play the Allegro, Largo and Allegro Molto movements from Vivaldi's Concerto in C Major, one of the three works Vivaldi wrote for the piccolo. The last movement is considered extremely demanding of the solo piccolo. A freshman from Falls Church, Miss O'Kane is studying flute with Burton Kester.

Poet Milton Hindus To Discuss Whitman

Milton Hindus, Professor of English and American literature at Brandeis University, will give a public lecture entitled "Walt Whitman and the American Poetic Tradition" Wednesday, April 5, at 4:15 p.m. in Wren 310.

During his visit to William and Mary, Hindus will also speak to several English classes on the work of Robert Frost (including Frost's Phi Beta Kappa poem, "Time Out," which the poet read at William and Mary in 1941) and the work of Walt Whitman.

Among the many books Professor Hindus has published on modern literature are his well known study of Louis Ferdinand Celine, "The Crippled Giant: A Bizarre Adventure in Contemporary Letters"; "F. Scott Fitzgerald: An Introduction and Interpretation," considered by many scholars to be the best work of its kind on Fitzgerald; the award-winning critical anthology "Leaves of Grass One Hundred Years After"; and "The Proustian Vision." One of his latest publications is the monograph

"Charles Reznikoff: A Critical Essay." He is currently working on an expansion of "Philip Rahv: Criticism and the Sixth Sense," an essay he prepared for the forthcoming anthology "Images and Ideas in American Culture."

Hindus's visit is co-sponsored by the College Committee on Lectures and the Department of English.

Official Memorandum

To: Deans, Department Heads, and Supervisors
From: Dennis K. Cogle
Subject: Requisitioning Cutoff Date

We have been notified by the Department of Purchases and Supply that April 30th is the cut-off date for receipt in Richmond of requisitions to be funded in this fiscal year. Only emergency requirements approved by the Assistant to the Vice President for Business Affairs will be honored after this date. Requisitions affected are those exceeding $200.00 in value, or those for printing or ADP equipment.

In order to comply with the above, we ask that your requisitions be submitted to the College Purchasing Office not later than April 15, 1978. Hopefully this will allow enough administrative lead time, production, and delivery time to insure procurement, delivery and payment prior to June 30, 1978.

Urgent purchases of day-to-day supplies involving dollar values of up to $200.00 will be processed as necessary through June 9, 1978, if delivery is assured before June 30, 1978.

We trust that the schedules noted above will relieve a "log jam" of requisitions at the end of this fiscal year and prevent a reversion of funds because of undelivered orders.

Any questions regarding these procedures should be referred to the Purchasing Office, Extensions 4215, 4279, and 4373.
