In the News

James C. Livingston, Dean of the Undergraduate Program, will be principal speaker at the Spring Honors Convocation which will be held April 17 in the Sunken Garden.

A limited number of individual tickets will be available for the Concert series performance, April 18 which will feature Jessye Norman, soprano, at 8:15 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Hall. Admission is $4. Tickets are available at the Campus Center office daily from 9 - 4 p.m. and will also be on sale at the box office the evening of the concert.

"How Animals Get Oxygen When There Isn't Much," will be the topic of a biology seminar, April 17 at 4 p.m. in Millington Hall, 117. The speaker will be Ejell Johansen, Department of Zoophysiology, University of Aarhus, Denmark.

The Adult Skills Program is still looking for volunteer tutors from May 1 to June 16 to tutor adult students in subjects ranging from beginning reading to high school level English and math.

If you are interested in tutoring two or more hours a week for all or part of the seven-week period, please contact Rita Welsh, 140B Morton Hall, ext. 4644.

Douglas Barton, a senior computer science/music major, will present his undergraduate honors thesis on the generation of music with a computer at the June 15 meeting of the Association for Computing Machinery in Washington, D.C. Barton will continue his study in London next year as a Drapers scholar.

Mrs. Judith Heitanen, a graduate student of Museum Education in the School of Education, has been awarded a summer internship by the National Trust for Historic Preservation. She is one of only thirty-five students selected for this internship nationwide.

Mrs. Heitanen will work at the Mariner's Museum in Newport News where she will assist in the development of an activity-oriented educational program for children ages nine to twelve.

'78 Recalls Baccalaureate

Commencement Gets 'New Look'

Saturday evening at 9 p.m. seniors will gather in front of the Wren Building in academic regalia for a special candlelight ceremony. Three speakers, chosen by the class, will make brief talks at that time. A dance in the Campus Center Ballroom with live entertainment follows at 9:30 p.m.

The reception for members of the graduates and their families hosted by Dr. and Mrs. Graves at the President's House and Campus Yard will be held from 4 - 6 p.m. with concerts by the William and Mary choir in the Wren Chapel at 4:30 and 5:30 p.m.

Sunday the senior class will meet again in front of the Wren Building and walk together to William and Mary Hall for the commencement exercises.

To escort the class, honorary marshals will be selected. The marshals will be selected from the College community and will be individuals who have made special contributions to the class of 1978. Their names will not be announced before commencement day.

Seniors will meet at 12:45 p.m. and the procession through the campus to William and Mary Hall will step off at 1 p.m.

Barbara Jordan, Congresswoman from Texas, will give the commencement address this year. The program begins at 2 p.m.

After the commencement exercises the individual departments and schools will make individual presentations of diplomas. Graduates of the Marshall Wythe School of Law will meet at 5 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Hall to receive their diplomas. Speaker for the occasion will be Judge Robert R. Merhige Jr., of Richmond.

Commencement for the class of 1978 will be an event seniors will not soon forget - that's the hope of senior class president Chris Kelley who has been working for many months to make the final event for undergraduates a memorable one.

Kelley, Andy Vernick and Chris Weglarz are a working triumvirate that has planned a commencement weekend for seniors which may well initiate traditions which future classes will maintain.

This year for the first time in many years there will be a baccalaureate service. This marks the re-introduction of an event which used to be a traditional part of commencement but an event which was dropped in the 1960's. Campus Ministries United is planning the service which will be held in the United Methodist Church on Jamestown Road, Saturday, May 13 at 9:30 a.m. Braxton Allport of the Wesley Foundation is working with students on the format of the service.

ROTC commissioning will be held in Phi Beta Kappa Hall at 10:45 a.m. Saturday morning.

A luncheon on the lawn at Crim Dell for degree candidates and their families is another innovation Kelley and his committee have planned for the commencement weekend. Lunch is $2.75. A performance by the Langley Air Force Band is scheduled on the lawn from 12:15 - 2 p.m.

Campaign gets Glysteen Gift

A former advertising executive and faculty member in the School of Business Administration has decided to pay back William and Mary for all the hours of teaching he experienced at the College.

T. Carter Glysteen, who retired in 1976 after teaching courses in advertising and marketing for seven years at William and Mary, has pledged one dollar to the Campaign for the College for every hour he was in the classroom teaching. His total gift comes to $1365, which brings the amount of cash pledges by faculty to $28,204.

What's the Social Life Like?

Admissions Sets Open House For New Students

Can I declare a double major?
What is the percentage of medical school acceptances?

What is the social life like on campus?

Do tourists get on your nerves?

What about Saturday classes?

What can I do with a major in English?

These questions are typical of the ones members of the Admissions staff and faculty will be fielding Saturday at the second Open House on campus for newly admitted freshmen and transfer students and their parents.

This is the second year that the program has been held. It was initiated to help incoming freshman and transfer students become better acquainted with the College and perhaps influence some who have William and Mary on their list, that it should be their first choice for a college next year.

Dean Robert Hunt and Kris Aulenbach have planned a day-long program which includes a Dutch Treat lunch at the Commons, meetings with students and faculty members, an opportunity to visit residence halls and tours of Swem Library, the Campus Center and the Student Health Center.

Participants will also be given a schedule of athletic events planned for that day and invited to attend the William and Mary Theatre production of Moliere's "School for Wives," that evening.

President Graves will bring greetings from the College to open the program which will begin in William and Mary Hall.

Approximately 1,000 freshmen will be enrolled in September, selected from over 5,000 applicants. Number of transfer students to be enrolled is approximately 145.

According to Kris Aulenbach, who is coordinating the Open House, parents ask about housing, self determination, the Honor Code, food services and pose general questions about academic programs and how effective they are in getting students into graduate school and preparing them for the job market. They want to know how big the library is and ask about the different types of pressures freshmen will face including the impact of fraternity and sorority rush on the academic schedule.

Parents also want to know about student-faculty ratios while students are more apt to ask "Do I have to go to class?" or "How hard is it to get an A?"

Many students, said Kris ask about athletic facilities, and are especially interested in how many tennis courts are on campus and how hard it is to get space to play. A few, she said, are interested in trying out for varsity teams but most are interested in continuing their sports interest at the intramural level. "And how about Saturday classes," several students have asked.

The question, "Do you need a car on campus," comes up often said Kris. "I tell new students about the bus service and all the events throughout the year on campus, the concert series, theatre, films, lectures and athletic events. I tell them a bicycle is a handy thing to have. Freshmen and sophomores are not permitted to have cars on campus.

Students who conduct tours on campus get many questions from prospective students about what it is like being at a college that is in a town that attracts thousands of visitors each year. They admit there will be the occasional question "What is it like to be a student in a Colonial town?" but are quick to admit that the expanded job market created by the tourists is a real boom to students seeking part time and summer employment.

The idea of the Open House, said Kris, is to answer some of the questions new students have about College life and William and Mary in particular.

"We bring students to campus, give them an opportunity to meet informally with other students and members of the faculty and administration so they can meet the people who may appear formidable to them behind such titles as "professor" and "Dean."

We'd like to think that as well as reassuring students already committed to William and Mary that we gain acceptances from students who have not yet made a final decision," said Kris. The program, she added, is a chance "for us to put our best foot forward."

NEWSLETTER FOR ALL SALARIED STATE EMPLOYEES

The Department of Personnel & Training will publish the first issue of its employee newsletter on April 14, 1978. The newsletter, Personnel Communique - State Edition, is intended for distribution to all salaried State employees. It will include explanations of the State Personnel Rules, State Personnel policies & procedures, benefit programs and other items of interest to employees.

The purpose of the newsletter is to establish a better line of communication between the Department of Personnel & Training and all State agencies and employees in an effort to improve employee relations.

The newsletter will be published quarterly, and copies will be distributed with employee paychecks.

College Co-sponsors Energy Day

The College is one of the co-sponsors of an Energy Awareness Day to be held at Scope, April 16 from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in Exhibit Hall A.

Topics on the agenda include "Energy Shortage: Real or Imagined," "Energy Employment: Present and Future," "Appropriate Technology: The Individual Can Do It," "Dialogue with the Department of Energy: Who Hears the Consumer?" and "Department of Energy Grants: Who Has the Money."

The "Day" has been planned by the Office of Consumer Affairs of the U.S. Department of Energy and is open to all interested persons.

Co-sponsors include the Virginia Energy Office, the STOP Organization of Norfolk, the Newport News Office of Human Affairs, Norfolk State College, Hampton Institute, the Tidewater Community College System and Old Dominion University.

Physicists Win NASA Grants

Two physics professors and two mathematics professors have received grants from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration totaling nearly $125,000.

David C. Montgomery, professor of physics, will use a $32,600 grant from NASA to continue his research on turbulence in plasmas. The grant is an extension of the support NASA provided Montgomery when he was on the faculty of the University of Iowa before moving to William and Mary at the end of last summer. Montgomery will investigate the reactions of gases in extremely turbulent states, such as those that make up the sun.

Physics Professor Arden Sher has received a $50,000, one-year grant from NASA to continue his studies of several new classes of infrared detectors and solar cells.

Two mathematics professors, Michael K. Donegan and Stefan Feyock, have received a $42,085 grant to develop a sophisticated intermediate computer language. They will also attempt to formulate a reliable code generation routine for use with a wide variety of multiple target computers.

Parapsychology Seminar Set

The Office of Student Activities will sponsor a seminar on parapsychology, April 19 - 22 in the Campus Center.

All lectures and workshops are free and open to students as well as the general public. Some workshops are limited so sign-up sheets will be available Friday.

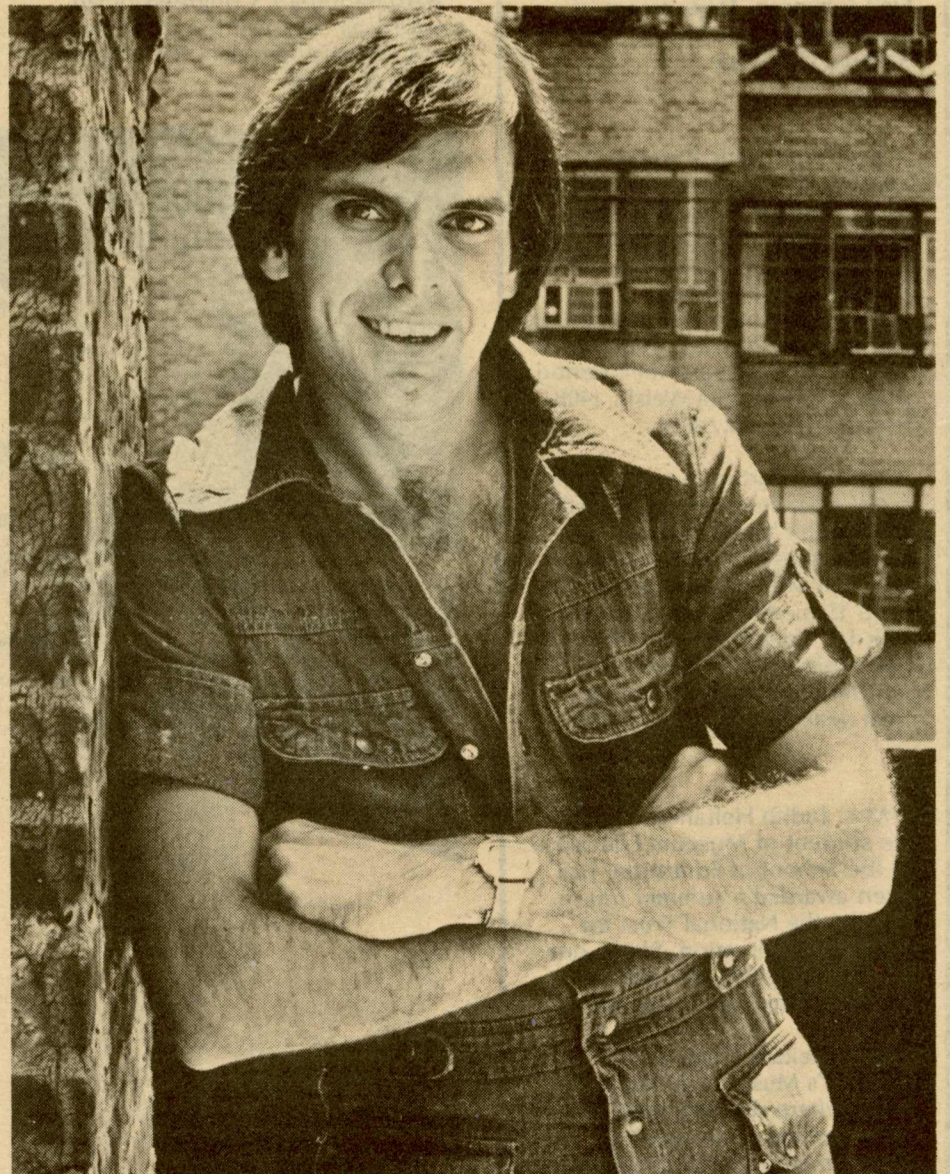

"Exploring Psychic Phenomenon," will open April 19 with a program at 7:30 p.m., "PSI - The Power of the Mind," with James Mapes, who heads the New York Center for Hypnosis and Mind Control." In that capacity he has worked with members of the psychiatric, medical and law enforcement professions as well as sports figures, show business personalities, executives and others. As an extension of the Center, Mapes has developed a new program of workshops for colleges and executives that teach self-hypnosis and mind-control for personal improvement.

Thursday evening's program, which begins at 7:30 p.m. will focus on the scope of parapsychology. The speaker will be Dr. Harmon Bro, Association of Research and Enlightenment.

A panel discussion Friday afternoon at 3:30 p.m. will focus on "The Scientist and Psychic Phenomenon," with panel members Ms. Jean Campbell, executive director, and Ms. Ellen Andrews, Practicing Psychic, Association for Documentation and Enlightenment; and Dr. Donald Oglesby, professor of chemistry, Old Dominion University.

Speaker for the Friday night session will be Dr. George Ritchie who will speak on "A Return from Tomorrow."

Workshops on Saturday from 9 - 10:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., will include a follow-up discussion of Dr. Ritchie's talk, "A Return from Tomorrow." "Perceiving Auras," will be presented by Steve Swan and Douglas Barton." Dr. Judy Karow of the Student Health Center will join Dr. Thompson, chiropractor and Annandale Farrer, a practicing psychic in a workshop on "Psychic Diagnosis and Healing." A workshop on "Dreams as Psychic Experiences," will be presented by Jean Campbell and Ellen Andrews.

Draper Hill Here Friday

Draper Hill, one of the nation's most celebrated cartoonists, will demonstrate how to "make faces" Friday, April 14, at the College of William and Mary.

Currently a cartoonist for the Detroit News, Hill is not only an active artist but one of the world's most respected authorities on 18th century British cartoons. His public lecture, entitled "Making Faces: Caricature as Vocation, Avocation, and Obsession," is sponsored by the Botetourt Bibliographical Society. It is scheduled to begin at 3:30 p.m. at the Botetourt Theatre in Swem Library.

Hill will demonstrate methods of drawing cartoons before presenting a lecture on the history of cartoons illustrated with slides.

A longtime collector of cartoons, Hill served as the editor of a book on James Gillray, the foremost British cartoonist during the period from 1790-1810.

Juvenile Law and Process Seminar

The second of two programs by students in Judge Orman W. Ketcham's "Juvenile Law and Process" seminar will be held Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. in the Campus Center Little Theatre.

The seminar will focus on a discussion of the elimination of status offense by children and the right of all children to have proper treatment during periods of detention and probation.

Panel members will be Senator Stanley C. Walker, Norfolk; Delegate J. Samuel Glasscock, Suffolk; and Delegate Theodore V. Morrison, Jr., Newport News, a member of the Crime Commission.

The first seminar in the series was held April 5 with Ketcham and Dean William B. Spong, Jr., of the law school as members of a mock legislative committee. They were joined by two members of the Virginia House of Delegates, L. Cleaves Manning of Portsmouth and Ray Ashworth of Wakefield. The committee listened to students argue both sides of several proposed amendments to the juvenile code adopted by Virginia in 1977.

CNC Sponsors Program April 17-18

Christopher Newport College will host the fifteenth annual meeting of the Society for Natural Philosophy on campus, April 17-18.

Program topic for the two-day meeting will be "The Applications of Catastrophe Theory to Problems in Mechanics."

The fifteenth anniversary lecture will be delivered by Clifford Truesdell of the Johns Hopkins University and founder of the Society.

Main speaker for the conference will be English mathematician Christopher Zeeman, a Fellow of the Royal Society who is best known popularly for his work on catastrophe theory.

Program speakers and their topics include the following:

Yung Chen Lu of Ohio State University: "Singularity Theory and an Introduction to Catastrophe Theory."

Koncay Huseyin of the University of Waterloo: "Catastrophe Theory and Problems in Elastic Stability."

Rutherford Aris of the University of Minnesota: "Num in olla agitata papilio est? -- Catastrophe Theory and Chemical Reactors."

Martin Golubitsky of the Institute for Advanced Studies at Princeton: "The Role of Imperfections in Bifurcation Diagrams."

Ian Stewart of the University of Warwick: "A Complementary Resume of Applications."

Art Show Draws Over 200 Entries

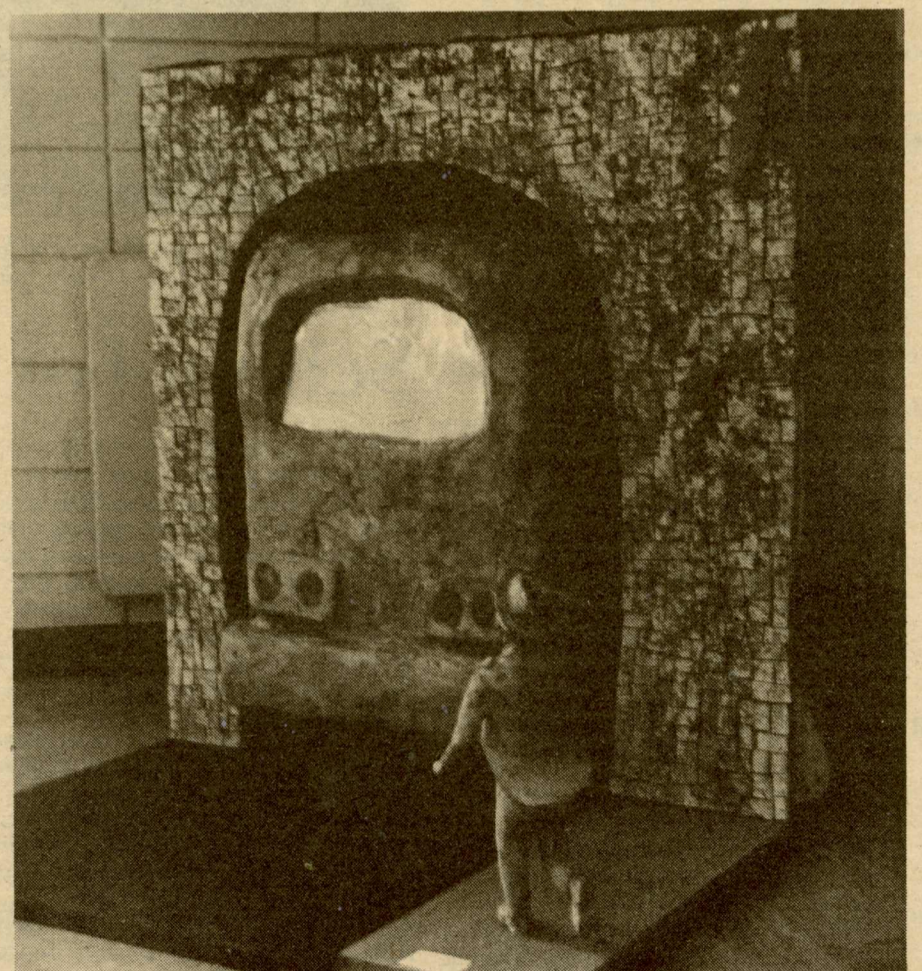

The student art show this year drew over 200 entries. Work selected for the show, which was juried by Thomas Styron, curator of American Art at the Chrysler Museum in Norfolk is currently on display in the Gallery of Andrews Hall.

The show will be up until April 23 and is open for viewing weekdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Merit awards were won by Fran Alford, "Stoneware with Lustres," ceramic; Chris Bassford, "Four Horsemen," pen and ink; Anne Birch, untitled watercolor; Lou Anne Bryant, untitled plaster; Thomas Frost Carson, "Honey," mixed media; James E. Jones, "Still Life," oil painting; Mary E. Ryder, untitled, photograph; Karen Schillerstrom, "Landscape #1," charcoal drawing; David Tappen, "Aspect of Psyche," tempera; and Barry Weinstein, untitled acrylic painting.

Because of the large number of entries for the show a "Salon de Refuses," has been set up in the foyer of Andrews with a display of work which was not selected by Styron for the show. Special merit awards have also been awarded for the Salon exhibit.

M&W Society Sets Symposium

The Mary and William Society of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law will take as the topic of its third annual symposium "Battered Wives: Legal, Legislative and Psychological Perspective on Spouse Abuse."

The symposium will be held in the Moot Court Room at the Law School, Wednesday, April 12 at 7:30 p.m.

Evelyn Hailey, member of the General Assembly from Norfolk and a member of the House Study Committee on Spouse Abuse will be one of the principal speakers. Tom Shuttleworth, Virginia Beach Attorney, will discuss spouse abuse as a defense to homicide.

Other program speakers will include Miriam Cardi of the Center for Psychological Services; Alice Page O'Neal, a member of the Women's Equity Action League (EAL); and Carolyn Leach, a Presbyterian minister who is active in counseling women who are victims of abuse.

his wife in Gloucester County, is a member of the Campaign's National Development Council and has helped to formulate plans for spreading news about the College's fund raising efforts to alumni and friends of William and Mary across the nation.

The unusual gift from Gleysteen is just one of 133 pledges made by faculty to the three-year Campaign. A 39-member committee of faculty volunteers began the college community solicitation in December. Approximately 30 percent of the faculty have made donations totaling $279,913. Several departments and the Marshall-Wythe School of Law have yet to report donations from faculty members and are expected to do so in the near future.

As of April 1, strong support has been received from several departments, including classical studies, economics, men's physical education, religion, and the schools of business administration and education. The average cash pledge to the Campaign is $183.

Only one administrative branch, the Office of College Development, has been solicited, reporting 100 percent participation. The Campaign received 21 gifts totaling $21,691.

Frank A. MacDonald, professor of philosophy emeritus, who is serving as chairman of the faculty campaign committee, says that "all things considered, I think the solicitation is going very well. I hope a greater percentage of faculty will make contributions in the near future."

New Librarian 'Looks Us Over'

Clifford Currie, new librarian at Swem Library, has been using his "spring break" from the Ashmolean Library at Oxford to get oriented to William and Mary.

He has plunged into a busy schedule of meetings with members of the library staff department heads, departmental librarians and members of the administration and has more meetings scheduled for the rest of his time here. He will return to England April 14. Currie explained that he must be in consistory court in Canterbury on April 15. He quickly added that he was being called as a technical witness not a defendant in the case of the proposed removal of a monument carved in 1682.

Apart from his broad interests in library work Currie has a personal interest in architecture and among his long range plans is the hope for time to do some writing about Colonial architecture in the Tidewater region. Currie's interest in Colonial architecture in the Tidewater region. Currie's interest in Colonial architecture is part of a general interest in the spread of renaissance architectural form out of "metropolitan Europe" (France and Italy) through the influence of The Grand Tour."

Currie will begin his new duties on October 1. He will be back on campus sometime during July for interviews with candidates for the position of associate librarian.

His plans for the library? "Really what I would like to do is to show that the library has something for everybody, even the departments which quite naturally place their first reliance on their vocational or departmental libraries. I would like everybody to think of Swem Library as a place not of personalities, not profiles but of books and information and resources.

"On campus the library is the central part of reference and production, communication resource and intellectual power. These are rather large words but I sincerely mean them."

"It is the organization of the library, not personalities that count," said Currie and added "In order to make the best of the library's potential, everyone has to show goodwill and what I want to do if I possibly can is to bring all the good will that is available to maximizing of the effect of the library.

Will there be 4 o'clock tea in the library come October? Not for Mr. Currie. "I'm afraid I shall be odd man out. Through training at Oxford I take neither morning coffee nor afternoon tea."

Arnolphe (Dylan Baker) fearfully loans money to his rival Horace (Jeff Sage) in a rehearsal of THE SCHOOL FOR WIVES. The William and Mary Theatre will present this Moliere comedy April 12-15 at 8:15 p.m. in PBK Hall. To reserve tickets, call ext. 4272.

School For Wives Opens This Week

How do a director and his actors settle on the proper "style" for a farcical interpretation of a Moliere play? That's the primary question facing Jerry H. Bledsoe and his cast in their upcoming production of "The School for Wives." Moliere's seventeenth-century classic will be presented at 8:15 p.m., April 12-15, in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

"Actors playing farce have to translate their character's psychology into extremes of physical action," says director Bledsoe. Actor Dylan Baker, a sophomore from Lynchburg, must find a variety of ways to express in physical terms the anger his character feels. Baker plays Arnolphe, a middle-aged man whose plans to marry an innocent young girl are foiled by a young and handsome rival.

According to Bledsoe, much of the laughter in the play is generated when simple situations are carried to outrageous extremes. In one scene, Arnolphe is conspiring with his two servants to ambush the young lover. The awkward characters try their best to keep each other quiet, which leads to more noise and eventual pandemonium. The scene "spins up into sheer fantasy," says Bledsoe.

Although "The School for Wives" contains plenty of knockabout action, Bledsoe describes his interpretation as "thoughtful farce" because the play attempts to deliver a social message. Arnolphe tries to control the affections of Agnes, his young ward, for his own selfish purposes. "Moliere was writing a women's lib play for his time," states the director.

For actors Steve Culp of Virginia Beach and Amy Ziff of Fairfax, who portray the two bumbling servants, rehearsing the slapstick elements in "The School for Wives" has left them with bruises and bumps. In their frantic attempts to escape a beating from Arnolphe, the characters fall all over each other and the scenery.

As rehearsals progressed, actors Culp and Ziff worked on relaxing into the pratfalls, which took much of the sting out. Working together on comic timing also helped, since it made them more precise in their falls. "The real problem is doing all this physical work in character," says Culp. "It's not enough to fall down without hurting yourself. You've got to know how your character falls down."

Box office hours in Phi Beta Kappa Hall are 3 - 5:30 p.m. on weekdays and 7 - 8:15 p.m. the evenings of performance. To reserve tickets by phone, call ext. 4272 during box office hours.

Personnel Bulletin

Probationary Employment

It has been the practice of the College to employ individuals who have been selected to fill a permanent classified position, on an hourly, probationary basis prior to appointment. Because hourly employees do not receive the benefits of leave, health insurance, retirement, merit increases, etc. this practice will be discontinued, and the procedure outlined below will be followed in appointing new employees to classified positions.

When an individual has been selected to fill a classified position, a "College of William and Mary Employment Form" (these forms are stocked by the College Warehouse) will be completed, signed by the approving authority, and delivered to the College Personnel Office at least one full working day prior to the date that the selected individual is scheduled to commence classified employment. When possible, employment will be scheduled to begin on the first or sixteenth day of the month to coincide with payroll periods. The selected individual will be instructed to report to the College Personnel Office at 8:00 a.m. the first day of employment for an employee briefing, and the completing of forms necessary to be placed on the payroll.

The above policy will become effective May 1, 1978. Individuals currently being paid on an hourly basis, and who have been selected to fill classified positions, will be placed on the permanent classified payroll on or before May 1, 1978.

Supervisors and employees are advised that Rule 7.3 of the Rules for the Administration of the Virginia Personnel Act states that:

"All persons upon original entry to State service in an established position must serve as a probationary period of six months. Persons appointed to positions subject to the Joint Merit System Rules must serve probationary periods specified in such Rules. Probation is an essential part of the selection process. It should provide an effective means for both the employee and the supervisor to determine the employee's suitability for the job. If, at the end of or during the probationary period, it is decided by the employee or the supervisor that the employee is not suited for the job, the record will merely indicate that the employee was terminated during probation. There is no appeal provided an employee who is released during the probationary period except where discrimination based on race, color, religion, national origin, political affiliation, sex or age, or handicap is claimed.

Before the expiration of the probationary period, the appointing authority shall determine whether or not the employee is to be retained on a permanent or restricted basis. This determination shall be based on an evaluation of the employee's performance and a recommendation of his immediate supervisor. Notification of the decision shall be forwarded to the Director of Personnel and the employee, in a manner prescribed by the Director.

A person who separates from State service and returns must return in a probationary status unless the return may be classified as a reinstatement."

Directives previously published concerning the hourly employment of persons selected to fill classified positions are superseded by the above procedure, effective May 1, 1978.

Over 10,000 Pieces

Swem Library Gets Galt Papers

The College of William and Mary has added to its manuscript holdings the papers of the Galt family of Williamsburg which was associated with Eastern State Hospital in an official capacity for over 100 years.

The College has acquired over 10,000 pieces pertaining to the Galt family through a combination purchase-deposit arrangement with Anne Galt Kirby Black, an alumna of the class of 1944.

James Galt (1741-1800) was keeper from 1773-1800 while his brother, John Minson Galt I was Visiting Physician from 1795-1808. Alexander D. Galt, son of John Minson Galt I, was Visiting Physician from 1800-1841.

John Minson Galt II was the first to be given the title of superintendent at Eastern State Hospital in 1841. He served until 1862 and was a founder of the Association of Medical Superintendents of American Institutions for the Insane. John Minson Galt II was noted for his humane treatment of patients and he published a number of books and articles on insanity. Both John Minson Galt I and John Minson Galt II were alumni of the College.

The Galt family papers constitute one of the most significant manuscript acquisitions made by Swem Library in recent years. The collection is an important source for the history of psychiatry in America, for late eighteenth and nineteenth century history of Williamsburg and for a study of family history.

Selections from the papers will be on exhibit in the Zollinger Museum at the library next spring.

The papers date from 1745 to 1975, beginning with the account book of Alexander Craig (1719 - 1776), a Williamsburg harness maker and father-in-law of John Minson Galt I. Most recent papers in the collection are those of Mary Jeffrey Galt, sculptor and a founder of the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities.

A large segment of the papers were formerly on deposit at the Colonial Williamsburg Research Department where the personal papers were calendared.

The collection also includes papers of Patrick Henry Galt (1797-1851), military governor of Mexico City and aide to General Winfield Scott; Alexander Galt (1827 - 1863), a sculptor; and William Richard Galt, 1818-1892 a teacher and school principal in Norfolk and Botetourt County.

The Galt women are also represented in the collection with the papers of the sisters of John Minson Galt II, Elizabeth Galt (1816-1854) and Sarah Maria Galt (1822-1880).

Among the correspondents included in the papers are Dorothea Dix, William Barton Rogers, John Millington, Gessner Harrison and members of the Tyler and Saunders families.

One-dimensional inhomogeneous Vlasov equilibria by F. R. Crownfield, Phys. Fluids 21, 181 (1978).

The Williamsburg Report

April 10-16

ED RHYNE, professor of sociology, talks about power, and why it's not the evil destroyer of men that people like to think it is. Rhyme says that power can destroy, but that the lack of power can also "canker in your soul" and cause just as much destruction. He explains that even though power seemed to corrupt some presidents such as Richard Nixon, it helped other leaders, including Abe Lincoln and Harry Truman, to mature and become more effective during their terms in office. Finally, he tells who he thinks is the most powerful man in the world.

April 17-23

DORA SHORT, conductor of the College-Community Orchestra in Williamsburg, talks about the excitement and problems of running an orchestra. First, she explains that although the types of music they concentrate on are extremely different, Lawrence Welk and Andre Previn have very similar duties as conductors. She talks about what those duties are and then tries to explain what the hand movements of a conductor mean. Finally, she talks about the financial crunch many orchestras are facing in today's tight economic environment.

April 24-30

ROY CHERNOCK, track coach at the College, talks about one of the best ways to save your own life--jogging. He clears up many myths about jogging, and explains that people in good health can jog all year around in even the most inclement weather. It doesn't however, help a person lose much weight. Finally, Chernock explains that jogging can be a "natural high" that rids a person of tension and mental stress.

Statistical formulation of one-dimensional electron fluid turbulence by David Fyfe and David Montgomery, Phys. Fluids 21, 316 (1978).

Several members of the physics department attended the American Physical Society Meeting held in Washington, D.C. from 27-30 March 1978. The following papers were presented at this meeting:

Positive Muon Spin Rotation Measurement of Hyperfine Fields in Dilute Fe(Al) Alloys by C. E. Stronach, A. T. Fiory, R. P. Minnich, W. J. Kossler, J. Lindemuth, K. G. Petzinger, W. F. Lankford, J. J. Singh, and K. G. Lynn, Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 23, 227 (1978).

Diffusion and Trapping of positive muons in Al:Cu Alloys by W. F. Lankford, W. J. Kossler, J. Lindemuth, C. E. Stronach, A. T. Fiory, R. P. Minnich, and K. G. Lynn, Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 23, 361 (1978).

Criteria for a Muon Spin Rotation Facility by W. J. Kossler, Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 23, 361 (1978).

Photo-Capacitive Infrared Detectors by A. Sher, S. S.-M. Lu, John A. Moriarty, R. K. Crouch, and W. E. Miller, Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 23, 226 (1978).

Simplified Local-Density Theory of the Cohesive Energy of Metals by John A. Moriarty, Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 23, 435 (1978).

Theory of Anomalous positive muon Depolarization in Nb and Bi. K. G. Petzinger and R. L. Munjal, Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 23, 360 (1978).

Valence-Band Structures of III-V Compounds and Alloys--Bond-Orbital and the Coherent-Potential Approximations by A. B. Chen and A. Sher, Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 23, 294 (1978).

John B. Delos organized and chaired a session at the APS meeting entitled "Symposium of the Division of Electron and Atomic Physics and the Division of Chemical Physics: Excited Vibrational States: Classical and Quantum Theories." He gave an invited paper at this session entitled:

Ergodic and Quasiperiodic Motion: Regular & Irregular Spectra by J. B. Delos, Bull. Am. Phys. Soc. 23, 407 (1978).

Professor Leonard Schifrin, professor of economics, has completed two projects in the area of health care economics. The first of these was a prepared statement on behalf of the Consumer Affairs Committee of Americans for Democratic Action, submitted to the U.S. Federal Trade Commission in its Proceedings on the Advertising of Over-the-Counter Drugs. The second was a study prepared for the Consumer Protection

Division of the FTC on "The Benefits and Costs of Repeal of State Drug Anti-Substitution Laws."

On April 27 Professor Schifrin will speak at the Health Care Seminar conducted by Wertheim & Co. for the investment community in New York City.

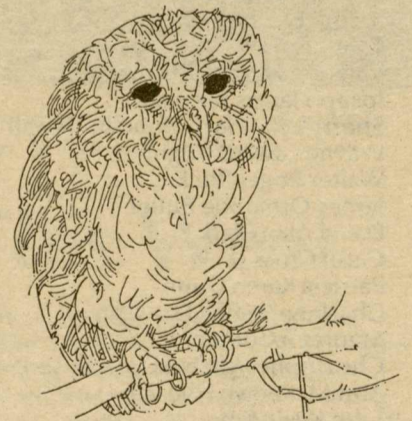

Three members of the Department of Modern Languages and Literatures participated in the Convention of the North-East Modern Languages Association March 23-25 at the State University of New York at Albany. Professor Elsa Diduk read a paper: "Christa Wolf Heute" in the section on "German Literature: East and West" and was elected Secretary of the Women in German literary section. Professor Ronald St. Onge read a paper "Images and Themes from the Occult in Apollinaire" in the 20th century French Poetry section and was named secretary of that section for next year. Professor Ron Hallett read a paper "Mysticism and Metaphor in Scève's Delie: Natural Proofs of Psychological Events," in the section on Sixteenth Century French Literature.

Fred L. Adair, associate professor of education, has been named to the Examining Committee for Professional Counselors of the Virginia Board of Professional Counselors. He presented a paper on Public Relations for Counselors at the February meeting of the Peninsula Personnel and Guidance Association in Hampton, Virginia.

Adair has been notified by Oscar K. Buros, Editor of the Mental Measurements Yearbook, that six articles he wrote will be published in the Eighth Edition of the Yearbook which will be published in the Fall, 1978. Five of the articles were critiques of Computerized Scoring and Interpretive Services for the Minnesota Multiphasic Personality Inventory with a general overview article on such services.
